Adult day care: An option

Care, an adult day care center affiliated with the Henry Ford Continuing Care Corp.

His daughter takes him to the center on

Harper Avenue in Harper Woods on her way to work, and picks him up on the way home.

Each day Ferrer has the opportunity to be with others his age, reading, talking, exercising and playing games. The adults go on field trips — to the museum, to the zo, and sometimes in the summer they just gfishing.

He helps prepare meals every now and then, including the set up and clean up.

Sometimes a music therapist comes and they have a sing along. Once a day the children come and play and every once in a while someone brings in puppies or kittens to play with. They sit in their chairs and play floor hockey.

The only thing Ferrer said he wanted was a little competition in checkers. He has taught everyone at the center as far.

Adult day care is a growing field. According to Susan Gonzalez, president of the Michigan Association of Adult Day Care Centers, six years ago there were only 30 adult day care centers in Michigan. Today there are more than 40. Because adult day care centers do not need a license to operate

— a matter of concern for the MAADC, there may be more open. Nationwide, there are up to 1,000 centers. A vast majority are associated with churches or hospitals.

Day care centers fall into three categories,

Gonzalez says, depending on the needs of the patient.

There is social day care, like the one

Ferrer attends at Cottage Boulevard, for those who need additional stimulation and help getting back in the social mainstream.

Health maintenance day care is associated with, if not in, a hospital for adults who are functionally impaired or suffers other diseases. Medication can be dispensed at these centers.

Ex-Park doctor faces drug, fraud charges

By John West

A former Detroit police officer once had an office on Jefferson in Grosse Pointe. He was found dead in his car months ago on 28 minutes of illegally dispensed pain killers. It was a case that made headlines and now 11 months of persued evidence.

The indictment against the doctor, who had an office in the 10000 block of Jefferson in the Park, were served down July 28.

According to Special Agent Bill Ward, a spokesman for the Drug Enforcement Agency, the doctor is a former Tour resident who is believed to be living in California. Ward said the doctor is a fugitive. He said the doc- tor’s lawyer will meet him barely later and when the charges are to be answered.

According to the U.S. attorney’s office in Detroit, the doctor’s attorney has been notified. The U.S. attorney’s office spokesman, who has not been identified said the U.S. attorney will have a statement about the case when the doctor has been arraigned on the charges.

Ward said the 28 drug charges involve prescription pain killers and a prescription muscle relaxant drug. He said raising the pain killers and muscle relaxers together provides a horrific combination.

According to the indictments, the doctor prescribed 12800 dosages of muscle relaxer drugs to patients over a six year period. The prescriptive drugs were medically unnecessary. The indictment charges.

Romatically, the indictment in- cludes that the doctor was run- ning a "swingers club" in the office.

In a small town like this you get to know everyone," she said.

"You get to be a fixture there." the doctor.

"Of course, Grand has not always been able to get through his last ticket before the Woods for 20 years, writes one of her last tickets before she re- tires at the end of August.

"I am trying to get used to it." she said. "I am used to being known."

"I love being part of the community."

And after Aug 31 he can avoid being interviewed. He might take a trip."

The city of Grosse Pointe Woods has been a good place to live, Grand said. "I found the city very good to work for. As long as you do your job, there's no problem."
Minors cited with alcohol

A total of eight minors in two separate cases were cited for the possession of alcohol in Grosse Pointe Woods last weekend.

The first incident occurred Aug. 4 at 206 p.m. when a minor stopped a Woods patrol car and reported the parents of three of the minors crusing the area had driven out a beer can.

While the man was talking to the police officers at Brentwood and Woodland, the three who drove by were bewhiskered on Brentwood. The student pointed out the vehicle from which the beer can was obtained.

The Woods officers caught up to the car when it pulled out onto a driveway in the 21500 block of River Road. Apparently, the driver of the vehicle decided to stop at a stranger s house to see the phone.

When a police officer approached the vehicle, which was a convertible, he saw beer in the floor and one of the passengers had thrown out a beer can.

The second incident occurred at 11:45 p.m. when police officers stopped a car on north- bound Blue Water Drive near a traffic signal.

Beer was found in the car, which was driven by a 20-year-old Lexingtonian man.

Also on the 4th, a 25-year-old Woods man and a Woods boy were cited for the possession of alcohol. All the occupants were cited for possession of alcohol, and the two 16-year-olds were taken to the Woods police station for their parents to come and get them.

City Family Fiesta tonight

Neff Park in Grosse Pointes Center will be the site for another family event this week: City Family Fiesta Aug. 10.

Family Fiesta is an event the Park District hopes to expand to serve more people. The event is free and open to all ages.

The free event will offer music, food, and activities for all ages. The event will feature a variety of games and activities, including a petting zoo, bounce house, and face painting.

Party date changed at Neff Park

The date of the party being held at Neff Park next month has been changed.

The party was scheduled for Aug. 8, but the Planning Commission decided to change the date. The new date is Aug. 27. From 5 to 9 p.m.

Originally, the party was planned for Aug. 8, but because of a conflict in soccer games, the date was moved to Aug. 27. The new date is to accommodate the soccer league.

The event will feature food, music, and games for all ages. It is free and open to all ages.

Gilpin sentenced to one year in jail

By John Woods

Grosse Pointe Park Municipal Court Judge Charles Abate sentenced former Pack resident G. K. Gilpin to one year in the county jail for an indecent exposure charge last year.

The case came to court after another Eastwood resident, F. Kerwin sentenced Gilpin, also to one year in jail on the indecent exposure charge.

Kerwin sentenced Gilpin in a two-year probation program with the county Jail.

Gilpin, 34, was accused of indecent exposure in the month of July. Gilpin was sentenced to 12 months in jail and ordered to pay $750 in court costs.

Ewald to present scholarships

Ted Ewald, president of the H. T. Ewald Foundation, will present 16 scholarships to metropolitan Detroit high school seniors on Saturday, August 17 at the Golden Roof Restaurant in Ferndale.

In a departure from the usual selection of high school seniors only, Ewald also accepted an applicant from King Gilpin, an all-girls, private school in Detroit. As a result of the Golden Roof scholarship, King Gilpin's principal, Dr. Robert VanWene, was sitting on the bench when Gilpin's father, also a former Ewald Foundation scholarship recipient, received his award.

Ewald also announced the program will greatly differ from other scholarships in his role as campaign leader and contract in interest in the students. He interviews each personally and stays in touch with those who receive the scholarships.

Is Toronto really that fantastic?

Is Toronto really all that wonderful, or is the grass always greener on the other side of the border?

My wife and I went to the city last fall, and we had a grand time along with thousands of other tourists. We didn’t actually travel with them, nor did we stay with them, but we quickly learned that Toronto had the weekend seas

In our case, it was a “幻inary weekend” arranged by airport friends. The idea of a fantasy weekend wasn’t new to us, either. We have had a few of them from another angle, but we thought the concept was worth testing for our own amusement as well.

It wasn’t our first Toronto trip. We’ve been there before. We’re not big Toronto fans—well, maybe it’s just a two-year dote over the years and we’re still not sure.

So, what happened is, we are always amazed at how beautiful and vibrant the city is, especially compared to Detroit. We have visited Toronto many times and we’re still not the only one who thinks Toronto looks like an apple to

After all, Detroit has a riverfront with some fine restaurants. Our favorite, of course, is the one near the Windsor Tunnel. Toronto, on weekends, long lines of passengers arrive to travel the trains between Windsor and Toronto, carrying thousands of the Chevrolet people probably don’t like to admit it, but they have a kinked Lumina APS! All Pontiac cars had a fancy-looking plastic deck lid, of course, but the ones on the Pontiac Bandit and Firebird of the 1980s were a whole lot different. The Pontiac Bandit’s Kinked Deck Lid is just one example of Pontiac’s use of plastic to give a car an aggressive, angular look. The Bandit’s deck lid was made of solid plastic and had a sharp, angular design that gave the car a very sporty look. The Bandit’s deck lid was made of a combination of materials, including plastic and aluminum. The plastic part was black, while the aluminum part was silver. The result was a unique and eye-catching design that set the Bandit apart from other cars of the time.

On the other hand, the Pontiac Firebird’s deck lid was made of a different material. The Firebird’s deck lid was made of a composite material called Kevlar, which is a type of carbon fiber composite. The Kevlar deck lid was designed to be lightweight and strong, and it gave the Firebird a very distinctive look. The Firebird’s deck lid was also available in a number of different colors, including black, silver, and red.

These two deck lids are just two examples of Pontiac’s use of plastic in the 1980s. Pontiac was not the only car company to use plastic in the 1980s, and the use of plastic continued to increase throughout the decade. By the 1990s, plastic had become a common material in the automotive industry, and it was used in a wide variety of applications, from interior trim to structural components.

As for the Firebird, it was built by Pontiac between 1962 and 1981. It was first introduced in 1963 and was a popular car throughout the decade. The Firebird was known for its aggressive design and its powerful engines. It was a real icon of the 1960s and 1970s, and it has become a classic car over the years.

In addition to the deck lids, Pontiac also used plastic in other parts of the car. For example, the 1970s saw the introduction of plastic headlamps, which were a big improvement over the metal headlamps that were used in the 1960s. Plastic headlamps were lighter, more durable, and more efficient than metal headlamps.

So, in conclusion, Pontiac people probably don’t like to admit it, but they have a kinked Lumina APS! All Pontiac cars had a fancy-looking plastic deck lid, and the one on the Pontiac Bandit was a unique and eye-catching design that set the Bandit apart from other cars of the time. Pontiac was not the only car company to use plastic in the 1980s, and the use of plastic continued to increase throughout the decade. But the Pontiac Bandit’s Kinked Deck Lid is just one example of Pontiac’s use of plastic in the 1980s, and it is a testament to the company’s commitment to innovation and design.
Camp out

Preschoolers from Grosse Pointe Cooperative Nursery School had a camp out at school. Before the event they constructed paper mache rocks and logs for their camp fire and they also pointed trees and placed them around the fire. They fished in the pond, did the dark, slept in the tent, went for bike rides and told ghost stories. At the end of the evening, they made pinecone bird feeders. The owner of the stolen bikes pointed out a house in the 2200 block of Wbyltll in the area of the Gros::e Pomte University. August 15 and 17.

Green Circle training to be offered

The Green Circle is a symbol of the child's world of people, the people the child cares about, the people taken into its orbit or its circle. It is a social, non-profit organization committed to helping children build that circle. The goals of the program are:
1. To help children develop a positive sense of their own worth and to recognize the importance of each one of us.
2. To promote better understanding and appreciation of our individual differences and similarities.
3. To prepare children for life in a society composed of many different cultural, social and ethnic backgrounds.

The Racial Justice Center will serve as an organizer and facilitator of the Green Circle Program in the Grosse Pointe schools this coming school year. If you are interested in being involved and bringing the program to children, you are welcome to get further information on school or church, call 882-6410.

New officer hired in Park

Timothy Beaudion, 22, of Burt-ton, has been hired as a new public safety officer in Grosse Pointe Park. He recently graduated from Nazareth College with a bachelor’s degree in law enforcement. He also recently completed the Kimbal Regional Police Academy.

Beaudion, who is single, will return to a home in the Park.

Suspected dad escapes from Park police

A man being held by Grosse Pointe Park police on a parole warrant out of the Wayne County Sheriff’s office escaped from the police station July 29. The man was being held in a temporary holding room instead of a cell because of other prisoners already in the station were part of the man’s case. The man broke into a turkey and kicked out a window screen. The escape was reported at 3:30 p.m., when police responded to a report of a disturbance.

The man was found in the Wolverine-Mannard area in the 1900 block of a road.

A background check found the suspect was wanted on a parole warrant. He was arrested at 5:30 a.m. on the 1000 block of a road.

Hopping for MD

Four-year-old at Christ the King Lutheran Preschool in Grosse Pointe Woods collected more than $2,000 for muscular dystrophy in their second MD Hop-A-Thon. The 35 children got pledges from family and friends and each hopped for two minutes as teacher Donna Vanick and her aide, Ann Moore, counted. The money will provide a hydraulic lift for a van.

Cleary reunion

The Edsel and Eleanor Ford property abounds with brightly colored flowers. A recent restoration effort resulted in the planting of 6,000 new perennials, designed in a natural setting.

Design for bachelor degree center approved

The Macomb Community College Board of Trustees has approved the design for the exterior and interior of the College's bachelor degree center. The new building, which will house bachelor degree programs offered in partnership with Oakland County Community College and Wayne State University and other four-year colleges and universities, will be fronted by a brick masonry wall and topped with limestone. The 68,630 square foot, two-story, L-shaped building will be located on a ten-acre site situated in the southwest corner of Macomb Community College's Center Campus in Clinton Township. Pedestrian walkways and vehicle roadways will connect the building with the existing buildings on site.

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the bachelor degree center will be held in October, as part of the college's celebration of National Higher Education Week.

Last month Macomb signed an agreement of affiliation with Wayne State, designating it as the first partner institution. Agreements with other colleges and universities are expected to be announced soon.

The voters of Macomb County approved funds for construction of the bachelor degree center in last November's general election. When completed in 1991, the center will give residents the opportunity to earn degrees from partner colleges and universities. Macomb Community College will provide the facilities and coordinate the programming of feed by partner institutions.

FLEC to offer car wash

The Family Life Education Council (FLEC) will sponsor a car wash Saturday, Aug. 19, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 6815 Broadmoor Avenue in Grosse Pointe Woods.

The event will raise money for the Macomb Community College's bachelor degree center. A non-profit organization that provides a wide variety of community services, Center Point Crisis Center, Shriners' Counseling, Crisis Hotline, Medical Clinic, and Legal Clinic, are also supported by FLEC in the Grosse Pointe/Harper Woods Youth Assistance Program. There is no set fee for the car wash. Donations are appreciated and all proceeds will go to FLEC.

For more information regarding the car wash or any of FLEC's programs, call 881-6900 or visit the FLEC office at 5017 Mck in Grosse Pointe Woods.

"Our day care has changed the people we serve," said Carol Severn, administrator of the Day Care Centers for Adults in Livonia, "and that's been a real benefit for caregivers, that has stayed the same." Severn said the centers have grown so fast for many reasons, Ganote said, "They feel more useful." They come just two or three days a week to help make lunch, to decorate newlyweds' cars — which they tend to do with putting something in a nursery bag," Sherwin echoes Baez's sentiment.

Student Spotlight
Michael Hindelang

Each week in this column, we will focus on the work of a student. It can be a poem, a short story, a picture of a scientific experiment or a musical composition, a book review. The following poem was written by Michael Hindelang, who said he wrote it this summer "just for fun." He will be going into the fourth grade at St. Paul School. He is the son of Robert and Paula Hindelang of Grosse Pointe.

Happiness

Happiness is the color of roses. It tastes like chocolate mousse. It smells like fresh perfume. It looks like a piece of cake. And sounds like the tinkers going "ding-dong." Happiness feels like fresh air.

They're tops

More than 100 award-winning graduating high school students have been honored by WXYZ/Channel 7, Elias Brothers and First of America in the ninth annual Best of the Class public service campaign. These top students were honored in a number of 30-second public service announcements which will run on WXYZ throughout the summer.

Pat Rousseau: Winding up, but not winding down

By Pat Pehokincy

Winding up a 34-year career with the Grosse Pointe News and remaining active in her life, Pat Rousseau, 64, says, "I've enjoyed it all. I've been a good productive career." She says it matters that it's not obviously an undertaking.

Rousseau's life reads like a novel of events.

Born and raised in New York City, she spent summers with her family in Upstate NY. She met her husband while at the College of Architecture and Design at the University of Michigan. The school had a hot in the Metropolitan Opera House at that time. "They had to go in, I wanted to go, so she said, asking if she and her friends could get in the balcony area. "We used to catch ball game backlashes in the Metropolitan Opera House.

Her parents wanted her to be a teacher, but Rousseau wanted to write advertising copy. She wrote an advertising campaign for Ford, started as a Ford in every family. "This was my family," she said.

Campaign in hand, she went to an advertising agency. The company didn't have a spot for her in advertising, but she was hired as assistant to the producer of the CBS Early Show.

About this time, Rousseau began modeling. She was featured in the Life magazine and felt as if she was at the heart of things, having listened to Richard Nixon and celebrity photographers. She met her husband, Jack Rousseau, at a dinner in the Columbia University campus. She attended Michigan after graduating from college, Jack Rousseau, a lifelong Grosse Pointe resident, was going to medical school in New York.

After her husband's cardio, he served a tour of duty in the U.S. Navy. She was a volunteer at a hospital in San Diego to get back into "...writing she did during her husband's time in the military. She was a homemaker in the plastics division at Ford Motor Co., then sold everything, particularly to Japan. She finally made it to Japan in 1985, spending three weeks there and traveling in China before meeting her husband in Hong Kong. It was thrilling them.

"I always wanted to go to China and stand on the Great Wall," she said.

Rousseau has seen many changes in the Grosse Pointe business community, and the newspaper. Whereas most of the stores years ago were neat, there are now more national chains. "The turning of the graceful of a weakly commercial time was perfect," she said. "Bob Edgar the superintendant and editor first we should make friends.

Older adults and insomnia: Sleep isn't always easy

By Margie Reins Smith
Staff Writer

Shhh

Not everybody is sleeping peacefully in the old Edward Johnson's Motel on West Division Boulevard in the New Center area.

The former model is the Sleep Disorders Center, a division of Henry Ford Hospital's psychiatry department. It serves as an out patient facility for diagnosis and treatment of patients with complaints related to sleep and waking.

which sometimes occurs every 90 seconds, or hundreds of times during an eight-hour sleep--makes these more sleepless during the day.

Fatigue, lack of alertness and irritability occur during the day. Sometimes the lack of sleep causes lethargy, memory problems and nightmares--nothing of for a few seconds several times during the day. This in turn, diverts the sleep-wake rhythm and the recuperative value of sleep is diminished.

By Margie Reins Smith

The five clinicians, two researchers and a support staff of 20-30 people aid in the diagnosis and treatment of people with sleep problems.

"Almost everybody experiences insomnia," Roehrs said. "Messages trigger short-term transient insomnia for everybody for one or two nights. Usually, no treatment is necessary.

Complaints about sleep increase dramatically for elderly people, he said. And the nature of the complaints change as well.

"Young people have difficulty falling asleep. Elderly people have difficulty staying asleep or they wake up too early in the morning.

"Objectively, elderly people sleep differently than younger people," Roehrs said. "Regardless of complaints.

"They have lighter sleep, more fragmented, disturbed sleep. And the frequency of sleep specific pathologies increases."

For instance, elderly people are more apt to fall asleep from standing, a breathing disorder that involves a resumption of breathing that can last up to 100 seconds or more. Sleep apnea can aggravate a heart condition or can be fatal. It occurs more frequently in older people.

Older people are more apt to suffer from nocturnal myoclonus, or twitching of leg muscles that come kicking and flailing during the night. This problem affects an estimated one-third of people over 65.

"Some elderly people do not need less sleep, as has been widely believed," Roehrs said. "Most elderly people do not have psychological problems that are interrupting their sleep. Most difficulties turn out to be physiological."

For instance, "We've found that some drugs, for some people, are stimulating, and can cause sleep problems," Roehrs said. He named caffeine, certain asthma drugs, sleep pills that are mismanaged, some blood pressure medications and alcohol.

"May of us cannot--although nobody has proven it--that many elderly people self-medicate their insomnia with alcohol. Alcohol is a sedative, but people rapidly develop a tolerance for alcohol. For instance, alcohol may effectively induce sleep for three nights. A sleeping pill can be effective for four weeks.

"Elderly people are better off seeking the help of their physicians instead of alcohol or over-the-counter medications. Sleeping pills are sometimes the answer."

"Patients are referred to the Sleep Disorders Center by physicians, he said. "The clinic includes medical, psychiatric, sleep and drug histories and a daily sleep diary, which the patient keeps for several weeks.

"Treatment is an old patient basis. Patientes sleep at the center while hooked up to monitoring devices for a continuous measurement of what is happening while they sleep.

"It's like having a continuous eight-hour physical exam," Roehrs said.

Patients are connected with electrodes and wires to devise that measure electroencephalographic (EEG wave) electro-encephalographic eye movement and electro-encephalographic activity, respiratory effort and respiration rate, heart rate and rhythm, limb movements and oxygen saturation while they sleep. A small microphone records snoring and a video camera tapes the sleeper's turning and turning.

All these electrodes and wires lead to a machine in an adjoining room, which records the patients' full night of sleep on a huge graph. A staff member monitors the recording machinery throughout the night.

People often complain that they don't sleep a week. Roehrs said. "I can say that in 10 years, I've only seen one or two people who didn't sleep at all in eight hours. Most insomniacs sleep more than they realize.

Patients are unduly diagnosed after several nights of monitoring and a close examination of the recordings by the clinicians, consultants and the patient's own physician.

Roehrs described one of the elderly patients the center was able to help.

"The patient was a professional Santa. Like Santa himself, he was overweight and he had a full white beard.

"His problem was--he kept falling asleep while children were sitting on his lap. The kids either didn't notice, or they had to shake him up." Roehrs said.

Santa was diagnosed as suffering from severe apnea. During sleep, he would stop breathing hundreds of times during the night. He would arouse himself briefly and he'd resume breathing. His overweight condition was causing an obstruction of the airway, which caused the apnea.

"We prescribed a medical device called a CPAP, or Continuous Positive Airway Pressure device. It's a tank watt room, which is connected to a small engine that blows air into the airway, keeping it open."

Roehrs said he'd like elderly patients to know the following facts about sleep and aging.

• Sleep naturally changes as we age.

• Physical problems often cause difficulty sleeping. The physical problems should be addressed first.

• Use of drugs will cause sleep difficulties.

• Senior citizens should tell their physicians about sleep problems.

Sleep problems of seniors

A nationwide sampling of 56 adults over 65 revealed that everyone suffers from sleep problems, from snoring to sleepwalking to insomnia. The effects extend from being tired out to feeling irritable to suffering from depression.

One out of five reported their sleep was worse than it had been in the past.

• One in three believed their poor sleep was related to worry about health, family or finances.

• Active retirees had fewer sleep problems than those who were from.

• Respondents averaged 8.8 hours of actual sleep at night, but their average time in bed was 7.7 hours.

• Napping was more prevalent, among seniors, who were in fair or poor health, than those who were in good health.

How to sleep easy

Here are some easy sleep-inducing suggestions that came out of a recent symposium "Sleep problems is the Elderly: The Health Consequences," sponsored by the National Institute of Aging and the American Association of Retired People.

• Older people should be seen only 1 hour to 1 hour and a half before bedtime. They should be awake for at least 1 hour in the morning.

• A regular daytime routine and night-time bedtime should be observed, since the body's sleep and wake cycles are less acute in the elderly.

• A regular daytime routine and night-time bedtime should be observed, since the body's sleep and wake cycles are less acute in the elderly.

• A regular daytime routine and night-time bedtime should be observed, since the body's sleep and wake cycles are less acute in the elderly.

• Avoid alcohol, caffeine and nicotine after 8 p.m.

• A rule on older persons should always use an adapter--a time-out, even if still tired.

• In most cases, snoring does more harm than good. A cap should be used as a substitute for nicturnal snoring.

Michigan Cancer Foundation's Circle of Fellows widens

The party crowd at the foot of Pine Street in Harper Woods was wide awake and ready to dance about noon. The party was held in support of the Circle of Fellows program, which raises funds for the University of Michigan Medical Center. The Circle of Fellows, which is composed of individuals who contribute $10,000 or more annually to the cancer center, held a reception to kick off its 20th anniversary. About 150 people attended the event, which featured live music by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and a performance by the Detroit Opera House. The event included a silent auction, a raffle, and a reception at the Detroit Opera House. The Circle of Fellows is a philanthropic organization that has raised more than $25 million for the University of Michigan Medical Center since its inception in 1990. The Circle of Fellows program is designed to support the work of the University of Michigan Medical Center and to provide financial assistance to patients and their families. The event was held in the Detroit Opera House, which is located in the Detroit Renaissance Center.

As this summer season begins to wind down, permit me to take a moment to reflect on that fact that this summer has been both abundant and challenging. Many of us, at times this summer has been creating storms and other, more mundane. But there is some gravity, some form or impulse, which impels me to say something about the good around me. Please bear with me while I give us two minutes, publicly to this late summer urge.

Thank you for your good pink turtle popcorn in a terra-cotta bowl beside my back yard. And for the laughing colors of flowers around the walks and drives of my neighbors. Thanks for the breathtaking contrast of green leaves against the sky, and for the always new shape and shade of lake reflecting cloud and air.

Thank you for the sharp joy of hearing a cardinal in the early morning. And for the call of birds and hum of bee in the trees. Thank you for the elegance of a storm approaches from neighborhood to neighborhood. And for the trembling of Croll. Thank you for the silence as a storm approaches all. Shocking contrast of sixteen leaves against the sky, and for the yield. And for the laughing colors of flowers around the alabaster.

I'm profoundly aware of the richness of this moment, the force of the imagination, and of sound, for the ondel, for me also for me. Now I don't care what you say, drums of thundel through the peltll1g drops. Thank you for farms spread out in order and profusion as I meant it a hill. And for the rush and quicks of a stream hurrying past the trees. Thank you for a spider's web and a shipman's tale. And for the deep brown of my dog's eyes searching for a sign of my attention.

So much that has been there for so very long becomes fresh and new to me in the summer. I just need to say thanks. I don't know if any one who doesn't believe there is a God ever read this church page. If they did, they might even say to you, my god and as a recipient for my feelings of joy and gratitude a world, we have experienced. What tidy little now I don't care what you say. I am profoundly aware of the richness of this moment, the force of the imagination, and of sound, for the ondel, for me also for me. Now I don't care what you say, drums of thundel through the peltll1g drops. Thank you for farms spread out in order and profusion as I meant it a hill. And for the rush and quicks of a stream hurrying past the trees. Thank you for a spider's web and a shipman's tale. And for the deep brown of my dog's eyes searching for a sign of my attention.

A business was changing office door. All the old furniture, which was still nice, but not keeping with the new spaces, and donated to LINC. That included file cabinets, desks, chairs, lamp and coat racks were divided among more than 180 agencies on the LINC mail list.

"We serve people in the whole tricounty area," Boeneman says. "We help people, both the companies and the community. Most of the companies are gettinginfo about what the community needs.

The best advertising for her group was word of mouth, Boeneman said, because there is no ad campaign. They called Operation LINC. The companies are just putting little donut, ended up sending more area care facilities in the area."

Operation LINC is a local NAACP chapter's committee for Linking Individuals to Needs in the Community, which is a part of the Junior League of Detroit, but has been in existence for 18 years. When the program was young, it was basically a clearinghouse for organizations doing such work and other similar items.

Women of the Etching Revival: A lost chapter in history

By Mary Cordey

The American Etchers of Art Institute opened at Boston's Museum of Fine Arts in 1883. By August 1887, the Boston Transcript noted that the group "must have been surprised by how well a group of women artists, led by 18th-century engraver Mary E. Judelaires, had taken to the art of etching." That mind-blowing concept was the beginning of a 16-year history of women artists according to Wright.

Women artists were the first to exhibit women as professional artists. Women proved to be so popular that the gallery was named "Women Etchers of America." Many women artists were all but forgotten in the art world until the 1980s, when "Women Etchers of America" was held at the National Museum of American History.

"This is the first chapter of women etchers," Wright said, "and it could not have been more anticipated."

Women artists were not expected to exhibit their work. "Women were not supposed to etch," Wright said. "Women were expected to be supporting themselves and their families as professional artists."

Women artists were oftenrollers of ink and paper, and those who etched were often considered "inadequate." The art of etching was often considered "unwomanly." There was no place in the large field, Wright said, for women etchers. Women were expected to be "on the sidelines," Wright said.

"It has become clear during recent years," Wright said, "that in fact for centuries many European and American women earned their living and often more than their husbands, through the medium of etching."

After the mid-19th century, women artists were often looked at as "childlike." They were often "victimized by a different commitment to art than that of men," Wright said. "Many women desired to be artists, but few schools as the Philadelphia School of Design (now the University of Pennsylvania) and Art Institute of Chicago, and the California School of Design (now the San Francisco Art Institute) were the only ones that remained, and women artists were not or were very few in numbers." President Reagan will be remembered for his optimism. When asked what he thought of himself, he was always self-effacing. But Reagan made good the promises of his campaign to stimulate the economy, lower taxes and reduce inflation, thus proving the practicality of many of the prevailing pressures of the economic order too weak. Sweeping away the clouds of doubt, Reagan went right into shining the light of optimism on every dark duty prediction that what he was saying was no impossible dream. Because of his determination and faith in the American people, the nightmare that surrounded the nation died and indication because the impossible became true.

This will be overcome was apparent in his personal life as well. Witness the determination and beliefs that met not only an assassination attempt on his life, but would return to his duties with a determination that would make the world hold its breath.

The lesson is that it is better to look at the light than cry in the dark, is one that the people of this country have taken to heart and adopted as their own, particularly his attitude toward the physical offices of his body. Those who have hesitated to support the administration have been shattered by the former president's courage and directness. However, personal public support has clearly been a major reason for the continued success of this administration. This support is widely appreciated by the public.

The administration has been praised by the media and the public for its effective handling of the crisis in Iran. The administration's response to the crisis has been widely praised for its efficiency and effectiveness. The administration has been credited with stabilizing the situation and bringing about a peaceful resolution.

Little League’s got to have Art
Getz, Little League celebrate anniversary

By Rob Fulton

Tiger Fans

It just so happens that Art Getz’s 40th anniversary as a volunteer in Little League coincides with the nation’s 50th observance of Little League.

Getz, who entered the Little League ranks in 1965 as a coach in the Bob Kelly organization, has found success, life and happiness in the “big league.” A baseball man himself at Detroit’s Tiger Stadium, Getz didn’t crack the major league, but he’s very content with the way Little League has hand-shuffled him.

“T’ve been in this a long time, and I probably will be even longer,” Getz said. “In every sport, I’ve gained respect and admiration for the way Little League has grown through its final stages, and has watched Little League become the largest youth organization in the country.

Little League now conducts baseball and softball programs in six divisions for more than 2.5 million American sports youth ages 4-18, and is the only sports program in the United States to hold world-sanctioned events under Congress-manual Charter.

“Nobody has had on concept on how big this thing would get,” Getz said. “I myself have watched this thing grow and I’m telling you, it’s the greatest thing on earth.

The crew looks up there, too, and it’s Little League of lifetime.”

Getz, who thought about giving it all up a couple times, he explained, “but every time I think I’m going to retire, I talk to my wife Shelia and she says, ‘It’s got to be a lot about that time.’ And she encourages me to stay in it.”

Now Getz is inspired, Shelia is also active. When Art became inspired, Shelia began typing letters, writing novels, or giving game and testimonies. likewise, it was the only time she could spend time with her love.

“Little League is such a part of my life, and I’m also very fortunate because it’s such a part of Shelia’s life as well.” Getz said. “My wife has played a big part in our family involvement.”

Art and Shelia watched sons, Stu, Chuck and Mike, fill their Local, through the local system, and now they are witness to their grandchildren’s expertise.

“I became involved in the concept of Little League,” Getz said. “I’ve played family and fun, love for the game and happiness. I trust in God, I love my country and always do my best.”

The last part of their quote was a portion of the Little League motto “I trust in God, I love my country, and will respect its laws. I will play fair and strive to win but win or lose I will always do my best.”

Before the 1989 season, Getz tried to emancipate himself from Little League, but failed.

Hypertension can be a silent killer

By Susan Walthall, MSN, RN

High blood pressure or hypertension is the most common cardiovascular disease in the United States, affecting more than 78 million Americans.

Individuals with high blood pressure need to be diligent in developing a heart attack, stroke and hypertension awareness. hypertension symptoms are often absent and can slowly progress over time until they have the disease. Hypertension is one of the most common conditions without a known cause. It is a chronic condition, often called 'the silent killer' because most of the time, patients are often not aware of the disease.

Hypertension can cause most of the known negative outcomes. In general, it is important to reduce the negative outcomes associated with the disease. Although it is not a curable condition, most of the negative outcomes are a result of high blood pressure. Despite this, many patients are not aware of the potential consequences of untreated hypertension.

The good news is that there are many things you can do to reduce your blood pressure. By making lifestyle changes, you can help lower your risk of developing high blood pressure.

Summer cross training

"Cross Training" may sound intimidating, but it’s just an exercise.

"Cross Training" may sound intimidating, but it’s Just an exercise. You can exercise at any level, each time you use your muscles, particularly those muscle groups, particularly those muscle groups.

To receive aerobic benefits, skiing, canoeing and kayaking can be a good form of exercise. Other boating activities, such as the mathalon, as the name implies, are composed of various activities generally mystifying, but it’s just an exercise. You can exercise at any level, each time you use your muscles, particularly those muscle groups, particularly those muscle groups.

Varying in intensity, these exercises are generally very low intensity workouts, which can help reduce the risk of cardiovascular disease.

The American Red Cross offers classes for adults.

Walking uses the lower body muscles, but in a different way than the upper body. Water, a ball, and some instruction are all you need to begin to see positive benefits.

Therapeutic exercises for the upper and lower body. Exercises have been shown to add strength and balance, enhance flexibility and improve your overall health.

Tourney champs!

Girls, aged 14 and under from the Grosse Pointe Mustangs and East Detroit Express, teamed up to win the Wolverines Soccer Tournament during the Fourth of July weekend.

The team, coached by Stuart Dow and Jim Nickens, advanced to the finals after beating the Livonia Hawks, 3-0, in a semifinal match. The finals against the Beechmont Bombers of Cincinnati went into double overtime before the Pointe Express team nailed down the win with a goal with under one minute to play.

State Cup finalists

The Pointe Girls Soccer Association was well represented in the recently concluded State Cup Finals.

After beating the Livonia Hawks 3-0 in the semifinals, the U-12 Mustangs of the Little Cacsars Premier League, were defeated by the Hawks, 3-1, in the finals.

The defense was anchored by Laura Somogyi, Morgan Zolik and sweeper Joanna Castello. The defense was anchored by Laura Somogyi, Morgan Zolik and sweeper Joanna Castello. The team was coached by Stuart Dow and Jim Nickens.
