Wallace Gamber, the 'Bearded Adonis' Loses Fight: Plan Re-Match

Wallace Gamber, the manassa mauler, better known as the bearded adonis was defeated for the first time Tuesday night by Andy Pocs, light heavyweight contender from Flint, Michigan, after a six-round slug test at the Arena Gardens in Mt. Clemens. Plans are now being made for a re-match.

From the outset all science was scattered to the four winds as the two boys attempted to bring about an immediate decisive knockout in the first round.

At the end of the second round both fighters had weakened considerably and

WEEKLY CHAT

By A. A. PILKINGTON

The great display of approximately two hundred bird houses at the Grosse Pointe Park municipal library is ample proof of the enthusiasm with which the boys and girls undertook this new project of attracting and providing homes for the birds of this vicinity.

The boys and girls who made entries are to be commended for their splendid effort. The wide variety of types, materials, styles, and the original ideas set forth in the completed bird houses was remarkable, to say the least, and showed how very keen and inventive many children are when given a suitable objective.

Although rain and cloudy weather prevailed it did not dampen the ardor of young bird lovers Monday afternoon as they crowded the Aloma theater to its doors to hear the internationally known and beloved naturalist, Jack Miner, in a talk on bird lore.

Garbed in a colorful suit of green with high tan leather walking shoes, all of which spoke of the great outdoors, his vigorous and genial personality commanded the attention and respect of every boy and girl present.

During an informative talk he described his method of attracting wild geese as they travel north on their migratory flights, he also told how these birds are caught, tagged, then set free to complete their journey.

Many of these tags are returned to him from distant parts, as those found by Eskimo hunters in Alaska and later given to him by a missionary. Others are found around New Orleans and the Gulf of Mexico, thus enabling us to chart out the routes followed by these birds as they migrate from year to year.

A very interesting thought was that birds are not wild as many of us think, but are only fearful, as his experience has proved that when birds know you they come toward you and do not fly from you.

This writer asked Mr. Miner for a personal statement in regard to the keen interest shown in bird lore. He shrugged his great shoulders and squarely answered:

"It is the natural thing for the child to do to follow the instincts of the primitive mind, to build."

"The whole trend of child training is changing and instead of the child being forced he is being persuaded and is employing his own initiative in building constructive ideals instead of inclining to hatred and petty destructive animosities."

School Board

No definite action was taken by the Grosse Pointe School Board at a meeting held last Monday on the school budget for the ensuing year. The Board likewise deferred action on the re-appointment of Fred Kerby as principal of the George Defer school. Both matters attracted a large attendance of residents at last Monday's meeting but a decision by the Board on them was put over to a subsequent meeting.

it was merely a matter of physical endurance to weather the terrific pace both boxers had set.

In the fourth round the fight appeared most like a slow moving picture of two gladiators struggling for supremacy.

The fifth and final round found both boys in the center of the ring exchanging "body blows." Gamber at this time appeared the weaker of the two as his legs became weary and finally collapsed when Gamber took the official count of ten it was far from a so-called clean knockout.

Champions are made in the ring and it is no disgrace to be knocked out, as all great fighters have at some time in the early stages of the game faced different angles of defeat. It is tenacity and perseverance that gives the boxer the finer points of the game. Ring-craft and ring generalship come through constant boxing, winning and losing, as well as through training.

The may enthusiastic followers and rooters for the bearded adonis were given the thrill of their lives. They had an opportunity to see their idol take and give punishment aplenty in a bout that was filled with action from going to going. Even the severest critic would agree that the diamond in the rough game more than a spectacular account of himself.

School Teachers

Grosse Pointe public school teachers have an average teaching experience of 11.5 years, according to figures compiled at the office of the Board of Education. The average number of years of training of the entire staff is 3.39. The average age of the teachers is 32.07.

These figures include all members of the administrative and teaching corps.

The teachers in the high school have somewhat more training and slightly less experience than the teachers in the elementary schools. The average training of the high school faculty is 4 years with 8.9 years experience, here or elsewhere. The average training of the elementary school teachers is 2.61 with 9.7 years experience. These averages do not include the principals.

Fort Pontchartrain

The social committee of Fort Pontchartrain Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, encouraged by the success of a recent evening of mixed bridge, plans a second affair of the kind, to take place at the home of the regent, Mrs. Osmond D. Heavenrich, of Pemberton road, Grosse Pointe, on the evening of Saturday, April 23. Prizes and other interesting features are planned, as well as tables for other games than bridge.

Reservations should be made early with the social chairman, Mrs. Warren R. Carlin of Lakewood boulevard, or with the hostess.

Edelweiss Gardens Opens Headquarters

The many friends of Messrs Gurbe Kuipers and Ben J. Hollis will be pleased to learn that they have opened a new nursery in our community under the name of Edelweiss Gardens on the property at Mack avenue and Vernier Road in the Village of Lochmoor.

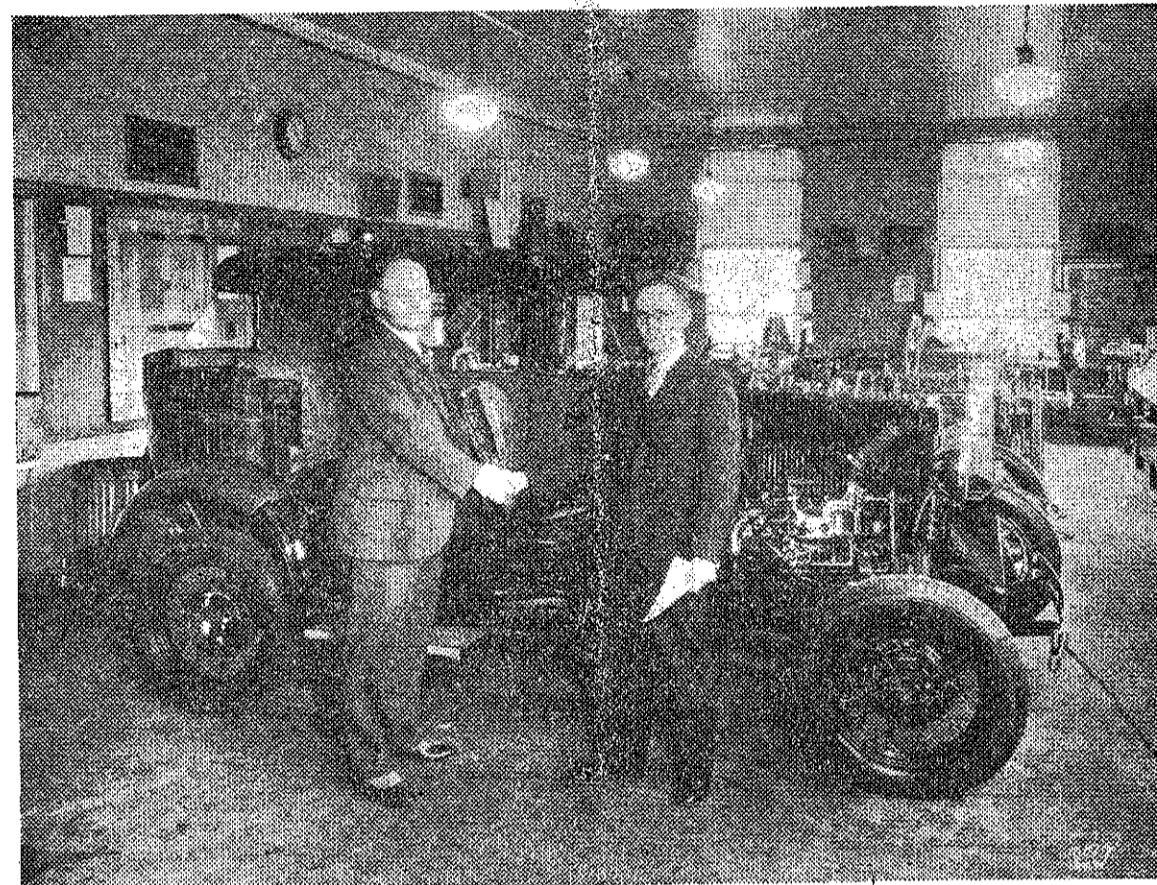

Mr. Hollis is well known in the community, having been in charge of sales and propagation at 71 Grosse Pointe Blvd., first for Mr. James D. Burford and later for the Alpine Gardens, after the member in good standing of the Grosse Pointe and Eastern Michigan Horticultural Society and the newly formed Michigan Horticultural Society.

Mr. Kuipers was in the employ of Mr. Burford in the capacity of Landscape Architect, and ably assisted in the construction of some of the very fine Rock-gardens in and about Detroit. Two years ago the two men conceived the idea of opening a new nursery of rare Alpines, choice perennials and native Wild-Flower and since that time Mr. Kuipers has devoted his time working up a stock of plants of which they may well be proud.

The Edelweiss Gardens catalogue, which is very unique in design and accuracy of descriptions was recently released for distribution, and anyone not receiving one may obtain it by simply sending their name and address to Edelweiss Gardens, 21835 Mack avenue, Detroit, Michigan or call NI. 2212.

Anyone interested in flowers is cordially invited to visit the nursery at any time.

Ray Watling, in charge of the High School "Auto Class."

Auto Shop At High School Receives Many Donations of Motors

"When you need a thing, make it." This policy in the auto shop annually saves the taxpayers many hard-earned dollars. Motor stands, buffer stands, an electrical testing board, a gong for calling time, and many ingenious tools have been made which would have taken many, many dollars out of the district's non-too-capacious pockets.

But what good are motor stands and tools if one has no motors? Largely through efforts of business men in Grosse Pointe, various concerns have donated almost everything from a Red Seal straight eight motor donated by the Continental Motor Corporation, through the courtesy of Mr. E. M. Smith, to a two-cycle motor, donated by the Jacobson Mower Company. In between these two extremes are:

A Durant coupe and mechanical devices donated by the Grosse Pointe Garage, through the courtesy of Mr. Robert Darling and Mr. Charles Gooley.

Two model T Ford roadsters, one donated by the Grosse Pointe Park Police and the other by the Grosse Pointe Farms Police.

A number of electrical devices and liberal exchange on electrical motors by the courtesy of the Schwartz Electric Company.

A Whippet and Willys-Knight cut-away chassis, sleeve valve construction, donated by the Willys Knight Company, through the courtesy of Mr. William Monaghan.

A 1931 model cut-away Ford coach, showing construction and operation, donated by the Alfred E. Steiner Company.

A cross-section of a tire and materials used in construction donated by the United States Rubber Company, through the courtesy of Mr. Arthur Massey.

An Essex and a Chevrolet motor bought on educational terms, through the courtesy of the Hudson-Essex Company and General Motors Corporation.

A free wheeling unit donated by Mr. J. G. Monjar of the Warner Gear Transmission Company.

All the running models have been installed by the classes and equipped with a cooling and an exhaust system. Their unabating zeal not yet exhausted, the classes then disassembled the motors, cleaned the parts, cut them away and put them back together.

"The donations were appreciated and the classes and myself sincerely thank those whose efforts have resulted in the donations," states Mr. Raymond Watling, instructor.

Bird House Prize Winners To Receive Awards On Saturday

By THOMAS E. GROEHN

Last Monday afternoon at the Aloma theater saw the climax of one of the most successful projects ever attempted in Grosse Pointe Park in the interests of its children. The bird house contest which has been running under full sail for the past three weeks puts up a "Closed until next year" sign after the prizes are awarded to all the winners.

What a gala day it was, school children cheering, Boy Scouts marching, a band blaring, the honored guest being conducted to the theater by the courtesy of the Packard Motor Car Co., in fact, practically every honor accorded a United States President was showered upon the internationally known bird conservationist, Jack Miner when he came here last Monday on the invitation of the Park to address the bird house contest participants. A plain simple man is he, no suave manner, no polish, but thousands respect and acclaim his name. He is a humanitarian. He constructs even as others destroy.

"Waterfront Park"

Residents of Grosse Pointe Park who desire cards of admission to the "Waterfront Park" have been asked by Alfred J. Garska, president of the Park Council, to obtain them now in order to avoid a last minute rush when the warm weather arrives. Mr. Garska also urged residents to reply to the questionnaire that has been sent to Park residents so that records might be compiled to provide for the distribution of the cards to the park.

In the party with Mr. Miner and his wife were the contest judges, Alfred Garska and Otto Groehn, Mr. and Mrs. Fintan L. Henk, Councilman William Krapp, Superintendent of Schools Samuel Brownell, and Grosse Pointe Park's librarian, Miss Florence Severs.

The ceremonies at the Aloma theater opened with Fintan Henk, chairman of the gathering, introducing Samuel Brownell. Mr. Brownell spoke of the strong spirit of cooperation which must exist between the school organizations and the management of the contest, in order that to make them successful.

Otto J. Groehn, commissioner of public affairs, gave a short address of appreciation to the boys and girls who had so ably answered the call for bird houses. Alfred J. Garska, president of the Park then announced the partial list of prize winners. Because of the lack of time he read only the first three winners in each of the eight groups. Mr. Garska then introduced Mrs. Miner, who completely captivated the hearts of the hundreds of young bloods of this Park with her winning smile. Mr. Miner, the feature speaker of the day, then offered his talk. For thirty minutes he held his young audience spellbound with his fascinating explanation of how he first became interested in bird conservation. The main thought running through his whole talk was that no matter how ignorant, how poor, how backward a child is, somewhere in this world, if he will have patience and trust in his creator, there is a niche carved for him.

Next Saturday at the 2:00 o'clock matinee performance in the Aloma theater all the prizes will be handed out. Do not think that because your name was not mentioned from the stage last Monday that you will not be awarded a prize, because there are valuable merchandise prizes to be given out. If you do not receive either a cash or a merchandise prize you will even then have a surprise to look forward to.

Not enough credit can be given every person who worked on the contest board. This includes the judges, Mr. Henk, Motschall Printing Company, Mr. Oldham and Mr. Dorn of the Review who took charge of all publicity, Packard Sales and Service, for the use of some of their cars, and last but far from least is Miss Severs and her library staff. They put in many

PLANNING THE NURSERY

Every child should have a room which can really be called his own. It is to be created for his comfort and joy, health, well-being, and training; therefore, it should be given much thought when planning it.

Children are very fond of bright colors; so the nursery can be made attractive by having colored pictures and colored furniture. It is at this time that the foundation for taste is laid; therefore much time should be given to the selecting of coloring furniture.

It must be remembered that the child's room will not always remain a nursery so changes will be made as the grows older.

BUFFET LUNCHEON

I have heard a buffet luncheon is a really clever way of serving a large number of guests in a small house. This is true because it usually is considered a lap affair unless the hostess supplies small tables throughout the house.

At an informal buffet luncheon each guest goes to the table, serves herself to food and then takes napkin, silver, and beverage before finding an empty chair. Because of the nature of this form of entertaining, nothing difficult to handle in a lap luncheon can be served.

At a semi-formal buffet luncheon, someone is seated at the table and serves the main dish but each guest is expected to secure their silver, napkin, etc.

A formal buffet luncheon differs in that waitresses or waiters are on hand to take care of the guests.

SOUPS

Clear soups are generally used as appetizers for the dinner. They contain practically no food value but are important for their flavor.

Recently I have heard that a better clear soup is made by cutting the meat into small pieces and soaking in cold salt water before cooking. It is said that this draws the flavor from the meat which cannot be done so readily if the meat is put into boiling water.

On the other hand, cream soups are made of vegetable pulp and cream sauce. The vegetable is cleaned and cooked. Then the white sauce is made of butter, flour, milk, and seasonings. The vegetable is then put through a strainer (after it has been thoroughly cooked) and is added to the cream sauce just before serving.

Cream soups may be used as a main dish for luncheon or they may be used as an appetizer. They are important in the diet because of their wholesome food value (milk and vegetable). In fact, cream soups offer an excellent means of furnishing some of the necessary milk each day.

The V. V. V. Girls Basketball Team will journey to Cleveland next Saturday to play a return game as a preliminary to the Neighborhood Club Junior-Boys' game with the Cleveland All-Star team.

The junior boys' basketball tournament is now in the semi-final round with the Blues playing the Whites next Thursday at 4 p. m. for a place in the finals. The results of the games to date are as follows:

To Grow Hyacinths

Hyacinths in the house should not be potted and set away in the dark closet or basement. Have the soil moist but not wet. Hyacinths can be grown excellently in water in specially designed glasses on sale at all dealers. It is an easy method.

Cradle of Icebergs on Greenland West Coast

The world holds few more awe-inspiring spectacles than the movement of icebergs out of Jacobshavn fjord, into Disco bay, on the west coast of Greenland. Jacobshavn glacier is the world's greatest mother of icebergs, the experts claim. On the average, it calves more than 1,350 bergs each year.

The hunters made their way afoot to the top of the rocky bank. As far as eye could see in the fjord, icebergs were packed tightly, row on row, a breath-taking aggregation of white pinnacles and domes. They estimated that the great rock-walled trough held between 4,000 and 8,000 bergs.

Judges' Charges Short but Much to the Point

American love of "wisecracks" extends even to the judicial bench, and a Pennsylvania magistrate received commendation for what is claimed to be the shortest summing-up on record: "The ham was there, the prisoner was there. The ham was gone, the prisoner was gone." For lucidity as well as brevity that certainly will take some beating, but some of our own judges have run it pretty close, writes a columnist in the Manchester (England) Guardian.

Politeness Personified

Our recent anecdote about the child who rendered the second line of the Lord's Prayer: "Hollywood be thy name," has brought to us from Mrs. C. M. R. a story which is new to us if not to all of our readers:

A little girl from Boston whose name was Halliwell was spending the night with the Cabots. She knelt at Mrs. Cabot's knee to say her evening prayer.

Gem Long Prized

The aquamarine is among the oldest of gems. It is simply a transparent variety of beryl, typically of a bluish green color. Hence the name, meaning "sea water." The emerald is another variety of beryl, a stone which, in its various tints, was much prized by the ancients. There are many Greek intaglios of these gems, displaying the finest workmanship.

Another Cincinnati

The folk tales of most European nations have many stories about national heroes who were summoned from the pews to free the people from a foe, says an article in a Boston paper. In Bohemia, now part of Czechoslovakia, legend attributes the role to Premysl, a peasant who was working in his fields when a deputation of his countrymen besought him to be their leader. He drove out the enemy, married Libussa, who is regarded as the foundress of Prague, and their descendants ruled Bohemia as dukes and kings for many centuries.

Motors' Peculiarity

That airplane motors operate more efficiently early in the morning than at any time is one of the mysteries of mechanics which automotive engineers have vainly tried to solve. It is an established fact that for a period slightly before dawn at the earth's surface to an hour afterward an airplane motor operates at its highest efficiency. A similar although modified effect is noted for a like period immediately after sunset. Automobile motors on the ground are affected, but in a lesser degree.

Shaw's View of Life

I am of the opinion that my life belongs to the whole community; and as long as I live it is my privilege to do for it whatsoever I can. I want to be thoroughly used up when I die, for the harder I work the more I live. I rejoice in life for its own sake. Life is no "brief candle" for me. It is a sort of splendid torch which I have got hold of for the moment, and I want to make it burn as brightly as possible, before handing it on to future generations.—George Bernard Shaw.

Was Franklin's Idea

Benjamin Franklin was the first to propose daylight saving.

Odd Ceremonials That British Cities Retain

New mayors who wish to start picturesque customs might take lessons from ceremonies that English mayors must go through.

At High Wycombe the mayor has to undergo a kind of "weighing in" ceremony. He proceeds to the weights and measures department of his borough with his aldermen and councillors, and there, with due solemnity, each member of the council is weighed. Their weights are entered faithfully in the civic records.

The new mayor of Lincoln, and at several other places, has a ring placed upon his finger. The ceremony is intended to symbolize the wedding of the mayor to his borough or city.

At Hanley, in Staffordshire, and at Bournemouth, the retiring mayor and the new mayor embrace each other. Strictly, they should kiss, but this part of the ceremony has been allowed to lapse.

The new mayor of Brightonsea is elected to office in the belfry of the parish church.

There are also strict customs in connection with the banquet which follows the election. At Yarmouth a sprat feast is held. At Peterborough the mayor and his guests always consume sausages and champagne, though no one seems to know how this custom originated.

That "Borrowing" Idea Old Subject With Her

Edward Lowell, well-known book collector, said in an address:

"Book borrowers as a class are punk. For that matter, all borrowers are punk."

"A young woman ran into a neighbor's one day and asked: 'Can I use your telephone, dear?'"

"Certainly," said the neighbor. "I'm giving a little party Saturday night, and I want to invite a few friends."

"I see." "It will be a rather gay party—the younger married set—poker and all that—so—well, naturally, you would—well, you would hardly—"

"Not another word," said the neighbor, "I understand, of course. You don't want me to think you're cheeky for borrowing my telephone to invite people to a party that leaves me out. Well, set your mind at rest, darling. Mrs. Smith borrowed the phone the other day to order 10 tons of coal from Grigson's—it was nothing to her that my husband is in the coal business—and last week a man borrowed it to call John up at the coal yard and threaten him with a lawsuit if he didn't settle a disputed bill within 24 hours."—Springfield Union.

Use for Irish Moss

Two-dollar-a-pound Irish moss from England lost its market in 1835, when the mayor of Boston announced that the Massachusetts coast had an ample supply. Further investigation showed that the moss covered rocks from North Carolina to Maine. The mayor's announcement led to the Irish moss industry at Scituate, which still exists. The moss is used in making blanc mange and many other puddings, and remedies for coughs. It also is an ingredient of some kalsomines, shoe stains, shaving soaps and dyes for calico printings.—National Geographic Society.

Humorous Raven

Ravens are long lived birds, some having been known to live for over a century, and if taken young may be tamed easily, and even taught to talk plainly, as readers of Charles Dickens will remember. They are not without jocular facilities, either, for one educated specimen used to gather numbers of rooks and other birds together in his owner's park in Wiltshire, England, and after grave consultations in bird language, would of a sudden shout, "Halloo," in a man's voice, when to his evident delight his audience would scatter in the greatest consternation!

Long-Lived Tortoises

Tortoises have been known to live great ages. For instance, in the library at Lambeth palace, England, there is the shell of one of these reptiles which was brought to that place by Archbishop Laud in 1633, and lived till the year 1753, when it was killed by cold weather. A laborer in the garden dug it up from its winter quarters, and forgetting to replace it, a frosty night killed it. Here is another example: A tortoise was put in the garden of the bishop of London's palace, at Fulham, in 1623, and died a natural death in 1754.

Haemophilia

An article on the subject of haemophilia was published by J. C. Otto in 1808. Oliver Appleton, who lived in Ipswich, Mass., in the early part of the Eighteenth century, was the first bleeder or person suffering from haemophilia of whom there is any record in the United States. From this man there is a record of 15 of his descendants being bleeders. The direct transmission of the disease from parent to child is unusual. In the majority of cases it skips a generation.

Avoid Pessimism

Pessimism is merely a disease of the mind. It places wrong construction on what has happened and denies absolutely any faith in or hope for the future. The pessimist is never happy. What is more, he gives the rest of us a pain in the neck also.—Grit.

Horace Heidt on Stage At the Fisher!

There is a great three attraction show at the Fisher this week that provides genuine entertainment for the whole family. On the stage there is none other than Horace Heidt and his Californians, acclaimed one of the most versatile orchestras in the world. They are a veritable tornado of pep, youth and enthusiasm, and a whole show in themselves. This youthful aggregation of entertainers are known far and wide for their music and their return to Detroit is a real event. With them is Lobo II, the wonder police dog, whose intelligence is almost unbelievable. On the screen there is a spicy musical romantic comedy "This Is the Night," with the screen beauty, Lily Damita.

Bing Crosby, Himself Now at the Michigan

Bing Crosby, radio's most popular singer of romantic ballads heads the stage show which is now playing at the Michigan theater. The famous youthful star of the air is en route to Hollywood and makes his only appearance outside of New York, here in Detroit, at the Michigan. He has with him his own Broadway show of singing and dancing stars. When Crosby sings "When the Blue of the Night, etc." on the air he has a million listeners and thousands of his fans are trying to get into the Michigan this week.

"Wet Parade" Now Showing At Paramount!

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's sensational picture, "The Wet Parade" is now having its first Detroit showing at the Paramount theater. Upton Sinclair has written this story as a graphic illustration of the nation of today. Does not preach for "wet" or "dry," but merely presents the telling of a highly interesting story.

Village Holds Practice

Last year's Village baseball team have secured the backing of the merchants of Grosse Pointe this year and will play under the name of their sponsors. "Americanisms"

Modern English differs considerably from the English of the Eighteenth century. Further, there is a difference in the language as spoken in the United States and in England. There is a difference in the pronunciation of certain words and even in the significance of words and phrases peculiar to this country that have been coined at various periods and are known as Americanisms.

Bird-Lured to Its Death

The gannet, or solan goose feeds on fish, which it captures by plunging into the water, with closed wings, often from a considerable height. Fishermen tow a board with a herring painted on it below the surface of the water. The gannet dives for the painted fish, strikes the board, and breaks its neck.

Men and Brutes

Noble blood! Bah! What blood is more noble or so pure as that of the lion? And yet he is only a brute. It is merit, education and virtue, not blood, that lift men above the level of the brutes.—Michel le Faucheur.

By WM. G. WIEDBUSCH

Hello Fellows:—

On April 7, the Lions Club of Grosse Pointe was signally honored by the attendance of the Hon. Guy A. Miller, Judge of the Circuit Court of Wayne County, a gentleman of the first water and, of course, a Fellow Lion. The Honorable Judge responded to a request for a few remarks by telling of how approximately $80,000.00 had been saved by the Circuit Courts this year through the reduction in the number of jury trials; but how that saving had been offset by expenses incurred in the Grand Jury Sessions, of which, by legal enactment, two must be held each year, involving expenditures of approximately $35,000.00 each. Of course, Old Dame Depression was also given the once-over. He gave it as his opinion that a great deal of this economic condition could be ascribed to the excess of production over consumption, not only locally or nationally, but the world over. He spoke of the vast improvements in the facility of production and how quickly it could be in excess of consumption. He suggested the curtailment of the hours of labor by law.

George Ellworthy reports much charitable activity through the Good Fellow Fund during the month of March. A three year old child, taken with appendicitis, was taken to a hospital, and the cost paid out of the Fund. Several cases were found where families were using almost anything available for covering, and blankets were supplied. A month's rent was paid to save from eviction a man and woman who were both ill. Braces and orthopedic shoes were furnished in several cases. Treatment and care was provided for the children of one family where the father was ill with pneumonia, and the mother in bed with a serious heart ailment. A family that had been public charges since entering the country have been returned to England.

Legal Limit

The "three-mile limit" in international law applies to the three miles out to sea from the coastal line and territorial waters of a country, which is recognized in international law as being exclusively within the admiralty jurisdiction of that country. It is measured in the case of landlocked bays, not from that point where the body of water ceases to have the configuration of a bay.

Old Expression

The earliest use in America of the expression "United we stand; divided we fall," was in Dickinson's "Liberty Song," first published in the Boston Gazette on July 18, 1768. The thought expressed in the lines, however, is much older and may be found in the early Roman poems.

ally emerged victorious as choice of the German people in Sunday's election to govern the destiny of Germany for another seven years, defeating his nearest opponent, Adolph Hitler, "Fascist" by nearly 6,000,000 votes.

The communist vote fell off considerably from the March election. The final vote is as follows:

Paul Von Hindenburg, 19,359,642
Adolph Hitler, 13,417,388
Ernst Thaelmann, 3,606,388

The reconstruction period of 1932 bids well for Germany. Under the able leadership of this wartime hero and peace time idol of the Germany people.

Current rumors have it that Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York State will be nominated by the Democrats at the coming convention and elected as our next President. It seems a little early to make any definite prediction at the present time, "yet, the boys must get it off their chests."

Among the new annuals shown at the 1932 Flower Show this year were sunshine asters in delicate shades and new color combinations, so now when rearranging your garden pictures or adding some new color note why not try some of these new varieties? Viscaria, lavatera, clarkia and cleome are also worthy of places in your garden.

Hardy water lilies may be set out any time this month. Tender varieties should not be set out until the water temperature has been raised to at least 70 degrees.

The squared circle and padded gloves call many—but few are chosen. This scribe's humble advice to Wallace Gamber is to get the proper training quarters and start earnestly to learn the fundamentals of the manly art. With the zeal and ambition that he possesses the greatest difference in the world could be brought about in a very short time and I would venture to say that he would make one of Michigan's greatest drawing cards in the realms of fistic circles.

Presbyterian Church Of the Covenant

"Let but one generation of American boys and girls be rightly trained in body, mind and spirit, in knowledge and love and unselfishness, and all the knotty problems of our American life, social, economic and political, would be far on the road toward complete solution. Let the training of but one generation be wholly neglected and our civilization, losing its art, science, literature and religion, would be far on the road to primeval savagery." Henry L. Smith, President-Emeritus of Washington-Lee University.

A faithful band of men and women at Covenant is endeavoring each Sunday to train five hundred boys and girls and young people in the ways of righteousness. You are invited to attend our Bible School at 9:30 Sunday morning.

The sermon themes for the worship services next Sunday are as follows:
10:45 a. m.—"The Ministry of Old Associations."
7:45 p. m.—"The Four Kinds of Soil."
At 5:15 p. m. the young people have a social hour, followed by devotional services at 6:30.

Scriptural Mention of the Raven as Scavenger

The raven, largest of the crow family, nearly thirty inches in length, carnivorous, a scavenger fond of offal, glutinous in habit, is often mentioned by name in the sacred Scriptures. In other places also where in the early days of savage battling, reference is made to dead bodies being given to "the fowls of the air," ravens, the common attendants upon battlefields, are no doubt referred to.

The very first mention of a raven has connection in the mind with this grim habit, for when Noah opened the window of the Ark after the flood and let out a raven (Gen. 8:7), which did not return, although there was neither dry land nor tree on which to rest, we cannot but think of the awful food it would ravin upon in the dead bodies of beasts and human beings, drowned in the frightful overflowing of the waters everywhere.

Solomon, whose knowledge of natural history was deep and keen, had a faithful imitation of Agur, the son of Jakeb, who knew of that frightful habit of the raven, the picking out the eyes of young or sickly lambs, so killing them, and with judicial wisdom applies that habit parabolically as follows: "The eye that mocketh at his father, and despiseth to obey his mother, the ravens of the valley shall pick it out," (Proverbs, 30:17).

Big Prices for Tiny Shrines
As two small medieval shrines were taken quite casually into a London auction room recently the owner, Maj. H. Chase Meredith, thought that if they brought $5,000 each he would be fortunate. One of them, however, which had been in the old abbey of Malmesbury, drew an exciting opening bid of $5,000 and was eventually sold to a Paris buyer for $45,000. The other, associated with Croylund abbey, went to an English collector for $24,000. Each shrine measured only 12 inches long and 10 inches high.

Harmless Shark
The basking sharks sometimes attain a length of 30 feet or more, but they have very small teeth and their diet consists necessarily of small fishes that travel in shoals and other small soft sea creatures which they take into their huge mouths while lying lazily on the surface of the ocean. This species of shark is hunted for its oil, a large one yielding as much as a ton and a half.

CHILDHOOD TUBERCULOSIS

Stop and consider your child and the children you know. Are they happy, active, tireless, hungry little tykes as healthy children should be? Or, does Mary get tired rather easily and often become irritable and cross in the afternoon? Is Billy thin and pale with a poor appetite that can't be tempted by wholesome food? Such conditions are not natural to healthy childhood. Tuberculosis is, only one of the many things which may be the cause—but by all means the cause should be discovered—it is better to be safe than sorry. Mary or Billy may be one of the 40,000 children in Michigan public schools who, it is estimated, will die from tuberculosis if the present death rate continues. Discover their condition early and Mary and Billy can be saved from facing life with the prospect of ill health, inefficiency and early death. You can give your child no better health insurance than a yearly physical examination.

The Wicked Flea
A humanitarian from Hartford, who wished to insure his dog's comfort, sent a hurry-up message to the Meriden Journal. "Kindly tell me," he urged, "as soon as you can, what is good for fleas?" "That depends," stilled the editor. "What's the matter with the fleas?"

As parents and teachers, concerned with the health of the child, you will be interested in knowing that the Early Diagnosis Campaign this year emphasizes the discovery of childhood tuberculosis. It is generally agreed among scientists that the majority of people become infected with the germ of tuberculosis during childhood. It is also believed that many of the people who develop tuberculosis in later life, had lung-gland tuberculosis when they were children.

Lung-gland or childhood tuberculosis is strictly speaking not tuberculosis of the lungs, but it is considered the forerunner of pulmonary tuberculosis. The child who is affected with lung-gland tuberculosis often shows signs of underweight or slight weakness; his appetite may be poor; he may tire easily; he may be irritable; have feverish periods and seem half sick. These symptoms may indicate other illnesses, as well as tuberculosis, so if there is the slightest doubt as to the child's health, immediate action to determine the cause should be taken.

There are two valuable diagnostic aids which doctors use to help to determine tuberculosis. One, the tuberculin test, is a painless skin test which proves the absence or presence of the tubercle bacilli in the body. The other is an x-ray study of the chest. An x-ray picture will show whether the lungs or the lung-glands are diseased. An examination, including these two tests should be given to children who have the foregoing symptoms or who are known to have come in contact with tuberculous individuals.

Once childhood tuberculosis is discovered, it can usually be prevented from developing into other forms of tuberculosis if proper treatment is instituted. Some children, who are found with diseased lung glands, will need complete rest and cure in a sanatorium if their lives are to be saved. Others, not so seriously sick, may receive medical treatment and supervision at home. Still others, if they are under a physician's care, will be able to attend open-air or open-window schools. But there should be no open case of tuberculosis in the home since it is necessary to shield the child from receiving repeated doses of the germ. He must also be relieved of all possible strain. He must have ten hours of sleep at night with windows open and special rest periods during the day. Strenuous exercise and fatigue must be avoided. Proper food, sunshine and fresh air are essential. Defects, such as bad teeth and tonsils, must be corrected and everything done to build up his general health.

By acquainting yourself with the facts of prevention and cure and being constantly on the watch for the warning signals of tuberculosis you can help in the reduction of deaths from this preventable disease. Parents and teachers who are deeply concerned with the health of children will welcome health education programs and physical examinations in the schools. They will carry out the suggestions made by the doctor or nurse and will encourage children in forming habits of health.

The medical profession and health agencies alone can not succeed in conquering this enemy that threatens the health and happiness of all children. You, too, are responsible. You, who have the care of children at home and in school, have the greatest opportunity of all to protect their health.
