Federal Government Should Aid Schools By Tax Levy—Pierce

"The big problem in Michigan is to get the money for the schools in such a way as to put a fair share of the tax burden on everybody," Webster H. Pierce, state superintendent of public instruction, told Grosse Pointe teachers at their monthly meeting on Monday ir the high school auditorium.

"Unless the federal government will make a contribution to education soon. education is going to falter," Mr. into the big cities-about 20 of them. the ship. The federal government has the only means to reach that wealth with tax. We've got to find a way so that opportunities in schools do not depend on the accident of birth."

In speaking of teachers' salaries, Mr. Pierce expressed the opinion that some others will see a thirty-five or forty being slaughtered, he said, not always with sufficient reason.

"I don't see how we teachers are going to maintain our salaries when practically everyone else has taken a cut," Mr. Pierce told his audience.

Mr. Pierce also discussed certificate problems in Michigan urging more rigid standards of training for the benefit of the profession. He opposed permitting holders of life certificates who have not taught for years being allowed to take up teaching again without recent training.

Property taxes and primary school money were described by Mr. Pierce as the sources of school revenue. In his judgment, should a movement, now on food to limit all property tax to 15 mills be adopted, the primary school money will be cut about forty per cent, since that fund includes the public utility tax.

Pointe Swimmers Win Over Old Rival, 40-24 Wilcox Stars in Meet

Swimmers of the Grosse Pointe High school gave Grosse Pointe a defeat over an old rival, Wyandotte, with the score 40-24. N. Wilcox, Grosse Pointe gave the spectators a real thrill in the final race, 220 yard medley. With 100 yards to swim and his opponent several yards in the lead, Wilcox opened up at a break-neck speed and gained a foot over his opponent in the first 40 you have to say when these gentlemen sisted. yards. The race from then on was a matter of endurance and this swimmer stuck and showed plenty of grit. He finished slightly ahead of the Wyandotte swimmer, and he was certainly "all in."

Grosse Pointe lost the 160-yard relay by a sad error on the part of one of their swimmers who got excited and fell in the pool. Smith, Grosse Pointe started immediately, but could not regain the gap that had been lost.

The diving went to Grosse Pointe and also the hundred yard back-stroke. Wyandotte took the 100 yard breast. The 220 and 100 free-styles were both taken by Grosse Pointe men. The final eaten had been acid-forming-meat, Union. For the affair was given in strokes take part, was taken by the event, the 220 yard medley in which all Pointers. Perserverance Does It

All the performances of human art, at which we look with praise or wonder, are instances of the resistless force of perseverance; it is by this that the quarry becomes a pyramid, and that distant countries are united with canals. If a man was to compare the effect of a single stroke of a pickax, or of one impression of the spade, with the general design and last result, he would be overwhelmed by the sense of their disproportion; yet those petty operations incessantly continued, in time surmount the greatest difficulties, and mountains are leveled, and oceans bounded, by the slender force of human beings .- Johnson.

Olive Oil Long Popular

Olive oil, one of our oldest foods, is still one of the most esteemed. It was a common food thousands of years before Columbus discovered America, and references to it are made in the Old Testament and other early literature. The Greeks used olive oil for food lighting and sacramental purposes. Homer was not blind to its merits and referred to it in his Iliad as a luxury of the wealthy, prized highly for its value in the heroic toilet. The warriors of Homer's day annointed themselves with oil after the bath and, by 776 B. C., an office wreath was the victor's prize in the Olympic games.

Antiquarians Puzzled

Antiquarians in Scotland are puz zied over a recent find in Stirling during the demolition of ancient buildings. They could determine that an old draw-well had been under a house built 275 years ago and that window stones with the inscription "A. R." in flowing letters probably dated from the reign of Queen Anne. But a legend on a window is causing them to scratch their heads for they have no record of anything like it. The legend reads "I. B. IT."

The duchess is said to have been a famous tomboy, and with her sister, to have ridden on pigs down Edinburgh High street. Milk Records in Wales

Kept by Measurement The measuring and recording of the amount of milk given by cows has a much lengthier history than many people might suppose, according to an article in the Farm and Stock Breeder.

"Milk recording is not a new-fangled idea in Wales. It was carried on in the principality before the Tenth century. The farmers of Wales used to migrate to the hills in summer They used to put the milk of their cows in a common churn, and they had to keep a record of it in order to divide the produce of butter and cheese satisfactorily. The cows were turned into untouched pasture and their milk yields measured-not weighed as is the practice today-and the produce of butter and cheese was handed over according to what each cow had yielded on any particular day.

"The record was in accordance with what was known as the venedotian measure, a vessel which was three thumbs across the bottom, six thumbs across the middle, nine thumbs across the top, and nine thumbs diagonally. A thumb was about an inch, so that the venedotian measure held about a gallon of milk and a normal cow was expected to give about two gallons a Three-times-a-day milking was well known in Wales in the Twelfth century, and the month of May was known as 'The month of three milkings a day."

Daughter of Herodias

Not Mentioned by Name Nowhere in the Bible does it say that Salome was the name of the daughter of Herodias, who, instructed by her mother, requested of Herod and received the head of John the Baptist in a charger as the reward of her dancing. The Scriptural accounts of this incident do not give the name of the daughter of Herodias, referring to her simply as the damsel. From the Jewish historian Josephus we learn that Herodias had a daughter named Salome by her first husband, who was Herod's brother Philip. This Salome first married her first cousin and stepbrother, Herod Philip, tetrarch of Iturea, and afterward became the wife of Aristobulus, king of Chalchis. It is merely a conjecture that she was the damsel who asked for the head of John the Baptist. The Salome men tioned in connection with the crucifixion was an entirely different woman. --Pathfinder Magazine.

Russian Revolutionary

Katherine Breshko Breshkovskala is called the grandmother of the Russian revolution. She was born in 1844. When she was a young woman, with her father, she took part in preparation on their estate for the liberation of peasants from serfdom. Later on, with her husband and father and a neighbor's boy by the name of Sinegut, she opened schools and libraries in their district. As the schools increased in growth and influence they were closed by the authorities. Her father and husband submitted, but Katherine and Sinegut went into revolutionary work. She was sent to Siberia at least twice and was a prisoner in the fortress of Peter and Paul from 1907 to 1910. She was finally exiled from Russia in 1918, and traveled about for some time before settling in

Oozes in Ocean Depths

There is no generally adopted scientific name for the various oozes that are formed mainly from the calcareous and siliceous remains of plants and animals which live in waters under which the deposit is found. Various oozes are recognized, the most widespread being globigerina coze. This deposit consists of the shells of Foraminifera, which live in the surface waters. Diatom ooze is next in abundance. It is formed from the siliceous remains of diatoms, which occur in enormous quantities in cold surface waters. Of the sea bottom beyond the 100-fathom line it is estimated that 17 per cent is covered by mud, 40 per cent by red clay, and 48 per cent by cozes of the various kinds.

Largest Suspension Bridge

After a survey of similar structures throughout the world, the National Geographic society has stated that the George Washington bridge across the Hudson is the largest suspension bridge in the world. With the longest span of 3,500 feet between supports, it has no rivals among the suspension bridges. The Ambassador bridge, connecting Detroit and Sandwich, Ont., is second with a central span of 1,850 feet. It is longer over all than the Hudson bridge, however, as from entrance to exit it stretches 9,000 feet, compared to the George Washington's 8,700 feet. The Philadelphia-Camden bridge has a central span of 1,750 feet, with longer approaches, giving it an over-all of 9,500 feet.-Washington

Laurel in Mythology

Mythology has it that Apollo wooed Daphne, who, to escape him, had her father, the river god Peneus, change her into a laurel tree. Whereupon Apollo said to her: "Since you cannot be my wife, you shall be my tree. I will wear you for my crown; I will decorate you with my harp and my quiver; and when the great Roman conquerors lead up the triumphal pomp to the capital, you shall be woven into wreaths for their brows. > Cab Calloway and His Harlem Revue At the Michigan

Cab Calloway and his red hot Harem revue brought the new kind of hode-ho-de-ho rhythm that has been sweeping the country to the Michigan this week. The originator of "Minnie the Moocher," "Kickin' the Gong Around" and other hits of the same type brings with him in addition to his famous radio and record orchestra a large cast of singers, dancers and clowning stars.

The Three Chocolate Steppers, Phillips, Eddie and Peggy scorch the stage with their strutting and when Margaret Sims starts singing you think Minnie the Moocher is at the theatre in person. Calloway who sky rocketed to fame gives the same type of shows he presented at the Cotton Club, New York and which sky-rocketed him to fame in a few short months.

On the screen is one of the most important dramas of the year, "Union Depot" featuring a large cast headed by Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Joan and Decimus Brutus.
