

PARENTS STORM SCHOOL BOARD MEETING: PROTEST NEW POLICIES

Grade School Children Above Test Standard Dr. Brownell Reports

Recent achievement tests held in the Grosse Pointe public schools show the elementary grades to be five months to six months above the test standard according to an announcement this week by Dr. S. M. Brownell, superintendent of schools. The achievement test used was the new Standard Achievement Test, Dr. Brownell stated.

In commenting on the testing program, Dr. Brownell said: "During the school year of 1930-31 the most comprehensive testing program, up to this time was carried on by the Grosse Pointe schools. Previous to this year, only two periods of testing had been conducted, one at the beginning and one at the end of the year. While this type of program has proven to be very valuable, it was felt by the administration and teachers that more thorough and systematic results could be obtained by also testing in the middle of the year. Consequently, for the first time three periods of testing were conducted resulting in the most careful and reliable measurement of results which this school system has had for any one year."

Garska Announces Park Improvements Ready: Wading Pool Completed

Practically all major improvements in Grosse Pointe Park's "Waterfront Park" are now completed, Alfred Garska, president of the Park council, announced this week. The wading pool is the latest improvement which has been completed, Mr. Garska stated. A sand bottom has been provided for the pool and within a week the gates to allow the entrance of water will be opened.

The tennis courts, completed for some time, are available for play until 10 p. m. daily and residents are cordially invited to use them.

One major improvement remaining to get under way is the bath house and preparations are now being made for its construction.

Navy Day Observance On October 27 Will Be Climaxed at Armory

Plans for the observance of Navy Day and the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt on October 27th were outlined at a meeting of the executive committee for Navy Day, held Tuesday evening, October 13, at the Naval Armory, 7600 E. Jefferson avenue, Col. James M. "Pat" O'Day, who was again named chairman for Michigan by Walter B. Howe, national chairman, announced today.

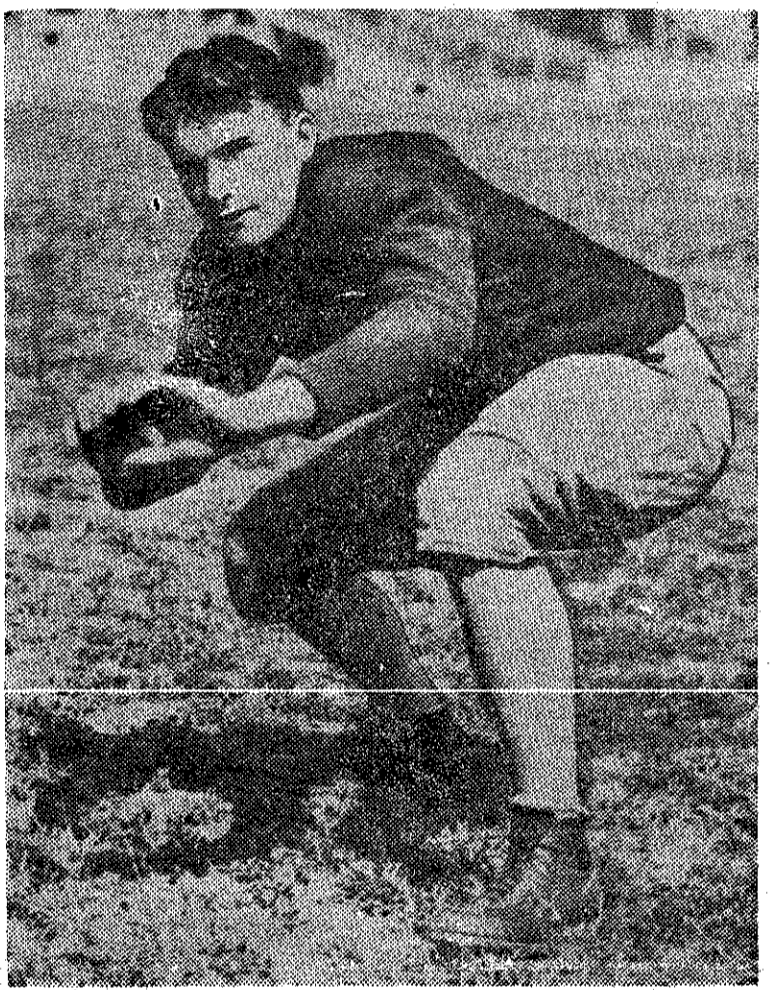

"The object of Navy Day," said Col. O'Day, "is to bring the facts about our navy and its needs to the attention of our citizens. Roosevelt's birthday is observed in connection with Navy Day because he was one of the greatest friends the navy ever had and his birthday and the date of the first bill authorizing an American navy are identical."

The Navy Day observances have now become statewide and the American Legion has also joined in the movement. The executive committee for Michigan consists of Lt. Col. James M. "Pat" O'Day, chairman, Lt. Commander M. R. Wortley, vice chairman, Col. George C. Waldo, Col. Walter C. Cole, Commander V. J. Dixon, Lt. Commander H. M. Briggs, Lt. Commander R. T. Brodhead, Lt. Commander A. A. Rutter, Lieut. Charles D. Williams, Lieut. George W. Akers, Capt. C. P. Matteson, Lt. Frank Darin, James W. Beckman, Edwin B. Nall and Harry L. Shearer. The general committee is composed of 71 prominent men of the state.

Scintillates in Classroom and on Gridiron

JOE BEER, U OF D. TACKLE
A star on the gridiron and an "A" student in the classroom, is Joe Beer, playing right tackle on the University of Detroit football team this season. "Joe" is enrolled in the pre-medical course at the U. of D. and his success to date disproves the general opinion that football players are not conscientious students.

U. of D. Footballers Face Test Friday Eve. Again Marquette U

Showing improvement with each succeeding encounter since their defeat at the hands of the DePaul University gridgers of Chicago, Coach Charles E. Dorais' University of Detroit Titans are awaiting their first major contest of the season with Golden Avalanche of Marquette University of Milwaukee, Wis.

Since resuming foot ball relations in 1929, Marquette and Detroit have waged eight quarters of deadlocked play. Both tied games have figured prominently in setting the standard of the home team's season record. The '29 Titan eleven weekly was adding to a long chain of unbeaten and untied games when the Murrays of Marquette held them to a 6-6 count to break the winning streak that had already reached a total of twenty frays. Last year, Dorais' charges treated themselves to a dish of sweet revenge by battling the M. U. tossers to a scoreless tie and causing the only mar on an otherwise perfect record for Marquette.

Besides the two knotted contests, Marquette and Detroit gridiron teams have met three times. The first encounter was played in 1920 when the U. of D. team, then called the "Tigers" won a 21-14 victory. The 1922 and 1923 (Continued on Page Two)

Brownell, superintendent of schools. Total school enrollment in September aggregated 3,417 students compared with 3,223 students enrolled a year ago. The bulk of the increase has been in the high school, Dr. Brownell reports.

With the recent authorization of a $60,000 loan by the Grosse Pointe school board, a total of $210,000 will have been borrowed against the current year's school taxes to finance the present operation of the public school system here, it was learned at the regular meeting of the school board last Monday evening. This amount is 24 per cent of the anticipated tax collections.

Miss Ruth Galster, of Yorkshire road, entertained Sunday at dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellison who were in Detroit for the week-end.

The marriage of Miss Pommerer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Harold Wills, to Mr. George Edward Schneck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Martin Schenck, was solemnized Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Harold Wills, of East Jefferson avenue. Rev. Samuel H. Forrer officiated at the ceremony, marked by simple though distinctive appointments. An embankment of white and yellow chrysanthemums provided a lovely background for the nuptials, and were used in profusion about the rooms.

Miss Pommerer was a lovely bride in her gown of ivory satin, fashioned on slender lines with long sleeves and train, and square-neck outlined with rote pointe lace. Her tulle veil, edged with lace, was confined in cap effect and caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of gardenias and white orchids. Mrs. Harold Raymond Boyer, who attended the bride, was attired in a gown of Crepe Elizabeth in two shades of fuschia, with blending velvet hat. Her flowers were orchids. Mary Jane Book, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid, her frock being of chiffon in the shades of rose shade. She carried Talisman roses.

Mrs. Wills was gowned in gray Patou velvet, with chinchilla fur trim, and her hat, of a matching shade, was ornamented with an ostrich plume. Mrs. Schenck, mother of the bridegroom, was distinctive in brown velvet with matching hat.

Mr. Harry F. Rust assisted Mr. Schenck as best man and the ushers were Mr. John T. Woodhouse, Jr. and Mr. Brooks Begg.

At the reception, which followed the ceremony, the tea table was laid on the sun porch, and was embellished entirely with white flowers and white tapers arranged over a lace cloth.

Mr. Schenck and his bride have left for a three weeks' wedding trip. They will make their home at 16910 Village Lane, Grosse Pointe.

The Parent Teachers Association of George Defer school at their evening meetings during the winter months will present a series of lectures, each of which will deal with some particular phase of child psychology. The first of these meetings will be held next Tuesday evening, October 20th, at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium and the speaker will be Mr. Barnes, principal of Grosse Pointe high school, whose subject will be "Discipline." At this time also Professor Henri Mathews, noted violinist will be heard in several selections.

All parents are urged to be present at these meetings throughout the year and by co-operating with the officers and other members of the association give additional force to this very worthwhile movement.

The tea given by the ladies of the Association last Tuesday was very successful, being attended by more than 150 ladies, who spent a very enjoyable afternoon.

Parents Attend Board Meeting To Object To New School Policies

Parents of school children stormed the administration office of the Grosse Pointe Board of Education last Monday evening and protested vigorously to the School Board against its certain policies and practices in force now in the School District.

The occasion was a regular meeting of the School Board and the protesting parents comprised a group that was the largest ever to attend a School Board meeting in the memory of veteran observers of School Board affairs. The seating capacity of the meeting room of the Board was taxed to capacity and many found it necessary to stand in adjoining corridors.

A part of the group consisted of a delegation representing the Mason-Vernier Parent Teachers association while the others were from the Cadieux school district.

The Mason-Vernier P-T-A delegation through their spokesman protested the new policy of the school board in refusing to provide transportation for junior and senior high school children of the Shores and Lochmoor. It was pointed out that many of the children had to come a distance of six miles to the High school.

The delegation from the Cadieux school district opposed the Board's practice in transferring children in the Cadieux school from the Defer school to the Trombly school.

Charles A. Parcels, president of the board, expressed in the name of the school board, its sincere appreciation of the interest the parents were taking in school affairs and pledged most careful consideration of the problem of providing transportation for their children. Mr. Parcels also stated that an inquiry would be made by the superintendent of schools, Dr. S. M. Brownell, in the matter of the necessity of transferring the Cadieux school children from the Defer school to the Trombly school.

Park Residents Urged To Secure Licenses Now To Avoid Rush

For the convenience of Grosse Pointe Park residents who will have to obtain a renewal of their drivers licenses by November 1, the Park police department will issue the new licenses daily from 7:30 a. m. to 9 p. m., Alfred Garska, president of the Park council, announced this week. Up to the present time, very few Park residents have made application for their licenses. Mr. Garska stated, and a last minute rush is expected. He advised residents to file their applications at once.

At The Theatres - - - By Molly Elgood

CIVIC THEATER

"The Merry Wives of Windsor," Shakespeare's most boisterous comedy, will be produced the second week of the special Coburn engagement at the Detroit Civic theater, opening Monday evening, Oct. 19, and closing Sunday evening, Oct. 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Coburn are too famous as comedians to need much introduction. For years they had their own Shakespearean company and their own theater in New York. Detroit has seen them in recent years in such successes as "The Better 'Ole," "The Farmer's Wife," "So This Is London," and most recent of all, "Lysistrata." Falstaff is one of Mr. Coburn's most famous roles. Mrs. Coburn lends her charm and humor to the sprightly character of Mistress Ford, from whose house the amorous Falstaff is carried in a basket of washing.

"The Merry Wives of Windsor" comes to Detroit so seldom that it is in the nature of a treat. In the last ten years two productions have been given here, the all star revival with Mrs. Fiske and Otis Skinner and the performance given by the Stratford Players during their last visit. Mr. and Mrs. Coburn opened their Detroit engagement at the Civic theater October 12 with "The Plutocrat," the farce comedy from the novel by Booth Tarkington.

CASS THEATER

Sigmund Romberg's greatest and the most popular success among his long string of light opera and musical play hits, "The Student Prince," comes again to the Cass theater on Sunday, October 18, for one week only, arriving here fresh from its renewed Broadway and Chicago acclaim.

More resplendent than ever, in new dress and settings, this precious musical gem is presented by the Messrs. Shubert in Detroit for a brief engagement before going to Boston for a run. Detroit is the sixth city to see this specially organized company and production, which proved so popular recently at the Majestic theater in New York at popular prices and even more recently at the Grand Opera House in Chicago.

In this year's cast will be found a number of old favorites headed by George Hassell, who was the original Lutz when the play made its sensational original appearance on Broadway, more than six years ago. Others in the cast are: Allen Prior, Gertrude Lang, Lee Beegs, Marion Weeks, Hollis Daveny, Margaret Cantrell, Nathaniel Sacks, Belle Sylvia, and, of course, the customary notable student male chorus.

"The Student Prince" has long been hailed as one of the most perfect of all light operas and is certainly among the best balanced as to story, music and (Continued on Page Two) other elements that go to make up a fine show. Long before it was made into a musical show with Sigmund Romberg's immortal melodies it was a great play, having been taken from "Old Heidelberg" as pretty nearly everybody must know.

New plays in modern theatrical history have attracted so much attention for "The Student Prince" ran for a year and one-half the first time it appeared in New York and now has a total of nearly 700 performances to its credit in the metropolis, while in Chicago, its first engagement lasted for 68 consecutive weeks. At one time the Messrs. Shubert had ten companies of "The Student Prince" running simultaneously in different parts of the country.

In Detroit, capacity of the Cass theater enables the producers to present this great musical play at the lowest prices in its history as night prices will be 50c to $2.50, Wednesday matinee, 50c to $1.00 and Saturday matinee 50c to $1.50.

RKO DOWNTOWN

"The best college picture since the coming of talking pictures." That is what Hollywood critics said about Lew Ayres in "The Spirit of Notre Dame," coming to the RKO Downtown theater Friday, October 16.

It is more than a motion picture since the producers are said to have caught the inspirational spirit of the greatest of all football coaches "Knute Rockne," to whom the picture is dedicated. This is the film in which the late Notre Dame mentor was supposed to take the leading role, and which is now played by J. Farrell McDonald, who gives a wonderful performance according to all accounts.

Football names run riot throughout the picture. These do not appear merely for a few flashing moments, but take important talking roles in the picture. For instance there is Frank Carideoff All-American Quarter, and the far-famed "Four Horsemen," Crowley, Miller, Layden and Stuhldreher, as well as Andy Devine, Walsh, Moon Mullins and many others.

"The Spirit of Notre Dame" does not follow the accepted pattern of the movies. It takes new slants that are both intensely interesting and attention holding. It not only has foot ball and school spirit, but youth and young love. Not too much but enough. Incidentally, Sally Blaine is the girl in the case.

But more than anything else the picture is "The Spirit of Rockne," the master mind of foot ball, the young players' friend, the moulder of men to be who, in short, was the "Spirit of Notre Dame."

A MODERN VIRGIN

The Elmer Harris play offered last week at the Lafayette theater, presents an example of the play that fails to reach a proper climax. The dramatic highest moment is reached, not toward the end of the third act, but at the end of the first, where we find the modern virgin Teddy, scrambling into her clothes, carrying on a hectic conversation with her aunt on the other side of the door, preparatory to escaping through the window to join her day's companion.

After this point the play slowly loses interest, limping with a forced pace through a second act with its semi-climax that somehow fails to materialize, and dwindling out to a disappointingly flat and unconvincing finish.

All the dash and cleverness of speech has gone into that first act. Teddy, the seventeen-year-old who wants to know carefully shielded with an aunt's austere, nice people don't do these things. Her fiancé, a dull conventionalist who would marry her at once to protect her. The men she calls on the phone for fun, who later plot to give her a little scare, to cure her flirting. Hazzard, in the plot, "discovers" a forest cabin with her, they eat and make merry, until a tramp appears and looks dangerous. Whereupon Teddy wields a handy sabre and proves to be quite capable of taking care of herself. Just how she is swung around to seeing things the right way and even falling in love with her unusually objectionable fiancé, is not very clear. From a fainting young modern demanding the right to live and love, she fades distantly into a milk and water heroine, and by that time one has lost interest in what she does in any case.

The piece is carried by Margaret Sullivan; Herbert Rawlinson and Roger Pryor are efficient but uninspired. The part of the aunt and that of Hazzard's wife are overplayed to the point of positive grotesqueness.

"BAD COMPANY"

Produced by RKO Pathe Directed by Tay Garnett The Cast: Helen.....Helen Twelvretres Goldie Gorio.....Ricardo Cortez Steven.....John Garrick King.....Frank Conroy

When one considers the power of the screen and its ability to propagate good or evil, it is pretty sobering to sit down and consider the effects of a film of this kind on the minds of those who see it. Trusting temporarily aside the fact that the wrongdoer is punished, and he usually is, to give the makers due credit, gang pictures wouldn't have lasted so long; films of the "Bad Company" type are poisonous material. They are ugly, rotten in their entirety and bad medicine for idle minds to cull over. Where no actual damage is done, the result of viewing such stuff is bound to be lowering.

Helen, the sister of King, a ganglord, is given in marriage to Steve, a member of the opposite gang with the intention of making peace between the two gangs. The girl, unaware of the undercurrent, is horrified when she learns after her husband is wounded, that he and her brother are gangsters.

Goldie Gorio, the leader of the gang to which Steve belongs, having sent him out knowing that he would face the line of police fire, is confronted by King and supporters who demand a showdown. They are trapped, and massacred. Helen goes to Gorio's apartment to avenge her brother, shoots him, as the police arrive, only to have it blinked at.

This briefly is the material of which the motion picture is made. Based on the resultant viciousness and brutality of the country's worst menace, containing one of the most damnable pieces of hypocrisy in the use of the church for gangland's beastly tools, it is presented to the moving picture public as entertainment. Why?

As a piece of work, it is well directed for the most part, some of the scenes are a bit long drawn out, too much footage given to a heroic speech by one gang leader in an effort to stress a moral. Ricardo Cortez gives a masterly performance as Gorio; nothing outstanding about the other performances.

Mystery Thriller Now At State!

"Murder at Midnight," which is now being shown at the State theater is unquestionably one of the grandest and the most completely baffling murder mysteries that any connoisseur of crime has seen in a long while. Not until the last moment is it possible to discover the criminal and, strange to relate, everything is worked out logically.

Fifi Darsay in Person At the Fisher!

Fifi Dorsay, the fiery French beauty of the screen, is appearing in person at the Fisher theater this week. Miss Dorsay, who is known as Hollywood's happiest and hottest star, sings and dances during her act.

Fifi has played in numerous pictures. She was seen as Victor McLaglen's partner in "Hot for Paris," while El Brendel appeared with her in "Mr. Lemon of Orange." Her most recent screen appearance was with Will Rogers in "Young As You Feel."

Greta Garbo-Clark Gable in "Susan Lenox" at Paramount

The answer to many a maiden's prayer is to be found in the seaming of Greta Garbo and Clark Gable in "Susan Lenox, Her Fall and Rise," now playing at the Paramount to record breaking audiences.

It was a happy and wise decision that made the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer officials cast this engaging newcomer opposite the famous Swedish star. Gable is right at the top of the ladder in the estimation of fans and his work in the Garbo picture would seem to assure his early bid for stardom.

"24 Hours" Is Sensational Hit At Michigan!

The amazing sum of drama, suspense, romance and adventure that is faltered in the big cities of today, and most frequently is enacted all about us without our eyes and senses fathoming the ever-present clues and symbols, is "24 Hours," the new photoplay being headlined at the Michigan theater this week.

As a novel and Cosmopolitan Magazine story called "Shattered Glass," this Louis Bromfield narrative of tangled lives and loves treated within two turns of the clock as modern New York City sees it, proved highly nutritive to entertainment appetites.

Gaynor-Farrell Hit Now at the Riviera Theatre

The latest Gaynor-Farrell hit is now the screen attraction at the Riviera theater. With a story perfectly fitted to its principals, thoroughly realistic settings, an excellently-chosen group of supporting players and the admirable direction of Henry King, a splendid background is afforded the famous film "team" and they respond to the opportunity with some of the finest dramatic and emotional work they have ever done since "Seventh Heaven."

Last Sunday all previous records for Rally Day were broken when 165 people attended the combined service. All those present seemed to take an enthusiastic part in the program, a promising forecast for the future. However, the attendance this coming Sunday and every other Sunday at both church school and church will really tell the story. How many have really caught the spirit of the Master and of that Biblical author who said, "Let us not forsake the assembling of ourselves together, as the custom of some is?" Let us carry the spirit of Rally Day through the whole year.

Real Purpose Served by Cultivating Hobby

If more people had real hobbies there would be fewer cases of nervous breakdown, according to Dr. H. F. Klander, writing in Hygeia, the Health Magazine. Hobbies keep children out of mischief and they relieve the monotony of routine life for adults. It is well to be able to lose oneself for an hour, an evening, or even for a day in something that is not related to the daily tasks, this author believes.

A desirable hobby should furnish enjoyment, pleasure and gratification; it should require a minimum of equipment and expense, in Doctor Klander's opinion. Many hobbies may be distinctly educational. Literature, music and astronomy are examples of that type. Physical as well as mental health may be improved by a hobby; sports are of distinct value.

Many hobbies are started accidentally without forethought. It is well, however, suggests Doctor Klander, that parents and educators should plan indirectly to guide children in certain desirable interests in order that their leisure time may be wisely spent. Recreation has become a necessity, writes Doctor Klander. The trends of the times indicate that the schools must include more training in the use of leisure time not only for the years that the student is in school but also for the time when he is an adult.

Old Hand-Woven Linen of Marvelous Fineness

Twelve dozen of everything—that was the quantity which the proper continental bride of a century ago received in her trousseau. It sounds lavish, but it was actually common sense, because our great-grandparents had a grand laundering only once every three months!

A relic of those brave days appears on special occasions now, in a smart New York home. The linen damask cloth was woven by hand in the days when George Washington was more than a memory, and hand woven so finely that linen experts of today marvel at it. Narrow looms compelled the weavers to make their cloth in two strips, which are sewn together down the middle of the table.

An interesting feature of this setting is that the ancient damask creates a background of harmony for the latest silver, whose design identically matches the china.

Coffee in 1634

As to the precise date when coffee was introduced into England, authorities differ, and very little real value on the subject can be found, wrote Edward R. Emerson in "Beverages, Past and Present." Sir Henry Blount visited Turkey in 1634 and in one of his letters says: "The Turks have a drink called 'cauphe,' made of a berry as big as a small bean, dried in a furnace and beat to a powder of a sooty colour, the taste a little bitterish, that they see and drink, hot as may be endured. It is good at all hours of the day, but especially at morning and evening, when to that purpose they entertain themselves two or three hours in 'cauphe-houses,' which, in Turkey, abound more than inns and alehouses with us."

Corn's Many Products

Not much more than half of the great corn crop of the country finds its way to the dining table. The remainder goes to the refineries to be made up into a large variety of materials. These include the "sparklers" which do Fourth of July duty, explosives, face cream, soap, artificial rubber and silk, varnish, tanning extracts, radio batteries, textiles, paper carpet, mullage, salad dressing, slurr, cooking oil, vinegar and milk acids. Some considerable success has attended the manufacture of paper from the stalks, and it is probable that at no distant day a profitable use will be found for the piles of corn stalks which accumulate each year on the farms of this country.

Famous Dinosaur Skeleton

The dinosaur on exhibition at Peabody museum of Yale university is nearly 70 feet long, 16 feet high, and the skeleton weighs six and a half tons. Its estimated weight when alive was between 37 and 40 tons. The specimen was discovered by William Reed in Wyoming in 1881, and the bones were brought to Yale under the direction of Prof. Othniel C. Marsh, whose research resulted in this type's being known as Brontosaurus excelsus. At Yale's bicentennial in 1901 a portion of the skeleton was mounted and exhibited. Lack of space prevented the erection of the rest, which remained in storage. A few years ago the mounting was begun anew, the hall of Peabody being especially constructed to house this one animal.

Cake for Indigestion

Claudius Galenus, commonly known as Galen, was born at Pergamum, Greece, in 130 A. D., and is supposed to have died in Sicily. He was a celebrated philosopher, pharmacist and physician, and was for many centuries the supreme authority in medicine and pharmacy, wrote Charles H. LaWall in "Four Thousand Years of Pharmacy."

A bride's cake used at weddings during Galen's time and described by Cato was called "mustacea." It contained aromatics and carminative and was served at weddings to reduce the chances of indigestion caused by the usual over-indulgence on such occasions.

Features at the Aloma Theatre

"Street Scene" pictured from the famous Pulitzer Prize play by Elmer Rice, will be presented by Samuel Goldwyn at the Aloma theater soon. In directing the story of a warm-hearted romance and a passionate murder against the living screen of a city street, King Vidor makes of "Street Scene" his most ambitious effort since "The Big Parade."

Sylvia Sidney in whose ears are still ringing the nation-wide acclaim that greeted her appearance in "An American Tragedy" has the romantic lead in the picture. William Collier, Jr., plays opposite her. Estelle Taylor follows her brilliant performance in "Cimarron" with the exacting and difficulty role of Mrs. Murrant—which, to many of the play's multitude of friends who believe "Street Scene" to be as much a story of mother love as Goldwyn's earlier "Stella Dallas," is the most important of all.

"SILENCE"

"Silence," which a few years ago thrilled Broadway audiences on the stage, has been brought to the screen by Paramount under the direction of Max Marcin, its author, and Louis Gasnier, and will show at the Aloma theater here, for two days, beginning Tuesday, October 27.

The thrilling melodrama which has stood the test of time has been filmed with Clive Brook playing the role which H. B. Warner made famous on the stage. Marjorie Rameau and Peggy Shannon have the chief feminine parts, and handsome Charles Starrett, who plays opposite Miriam Hopkins in "Fast and Loose," carries the juvenile role.

"THE SMILING LIEUTENANT"

A tremendous combination of acting talent, directorial genius, writing wisdom and music-making magic have been woven into a thrilling and joyous motion picture entertainment, "The Smiling Lieutenant."

Bringing Maurice Chevalier back to the screen after his European tour in another rollicking romance which combines all the attractive features of his former successes, "The Smiling Lieutenant" comes to the Aloma theater for two days, starting Thursday, October 29th.

Two gorgeous leading ladies, the brunette Claudette Colbert, the blonde Miriam Hopkins, keep things lively for the smiling Frenchman. Charlie Ruggles, the joyous inebriate of a score of film hits, gives of his laugh-making talents to this new picture.

"THE HOT HEIRESS"

"I see no reason why marriage and two-careers cannot be successfully combined," says Ben Lyon, whose recent wedding to Bebe Daniels, film star, was the outstanding social event of the year in Hollywood.

"The fact that the marriages of a large percentage of picture people have not lasted doesn't in the least disturb us."

"I think conditions in Hollywood have changed greatly during the last five years. A few years ago a professional couple had more difficulties to overcome before they could attain happiness."

Lyon's next screen appearance is in "The Hot Heiress," a First National and Vitaphone production which comes to the Aloma theater Tuesday and Wednesday. The supporting cast includes Ona Munson, Walter Pidgeon, Inez Courtney, Thelma Todd and Tom Dugan.

"POLITICS"

It looks funny on the screen but it's often just a "pain" to the players. In "Politics," which will open Sunday and Monday at the Aloma theater, both Polly Moran and Marie Dressler took a lot of "punishment" during the process of creating laugh episodes.

The comic Miss Moran is on the receiving end of many of the laugh incidents of a riotous episode at the opening of the picture in which she and Miss Dressler pursue a canary who has escaped from his cage.

In "Politics," Miss Dressler is seen as a candidate for the mayorship of a small American city. Miss Moran helps her to get the votes. The cast also includes Karen Morley, William Bakewell, John Miljan, Joan Marsh, Tom McGuire, Kane Richmond and Mary Alden.

Deadly Fish

It is generally believed that the shark is the most dangerous fish, but the barracuda, a large, savage, pike-like fish of the tropical seas, is more apt to attack man than the shark. It is almost as large as a twelve-year-old boy and its mouth is such that any bite is likely to result in permanent injury.

Plants "Signatures"

A pseudo-science strangely mixed with theology, is the doctrine of the signature of plants, that is, the belief that for every illness there is some herb with the power to cure it and that the herb bears the sign or mark by which it may be known against what particular illness it may be applied.

Classes Organized for French Language Study

Madame Suzanne Menetret McFarland, graduate of the Sorbonne, Paris, and of Oxford University, England, is preparing for the organizing of classes and private lessons in the study of the French language, it was announced this week. Madame McFarland is a resident of the Pointe, her home being located on Kenwood place.

Classes for adults and children will be formed, it was stated, with tuition fees being fixed on a reasonable basis in accordance with the number of students enrolled.

games were won by Marquette by a 6 to 3 and 18-6 scores.

The sixth game to be played Friday evening at Detroit will serve as test for both elevens. Murray's squad suffered greatly from graduation and eligibility and the '31 aggregation is composed mainly of reserves and sophomores. While this team has shown strength in its early-season contests, Milwaukee supporters are reserving making claims concerning their team until after the Detroit game. The Red and White gridlers started their season slowly, accepting unexpected defeat from DePaul in the curtain-raiser. Since this game, the Titans have rapidly developed, but their real power is yet unknown. Detroit's victory over George Veenker's Iowa State, "Cyclones," by a 20 to 0 score last Friday night indicates that the Titans will be in the field again this year with a strong team despite their inauspicious start.

Gold in Bars
When gold is transferred, it is commonly cast in what is called the $10,000 bar, which measures three and one-half inches wide, six and three-quarters inches long and one and three-quarters inches deep. This is the largest regular bar made, and its value, although roughly given as $10,000, is calculated by actual weighing, and stamped on the bar. It may run as high as $11,000. Jewelers usually buy gold in the small $100 and $500 bars.

Grand Canyon a Marvel
The Grand canyon of the Colorado river in Grand Canyon National park, Ariz., offers what has been described by many as nature's greatest sight. It is a marvel of natural processes, a deep abyss cut, through the ages, by the river, and its tremendous sides sculptured in a panorama of color and awe-inspiring fantasy by centuries of wind and rain.

Thousands of Plant Types
There are believed to be about 200,000 kinds of plants growing throughout the world. Darwin recorded finding 20 species of flowering plants in a single patch of but three by four-foot square.—Gas Logic.

Alleges That Insects Are Menace to World
Insects are conquering in a mass attack on humanity. This is the view of A. Moore-Hogarth, chairman of the College of Pestology, London, England, who has made a life study of insects. "Insects are establishing such a stronghold that one day man will wake up to find that he has met his master," Mr. Hogarth said. "The trouble is that men in their ignorance take no well organized steps to fight the insect menace, and they don't realize that insects have brains. Before the war mosquitos were unknown in England. Today every fourth or fifth person has been bitten by one. "I am not a scaremonger. That eminent scientist, Sir Oliver Lodge, for example, has said that the end of the world will not be caused by such a calamity as an earthquake or flood, but by the ascendancy of the insect world over man. "Some simple-minded local authorities imagine that they are destroying mosquitos when they solemnly spray ponds with paraffin. In their ignorance they leave alone large tracts of ground where mosquitos breed in shoals. As for cockroaches there are cases where you could not get them out of a building without pulling it down. "Why are insects defeating man? Because all of their brains are devoted to the main things of life, to satisfying hunger and the welfare of the species, while man's brain is dissipated in various other interests."

Million "Plunks" Makes One's Serenity Secure
A million dollars spread over seventy years of a man's life accomplishes one great good at least. It spares him from an immense amount of anxiety. It is ammunition in his arsenal against care. Serenity, some philosophers think, is the greatest good. They have secured it, but at the sacrifice of everything else. They have usually been lonely and impecunious hermits. One cannot imagine much serenity or even personal comfort without money. Now, take a million dollars, and if you don't court trouble by trying to increase it, it drives away most mental distress and brightens every hour of the day. We do not adore wealth, but we understand its importance. It is worth while not to be bothered by the vicissitudes of life, and most of them can be eluded with a million dollars. There are more "Hallelujahs" and fewer "Oh, hades!" with it. One may be freer and less circumlocutory in the expression of opinion; and certainly there isn't any excuse for a repentant attitude toward the mighty. With a million, you are somewhat mighty yourself.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"Mourner's Bench"
In the United States (only), at revival meetings in churches, tents, and elsewhere, a bench, or row of camp-chairs, is placed directly beneath the platform or pulpit and reserved for those who wish to come forward, at the close of the preacher's exhortations, to declare their sins and seek forgiveness of the Lord. The bench, or row of chairs, as the case may be, is called the mourners' bench. The mourners' bench was very much in evidence a few years ago at the revival gatherings addressed by the late Dwight L. Moody, American evangelist, who said: "The devil howls in rage when he sees repentant sinners crowding the mourners' bench."—Literary Digest.

Captain Kidd "Framed"?
Recent biographers of Captain Kidd state that he was not a pirate and that the ships he took were lawful prizes captured in his legal capacity as a privateer. The charge of seizing two ships of the great mogul could have been met at his trial by the production of two documents which Kidd had taken from these ships and which he claimed proved that they were sailing under commissions issued by the French East India company, which made them lawful prizes. These documents Kidd had handed to his patron Lord Bellomont and they were not discovered until some 200 years later in the public records office.

"Seven Ages" in Glass
The window depicting the "Seven Ages of Man" was placed in the Holy Trinity church in Shakespeare's birthplace, Stratford-on-Avon, by Americans. There are eight panels in the window, but as the two top center panels refer to only one age, the seven ages are thus represented. The Biblical characters representing the Seven Ages are as follows: The Infant; Moses; the Schoolboy; Samuel; the Lover; Jacob; the Soldier; Joshua; the Justice; Solomon; the Slippered Pantaloon; Abraham; Sans Eyes, Sans Teeth, Sans Everything; Isaac.

Subjection of Static
Technicians are examining many steps that make up the sound process with the object of overcoming that disturbing scratch and static which often accompany voice reproduction. Without laying claim to supernatural powers, the engineers are sure that such noises will soon cease to be troublesome factors. Nothing radical may be expected in sound films five years hence; but a small invention here, an innovation there, will so improve recording and reproduction that the ultimate goal of perfection will be approached.

Most Expensive Drink
Aesop, son of Clodius Aesopus, dissolved in vinegar a pearl valued at $40,000 in order to have the satisfaction of consuming the most expensive drink ever known.

Americans' Interest in Sleepy Little Sulgrave
There is great charm in the little town of Sulgrave of not more than 400 inhabitants so far from the ways of railroads and modern traffic. It is of old houses of the Tudor times, although there are of course a few modern dwellings. Sulgrave was mentioned in the Domesday book, that earliest record of our Saxon ancestors which William the Conqueror had compiled to show how rich was the land of his conquest. But the town, although greatly interesting to the historian, does not especially concern us until it was purchased by Lawrence Washington when he was twice mayor of Northampton. It has been conclusively proved by recent investigation that this Lawrence Washington was the direct ancestor of George Washington and that Sulgrave manor by right of descent belonged to him. As a gift to cement the hundred years' peace between the two great English-speaking nations it was purchased by the British peace centenary committee in 1914, along with ten acres of land and handed over to the Sulgrave institution to be an active center of work for the furtherance of Anglo-American friendship.—Boston Herald.

Eskimo Women Put Up as Poker Game Stake
Eskimos of the Canadian Arctic along the Thelon River while away the long winter days gambling and it is a more or less common event for a man to gamble his wife or daughters, apart from foxes, rifles and equipment. Corp. H. G. Nichols, reporting to Royal Canadian Mounted Police headquarters at Ottawa, Canada, has this to say: "A native Soodyyaluk, an ex-Utkuhik-Hallingmu, had lost by card playing to another native, Ishnootmata of the Kraimemut, his tent, rifle, ammunition, one dog, deer-skins, snow knife—all his worldly possessions. Upon making inquiries Ishnootmata produced a pack of cards and I discovered that the game played was draw poker. I had these articles returned to the former owner and informed all natives that gambling was wrong and must therefore cease. "It was at this inquiry that I heard of the more serious gambling inland. I am unaware whether polygamy or polyandry exists among any other of the tribes. The exchanging of wives is a more or less common occurrence. The women apparently have no voice in the matter whatever, but merely obey the husband."

Bornholm
For fantastic rock formations on a wild coast, for the most beautiful castle ruins of Denmark, it is needful to journey by water to the rocky Isle of Bornholm, south of Sweden, but belonging to Denmark. For centuries the island belonged to the archbishopric of Lund, and was the cause of many a battle with Danish kings, but since 1658 it has been part of Denmark. Whether you go to the little fishing villages along the coast, or visit its larger towns, such as Ronne, Ror or Nexø, this last being the birthplace of the novelist Nexø, you will find it a delightful place for a holiday. It has fine ethnological and archeological remains, beautiful forests and heather-clad moors which stretch for miles. During the summer the gardens are ablaze with color.—Exchange.

Rome's Downfall
The Roman empire originated after the battle of Actium, B. C. 31, and the decline began with the death of Marcus Aurelius, 180 A. D. Contributing causes through the centuries were the aggressive influx of large numbers of German peoples; hostile advance of the Persians; internal dissension; revolt of the provinces; ingrafting under Hellogabalus of oriental rites and practices, repugnant to the Roman people; a pestilence which lasted 15 years and carried off one-half of the inhabitants of the empire; the invasion of the Goths and Huns; and the final aggression of vandals from Africa. The end of the Roman empire of the West was practically complete by A. D. 476.

Erosion Worse Than Drought
In a year of drought it is hard to remember that in normal seasons there are usually many million-dollar rains, that is, torrential downpours which carry tons of top soil off the farms into the streams and rivers. In some especially rainy years the annual loss is reckoned in millions of tons of good farming land which eventually is carried out to sea. This unhampered erosion is largely due to the denuding of forests at the headwaters of streams, and, too, the farmers generally have done little to prevent heavy washouts in their own fields. The money loss is said to reach $200,000,000 a year.—Exchange

Picturesque Governor
When George Mitchell Troup appeared before the Georgia legislature in 1823, to take the oath of governor, though it was a raw, cold day in November, he wore a round jacket of cotton cloth, a black cassimere vest, yellow nankeen trousers, silk hose, dancing pumps and a large white hat, writes Jane Roberta Smith in the Atlanta Journal. This white hat he held in his hand and gestured with while he made his speech to the legislators. Truly, this erect, virile, red-headed, blue-eyed man with his sideburns, and his peculiar attire must have made an unforgettable picture that day.

Ever Think of That?
"Many a man," said Uncle Eben, "thinks other folks is ungrateful when he's merely holdin' a 'zaggerated idea of de importance of his services."—Washington Star.

Georgia's First Cotton

Cotton was first planted in Georgia in 1757 from seed brought from the Bahama Islands. The crop was planted by John Earle on the Island of Skidaway, which is located off the coast of Georgia and belongs to the state.

Mankind Really Knows Little About the Seas

An outward spinning whirlpool is an oddity added to the long list of unexplained mysteries of the sea, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society. It is half in jest and half in awe that old tars refer to the bounding main as "that old devil sea." In olden days the sea was believed to be peopled with strange monsters which devoured both ships and men. Even today, with all the safeguards and comforts of modern travel, a ship voyage is not without its hazards. Mother Ocean constantly plays new and unexpected tricks because man's knowledge of the sea, for all his centuries of study and experience, is extremely meager.

Explorers and geographers who have been signing for new lands to conquer may find their best field, paradoxically, in the sea. When it is realized that nearly three-quarters of the surface of the globe consists of water, it is rather remarkable how little we know of the vast surface of the solid sphere which lies under this screen of liquid.

The most impressive thing about the sea is its shallowness as compared with the size of the earth, and its depth as compared with the height of the land. If one were to take a globe six feet in diameter and excavate the deepest trench of the ocean thereon, it would be a bare pinscratch deep—about one-twentieth of an inch.

Royal Soup Calls for Variety of Ingredients

The recipe for the famous "oilo" soup made for the Austrian court "since the time of the Empress Maria Theresa's father" has been printed in Budapest. It is said to have originated in Spain, and the secret was revealed by a pensioned court chef. The stock consisted of veal or ham, mutton, venison and other game roasted in butter and then boiled. Calves' feet and ox feet, turned into jelly, were added, together with white cabbage stewed with smoked and fresh pork, maize seed, chestnuts, lentils, pearl barley and carrots roasted with sugar.

The combination was laid on ice for four hours, so as to remove every trace of grease. Next a bouillon was prepared of beef and veal bones, mushrooms and other vegetables, making a liquid to be cleared by the addition of hashed beef, ox liver and white of egg. The boiling bouillon was strengthened by cooked fowls, ducks, turkey, pigeons, pheasants, goose and wild duck. It took two days and two nights to complete the process.

The last thing done was to drain the concoction through muslin bags. When porcelain jugs were filled, the guests were served in small china cups.—New York Times.

Almost Colorless Ink

There is no colorless ink. There is, however, a certain form of camouflage in which figures and letters are painted on a background of the same color. This is done by coloring the paints with pigments, or mixtures of pigments, which match one another in color but which are of different chemical composition. They match one another because the impression made on the retina of the eye is the combined effect of all of the light rays that are transmitted to it from the painted surface. A piece of colored glass partially analyzes the light by absorbing some of the light rays and letting others through. What gets through to the eye is not the same in both cases, hence the background and the design do not appear the same color.

True Story

An excited foreign gentleman was awaiting the arrival of his first-born in one of our hospitals.

He was so certain it was going to be a boy that he had invited all his friends to an elaborate banquet that evening and had broadcast the joyous news all over town. Thus, when the nurse came to tell him that the arrival was a girl, his rage knew no bounds. Hurriedly, he made several telephone calls, canceling the feast.

Then, summoning the nurse, he announced: "I'm going to get into my automobile and go home. You tell the wife when she's ready to come home to take a street car."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Speed on Railroad Lines

Under special conditions railroad speeds of 90 miles an hour and over were attained more than 28 years ago, for short distances. A train on the Plant system in 1901 made 120 miles an hour on a test run between Fleming and Jacksonville. Among regular scheduled American passenger trains today there are several that average over 50 miles per hour. The World Almanac states that first-class German and French trains now average 50 to 80 miles an hour over long runs. A regular train on the Great Western in England makes 66.3 miles an hour.

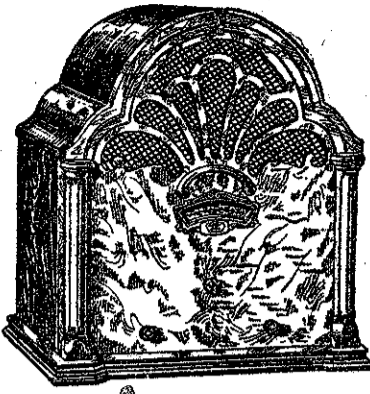

Day of Hearty Eating

During the administration of John Quincy Adams, evening assemblies were popular at the homes of congressmen and cabinet members. The parties began at eight o'clock. Promptly at ten o'clock everybody went out on the back porch for "light refreshments." At one end of the table would be a roast ham; at the other a saddle of venison. In between came the wild ducks, and the pastries. And scattered about were cakes and puddings. A large side table held the punch and the Madeira.

Wild Dog's Queer Idea

The South American wild dog, about the size of a fox, has a peculiar habit of running for hours in a course describing the figure eight.

Messiah Lutheran

Southeast Corner of Kercheval and Lakewood avenues. A. H. A. Loeber, pastor, 1434 Lakewood Avenue, Telephone Lenox 2121.

A week from next Sunday, October 25, the congregation will celebrate its annual mission festival. Services will be held at the usual time in the morning, and a special service will take place in the evening at 8 o'clock. In the evening service Holy Communion will be celebrated, announcements for which will be received next Thursday, from 3 to 8 p. m.

On the coming Sunday, October 25, the theme of the sermon will be the admonition of St. Paul: "Redeem the Time!" Services will be held as follows: German at 9 a. m., English at 11:15; Sunday School at 10:15.

A membership class for adults will be organized on Tuesday, October 20, at 7:30 p. m., after which date the class will meet regularly once a week. In these weekly meetings the pastor will lecture on the doctrines of the Lutheran Church, thus enabling the members of the class to become acquainted with the doctrinal position of the Church. This course of lectures has the purpose of preparing people for church membership, but is open to all who seek information regarding the principles of the Christian faith. No obligations as to eventual church membership are attached to attendance. To those that are interested a hearty welcome is extended to come next Tuesday, as well as for the succeeding lessons of the class.

Grosse Pointe Library

The Grosse Pointe Park Library is now open every day excepting Sundays and holidays from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Below are listed a few of the many new books in the library which are of general interest:

"The Autobiography of Lincoln Steffens." Replete with humor and incident is this fascinating biography of a man who has lived a varied and adventurous life.

"Conflict," by Rosita Forbes. This interesting travel tale presents a vivid picture of the turbulent times and conflicting forces in modern Turkey and Persia.

"Down the Fairway," by Robert T. Jones, Jr., and O. B. Keller. Golf enthusiasts will welcome this biography which reveals the story of the author's golf history.

"My Experiences in the World War," by John Joseph Pershing. An authoritative and stirring picture of the part America played in the World War.

"The Sixth Journey," by Alice Grant Rosman. A chance meeting on a steamship brings romance and happiness to three lonely individuals in this latest novel by a popular authoress.

"Color Schemes for the Flower Garden," by Gertrude Jekyll. This illustrated book for garden lovers places particular emphasis on the methods of arranging growing flowers to procure beautiful color combinations.

"One Act Plays for Stage and Study." Twenty-one contemporary plays by well-known American, English, and Irish dramatists.

Lengthy Tape Line

Stretching from Newfoundland to the Azores, a tapeline 1,264 miles long was reeled out recently from a cable steamer to obtain an accurate measure of the distance traveled between the two lands. The tapeline was a fine steel piano wire.

Dietary Impossibility

An applicant for the role had his claim questioned by our local police sergeant on the ground that he was an owner of houses—although he has received no rent from them for months past. "Of course I own two houses," retorted the indignant one, "but I can't eat them—I ain't a white ant."—Bulletin, Sydney, N. S. W.

Status of Filipinos

Filipinos are citizens of the Philippine Islands but not of the United States. There is no quota for them and they can be admitted without difficulty as "nationals" of the United States. This does not refer to Chinese laborers born in our island territories, who come under the exclusion laws.

River Made Lake

Reel Foot lake in Tennessee is caused by a change in the course of the Mississippi river, a part of the former bed separated from the present channel of the river in the form of a lake. It is located in the extreme northwest corner of Tennessee and part of its area also is in the state of Kentucky.
