

FARMS--VILLAGE BOUNDARY LINE FEUD SETTLED: UP TO VOTERS NOW

Barnyard Golf Honors Determined After 500 Games at Huvaere's

A barnyard golf tournament that started early in the summer was completed just this week with James Buysse, of Detroit, and Lucian Vandenebele, of Grosse Pointe Park, capturing the championship honors after playing more than 500 games. By a margin of one game, they defeated two veteran horse shoe pitchers of Grosse Pointe, Henry Huvaere, Jr., and Emil Martens, in one of the most protracted contests ever staged among barnyard golfers.

The scene of the strange contest was the backyard of the Huvaere, Jr., home at 1366 Maryland avenue. It was here that the four players would gather on an average of once every two weeks and play a series of 20 to 25 games with all honors being even after the play.

In efforts to break the deadlock, the scene of operations was frequently transferred to the Huvaere, Jr., home in Port Huron and to various points in Canada, the scene of family picnic, where earnest efforts were made by the players to determine titular honors. But still the score stood "all even."

In a final desperate effort to break the tie, it was agreed that the winning team of a series of games that were played last Wednesday would be crowned champions. The Buysse-Vandenebele team triumphed, winning 12 out of 23 games.

Dorais' Titans Await Iowa State "11" for Game Here Friday Eve

Coach Charles E. Dorais' University of Detroit Titans are preparing for their game with the Iowa State College Cyclone eleven Friday evening with a bit of the confidence which characterized their performance before their unexpected defeat at the hands of DePaul University in the game during the Legion convention. The Titans showed a vast improvement in form in their game with Western State.

Iowa State is coached this year by George F. Veenker, who formerly was head basketball and assistant foot ball coach at the University of Michigan. Veenker came to Ann Arbor after eight years of successful high school coaching in Indiana. He was appointed cage mentor after the untimely death of Ed Mather, and guided the Maize and Blue trossers to a conference championship in his first season. He has directed the play of the Wolverine backs, ends and tackles and has always had as his ambition the chance to direct the destinies of a major collegiate eleven.

Veenker's squad boasts a heavy line, which will hold nearly a ten pound advantage over the Titan forward wall, and a speedy backfield, equipped with veteran material. Fourteen major lettermen, seven minor monogram winners, nine reserves from last year's varsity squad and 21 freshmen numeral winners are included on the '31 Cyclone roster.

Coach Dorais will use Billy Storen's Titan yearlings in several scrimmage sessions during the week's drill for the Cyclone tilt. The freshmen have been given Iowa State and Marquette plays and will be sent against the varsity players with these formations. Storen, assisted by Art Massucci and Eddie Barbour, has cut the huge squad to 75 men by a series of lengthy trial games.

Louis Berg, who has alternated at right halfback with Bill O'Neill for the past two seasons, will probably win first call for the Iowa State fray due to his fine play in the Western State game. Berg repeatedly carried the ball for gains off tackle and cleared the way for other advances by his team mates with steady blocking. Johnny Metras and Joe Beer, regular tackles, will both return to their posts after their demonstrations against the Hill-toppers.

One of the bright spots in the slow, early-season contest was the play of (Continued on Page Two)

Auto Production

Automobile production during September continued at a rate substantially below estimated replacement demand, according to Dr. Ralph E. Badger, executive vice president and Carl F. Behrens, economist, of the Union Guardian Trust Company, Detroit, unit of the Guardian Detroit Union Group, Inc. Production of passenger cars and trucks in the United States and Canada in September, 1931 amounted to approximately 160,000 as against 192,000 in August of this year. In September, 1930, the total units produced were 229,000, as against 234,000 in August of that year.

The immediate outlook is for a continued restriction in the rate of production until 1932 models are announced. There is some question at the present time regarding the date at which new models will be shown. The consensus of opinion is that no wide scale introduction of new models will be made before the New York Automobile Show in January, 1932. On this assumption, there is little hope for substantial pick-up in production levels for the balance of this year. Whereas it is too early to predict the rate of step-up in production after the turn of the year, it is probable that manufacturers will maintain rigid control over production and stocks of cars until they are able to estimate consumer demand.

"The Plutocrat" was dramatized especially for the Coburns and they

SOCIETY

By DOROTHY DEE

Coming as a complete surprise to Detroit society was the wedding last Saturday afternoon of Miss Mary Virginia Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold S. Reynolds, to Richard Pickering Joy, Jr., son of Mrs. Richard P. Joy. Only immediate members of the family attended the quiet ceremony which took place in the Reynolds home in Parkwood avenue, Toledo.

The Rev. Cedric C. Bentley, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Joy left for a 10-day wedding trip. They will make their home at the Joy residence on Lake Shore drive, Grosse Pointe Farms.

The Misses Aileen and Kathleen Keena, daughters of Mrs. James T. Keena of Lakeland avenue, Grosse Pointe Village, are visiting several friends in the East before returning to the city from their summer home at Siasconset. They will motor back.

The Misses Annette and Katharine Baker entertained 10 of their friends at a "spinster dinner" Saturday evening at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Baker, Lincoln road, Grosse Pointe Village. The party was given in honor of Miss Edith Gregory Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Knight Butler, whose marriage to Andrew Wilson Barr, son of Dr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Barr of Chicago, is an event of October 10. Following the dinner Saturday evening the guests were entertained at bridge.

McMillan, Edsel Ford, Marshall Pease, Frederick T. Sibley, John S. Sweeney, John W. Stalker, Frederic B. Stevens and Charles B. Warren.

Quite different however is the reception of newspaper hounds at the Civic theater, where "The Truth Gam," was in rehearsal. There one is permitted to watch, as long as one pleases, provided of course they don't eat peanuts or make loud remarks. The Ivor Novello play looked interesting in its assembling, and should be good. * * * And now for "shadows."

Philip Barry, author of "Holiday," among others, has sold the film rights of "Tomorrow and Tomorrow," coming to the Wilson theater during the season, to Paramount. It is expected that Ruth Chatterton and Paul Lucas will play the leads.

Farms Council Moves To Solve Boundary Line Conflict Here

The mix-up in the boundary line dividing the Farms from the Village, which has existed for many years, now appears to be near a final solution in view of the action of the Farms Council last Monday evening in instructing their Engineer, Murray Smith, to prepare a description of the strip lying between the present boundary, and the lines dividing Private Claims 241 and 300. This description contemplates the land to be annexed by the Village if ratified by vote of the Village residents at the Election next spring.

The Village, in 1927, started negotiations with the Farms for a change in the boundary line and in 1928 secured an agreement under which, in the territory lying between Maumee avenue and Mack road, sidewalks could be constructed and maintained by the Village. The situation at that time with regard to walks, street lights, etc., was rather hectic; Village residents living on the west side of Fisher road were taxed for all such improvements and services but the Village was without power to furnish them inasmuch as it could not legally operate in another Village. Upon execution of the temporary agreement the condition was remedied but the situation remained the same with regard to the dividing line.

Under the charter under which the Farms operates, a simple resolution of the Council ratifying the description of the territory to be detached establishes the change. However, in the Village a succession of steps are required. A census of the residents on the Village side of Fisher road is made and certified, then a petition is circulated for the signatures of at least one per cent of the residents in each of the five separate subdivisions in the district, when signed and certified, is submitted to the Wayne County Board of Supervisors thirty days in advance of a meeting of such Board. A resolution submitting the annexation measure to the Village electors is then adopted and the matter is voted upon at the annual or a special election.

This all should be welcome news to Village residents in the west side of Fisher road as they are finally assured that there can never again be a repetition of the troubles they knew a few years ago. Norbert P. Neff, Village Clerk, states that the census will be taken and the petitions circulated simultaneously beginning this week and if the required signatures are obtained, the succeeding steps pursued as rapidly as possible to insure the annexation referendum on March 14.

Plan Demonstration of Music Study Course

A demonstration of the Dunning system "Improved Music Study for Beginners," will be given by pupils of Florence Adams McKinstry, Friday evening, October 16, 1931, at the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 7:45 p. m.

The Dunning system is an improved method of music study. It is the best exposition of the first principles of piano music and is adapted not only to the teaching of children and beginners, but to all who wish a thorough knowledge of music.

Formed into classes, the children are taught by means of symbols—discs, rhythm sticks and musical characters—the fundamental principles of music.

An ingeniously constructed keyboard with grand staff attached, simplifies notation by uniting these two important factors. Transposition, modulations, and melody writing are included.

The Dunning system has been endorsed by Ossip Gabrilowitsch, Mme. Fannie Bloomfield Zeisler, Theodore Leschetizky and others.

Pupils completing course and receiving pins are: Winifred Bott, David Coolidge, Priscilla Heath, George Kanm, Barbara Neebe, Betty Lou Neebe and Cynthia Tuller.

have played it to packed houses in California and New York. This will be its first Detroit presentation. Mr. Coburn as "The Terrible Tinker" from Omaha charges through three acts which are described as a "laugh war between the East and the West." Mrs. Coburn plays Mrs. Tinker.

Arthur Goodrich is the man who was responsible for "So This Is London," and "The Plutocrat" has several qualities in common with the former hit. Both plays deal with Americans abroad and the funny folks they meet. The scenes are laid on an ocean liner and in Egypt. Mr. Tinker manages to get in and out of a love affair with a French woman and there is a spirited affair between the Tinkers' daughter Olivia and a New York playwright who hates all western people.

"The Plutocrat" is great fun and a fitting vehicle for the talents of the famous Coburns.

CASS THEATER

The Chicago Civic Shakespeare Society which will begin a week's engagement at the Cass theater in Detroit, beginning Monday night, October 12, promises a rather diverting and unusually interesting sojourn in Detroit.

In addition to the all-star company headed by Fritz Leber, Helen Menken, William Faversham, Tyrone Power, Viola Roache, Pedro de Cordoba, Whitford Kane, Edith Campbell, Gordon Burby and France Bendtsen, George Vivian, veteran Shakespearean actor and director, staged and directed the productions. For many years a prominent figure in Shakespearean circles in England and America, he was among those who instigated the building of the Ravinia Open Air theater in Chicago, later presenting there Shakespeare's more popular plays.

In the 350 years since the first theater was built in London by James Burbage for the plays of Shakespeare who was also a member of his company, the Bard of Avon still remains the greatest playwright of all times. Schools and colleges in every civilized country in the world have included many of his plays in their curriculum, yet the leading authorities tell us that Shakespeare wrote not for posterity but principally for entertainment. His plays still remain a rare mixture of comedy, satire and human emotion and although they reflect the time and customs of the early Elizabethan period, he was so far ahead of his time, many of them might well have been written in this day and age.

The schedule of plays will be as follows: "Hamlet," on Monday and Tuesday nights and Saturday matinee. "Julius Caesar" on Tuesday and Friday nights.

"The Merchant of Venice," Wednesday matinee, Thursday night and Saturday night.

The scenery and costumes have been specially designed according to the most authentic historical sources and old prints—and a special technician will supervise all the lighting effects.

LAFAYETTE THEATER

With its moods rippling, gay and in beginning Monday, Oct. 12. matic at others, "A Modern Virgin," by Elmer Harris, described as an hilarious and unsavory comedy, will remain a second week at the Lafayette theater beginning Monday, Oct. 12.

As indicated by the title, the author, who has such past successes as "Young Sinners," "The Great Neck," "So Long Letty" and numerous others to his credit, has again chosen the subject of modern youth, a theme which he handles so skilfully and so well.

The splendid cast of thespians is headed by a noted trio of co-featured players—Roger Pryor, a most popular stage favorite, Margaret Sullavan, conceded by critics to be a new "find," and Herbert Rawlinson, the well-known screen star.

"A Modern Virgin" has been expertly staged by Stanley Logan.

ORCHESTRA HALL

The public who has grown to love "Seth Parker," "Ma" and the "Jonesport Neighbors," over the radio, will want to see them in person when the stage production, "Seth Parker and His Jonesport Neighbors" is shown in Orchestra Hall, Detroit, October 21 and 22, with a matinee on the 22nd.

The simple philosophy and dry humor of Seth Parker will be heard from the stage just as realistically as it has been sent out through the microphone to the four million souls who dial each Sunday evening. Everyone of the "Neighbors" will be there, Seth, himself, as portrayed by Phillips Lord, Ma, Lizzie, Cephus, Captain, Jane and her sweetheart John, Mrs. Hooper, Laith and Fred.

Mr. Lord's Maine dialect, homey phrases, his simple wisdom and subtle humor ring true because they are taken from life. As "Seth" he slips back into the past, becomes for an evening that grand old Yankee, Hosea Phillips, who made such a profound impression on his boyhood mind.

Folks write Seth to marry them, christen their babies, and write hymns for funerals and a minister recently gave a sermon on "The Five Most Famous Mothers Living Today," mentioning Mrs. Seth Parker in his text.

"SMART WOMAN"

Produced by Radio Pictures Directed by Gregory La Cava The Cast: Nancy Don, Robert Ames, Edward Everett Horton, Noel Francis, Ruth Weston, John Halliday, Myron Fagin, Nancy's Private Affairs, which ever you prefer, turned out to be the modern treatment of a very old plot.

Nancy returns from France and a sick mother, to find her husband not only interested in another, but anxious for a divorce that he may marry her. Which introduces the old problem of whether a wife finding her husband seeking the company of other women, shall do likewise. Well whether she should or not, Nancy does. Aided and abetted by a jolly sister-in-law and husband, Sally and Bill, she invites Sir Guy Harrington, who had been a fellow-passenger on shipboard, for the Next Sunday, October 11, is Rally Day at Grace, and it will be observed in one big service for both church and church school at 10 o'clock. A very interesting program has been arranged, including singing by the younger classes, the presentation of a gift to the church by another class, and some unusual attractions which are not to be announced beforehand. Awards for faithful attendance will also be presented.

Mr. Hall, the superintendent, will conduct the service, and Rev. Mr. Haussler will speak for the first time since his illness. The choir plans to sing Fenwick's "He Shall Reign Forever," and the organist, to play selections by Sibelius.

SOUNDS AND SHADOWS

"But," said a young friend of mine the other day, "you can't call a column 'Sounds and Shadows' and then talk about the stage on it." Whereup I said—"Yes! my very young friends I can; sounds, as you may not know due to your lack of experience, also emanate from the stage." This put me in mind of a chance glimpse onto the stage of the Cass theater the other morning, where a rehearsal of Peter Arno's play was in progress.

I slipped in with the distinct feeling that I oughtn't to be there; and it looked pretty exciting—vast brilliant pink scenery stretching way into the upper reaches, little figures before it, lights and shade; a few chosen ones in the audience, and an air of terrific tenseness. "Do you suppose they would throw me out if I went into the theater to watch rehearsal for a few minutes?" I asked at the office, on slithering out. "They would if they found you there, and besides the door is locked," I was told. "Oh! no, the door isn't locked, and I've just come out," I replied. And the moral of that is, do it first, and then ask.

"Murder At Midnight" Now At the State!

The mysterious thrilling picture of "Murder at Midnight" is now having its first Detroit showing at the State theater. This picture, which is full of nerve-tingling drama, boasts a balanced cast of players. Every player in this picture was chosen for his or her fitness for the part.

In the leading roles Hale Hamilton, Leslie Fenton and Robert Elliott head the male contingent, with Aileen Pringle, Alice White and Clara Blandick in the principal feminine roles.

Greta Garbo At Paramount

Greta Garbo's new starring picture of "Susan Lenox," (Her Rise and Fall), has its world premier showing at the Paramount starting Thursday, October 8.

This picture, which has been adapted from the world-famous novel of the same name, offers the fiery Garbo every chance for emotion. Her fine acting is one of the highlights of the picture.

Clark Gable, that handsome young man of the screen is seen in the leading role opposite Garbo. He plays the part of her lover, and in so doing, gives a marvelous screen performance.

"Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" on Michigan Screen!

The current show at the Michigan zooms along at breakneck speed with "Get-Rich-Quick-Wallingford" taking Detroit like Grant took Richmond. William Haines appears in the role of young Wallingford in what is without doubt the greatest role of his brilliant young career.

Lila Hyams, lovelies than ever before appears opposite Haines. Ernest Torrence plays the part of Blackie Daw, Haines' partner in crime but lovable withal. And sharing honor with the other members of the cast is Jimmy (Schnoozle) Durante, famous from coast to coast as a night club entertainer and who injects a new kind of comedy into the picture.

The story involves a trio of schemers whose methods of getting rich are not entirely within the law and of how Wallingford finds that honesty pays when it comes to winning a girl. It is a refreshing comedy that moves along rapidly from one exciting episode to another until it reaches a breathless climax.

Ocean Levels

The mean level of the Pacific at the isthmus of Panama has been found to be about eight inches higher than the mean level of the Atlantic. In the month of February the levels are the same, but throughout the rest of the year, on account of current, tidal and wind influence, the mean level of the Pacific ranges above that of the Atlantic. It is as much as one foot higher in October.

Anti-Typhoid Serum

Ferdinand Vidal, a native of Algiers and professor in the Paris faculty, collaborated with Chautemesse in his early work on preventive vaccinations against typhoid fever, and made his mark by his discovery of bacterial agglutination in 1895, and its application in the diagnosis of typhoid. Sir Almroth Edward Wright, professor of pathology, made typhoid vaccination practicable in 1896 and 1897, inoculating over 3,000 soldiers in India in 1898.

Ended Negro Slavery

The negroes in the British West Indies were granted their freedom in 1839. France granted freedom in its possessions in the West Indies in 1848, and Holland in 1858. These were by legislation and not by force of arms or revolt.

Lie Works Swiftly

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF The Guardian Bank of Grosse Pointe

STATE OF MICHIGAN, County of Wayne, ss: I, S. Willard Hosking, Assistant Cashier, of the above named bank do solemnly swear, that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief and correctly represents the true state of the several matters therein contained, as shown by the books of the bank.

WILLARD HOSKING, Assistant Cashier Correct Attest: H. L. WADSWORTH, CHARLES E. CLARK, C. W. TREADWELL, My commission expires Jan. 30, 1935.

Dorais' Titans Await Iowa State "11" for Game Here Friday Eve

(Continued from Page One) Earl McCracken, sophomore halfback. McCracken, who is the smallest back on the squad, weighing 145 pounds and standing 5 feet, 6 1/2 inches tall, struck the feature of the game when he intercepted a Western forward pass and sprinted 96 yards for a touchdown. Besides this, McCracken showed expert ball carrying and will probably see more service as the season continues.

Starting with the Iowa State contest, the University of Detroit Titan football team will meet eight opposing eleven which represent no less than eight different states of the Union. Iowa State College is located in Ames, Iowa; Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wisconsin; West Virginia University, Morgantown, West Virginia; Loyola of the South, New Orleans, La.; Fordham University, New York City, N. Y.; Villanova University, Villanova, Pa.; Michigan State College, Lansing, Mich.; and Georgetown University, Washington, D. C.

Concerning Chimneys

The bureau of agricultural engineering says that, while a round chimney is preferable to a square one, both are satisfactory. If a chimney is straight and the air current is strong, smoke is likely to travel straight up. If it meets an obstruction, or if there is only a light draft, the currents will carry it up spirally.

Famous French Sailor

Herve Riel was a Breton sailor who saved the French squadron, when beaten at Cape La Hague and flying before the English, by plotting it into the harbor of St. Malo (May 31, 1692). He was so unconscious of the service he had rendered that, when asked to name his reward he begged for a whole day's holiday to see his wife. Browning in 1867 wrote the poem "Herve Riel."

Upholstery

In upholstering furniture, housewives may well keep in mind that moths feed on woolen, feather and hair fillings, but do not care for cotton batting, burlap, cotton and linen covers, leather, silk, linen, rayon, spanish moss, flax straw, tow, palm fiber or sea moss.

Museum Has Rare Volume

A book written by monks before 1850 and formerly owned by a Spanish family of Seville is in the cathedral at St. Louis. The volume is about three feet square, the pages are of vellum and the binding is of leather, bound with metal.

Separate English Heaven Deduction It is said of Swedenborg, the famous mystic, that the aloofness of the English struck him so that in his theological system with thoughtful consideration he provided the English with a separate heaven for themselves. Harry, a five-year-old farm lad, ate a soft-boiled egg for breakfast. One morning he cut his egg open, and finding it hard, said: "Mamma, I think I forgot to water the chickens yesterday."

Everest Continues to Defy Mountain Climbers

Several noteworthy attempts have been made to reach the top of Mount Everest, but none have been successful. The first was in 1921, but conditions were so little understood that it amounted to little more than a reconnaissance expedition. A new start was made in May, 1922. The first attempt of that season failed after reaching a height of 25,000 feet, the first camp ever to be made at that distance above sea-level. A second try achieved a height of 27,300 feet but they were forced to turn back. A third attempt was made but it grew too late in the season and rain and melting snow created great dangers from avalanches. In 1928 another expedition set out and finally reached 27,000 feet. Of this, two men, Mallory and Irvine, pressed on and were last seen within 200 feet of the top when mists blew across, enshrouding their fate in mystery. Their companion in the camp searched for them but failed to find trace of them. The mountain is 29,002 feet high.

Tribal Expressions Not Alike for Both Sexes

The difference in the language used by men and women of the same tribe, discussed by Sir James George Frazer, English anthropologist, in his book, "Garnet Sheaves," calls to mind the varied words employed by the Incas of Peru to describe the same object or operation, says the New York Herald Tribune. Spinning, for instance, by a woman was called "buhca," but when a man engaged in this task it was called "buhco."

Before the Inca youths of royal blood were invested with arms, they were tested as to their ability to meet the exigencies of warfare, such as the making of shields, weapons or even sandals, of any material available. Thus they practiced the manufacture of woolen sandal cords by twisting wool with a small stick. This method of twisting was called "milluy," and as the work was for men, women did not use the word.

Betel Nut Chewing

The "betel nut" palm is a native of the Malay peninsula, where it has been cultivated for 2,400 years. The fibrous fruit, about the size of a hen's egg, is bright orange or red in color, and contains a hard seed or nut as large as a filbert. The natives cut the nuts into slices, add lime to them, roll them into a betel pepper leaf, and chew them. This habit, which has been common to all Indian and Malayan races since 400 B. C., and which serves as a narcotic, colors the mouth and lips red, and blackens and eventually destroys the teeth. Europeans in general do not care for it, but it is immensely popular in the Orient. A kind of catechu, a substance used in medicine, is extracted from the nuts. The palm is cultivated, and the nuts are exported.

Signs of the Zodiac

The ancients attached much importance to the signs of the Zodiac. The introduction of the 12 figures of the Zodiac into the walls or pavements of early churches and cathedrals is common in Europe. Thus, in Cologne cathedral an elaborate design outlining the 12 signs is to be seen graven on the pavement in front of the choir and it also forms the subject of a stained glass window to the right of the great door at the entrance. Still more frequently are the zodiacal signs to be found used in decorative form in the temples of the East.

Symbols of Power

The eagle stood for two things in ancient symbolism, says an article in the Montreal Family Herald. The Greek name for the monarch of the air was a word meaning "rapid motion." The deeply mystic Hebrews, after watching the great bird sitting motionless, contemplating the sun, gave it a name which meant "meditation." In early Christian art the eagle became the symbol of spiritual power, because it was able to soar tirelessly through the highest places. The lion was the symbol of human pride and temporal power.

Slow Starting

Modern machinery often requires a considerable time to get under efficient working speed. A new 120-ton gyrostabilizer, described by Collier's Weekly, has a 55-ton rotating wheel powered by a 200 horse power motor, and requires almost an hour to attain its working speed of 15 revolutions per second. It runs on its own momentum for two hours after the current is shut off.

Bullet Long in Body

Fifty-one years ago, while hunting in the neighborhood of Council Bluffs, Iowa, W. D. Livingston, of Frankville, accidentally shot himself in the ankle. The bullet has just been removed, because for the first time in more than half a century the small piece of lead caused soreness. Mr. Livingston is now a man of seventy-three. —Indianapolis News.

Protected Industry

Bees enjoy a natural monopoly, in which they are protected by a federal pure food law. It prohibits the sale of any artificial product as honey. Said to contain, in limited quantities, practically all the elements of a perfect food, honey has been utilized by man since before recorded history, authorities on the subject say.

Zeal

The only true zeal is that which is guided by a good light in the head and that which consists of good and innocent affections in the heart. —Sprat.

"Ideal Man" as Seen by Public Health Service

Some men will find comfort in plans and specifications put out by the public health service, the Spokane Spokesman-Review remarks. If a man is between thirty and fifty years old, weighs from 160 to 170, and is not more than 5 feet 8 inches tall, he is a pretty fine fellow. At least, he is likely to have more strength and endurance than men who do not fit the specifications. If he is a little short on strength and endurance, he has only himself to blame, and should at once begin to make the most of his opportunities.

Wives of men whose measurements are correct will, if wise, refuse to ignore the public health service's information. They will point out that a man at the peak of his physical power should not shrink from rowing a boat over the glossy surface of a lake or from propelling a lawn mower up and down a gently rolling terrace. They will sweetly but audibly wonder why a paltry 18 holes of golf should leave a stalwart 170-pounder too exhausted to paint the garage.

There remains the problem of keeping at or below 170 pounds. This is a matter that cannot be airily dismissed, especially during the trying period between the ages of thirty-five and fifty. It is during those mystic years that a man keeps warning himself that he must get more exercise. The knowledge that he has great potential strength and endurance will not fatten the wastline. The strength and endurance have to be given an occasional chance to assert themselves.

Nuremberg Powder Horn Splendid Work of Art

Among unusual displays at the Metropolitan Museum of Art is a powder horn made of a stag's antler, elaborately decorated with silver-gilt mountings. It was made in Nuremberg about 1620, at a time when hunting as a sport of noblemen was at its height, and is tinged yellow with age. Its face, worn by constant handling, is carved in relief with the figure of a dismounted knight in full armor, kneeling before a wayside crucifix. Above the knight are clouds, God the Father with an orb, and the dove of the Holy Ghost. On the back is carved a design of floral scrolls.

Silver-gilt caps cover the three terminals of the horn, the tops of the caps and the spout being engraved with foliate scrolls of unusual elegance, their sides chased in relief with cherubs' heads, scrolls and birds pecking at fruit. A slide, gracefully sculptured, opened and closed the aperture controlling the flow of powder into the spout. —New York Herald Tribune.

Corsica Worth a Visit

Those who want a short holiday off the beaten track will appreciate a visit to the French island of Corsica in the Mediterranean, says a traveler. Its rugged mountains and superb forests tower up from the sea as do those of Norway. The island is covered with pines, beaches and chestnuts, and, like nearby Italy, has acres and acres of olive yards. The artists who have long favored the island for its beauty called it "the impossible island," where unbelievable loveliness, not found elsewhere, become true and seen by all. At Ajaccio is to be seen in the Palace Letitia, the birthplace of Napoleon Bonaparte with relics and memories of his career.

Early Silk Spinning

Perhaps the first mention of the silkworm in western literature is that by Aristotle, pupil of Plato and teacher of Alexander the Great, who lived in the Fourth century B. C. He speaks of it as: "A great worm which has horns and so differs from others. At its first metamorphosis it produces a caterpillar, then a bombylius, then a chrysalis—all the three changes taking place within six months. From this animal women separate and reel off the cocoons, and afterwards spin them. It is said that silk was first spun in the island of Cos, by Pamphile, daughter of Pales."

Soldier's Idea of Action

This is my philosophy of action: Every time you've a task before you examine it carefully, take exact measure of what is expected of you. Then make your plan, and in order to execute it properly create for yourself a method. Never improvise. The fundamental qualities for good execution of a plan are, first, naturally, intelligence; then discernment and judgment which enable one to recognize the best methods to attain it; then singleness of purpose; and, lastly, what is most essential of all, namely, will—stubborn will.—Marshal Foch.

Failure

Here's a new bride story, in which we find friend husband mournfully at a pile of stogy dough. "Why, darling," he ventured to remark after a painful pause, "this bread isn't cooked at all!" "I know it isn't," admitted the bride gloomily, "and for the life of me I can't understand it. I put in lots and lots of baking powder but it doesn't seem to have baked at all!"

Isn't It True?

"It's well known that what makes one man laugh may make another angry." "A good instance is to watch a fat man step on a banana skin."—Passing Show.

Netherlands' Boast

The Netherlands claim that its system of social legislation is one of the most advanced in the world, as it carefully protects the unemployed, the sick, the old and the maimed.

A steward stood at the gangway of a big liner, and as he stood there he kept shouting for the benefit of the arriving passengers:

A young woman stepped daintily aboard with a babe in her arms. As she hesitated before the steward he bent over her and said, in his chivalrous way:

"First or second?" "Oh!" said the girl, her face as red as a rose, "Oh, dear! it's-it's not mine!"

Sad and Short

The driver of one of those midget cars found himself sitting by the side of the road surveying his damaged chariot. He turned to the truck driver.

"Do you mean to tell me you couldn't see me coming on a straight stretch of road like this?" he demanded.

"Well, to tell you the truth," explained the truck driver, "I did see your car; but I thought it was only a fly on my windshield."

"Bad Girl" Now At Riviera

"Bad Girl," Vina Delmar's profound study of motherhood as it affects a typical young couple of New York's working class, best seller among recent novels of youth, and smash stage hit of the past season, has now reached the screen with Sally Eilers and James Dunn in the co-featured parts.

Frank Forzage, known as the master interpreter of pathos and human emotion, directed this Fox film production which is the featured attraction at the Riviera theater, Grand River and Joy road.

Buster Keaton Stars In New Fisher Picture!

Buster Keaton gives one of the funniest performances of his entire career in "Sidewalks of New York" which will be shown at the Fisher theater in Detroit during the week of October 10th.

Keaton plays the role of a millionaire's son who gets in a hilarious series of mishaps while attempting to reform the tough youngsters of a tenement district. More fun starts when he falls in love with a pretty girl and tries to tame her small brother who is one of the toughest boys of the place.

controversy lately, is definitely leaving Paramount to join Warner Bros.

"Susan Lenox" is on the way to completion. This Garbo-Gable picture under the direction of Robert Leonard is expected to draw big crowds. It will be interesting to see whether Mr. Leonard manages to get an equivalent amount of story into seven reels, as Josef von Sternberg did of "American Tragedy," both are two volume books and both contain much material.

The rather facetious title of "The Poor Little Ritz Girl," has been abandoned in favor of "Under Eighteen." Marian Marsh and Regis Toomey have leading roles.

Columbia Pictures has chosen Lois Moran to play the role of the little orphan in "The Men in Her Life."

"Expensive Women," bringing Dolores Costello, absent from the screen for many a moon, back, is nearing completion.

Loretta Young has been put into "Blind Spot," opposite James Cagney, in place of Joan Blondell. Joan and James will probably be together in "Larceny Lane," however.

Harry Beaumont has been given "Skyscraper," to direct. Mr. Beaumont likes these modern things, and does well with them. His direction and Cedric Gibbons' settings have put several of Joan Crawford's ultra pictures among the successful.
