The cartoon 'Forgotten' by Tom May depicts a poor child, too young and innocent to understand why she has not received a single Christmas present from Santa. May was inspired by his laundress's encounter with a young girl who stood in the street, crying that she must have been very naughty for Santa not to bring a single gift. The cartoon ran on Christmas Day, 1908, in the Detroit Journal, where Secretary of the Navy, Edwin Denby, and his business partner, J. Walter Drake first saw it. Deeply moved, they entered into a solemn compact that they would do all within their power to prevent any Detroit child from being 'forgotten.' So began the Detroit Old Newsbovs' Goodfellow Fund.

Happy Holidays!

appy Holidays! What does that mean? To many it's Christmas. To others, it's Hanukkah, Yule, Epiphany, Kwanzaa, Winter Solstice and more. My wife, Terry, likes to talk about co-workers who were Muslims and Buddhists who loved to celebrate "Christmas." To all of them, it was a time of family gatherings, gift-giving and goodwill. Whatever your heritage, we say, "Happy Holidays!"

Interestingly, Pete Waldmeir tells me some of the Old Newsboys Goodfellows' top supporters are Jewish!

The Old Newsboys is celebrating 100 years of making sure there is 'No Kiddie Without A Christmas.'

I bring up the Old Newsboys and Goodfellows, particularly, because next year the organization is celebrating 100 years of making sure there is "No Kiddie Without A Christmas." In fact, Pete was a Goodfellows package recipient as a boy in Detroit. Like many active Old Newsboys, Pete never forgot the kindness and importance of the Goodfellows. (See Pete's story in this issue of Pointe Magazine.)

The Old Newsboys was started by Jim Brady in 1914 after he saw a cartoon in The Detroit News of a little girl alone in a cold room on Christmas morning holding an empty stocking. That drawing so touched his heart, that he helped lead the formation of the Old Newsboys in 1914. Brady, whose descendants in Grosse Pointe are active in the Goodfellows today, was a former newsboy, hence the name, Old Newsboys.

Lauren McGregor, our assistant editor, and I have been asked by the Old Newsboys Goodfellows organization to do an Arcadia Publishing history of the group, and the publisher has agreed. We look to have it out by this time next year.

This being our "holiday issue" of Pointe Magazine, we decided to run the 1914 cartoon, "Forgotten," on page 6 of this issue. Our purpose is to remind all our readers to do their utmost to make sure "No Kiddie" goes without a Christmas — or a Hanukkah, Yule, Epiphany, Kwanzaa or what have you. And don't forget to help out Meals on Wheels and Detroit's many soup kitchens.

True, the economy is scratching its way back, but there are still far too many people out there without jobs, food or a roof over their heads. They need our help, but they will never ask ... as we should not need to be asked.

At any rate, all our holidays will be much more blessed by how much we give.

As always, we ask that you think of Grosse Pointe and our many business supporters and advertisers first when heading out to make your holiday purchases. They will appreciate it, and you will be supporting your community.

That said, Happy Holidays and see you in the stores!

ne of the community's few food and wine tasting experiences, The Taste at Our Lady Star of the Sea Catholic Church in Grosse Pointe Woods, will host it's second ever event after an enormously successful 2012 showing.

"We are proud to host this event that showcases the many terrific establishments in the Grosse Pointe, St. Clair Shores and Harper Woods communities," says Monsignor Gary Smetanka. "The food and wine sampling is a great way to gather the larger community around that which we love to do - eat, drink and socialize! It helps to build up the community and forge stronger bonds."

Pastoral Associate Debby Veltri anticipates 500 people this year, a sizeable increase to last year's 350 attendance.

"One person told me that they could not believe it was our first year," says Veltri. "They thought it ran so smoothly that it had been around for 10 years."

There will be 27 vendors again, 19 of which will be returning from last year's event.

Wine tasting is provided by Great Lakes Wine and Spirits and jazz entertainment is provided by the Chris Codish Trio. There will also be a cash bar and valet parking.

The Taste will take place at Our Lady Star of the Sea School on Saturday, November 16 at 6:30 p.m.

Purchase tickets, $35 in advance and $40 at the door, at Our Lady Star of the Sea Parish Office at 467 Fairford Road in Grosse Pointe Woods or online at olsos.org.

"Last year's Taste brought people to this area from across the region, and I am sure they have come back many times to actually eat at the restaurants that were showcased," says Msgr. Smetanka. "We are very much looking forward to this year's Taste and letting even more people know about this great community."

GROSSE POINTE THEATRE PLAYS BY THE BOOK

By Beth Newhart

rosse Pointe Theatre isn't looking for a surprise ending for their audience with their November performance of 84 Charing Cross Road.
To the contrary, they are encouraging theatergoers to know the whole story before entering the theatre.

Based upon the 1970 novel of the same name by Helene Hanff, 84 Charing Cross Road, tells through letters the true story of Hanff's nearly 20-year correspondence with Frank Doel, the chief buyer at Marks & Co., a London bookstore housed at the Charing Cross address. In an era prior to Facebook and Amazon, Hanff wrote to Doel to find rare books and discovered a friendship across the ocean.

To celebrate the performance, GPT is urging their audience to read the book beforehand, going so far as to offer bookmarks with a $4.00 off ticket discount. These can be found at the Barnes and Noble store on Mack Avenue in Pointe Plaza and other businesses around the Pointes.

Peter DiSante as Frank Doel and Elizabeth Moen as Helen Hanff

"It's a rare opportunity to see this play and a unique opportunity to see a live play that's based on a book," says director Ron Bernas. "It's the same reason anyone wants to read a book before they see a movie." Audiences love to see what has been changed when the story is adapted for a live performance, he says.

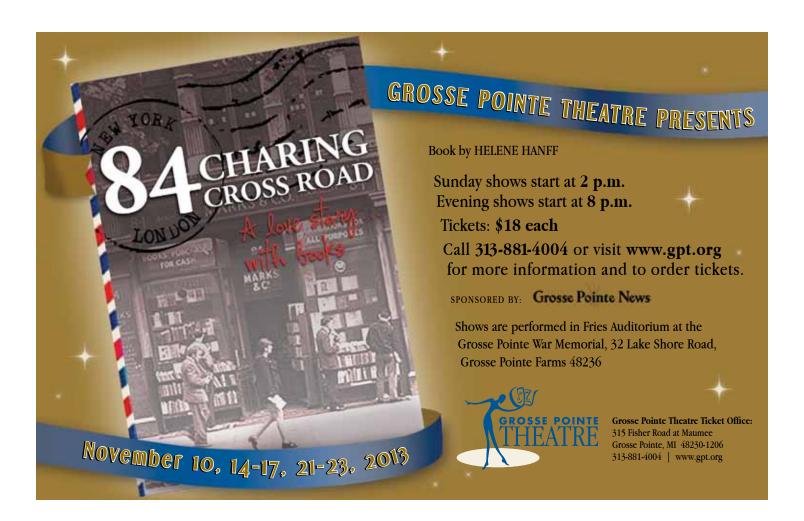

Peter DiSante plays Doel and Elizabeth Moen plays Hanff. Bernas says both fit the parts extremely well, as the long-time GPT actors have been respectively known for being reserved and brash, traits embodied in both characters. Moen says she was struck by the enduring bond between the two characters that transcend decades of time and thousands of miles.

"The 'romance' as it were was not in the more traditional sense, but in the abiding care and concern they felt for each other over twenty years of letters and laughs," she says.

Evening

performances are scheduled for Nov. 14-16 and 21-23 with 2 p.m. matinees on Nov. 10 and 17. For ticket information, contact the Grosse Pointe Theatre at (313) 881-4004 or visit gpt.org.

The Up-Side of Downsizing

By Virginia Ficarra

here is no upside," she says, "until the work is over." Gerry Young, an energetic senior approached me two months ago to begin her transition to a smaller dwelling. The key is to let go slowly. We made a plan and reviewed her needs, current furnishings, wall colors and compiled the information onto a scaled floor plan for the new home. It was amazing, everything fit, all but a couple of pieces of furniture.

Naturally, dismantling a home promotes anxiety. Young says, "The up side begins after you move in. Having competent helpers to pack and unpack plus an understanding daughter made it easier for me to cope. It takes a couple of weeks or so to adjust to the new space, and then you can do whatever you want." Think of a fresh start as your springboard to a new chapter in your life. It frees up time for leisure activities, freedom to travel, less upkeep and time to explore your hidden talents.

Styling to Stay or Sell

I began staging homes in 1982, long before the concept was widely used. A simple one-hour home staging consultation, repositioning current furnishings, reducing clutter and returning rooms to their original use has now mushroomed into 'assisted downsizing plans,' as well. It is especially convenient for Boomers and seniors and can dramatically increase the value of your home. More importantly, a makeover now will allow you to enjoy your current home until you are ready to move.

Less is More

Remember, the downside of downsizing is the mental and physical work involved. Begin today, working slowly to declutter one room or closet at a time. Color code and store boxes with painters tape to identify the room and contents. Gift, repurpose, sell and donate any remaining items. Beginning early will reduce the stress when the time comes to move forward. See, Downsizing In Style, assisteddownsizing.com, a senior site, it's all about easy. Happy, Healthy Holidays to All.

Call Virginia Ficarra at (313) 330-9800 to have any design questions answered or decorating dilemmas solved, inside or out!

The March 19, 2008 issue of Michigan Senior Living in The Detroit News/Free Press says, "When working with a client who has moved into new surroundings, Ficarra says one of her most effective tactics is to recreate the individual's favorite room from the previous house, using familiar furniture, accents, and above all their wall colors. This way they get a fresh start but still feel at home. Working with someone who is experienced with seniors can make all the difference for a successful outcome; a tour of each room and discussing special needs ensures a smart plan in a reasonable timeline."

ome security doesn't have to be a dreary affair. Doing simple things like adding outdoor lighting can make a home more appealing — and less attractive to thieves.

Tony Sieracki, owner of Detroit Irrigation & Lighting, installs outdoor sprinklers and lighting for homes in the Pointes. He says today's new lighting technology not only enhances a home's beauty at night, it saves homeowners money.

"We are using new LED landscape lighting technology," Sieracki says. "That stands for light-emitting diode. A lot of people are still using older halogen light bulbs."

There are several advantages to using LED lights. A halogen bulb typically uses 50 watts per bulb or fixture. An LED bulb equivalent to 50 watts only uses 4.5 watts. A typical home would use 10 halogen 50-watt bulbs for a total of 500 watts. An LED replacement system using 10 bulbs would use 45 watts. Burn time on a halogen bulb is approximately 3,000 hours. Burn time on an LED bulb is about 50,000 hours.

"So you use less energy and that saves money in the long run," Sieracki says. "LED lighting also requires fewer fixtures than halogen systems because LEDs can focus light better. What I tell people is that exterior lights are put up for aesthetic reasons that will highlight the features of a home without blasting it with light."

LED bulbs are clean, clear, pure light. "A lot of people have the idea that they cast a blue hue on the house," Sieracki says. "The fixtures we install cast a beautiful warm, soft white over the areas we are enhancing." And thanks to filters, it's possible to add different colors to a house's exterior lighting scheme.

In addition, Sieracki says, this kind of lighting actually acts to protect a home. "I see this all the time. People have backyards that are empty. The back of the house just has a porch. But this creates shadows."

Installing lighting in the back of the house dispels these shadows and eliminates potential hiding places. It's also possible to install motion detectors that activate lights at night.

Tom Delisle, CEO of All Pointes Security, says good exterior lighting is a fundamental of home security.

"People tend not to pay attention to their security until something happens that makes them take notice," Delisle says. "That's only natural. People like to feel secure in their homes and Grosse Pointe doesn't have a lot of crime."

But "not a lot of crime" doesn't mean "no crime," Delisle says. By paying attention to small details, homeowners can protect their houses.

"I talk with people all the time about home security," Delisle says. "I'll point to a small window in the back of their house and ask them if they lock it. They'll say no, that window doesn't open because it's painted shut."

A little paint doesn't stop a burglar. And things like shrubs can obscure a view of the outside, making it easy for people to hide.

Delisle agrees: Good outdoor lighting can help reduce a home's vulnerability to break-in. Exterior lights can even be turned on remotely from a smart phone, with different levels of security available.

But not everything has to be hi-tech. A homeowner can improve security by simply making sure all the windows lock, installing dead bolts in all exterior doors and adding exterior lighting.

The Man Behind the Hammer

Master Builder, Master Carpenter, lifelong Grosse Pointer, Steve Makos has over a quarter of a century of construction to his credit in the Pointes. His crews call him a relentless perfectionist. His customers call him back to do more work. His two kids just call him dad.

When he s not building things, Steve is an avid outdoorsman who enjoys skiing, hunting and fishing. His favorite toys are his tools, his truck and his restored Dodge Challanger.

Asked to describe himself professionally he is unhesitating. I am, at heart, a craftsman. I take great pride in each of my projects and believe that the only satisfactory approach is to do it right the first time. The Pointes have their own unique architecture. Whether replacing a window or door, adding or renovating a room, doing a complete remodel or building a new home, we respect the character and tradition of where we live. Much of our work is on homes that were built to last. The quality of our workmanship needs to be done in that same tradition — built to last.

FAPPY HOLIDAYS!

Holiday Tables a festive art form

ave you ever attended a holiday party and wondered how the hostess had the time to prepare the holiday feast and set such a gorgeous table?

It may be easier than you thought. At least creating the gorgeous table, says Pat Brinker, owner of The League Shop, located on the Hill.

Simply adding seasonal linens along with a holiday salad plate to a neutral everyday pattern can add pizazz to the tablescape.

Tired of the standard floral arrangement centerpiece? Individual pieces such as Spode's Harvest pattern turkey soup tureen, shown above, can be used as the focal point with the rest of the tablescape built around that item.

Incorporate some natural items as well. Pinecones, cranberries, gourds and pumpkins can be arranged into beautiful centerpieces.

Use candles in a variety of shapes and sizes. Bring out a favorite family heirloom that has been passed down.

When all is said and done, the table should reflect your style and personality.

The beauty of the table will enhance the meal you spent hours preparing and it just might impress your guests!

To get the most of your holiday ware, Brinker says, "I tell folks to use it all month long."

The table below and right includes two Juliska patterns, "Winter Frolic" and "Le Panier." The goblet is a Casafina, "Water Stem Optic." The centerpiece and playing polar bears are by Fantastic Craft.

Decorating Tips...

White plates and bowls are a perfect start incorporate color and themed pieces using linens and accessories.

Use fresh seasonal fruit to add color and texture.

Create a moveable tablescape by using a large tray or platter that can easily be lifted, moved and returned to place.

Shop the local fabric store for a wide variety of patterns and colors for table coverings. Use Stitch Witchery to stitch the edges if you are not accustomed to sewing.

ake a drive along the water and experience the magic of Christmas at the corner of Lake Shore and Moross. It's the Van Siles home and it offers an electrifying and magnificent Christmas light display. Since 1995, when Mark and Denise purchased their home, their Christmas decorations have brought joy to so many.

"We get letters and cookies and people thank us all the time for the display," says Denise Van Sile. Mark adds that there is even a bus that stops by the Thursday before Christmas. "It's a work party of about 30 and they stop by and sing Christmas carols and bring > us cookies." They

They decorate because of the joy it brings others and because they enjoy it, Mark says. "Our corner is highly visible but we would do it even if we lived on a dead end street."

Mark is a third generation Grosse Pointer and grew up on Barrington Road in Grosse Pointe Park. His parents decorated at Christmas and he remembers a big, brilliant Christmas sign on Whittier Road every year. "I always thought that sign was magical."

Today the Van Siles incorporate that Christmas magic in their displays. Mark decorates outside; Denise transforms the inside of their home with some seven themed Christmas trees (five rotate). She's been collecting ornaments since she was 13 years old.

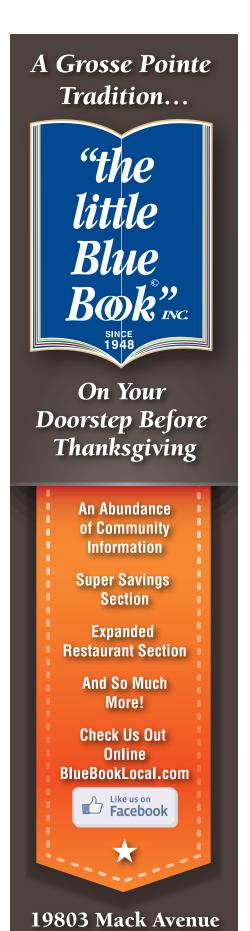

"People often ask us how much our electric bill is during Christmastime.

We turn the lights on after Thanksgiving and they are on through Epiphany (January 6). Before LED lights, it costs $1400, but with LED lights, it costs $400. It takes about 80 hours to put up the lights and decorations. My two brothers come over and I also rent a lift. It takes about 40 hours to take everything down."

Technology has changed since the Van Siles started decorating some 18 years ago. "I use computers now for some special effects. There is also a lot more Halloween decorations than in previous years," says Mark.

But, says Denise, "We celebrate every holiday and we don't overlook Thanksgiving just because it falls between Halloween and Christmas. We have so much to be thankful for."

HOLLYFEST

A holiday benefit to support The Family Center of Grosse Pointe & Harper Woods

By Michelle Balconi

OLLYFEST, The Family Center's signature festive fundraiser, captures the true spirit of holiday giving Thursday, Dec. 5, at the Grosse Pointe Club. The often sold-out party with a purpose features both live and silent auctions and is responsible for raising more than a quarter of the non-profit's annual budget.

Held at the beautifully decorated "Little Club" on Lake St. Clair, the evening highlights accomplishments of the past year but also serves to reach a necessary goal. The Family Center is a volunteer-driven operation which relies completely on donations to create nearly two dozen programs and events each year for more than 5,000 families. The organization achieves all of this with one full-time executive director, Debbie Liedel, and one part-time assistant, Beth Vernon, and more than 100 professionals who donate their time and industry expertise.

Honorary chairs for this year's event are John and Terry Minnis, who have a long history with the 13-year-old organization. John serves as immediate past president, marketing committee co-chair and newsletter editor.

"This is one of our favorite events of the year," says Terry Minnis. "The Little Club is always so cheerfully decorated for the holidays. The auction items are fantastic, not to mention the great food! We look forward to seeing all our friends and Family C all our friends and Family Center supporters."

HOLLYFEST organizers and cochairs are Vernon, Mary Beth Austin and Anne Prokop.

The Family Center of Grosse Pointe & Harper Woods offers robust programs and presentations given by expert practitioners and educators, fun family-centered activities, a weekly Ask the Experts column and a dropin playgroup program for children and their caregivers. Play Central is located within Barnes School and is an introduction for many in the community to The Family Center.

"I have attended with all three of my children, now ages 5, 3 and 2," says Heather Burgess. "My children and I have made many wonderful friends that we will have for the rest of our lives, and for that we are forever grateful!"

Presentations and Q&A features advising on topics ranging from kindergarten readiness to managing stress in adulthood are archived on The Family Center's acclaimed website for easy access and privacy. Earlier this fall. The Family Center kicked off a multiyear, major giving enrichment campaign further demonstrating the commitment to

"Building a Stronger Community" for future generations.

Each year HOLLYFEST is supported by generous sponsors who provide a strong foundation towards reaching fundraising goals. At press time, this year's $5,000-$1,000 and in-kind sponsors include Henry Ford Health System; Beaumont Hospital; St. John Hospital and Medical Center; Gail and Lois Warden; Grosse Pointe Audiology; Wolverine Packing Co.; Avanti and Pointe Magazine.

HOLLYFEST tickets can be purchased online at familycenterweb. org for $100 per person. Sponsorship opportunities of varying levels are also available online.

Friends of the Grosse Pointe Parade

By John Minnis

hough the Friends of the Grosse Pointe Parade appeared without fanfare in 2005, the group's presence could hardly go unnoticed — to wit, the Grosse Pointe Santa Claus Sleigh, including Rudolph, the Toys for Tots Grosse Pointe Express Train and, most recently, the White Christmas Carriage, fashioned last year out of the Bresser Family's sleigh, a perennial parade favorite. All told, The Friends have contributed, through donations and volunteer labor, some quarter of a million dollars in rolling stock to the Grosse Pointe Santa Claus Parade.

"We just kind of appeared on the scene with the sleigh," says Dick Ruzzin, president and creative director. "John (Stevens) had a large vision. He wanted to build a float."

The idea for a sleigh came out of the mouth of a babe, namely John and Betty Stevens' granddaughter Sera, who asked during the 2004 parade why Santa was arriving in a horse-drawn carriage rather than his sleigh. Thus, the Friends of the Grosse Pointe Santa Claus Sleigh was born and — after being reformed into the 502(c)3 Friends of the Grosse Pointe Parade — the rest is history.

Of the core group who designed and built the sleigh, Stevens and Ruzzin remain and have been joined by Bill Demeter. Mike Stapleton of Prop Art, graphic artist Jeff Petersen and archivist Natalie Morath are still on board as well. Faithful corporate sponsors include Beaumont Health Systems, Northern Trust, Talmer Bank and Morgan Stanley.

While the Friends are not rolling out a new float this year, they are planning their annual Parade Party for Wednesday, Nov. 13, 6-8 p.m. at Pier Park. Rather than an "unveiling," the party is to be a "Friends-raiser" with locally catered food, hot chocolate and tons of kids games and letter writing to Santa. Marines will be on hand to personally receive unwrapped gifts for Toys for Tots. (Gifts can also be dropped in the Toys for Tots Caboose during the parade.)

Party tickets are $50/family or $25/couple. For more information, visit gpsanta.com.

38TH ANNUAL GROSSE POINTE SANTA CLAUS PARADE

CHAMBER CONTINUES POINTE TRADITON

By John Minnis

he Grosse Pointe Chamber of Commerce takes on a popular holiday tradition this year as it stages the 38th annual Grosse Pointe Santa Claus Parade.

"It rained the first year of the parade (in 1975)," according to Gwenn Samuels, who wrote about the 35th anniversary parade for Pointe Magazine, "but thousands of Pointers braved the weather, lining the streets, collecting balloons, applauding everyone and everything involved. And it has been ever thus."

Jenny Boettcher, Chamber president/executive director, says the theme of its inaugural parade is "Winter Wonderland," featuring a big "Sno-Glo" float by Art Van Furniture as well as new floats built by The Parade Company, masters of the Detroit Thanksgiving Day parade. Dirty Dog Jazz Café owner Gretchen Valade's Detroit Jazz Festival Float will be there as well. New this year are bands from Grosse Pointe North and South High Schools.

Bowing to popular sentiment, the length of the parade has been reduced to 40 groups. "We did not want to do it as big as last year," Boettcher says. Of course the Grosse Pointe Big Head Corps will be there as well as all the perennial favorites.

Parade is on Friday, Nov. 29, the day after Thanksgiving, and begins at 10 a.m. on The Hill and culminates in The Village at 11 a.m. with Mayor Dale Scrace, on behalf of all the Pointe and Harper Woods mayors, giving the "keys to the hearts of all little boys and girls" in the Pointes and Harper Woods to Santa.

Also a change this year, the annual Village Tree Lighting will be held the Friday before Thanksgiving, so don't miss it! For more information, go to www.grossepointechamber.com.

BUFFETS

Taste and Look More Festive with Grapes

Family Features

Clusters of colorful grapes are traditional additions to many holiday tables. Whether they are used for a centerpiece, a garnish for the main course (think turkey, crown roast of pork, baked ham) or a "must" addition to a fruit and cheese plate, grapes offer beauty, flavor and freshness to the season.

But there are many other ways to add grapes to special meals and party fare. The recipes included here are easy-to-make, beautiful and tasty examples of unique ways to prepare and serve grapes. Luckily, many varieties of fresh grapes from California are available throughout the holiday season and into January. For more recipes and serving suggestions, visit www.grapesfromcalifornia.com.

Ardmore Park Place

By Lauren McGregor

rdmore Park Place, the stunning 19th century building on Little Mack in St. Clair Shores, has seen remarkable change over the years. The building transformed from family residence to gambling house, blind pig and bordello to furniture store before Larry Berdasono and Ray Domke purchased it in 1986.

After opening and closing Victoria Place House of Shoppes, Berdasono and Domke reopened the establishment as Ardmore Park Place in 2009, and it's been flourishing ever since.

"We wanted to create something unique and different for the area," > says Berdasono, "so we gutted and rebuilt it."

Ardmore Park Place now boasts a cafe open for lunch and dinner, full bar and a number of shops and offices.

Lunch is available Monday through Saturday, 10:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. and includes sandwiches, salads, pasta, several chicken dishes, white fish and pork tenderloin, to name a few.

Seating for lunch and dinner is particularly unique, as Ardmore Park Place has preserved the atmosphere of a house, and is therefore comprised of several rooms. Guests can dine in the Pub Room, the Sun Porch or the Ardmore Room.

Dinner is available

Thursday through Saturday, 5 to 8:30 p.m. The menu ranges from escargot and steak to salmon, chicken and beyond.

"We are trying to create a piano bar," says Domke. "There will be a pianist Friday and Saturday evenings and a classical guitarist every Thursday."

Diners can also take advantage of the shops and offices in Ardmore Park Place. One such shop, is the unique Urban Attic.

"I look for original things to fill the shelves at Urban Attic," says owner Jennifer Flynn. "Bracelets made with vintage watch faces, quirky Pook Toque's, which are winter hats sewn from wool socks and Michigan-made work including David Ellison tiles, Notable Greetings cards, Black Cat Pottery and sinful Toffee from Dave's Sweet Tooth!"

Other establishments inside Ardmore Park Place include Studio 5 Salon, which offers hairstyling, coloring, waxing and scalp massage, the office of Dr. Scott & Michelle Craig, who offer child, teen, adult and couples therapy and the office of Dr. Joseph C. Mifsud, who practices psychotherapy for children, adolescents, adults and couples.

Ardmore Park Place will see an exciting addition this holiday season - the beginning of a monthly Wine Tasting Dinner. Each tasting will showcase wines from different countries with themes such as "France" or "The British Empire." All meals included in the experience are seven courses.

"It's a sit down affair," says Domke.
"We wanted to give people a full evening out where you can dressed up," says Domke. "We want jackets, formal wear. For people to feel good about going out to dinner again."

The first Wine Tasting Dinner took place Nov. 6 and the next, British Empire themed, is scheduled for Wednesday, Dec. 4, from 7 to 10 p.m. The $65 cost covers the wine tasting, seven course meal, tax and gratuity. Reservations are required, as there is limited seating.

If you're interested in seeing all Ardmore Park Place has to offer, register for the 5th Annual Holiday Open House, which will take place Thursday, Nov. 21 from 4 to 9 p.m.

"During the holidays Urban Attic is a shopping hideaway off the beaten path," says Flynn, whose shop will be open for the Holiday Open House. "Customers coming in from the cold can choose from a great selection of unique gifts while sampling a Michigan-made jam, and enjoying the amazing decorations throughout the building. It's all about taking time out to remember the simple things during the season!"

Guests can save some money while they enjoy the elaborate holiday decorations, dine and browse the shops. "Our Open House specials include 20 percent off all dinner entrees," savs Domke. "We will also have 15 percent off all gift items and 10 percent off all wines in Ardmore Park Place's wine and gift shop." Call (586) 443-4597 for reservations. Dinner seatings will be at 4 and 6:30 p.m.

Ardmore Park Place is the ideal setting, not only for a lunch or evening out, but celebrating special occasions. The home can accommodate up to 100 guests standing or 70 seated and is a unique venue for bridal or baby showers, company parties, intimate weddings, anniversary parties and more.

"Inside the historic walls of Ardmore Park Place, time slows down long enough to enjoy a visit with friends, and special attention from the staff," says Flynn. "With Urban Attic's third holiday season underway, I still smile when a guest from the Cafe pops in, asking permission to browse with a glass of wine in hand!"

Winter Wonderland at Ord house

By Lauren McGregor

1929 estate, adorned in twinkling lights, flickering candles, garlands of green and holly and several elaborately decorated Christmas trees, waits open and welcoming for any family hoping to immerse itself in Christmases of yesteryear.

"The beautiful setting and the historic buildings, with a dusting of snow and a chill on the air create just the atmosphere we associate with the holiday setting," says President & CEO of Edsel & Eleanor Ford House Kathleen Mullins. "The estate is a peaceful place to spend time with family, with friends or even alone."

The Edsel & Eleanor Ford House's calendar is chock full of holiday festivities. Children can sit beside a twinkling tree to hear classic stories during Christmas Story Time, sip hot chocolate and peppermint tea at Nutcracker Teas or visit South Cottage to partake in holiday activities in Santa's Workshop.

"We take into our plans what the children might have experienced at their grandparents' home in Dearborn," says Mullins of Santa's Workshop. "Henry and Clara Ford loved the holiday season and bringing joy to children by creating a Santa's Workshop on their estate."

The whole family is invited to enjoy the offerings of Candlelight Strolls and Holiday Tours. And adults especially will appreciate the cozy Holiday Teas, which include a house tour, followed by tea, sandwiches and homemade dessert.

A highly anticipated addition to the Ford House's holiday events is Winter Wonderland Weekends.

"In the late afternoon our guests will be invited to relax around a bonfire, sing carols, enjoy good friendship and conversation and maybe even indulge in a cup of hot cocoa or cider," says Mullins. "They can then stroll through the gardens to Josephine's playhouse and on to Santa's Workshop in South Cottage."

Communications Specialist Sarah Tuxbury adds, "We want families to come in and enjoy the grounds. It's old fashioned fun and a wonderful way to engage with history."

Another true interaction with history comes in the form of the home itself. While Christmas decor and activities were slightly different each year in the Ford House, as they are in all homes, the constants and traditions will be thoughtfully displayed.

"The Ford family spent every Christmas morning in the library and then everyone gathered for dinner in the dining room," says Tuxbury. "Our decoration will reflect this. Eleanor always had the staff at Christmas dinner as well. They were considered family, so Christmas cheer surrounded everyone who lived in the house."

"We strive to create the holiday experience through the eyes of the Ford Family. We take into consideration what Eleanor, Edsel, their children and their grandchildren might have done, seen or experienced at their home in Grosse Pointe Shores," says Mullins. "Today, our goal is to create the opportunity for our current day families to make their own memories by spending time together at Ford House, to share good conversation, to snap photos, to laugh, to play, to make the decision to return next year."

The Musical

By Lauren McGregor

rosse Pointe Theatre's
"merry and bright musical experience, full of dancing, laughter and some of the greatest songs ever written," White Christmas, is sure to become a local favorite.

The beloved Irving Berlin holiday spectacular will not only be performed by Grosse Pointe Theatre this holiday season, but every holiday season to come. Every Grosse Pointe family has the chance to experience the annual tradition from the beginning.

The original movie, featuring Bing Crosby, follows two WWII soldiers as they catapult to show biz stardom. Bob Wallace and Phil Davis are joined by fellow entertainers Betty and Judy Haynes on a fast paced musical adventure that culminates in an ode to the two veterans' former WWII general.

"This is a high energy, feel good classic," says director and lead cast member Don Bischoff. Bischoff, who has been with Grosse Pointe Theatre for 13 years, plays Phil Davis.

"It's great for all ages," says Eleonore Ellero-Groth, who plays Betty Haynes. "Kids get caught up in it just as much as grandparents."

Ellero-Groth and Brian Groth, who play love interests in the production, are husband and wife in real life and note that their daughter Lilly is also acting in the production. Groth plays Bob Wallace, the character originally portrayed by Bing Crosby.

"It's daunting to know the original was Bing Crosby," admits Groth. "But my goal is to bring what I can to the role, as opposed to recreating what he did."

Stephanie Butler, who plays the flighty and fun Judy Haynes, notes the differences in the Crosby version and the current musical. "While it's a classic story, the musical updated and revived it," she says. "In fact, our four biggest numbers are not in the movie."

Many don't know that White Christmas: The Musical did not premiere until 2004.

The Grosse Pointe Theatre adaptation includes more than one unique addition.

First is an ode to our troops, as members of the military will stand up on either side of the stage at one point during the performance.

This touch is particularly meaningful to Grosse Pointe Theatre's newest member, Heather Yeaw, who plays a showgirl. She and her husband and Navy officer Daniel moved to the area this summer after assignment in Sicily.

Another memorable aspect is the inclusion of Grosse Pointe Public School elementary school choirs singing Christmas carols before the performance and during intermission.

"We also have several matinees," says Ellero-Groth, "so it's a very family friendly, convenient performance for families to make a tradition."

All elements, from song and dance to a salute to the troops and Christmas carols by Grosse Pointe students, culminate into a memorable holiday experience for the family. Be sure to be there for the beginning of this Grosse Pointe tradition.

"This is one of my favorite movies of all time," says Bischoff. "It's an excellent choice for the beginning of a tradition."

s president and CEO of The Parade Company organizer of the annual America's Thanksgiving Parade, Hob Nobble Gobble, Target Fireworks and the Turkey Trot, to name a few — Tony Michaels thinks big.

Case in point is the recent Parade Preview Party held at The Parade Company's studio/warehouse on Mount Elliott. The overflow crowd had to be shuttled in. "Can you believe this," says Michaels. This from a guy who yearly fills the Miller Parking Garage roof with food and drink and revelers for the best international fireworks in the world and who holds the swanky Hob Nobble Gobble "carnival" — complete with Ferris wheel — in Ford Field. (Yes, kids do where tuxes and gowns to the event.)

Michaels pulls these feats off with a meager staff of 50 and a volunteer army of 1,500. The volunteer ranks also include the 300-strong Big Heads Corps, many of whom are Grosse Pointers under the paper maché masks. Every year a new celebrity Big Head is made, but Michaels would not divulge its identity before its unveiling.

This year's America's Thanksgiving Parade promises to be bigger and better than ever. For more information, go to www.theparade.org.

Great Lake Log continues voyage

By Ted Everingham

covered a lot of ground — I mean, water — in that time: Boat shows and Asian carp, lighthouses, museums and windfarms, sailboat races, Power Squadron courses and learn-to-sail classes for adults and children.

We've taken our cameras and crew to Dossin Great Lakes Museum on Belle Isle and four historic museum sites in Port Huron. There have been visits to marinas and yacht clubs. We have been to Anchor Bay on Lake St. Clair, Pointe aux Barques Lighthouse, Humbug Marsh and on and on.

With all that we've done and seen and talked about on the program and written about in these pages, we always are looking for fresh ideas — more places to see, more people to talk with and more subjects to explore. As we begin our planning for 2014, we welcome your ideas for this column or for the television show or both. After all, the show and this column are yours, not mine.

Thanks for reading — and for watching — Great Lakes Log. We have some surprises in store for 2014, things that we think you will enjoy. In the meantime, may you have the best holiday season ever, one filled with warm memories of happy times with the people most special to you.

Ted Everingham's Great Lakes Log can be seen daily at 1:30, 5:00 & 10:30 p.m. and 2:00 a.m. on WMTV, a service of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, on Comcast channels 5 & 915 in the Pointes and Harper Woods, on WOW channel 10 in Grosse Pointe Woods and on AT&T U-verse in seven counties in Southeast Michigan.

OLD NEWSBOYS GOODFELLOW FUND APPROACHING 100

he Old Newsboys Goodfellow Fund will celebrate its 100th anniversary in 2014! OMG, tweet that Y don't U!

While I have been associated with that popular Detroit childrens' charity for many, many years - mainly through my support in The Detroit News - there is no truth to the rumor that I was a founding member in 1914.

I won't say how old I am, but I will say this: I no longer buy green bananas. And I've long since realized that, while children may be admonished to be "seen and not heard," I am content each day to be seen and not viewed.

Despite it's age, this is not your grandfather's Goodfellow Fund. Oh, the mantra of "No Kiddie Without a Christmas" remains strong. But as media outreach has morphed into more ether than newsprint, you'll find our website at detroitgoodfellows.com and our members and friends tweeting on Twitter and having folks "like" us on Facebook - whatever that means.

"We have to keep rolling with the times," says 30-something Goodfellows board member Patrick Brady, yet another descendant of founder James Brady. "We'll still send out fundraising letters. But more and more we're backing them up with

This year's goal is $1.2 million, which will pay for 35,000 gift packages for less fortunate children ages 4 through 13 in Detroit, Highland Park, Hamtramck and River Rouge. Some 13,000 of those kids will receive dolls that have been hand-dressed by volunteers. In addition, Goodfellows donations will pay for emergency dental work, new shoes and summer

Heading into their new century, the Goodfellows remain Detroit's foremost charity without overhead. We're still getting by on one paid

Celebrating a Tuscan Christmas

By Doug Cordier

fter teaching Italian Cooking Classes for twenty years, I have become an honorary Italian.

With a French name like Cordier, I thought perhaps I could add an extra vowel to the end and make it Cordieri. Needless to say, I love the Italian culture and its traditions. Both my wife and I have been fortunate to lead many culinary tours to Tuscany over the years. The Italians love to throw a party, and the best example of this is Christmas.

Christmas time in Italy is truly special. Everyone gets into the season by decorating their streets and shops with lights and of course preparing special Christmas goodies and food creations. Italian food is very regional. What is popular in one province may not have a following in another.

In Tuscany, which is north of Rome and south of Bologna, families celebrate the season with a special soup called Stracciatella (not to be confused with the gelato by the same name). Like most Italian dishes, this soup varies from family to family and region to region. Here I have tried to recreate the Stracciatella from around the city of Firenze (Florence) in Tuscany.

Classic Christmas Egg, Spinach and Pasta Soup

1 cup sliced baby spinach strips

Urinary tract infections

By Ronda Maniaci

rinary tract infections in older adults can present very unusual symptoms. It is one of the most common infections in older adults. Symptoms can be misleading and if left untreated, it can lead to serious consequences.

The elderly are particularly vulnerable to UTIs for many reasons, including a suppressed immune system that comes with age, weakening of the bladder muscles (incontinence), poor bladder emptying (urine retention), dehydration and immobility.

Recognizing the symptoms of a UTI in the elderly may not be the classic signs as you would expect in a younger person. In fact the best indicators can be identified through behavioral changes and are often mistaken for early signs of dementia or Alzheimer's.

According to the National Institute of Health, signs to look for in older adults may be unexplained changes in behavior or mental state, agitation, delirium and confusion, unexplained incontinence and fatigue, dizziness, poor motor skills and falling.

Individuals with incontinence are more at risk for UTIs, so it is important to maintain good personal hygiene and change adult briefs regularly. Drink plenty of water and cranberry juice, avoid caffeine and alcohol, shower instead of bathing, and wear cotton undergarments.

If you suspect your elderly parent may have a UTI, contact your doctor right away.

Ronda Maniaci is a Certified Senior Advisor and Owner of Comfort Care. Ronda can be reached at (313) 881-3390 or ronda.comfortcare@ sbcglobal.net.

The Holidays AT SERVICES FOR OLDER CITIZENS

ervices for Older Citizens offers an abundance of holiday opportunities, including teas, parties, basket making, trips and more.

SOC has been hosting Holiday Teas for 12 years. "Our buffet table is filled with a lovely variety of fine china tea cups and finger foods," says JoAnn Gerlach. "As the seniors sip tea or coffee and socialize, they will be entertained by the Grosse Pointe North choir singing holiday songs. The Grosse Pointe Academy students will create holiday table decorations which will be raffled off to lucky guests."
Brightstar Care of Grosse Pointe is the December sponsor for Holiday Teas.

With a maximum of 40 guests, attendees are encouraged to register early. Those interested should stop into SOC and pick up the SOC Communicator, which includes information on all activities and a mail-in registration form.

Past Christmas Parties have been so popular, a waiting list was necessary. "Because of great demand we are trying something new this year and offering two Christmas parties on different days and different times to accommodate people's busy holiday schedules," says Gerlach. The first party is Tuesday, December 17 at 11:30 a.m. and the second is Friday, December 20 at 4 p.m.

Both parties will have the same food and entertainment, including a raffle and party favors. Polish Village of Hamtramck will be catering with a traditional Polish dinner, consisting of pierogi, stuffed cabbage, city chicken, sauerkraut and much more. The entertainment for both parties will be the ever popular Heart of the Hills Players.

"The Christmas party on December 17 is sponsored entirely by one of our seniors who comes to SOC almost every day for morning coffee, lunch, Tuesday Bingo and socializing with friends, Dinshaw Sarkari."

The entertainment sponsor for the Christmas party on December 20 is Perry Calisi of Home Care One.

Another holiday event, basket building, is open to all community members. SOC has been building and distributing baskets since 2001.

"There are many homebound seniors with little or no family who will find this Christmas basket to be their only Christmas gift," says Gerlach. "The seniors, who have received our Christmas baskets before and know how special they are, anxiously anticipate their holiday basket, as well as a holiday visitor."

Meals On Wheels recipient

Another SOC program that will be particularly important during the wintry holiday season is Meals on Wheels. A local senior, Helen, is the perfect example of exactly what this remarkable program has to offer.

Helen, 79, has lived in Grosse Pointe Woods her entire life and been an active member of the community. A couple of years ago, she fell and needed a hip replacement, rendering her unable to drive and damaging her mobility. Her only child who still lives in Michigan attempted to become her primary caregiver, even with a full time job and family. Concerned that Helen could use more daily help than he could provide, he called SOC.

The staff quickly assessed his and his mother's needs and within 24 hours of that phone call, Helen had access to escorted transportation, friendly visits and a daily hot meal. In addition to the nutritional meals, the daily visit by a local volunteer provided a safety net that allowed Helen to remain living independently in her own home.

Incredibly, SOC's Meals On Wheels volunteers delivered over 20,000 meals to homebound seniors last year. Nearly half of those meals were provided solely through the support SOC receives each year from local donors and the Alan Shawn Feinstein Foundation $1 Million Challenge.

Some seniors need the meals to sustain their livelihood and health, but for many, it is the human interaction that affects them the most. "It is not unheard of for some clients to request a delivery even if they cannot eat solid foods," says Director of Development Angela Gabridge. "Human touch is just as essential as the food being delivered."

To learn more about Meals On Wheels or any of SOC's holiday events, visit socservices.org. For most events, people can register by calling SOC at (313) 882-9600. Some events, such as parties, require advanced payment with registration.

Ted and his wife, Mary Beth Langan, have a son, Adam, affected by Autism and Fragile X. They are very involved in leadership roles in the Fragile X Foundation which helps all families impacted by Fragile X.

David Hardin - Class of 2000

Hardin has been professionally animating for over eight years, experienced in many styles of 3D animation. He is currently a senior animator for Dreamworks.

While at North, Hardin became hooked on animation as a dream and career path influenced by his teacher, Robert Thies. After finishing a four year degree at the College of Creative Studies in Detroit, he landed his first job with Sony. During his time at Sony he was nominated for an "Annie," the animation industry's highest award, for his work on the 2007 film "Surf's Up." Shortly after this, he was hired by Dreamworks Pictures. Recently, Hardin's latest feature, "Rise of the Guardians," was nominated for a Golden Globe Award. He is currently on a deadline for the December release of Dreamworks newest feature, "How to Train Your Dragon 2."

Hardin has returned several times to talk to aspiring student animators about what he does. Hardin told North students last fall, "If you love what you do, you'll have a hard time knowing whether you're working or playing every day."

Don't wait, start now

By Ken Welch

verybody waits until Jan. 1st to start a "new you" campaign. Even people who joke about people not sticking to their New Year's resolutions are guilty of not sticking to their own resolutions. Why?

One reason is January is the worst month to start an exercise routine. Talk about having excuses. "Don't have enough money to join a gym, spent it all on Christmas." "It's dark all the time, makes me tired." "The gym's going to be crowded." "I'm cold, wait till it gets warmer." "Too snowy." "I don't feel like it!"

If you need a starting line, the middle of fall is as good as it gets. It's pleasant and cool outside. The holiday madness hasn't started yet. Many of the fall activities, including Halloween, are over. It's the perfect time to get an exercise routine in your head because that's where it all starts, developing a sense of routine and habit. Work at developing a psychological desire to want to work out so that it's something you want to, not have to do.

If you don't, you know your life is going to be immensely harder in every way. The future is very grim for an out of shape person. Don't accept that. Go to Hanson's, buy a decent pair of athletic shoes. Start a walking routine you can do at least three times a week. Then Google, "the importance of strength training."

Set your pattern now so that Jan. 1 is just another day.

'The Blueprint' — follow it

By Anna Bartolotta

t times, rental agreements come together and everything just simply falls into place even without you trying, almost as if luck had a hand in it. Then there are other times where, due to lack of planning, knowledge and/or guessing, it just falls apart in those once lucky hands. There isn't room for error in the maintenance and leasing of your rental, only consistency...

Make your blueprint and follow it. There are certain laws that must be followed; there are certain steps you must take and your own personal rules obeyed. It is the little things, done correctly, that will ensure your experience with that tenant is as pleasant and as rewarding as you can hope for.

Here are some pointers to help you start your own blueprint.

- Final water bill. Nobody wants to pay for someone else's water.
- Contact the city. For some strange reason they enjoy knowing who lives in the property.
- Credit pulled on the potential tenant. Don't get burned.
- Required forms signed. Make sure to get them signed so they never need to be looked at again.
- Walk the property. Is everything you wanted done actually done?
- Collection action started on prior tenant. It IS your money, get it.

Your blueprint is an effective tool with one rental or a portfolio of them. Forgetting something small can be just that, small but forgetting anything else could possibly give you a 12-month long migraine.

It Takes a Village to Tell Your Children About Santa

n annual visit with Santa Claus is a quintessential element of childhood. Telling one's children the "truth" about Santa is a rite of passage too.

But I think it's going to be easy this year because Santa himself, as well as family and friends prepared me for this moment. To borrow the African proverb that Hillary Clinton quoted in her 1996 book, "It takes a Village to Raise Children," this applies to our Advent Season experiences.

For 10 years, my husband Scott and I have taken our twin daughters, Lydia and Caroline, to visit Santa Claus in the Village.

In 2003, we bundled and took our sleeping 9-month-old babies to Hickey's in the Village, and placed them in Santa's lap. Caroline woke up and smiled curiously at Santa. Lydia By Amy Andreou Miller woke up only for the final photo of that visit.

In December 2004 and 2005, our girls stood 10 feet from Santa, apparently experiencing "stranger danger" and we didn't document it photographically. Yet, in December 2005, at 2 years and 9 months old, the girls were interested in writing their first letter to Santa. Achieved with inventive spelling, Lydia's read: "DS IHBG" which stood for "Dear Santa, I have been good." Caroline's letter: "DS IHBVG" added a "very" to her behavioral declaration.

In 2006, the girls were eager to write and visit Santa. From that year on, I would sneak a copy of their letters to the Santa in the Village before I managed to take the girls to see him. Lydia and Caroline are awed to see Santa pull out their letters and review them together each year.

By 2008, requests solely for toys grew into requests also for "everyone to have shelter and someone to love to gather with for the holidays." Well wishes for Mrs. Claus, the elves and reindeer have been added too. Elaborate drawings began accompanying the letters. We also delivered cookies during our visits.

The love flowed freely in both directions. The wisdom flowed mostly in one direction; Santa knew better than me. I was proud we raised our girls to understand that their letter to Santa was to name only one desired gift, not a litany. A Santa letter is a wish, not a demand. Yet, each year, I made sure their desired item was something I had already purchased and wrapped in the special "Santa only" wrapping paper, hiding it in the guest bedroom closet until Christmas Eve. I would wink, nod and wave my arms at Santa in attempts to give him my approval to promise our girls the item when they asked him about it. Santa saw my less-than-stealth signals, and he ignored me. He didn't promise them the item. Instead he talked to the girls about their goals and dreams. He even talked to them about what they do to help out at home as a part of our family unit. At one point, Lydia proudly showed him her bicep muscles when talking about how she helps out, such as vacuuming the abundant shedding hair of our Golden Retriever from all over our house. Santa and our girls have had great conversations.

In addition to Village Santa visits, our children have only known the tradition of spending Christmas Eve with friends. In its 15th year, dinner at Muriel Brock's is a time of laughter and love. Because of Muriel, our girls have learned that special times should also be spent with those we are not necessarily "blood related to, but love related to." Everyone gathered there joyously wears the paper crowns from inside the Christmas Crackers. We laugh at the irrepressibly corny puns and "knock knock jokes" that are also printed inside the party poppers, and we play board games.

Our children also only know the tradition of Christmas day, spent with Andreous and Millers, many of whom are local. Millers in the morning. Andreous in the evening. My mom makes a lavish dinner that includes Greek food. The laughter and love throughout December crescendos on Christmas Day. Every year includes dancing and/or playing violin with their cousin, Peter (Andreou) VanOsdol, visiting from Pittsburgh.

Our Advent holiday traditions are also blessed by two church homes: Grosse Pointe Memorial Church where Lydia and Caroline have dressed as angels in the early Christmas Eve service, and Assumption Greek Orthodox Church where the girls were stars, sheep, angels and Bethlehem villagers in the Greek School Christmas pageants.

This year, I don't anticipate the "truth" about Santa to drop harshly like a guillotine, or to be viewed as a fairytale or a perpetuated lie. Rather, I expect that Lydia and Caroline will continue to experience the various "truths" of the Advent season: enduring, unconditional love; forgiveness; gift giving and receiving; gratitude; fellowship; laughter; building of memories; and hope for a great future. Truths realized because of the precious time we spend with Santa, at church, and with our family and friends.

Pet safety over the holidays

ith the holidays quickly approaching, the last thing you may think about are the potential dangers to pets that can occur potential dangers to pets that can occur during this time. Being armed with a little information can help to ensure your pets remain safe this holiday season.

Decorations, holiday goodies and seasonal plants can all cause serious harm to your pet- here are some common ones to watch out for:

- Tinsel can cause fatal bowel obstruction.
- Imported SnowGlobes often contain antifreeze (ethylene glycol) which can cause kidney failure.
- String lights chewing on cords can cause burns in the mouth, electrocution, and cardiogenic pulmonary edema (fluid in the lungs).
- Candles a wayward tail or curious whiskers can cause burns or fires.
- Ornaments can be very enticing "toys" for pets: hang them high on the tree out of reach.
- Plants poinsettias, holly, and mistletoe are all toxic to pets. Lilies are the most dangerous plants to cats; severe kidney failure can result from ingestion of even just a few petals or leaves.
- Leftovers meat scraps can cause vomiting, diarrhea, or pancreatitis.
- Bones can get stuck in the mouth, splinter or puncture the stomach or intestines.
- Alcohol even a small amount can be toxic.
- Chocolate the darker the chocolate, the more toxic it becomes.
- Grapes and raisins may cause kidney failure.

RAFFLE LEADS TO NEW HOBBY

By Margie Reins Smith

ix months ago, Wilma and George Montle would not have guessed they would own a vintage car – or that it would be exhibited in the Village Car Show. As it turned out, their car was on display for two days at last September's seventh annual VillageFest.

Last May, the Montles were driving through northern Illinois on their way to a funeral. They stopped to buy a map at a welcome center in Freeport. Wilma noticed a charity raffle. Tickets were $20 and the prize was right there before their eyes: a 1972 Buick Skylark SunCoupe – cream-colored, black top, mint condition. It had been completely restored and included power steering, power brakes, air, new tires and automatic transmission.

"In the late '50s, we used to drive up and down Woodward, between Ted's Drive In and Wigwam, in George's 1957 Ford," Wilma says.

Impulsively, she bought a raffle ticket. "It was a good cause," she says. "The charity provides services for developmentally disabled adults." The drawing was to be at 3 p.m. on May 19, at Freeport's Annual Pork Chop Dinner/Car Show.

The ticket stub found its way to the Montles' refrigerator door and was forgotten.

Until.

On Sunday evening, May 19, Wilma got a phone call. She won the car.

"The man on the other end said they'd figure out how to get it to Grosse Pointe," Wilma says. "I offered to pay for delivery but he insisted delivery was part of the deal." On a Tuesday evening in June, the car was backed off a flatbed truck in the Montles' driveway. It came with a catalog for replacement parts, names of some previous owners and a subscription to a classic car magazine.

And that's how the Montles' classic car ended up with several dozen other vintage autos at the Village Fest.

"We're having a great time," Wilma says. "People who display cars have their own community. They share information and meet at various events. It's a whole new world for us."

Many spectators said they'd never seen a SunCoupe before. "It's rare," Wilma says. "Buick only made them for one year. Only 40 are left."

They've had several offers for the car, but Wilma and George plan to enjoy their new hobby before selling.
