High School News Briefs

At a meeting of the Alumni last Wednesday evening in room 301, the few faithful members there decided to abandon the idea of presenting a three-act play, and instead to concentrate their efforts on making a success of the Alumnews, new publication of the Alumni. New methods of circulation were decided upon, so that as many members of the Alumni as possible would receive the paper.

A dance, to be held on May 14, 35 cents admission was also planned to bolster the treasury, which is now hovering between the black and red.

Plans for the annual June banquet were discussed, but no definite decision was arrived at.

Members of the Grosse Pointe Aquatic Club are holding regular practices for their annual splash program; a matinee on May 5, at 3:40 o'clock, and an evening performance on May 6, at 8 o'clock.

The program will include a demonstration of swimming and diving of all descriptions, including stunts, life-saving, swimming for form, and new records for speed. There will be some specially planned humorous races. The forty club members are proficient mermaids. The Aquatic Club programs in the past have been most colorful and interesting.

Tickets for matinee are 10 cents, and evening 25 cents. The tickets may be purchased from the members of the club.

The meet and club are sponsored by Miss Adele Schlafer.

The Alumni Girls are cordially invited to attend the decision of the "Little Brown Jug," to be decided upon at the fourth annual triangular indoor meet, on Thursday evening, April 28 at 8 o'clock in the girls' gym. Student association ticket and 15 cents, otherwise 25 cents.

Golf and tennis teams at the high school will swing into action today, playing Ferndale and Port Huron, respectively.

The four men used by the golf team will be chosen from the following: Geo. Zannoth, Jordan Schanbeck, Paul Williams, Harry Adams, Alfred Grow, Robert Heusel, Bob and Bud Thibodeau and James Munroe. The two Thibodeaus and Heusel, veterans from last year, are favored, with Grow and Adams next choices.

The tennis team will probably be composed of Thomas Groehn, James Black, Ed Ketterer, Douglas Macalpine, and Bill Harris with William Maul, Roger Vandekar, and Dan Simmons fighting it out for the remaining two positions.

To give the parents an opportunity to see the students doing their work, open house night will be held at Trombley School Tuesday, April 26, from 7:15 to 9 o'clock.

Three one-half periods of regular class work will be given. All types of work will be done including art, gym, music, and auditorium. Because this session is being held at night, there will be no school in the afternoon.

Schools will be closed in Grosse Pointe on Friday, April 29, to permit teachers to attend the Schoolmasters meeting at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor for part of the three-day session. Miss Frances Griffin, Latin instructor in the high school, is scheduled to speak on "Latin and Athletics."

The following articles were prepared by girls in the Home Economics department of the Grosse Pointe High School, under Miss Jetta Thompson in connection with their daily work.

DESSERTS

Do you ever feel that the dessert is the most difficult part of a lunch to plan; that you need something to finish off a meal and yet not know what it is? It is true that the dessert depends upon the rest of the meal.

The first course of a lunch, may be an appetizer. It usually consists of a cocktail or soup. It is merely to develop a liking for the meal which is to follow. The main course follows. It supplies a great deal of the food value secured in the meal. Sometimes it is rather heavy and other times light. And it is upon this that the choice of a dessert course largely depends.

The dessert course is used to put a finishing touch to a meal and check the appetite. Sweets are good to use as they tend to deaden the appetite. If the main course is rather heavy it is wise to select a lighter dessert—possibly fruit on ice or a light pudding. On the other hand if the main dish is light the desserts should be heavier.

I doubt if this helps much in the selection of desserts, but it does give one of the important points in choice of desserts.

NUTRITIOUS CAKE

A favorite spice cake at home is Nutritious Cake. It calls for one-half cup shortening, one cup sugar, one can tomato, one teaspoon nutmeg, one teaspoon cloves, two teaspoons baking powder (Royal), two cups flour, one cup raisins, one cup meats.

Cream butter and sugar, add baking soda to tomato soup and add to butter and sugar. Add other ingredients in order given and bake in medium oven about 35 minutes.

This makes a delicious cake and goes well with most frostings.

—Elizabeth Armstrong

FOR TEA

When invited to tea one day, I saw the most unusual beverage. It consisted of the juice of several fruits, served in small sherbet cups and garnished with a small piece of angel food cake. On top of the cake a cherry had been placed. I was told that for six servings the juice from a medium can of peaches, the juice from a medium can of pears, one-half cup of grape juice, the juice of three oranges and the juice from one lemon was used. These were mixed with one-half cup of sugar and enough ice water to make the six glasses. It is served very cold or partly frozen.

WALL ACCESSORIES

A matter of vital importance in the making of any home is in the correct use of accessories. Perhaps the least thought of, but most important of these, is the hanging of pictures. Although wall tapestries are sometimes used in place of them, pictures are the most common.

The correct arrangement of pictures on a wall is often overlooked and may be a serious defect to the beauty of a room. Pictures should be framed simply and with not too decorative a frame, for it is the picture we want to see when we look at the wall, not the frame. Although only one or two family photographs are permissible in a living room, we usually find them occupying the center of interest. A living room should be inviting to everyone, not to just the family and personal friends. Therefore, landscape pictures and pictures that attract attention and arouse interest are most suitable for a living room. Fruit and landscapes are equally desirable in a dining room. While religious and family pictures, together with photographs of friends, stand out in a bedroom.

CLOTHING FOR THE INFANT

The quality and quantity of the child's clothing must be regulated by the means of its parents. It is true that every mother will naturally try to have the best she can afford. Regardless of the money which can be spent, it must be remembered that the most important function of the clothing is to protect the child. It should be loose, and light in weight and simple (without ribbons and laces) and easily cleaned. They should be constructed so that it is easy to dress and undress the baby.

Enough clothing is needed to keep the baby clean and attractive. Enough should be supplied so that it is not necessary to launder the clothing daily.

During the early months of the child's life, warmth is particularly needed for the infantile system, and where there is any tendency to weakness, imperfect development of temperature, it is necessary that enough clothing be worn to conserve heat. Healthy and older babies may wear less which according to some theories is almost a minimum.

"Father Nile"

The Nile is unique among rivers of the world. Although it is 3,500 miles long, it has no tributaries for the last 1,700 miles of its journey to the sea.

Pottery Old Art

Proof of pottery's great antiquity is found in the fact that gracefully formed faience ware was produced in Egypt before the potter's wheel was known.

Crystal Tools

Prof. George Grant MacCurdy of Yale university, who discovered seven rock crystal tools in a cave in France, is of the opinion that men of the old Stone Age used these tools in the place of metal instruments.

Early Christian Burial Custom Not Understood

Strange burial customs of the early Christians were discovered by the University of Pennsylvania museum expedition during its third season of excavation at Meydum, Egypt.

"In the vaulted chamber of a burial of the Christian period," a report from Alan Rowe, field director of the expedition, said, "many of the Christian bodies were buried in very bright garments and some of them had small pieces of sheepskin piled over their faces to a height of almost 20 inches.

One of the most important discoveries of the excavators was a limestone slab bearing the only known contemporary portrait of King Senefru to be found in Egypt.

Carved in relief, it depicts the king wearing a close-fitting cap, above which are the horns of a ram supporting two curved plumes.

"Elephant Test" Never Fails Bridge Builders

An elephant recently took part in a novel test of strength of the pressed steel which is the latest material used for motor car bodies.

Beethoven Anecdote

The Royal Philharmonic society—founded in 1813 and still flourishing as probably the most exclusive and distinguished musical organization in the world—has a proud memory or two in respect of Beethoven.

Great Appetites

Fondness for pickles seems to have been a characteristic of famous personages as well as of ordinary mortals, both ancient peoples were especially fond of pickles, and historical records tell us that Cleopatra, Tiberius, Julius Caesar, Napoleon, and our own Washington and Jefferson were among the world celebrities who liked the familiar appetizers that we moderns know so well.

The cucumber, most popular form of pickle, is one of mankind's oldest foods, and was first cultivated in northern India 3,000 years before Christ.

Buck's Hide Well Peppered

During hunting season certain hunters were fooled by a practical joker, who stuffed a fine big buck and placed him alongside a thicket near the highway, not far from Oil City, Pa.

Museums in History

The word museum is much older than the thing which it now denotes. Its Greek meaning is "a temple of the Muses." It could be applied metaphorically to any place where literature and the arts were cultivated, and its most famous use in antiquity was as the title of the Museum of Alexandria, founded and endowed by Alexander as a great library and home for scholars and for literary study.

Vindictive South African

Nasty temper was shown by an old police pensioner of Johannesburg, South Africa, in his will, by which he disposed of an estate of $16,700.

Exclusively American

The American pronghorn antelope is found nowhere else in the world but on the North American continent.

By WM. G. WIEDBUSCH

This is being written as I sit in the office of the Grosse Pointe Shores Village Hall, overlooking Lake St. Claire, and the atmosphere is rebusant of spring time. Every attempt at rousing myself out of the prevailing lethargy is an effort. I seem to remember something of last week's meeting being partially taken up with an old fashioned spelling bee.

'Scarface' Now Showing at United Artists Theater

Howard Hughes' white-hot drama, "Scarface," is now showing at the United Artist theatre. Armitage Trail's story of the same name has been adapted to the screen by Ben Hecht, famous newspaper man, and Fred Paisley, author of "Al Capone."

Paul Mumf, veteran star of stage and screen, plays the title role. Vince Barnett, George Raft, Boris Karloff and many others have prominent roles.

Horace Heidt Held Over 2nd Week at the Fisher

Horace Heidt and His Californians proved to be such a sensation during their first week that special arrangements have been made and they are being held over for a second week's engagement at the Fisher theatre.

On the screen this week is Kay Francis who is in her first starring picture, "Man Wanted." David Manners plays opposite her in this story of working wives and idle husbands.

Hard to Catch Cuttlefish

The cuttlefish may not be much of a fighter, but it has an effective method of making a "getaway." When alarmed it expels an inky substance that clouds the water and thus aids it to escape from its enemies.

Caesar's Early Years

Little is known definitely concerning the childhood of Julius Caesar. It is said of his mother that she formed her son for the duties of a soldier and statesman.

Motion Picture Terms

Quickies are pictures made by the cheaper independent studios. Poverty row is the legendary street on which all independent studios are commonly supposed to be located.

No Reference to Fowls in the Old Testament

To the thoughtful reader of the Holy Scriptures it may appear curious that in the history they contain of the rise, progress and habits of a purely pastoral people like the Jews, there should be no mention of cocks and hens in the Old Testament.

No modern general farm would be considered completely stocked if there were no fowls about the barnyard or no poultry-run. In India, which is the native home of the peacock, such fowls have run wild from remote antiquity.

At any rate domestic fowls do not appear to have made their way into the Land of Israel until after the captivity, when the remnants of the tribes may have brought them along from the Persians, who had introduced them from India before that period.

Bishops Hold "Commune" With Long-Dead Ruler

Before a new bishop is enthroned in Winchester cathedral he has to have an interview with William the Conqueror. On his way to the cathedral he goes into a small church in the High street and there remains alone for a few minutes.

Washington Tree Planter

There is a phase of Washington's career which is not always mentioned in articles concerning him, but which is a very interesting one. He was an enthusiastic tree planter and collector, and he sent to far-off places for particular varieties of trees that he wished to plant at Mount Vernon.

Seedless Oranges

The raising of seedless oranges was originally a "sport," propagated in Brazil by means of budding, and the seedless oranges now grown in the United States are descended from two imported Brazilian trees.

Biting Remarks

What is the most biting thing ever said by a statesman about a political opponent? I have always put highest Disraeli's description of John Stuart Mill as a finishing governess, and the saying, usually attributed to Lord Balfour, that if a certain politician had a little more brains, he might be described as half-witted.

Wales Boosts Big Trees

In an effort to attract visitors, Wales is boosting her big trees. The Douglas fir at Powis castle, Welshpool, is said to be the tallest in Great Britain. It is 160 feet high and 11 feet in girth.

In a school in South Carolina, "Quarantine Station" is the name given to a corner of the classroom in which children coming to school with colds are placed to avoid contact with other children.

Food for the Soul

The cultivation of the mind is a kind of food applied for the soul of many.

Accelerating

the CASH REGISTER

THE delicate clang of the cash register keys, accompanied by an insistent obligato of cash drawers opening and closing is music to the merchants' ears. What annoys most merchants today is the extremely slow tempo in which this commercial music is played on their cash registers.
