

GROSSE POINTE COUPLE KIDNAPED

Kidnappers Take Two From Summer Cottage "A. P." Dispatch Says

In an Associated Press dispatch to the Detroit Free Press early this week, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Thomas, described as being residents of Grosse Pointe, were reported kidnaped from their summer cottage at St. Ignace, Michigan, by four men who planned to bring them to Detroit and hold them for $12,000 ransom.

Residents Rally To Aid Waterfront Park

GROSSE POINTE SOCIETY

Miss Edith Jane Scotten arrived recently in Paris from Lausanne, Switzerland, to join her mother and sister, Mrs. Walter Scotten and Miss Ginnamary Scotten. They have since left for London and will motor in England the remainder of July, sailing for this country, July 30, on the De Grasse. They will go directly to their summer home, Playhouse, at Harbor Pointe, where Mrs. Scotten's sons, Oren and Walter, are sojourning, and will return to their Grosse Pointe home about the middle of September.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jay Louwers will entertain eight guests at a dinner Saturday, July 26, at their home on Hampton Road. Bridge will follow.

York Harbor, conceded to be one of the most charming resorts in Maine, and the summer home of many prominent Detroit residents, seems, if possible, more attractive this season than ever before.

One of the most beautiful estates is that of Mrs. Russell A. Alger, situated on Starboard Lane, and commanding one of the finest views in the Harbor, yet in the heart of the residential section. Conforming to her custom of several years Mrs. Alger will spend the summer here.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney T. Miller, Jr., who attended the wedding of Mrs. Miller's sister, Mrs. Alger Chaney, and D. Dwight Douglas, on July 5, have returned to Detroit but expect to be at the Harbor later in the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Scott Barbour, of Grosse Pointe Farms, are enjoying a vacation of several weeks at the Harbor and participating in many social events.

School Board Forces 15 Bond Salesmen to "Cool Heels" 3 Hours

Lacking a quorum with which to transact business at its regular meeting last Monday evening, the School Board forced some 15 bond salesmen to "cool their heels" for three hours while awaiting the arrival of another trustee to make the necessary quorum.

The bond salesmen, representing several of the leading financial houses of Detroit, were present at the meeting at the invitation of the Board to submit sealed bids on the purchasing of $120,000 school bonds necessary to complete the financing of construction of the Gabriel Richard school.

The salesmen were informed in notices sent to them by the Board that the time the meeting was to start was 7:30 p. m. The meeting actually got under way about 10:30 p. m., or three hours later.

During the three hours, the various bond salesmen protested to Fred Sutter, president of the Board, of the imposition being made on them by the Board, and sought to induce him to authorize the opening of the bids and the tabulation of them without the required quorum and then to decide on the bids at a later date when a quorum would be present.

On the advice of the School Board attorney, William Fitzpatrick, President Sutter refused to do this, stating that a motion on which a quorum must vote is necessary to permit even the opening of the bids.

A few minutes later Trustee Charles Poupard, who had been expected at 8:30 p. m. arrived. This was about 10:30 o'clock. Trustee John Watkins was absent during the entire meeting. Trustee J. Lee Barrett was present from the start of the session with Trustee Fred Sutter.

Dorn Files

William F. Dorn, attorney and editor of the Grosse Pointe Review, was among the several scores who filed petitions early this week with the county clerk for the nomination of State Representative of the first district at the primaries, September 9. The first district includes part of the city of Detroit and the entire Grosse Pointe Township.

60,000 Signatures on Petitions Filed For Judge L. Eugene Sharp

Judge L. Eugene Sharp formally entered the contest for reelection as circuit judge of Wayne county today when he filed his nominating petitions with the secretary of state at Lansing. His petitions carried 60,000 signatures, believed to be the largest number ever recorded for a circuit judge in the state.

Prior to his election to the circuit bench, Judge Sharp served as judge in the old justice court. In this capacity, he drafted the bill creating the Common Pleas court, which supplanted the justice court. The new tribunal with its conciliation division, where cases and claims up to $1000 are being heard and decided promptly, and with its jurisdiction up to $3000 has greatly relieved the congestion and difficulties of circuit court.

Justice Sharp was appointed to the justice court bench by the common council shortly after his return from service in the world war. He has been interested in veterans activities and has fought for old age pensions and a method of stabilizing employment through the cooperation of the government and industry.

He is a member of the American Bar association, the Detroit Bar association, has had 18 years experience as a lawyer, eight years as a judge, and has been admitted to practice in all state and federal courts. He is 45 years old.

Harry I. Dingeman to Seek Reelection as Drain Commissioner

Harry I. Dingeman, Country Drain Commissioner, Monday of this week filed nominating petitions to succeed himself in office.

Although the law only requires a candidate for drain commissioner to file about 3,500 names, Mr. Harry I. Dingeman's friends have secured a total in excess of 20,000 signatures of voters who wish him retained in his present office. Five thousand of these have been filed.

These petitioners base their desire for Mr. Harry I. Dingeman's re-election on the many economies in office and engineering procedure Mr. Dingeman has inaugurated in the County Drain office, which have and will save the County of Wayne many thousands of dollars.

North End Republican Club to Hold Excursion

There is something about a boat ride over sparkling sun-kissed waters that appeals to the city dweller. Especially when the destination is a cool green island, where hunger and thirst may be satisfied from stuffed lunch-baskets.

If you please, all of which is by way of announcing the 22nd annual excursion of the North End Republicans to Tashmo Park, on board the steamer Tashmo, Thursday, August 7th. The boat will leave the foot of Griswold street at 8:30 a. m.

And what is a Republican excursion without oratory? This year we have plenty of the best talent. What with the municipal political cauldron boiling over and the tate "kettle" simmering nicely, we have so many candidates ready and willing to bring their messages to the people—even as far as Tashmo—that we will have to limit each candidate to three minutes. We will not attempt here to give a list of the speakers. Suffice it to mention a few names like Alex Groesbeck, former governor, Senator Jim Couzens, "Our Bob" Clancy and Senator H. Person. These are men on the political firing line and they will give us the inside stories of their activities in state and national affairs.

There'll be lots of games and sports at the Island, with a long list of prizes worth winning, to go to the victors. Club ticket sellers will be on the job near the docks, at 8 a. m. sharp, on the 7th, if you do not secure tickets sooner. Let's all get away from the bugaboos of hectic civilization for one day. Bring the real "head of the family" and all the children. Pack a big lunch. Turn off the radio. Put the new model in the garage for the day and come away with us, far from recalls, unemployment, landlords, bill collectors and chain groceries for a real good frolic on old Tashmo's green-swarded bosom.

Capella Chorus

To sing a capella is to sing without an accompaniment. The term is applied, for example, to the chorus from Hampton college, Hampton, Va. It is said of this chorus that it sings a capella.

Neighborhood Club Activities

The children frequenting the Neighborhood Playgrounds were treated to a Candy Hunt last week, and such excitement as there was. Anyone interested in the welfare of children should pay a visit to the Club some day and watch the constructive and well organized recreation planned for these youngsters.

Through the co-operation of the various Fresh Air Camps and the Neighborhood Club, a number of boys and girls have been sent to the country for a ten-day vacation.

The Campfire and A. O. C. Girls of the Neighborhood Club returned Sunday from a week's camping at Ore Lake, Brighton, Michigan. While there the following girls passed their tests: Mary Vaughn, junior life saving; Muriel Badder, Edith Baker, Stella Verfaillie, Jean and Rita McKee, Mary Powell, Peggy Seaman, Dorothy Adams and Lois Poucher received their swimmer's buttons. These girls are to be complimented as many strenuous attempts were made before they finally received them. Outside of sunburns and mosquito bites a good time was reported and all expressed a desire to go again next year.

Following is the Tennis Schedule for the month of August:

- Grosse Pointe Championship Tournament, Mixed Doubles, August 4th. Grosse Pointe Championship Tournament, Men's Singles, August 17th. Grosse Pointe Championship Tournament, Men's Doubles, August 25th. Excellent trophies will be awarded the winners of the first three places in each event. These prizes are now on display in the window of the Kopp Pharmacy.

Following are the results of the games played July 16th by the Grosse Pointe Playground League: Limits 7, Frogs 5. Jolly Pals No. 2, 10, St. Clare 4. N. A. C. 8, Tigers 6. Kerchevals 10, Racquetters 2. Gardeners 2, Jolly Pals No. 1, 0. Standings of the various teams are as follows: (Continued on Page Three)

Park Residents Send Word of Endorsement; Garska Renews Appeal

Residents in the Park are responding in a most commendable fashion to the urgent request of Alfred Garska, president of the Park Council, for comments and expressions of opinion on the proposed "Waterfront Park in the Park." Nearly two score letters have been received to date by President Garska or members of the council and express in each instance the writer's pledge and whole hearted support to the undertaking.

As a result of the receipt of this cross section of overwhelming favorable opinion to the proposed "Waterfront Park," the necessary machinery is understood to be set in motion this week to take the preliminary steps involved in effecting the project. Several developments on the proposition and the progress to date are expected to be made known at an early date, according to President Garska.

Despite the favorable response of residents to his appeal for communications on the undertaking, President Garska is particularly anxious to hear from scores of others before anything really tangible is done. It is for that reason, he urges, that Park residents, interested in seeing a "Waterfront Park in the Park," should at once drop a line to the council or himself, stating their thoughts and feelings on the project. This, he repeats, should be done by every resident, and without further delay.

MRS. F. M. ALGER ANSWERS CHALLENGE OF PASTOR, PRAYER OPENS MEETING

A meeting of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frederick M. Alger, 17700 Jefferson Ave., Grosse Pointe Village, to endorse Dr. Burt R. Shurley in his stand taken on prohibition and to answer a challenge made by the Rev. Robert M. Atkins, pastor of the First Methodist Church, Birmingham, that the Organization open its meeting "with fervent prayer to God, in the name of Christ, that He grant the return of legalized liquor traffic."

In opening the meeting Mrs. Alger read verses from the sixth chapter of Matthew: "And when thou prayest, Thou shalt not be as the hypocrites are; for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the street that they may be seen by men. Verily, I say unto you, they have their reward."

The organization approved Dr. Shurley, who is president of the Detroit Board of Education, on his inaugural statement that "America's educational standards stand imperiled by the attempt to enforce prohibition."

"It required great courage for Dr. Shurley to take this stand," said Mrs. Alger.

Mrs. Charles A. Dean Jr., legislative chairman called attention to the remarkable increase in crime here in Detroit as compared to that of London, Eng. "Our taxes are going up and up," Mrs. Dean said, "while over in Canada they are building new roads and erecting new schools on the money that Americans spend on Canadian liquor. "It isn't that we advocate the use of liquor, it is that we advocate the use of common sense." (Continued on Page Two)

HEAT WAVE BRINGS "HOME" TO PARK RESIDENTS A LONG FELT NEED

While the thermometer held a steady ninety and upward, at what beach did you cool off? Oh—so? But wasn't it crowded at those public bathing beaches? Didn't you work up a perspiration worrying about the security of the kiddies as they played among the scrambled throng at the waterfront? Sure.

And while you labored under this strain, it is safe to wager that you sighed occasionally for a quiet, clean, well-guarded beach right in your own waterfront yard.

It isn't necessary to make frantic grasps at recreation on the production scale—life, as for instance, the grinding out of Fords—when you have a mile and a half of waterfront within your own community. It isn't necessary to spend recreative hours within the confines of your own front yard when you could enjoy a large beautifully landscaped park cooled by lake breezes and made fragrant by beds of cultured flowers.

Consider, for a moment, your neighbors, the Grosse Pointe Villagers. As you know they have a fine waterfront park where they can drop down on these warm summer evenings for a plunge in the cooling waters of the lake or lounge around on its sandy beach with all the privacy of a Mosque Temple. And what a convenience for those who own boats. Take an outboard, for example, or a couple outboards. Take a row boat—do you like fishing? By the way, where do you keep your boats? In the garage every night? The Villagers tie up their boats at night feeling quite secure that the same number will be there waiting for them in the morning.

The foregoing pictures are but a few of the delightful pleasures you could easily enjoy, if you but think them over and send your sentiments to Alfred Garska, president of the Park. He is promulgating a worthy project and needs your undivided support. Why not display your interest in the matter. Drop him a line expressing some constructive criticism on the subject. He will appreciate it.

Release of Suspects in Killing Denied

Nick "Diamond Bill" Dellabonda and Frank Salimone, charged with the murder of Patrolman Claude Lanstra and Edward Meyer, are held without bond today, following refusal of Judge Lester S. Moll in Circuit Court to quash the indictments against them.

The two officers were shot down the morning of June 1, when they attempted to question three men in an automobile believed to have figured in an accident. Dellabonda and Salimone were arrested a few minutes after the killing.

Anthony Mainello, attorney for the suspects, asked that the indictments be quashed on the ground police had not presented any conclusive evidence against the men.

Hudson's Seat Is Sought by Seven

The most sought after position is that of Rep. Grant M. Hudson, of East Lansing, in the Sixth District. Opposing Hudson for the Republican nomination are State Senator Seymour H. Person, of Lansing, Maud Sloum Moross, of Detroit, and Robert H. Cook, of Detroit. Patrick H. O'Brien, of Detroit, former circuit court judge of the 12th judicial district, is unopposed for the Democratic nomination, and Philip Raymond, of Detroit, for that of the Worker's Party. For the Socialist nomination, John Sweet, of Lincoln Park, and Axel O. Loundal of Detroit, will fight it out.

Assessment Blocked; Tax Increase Stopped

Legal action to delay and if possible prevent the State Highway Commissioner from proceeding with the Mack Ave widening project has been instituted in four separate suits, it was learned this week.

Edmund C. Vernier, supervisor of Grosse Pointe Township, as leader of the fight against the widening, has thrown the matter into the courts as also has a resident of Grosse Pointe Park, Grosse Pointe Village, also by Macomb County.

Each of the four suits is a separate cause of action seeking to enjoin the Highway Commissioner from going ahead with the work.

Pending the decision of either of the suits the special assessment involved in the project will not be levied against Grosse Pointe taxpayers, it is understood.

Villagers Avenge Defeat, Trounces Woodward A. C. Cole drives in 6 runs; hits "Homer"

The Villagers avenged themselves Sunday for the defeat handed them early in the season by the Woodward A. C. through the heavy hitting of Cole and Crandall, the former who has in the last few games acquired the reputation in Grosse Pointe that "Babe Ruth" holds in America's leading sport "professionally." In addition to his homer Sunday, he slammed out a triple and a single and was responsible for six of the runs his club scored.

In the sixth inning Jerome Van Becelaire, who is not in uniform because of a wrench back suffered in a game two weeks ago, attempted to coach the first base line. The opposing manager immediately made a protest, because of his attire. Manager Crandall was reluctant to abide by this rule, only after three of the opposing players were also made abide by the same rule. You cannot play ball "without a shirt." Next Sunday the Detroit Red Sox are here for a game at three o'clock.

"Gray Gables," scene of Dr. Enoch Mathers Successful Treatment of Cancer, Popular

It was the privilege as well as pleasure of the Review scribe to visit Dr. Enoch Mather as his commodious sanitarium, Gray Gables, Mount Clemens, the other day and to enjoy an hour or more with the veteran specialist in his cozy study. As the doctor specializes in the treatment of cancer our conversation naturally drifted to this subject.

Gray Gables, office and residence of Dr. Enoch Mather at Mount Clemens, Michigan, is an institution steadily growing in popularity for its successfulness in the treatment of cancer. It has become known far and wide to sufferers who are afflicted with cancer.

and chronic diseases and who disbelieve in surgical operations.

The first impression instilled upon one in arriving at Gray Gables is the homelike appearance of this institution. It has none of the appearances of a hospital with real institutional features, but is a real home inviting place with a home atmosphere, and while waiting in the doctor's waiting room you have none of the dread usually experienced in going to a hospital or doctor's office for treatment. Throughout the entire building the furnishings are in keeping with that of a real American home.

In selecting this location for Gray Gables Dr. Enoch Mather had the vision of someday being the possessor of a Garden of Eden in a natural sunken valley and after sixteen years in this present location he has worked wonders in transforming barren land into a (Continued on Page Two)

Looking over this hedge one can see the sunken garden running down the side of the building and across the rear of the institution. In conformity with the long spacious porch that faces the front of Gray Gables giving a fine view of Gratiot Avenue, the fine cement driveway in the rear with chairs and tables affords a lovely view of the sunken garden. Stepping stones and colorful walks lead down from this driveway into the garden below.

Due to Dr. Mather's prolonged study of Cancer and Chronic Diseases he has established a wonderfully large library. Nearly all the works published on Cancer are to be found in this library and a great many medical journals are received each month from this country and abroad and thus the doctor keeps up with the latest ideas that are formulated in the treatment of these malignant diseases.

With his ever increasing amount of practice Dr. Mather has had to add to his amount of office space. In doing this the doctor has added specially equipped rooms for various modes of treatment, such as a room for electro-therapeutic treatments, one for mechano-therapeutics, one for medicinal dressings, etc. The doctor of late years has made a special study of the benefits to be derived from various light rays and has some of the latest electro-therapeutic equipment installed in his offices. He has found the actinic and ultra-violet rays of especial value in conjunction with medical treatment in various types of malignant diseases.

Dr. Mather's dispensary with its thousands of bottles of drugs also shows the amount of money and study in research in medical treatment he has spent in formulating methods of medical treatment to combat cancerous growths; etc. If the treatment rooms there is noticed much special equipment for handling the type of cases that daily confront the doctor for medical treatment. When not in his medical offices treating come sufferer of malignant ailments the doctor is most likely to be found in his chemical and research laboratories, with his son who is a graduate chemist and is in charge of the pathological laboratory work of Gray Gables.

In meeting Dr. Mather one is impressed with meeting a man much younger than one would think the doctor is. Dr. Enoch Mather though seventy-two looks to be a man of sixty, and is very energetic for his age.

He is the son of a former English physician, James Mather, M. D., C. M. and began to specialize in cancer when he was an assistant to his father in the early eighties. After leaving England and coming to the United States he took several post-graduate courses with the intention of furthering his skill in treating cancer and malignant diseases. Through years of intensive study the doctor has met with the most gratifying results in the eradication of these diseases and his list of successful cures is ample reward for his years of faithful study.

Through successful treatments and honorable dealings with his patients Dr. Enoch Mather has built up a wonderful reputation and practice at Gray Gables and this institution is receiving many new cases daily, most cases of which have been recommended by satisfied and grateful patients who have been benefited by the doctor's treatment.

Recently one of the issues of the Mid-West Homeopathic News Journal that carried an article written by Dr. Enoch Mather had the following to say regarding him:

We wish to draw your attention to Dr. Enoch Mather in this issue. Dr. Mather has had considerable experience in the treatment of chronic diseases and cancer, both in this country and Europe. The doctor is the son of the late Dr. James Mather and was brought up in a medical atmosphere. Treating the sick is therefore an inherited science with the doctor.

Dr. Mather was formerly treasurer of the American Cancer Research Society and also one of the staff of the Cancer Research Laboratory and Hospital. These give him considerable experience in the practice of cancer. His offices are in Gray Gables at Mount Clemens, Mich.

Dr. Mather has contributed more than any other single individual toward this journal in money and also moral support. He deserves all the publicity we are giving him.

"Framed" Bring New Thrills to The Aloma

New talking picture thrills for local audiences are promised today when "Framed," Radio Pictures' stirring drama, opens its engagement at the Aloma theater Sunday and Monday.

Startlingly different in theme and powerful in presentation, "Framed" is said to be a most unusual picture. The drama has been heralded as one of the best films of the year by critics and audiences in cities where it has been shown previously, and advance indications are that local theatergoers will find it a most absorbing picture.

Evelyn Brent, feminine lead in "Underworld," "Interference," "Fast Company," "Slightly Scarlet" and other notable films, is featured along with Regis Toomey, who scored sensationally in "Alibi" and "Street of Chance." It is said that Miss Brent and Toomey form one of the most capable teams ever seen in talking pictures.

Radio Pictures has drawn heavily from the Broadway legitimate stage for the remainder of the cast. Ralf Harolde, cast as the "heavy," is a noted stage favorite and plays his role in a strikingly effective manner. Other competent players from the stage and screen include Maurice Black, William Holden, Robert O'Connor and Eddie Kane.

"Framed" is an original screen story by Paul Schofield. Wallace Smith, noted newspaper feature writer and journalist, wrote the adaptation and dialog.

George Archambaud, a French director who has had unusual success in both the silent and talking picture field, directed the film. It is interesting to note that Archambaud was the first person in film circles to realize that Evelyn Brent gave promise of becoming an outstanding dramatic actress.

"Framed," opening today, will continue at the local theater for an engagement of two days.

Norma Shearer Will Be on Hollywood Bill

Norma Shearer, called by many the outstanding actress of the talking screen, comes to the Hollywood Sunday in her latest comedy-drama, "Let Us Be Gay," in which she has the generous support of that irrefragable clown, Marie Dressler. Together, these two outstanding artists along with a splendid cast offer one of the most popular pictures of the season. It had an engagement of five weeks downtown.

"Let Us Be Gay" tells of a devoted but very plain wife who loses her husband to a gay vamp. She is broken hearted but goes to Paris, where she learns sly and sophisticated. When she comes back and accidentally meets her husband at a house party highly amusing and emotional events transpire. Miss Dressler plays the role of an eccentric old dowager who battles with servants, guests and everyone who crosses her path. Her performance is one of the best she has ever turned in.

The Hollywood Merry-makers, popular dance orchestra, will be heard again in new selections as well as in solo novelties and on the stage there will be another superlative program of big time vaudeville acts. Bob Clarke will play one of his regular and popular "sings." The short subjects include a comedy, "Accidents Will Happen," and a Graham McNamee news reel.

As usual, the Hollywood theater management will give away free two Ford tudors, one on Friday and one on Saturday at 8:45 each evening.

The Hollywood theater proves to be a veritable summer resort with its $160,000 refrigeration plant.

Safeguard Against Poison
Bottles of poison may be made less dangerous for householders by having pins stuck into their corks as a warning device, suggests the national safety council in Chicago. Although many druggists now sell poisonous substances in bottles distinguishable either by peculiar shape or sharp points, nevertheless the average home has various deadly chemical compounds such as rat poisons and disinfectants which are kept unmarked in the pantry or bathroom, says Popular Science Monthly. Many cases of fatal poisoning occur each year, the council states, because of carelessness in handling drugs in the home.

If the corks of all poison bottles were studded with good-sized pins they probably would make the user examine the bottle before sampling the contents.

America's Gift to Victoria
H. M. S. Resolute, forming part of the expedition sent in search of Sir John Franklin in 1852, was abandoned in latitude 74 degrees 41 minutes north, longitude 101 degrees 22 minutes west, on the 15th of May, 1854, says an article in Pathfinder Magazine. She was discovered and extricated in September, 1855, in latitude 67 degrees north by Captain Biddington, of the United States whaler, George Henry. The ship was purchased, fitted out and sent to England as a gift to her majesty Queen Victoria, by the President and people of the United States, as a token of good will and friendship.

"Valentine" Serip
The Land Office says that a number of years ago Thomas B. Valentine was given title to some land, which for one reason or another he did not take up. The government then issued to him serip, which was to be used for land in some other section in the country, and this came to be known as "Valentine serip." Each certificate was for a 40 acre tract of land, and the serip was assignable by Valentine. This was perhaps the only serip which may be used on unsurveyed land, and for that reason was very desirable.

Making Plants Luminous
It is stated that a German gardener has discovered a plan for injecting phosphorous into plants, thus making them luminous at night. The experiment was demonstrated at the Berlin flower show, when a large number of cacti, of all shapes and sizes were inoculated, and that, as the luminous quality concentrates in the spines, they appeared to be dotted with brilliant points of light that radiate in the darkness like glow worms.

"Dare to be yourself. Be individual," writes a correspondent to Farm and Fireside. "Too long energy and talent have been wasted in doing as the neighbors do."

Scientists Unable to Cope With the Locust
Scientists have studied the locust for centuries. They still do not understand the inspiration of its migrations or the irregular abundance of the insects. Where do such armies come from? They have flown in solid phalanxes from Africa to England; swarms have been seen at sea twelve hundred miles from the nearest land. Apparently most of them remain for years in remote desert regions; then something within them impels the advance upon man's gardens.

The gulls once saved Salt Lake City from a locust invasion, and the grateful citizens raised a monument to their winged saviors. In the old days our plains farmers kept flocks of turkeys, regarded as the locusts' mightiest enemies. But apparently the plow was more potent still, for when the plains went into cultivation the great breedings of the locusts ended, and the Rocky mountain locust that ravaged the prairie states in the 70s and 80s is a rare insect today. The Russians have had some success with poison gas distributed by airplane; but airplanes are not always readily available when the swarms begin to fly. In most of the Arab countries today a flight of locusts is still as appalling as in the day of Joel.

Carthage Made Great by Its Able Leaders

Ancient Carthage was the world's first experiment in straight plutocracy. Its frame of government was much similar to that of Rome. Its ruling families governed through a senate, checked in one way or another by a popular assembly. Some of the ruling families kept power by alliance with the public, but what really made the city great was the ability of a few men, many of them of the Barcid family—Hanno, Hamilcar, Hasdrubal and, above all, Hamilbal.

Yet the spirit of the city differed from that of Rome. Its people were at once more oriental and more commercial. Its religion was a weird affair, with the sacrificing of children to the burning mouth of a god. And its trading spirit went so far as to weaken its strength. Its mercenaries were good fighters, while they were paid, but in the end the Roman legion, manned by citizens of the republic, brought them to the ground.

Frascati and Tusculum
One of the most delightful excursions from Rome is south to Frascati and Tusculum. This section is higher than Rome, and cooler, so it has become a favorite summer resort for Romans and foreigners alike. There are many beautiful villas owned by famous Roman families, and often the public is admitted to the gardens of ancient trees and spashing fountains, and to the interior courtyards and galleries. It is a hard climb to see them all, so many people prefer to hire "little donkeys" before leaving Frascati. The road to Tusculum was built by the ancient Romans—Cicero's chariot used often to pass over it on the way to his summer place, and all the patricians came this way to the theater which is in a fine state of preservation to this day.

Philosophic Fable
Once upon a time there was a man who discovered that he could run faster from a Lion than he could after a Rabbit. One day while marveling over the fact that the Rabbit always got away when he chased it, and that in escaping from a Lion he always ran faster than any Rabbit was ever known to run, it came to him that if he could only be chasing bunnies at the same time that he was fleeing Lions he would always be able to capture the one at the same time that he was getting away from the other.

After that he always had Rabbit Stew for dinner any day he got between a Lion and a Rabbit, and he went looking for Lions every day.—Kansas City Times.

Mankind's Duty
There is nothing lost in doing good, nor is there lack of wisdom in cloud or light. They are all above us and beyond us, and for them we are not to account, but the talent given in our keeping, we are held to render its return with something added. Progress is the law of life, and progress is the product of doing. Our work is here and it is within our grasp and power to do our best. We cannot advance in this life, by asking that our work be done for us, nor if we possessed untold wealth would we be content.—Sparks.

Historic Colonial Mansion
The Wythe house in Williamsburg, Va., was the home of George Wythe, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. He was the first professor of law in America, teaching at the College of William and Mary. Among his pupils were John Marshall, Thomas Jefferson and James Monroe. It was in the George Wythe house that George Washington, with Lafayette and Rochambeau, planned the battle of Yorktown.

All in the Spacing
Printers have much to answer for. Ella Wheeler Wilcox had opened a certain set of verses with one of her cosmic lines, typical of her style: "My soul is a lighthouse keeper," but the printer in setting it up caused it to read: "My soul is a light housekeeper."—Kansas City Star.

Horace Heidt on Fisher Stage

The Fisher theater, continuing its series of greater movie season smashes, has corralled the latest music entertainment sensation, Horace Heidt and his Californians, for a weeks in person on the stage.

This great jazz organization, which not only plays and sings, but puts on spicily dances, novelty piano numbers and an entire whoopee show, have to their credit records and Vitaphone star short subjects.

With them is Lobo, the super intelligent dog, who helps Heidt in a series of mystic maneuvers which have amazed and thrilled audiences both on Broadway and in European capitals.

On the screen at the Fisher is Bebe Daniels in "Lawful Larceny." With Miss Daniels in this sensational screen hit taken from the stage play, are Lowell Sherman, Kenneth Thompson and Olive Tell.

Sanibel Benavie conducts the Fisher symphony in a new novelty overture, and Arsenel Siegel furnishes a new organ specialty. Sound and talking newsreels and screen specialties add to the cool Fisher program.

Mrs. F. F. Alger Answers Pastor

(Continued from Page One) of liquor, we don't. But we are seriously trying to fight the abuse of it. I voted for prohibition and now I see my error. I'm going to try to make up for it.

Mrs. Dean touched upon the recent outbreak of gang warfare attributing its cause to the infringement of one gang on the territory of another. She said that these wholesale killings will continue until some innocent bystander is shot and then the masses will begin to wake up.

The meeting was attended by representatives from Detroit, Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills, Ann Arbor, and Hamtramck. An effort is being made to concentrate their activities upon the dry sixth district which includes Detroit, Highland Park, Bloomfield Hills and Hamtramck, to change the representative to Congress from this district.

Mrs. Alger mentioned the present form of the American Speakeasy: "These speakeasies are the worst possible form of the saloon. They allow minors in them, something the old saloons never did.

"We don't want the old form of saloon back, however, but we do ask for a governmentally regulated sale of liquor such as they have in Canada. "The women have thought very honestly about this matter and what we aim for, in our efforts to obtain a repeal of the eighteenth amendment, is an end to tyranny, hypocrisy, and deceit."

Use of Ducking Stool Common in Old Times

The ducking stool was never in the New England colonies very common. It was used more extensively in the Southern colonies, especially Virginia.

There is a record of a woman who was unfortunately drowned while being ducked. The ordinary practice in ducking was to submerge the duckee for about a half minute.

Barthelmess Air Drama at Paramount Theater

Unforgettable men and boys moving in a dramatic panorama—a tense story moving smoothly and told tellingly—thrilling action on the ground and in the air—Richard Barthelmess in a characterization radically differing from anything he has done heretofore—these are the highlights of "The Dawn Patrol," the first National-Vitaphone production now at the Paramount theater.

Never has the star, Barthelmess, given such a vivid portrayal. Never has he appeared in anything as gripping and sheerly dramatic. And this is saying a great deal coming as it does close upon the heels of such splendid offerings as "Weary River," "Drag," and "Son of the Gods."

"The Dawn Patrol" relates the story of a group of youthful flyers in the Royal Flying Corps. The time is 1915 and the situation concerns these inexperienced youths taken from school, placed in antiquated planes and sent up to almost certain death against better equipped and more experienced German aces. It is a new phase of war—a new story to tell audiences.

"Hold Everything" at the Punch and Judy

The most scintillating dialogue in the history of the talking picture is a feature of "Hold Everything," the Warner Bros. and Vitaphone production which is coming to the Punch and Judy Theater Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July 29, 30 and 31.

A portion of these sparkling lines was incorporated in the original stage play by D. E. Sylva and John McGowan, and the remainder was contributed by Robert Lord, who adapted the play for the motion picture screen.

The dialogue keeps the audience in a continual roar of laughter, and the librettist is given able assistance by the comedy talents of Joe E. Brown and Winnie Lightner, two of the funniest players of filmdom. As the two lovers who are continually flying at each other's throats, this great comedy team is a positive riot of merriment.

Other prominent parts in "Hold Everything" are played by Georges Carpentier and Sally O'Neil, while supporting members of the cast include Edmund Breese, Dorothy Revier, Jack Curtis and Bert Roach. Roy Del Ruth directed.

Ronald Colman at The United Artists

Ronald Colman as that most fascinating of all gentlemen crooks, Raffles, is the attraction at United Artists theater. Samuel Goldwyn presents this United Artists picture as a successor to "Bulldog Drummond," in which the famous English star perpetuates his allegiance to detective thrillers.

"Raffles," is Colman's third successive criminal talking film. The first, "Bulldog Drummond," revealed Colman in pursuit of criminals. The second, "Confessions," showed him convicted, held in the tropic fastness of Devil's Island. "Raffles," the third, shows him as an amateur criminal, desperately trying to elude the law.

Kay Francis, she of the dark eyes and the glossy black hair and the quaintly upturned nose, is Colman's leading lady in the picture. Which, incidentally, will show Colman making love to a brunette for the first time in many years, six to be exact. Blondes there have been—Ann Harding, Joan Bennett, Vilma Banky, Lily Damita, Lillian Gish and Constance Talmade, but not a brunette until Producer Goldwyn picked Miss Francis.

Even though it was very warm last Friday afternoon, we discovered cool lands far away from the heat where the "Snow Bride" lived. Everyone was fascinated by her cold exciting experiences. Then from the corner of the playground came a group of Fairy Book People and we saw how the mean witch sent the Beauty to sleep for one hundred years and how a dear Prince came to rescue her.

Now wasn't the Princess lovely in her cunning costume, and didn't our Prince look handsome in his feathered cap and swaggar jacket. When we came back to reality several boys and girls danced and sang for us. You know we have a great deal of talent, it only has to be discovered. Then we hunted for the candy and gave the prizes to the finders of the largest amount of candy.

This coming Friday afternoon at the park and expect to have lots of fun there. We will have our Story Hour, songs and entertainment, as well as swimming for those who care to go in the water. Now if you will bring a small lunch box with enough sandwiches, and other things you can conveniently pack for your own self, we will have a picnic supper and return home about seven o'clock. Won't that be fun? Indeed it will! Come and join us and enjoy the good time with us. We shall meet at the Neighborhood Club Friday afternoon, about half past one o'clock to leave for the park. We are expecting you all.

Spanish Homes Of all the Mediterranean styles of architecture in use today, there is probably none more popular or better known, especially for residential purposes, than the Spanish with its life and color.

The Spanish, having apparently been a home-loving race, developed their residential architecture to a higher degree than any other type of building. Where the Greek masterpieces are found in religious buildings, as is the case in most historical styles, the Spanish seem to have studied architecture from a livable point of view. Their principal contribution being residential, the Spanish house was designed for its owner's comfort in every way possible.

Stone Newspapers

Newspapers in the form of large stone tablets have been discovered during excavations at Ostia, in Italy. One is said to record the death of Pompey in 49 B. C., and the will of Julius Caesar with his bequests to the people of Rome. Because of his dispatches from the war in Gaul, Caesar is often called the father of Journalism, but it seems that Cicero, born in 106 B. C., has a greater claim to his distinction. Cicero used to post in the galleries of his villa at Tusculum a record or journal of the passing events of note, with a list of births, deaths, and marriages. From a letter of Cicero's it is known that he used a system of abbreviated writing.

"Underground Railway"

The name of the system used to help slaves to freedom, the "Underground Railway" arose from the exaggerated use of railway terms in reference to the conduct of the system. Levi Coffin and Robert Purvis were the presidents of the road. Various routes were known as lines, stopping places were called stations, those who aided the system were called conductors, and the slaves were referred to as packages or freight. The system reached from Kentucky and Virginia across Ohio, and from Maryland across Pennsylvania and New York or New England.

"Old Nick" in Ireland

Because Ireland is the island of the saints, the Irish are not afraid of the devil, though he has left his mark in many parts of the Emerald Isle. In beautiful Wicklow is the Devil's Glen, cut out by the angry snatching of Old Nick's tail when he failed to lure a Tipperary maiden from her convent. In Tipperary is the Devil's Bit—a huge bite taken out of the mountain range and spat down to the plain below, where it still stands as the Rock of Cashel. Then, of course, in Killarney is the Devil's Punch Bowl—but all it contains in these days is pure water.

Ancient Counterfeiters

Money forging was a flourishing business among the ancient Romans, judging from finds at Treves, Prussia, of tools and matrices for the coining of denarii. Excavations brought to light a great many matrices and castings made of bronze which were used to manufacture these silver coins. Proof that these implements, dating back to between 200 and 300 A. D., were tools of money forgers, is established by the fact that there was then no official mint at Treves.

"Run-Off" Affects Water Power

In the study of the matter of rainfall, it has been gradually realized that the "run-off" calls for just as much investigation as has been found that the "run-off" is an even more variable factor than the rainfall itself. The "run-off" is that part of rain water that runs down the stream for generating hydro-electrical power. This "run-off" is not a fixed percentage. When the rainfall is very dry it absorbs all the water and there is no "run-off." When the rainfall is saturated, every drop of rain runs off. Thus, when a severe drought strikes a well watered area, usually well watered, the drop in "run-off" is much more pronounced than the shrinkage in precipitation. All of this has been known in a general way, but it has taken a prolonged dry spell to make it really appreciated, and water power plants that were planned from rainfall records with proper allowance for the still greater fluctuations in "run-off" have suffered.

Wright Brothers Showed Genius in Early Years

According to the first biography of the inventors, "The Wright Brothers: Fathers of Flight," by John R. McMahon, they showed their inventive minds at an early age. When Orville was ten and Wilbur fourteen they constructed a wood-turning lathe out of lumber from the wood pile, parts from an old buggy and marbles for ball bearings. His power plant was a foot treadle long enough to accommodate the feet of six boys. When Orville was seventeen and Wilbur twenty-one they built a printing press with a second-hand typewriter as the flat bed. Their first revolutionary discovery was made from a cardboard box from which Wilbur had just sold a bicycle inner tube. Orville had previously concluded that lateral balance would be necessary to successful flight. As his brother twisted the sides of the box he evolved the very principle they had been seeking. This became the warping which, in its present form of aileron, is essential to the sidewise balance of airplanes.

Insect Resembles Leaf

The walking leaf, an insect species the female in which has disguised herself to resemble a leaf, probably more cleverly than any other, comes originally from the island of Ceylon, but has been used in Europe, whence eggs have been imported to America. When the young emerge from the eggs they are very active and a bright red color, says Nature Magazine. They do much walking about, but do not begin to eat until they are about one week old. A week later they have begun to turn brown and by the time a fortnight has passed the females are green, which color they maintain until they perish. The older and larger they get—and they grow to be four inches long—the more do they resemble a leaf. In their native country they feed on tea leaves and leaves of certain species of lemon trees.

Planned Great Memorial

Nearly 80 years ago a Santo Domingo, Don Antonio Delmonte y Tejada, conceived the idea of a fitting memorial to Columbus. His proposal was: "Let us erect in the most visible and notable place in America, in a central point and where it may be visited by travelers as they approach her shores, the statue that his greatness and remembrance demand. Let this statue be a colossus like that of Rhodes, and let it be designed by the best sculptor available and with funds raised by popular subscription in all the cities of Europe and America, and let this statue have its arms extended and pointing to one and the other of the American continents."

Prickings of Conscience

The first contribution to the national conscience fund was made in 1811. Money received for this fund is not carried on the books of the Treasury department as such, but is listed as miscellaneous receipts. The amounts sent in range from two cents for a person who failed to put a stamp on a letter when mailed, to several thousand dollars from persons who smuggled goods into the United States without paying import duty. Usually the sums sent are small. The total amount sent in now amounts to about $578,000.

A Prompt Suggestion

"What can I do," roared the fiery orator during a demonstration, "when I see my country going to ruin, when I see our oppressors' hands at our throats, strangling us, and the black clouds of hopelessness and despair gathering on the horizon to obliterate the golden sun of prosperity? What, I ask you, what can I do?" "Sit down!" shouted the audience. —Toronto Globe.

Tropical Animals That Once Lived in Britain

There are many mammals in our zoological gardens which we look upon as strange beasts and associate with tropical countries, or places quite as remote. But many of these great creatures were at one time roaming over the forests, mountains, and plains of Britain, for in those far-off days our country was joined to Europe, so that many animals in their treks found shelter here.

At one time the hippopotamus was fairly common in and on the borders of our rivers. This huge creature was to be found on most of the English and many of the Welsh rivers south of Lancashire and Durham. In that distant age, known as the Pleistocene epoch, before the glacial episodes, the hippopotamus traveled north as far as Yorkshire, and this animal was identical with the African species of the present day.

In the earlier Pliocene epoch a gigantic swine, as large as the tapir, reached England, and it may have lingered on to the time when man first took up his abode here, but with this exception the wild boar is the only wild pig that we know to have frequented this country. The latter remained in the great forests to the end of the Seventeenth century, the last recorded specimen being killed in Staffordshire in 1683.—London Tit-Bits.

Salt Important Part in Rites of Sacrifice

The first accredited mention of salt appears in the first books of Moses, where it is referred to as an essential part in many of the sacrifices of the Jews. The most familiar Bible reference to salt is in Genesis ix, 26, in which Lot's wife was turned into a pillar of that valuable commodity—probably to the great enjoyment of the goats, sheep and cattle of that district.

The next most familiar Bible reference to salt is that in Matthew v, 13—"If the salt has lost his savor, wherewith shall it be salted?" Other references in the New Testament are Mark ix, 49-50, and Colossians iv, 6. Homer, 800 years before Christ, speaks of salt in the Greek sacrificial rites; no sacrifice was complete without it. Herodotus, who was born in 484 B. C., says the Egyptians ate salted food, including raw fish that was first steeped in brine and then sun-dried. They must have been exactly like the Gloucester salt fish of today, or the Provincetown scull-joes. The Egyptians also ate raw duck and quail, salted in similar fashion.—Boston Globe.

Colonial Architecture

When speaking of Colonial buildings, none should be included of a date later than 1776. In New England most of the buildings of Colonial times were of wood and were built by carpenters who were also shipbuilders. These artisans developed a style that had a flavor of its own, and differed in many respects as to detail from that done in New York, where the settlers had a Dutch background, which was again different from the English background of New England. The Colonial style of Pennsylvania is characterized by sturdiness and solidity. Most of the buildings were of brick or stone and the detail was not so delicate as that of New England.

Buffalo Bill Preferred

Warren accompanied his parents on a visit to his grandmother's house. After dinner he wished to go outside and play with Shep, a big dog belonging to the family next door. However, when his grandmother asked whether he would like her to tell him some stories, he eagerly agreed. "Now," said his grandmother, "do you want me to tell you about Little Red Riding Hood or Cinderella or the Gingerbread Man?" Warren moved uneasily in his chair and then replied: "Well, grandma, if you don't know any stories about Buffalo Bill, I think I'd rather play with Shep."

Historic American Flag

The flag which floated over Fort McHenry in 1814 and inspired Francis Scott Key to write "The Star Spangled Banner," is in the National museum in Washington. It was preserved by Col. George Armistead, the commander of the fort during the bombardment, and was bequeathed to his daughter, Georgianna, and presented by her son, Eben Appleton, to the museum. The flag at present is about 28 by 34 feet in size, and in accordance with the regulation design of the United States flag during the War of 1812-14 has 15 stars and 15 stripes.

Bible and the Ballot Box

An amusing election incident is reported from Gablonz, in Czechoslovakia there is compulsory voting. The drawback is that it deprives citizens of the opportunity of expressing by abstention their indifference to the candidates. One voter, however, wrote across his paper: "Isaiah xli, 24." The authorities consulted a Bible and read: "Behold, ye are of nothing, and your work of nought: an abomination is he that chooses you."

Discouraged

Martha Anne, a first grade pupil, came home from school a little tired and vexed. Things had not gone to suit her, for this is what she told her mother: "Well, if I had my life to live over, I certainly wouldn't go to school."

Cohens and Kellys in Scotland" at Punch and Judy Theater

A Cohen is always a Sidney, but a Kelly is several people.

This condition was revealed when "The Cohens and Kellys in Scotland," rollicking Irish-Jewish comedy coming to the Punch and Judy theater Friday and Saturday, July 25 and 26, went into production at Universal City.

For the fourth time George Sidney was Cohen and Vera Gordon was Mrs. Cohen. And for the fourth time Kate Price was Mrs. Kelly. But she found herself married again to her first husband in the "Cohens and Kellys" series, having been wedded to two other Kellys in the interim.

For Charlie Murray, the Kelly of "The Cohens and Kellys," the first of the famous series, again appeared in the role of Kelly. In the second picture, "The Cohens and Kellys in Paris," Miss Price had J. Farrell MacDonald for spouse. In "The Cohens and Kellys in Atlantic City," Mack Swain played the role.

"Redemption" at Punch and Judy July 27 and 28

Following the unprecedented popularity of John Gilbert and Renee Adoree as a screen pair in both "The Big Parade" and "The Cossacks," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is said to have cost its eye about for a vehicle for these two players which would be a worthy successor to the forenamed productions.

Information is that officials of the company, following a prolonged study of scenarios, manuscripts, novels and plays, returned like the prodigal son, to the source of two of its former successes, namely to the Russian novelist and playwright, Lyof Tolstoi, author of "The Cossacks" and the Gilbert-Garbo picture, "Love." The work chosen was the drama, "The Living Corpse," the screen adaptation being made by Dorothy Farnum. It is this vehicle under the revised title of "Redemption," which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is presenting Sunday and Monday, July 27 and 28, at the Punch and Judy theatre, as John Gilbert's new starring and all-talking production.
