Urge "Yes" Vote on Reapportionment Nov. 4th

Voters in Pointe to Join County in Plan for Reapportionment

Grosse Pointers are being urged on all sides these days to vote "yes," November 4, on the proposition to be found on the ballot that day which provides for a reapportionment of membership in the State legislature every ten years on the basis of the State's population.

"The problem that faces us today," says Rep. Joseph C. Armstrong, chairman of the Wayne County delegation to the Legislature, "is whether the people of industrial Michigan can be aroused to the point where they will walk three blocks to cast one ballot for the same principle."

"Wayne County has 21 members in the House of Representatives of the State Legislature. On the basis of the 1930 census and the Constitution of Michigan, the County is entitled to 39. The County has seven members in the State Senate, and on the basis of population and Constitution it is entitled to ten.

"The Constitution says the Legislature shall effect a reapportionment of its membership every ten years on the basis of the State's population. But a majority of the Legislature, representing a minority of the State's citizens, is opposed to reapportionment because it would reduce their power. Therefore the Legislature ignores the Constitution.

Mrs. Robert O. Lord's chauffeur, Leon Blitnik, 20 years old, was electrocuted early this week when he grasped a high tension wire while trimming trees on the Lord estate, located at 17 McKinley road, Grosse Pointe Farms.

The chauffeur was seen by a neighbor to fall about 15 feet to the ground. And alarm was sounded and police and fire departments responded and worked unsuccessfully on him for an hour. It was the belief of the police that he was apparently dead before he struck the ground.

WEST VIRGINIA SOPHOMORE STARS

These West Virginia sophomore stars comprising the mainstay of the "Mountaineers" eleven which engages University of Detroit's "titan" at the U. of D. stadium, Friday night, October 17, have a hard task cut out for themselves. So far this season, Detroit has demonstrated versatility and deception in its effective attack as well as its being a powerful defensive aggregation and Friday's game will find two balanced and fighting teams matched for battle on the illuminated gridiron. It will be the last night game of the season at the U. of D. Stadium, located at Six Mile road and Livernois avenue. Tickets for the game may be purchased at the All-American Sport Shop, 14409 East Jefferson avenue, Lenox 1919, and at the stadium.

U. OF D. PLAYS "MOUNTAINEERS" IN SEASON'S FINAL NIGHT GAME

In its final night football game of the season the University of Detroit will engage West Virginia U., Friday evening, October 17, at the U. of D. Stadium. To successfully turn back the Mountaineers, Detroit will need all the defensive strength which it displayed against the hard running Grinnell aggregation last week in holding its charges for four successive downs on the 2-yard stripe.

At the beginning of last year's contest in Morgantown, West Virginia swept the Titans off their feet with a powerful overhead attack which almost resulted in a score. This was due to

Jack Holt in Crook Drama at Hollywood

"The Squealer," one of the most thrilling of recent underworld stories, and starring the popular Jack Holt, is the all-talking screen attraction at the Hollywood theater beginning Sunday and running four days. This picture has a most unusual angle, as Mr. Holt as the big bump-em-off man leads his wife to believe he is a highly respected business man—although his neglect finally arouses her suspicions. Dorothy Revier as his wife and little Davey Lee, the Jolson discovery, play important roles. The performance of Za Su Pitts in a comedy role is also one of the gems of "The Squealer."
 Heading the big stage revue in an elaborate act from Jules and Josie Walton, with their big company, presenting a singing, dancing and comedy offering. Russ and Jerry in "Whoop-dee Cowboy" fill the auditorium with merriment and Sylvester and McAllister with their comedy and novelty act "Surprise of 1930" also keep the audience in a state of riotous mirth. Eddie Loughton continues to lead the Hollywood Merry-makers in new and popular tunes, besides presenting some of his own specialties. Bob Clarke will be heard in one of his organ songs, while the shorts on the screen offer a Laurel and Hardy comedy, "The Murder Case" and news reel.
 As usual the Hollywood theater will give two free Fords this week, one Friday, the other Saturday at 8:45 each evening.

VOLUME OF LATE CROPS IN STATE BELOW AVERAGE OF RECENT YEARS

Lansing, Michigan—The volume of late crops being harvested by Michigan farmers this fall is considerably below the average of recent years, according to the estimates released today by the office of the Agricultural Statistician. Although spring grains yielded well above average, the late crops, with the exception of grapes and pears, were reduced by the drought which continued practically unbroken in many localities from the latter part of July until late September. Rainfall during the past month was more than one inch below normal for the Lower Peninsula, and in many sections, it came too late to be of much benefit to the potato crop. Harvesting of beans and fall fruits has progressed rapidly during September due to favorable conditions and the advanced nature of the season.

Holt and Graves Razz Each Other in Picture

Jack Holt and Ralph Graves, having "razzed," kidded and fought each other under the sea and in the air via "Submarine" and "Flight," now transfer their activities to a new locale in Columbia's sensational dramatic offering "Hell's Island," which will be at the Punch and Judy theater Sunday and Monday, October 19 and 20.
 The Sahara desert, the oasis of Bell-Abbas, Tunis, Morocco, Algiers and the grim colony of French Guiana provide the backgrounds for a drama that offers an amount of thrills equal to the past Columbia hits featuring this most popular team of players. The thrills, however, are of an entirely different nature.
 Messrs. Holt and Graves portray two adventurous Americans serving in the famous French Foreign Legion. Dorothy Sebastian is seen as the vivacious miss, who forms the apex of the triangle which transforms a carefree friendship into a bitter enmity. The transition of the plot graduates from light comedy to grim drama building up to a climax of powerful intensity.
 Spectacular scenes of the campaign of the Foreign Legion of France against the warlike Riff tribes provide action of the most thrilling kind.

French Farce at the Fisher Theater

"The Matrimonial Bed," latest Warner Bros. and Vitaphone production is at the Fisher theater. This adaptation of the hilarious French farce by M. Yves Mirande and M. Mouzey-Eon enjoyed a phenomenal run in Paris, and is being received with loud acclaim in this country.
 It is an unusual and racy version of the many stories of husbands who have left home for one reason or another, returning to find their wives remarried. M. Adolphe Noblet, in the case in which he is supposed to have been killed in a railroad accident five years before the story opens. His wife is happily married and the mother of a child by the second husband.
 M. Noblet reappears as a man dressed, pursued by many ladies. He one day is summoned to his former home, which he has completely forgotten. His wife notices his resemblance to her first partner, and husband number two resents the interest which he does not understand. A hypnotist secretly restores Noblet's memory, to the point where the accident occurred. He now believes himself wed to his first wife and fails to recall his own later wife and two sets of twins.

Mitzi Green in Person at Michigan Theater

A gigantic stage, screen and musical show, featuring Mitzi Green in person, Clara bow on the screen in "Her Wedding Night," and a huge Public stage show with Lou Kosloff and host of stars, is the Michigan theater offering this week.
 Mitzi is known to screen followers as the madcap little mimic of "Honey," "Love Among the Millionaires" and "Paramount on Parade." She is nine years old, sings, dances, mimics Hollywood's well known screen personalities. Clara Bow, the famous flaming red head, Skeets Gallagher, Charlie Forbes and Rosita Moreno, are prominently cast in "Her Wedding Night."
 The picture's action takes place in France where our Clara, a famous actress with time on her hands and money to spend, becomes acquainted with Skeets Gallagher. And no sooner does she know Skeets than the trouble begins. Hilarious, divertingly gay trouble that enables Clara and her supporting cast to have the time of their lives. From the moment that she finds herself married to Skeets and the wife of another man, Clara is a riot of fun, playing with evident enthusiasm and skill.

"Realife" Film, "Billy the Kid" at Paramount

Something new in motion picture entertainment is King Vidor's production of "Billy the Kid," which had its World Premiere showing at the Paramount theater, Detroit, Thursday evening.
 "Billy the Kid" is the first picture to be filmed by the new "Realife" process. This manner of photography, which the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios have perfected after two years of research, is the nearest approach yet made to third-dimension pictures. By means of special wide-angle camera equipment, which is used during the actual filming of the picture, the scenes of the film have depth and distance. This heretofore, has been something never obtained by the cameras, and the new photography is startling in its realism. It is predicted that this new film will cause as much excitement as the first talking picture did!
 By means of the picture being filmed by the wide-angle process, the film is especially made for the large screen. A new giant magnoscope screen has been installed in the Paramount, and "Billy the Kid" is now being shown in its full width, height and depth.

"Anybody's Woman" at Riviera Theater

As "Anybody's Woman," which comes to Public Riviera theater on Saturday, October 18th, to begin a week's run, Ruth Chatterton is costarred with Clive Brook in a play that is redolent of realism, a play that is distinguished by its drama.
 "Anybody's Woman" is the story of the vagrancies of a misfit marriage. Brook plays a wealthy and cultured young lawyer, who, disappointed by the faithfulness of the wife who has just divorced him, goes on a prolonged flight in New York.
 At a cheap theatrical hotel he meets Ruth Chatterton, a brokendown show girl. During the progress of a wild party in which Clive Brook is insensibly drunk, practical joker companions manage to have him married to the show girl.

U. of D. Frosh Begin This Season's Games With Albion College

The latter is the only contest away from home.
 At present the Titan front line includes Blotitz and Ripley, ends; Sweeney and Julian, tackles; DeMatta and Bird, guards, and Gibbons, center. A host of players are vying for backfield positions with the following getting first call: March, quarterback; McCracken, left halfback; Rackovich, right halfback, and Sasko, fullback.

 On Friday, October 10th, awards were presented to the Little Garden Club by Mrs. Wheat and Mrs. Wright. This club was organized at the Neighborhood Club with ten girls competing for prizes and ribbons. The gardens were judged weekly for twelve weeks as to design, selection of flowers and quality. Ribbons were awarded each week for first, second and third places, each ribbon counting so many points, and the girls who received the most points at the close of the twelve weeks received prizes.
 Rachael Maertens received first prize, Marion Gray second and Marion Jappe third.
 Plots are being prepared for next year's gardens and if you are interested call us now and give us your name for a garden.

Letters in Alphabets

A number of languages have alphabets containing more letters than the English alphabet, as, for instance, the Russian, which has 35. Other Slavic languages allied to the Russian also have more characters. The Chinese far exceeds in the number of characters the alphabet of any other language.

Oregonians Trekged On

When Mormons Stopped

On July 24, 1847, a caravan of immigrants, then regarded as fanatics, emerging from a canyon, looked out upon the Salt lake valley. "This is the place; drive on," said Brigham Young, their leader.

That event, which turned out to be historic, is commemorated today by faithful Mormons.

Their achievements in the intervening eighty-eight years constitute one of the marvels of western daring and doing, but the trek of the Mormon pioneers from the Missouri frontier to Great Salt lake was comparatively easy when considered against the earlier movement over the Oregon trail to the Pacific Northwest.

When the Oregon pioneers reached the Rocky mountains they were yet to face the more difficult and dangerous half of the long journey. Yet to be traversed were the desert plains of southern Idaho, the canyons and steep ascents of the Blue mountains, the rugged and formidable cascades, and the deep forests that hemmed in the Willamette valley.

The Mormons ended their trek in July; the Oregonians in November or December.

The Mormon movement was in 1847; the Oregon trail had been well beaten by successive heavy migrations in 1843, 1844, 1845 and 1846.—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Impressive Scenes in

Fijian National Dance

The meke, or national dance of the Fijians, plays an important part in all ceremonies on the islands. As many as two hundred young natives, most gorgeously dressed, will take part in a meke, which may be described as a legend told in song and dance. Sometimes it deals with a famous tribal battle of old.

The dancers carry either spears or clubs, and go through many of the movements of the battle—the stealthy approach to the enemy's lines, the hurly-burly of the combat, and then the triumphant return when the warriors are greeted by their chiefs, their sages, and their women. For an hour or more, without the least interval, a meke will continue its way, every action explaining itself, every step most precisely executed.

The leaders of the mekes are always particularly fine men, and they wear wonderful tappa robes with trains four to five yards long, which they manage with all the grace of a court lady.—Montreal Herald.

Japanese Dragon

Maud Rex Allen says: "As known in Japan, the conception of a dragon is undoubtedly derived from the products of the imagination of the early Chinese, who were especially fond of evolving supernatural forms by combining parts of various animals. It is essentially a serpent, with horns of a deer, the head of a horse, eyes like a devil, neck like a snake, belly like that of a red worm, scales like those of a carp, ears like a cow, paws like a tiger and claws like an eagle. It has flame-like appendages on shoulders and hips. On either foot are three, four, or five claws—the imperial dragon of China has five, that of Japan three."—Washington Star.

Varieties of Cobra

There are perhaps ten specimens of the cobra. They are exceedingly venomous snakes. They sometimes reach a length of fifteen feet. Among the types in the zoos of this country are the African spitting cobra, king or snake-eating cobra, Egyptian, black, yellow, and the spectacled cobra.

The spitting cobra sprays its venom, sometimes to a distance of sixteen feet, but the Egyptian and king actually take hold of their victims to inject the poison. The king cobra is sometimes called snake-eating cobra because its food consists of other snakes. In the New York Zoological park there are several specimens.

Jackson Equal to Occasion

When Andrew Jackson was President, a highly accomplished Baltimore lady—no less a personage than the wife of Jerome Bonaparte—said to him: "General, there must be a sensation of exalted pride in feeling that you hold the place once held by Washington."

With his courtliest bow and most winning smile, Jackson replied: "Yes, madam, it is a sensation not unlike that which a gentleman must feel when he is honored by the society of Napoleon Bonaparte's sister-in-law."—Detroit News.

Berserker Rage

In Norse mythology Berserk was the grandson of the eight-handed Starkhader. He always went into battle without armor and was famed for the reckless fury with which he fought. Among those slain by him was King Swafurium, by whose daughter he had twelve sons equal to himself in bravery. These sons of Berserk were called berserkers, a term which thus became synonymous with fury and reckless courage.—Pathfinder Magazine.

That Six-Hour Layoff

Not in the Contract

"The man who operates a dairy has a steady job, and those who work in feeding, milking, distributing and keeping the barn in condition can't loaf on the job or fallure is sure," said Bob Bell, "as is illustrated by the dairyman who was noted for the high quality of his cattle and seeing to it that his hired help were kept busy. A negro came to him for work, and, after looking him over, was told he didn't look like he wanted a steady job. 'Yassuh, boss, Ah wants a stiddy job.' He was put to work. His 'stiddy job' was to milk 20 cows, care for the milk, wash the utensils, curry the cows and feed them, and drive them to and from the pasture. It took him eighteen hours to perform his duties, but he was game and stayed for a couple of months. Then he gave notice that he was going to quit. 'I knew it! I knew it!' railed the dairyman. 'I knew you didn't want a steady job.' 'Yassuh, boss, Ah does,' protested the dinky, 'but yuh ain't bega givin' me no stiddy job; you's been layin' me off six hours every night.'—Exchange.

More Than One Method

of Arriving at Truth

Can you tell when another person is telling a lie?

There are people who claim to be able to detect a liar at once, and a machine has been invented which, by measuring a man's blood pressure, gives a fairly clear indication as to whether he is telling the truth or not.

A non-mechanical test for liars has been in use in the East for many years. If a crime has been committed in a village, the villagers are drawn up in a line, barefooted, and questioned.

The questioner doesn't pay much attention to faces—he glances at the toes of each individual. If they are "clawing down" into the ground, their owner knows more about the affair than he cares to admit.

This test, of course, only works where the natives don't know the signs for which the questioner is looking. And changes in blood pressure aren't necessarily a proof of guilt. They denote fear or anxiety, which may be felt by the innocent as well as by the guilty.—London Answers.

Fire in History

Benjamin Franklin deserves to be called the father of American comfort. The rocking chair is attributed to him, and his was probably the first attempt ever made to construct a hot-air furnace. Certainly New England had no household furnaces before 1835, and even the first successful baseburner is dated about 1890. Primitive man dug hearths in his cave lodging, classical dwellings found braziers adequate, the Middle Ages built fireplaces of a necessary enormity for their spacious halls and it was only a little while ago, as time flies that anyone enjoyed the modern luxury of a stove such as within one century has become an "American antique."

It Sounded About Right

A story Conan Doyle used to love to tell, for it was against himself—he was that kind of a man—had to do with a lecture he was about to deliver on one of his tours over here. At the last minute the man who was to have introduced him was unable to be present, and another local worthy was hurriedly pressed into service. He did right nobly until the critical moment arrived. Then he faltered, pulled himself together, and proceeded: "And now, ladies and gentlemen, it is my great pleasure and privilege to introduce to you Canon Doyle, the eminent divine."—Kansas City Star.

Food of Wild Pests

One of the duties of state trappers is to determine, by stomach examination, just what coyotes, wolves, wildcats and foxes live on. The stomachs of 32 coyotes examined revealed 18 rabbits, nine deer, two traces of sheep's wool and bird feathers, and one woodchuck.

Seven foxes examined showed them to be living upon woodchucks, rabbits, mice and ruffed grouse. Of seven wildcats three had eaten ruffed grouse and four, rabbits. One wolf revealed that it had dined recently upon venison.

Copenhagen City of Spires

There are so many fine spires and towers on the churches and palaces in Copenhagen that it has been described as the "City of Spires." Although it is ancient, Copenhagen now is modern in appearance. The earlier houses built of wood were destroyed by fire in the eighteenth century and have been replaced with brick and stone buildings. Copenhagen is noted for its parks, among which the most famous are the Tivoli gardens, laid out in 1843.

Doing One's Best

The thrill of doing a job to the best of our ability is one of the greatest rewards of this thing called work. And every task has in it this thrill. The man who doesn't get a kick out of his job should be given a kick out of it.—Grit.

No Camouflage

"Tomstones are a monumental piece of folly," writes a correspondent to the Country Home. "An epitaph cannot change a closed record."

Explosive Men

The man with a violent temper lets it go because he finds it easier to command attention by making scenes than by becoming successful in a profession.—Woman's Home Companion.

Police Arrest Two Youths Believed to Have Robbed Homes

alleged burglars threw his accomplice through a window of the Ratee home, police say, and then leaped after him in an attempt to prevent arrest. They were captured soon after by a radio police cruiser.

Detectives of the McClellan avenue station, with Sergeant Richard Mead, of Grosse Pointe police, raided Rial's apartment and found there, they say, a quantity of loot. Rial is held at the McClellan avenue station on a charge of breaking and entering, and Sante is at Grosse Pointe on a similar charge. Sante, in an alleged confession to Grosse Pointe police, said that the only loot taken from Ratee's home consisted of a watch, which he threw away in his flight. He also admitted, according to police, attempting to break into the home of William Stamman, 924 Barrington road, a short time before they were found in the Ratee residence.

Voters in Pointe to Join County in Plan for Reapportionment

"A moiety clause in the Constitution, which favors the thinly populated agricultural districts, makes impossible a completely just reapportionment even if the Legislature were willing to go that far."

"Steps to invoke that remedy in the Nov. 4 election have been taken by the Wayne County Board of Supervisors, the Detroit Common Council, the members of the Wayne County delegation to the Legislature and interested citizens of Genesee, Oakland, Kent, and others of the voters alone lies the responsibility."

Rep. Wardell called attention to the Snow income tax bill introduced in the House of Representatives in March of the 1929 session. This bill, backed by the Grangé and the farmers of Michigan, would have imposed a 2 per cent tax on incomes. The bill died in a Senate committee, but it passed the House by a margin of three votes, with the representatives of industrial Michigan voting solidly against it.

"If the residents of the industrial centers of the State, who form a large majority of its population, do not awaken to their danger and vote for this amendment, they can be sure that the Snow bill in one form or another will come before the Legislature again, and the majority of the representatives, will pass it," Rep. Wardell said.

Industrial Michigan, Rep. Wardell pointed out, is composed roughly of Wayne, Genesee, Bay, Saginaw, Oakland, Macomb, St. Clair, Kalamazoo, Jackson, Muskegon and Kent counties.

The counties outside Wayne are planning campaigns which are expected to get under way this week.

"The campaign we will make is not designed to convince the people of Wayne County that they should vote 'Yes' instead of 'No' on this amendment," Rep. Armstrong said Saturday. "We take a 'Yes' vote for granted. In Wayne County this is not a controversial question. There is no scintilla of reason for a 'No' vote. Our problem, the one which we hope our campaign will solve, is to see that the people of Wayne County do vote. If they desire their full representation in the settlement of questions of State government, which will directly affect their daily lives, then they must vote."

"The proposition is on the ballot and everything else is up to the voters," Rep. Wardell said. "If they want their legislative representatives free and able to serve them, then they must get out and support this amendment." The members of the Legislature alone are helpless. There is nothing they can do that they have not already done."

"Wing" Insignia Given 85 Pilots Graduated

Point, New York, in June of last year. All of these students reported at Kelly Field from the Primary Flying schools, Brooks Field, San Antonio, Texas, and March Field, Riverside, California, on July 1, 1930, at which time the class consisted of 44 officers, 50 flying cadets and one Chinese civilian, a total of 95.

Two officers and six flying cadets have been held over to the next class, and two cadets were killed in an unfortunate collision in the air.

The graduates of this class, who come from 32 states, the largest representation being California with 11 and Illinois and Texas with 8 each, are divided among the specialized branches of the Army Air Corps, as follows: Attack section, 15; bombardment section, 15; observation section, 23; pursuit section, 32.

This is the first graduating class of cadets at the Advanced Flying School which signed the agreement to serve two years on active duty as Reserve Officers or as officers of the Regular Army. It is also the first class which has received a thorough course in instrument flying, or blind flying, as it is more generally referred to.

The graduating class flew in review at Kelly Field at 9:00 o'clock in the morning. Graduation exercises were held at the Kelly Field theater at 11:15 a. m. Chaplain Edwin Burling delivered the invocation, and Major Frederick L. Martin, Commandant of the Advanced Flying School, made the opening address, after which he introduced Brigadier General Charles H. Danforth, Commanding General of the Air Corps Training Center, who delivered the address to the graduating class.

The Reserve commissions to the Flying Cadets were presented by General Danforth, the certificates of graduation by Major Martin, and the wings were pinned on the graduates by Major Clarence L. Tinker, Assistant Commandant of the Advanced Flying School. Chaplain L. J. McDonald closed the exercises with the benediction.

Numbered among the members of the graduating class is Christy Mathewson, Jr., son of the famous baseball pitcher of the New York Giants some twenty years ago; also Lucius R. Holbrook, whose father, Brigadier-General Holbrook, is in command of Fort Bragg, North Carolina. Second Lieutenant Frederic H. Smith, of Washington, D. C., is a member of the famous Caterpillar Club, his parachute saving his life on the morning of July 22nd, last, when his safety belt became unfastened while he was practicing acrobatic flying.

"Raffles" Feature Film at the Punch and Judy

Ronald Colman plays a smooth and polished English gentleman, a society favorite and popular athlete in his third and latest talking picture, "Raffles," the mystery thriller which is coming to the Punch and Judy theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 16, 17 and 18. Refined and suave though he may be, Raffles finds the lure of criminal adventure more than he can resist. In consequence his many distinguished associates are victimized time and again without the faintest suspicion of who the malefactor can be. Bein gparallel in theme, "Raffles" is a fit successor to Colman's two previous talking successes, "Buildog Drummond" and "Condemned!"

A new force has come into Raffles' life at the time this modernized version of the famous melodrama opens. The famous Amateur Cracksman has given up his obligations in favor of love.

But his resolution to reform is short-lived and again he is shoved head on into his last and greatest adventure, for this time the stakes are the honor of his best friend and the heart of the girl he adores.

It is in this great role, made famous on the stage in America by Kyle Beland and in England by Sir Gerald DuMaurier, and in silent pictures, by John Barrymore and House Peters, that Colman is to be seen. Goldwyn claims that even though the part has come to be rigidly set by tradition, Colman gives a startling original interpretation that not only differs from any earlier portrayal of the role but also from anything Colman has yet attempted.

Miss Francis, who gave so fine a performance opposite Colman's friend, William Powell, in "Street of Chance," is the Gwen of the story. She and Colman play out a touching romance that is an essential part of the play's high adventure. Miss Francis is the first brunette to have played opposite Colman since Agnes Ayres.

Because Raffles was known to his friends as a great cricketer—one of England's greatest—Samuel Goldwyn has provided the first big league cricket sequence ever to be seen in a feature picture. Two cricket coaches and a great supply of uniforms, equipment and paraphernalia were brought from England. Every known player in the picture colony was mustered in for a part in the exciting sequences that represent the famous English game at its best.

A full-size replica of the Embassy Club in London, perhaps the world's best known night club, is to be seen, peopled by hundreds of gorgeously gowned women and immaculately groomed men.

Summer Driving Hard on Cooling Systems in Motor Cars: Hupp

A summer season of hard driving usually takes its toll in overheated engines due to clogged cooling systems. Water containing all sorts of minerals and impurities are sometimes used, and these impurities, including alkalies, not only eat the interior of the radiator hose, but often attack the radiator and interior of the water jacketing of the engine as well. This results in the formation of hardened residue and rust. To assist the owner in conditioning the cooling system of his car, the Hupp mobile service bureau offers these suggestions:

"In anticipating the extra demands on the engine in winter driving, the cooling system should be properly conditioned. The first step is to drain all water from the cooling system. Then fill with clean, fresh water. When the system has been filled to capacity, open the drain cocks, permitting clean hydrant water to run through the system for ten or fifteen minutes with the engine running.

"To remove scale and sudge formation, use a good radiator cleansing compound, preferably one recommended by the radiator manufacturer, simply following the instructions on the container. Neutrosol or some kind of neutralizing powder should be placed in the radiator after it has been flushed and refilled to prevent corrosion. Most authorized distributors and dealers have special information in this connection.

"Once the system has been cleaned, it is desirable to replace both radiator hose with new ones. While the outside of the old hose may appear in perfect shape, the interior is nearly always eaten away by the action of minerals in the water, plus the natural wear and tear from the circulation of hot water containing rust and alkalies. These deposits restrict the flow of water and often cause the engine to run hot.

"The pump should be checked for leaks, and the packing replaced if necessary by a competent mechanic. Finally, to complete the job of checking the water cooling system, the fan belt should be adjusted or replaced if necessary."

Volume of Late Crops in State Below Average

more than the average production of the last ten years. The yield per acre of barley for Michigan was 30 bushels or almost five bushels more than the average return. This crop is estimated at 7,440,000 bushels or thirty-three per cent larger than last year's production. The average yield of spring wheat for the state was 18 bushels per acre, three bushels more than the long time average. The production of this crop is estimated at 90,000 bushels.

Michigan's corn crop will be the smallest in 32 years according to the October 1 estimate. The condition reported on that date was 51 per cent of normal. Last year at this date the figure was 56 per cent, while for the previous ten years the average has been 80.

Michigan's tame hay crop is the smallest since 1925, the average yield being only 1,200 tons per acre while the long-time average return for the State is 1,320 tons. The alfalfa crop is also smaller than a year ago being set at 1,076,000 tons with 1,254,000 tons the 1929 crop.

Sugar beet production in Michigan this year promises to amount to 480,000 tons compared with 300,000 produced last year. The planted acreage is sixty-four per cent larger than the harvested area for 1929, and in addition sugar beets have withstood the drought better than most other late crops.

The final estimate on the Michigan peach crop amounts to 629,000 bushels as against 816,000 for 1929. The total apple crop is estimated to be 29 per cent smaller than one year ago. The commercial apple crop amounts to 995,000 barrels while that for last year totalled 1,206,000 barrels. The pear crop is estimated at 770,000 bushels, with 468,000 bushels harvested a year ago. The grape crop is estimated at 73,720 tons with the 1929 production set at 68,870 tons.

The final returns from all the home rooms were: President, Jack Wall, 24; Vice-President, Phyllis Johnson, 21; Secretary, George Lloyd, 31 and Treasurer, Charles Ambrogio, 12. The nominating committee was: Elmer Benzin, Colletta Balle, Mildred Draper, and Edward Chase.

"Give Advertising a Trial": Paul Penfield

"When you choose a career, give advertising a good thought," was the advice of Paul Penfield, to the assemblies last Friday morning, at the Grosse Pointe High School.

Mr. Penfield was formerly with the George Harrison Phelps Company, Detroit. At present he is with the Campbell and Penfield Company, also in Detroit.

During his speech, Mr. Penfield related several humorous experiences which he has had during his advertising career.

"Advertising offers a chance for every possible ability you have," was Mr. Penfield's closing message.

Following this speech, Donald Schroeder sang two selections, accompanied by Phyllis Mossner, a member of the alumni.
