Loan Exhorters

The term "Four-Minute Speakers" was coined during the World war. They were men and women who gave their services to the government for the purpose of making speeches in behalf of the Liberty and Victory loans. They were so called because they addressed audiences assembled for other purposes, such as theatrical performances, and their time was limited to four minutes.

Colonists' Descendants

Greatly differing estimates have been made as to how many descendants an American settler has at the tenth generation. Donald L. Jacobus, the New England genealogist, is of the opinion that the total number of descendants of any one Colonist of the period from 1620-1640 amounts to over 200,000. J. Gardner Bartlett, from examination of 10,000 families in New England, estimates 78,125 descendants in eight generations. 617 .

Persia's pictorial and decorative art was widely published at an exhibition recently held in London. But beside this art, there is a good deal of music in Persia. The Persian orchestra usually consists of a zither, played with wooden sticks, a very ancient and primitive style of guitar, made of mulberry wood, with only three strings, played with a bone "plectrum," viols that look like mandolins, a pipe, and a horn, a large drum, and two small

Marked Special Days

"Red-letter days," a term now extended to any gala occasion of memorable day, originally was an ecclesiastical term used to characterize the more important festivals and saints' days of the church, which appear in red letters in the calendar, wrote William S. Walsh in "Curiosities of Popular Customs."

In ordinary prayer books both of the English and the Roman church, where two colors are not used in the printing, these days are characterized by italics or Gothic capitals and the black-letter days or minor festivals by lower-case Roman type.

Convincing Attorney Years ago this happened in Atchi-

Putting Mr. Roar on the witness stand, Jude protruded his chest, struck a Napoleonic attitude, and with a deep voice asked: "Mr. Roar, will you be so kind as to tell the court and the jury where you were on the night we stole those chickens?" The jury was out five seconds --

Cross Stone of Virginia

The "fairy cross" of the Virginia, Blue ridge, a reddish-brown rock formation taking the shape of a perfect cross, is said to be found only in Patrick county, Va. Travelers in the West and Southwest may recall that these curious pieces of stone are frequently offered for sale as "Mexican Holy Crosses" at shops at or near Indian reservations, sometimes for only a nickel apiece. The United States geological survey, however, confirms the claim that the "Staurolite." or "Cross Stone," an iron-aluminum silicate, is found only in Virginia.

Fiddle Once Banned

The old English word fiddle is a corruption of the French word vielle meaning hurdy-gurdy. The word has become a coloquial and rather a contemptuous substitute for violin. Time was when fiddlers or minstrels were adjudged rogues, vagabonds and beggars. The old Puritans considered fiddling a crime only a little worse than murder. There was a famous old blue law to the effect that no one should eat mince pie, dance, play cards or play on any instrument of music except the drum, trumpet or Jewsharp,

Divorce in Old Egypt

A study made by W. F. Edgerton and published by the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago shows that Egyptian marriages could be dissolved at the will of either the husband or the wife. Furthermore, provision was sometimes made for "trial" marriages that is, marriages which were in force only for a definite period, agreed upon in advance. There was no ceremony, the study says, and no license to be obtained from either church or state.

Idea Broke Up Wedding Ancient superstition caused a tragic ending to a wedding in a Macedonian village. The theory is that if the woman can tread on the foot of her husband-to-be while he is standing at the altar during the wedding ceremony, he will obey her throughout their wedded life, and vice versa. Both parties had been warned by their mothers of the custom and at the church a stamping contest began, resulting in triumph for the bride. The groom lost his temper and before long the guests came to the defense of the family honor and a general fight took place. The bridegroom later repented but the bride would not see him.

Mental Health

Mental hygeine is vastly important in the proper development of a normal individual. Compulsión neurosis is a sense of guilt and fear acquired in childhood connected with some feeling of having to do something in explation of the funcied source of the sense of guilt. Reassurance and interest in other things is a cure if the comput sion is not severe. In severe cases an understanding of the cause of the condition is necessary, the question and answer department of Hygeia Magazine informs a reader.

Pride in His Work

A story told of the famous Italian poet Dante relates how the poet once overheard a blacksmith sing one of his songs, in a horribly mutilated form Whereupon, in anger, Dante upset the tools in the smithy. On being questioned by the astonished smith; the poet informed him that he was as par ticular about his productions as the smith was about his tools, and made him promise net to sing his songs unless he saw that he could do it con rectly. to Needs of the Body "Sane eating without overindulgence

Flaying foolish adherence to temporary food fads, Dr. Solomon Strouse used the foregoing statement as the theme of his article, "Building a Diet," in Hygeia, the Health Magazine. Food furnishes energy and builds up broken-down tissue, Granting this, it is easy to see why the lumberman of Maine uses 8,000 calories daily, whereas a tailor will use only about 2,700. The building of a diet depends also on locality. In the United States we eat a large amount of carbohydrate. That is because carbohydrate foods are cheap and easily available. In Alaska, fuel is supplied mainly by fat.

The movement of sap in the maple tree is described generally as follows: It is the watery solution which circulates through the vascular tissue in woody plants. The ascending current consists of the water of imbibition in which are dissolved various salts obtained from the earth. This so-called crude sap passes through the xylem portion of the vascular bundles to the chlorophyll-containing tissues, the leaves in most plants, where the surplus water is transpired into newly formed carbohydrates and proteids through the phloem or sieve tissue to the parts of the plant which may require them, the descending current often being called elaborated sap. From this it will be seen that the sap taken in tapping a tree is the type of sap which has already formed the carbohydrates and proteids and is therefore largely from the descending or elaborated sap.

'Sky Devils" Coming to the United Artists

A picture that took a year in the making and cost more than a half mil-lion dollars is "Sky Devis" which Howard Hughes, who made the famous spectacle, "Hell's Angels," is offering as the first comedy of the air. "Sky Devils," which will be shown at the United Artists theater soon, is a lightning-fast comedy, based on the thrilling and romantic adventures of three American aviators during the World War. The leading roles are played by Spencer Tracy, William Boyd, George Cooper and Ann Dvorak.

With Maurice Chevaller and Jeanette MacDonald teamed together, for heir best work, assisted by players of excellent past performance, with George Cukor coaching, and Ernst Lubitsch's discerning eye and hand at the controls, there's little wonder that "One Hour With You" is eagerly looked forward to.

Sfor Second 'Kerchief Thomas Jefferson had no social life at the White House for anyone to gossip about. He shut up the place, all. except his bedrooms, his office and the kitchen, and let spiders run the rest of the house, writes David Rankin Barbee in the Washington Post. After him, however, came the precious reign of Dolly Madison, the little Quaker from North Carolina, whose father had been a tavern keeper. She was the social queen of the White House if ever it had one, and what delightful stories have come down to us about her." She always carried two 'kerchlefs, one a delicate lace thing which she flirted with, and the other a large red silk bandanna on which she blew her nose. Dolly was a user of snuff and a dainty one, too; hence the bandanha. Once a Prince Charming asked her why she carried the red one: "For heavy work, sir," was the quick reply, suifing the action to the word.

Hurrah

The exclamation hurrah was in use in New England in 1686, and in England in 1694. In the form whurra, it was used by Addison ("Drummer,' act 5, sc. 2) in 1716; and as "hurrea hurrea, bravol" by Goldsmith ("She Stoops to Conquer," act 1, sc. 2) in 1773. Beresford in "Lord Auckland's Correspondence," dated 1798 and reprinted 1862, vol. 3, p. 334, uses the form hurraying. Moriz Heyne, cited by Grimm, declares that hurrah was used as a war-cry by the Prussian soldiers in the War of Liberation (1813-1815). The term comes from the German hurra which has been traced to the Middle High German (Twelfth century) hurren, which means to has ten.-Literary Digest. 63.5 A State

His excuse for indulging in so many hobbies was framed in words like these: "Have not the wisest men in all ages, not excepting Solomon himself, had their hobbyhorses, their running horses, their coins and their cockle shells, their drums and their trumpets, their fiddles and their butterflies? And so long as a man rides his hobby-horse peaceably and quietly along the king's highway, and neither compels you nor me to get up behind him, pray sir, what have you or I to do with it?"

Needle Long in Heart

That Edward Sell. forty-five, of Hayes, England; carried a needle in his heart for more than four weeks was revealed by X-rays. Sell was working on an airplane when a needle in the apron of an apholsterer was driven into his breast. It was considered too dangerous at the time to operate. Four weeks later an operation was tried, but had to be stopped before the needle was removed. Sell died soon afterward, and a needle two inches long was found in the left ventricle of his heart.

Resin Industry Growing

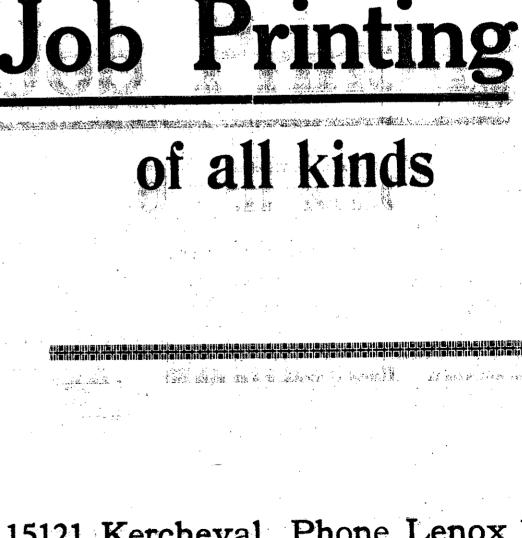

In 1884 the copper kettle and condensing worm were first used for distilling crude resin. Practically the same form of still is in use today. By 1850 the world was finding new uses for both turpentine and resin, which constantly increased the demand, causing a steady growth of the industry. Today about two-thirds of the world's naval stores are produced in the southern United States, and approximately $50,000,000 are invested in the business.

The inventor was Edouard Benedictus, a French chemist of Dutch origin, who had an experimental laboratory in Paris. One day he dropper a bottle to the stone floor, and although it was starred inside like a crystal it did not break. He remembered that it had contained a mixture of various chemicals which had evaporated and coated the interior with a transparent enamel. Benedictus noted the formula, and realized that on his shelf lay the secret of unsplintered glass. The patent was filed

Ancient Toys Dug Up

A little girl's grave in a cemetery about 4,000 years old, dug up in Persia by scientists, yielded, among other things, small figurines carved like cows and sheep. Excavations in the cemetery unearthed remains of children with miniature dishes, as well as those of men and women with cups, bows and pitchers. Translucent and banded alabaster vessels, burnished grav and black pottery, bracelets, anklets and finger rings were also found.

Medieval Churches

Four churches of medleval period can be seen by visitors to Berlin, in spite of the common impression that the German capital is a comparatively young city. The youngest of the four, which stands in Klosterstrasse, has been restored to its original form. This church was erected by Franciscan monks of the Gray Cloister, in 1290. and is said to be one of the oldest monuments of Gothic architecture in northern Germany.
