"The prospects look very good," said Edmund C. Vernier, township supervisor and a member of the committee, today. "The Federal Radio Commission seemed to change its general opinion on the problem before we left, and we expect to hear favorable results within a week or ten days."

Other members of the committee who journeyed to Washington on the mission of explaining further to the radio body the reasons for the application to establish a radio station in Grosse Pointe Township, were: James Drysdale, chief of police in Grosse Pointe Park, and chairman of the committee, Daniel C. Allor, Justice Walter Schweikart, William Shoemaker, and William Neff.

"We wish to thank Congressman Robert H. Clancy for his assistance while we were in Washington," Ver-"We followed the representatives of the state of Michigan before the commission, and we felt so assured that our point of view had been accepted by the radio body that we only placed two witnesses on the stand."

The proposed plan which police and village officials are attempting to put into effect is the establishment of a township radio station, which will police cruisers and scout cars. The one station will be utilized by all the villages in the township, and the expense will be shared. Each village will be asked to furnish its own equipment for the police cars, under the present

TAKE NOTICE, V. V. V.'s

The regular monthly business meeting of the V. V. V. Girls Club will be held at the Neighborhood Club on Friday evening, May 2nd, at 8 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

In the finals of the Grosse Pointe Class B Basketball championship tournament, the Eastminsters defeated the Basketeers in a closely contested game by a score of 18-14. The game was universally well played throughout, with the lead changing several times, and at no time was either team over four points ahead. The winners finished with four victories and but one defeat, while the losers were defeated in two out of six games. Roy Heitman and Elmer Schram were the outstanding players for the winners while Cavanaugh and Vernier starred for the

In the construction contest, Wm. Brownell, of 1714 Neff Road, had a slight edge over Frank Vanderpool, of 888 St. Clair and was awarded a special prize in this contest. Shortly after 4 o'clock 12 kites took the air, an exceptionally strong winer broke-several of the kine cords, thus eliminating these entrants. After 1200 feet had been paid out, the cord of Wm. Brownell's kite broke and it landed in Lake St. Clair, over a mile away. When the contest was over the boys donated their kites to the home

The annual Inter-Settlement Roller Skating race was held at the Neighborhood Club on April 26th. Each house was allowed to enter two boys, 14 years of age or under, and the distance was 100 yards. In the finals Anthony Or-Dr. Brownell States lando of Franklin street won first place, Albert Langrett, second place and Sam Granata, third place.

The warm days of spring have inspired the Little Garden Club again into activity. This is an organization of the Neighborhood Club and is open to all girls from the ages of 10 to 15. Each girl is assigned a plot of ground and given seeds which she must plant and care for during the season. Weekly judging takes place, and first, second and third place ribbons are awarded for lesign, neatness and care of plants Cash prizes are awarded at the end of the season for those girls having the most first, second and third place ribbons. # New Salesroom Opens Saturday TAXPAYERS COMPLAIN OF HIGH COST

The Mack avenue super-highway widening project, calling for the widening of Mack avenue from Cadicux Road east to just beyond the Village of St. Clair Shores, is being met with considerable opposition by taxpayers.

OF MACK SUPER - HIGHWAY WIDENING

The complaints are chiefly based upon the grounds that too much of the cost of the project is levelled upon the property owners of Grosse Pointe Village, Grosse Pointe Farms, and Lochmoor. The following facts concerning the situation are presented to the public, following an investigation by Norbert P. Neff, clerk of Grosse Pointe Village:

1. The estimated cost of the project was at first given as $4,698,000.00 but has now been increased to $5,500,000.00.

2. The minutes of the meeting called by the State Highway Commissioner at which it was decided to widen Mack avenue state: "that approximately 60% of the cost of this road would be paid by the Township, County and District." In other words, the State will not pay for the road as a State Road, but only for

3. Also, those owning property within a certain distance of Mack Avenue will be subject to a Special Assessment to be paid over a period of ten years. The assessment district as concerns that portion of Mack avenue lying north of our Village extends a distance of approximately 1500 feet north of Mack avenue in the City of Detroit, while that portion of the district lying south of Mack avenue in our Village extends 3000 feet south on a line parallel to Mack company said today that it was exavenue and intersects Cadieux road near Maumee avenue and at Fisher road it lies between Kercheval and Waterloo avenus. between Kercheval and Waterloo avenus.

4. The State Highway Commission proposed having the road 120 feet Vernor Highway East and Kercheval wide from Cadieux Road east a distance of 4000 feet or about to Fisher road, avenue. and 204 feet wide the rest of the way.

5. There is considerable opposition to the whole project as being an unnecessary expenditure of money at this time, and because it requires the residents of Grosse Pointe Township to pay too great a part of the cost. Others think that Mack should be widened but only to 120 feet rather than 204 feet. The whole matter is to be decided by the Superhighway Commission of Wayne County and by the State Highway Commissioner in the near future.

If you desire any further information at any time in the future, please be free to call on the Village office.

English in Switzerland A traveler recently returned from a six months' holiday in Switzerland gave two quaint examples of English as she is written in out-of-the-way mountain chalets. One notice, taken from a hotel frequented by rockclimbers, runs as follows: "It is defended to circulate in the corridors in boots of ascension before seven hours of the morning." The other is a warning to travelers not to appear at dinner in evening dress. It says: "Strange gentlemen are requested not to dress for dinner, as their costume flatters the souls of the maid folk,

plies that Swiss girls are more susceptible than is generally imagined.

Trees have almost as wonderful a sense of direction as birds. Should there be a leak in an underground water pipe in a park or graden, a neighboring tree is almost sure to find it out, and, extending its roots in that direction, project a shoot through the break into the pipe. Even more extraordinary is the performance of the rattan, a climbing palm common in tropical countries. When it has climbed a tree, it goes over the top and comes down again to the ground. Then, growing at the rate of a foot every 24 hours, it sets out straight for the next tree, which may be over 50 yards

Three Idioms of Latin

Tongue Long Employed Ecclesiastical Latin differs from classical Latin in various ways, these changes being due principally to the origin and derivation of ecclesiastical Latin. Originally the Romans spoke the old tongue of Latin known as the prisca latinitas. In the Third century B. C., Ennibus and a few other writers trained in the schools of the Greeks made certain changes and, encouraged by the cultured classes, thus developed the classical Latin. The mass of the Roman people, however, continued to speak the old tongue, and after the Third century there were two separate idioms. The necessary contact between the two classes produced still a third. When the church developed a Latin it was necessary to employ a language which would appeal to the masses as well as to the literary class; hence some of the factors of each idiom were used. St. Augustine says: "I often employ words which are not Latin, and I do so that you may understand me. Better that I should incur the blame of the grammarians than not to be understood by the people."-Washington Star.

Effect of a Yawn

One day doctors will be able to tell us why yawning is so infectious. The other morning a woman sitting opposite me in the bus gave vent to a prodigious yawn, writes a well-known practitioner. Within a few seconds both her neighbors were vawning also, and shortly afterwards I began to yawn myself, although I felt quite fresh and wideawake. I made a deliberate attempt to check myself, but could not succeed, and it was only when my mind had been occupied by some other matter that I forgot to yawn. Probably by now you are yawning yourself. The very word "yawn" seems as infectious as the habit.-Ex-

Stone Carving Thought to Be of Bronze Age

On a hill near Allinge, in Bornholm, Denmark, a large block of stone carvings has been found on the face of the rock, which, it is thought, belongs to the Bronze age. The carvings are made with flint, and show a vessel about forty-three inches in length, with a smaller one above it. The date is supposed to be from 1000 to 500 B. C.

There will be difficulty in removing the stone, as the ground is at present a quarry, but it is proposed to divide it into parts and remove it to the Ronne museum garden. Rocks of the Iron age have been found in parts of Denmark, but this is the largest one yet found of the Bronze age, in that country. English coins have also been plowed up in Denmark and Germany recently. The coins are about 1,000 years old, and are from the reigns of Sven Estridsen of Denmark, Canute the Great, Hardicanute and Magnus the Good. These consist of pennies, with the names, in runic letters, of makers of coins, Assur and Alfrik, and the arms of Lund, Exeter and Roskilde cathe-Dance Wednesday, Saturday and drais on one side, the other having

The second big week of "Journey's End" all talking photoplay of the stage sensation, starts on Sunday at the Shubert Detroit, on the Campus. The film is being shown as a road show, twice daily at 2:30 and 8:30.

"Journey's End" played around the world before it was a year old, and tive appearance. raised its author R. C. Sheriff from The floor mats obscurity to fame. Its action takes place in a dugout during the last year aft r a fall and winter of driving, ac of the war and while it is not a "war picture" or epic in the sense of spectacular effects, it is a masterful study of character and the effect of danger on certain men. Captain Stanhope, played by Colin Clive, has been in the front line trenches for three years and drinks to "forget," Lieutenant Osborne, gray haired schoolmaster addicted to reading "Alice in Wonderland" is a philosopher who "thinks of it all as "romantic." Trotter is a plump than with a vacuum cleaner. With th officer who can't help seeing the funny side of things, even cockroach races. Two boy officers who are new to it all, and very much impressed with things in general, and a funny cook who just can't understand how the tea happened to be flavored with onion complete the sextette around whom the story is woven. "Journey's End" has been filmed in its entirety, exactly as the stage play was produced. Its cast in addition to Colin Clive who created his role originally in the London production, includes Ian Maclaren, David Manners, Anthony Bushell, Billy Bevan, Warner Klinger and Thomas Whitely. #### "Rich People." Society Drama, at Oriental

"Rich People," an exquitie, charming picture story with an unusual plot and a lovely background that rivals an Arabian Night's fantasy starring talented and beautiful Constance Bennett School will be held at the Church next and Regis Toomey, will be the screen feature at the Oriental Theater next Friday, May 2nd.

"Rich People" is a story of the lives of men and women of wealth and high week. society. The heroine is a girl who has a mind of her own and rebels against the conventional usages of society. She, is warned by her friends to be discrect, but rich, beautiful and headstrong, she defied convention and fell in love with a man who repelled her. Then instead of waiting to be wooed, she fearlessly did the wooing. The way she wins out in this unusual game of love is unusual and amusing.

The picture is marked by its superb scenes, brilliant dialogue and snappy, catchy songs. The picture opens with a storm of thunder, lightning and rain that hit one bang in the face with its terrific force. There is a night scene filmed on a yacht, where the mystery moonlight waters, long streamers of light from passing ships, soft crooning of the waves and bits of song from the sailors, all create an atmosphere ideal beyond description for the action of the picture, "Rich People" was adapted for the ocreen from a novel by J. Gelzer, and directed by Edward H. Griffith. The dialogue was recorded by George Ellis and Cliff Stein.

The all star cast includes Robert Ames, Mahlou Hamilton, Ilka Chase, John Loder, Polly Ann Young and Sally Blane, more than proves her ability in this picture.

The big stage show will include five headline vaudeville acts direct from the Palace theater, New York City.

Those suffering from rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago or neuritis will find a sait bath doubly beneficial. Warm water only should be used and the muscles should be massaged gently but firmly with the salt. This massage eases inflamed joints, and at the same time has a soothing effect upon the nerves.

Sail-Fish an Acrobat

Of all the great game fishes in the ocean near Florida, the splendid sailfish is first in interest. Although this lithe acrobat of the gulf stream is needlessly slaughtered by thousands each year, says Nature Magazine, it still remains one of the least known of the popular tropical fishes. No one really knows where this quaint wanderer of the deep breeds, whither he goes, or whence he comes. But he cruises along the guif stream, alone, in couples, or in small schools, sometimes quite small, though well past the baby stage, one of the quaintest fish in all the world. His querulous down-turned mouth and large bright eyes set near its base; his long beak, and high, flaunting purple-splotched dorsal fin, which suggests the frill of some long vanished saurian, give him a strangely birdlike appearance.

"Yeah, but I don't want no clock that'll wake me up at no such hour." The pictured clock registered 20° minutes to 4.

Kicking the Bucket

The origin of the expression to "kick the bucket" meaning to die, is found in a procedure in the act of suicide, A person wishing to hang himself stood upon a bucket and, having affixed the rope to a beam and drawn it as short as possible, he kicked away the bucket and thus attained a "drop." . The story of Sheridan's use of the expression is well known. When he was on his deathbed he was informed that a friend, being "merry" had fallen down a well. "Did he kick the bucket?" gasped Sheridan.

The death-watch beetle and his numerous cousins belong to the group Ptinidae. They do not always choose for their food such structures as Sir Christopher Wren's church of St. Lawrence Jewry, for old books, furniture, house timbers, drugs, ship's stores, piles of old paper and tobacco are included in the pest's diet. #### Golden Words Uttered by Tongues of Unknown There are hundreds of people whose names we do not know, though their words have passed into history. There is the nameless, well-dressed woman who, meeting Wordsworth walking by Loch Kathrine one fine evening, observed, "What, you are stepping westward?" She gave the poet the idea for his poem, Stepping Westward.

There is the watchman who passed under Pepys' window crying, "Past one of the clock, and a cold, frosty morn-

There'is the man who first invented the Breton fisherman's petition as he put out to sea, "Oh, God, do thou help and guard me; the sea is so wide and my boat is so small."

And who was the poor old dame who, when questioned by a kindly bishop, held up her dry crust and said, "I have all this, and faith"?

And there are, of course, all the unknowns whose words are sung and said around the world and will not pass away.

Disavowal of Liability

Certainly, if any phrase sounded modern, this one does; and yet, surprising as it may seem, it is a direct allusion to Matthew 27:24.

The review was undertaken by Dr. Hildegarde Howard, of the museum, for the puipose of establishing a census of the birds of the region. It was found that of about 500 individuals of the extinct, turkeylike bird, Parapavo, represented in these collections, more than 150 were young birds, many of them only

Titled Bartender

Some six years ago, says a writer in Piccadilly, you could see painted above the door-where the law or dained that the publican's name should be seen-of "The Cider House," an inn at Haddenham, in Buckinghamshire, England, "Sir Henry Echlin. Bart, licensed to sell wines and spirits," and if you went inside you would be served by the baronet landlord or his wife. Sir Henry was the eighth baronet of his line, and had become a publican after having been a private in the Life Guards, because four of his predecessors had squandered the family fortunes.

Tragedy of Long Ago He that diggeth a pit shall fall therein—A young man of near this place some time ago sent an undertaker with a coffin to the house of a young woman, who upon sighting it fainted away and remained ill for some time. The effect his rash piece of folly had upon her preyed on his mind and he fell into consumption, and required in reality the sad office he had undertaken for the young lady. He was himself buried in the same coffin he had sent to her.-Nashville Whig and Banner, March 9, 1830.

KEEP HOME AIR MOVING AND INCREASE WORKING EFFICIENCY

makes it possible for employers to increase both the comfort and the efficiency of their workers by simple and inexpensive methods, declares the Holland Institute of Thermology of Holland, Mich. And the same methods can be used to change the ordinary warm air circulating heating plant into a year-round air conditioning plant that will make the home comfortable in summer as well as in winter. Keep the air in the factory, office or home moving steadily at moderate velocity instead of allowing it to remain stagnant-that's the principle by which effective cooling can be introduced without complicated refrigerating of dehumidifying machinery, according to the ventilating experts of the Holland Institute.

Air motion tests recently conducted at the Pittsburgh research laboratories of the U. S. Burgau of Mines and the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers showed how the application of this principle increases working efficiency. First, men were put to work in the test chambers with the air normally still and stagnant. Then this air-of the same temperature and with the same relative humidity-was blown past the workers at a velocity of 350 feet

All the men tested were able to produce more work in the moving air than in still air. The results are shown in the chart given here, which was simplified by the Holland Institute of Thermology from one prepared by the Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers.

Other tests showed that the workers' pulse rates were lowered by the air motion and scientists accept dry and parched air.

Modern air conditioning science | pulse rate as the best indicator of the severity of discomfort under not weather conditions. Similar results have been obtained from studies made by the British National Institute of Medical Research, the Holland Institute states.

This principle of alr motion is made available for the average home by a new type of electrified propeller unit installed in a warm air heating plant. During the summer it keeps cooling breezes moving through every room of the home. In winter it increases heating efficiency by distributing heat more rapidly through the house and by operating on the principle of a large volume of moderately and healthfully warmed air rather than a small quantity of

on Roquefort Cheese The pilgrim Mather of all cheese in America today is Roquefort, which can trace its "blue brood" as far as the First century, when Pliny remarked about its excellent mayor.

Aftempts have been made in the United States to duplicate the famous French product, but such experiments have been fruitiess as the ideal curing conditions of Aveyron, France, cannot be reproduced anywhere in the world. The wholesale price of the imported Roquefort is so low, and the flavor so appetizing that American hostesses are purchasing it in greater quantities than ever before.

Epicures bow their heads in respect to the shepherd whose misfortune was responsible for its origin. He left his lunch of barley bread and native cheese made of sheep's milk in a cave near the town of Roquefort, in southeastern France, to keep it cool until noontime. A sudden storm arose which forced him to forget about his lunch. Two weeks later he passed that way again, and thought about his abandoned food. He found the bread worthless, and the cheese covered with a curious culture mold. His curiosity and hunger being great, he nibbled a bit, and found the cheese had a flavor surpassing any food he had ever eaten. -Chicago Evening Post.

Breton Peasant Takes

Holiday Fun Seriously If you are in France and in Brittany and in Quimper over a holiday, says a traveler, you will discover that festivities begin at sunset the night before. Peasants from all the country round dress in their best and come into town in their carts and wagons. The small corner cafes in the old part of town are full of them.

Everyone drinks cider—it is the national beverage of Brittany. Outside in one of the open squares a couple of sturdy barrels are set up with chairs upon them for the musicians:

From these precarious perches the bagpiper and the fiddler and the fellow with a horn play fast and furiously for the dancers. As the dance gets more and more exciting some of the young men kick off their wooden shoes and hop around in their socks, but every one is most skillful in keeping on their heavy wooden sabots.

They stay up late the night before a holiday. There are sounds of clopping shoes and singing and laughter all night-getting even louder toward daybreak. Then the real holiday

Simple Strategy That

Costs Monkey Freedom When a collector sets out to capture a monkey alive in the forests of South America, he certainly "makes a monkey" out of the animal.

By means of a little strategy, the hunter finds it easy to lay a trap which makes the capture easy. There are some 230 or more species of trees which produce a fruit called the monkey pot. The fruit, woody and hollow, has removable tops somewhat like the manufactured pots of the kitchen. Among them is one which produces a seed that we know as the Brazil nut. When the hunter is out for his prey, he removes the top from a monkey pot and fills it with nuts. In due course, the monkey appears, reaches in and seizes a handful of the nuts. His hand, so filled, will not come out of the pot and the monkey, if he reasons at all, reasons that if his hand went in it should also come out, and hangs on to the nuts. Being unable to get his hand out and apparently unwilling to drop his food, he tries to get away with the monkey pot hanging to his hand. Thus crippled, he is easily captured.

ICHIGAN has long been a leader among states that are improving farming conditions by the application of agricultural engineering to the solution of problems affecting entire communities no less than the interests of the individual farmers directly concerned.

Land clearing projects of considerable magnitude have always had the benefit of the cooperation of Michigan State College whose research work and experimental activities in connection with reclamation have proved of the utmost value in the state's agricultural development. Likewise, helpful assistance, both advisory and practical, is given the farmer in the case of field clearing to rid cultivated land of the occasional stump or boulder which interferes with economical working of

Drainage an important Factor

According to the last census report, Michigan had approximately 16,142 miles of open ditches. It is believed that the 1930 census will show that the ditch mileage has been appreciably increased. Both mechanical means and explosives have been used to create this drainage system with a sufficient total length to reach about two-thirds of the distance around the earth at the Equator. Besides, there are thousands of miles of tile and other closed drainage. Clean-out and other maintenance work is constantly necessary to continue the protection of lands and crops which is afforded by the open ditches.

Ditching Provides Pasture

More than three score farmers, of the hundreds who have seen blasting demonstrations during recent months, were present when dynamite did a Darby near Allegan in the county of the same name. Describing this work, Fred P. Weber, of the Du Pont Agrihundred yards of this ditch were through a heavy growth of underbrush and second growth timber. Owing to the density of vegetation and the trees, it was impossible for the water to run off the eighty acres of proposed pasture land into a big county ditch. The result was that before the ditch on Mr. Darby's farm was made the land beyond the woods could be pastured only during a very dry season. The blasting, however, provided a ditch which effectually drained the entire pasture area.

Isabelia County Ditching

A successful demonstration of the value of dynamite for ditching induced the Isabella County Drainage Commission to use the explosive for considerable work of this character. At the request of Jess Simpson, a drainage commissioner, Mr. Weber, of the Du Pont field staff, showed what dynamite could do to make a stretch of ditch in the vicinity of Mt. Pleasant. Sticks of ditching dynamite, loaded at 18-inch intervals, were shot by propagation. The demonstration proved so satisfactory that Mr. Simpson was reported to be using dynamite to clean out several other similar ditches, the work being done at considerable savings of time and cost.

Kent County Road Drained

K. K. Vinning, agricultural agent for Kent County, was asked by the Kent County Road Commission for advice relative to draining water from a road at Harvard that had been closed for four months because of its flooded condition. A survey of the situation was made by George Amundson, extension agricultural engineer of Michigan State College, along with Mr. Vinning, after which Mr. Amundson indicated the right of way for the proposed ditching job on the farm of W. H. ditch. The trouble was due to water backing up in an old stream which was very crooked and was grown up with vegetation: Water covered the cultural Extension Section, said: "Six road to a depth that made it impassable.

Dynamite made a good job of cleaning out this ditch.

Test shooting by means of propagation was done, with one pound of ditching dynamite in each of the holes in a single row. The holes were spaced 20 inches apart. This procedure resulted in a ditch of 10-foot width at the top and four feet deep. Several hundred yards of ditching was done, causing a rapid lowering of the water level and a dry roadway.

Clarkson Marsh Blasted

Another interesting instance of the use of dynamite to stop impounded water from flooding was the work done at Clarkson in Oakland county. This also claimed the attention of Mr. Amundson as well as the active cooperation of H. N. Vaughn, the county agricultural agent. Mr. Weber assisted in the blasting.

In this case, residents of a section of the town of Clarkson had suffered from the backed up water of an adjacent marsh filling their basements, following periods of heavy rainfall. The condition had become acute owing to the cluttering and filling up with debris of a stream through the marsh which in years past had drained the area The suggestion to resort to the use of dynamite was made by County Agent Vaughn, who resides in Clarkson.

To remedy conditions, the explosive was used to clean out the old creek channel and to straighten its course in places. A depth of three feet and a width of six feet were provided and proved ample in draining the marsh; Two days after the blasting was completed all the water was some from the basements of the nearby homes.

College Courses in Explosives

Theoretical and practical knowledge of the effectual and economical uses of explosives is considered so important hy Michigan State College that courses are offered to all students in agriculture, forestry and engineering. Regular credits are given students who satisfactorily complete the required work.

Wide Variation as to

Significance of Kiss The history of the kiss is vague. The Bible records it as a salutation of respect, but prehistoric history gives the origin to cannibalism, contending the modern kiss is only a modified bite, thereby giving the impression that Man so loved Woman he wished to indicate she was good enough to eat.

Among the oriental races the kiss has been known from time immemorial. Kisses are not used in Madagascar, parts of Polynesia, Africa, South Sea islands and Japan. In ancient Greece it was a death penalty offense to kiss in public. The Malay kiss (the rubbing of noses) also is used in Greenland and parts of Russia. In Egypt they kiss one hand and place it on top of the head as a sign of affection.

The Romans had but three words to signify the kiss, while the Greeks had four, the French have twenty and the Germans have thirty. Among the latter cognomens is one which might be highly recommended to the world at large; it is called "nechkussen," meaning "making up for kisses that have been omitted."

In olden times, to kiss a pretty woman was considered a sure cure for a headache.

Remember Plural When Speaking of Molasses

"Molasses" comes to us through the Spanish from the Latin "mellaceus," meaning honeylike. Since the singular and plural forms are spelled the same the word is often construed as a singular when it should be construed as a plural. Hence "molasses are," "these molasses," and "those molasses" are common expressions, especially in the South and West. They are incorrect except in those rare cases when the speaker or writer has in mind different varieties of molasses and really desires to use the word in the plural. 'These molasses are good," is not correct when the speaker refers to molasses on the dining table. He should say, "This molasses is good." On the other hand, it might be correct, though awkward, for a merchant to write, "Please send me 10 gallons each of both of those molasses I ordered last year," when he referred to different varieties of the product,-Pathfinder Magazine.

Cyrano Not Imaginary

Savinien Cyrano de Bergerac, a French romance writer and dramatist, was born in Paris March 6, 1619. At the age of nineteen he entered a corps of the guards, serving in the campaigns of 1639 and 1640, and began the series of exploits that were to make him a hero of romance. After ten years of this life Cyrano left the service and began to write tragedies. Cyrano's ingenious mixture of science and romance furnished a model for many writers, such as Swift and Poe. He died in Paris in September, 1655. M. Edmond Rostand's romantic play, 'Cyrano de Bergerac" (1897), revived interest in him.

Shepherds First Golfers? It is now said that shepherds in Scotland originated the game of golf 500 years ago. Although it has been claimed that the game began in land in 1732, it seems that it made its first appearance in Scotland five conturies ago. The shepherds, tending flocks, were in the habit of knocking stones with a stick at other shepherds whose flocks were beginning to intermingle with the first group.

From this means of warning another shepherd of the trespassing of his flock grew the game of golf. Gradually the practice became a sport, the objective being to hit small objects with the stone.

"An Historian" Incorrect

"A" is the correct form of the article before words beginning with consonant sounds. Therefore we should say "a historian" and "a union," not "an historian" and "an union." A few writers in this country adhere to the old practice of using "an" before words beginning with a consonant sound when the first syllable is not accented, but this practice is now regarded as incorrect. It is a holdover from the days when "an" was used indiscriminately before words beginning with vowel and consonant sounds.-Pathfinder Magazine.

Quaint Inn Signs

"Help Me Through" is the name of a licensed house at Bilton, Lancanshire, England. Its sign depicts a globe with the head and feet of a man protruding at the top and bettom respectively. There is also "Same Yet," in Simister lane, Rhodes, Lancs. The original name of the house was "The Red Lion." It was being redecorated and when a sign-writer asked what name was required, he received the reply, "Same yet," and forthwith complied. And so it remains to this day.

est fur, is given a 100 per cent durability rating, other of the furs rank thus: Beaver, 90; chinchilla, 15; hare, 5; natural fox, 40; dyed fox, 25; baum or pine marten, 60; dyed marten, 45; mink, 70; dyed mink, 35; raccoon, 65; dyed raccoon, 50; sable, 60; dyed sable, 45; skunk, 70; tipped skunk, 50; hair seal, 80; dyed seal, 75; fur seal, 70; squirrel, 25; dyed squirrel, 20; coney, 20; lynx, 25; mole, 7; muskrat, 45; dyed muskrat, 35.

"Honey" With Nancy Carroll at Riviera

Nancy Carroll, sweeter than ever, is at the Publix Riviera theater this week in her latest all-talking picture romance, "Honey," The charming musical comedy star is at her best in this picture in which she plays the role of a young southern miss, who through her dad's financial difficulties, leases the family homestead to a wealthy New York family. The trouoles start as soon as the family arrives; and the servants don't! Nancy and her parents take the roles of the se ants and everything happens at once when the good-looking youth of the north finds himself falling in love with the supposedly "hired cook,"-Miss Caroll. Of course everything ends in a appy fashion and the various misunderstandings are cleared away for the two lovers. Miss Carroll has a fine supporting cast in "Honey" that includes Harry Green, Richard Skeets Gallagher, Lilian Roth, Stanley Smith and little Mitzi. Like in her recent picture "Sfeetie," this new comedy romance introduces several new song hits that are proving their worth.

Monk Watson and the jazz Serenaders head the lively sweet show "Kandy Komics," staged by Mr. Ed. Weisfeldt of the Publix theaters. A host of entertainers, loads of laughs, dancers, singers and funsters are featured in the whoopee frolic. Unique stage settings of "boubon" joy furnish a real candy-land atmosphere for the

Startling Gangland Drama at Madison

Proving to be one of the most effecive and gripping talking screen dramas seen here this year, "Framed," feature presentation at the Madison theater, is getting much favorable com-

"Framed" is based on a most powerful story of activities in metropolitan gangland. This type of story has been done before in pictures, to be true, but never more effectively than in this offering. "Framed" has a double surprise climax that puts it definitely in a class by itself. Local audiences had no advance conception of the plot twist and the wind-up came as a definite surbrise. Evelyn Brent, that superb actress who scored so sensationally in "Under-world," "The Drag Net," "Interference" and "Slightly Scarlet," is the central figure in this drama of gang-land intrigue. Miss Brent would all but walk away with the show if it were not that Radio Pictures have supplied an unusually capable supporting cast. Regis Toomey, who gained screen fame in "Alibi," appears opposite Miss Brent and gives a performance; admirable for its restraint and understanding. Perhaps the greatest surprise performance is given by a newcomer to he screen - Ralf Harolde, veteran player from the legitimate stage. Harolde's performance in the "heavy" role is one of the finest ever to grace the alking screen.

Minor roles are well handled by Maurice Black, William Holden and Robert Emmet O'Connor, George Archainbaud, the director, has given the film an atmosphere of tenseness and suspense that does not lag for a moment.

"Framed" is a talking screen achiev ment that should not be missed.

Popular Singing Star in Person at Adams

The opening of "Captain of the Guards" at the Adams theater Thursday brings the singing star of the production, John Boles, to that theater in person for two days of personal appearances.

This is the first time this popular singing star has appeared in Detroit, but the fan mail from this city which has been flooding the Universal studios since "The Desert Song" and "Rio Rita" assure him of a warm welcome by thousands of admirers.

"Captain of the Guard" in which Boles appears on the screen, is a dramatic musical spectacle of the French Revolution, Laura LaPlante plays opposite Boles.

It brings Charles Wakefield Cadman, America's foremost composer, to the singing screen for the first time with specially written songs which will become immensely popular because of their haunting melodies. And The Marseillaise itself, the dramatic national hymn of the French nation, is dramatized both in pictures and music to a height of intensity that sweeps every emotion before it. This has been caught for the screen by John S. Robertson, the famous motion picture director, who has suc-ceeded in picturizing not only the immortal march and the terrific battles themselves, but the spirit behind them which made them possible. And he has caught, too, the tremendous pathos

Monthly for Safety

A definite warning against inefficien orakes after a winter of hard usage is given by the Service Bureau of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation. The Aloma Theatre Bureau states that the majority of accidents, exclusive of bad judgment, occur because of inefficient brakes. Here is the Bureau's suggestion on how you may be sure your brakes are operating satisfactorily: "Take your car to an authorized service station and have the brakes regularly examined. Once each month is not too often. Correct all inequalities of brake gripping and be sure, if your brakes are of the mechanical type, that all brake rods and arms function smoothly and easily. If your brakes are of the hydraulic type, have them checked for leaks and low pressure. Many driving accidents could have been prevented if the driver had used good judgment and his brakes had properly responded. If replacement of the lining is needed, don't put it off, but protect yourself and others by keeping the brakes on your car in perfect working order. Be safe and have your brakes properly adjusted.

> The occasion was the driveaway of 102 Hupmobile sixes from the Cleveland plants of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation to Chicago. The trip from Chicago to Cleveland was made on a special train. The following day, after extensive trips through the company's factories in Cleveland, the return trip was started. An overnight stop was made in Toledo, the party reaching Chicago on the second day out.

Not a single accident marred the return trip. Based on the number of cars in the driveaway, approximately 40,000 new car miles were recorded. A Tally sheet disclosed that the cars had averaged nearly 15.4 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and that not a drop of oil had been added, while not a stop was made for mechanical adjustments of any kind. the superstition that an itching hand
