MURDER TOTALS ARE INCREASING IN U. S.

Shows Appalling Breakdown in Respect for Law.

New York.—Criminal violence in the United States is still on the increase. Figures gathered by William L. Cheney, editor of Collier's Weekly, show that the total number of homicides has gone up more than 33 per cent in 16 years.

In 1912 the death rate due to homicide was 6.6 in every 100,000 of population. In 1928 the rate was 8.8, or exactly a third higher.

"Criminal violence causes far more deaths today than fifteen years ago," says Mr. Cheney. "The increase is an evidence of an appalling breakdown in respect for the law."

"During these same 15 years, laws in this country generally have been made more drastic. The so-called Baumes laws of New York are typical. Penalties have been added to penalties. If furious severity had power to prevent crime we should have become a law-abiding people."

"The truth is that severe penalties seldom deter criminals from violence. The explanation is that juries and judges will not inflict punishment which seems too rigorous. Rather than apply the law they will liberate the prisoner."

"The criminal does not fear uncertain punishment. If there is a chance to escape paying for his crime, the potential criminal will gamble on getting away. In this country the chances favor the criminal."

In thirty-one large American cities 2,410 homicides were reported in 1929. The rate was 10.1, much higher than for the country as a whole.

The increase in the number of homicides in the big cities between 1900 and 1929 was nearly fourfold, while the increase in the rate for each 100,000 of population increased from 5.1 to 10.1, almost double.

New York reported 425 violent killings and Chicago 401 in 1929.

Only Nine Pay Penalty. Yet in 1928, with 401 killings in New York City alone, the entire state of New York convicted only 118 killers and of these only 9 were executed.

The experience of every country which has successfully controlled its criminal problem shows that swiftness and certainty of punishment, rather than severity, actually deter potential criminals from crime.

For many years Great Britain has had a remarkable record in preventing crime. While 425 killings occurred in New York in 1929 and, in Chicago, 401, London had only 10.

The British actually enforce capital punishment. Sentimental pleas for mercy go unheeded. The murderer pays with his life for his crime if he challenges British justice.

Boys Trapped More Than Three Hours in Quagmire

Washington.—Trapped for more than three hours in a quagmire near Bolling field, two small boys were rescued after they had sunk in the mud beyond their shoulders.

Layne Loeffler, nine years old, and Gus Law, eleven, with three young companions, had become entrapped in the bog while taking a short-cut across a lot where dredges have been throwing silt from the bottom of the river to provide an extension for Bolling field. They had been walking across the logs when one of the five fell in the mud. Laughing efforts at rescue followed, and soon all five were in the bog.

Three of the boys were able to pull themselves to hard ground. Not realizing the seriousness of the situation, they laughed at the others until the two boys had sunk below their waists. Then, panic-stricken, they ran for aid.

While they were summoning their parents and police, two men heard the boys' screams, threw tin and wood over the mud and pulled the boys out with an improvised life line made from a belt.

Lofty Position Helping Him Through College

Columbus, Ohio.—Dick Stearns, of Celina, Ohio, chose a lofty position to aid him in paying his way through the college of engineering at Ohio State university. He climbs to the top of a 15-foot mast on the 555-foot tower of the American Insurance Union building and oils the wind velocity gauge once a week. Daily readings of the anemometer are taken to compare with those of the United States weather bureau, recorded at a lower level. It's Stearns' job to see the anemometer works properly.

Jealous Monk in Zoo Makes Attack on Keeper

Camden, Ark.—Jealousy invaded the heart of Tag, a large monkey in a zoo here, and caused him to use his teeth on his trainer.

Tag had always been on friendly terms with Priest, the trainer, until one day, recently, Priest fed several smaller monkeys before feeding Tag. His jealousy was raised to a fever pitch and he bit Priest about the arms before the trainer could beat him off.

Next Sunday, April 26, a Re-union Service will be held at 4:30 p. m. for all confirmation classes that have been confirmed in the congregation's present church edifice. This includes the classes from 1925 to 1931. The total number of persons confirmed during this time is 287. For these, one section of the church auditorium will be reserved. The people of the community are cordially invited to this special service.

In the morning of the coming Sunday, the usual services will take place: German at 9, English at 11:15, Sunday School at 10:15 o'clock. The pastor will continue the sermons on "Interesting Women of the New Testament," taking for his subject: "Dorcas of Joppa."

The Young People's Society will hold its Anniversary Banquet next Sunday, the banquet beginning shortly after the Re-union Service has been dismissed.

The following societies will hold their business meetings during the next week: Young People's Society on Tuesday at 8 p. m.; the Ladies' Aid on Wednesday at 1 p. m.; and the Junior Society on Friday at 7:15 p. m.

Grace Church

Kercheval at Lakepointe avenue, Grosse Pointe Park. Armin Haessler, pastor, 1132 Lakepointe avenue. Phone Lenox 2299.

The enrollment and attendance of our church, school are continuing to mount, last Sunday's attendance being the greatest in 1931, exceeding even that of Easter Sunday. We have made arrangements for any possible overflow next Sunday. "Come at 9:20; we will find room for you."

The congregation will meet for the regular worship at 10:45. All musical numbers will be compositions by Goddard. "Spiritual Surgery" will be the subject of the sermon. "A hearty welcome is extended to all visitors."

Elaborate preparations are being made for the fellowship supper which will be held next Thursday evening April 30, beginning at 6:30. An interesting miscellaneous program will be given in conjunction with a delicious supper. No tickets will be sold, but a free-will offering will be received.

Church of Christ Lochmoor

Lochmoor Blvd. at Mack Ave. This young but thriving church invites you through the medium of the press, to all or any of the meetings. This is an effort to plant the New Testament Gospel in your community, and to date has been successful, but there is still a little room, so consider this a personal invitation. At least come, see, sing, and listen, then judge for yourself.

This week we would emphasize the Sunday morning Bible school. This meets at 9:45 and is for young and old. You could not imagine anything more pleasant than the classes in the open, under the trees, in this beautiful location, and you must acknowledge Bible School is a vital necessity for all the family.

At 11 a. m. Worship. A beautiful service. 7:30 in the evening, Gospel service. Mid-week service Wednesday, 7:45 p. m.

Come and get acquainted. This is a friendly church. "Evangelist E. G. Rockliff will gladly furnish further information. Call Niagara 4447."

"Dracula" Attraction the Riviera Theater

The next attraction at the Riviera theater is a motion picture which is absolutely in a class by itself.

It is "Dracula," a sensationally different, weird and startling story of the strange human vampires who rise from their graves at night and bring terror to the hours of darkness.

The central character of this hair-raising story is Count Dracula, apparently a polished gentleman, but in reality a blood-thirsty vampire whose horrible attacks reduce his victims to madness or death. At length he centers his attentions on a beautiful young girl, and a famous scientist is brought from a foreign country in an effort to prevent her being forced into the strange Legion of the Undead.

Robert Montgomery on Michigan Film Bill

Robert Montgomery, the young screen player who made his motion picture debut just two years ago, is appearing at the Michigan theater this week in his first starring picture, "Shipmates." The title role in this new feature, and a new long-term contract, were awarded to him by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios following his successful roles in "Strangers May Kiss," "The Divorcee," "Easiest Way," and a few other pictures.

Montgomery first appeared in pictures with a small role in "So This Is College." Previous to that role he had found favor on Broadway, where he was one of the leading juvenile stars on the legitimate stage. Following his first screen role he immediately jumped to leading roles and has appeared recently opposite such popular heroines as Joan Crawford, Constance Bennett, Greta Garbo, and Norma Shearer.

Punch and Judy Theater News

On the deck of an American "mystery ship"—its hidden gunners waited to open fire on a certain U-boat that cruised warily about them. On that U-boat her brother and her lover prepared to come to the surface, unaware of their fate. If only she could warn them! Suddenly she thought of the flag—the flag that meant "Danger, Keep Away!" Thus you have an inkling of the climax of "The Seas Beneath," romance of the submarine menace during the war and of a strange love drama that blossomed amid the screaming shells of naval battle. With the popular George O'Brien in the male lead and the screen's newest "find" Marion Lessing in the feminine lead, patrons of the Punch and Judy on Friday and Saturday, April 24 and 25, will find "The Seas Beneath" one of the most thrilling of pictures.

Even superlatives are insufficient to describe it on the screen, but perhaps some facts concerning "Cimarron," the spectacular romance of Oklahoma, will give some idea of its vastness. A company of thirty stars, headed by Richard Dix, in the role of Yancy Cravat, appears in "Cimarron" which comes to grace the Punch and Judy screen on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, April 26, 27 and 28. Thirty-five hundred horses, mules and oxen take part in various scenes. The time covered by the picture, in seven periods, is from 1889 to 1930. Over 42,000 colorful characters appear in the film, including an entire Indian tribe. Camera scenes reveal miles of racing human beings in all manner of pre-automobile conveyances. A year and six months of steady work with the entire resources of a big studio to draw upon, were devoted to its filming. It's all packed into two hours of dynamic, thrilling entertainment!

High School Music Group Give Program

Probation officers acted as casting directors for gangster scenes in "Gentleman's Fate." John Gilbert's newest starring vehicle which will be seen at the Punch and Judy on Wednesday and Thursday, April 29 and 30. Genuine criminal types were wanted for authentic underworld atmosphere, but before engaging applicants, approval was obtained from Los Angeles probation officers. Louis Wolheim, Anita Page and Leila Hyams head the surrounding cast.

J. Alex Park Honored With Prized Award

A comprehensive, specialized collection of Poland was entered in the stamp club's exhibition by Harry Lee, of Chester, Pa.

Many Oddities Shown A frame of errors and oddities arranged by William Lancswert included museum curiosities—stamps used at Mafeking during the Boer siege in 1900, an error in a Malta sur-charge, the word penny being spelled "Pnny," European countries and colonies, Karl Koslowski; other countries in North, Central and South America, Seth E. Andrews; other countries in Asia, Africa, Oceania and Australia, Mrs. Set E. Andrews; specialties, Dr. H. Preston Hoskins; cancellations, Dr. Hoskins; covers, J. Alex Park; used blocks, J. E. Scott; unused United States blocks, William C. Lancswert; perforations, Karl Koslowski; general collection, William McMeekin; airmail, John B. Jackson; unused airmail, Fred R. Enbach.

Among other exhibitors were Alex W. Jozik, Zeppelin covers; Herman Boers, United States and colonies; H. F. Hartwell, United States proofs and essays; J. Kipstul, airmail; Fred R. Erbach, airmails, and Stanley Gregory, first-flight covers.

School Census Will Be Taken in Pointe Starting on May 11 In compliance with Michigan state law, the Grosse Pointe Board of Education will conduct the annual school census beginning May 11 and continuing through the month. The state law requires that the census shall be taken the last 20 days of May each year.

Tragedy Is Recalled Two women exhibitors participated. Mrs. Seth Andrews collects stamps of acific Islands, and Mrs. Harriott Brisley indulges in United States commemoratives.

Included in the collection of Charles Brisley was a picture of the late King Edward struck from the die for which the artist Fuchs made the original drawing of the monarch when the British government decided on its so-called King Edward issue of 1901.

Considerable rancor grew out of the award of the work to an Austrian artist. During the war Fuchs was exiled. He reached New York, and after a time, and at the behest of collectors, he obtained permission to draw 100 proofs from the original die. The one hundredth was to go to King George, but before his work was completed Fuchs committed suicide.

Another curious exhibit consisted of covers of old Detroit business houses. One, postmarked 1865, was from John L. Duncan, the printing at the left-hand upper corner revealing that Mr. Duncan did business in raw furs and deerskins at 165 Jefferson avenue.

Another was sent out 50 years ago, April 27 of this month, by Parke, Davis company, and will be presented to the company's museum on that date by its owner, Dr. Hoskins.

Another envelope contained a letter sent by Jacob Barnes, editor of The Free Press, in 1852, to W. L. Coffinberg, builder of roads between Grand Rapids and Ionia. In it Barnes thanked Coffinberg for a previous letter, complimented him on his work, and said that Barnes would be up some day to write a story about it.

Rare German Issues Probably the most valuable single exhibit was that of Fred M. Wert, winner of the Brisley cup last year. His three volumes contained postage stamps of the old German states. The one-half schilling and one schilling Bergeford stamps on the original envelopes are valued at $250 each and are considered extremely rare.

The single stamp of the issue is known as Saxony No. 1 in the catalogues and is valued at $500. The collection was entered for exhibition purposes only.

The judges, Dr. Warren L. Babcock, Eugene Telfer and Fred R. Schmalzried, made the following awards in addition to the Brisley trophy to Mr. Park, whose seven volumes consisted of United States, Canadian, Austrian and Japanese postage:

United States possessions, Adolph Meyer; Canadian, Charles L. Brisley; $50.00 in Gold, One Prize, Monday night and 12 Indian blankets on Wednesday night, Free at the Aloma Theater, Charlevoix at Wayburn.

William Haines Stars in Fisher Theater Film William Haines is now featured at the Fisher theater in the well-known stage success of "The Tailor Made Man." In this amusing adaptation of George M. Cohan's well-known stage success, Haines plays the role of a young tailor's assistant. As a matter of fact he's merely a pants presser. But very ambitious and in love. So in an effort to be worthy of the girl he loves, he "borrows a customer's dress suit and hies himself to a swanky social gathering where Abraham Nathan, famous financier, is the guest of honor. He makes a pal of the millionaire and within twenty-four hours is the prize "catch" of the season. The manner in which he puts his financial ideas into circulation while keeping his pants pressing past a dark secret, makes for amusing, clever and light-hearted entertainment of the better sort.

Peasants Freed of Debt as Wedding Present Sofia, Bulgaria.—Instead of sending a wedding present to the king and queen of Bulgaria, a wealthy peasant of Plevna, to whom about 20 villagers owed comparatively large sums of money, decided unconditionally to release them from their debts.

His action was due to his interpretation of King Boris' wish that no money should be spent on gifts to them in view of the hard times throughout the country. His example has been followed by several other peasants.

He Ends Row by Slaying Family, Wife's Kin, Self Berlin.—A family quarrel ended in tragedy recently when Friedrich Falmer, a workman, shot and killed his wife and their two children. The infuriated man next shot dead his mother-in-law and sister-in-law, seriously wounding a brother-in-law. He then turned the gun on himself and committed suicide.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartow L. Heminway, of Watertown, Conn. Mr. and Mrs. Hubbard will return to their Grosse Pointe home in the near future.

Mrs. Hugo Scherer with her daughter, Mrs. Seabourn R. Livingstone and also her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harley G. Higbie, has left Pasadena and is now in Santa Barbara before returning home on May 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory Leyden Ford, who went to New York for a visit with relatives after spending the winter at Bellair, Fla., expects to arrive home this week.

After a three months' sojourn in Miami, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. James Grier have returned to their home on Lincoln road.

Mrs. R. S. Alcock of Mapleton road, Grosse Pointe, gave a delightful birthday party in honor of her little daughter, Barbara Ann. Covers were laid for twenty.

AVIATION AIDED BY MAN NEVER IN SHIP

Washington.—Although John W. Currell, sixty, ex-marine and veteran of two wars, has never flown in an airplane, he has contributed more, perhaps, to the field of aviation than some of the world's famous flyers.

Three new aerial bomb inventions he perfected were submitted recently to Maj. Gen. Samuel H. H. Chief of the army ordnance department. All deal with bombs of a type to be used chiefly against anti-aircraft batteries and airplanes, parked on the ground. These three inventions are the latest of the former enlisted man of the marines, who is regarded as a wizard in his line.

While serving with the United States Marine Corps in China during the Boxer rebellion in 1900, Currell saw a contingent of Russian troops launch an observation balloon over the city of Tsin-sin.

During the battle he foresaw the advantage of a high powered explosive which could have been dropped from the aircraft, and with the thought was born the idea of the aerial bomb.

After consulting his commanding officer Currell started working on a bomb which in 1911 was accepted by the War department.

The ex-marine began his research in an improvised laboratory at Pekin in 1901, and three years later he was sent to Washington where he obtained patents for the first aircraft weapon to be invented.

Enlisted in Navy. Lack of money forced Currell to abandon his attempts at further invention, and in 1917 he enlisted in the United States navy as a gunner's mate. He was assigned to the Seaman Gunner's school at the Washington Navy yard by special order of Assistant Secretary Truman E. Newberry and ordered to complete his research in high explosives.

In 1928 Currell had perfected a submarine bomb that was immediately adopted by the navy and used with success in the North sea.

When, in 1919, Currell was honorably discharged from the navy, the Post Office department had under consideration a plan to carry mail by air. The chief objection was that the mail could not be carried by planes at night.

Currell in a few years perfected a system of beacon lights whereby air mail pilots could be guided while flying at night. This system was adopted by the Post Office department, for which Currell was given a congressional vote of thanks.

Story of Hard Summer Told in U. S. Reports Washington.—It was a long, hard summer, to say the least. Forty states had less than normal rainfall.

Seven of them were drier than they had ever been before.

"Secret Six" Made by the "Famous Four"

The famous four, composed of the author, star, director and the producers, were again re-united for the filming of "The Secret Six," the thrilling drama scheduled to be shown at the Paramount theater, in Detroit following the current engagement of Norma Shearer's "Strangers May Kiss."

Previous to the filming of "The Secret Six," this famous group were responsible for the big successes of "The Big House" and "Min and Bill."

Frances Marion wrote the story of "The Secret Six," and Wallace Beery, who played the title role of "Butch" in "The Big House," is starred in this new production.

Engineer Says Mile-High Steel Tower Practical Pittsburgh.—Not only are our present skyscrapers practical, but a steel tower one mile high is entirely practical, from an engineering standpoint, according to Gilbert D. Fish, structural engineer for Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company here. Such a tower would require 18,000 tons of steel, would stand on a base 528 feet square and have four huge main posts supporting it.
