Register! Register! Before August 27th Is Cry of Officials

Grosse Pointe residents are again reminded that the last day for registration for the fall elections in Grosse Pointe Township is August 27. Officials throughout the community united this week in issuing a strong plea to all residents to register at once.

Voters may register any day during business hours at the clerk's office in their own village.

For the convenience of voters who are unable to register during business hours a registration clerk will be on duty in the municipal buildings of Grosse Pointe Farms and Grosse Pointe Village Monday evenings until 8 o'clock and at the Grosse Pointe Park municipal building until 9 p. m. every evening.

On Saturday, August 20th, and Saturday, August 27th, registrations will be taken between the hours of 8 a. m. and 8 p. m. at the municipal buildings in Grosse Pointe Park, Grosse Pointe Village, Grosse Pointe Farms, Grosse Pointe Shores, Lochmoor, and also at the George Defer School.

Mrs. Frederick Alger Replies to Questions Regarding Prohibition

Mrs. Frederick M. Alger, Michigan Chairman of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform in the following article answers some of the questions which are being constantly asked of the workers for Prohibition Reform.

Question: Why do women want Prohibition Reform?

Mrs. Alger: Because Prohibition has proved itself a complete failure. Women, in order to safeguard their homes and their young people, are demanding that and forcible law take the place of the unenforceable 18th Amendment. We want real temperance, not the increased drinking that came with prohibition.

Question: Are the women of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform working for liquor interests?

Mrs. Alger: Absolutely not. They are unpaid, earnest, volunteer workers, who have no connection with so-called liquor interests.

Question: Are the figures regarding the increase in drunkenness and the increase in deaths from alcoholism true ones?

Mrs. Alger: They are gathered from authentic government statistics. We do not use any figures that we cannot back by authority. Anyone desiring to see or know more of these statistics can call at our office, 35 E. Grand River avenue, and receive our data.

Question: After Repeal, what do the W. O. N. P. R. want?

Mrs. Alger: They want the control of liquor (so uncontrolled since prohibition) to be in the hands of the State, with Federal control of Interstate liquor traffic. They want the education of the people to true temperance through health agencies, the home and public schools. The organization will be disbanded after repeal. It pledges itself to go on working until these are accomplished.

Question: Does the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform desire to see the saloon come into existence?

Mrs. Alger: No, we are fighting now a terrible increase in the many thousands of unlicensed saloons—or speakeries. With State Control there would be no saloons at all. As wives, mothers and grandmothers, we do not wish to see the return of the saloon, but we realize that the saloon of the old days was not the danger to law and order that the unnumberable number of unlicensed saloons are under the unenforceable Prohibition Law.

Question: Do you believe that the Repeal of the 18th Amendment is necessary to bring law, order and prosperity back to our country?

Mrs. Alger: We do. After eleven (11) years of trial, we find that drinking has increased, instead of decreased; that crimes, immorality and lawlessness are threatening the civic and economic structure of the United States; therefore, after exhaustive study of the subject, we feel that the first step to a return of decency, respect for our country's laws, and to prosperity, depends upon outright Repeal of the 18th Amendment.

AMERICAN LEGION NEWS GROSSE POINTE POST

Well, comrades, here's your golden opportunity to square yourself with your better half for staying out so late on the nights of our meetings, by bringing her out to Lou Baldwin's home on Saturday, August 27th. This is going to be the first dinner get-together of our Post and you can rest assured it's going to be a humdinger. After we partake of the wonderful food, which by the way, will be served by our own ladies, and is going to be the means of forming our ladies auxiliary, we will march over to the elaborate ball room built just for this big occasion, where an imported orchestra will render your favorite waltz, or what have you. The dinner starts at 6 p. m. until 8 p. m., then dancing until —, well you can figure on meeting the milk man. The price, owing to economic conditions, will only be 50c per person, so we'll be looking for you.

The Legion is going to have a 26-team bowling league and will roll at the Palace Recreation on Gratiot, commencing the latter part of September and I understand there is still an opening for our post, so let's get together, gang, and put a team in the league. They have some real good times and I know we wouldn't finish in the cellar. (I mean the cellar of the bowling league).

Louis C. Rabaut Bids For Democratic Vote In Race for Congress

Many boosters from all walks of life see victory for Louis C. Rabaut as the Democratic candidate for Congress in the 14th District of Michigan. His campaign is the subject of discussion wherever people meet, his friends point to his ability, his genial personality, his ready wit, his public speaking, his determination of character and his widespread acquaintance, as well as the true Democratic principles as the reasons for their hope for his victory; moreover they say he has been well received wherever he has gone and workers for him are joining the ranks every day.

Mr. Rabaut is a grandson of the famous pioneer Charles P. Rabaut and a son of Louis A. Rabaut, formerly in the wholesale toy and novelty business in Detroit.

Mr. Rabaut was educated in the Parochial schools and is a graduate of the Detroit College, has degrees not only from that institution but also a Masters Degree from the University of Detroit. He is a graduate of the Detroit College of Law and has been actively interested in the building business and is at the present time president of the Standard Homes Investment Corporation.

Mr. Rabaut is a Democrat and in speaking with him he recalls to mind in no unflattering terms the suffering and distress of the people as it has existed and as it does exist today. The awakening of the public conscience to these conditions is, in his opinion, the cause of the widespread dissatisfaction of Republican leadership, heard on all sides and in all places and in all ranks of life declaring for a party change which will manifest itself in a great Democratic victory in the coming election.

His advice is to ask for a Democratic primary ballot that the best candidates may be selected and placed in nomination on that ticket. The remedy for the needs of the country today are found explicitly, concisely and clearly in the planks of the National Democratic platform and with a big smile he concluded "it looks like a Democratic victory."

Great California Trees

Forty-nine persons danced on the stump of a giant redwood tree that was felled in the Calaveras grove in California in 1853. Though this tree was only 302 feet high, its stump measured 25 feet in diameter inside the bark, six feet above ground. "Father of the Forest," another fallen tree in this grove, had a basal circumference of 110 feet.

What the V. F. W. Is Doing

On Sunday, August 21st the members of Alger Post and Ladies Auxiliary of Post 995 V. F. W. will participate at the charity ball game between Grosse Pointe Farms and the Old Timers ball game in the flag raising ceremonies to be held at Kerby Field, on Kerby road, Grosse Pointe Farms. The game is called for three o'clock. All members of Alger Post and Ladies Auxiliary to be at Post Headquarters, Otsiketa Club, at 2:00 p. m. The Wayne County Council Drum and Bugle Corps, winners at State Convention at Petoskey this year and National winners at Portland, Oregon in 1931 will be in attendance.

The V. F. W. National Service Bureau

The V. F. W. was the first society of ex-service men to establish organized work for the relief of disabled and needy veterans following the World War.

The V. F. W. National Service Bureau was established in Washington, D. C., in the fall of 1919, and has continued since that time to work for all veterans of all wars. In cooperation with the U. S. Veterans' Bureau, the U. S. Pension Bureau, and other government establishments, all veterans are assisted in any matter in which government aid can be secured. Local Service Officers of the V. F. W. represent veterans before the Regional Offices of the Veterans' Bureau and assist disabled and needy comrades locally.

The V. F. W. National Legislative Committee, with headquarters at Washington, D. C., was established in 1919 and with state legislative committees, is active in securing Federal and State Legislation beneficial to all veterans.

The V. F. W. was the first organization to adopt the slogan "Honor the Dead by Helping the Living," and the V. F. W. Buddy poppy made by disabled and needy veterans in government hospitals and sold throughout the country has been the means of raising funds for our less fortunate comrades and their dependents.

The V. F. W. was the first organization of ex-service men to establish a national committee to advance the cause of Americanism and the V. F. W. National Americanization Committee organized before the World War, functions to inculcate the doctrine of patriotism, to teach Americanism and respect for the flag.

The V. F. W. is the only organization of veterans to establish a National Home for orphans of ex-service men. The V. F. W. National Home at Eaton Rapids, Michigan, is situated on a tract of 512 acres and there the orphan of our comrades are being cared for and given the training and education which is the right of every American child. The Home functions on a system of "family units" designed to preserve the family group and keep mother and children together.

The V. F. W. is active in all matters beneficial to the veterans of all our wars and participates in all patriotic movements.

Join the V. F. W., "America's Old Guard," now because: It is exclusively a "Gold Stripe" organization.

It is the only national organization all of whose members have seen foreign service.

It gives, through the common bond of foreign service, a unique spirit of comradeship.

It has passed the experimental stage and is a "going" organization.

It is not-partisan and non-sectarian. Its members, your comrades, need you, and you need them.

It is always ready to help any service or ex-service man, whether or not he is a V. F. W. member.

It is always ready to help the widows and orphans of deceased comrades.

Its slogan is "One Flag, One Country, One Language."

In it you are associated with veterans of all our wars, from 1845 to the present date.

We do not discriminate although we are distinctive.

Old Time Herbs To Feature Annual Fruit and Flower Exhibition

At the annual Flower, Fruit and Vegetable Show of the Grosse Pointe and Eastern Michigan Horticultural Society to be held at the Neighborhood Club, Grosse Pointe Village, on Friday Saturday and Sunday, September 9, 10 and 11, will be an exhibit of old fashioned flowers and herbs.

This exhibit will be staged by Tom Pearson, Grosse Pointe Farms, who has made an extensive study along these lines, and in it will be many old time herbs never or rarely seen, these days.

The herb section will include about forty species best known for their aromatic, culinary or medicinal virtues—plants mentioned often by the early poets and writers, and thus carry with them rich literary and historical atmosphere. Mr. Pearson is aiming to make the exhibit an educational feature, has delved deeply into historical data relating to the various species.

No fewer than seventeen plants will be included, all of them being mentioned as growing in New England gardens in the period 1638-1663, and were recorded in a book by John Josselyn, published in 1674.

Long Journey

Things are seldom so bad that they cannot be worse, and this must be the consolation of those who, continually made the butt of others for some peculiarity, come across a victim of circumstances suffering from the same peculiarity in a more exaggerated degree. The French Marshal Vivonne once indicated this feeling in a witty reply to the king. Vivonne and the Comte d'Auvergne were probably the most corpulent gentlemen of the court at the time. "Marshal, you really are getting too fat," said the king. "You ought to take more exercise." "Your majesty does not know, then, that I take a great deal of exercise?" "No; what do you do?" "I walk around the Comte d'Auvergne three times every day."—Washington Post.

New World's "Discovery"

Some historians of the Roman Catholic church are of the opinion that their missionaries reached the western hemisphere before the discovery of America by Columbus. They claim that documents from the Vatican archives, which were published in 1893, contained information concerning the diocese of Gardar, in Greenland. This first Catholic diocese in the New World was established about 1125 and had resident bishops until 1377. However, other historians claim that the church of San Nicholas, in Santo Domingo, which was founded by Governor Ovando in either 1502 or 1509, is the oldest Christian church in the New World.

Exploded Illusions

Fond illusions about animals have been destroyed. For instance, says the Los Angeles Times, polar bears do not eat fish but grizzlies will. African apes actually turn pale when they hear the lions roar; Indian apes listen with indifference to lions, but go insane with terror when they hear the Belgian tigers. Man of war birds will eat only fish that are thrown into the air by keepers where they can catch them on the fly. Wild parrots learn to talk from tame parrots put in the cages; the wild animal market is "long" on lions; they can't even be given away.

Wellington Nominated Himself

When George IV requested the duke of Wellington to form a ministry, nothing was further from his thoughts than making the duke the premier. When the king, then at Windsor, opened the dispatch box containing the duke's list, he burst into an exclamation of mingled mirth and amazement: "D—n his eyes! I asked him to make out for me a list of a cabinet, not to put his own name at the head of it." But George IV hated "trouble"; the duke's name stood at the head of the list, and the king let it remain.—From the London Spectator, February, 1832.

Youthful Reasoning

Seven-year-old Jean was being grilled by mother preparatory to a test in second-grade arithmetic. Jean knew very well how many pints in a quart, how many quarts in a bushel, and so forth. Mother then asked her how many nickels there were in a quarter. "One," was the reply. "Now, you know better than that," corrected mother. "No, that is right," retorted Jean. "one nickel and two dimes."

Legionnaires Endorse Carl M. Weideman

Carl M. Weideman, of Buckingham road, Grosse Pointe Park, and candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from this district, has received the unanimous endorsement of his candidacy from the Grosse Pointe Post of the American Legion. The Legionnaires took this action at a meeting held Wednesday evening. Mr. Weideman is a member of the post.

"I deeply appreciate the confidence the 'boys' have in me in endorsing my candidacy," said Mr. Weideman. "If I am fortunate in being elected I'll have the interest of the soldiers at heart and I won't have to explain any action I take in their regard," said Mr. Weideman.

Cellophane Production

Cellophane is a form of viscose made by treating purified cellulose (cotton linters, etc.) with caustic soda solution and carbon disulphide. This mixture dissolves the cellulose as sodium cellulosexanthate. By treatments with suitable reagents the cellulose, somewhat modified chemically, is precipitated from the solution.

Spores High in Air

Spores of some plant diseases are carried as high as 10,000 feet.

Tea-Growing Areas

The principal sources of tea are Ceylon, China, India, Japan, Formosa, Java and Sumatra. The plant for a time was cultivated in other localities, but those countries, after years of scientific research, have brought tea growing and tea manufacture up to its present point of perfection. To the natives of these lands it is the chief source of livelihood and the skill and knowledge required for successful tea cultivation are handed down from generation to generation.

A New Deal With Social Justice If P. H. O'BRIEN is Governor

Patrick H. O'Brien Saved Taxpayers Thousands of Dollars in Crusade for Human Rights and "Forgotten Man"

Patrick H. O'Brien Championed Cause of Defenseless Residents

PATRICK H. O'BRIEN, of Detroit a former Circuit Judge, and today a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, is acclaimed everywhere as one of Michigan's foremost champions of the "forgotten man" not only in words but in deeds.

As counsel for the Detroit branch of the American Civil Liberties Union, he has appeared in the courts many times as the defender of the "forgotten man" giving of his time and energy—working not merely talking.

This was very forcefully illustrated to the aliens of Detroit and Michigan and in fact to the aliens throughout the United States, when Mr. O'Brien headed the legal forces to contest the validity and constitutionality of the Cheeny Act, a law passed by the Republican leadership of today and signed by Gov. Wilbur M. Brucker providing for the registration of aliens in the state of Michigan.

Associated with Mr. O'Brien in this court battle against the Public Officials of the State of Michigan were Theodore Levin, Nathan L. Milstein, Fred M. Butzel and Isadore Levin, Detroit attorneys.

The result of their effort was to have the Alien Registration bill declared unconstitutional by the Federal court in an opinion written and handed down by Judge Ernest A. O'Brien.

The effects of the Alien Registration bill were it to become a law as explained by Patrick H. O'Brien follow:

"One section of the bill prohibited the employment of unregistered aliens," said Patrick H. O'Brien, recently. "This section was expected to make it necessary for another 1,000,000 Michigan residents to obtain and carry with them naturalization or American birth certificates.

"The law proposed to require every person of foreign appearance or accent to carry some proof of his right to be in the state despite Michigan's birth records being incomplete and inadequate except for the last few years. It is estimated that there are hundreds of thousands of Michigan citizens born in Michigan of whom there are no birth records.

"I personally advised Gov. Brucker not to sign the bill as it was unconstitutional and scores of others did likewise but he signed the bill in defiance of this advice.

Women Rally to Aid O'Brien

The "Women's O'Brien for Governor" club plan a "housecleaning" of the State government and have adopted the slogan, "Vote for Prosperity and O'Brien." Plans for a state-wide organization were perfected recently and steps taken to establish units in each of Michigan's 83 counties.

"Under Republican administrations," said Mrs. Theodore I. Roth, of Detroit, a charter member of the "Women's O'Brien for Governor" club, "the ranks of the unemployed are steadily increasing and children are suffering from malnutrition and rickets and tuberculosis are on the increase in communities where the relief agencies have failed to take care of them due to lack of funds.

"We must start 'housecleaning' in our own state capitol. Past and present Republican administrative follies and the economic crisis call for capable, fearless and resourceful leadership in government today for the benefit of all of the people.

PATRICK H. O'BRIEN WINS VICTORY OVER REPUBLICAN LEADERS

PATRICK H. O'BRIEN SAVED 1,000,000 MICHIGAN RESIDENTS THE HUMILIATION FROM THE SENSELESS WEB OF ESPINAGE, SUPERVISION AND RESTRICTION PROVIDED FOR IN THE VICIOUS, UNAMERICAN AND DESPOTIC ALIEN REGISTRATION BILL.

Patrick H. O'Brien's Successful Fight Against The ALIEN REGISTRATION BILL Advocated by Republican leaders saved Taxpayers of Michigan Thousands of Dollars which the Republican Leadership of today would have spent to pay spies, informers, and an increased State Police Force and Border Immigration Patrols

Patrick H. O'Brien saved 200,000 alien residents from being photographed and fingerprinted by the State Police and defeated the attempt of Republican leadership to destroy the constitutional protection proclaimed in the U. S. Charter of Liberties — The Declaration of Independence — against unreasonable searches, seizures and against compelling a man to give evidence against himself.

O'Brien Honored By News Editors

Editors of a group of non-English language newspapers in Detroit, including the Jewish, Hungarian, Polish, Danish and Italian groups, met at luncheon at the Hotel Barlum recently to honor former Circuit Judge Patrick H. O'Brien, for the stand he took against the Alien Registration bill which a Federal court recently declared unconstitutional.

Mr. O'Brien, together with Theodore Levin, Detroit attorney, fought the measure on the ground of its unconstitutional-ity.

Resolutions adopted at the meeting Wednesday expressed the gratitude of citizens of foreign descent to Mr. O'Brien for his voluntary services in fighting against the measure.

Patrick H. O'Brien Urges Quick Repeal To Restore 5c Beer

STATING THAT the "duty of the hour is to get rid of national prohibition," and that "I am sick and tired of all the senseless web of regulations," Patrick H. O'Brien, of Detroit, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, recently had replied to the questionnaire submitted candidates for public office by the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

Mr. O'Brien formerly served as Circuit Judge in Keweenaw, Baraga and Houghton counties in the Upper Peninsula for a number of years.

His reply received by Mrs. Charles A. Dean, Jr., one of the leaders of the Detroit branch of the W. O. N. P. R., was accompanied by a letter in which Mr. O'Brien expressed his appreciation for the opportunity to state his opinion on the Eighteenth Amendment and on the proposed regulation of the liquor traffic.

"I think," said Mr. O'Brien's letter, "that the W. O. N. P. R. has performed a real public service in sending out this questionnaire and asking for a reply to the same.

In replying to the questionnaire, Mr. O'Brien said:

"I favor the quickest action possible to bring about the repeal of the Prohibition law.

"Under the Eighteenth amendment, there can be no legislation passed authorizing the return of beer that is even slightly intoxicating," he said. "While Congress can determine, as a question of fact, that a certain percentage of alcohol is not intoxicating, the courts would not be bound by that interpretation if the evidence was all one way to the contrary. Besides, I feel that THESE EFFORTS TO RESTORE BEER OF LIMITED ALCOHOLIC CONTENT WOULD SIMPLY DELAY REPEAL.

"I have already been working for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment," said Mr. O'Brien. "The Democratic party has taken affirmative action on the matter in the state convention and also in the national convention. As a delegate to both conventions, I helped with voice and vote to secure definite, direct and positive action favoring repeal.

"In principle," continued Mr. O'Brien "I am in favor of the amendment sponsored by the W. O. N. P. R. However I am going to take the liberty to criticize its language. I do not believe that any commission ought to have a right to regulate retail sales of liquor.

PATRICK H. O'BRIEN was born in a log cabin baptized on St. Patrick's day  is a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat  liked skiing as a young man  was a "drill boy" in the Copper mines  noted for his humanitarian concept of the law  his hobby is trout fishing  history has been his literary passion since boyhood  as a boy liked to indulge in "Cornish wrestling"  he likes to be among people  true son of Erin that he is he loves to fight  follows the Golden Rule. Land Where Rain Comes as Infrequent Visitor.
 Up beyond Mount Margaret, in western Australia, is the world's worst desert. On an average it rains once in seven years, but at the time of writing there has been no rain for eight years. Here in England the papers are full of lament because of a sixty days' drought, but think of 3,000 days without a drop of rain!
 You would not believe that anything in the way of vegetation could exist in such a country, yet there is plenty of scrub. A horrible plant, well named "Spinifex" for it is all sharp spines. There is also the mulga tree, which is a gold digger assured the writer—sends its roots down 100 feet into the soil to find water.
 Rabbits do not actually live in this desert, but they do on its edges, and there—believe it or not, yet it is true—they have learned to climb trees so as to graze on the leaves when there is no grass.
 Most of Australia is subject to severe drought, and it is a curious thing that after a severe drought in New South Wales springs break out in the sun-baked beds of dry rivers.—London Answers.

Sexual Labor Division That May Have Defects
 Men may be satisfied with their own superiority, but machines are not. They prefer girls. Thus spoke Sir Herbert Austin to a London (England) audience in the course of an address wherein it was lightly suggested that the ultimate division of labor might present the spectacle of more and more men making machines while more and more women were engaged to work them. The Manchester Guardian remarks that in some ways this suggests an arrangement as convenient as the one mentioned in the nursery rhyme—Jack Sprat can make the machines while Mrs. Jack Sprat works, and watches them, and between them the industrial platter will be kept clean and polished. But there is a more unfortunate side to reflections of this kind as applied to the modern world—what sort of labor will be left for man when he has made all the machines which are required for women to work?

French Forests Sacrificed
 There is only one tree in the Versailles forest which was there when Louis XVI was alive, according to a Frenchman who has spent much time investigating the matter.
 "While first consul of France, Napoleon I decided that wood and lots of it, was needed for the famous expedition across the English channel, later abandoned," he says. "Napoleon declared therefore, that all the forests of France should give of their best. From one end to the other, the Versailles forest was cut down and the trees shipped to Boulogne for transformation into rafts and canoes.
 "Only one tree escaped. This is a giant oak which towers above the rest of the forest in the Allée Saint-Cyr."

Castle's Many Staircases
 A castle which suggests the romance and magic of the age when knight-hood was in flower should stand boldly on the summit of a precipitous rock or hide mysteriously among the shadows of a mighty forest. Cham-bord, near Blois, for this reason, is one of the most romantic of the French chateaux on the Loire. It is surrounded by mossy walls 24 miles around and its forest has nearly 3,000 acres. The dozens of piazzas, lanterns and towers are visible for miles looking on the dim horizon like a misty oriental city. The grand circular stairway which winds upward in two directions at once is the glory of its interior, but there are 64 staircases in all.

Ginseng in America
 Wild ginseng thrives in mountain regions from Minnesota to Maine and southward to the Gulf coast. High prices paid for the roots led enterprising Americans to establish farms. Some growers have profited from ginseng cultivation, but small fortunes also have been lost. It takes from six to seven years of expert care to develop a mature root.
 Some domestic ginseng farms have been established in the woods where the wild roots thrive. Others have been established in clearings, but in these cases the farms are roofed so that only one-fourth of the day's sunshine will strike the plants.

Water Shrew Built Right
 The water shrew, a tiny mouse-like mammal, measuring only five feet from the tip of its nose to the end of its two-inch tail, is well adapted to a life on or near the water. Its coat is a veritable diving suit; its ears are equipped with valves that close automatically when it goes under the surface; and apparently it can see under water where it feeds on water insects much better than it can on land. It is capable of swimming across a river 50 yards wide with ease, though such a trip may be fraught with peril.

Burmese City of Temples
 Pagan, Burma, although deserted for 600 years, still possesses today the greatest collection of temples in the world. From 800 B. C. to 1,300 A. D. it built about 5,000 of them within its 16 square miles. In all history, they have never been equaled in number, variety and such architectural magnificence.—Collier's Weekly.

Mind's Relaxation Well Understood by Apostle
 That the partridge, one of the most timid and least confiding of birds, may be tamed is shown by a story told of the Apostle St. John the Divine, who in his old age was the bishop of Ephesus in succession to Timothy. Although generally active in the prosecution of his Divine Master's business he was amusing himself by playing with a tame and petted partridge, when a huntsman passed by. How could so holy and privileged a man so waste the precious time? he queried. "What is that in your hand?" inquired the apostle. "By profession I am a hunter, and that is the bow I use with my arrows in the chase," he made reply. "But if that is a bow, it is all unstrung and unfit for use," said St. John. "Yes it is unstrung," returned the sportsman, "for if it was always strung it would lose power and become useless. To be in good order, it must ever be unstrung, when not actually being used." "Just so," quietly remarked the wise old man, "and in like manner must the mind of man be released and unstrung sometimes if it is to be always fit for my Master's use." And as the huntsman thoughtfully pursued his way, St. John turned again to amuse himself and rest his mind by playing with his partridge.—Montreal Family Herald.

Hotels Long Centers of Public Life in America
 After the Revolution that made us a nation, the life of American cities was for more than a century and a quarter publicly centered and vividly reflected in the essentially democratic institution called the hotel. The club, an eighteenth-century aristocratic outgrowth of exclusive use by superior persons of the private parlor of the tavern, snacking, therefore, of privilege, had to wait till the 1830s or so for a serious revival. The hotel, which succeeded the tavern, became every citizen's club.
 In a little city there was one hotel, says a writer in the New York Times. Every visitor must come to it and every really live inhabitant must drop around to look the stranger over. In a bigger city there might be several hotels. But usually one hotel was the hub of community activity in any city. From decade to decade it was apt to be a different hotel as progress, fashion and favor determined. Nevertheless, at any given period, when you said Boston or Baltimore or New Orleans, or later, Chicago, St. Louis or San Francisco, the name of a particular hotel popped into the mind of every traveler or informed person.

Eskimo History
 The Eskimos' sedentary life is thought of today as a people who once dwelt in the interior, far from the sea. Yet that was their earlier history. They were an archeological investigation seems to have established, part of the offshoot of the earlier migration from Asia; and they established themselves in the forests north of Lake Superior where they dwelt, apparently for a considerable period.
 For some reason—whether because of pressure from more vigorous tribes to southward or because of an incurable nomadic instinct—the Eskimos began at last to push northward till they reached the verge of the Arctic. They spread over the coasts and the adjacent islands. Some of them filtered back over the straits into sub-Arctic Siberia. Others passed toward Greenland, where, nine centuries ago, they met the Norsemen.—Boston Post.

Stained With Royal Blood
 A unique carpet, stained with the blood of the murdered Russian czar, Paul I, has been added to the Museum of Applied Arts in Leipzig. In 1782, the carpet was presented by the French king, Louis XVI, to Paul of Russia, who was then crown prince. Paul succeeded his mother, Catherine the Great, to the throne in 1796. His short rule was marked by various oppressive measures taken against the Russian peasants. Thousands of free peasants were made serfs and given away to his favorite courtiers. A palace conspiracy put an end to his reign and life. When he was assassinated the carpet now acquired by the Leipzig museum was drenched with his blood.

About Wheelbarrows
 A barrow has only one wheel for various reasons, mainly because it is easier to push one wheel than two, there being less friction or less resistance. A barrow requires no back wheel because the place of back wheels is taken when at rest by wooden legs, and when in motion by human legs. Likewise, it does not require two wheels in front for balancing purposes, as the legs keep it straight. Therefore, two wheels in front would simply make it more difficult to push and much more difficult to tip over. The single wheel is really a very clever contrivance.

Modern Gabriel's Horn
 British scientists have developed a device which will multiply the sound of the human voice 3,000,000 times. One of the uses to which it will be put will be to warn, exhaust or frighten British subjects who threaten to become unpop. Used from an airplane, it is easy to understand what this "thundering voice from the sky" would mean to the superstitious. Speaking in Arabic, it might pretend to come from Mohammed himself, in Chinese from Confucius, or in Hindu from Brahma.

Eloquent Men
 One of our statesmen said, "The curse of this country is eloquent men."—Essexian.

Back to Sanscrit Root
 Perhaps the most curious of the family words is daughter. In old English the "gh" was sounded rather like the "ch" in the Scottish loch. The root of the word is doch or duch; the "ter" signifies, just as it does in pater and mater, a doer of things.
 The word's history runs back through old English, German, Greek and Sanscrit to duhitar. The "h" in this last word is a peculiar one, for it was pronounced almost like the "ch" just mentioned. But duhitar does not mean just a female child. It means a milkmaid. Our early ancestors were a farming people, and when a girl baby arrived they said, "Here's another little milkmaid."
 There are many other words of ancient lineage used every day. Mill is a word that, after countless centuries, of use, is still going as strongly as ever. Beef, market, dome, car, day, night, queen, sit and stand—all these have pedigrees so long that they go back thousands of years beyond the oldest of the pyramids.—London Tit-Bits.

Genius as Understood by Old English Writer
 By genius I would understand that power, or rather those powers of the mind, which are capable of penetrating into all things within our reach and knowledge, and of distinguishing their essential differences. These are no other than invention and judgment, and they are both called by the collective name of genius, as they are of those gifts of nature which we bring with us into the world; concerning each of which, many seem to have fallen into very great errors; for by invention, I believe, is generally understood a creative faculty, which would indeed prove most romance writers to have the highest pretensions to it; whereas by invention is really meant no more, and so the word signifies, than discovery, or finding out; or, to explain it at large, a quick and sagacious penetration into the true essence of all the objects of our contemplation.—Henry Fielding.

Washington's Inventions
 George Washington granted the first of the 1,800,000 American patents that have marked the inventive progress of the United States, according to H. H. Drake, of New York.
 On April 10, 1790, President Washington signed the original patent statute. In July Thomas Jefferson, Gen. Henry Knox and Edmund Randolph, sitting in solemn conclave, acknowledged the merit of the first application. On July 31, Washington signed United States patent No. 1, granting exclusive rights to one Samuel Hopkins on a new method for making pot and pearl ashes.
 Washington was the inventor of several improvements in the design of flaps and also of the dinner caster, forerunner of the present day table device which holds small bottles or cruet.—Detroit News.

Strange Relationship
 It seems like a long way from the morning glory to the sweet potato, yet these two plants are related. They both belong to the family of plants known as the convolvulus, to which also belong the bans of all farmers, the bindweed. The wild morning glory is far harder than the cultivated types and stays in bloom longer. It even blooms at night when the moon is bright and is much favored by moths when open at night.
 The wild type is sometimes called hedge-bindweed and also ladies' night cap. It is found as far south as North Carolina and as far west as Nebraska. Its blooming period lasts from June to August.

Soap Manufacture
 The manufacture of all types of soaps in this country amounts yearly to $325,000,000 worth of goods and there are 2,100 manufacturing organizations in this field. The total production is divided as follows: Hard soap (not including granulated and powdered soaps), 2,188,618,984 pounds; granulated and powdered soaps, 288,499,783 pounds; soap powders (including commodities reported as cleansing powders, washing powders, etc.), 452,729,889 pounds; liquid soap, 20,851,475 pounds; soft soap, 63,741,783 pounds; paste soap, 41,170,425 pounds; besides special soap articles and soap stock or soap base.

English Church Laws
 There is an ecclesiastical court in England to which are submitted all matters pertaining to church law, also matters in which the church might be either a plaintiff or defendant. This court also regulates the issuance of marriage licenses and other matters of church discipline. Actually the ecclesiastical law of England is dependent upon the authority of the state, and ecclesiastical courts for the most part are officered by laymen, whose subordination to archbishops and bishops is purely formal. The final court of appeal on ecclesiastical matters is the judicial committee of the privy council of the nation.

Treats of Being
 "Ontology" is the science of being or reality; the branch of knowledge that investigates the nature, essential properties and relations of being as such.

Somewhat Odd Tree
 The Franklinia tree has a white flower, in some instances with a pinkish tinge, and resembles dogwood to a great extent; however, it has a larger and more beautiful blossom. It blooms, unlike most trees, in August and September.—Washington Star.

Stanchness
 'Tis the business of little minds to shrink, but he whose heart is firm, and whose conscience approves his conduct, will pursue his principles unto death.—Paine.

First "Motion Pictures"
 Charles Pathe of France used a primitive motion picture camera more than thirty-five years ago to take pictures of a woman feeding chickens, a running horse and other scenes which he exhibited in penny-in-the-slot machines.

WOMEN
 Are Increasingly Aware of the Value of Newspaper ADVERTISING

They have learned through experience that to look in the Grosse Pointe Review first is to save time and money afterwards. They have learned that advertisements in the Review give them the information they want, and the places where they can make their desired purchases. The Review is really a sort of clearing house of shops, those advertising in it steadily come under the notice of the many women readers, and they come into their stores, while those who don't advertise lose the chance of even being considered as a prospective market. You have a business, why not make it pay? Appeal to one woman and you appeal to many, for women never keep a secret. Neither does The Grosse Pointe Review—the chance is open to all, a guaranteed area of women buyers.

Our wide circulation of 7000 readers guarantees you a reading public, and a buying area that will pay tenfold the cost of advertising.

Leonard, director of religious education of the Detroit Baptist Missionary society. This will be the first time the Rev. The two young people's societies will meet jointly in the Chapel at 9:45 p. m. The Church school convenes at 9:45 a. m. Government Departments

By an act of February 9, 1889, the office of commissioner of agriculture, which was created in 1862, was raised to the dignity of an executive department. The Department of Commerce and Labor was established in 1908 and was separated into two departments by act of March 4, 1913.

English Tin and Lead Mines Oldest in World

The province of Quebec, according to a recent statement, has an iron mine that was opened a little more than two centuries ago and continued in operation until well into the present century. This record gives the Canadian mining industry a respectable antiquity, but it does not compare in age with ore-production activities in other parts of the world.

Probably the oldest mines still producing ores are the tin and lead lodes of Cornwall, England, which date from the days when there was no recorded history. The ancient duchy, with its "stannaries," or tin mines, has been famous in mining history for hundreds of years. Near the tin mines are bodies of lead ore which have been worked nearly as long as those of tin. The latter were first opened in or before the Age of Bronze, have never been shut down completely and are, therefore, the world's oldest mines in continuous operation. A few years ago there was a revival of business at the Cornish mines, accompanied by the sinking of new shafts and the discovery of new lodes.—New York Times.

No Absolute Stillness While Life Is in Body

Can you keep still? You will say, "Of course." But try to keep absolutely still for a moment, and you will discover how difficult it is. While there is breath in the body, we can never be completely still. Some part of us is always on the move. At least the heart is beating, there is movement in the pulse, the eyelids twitch.

When you come to think of it, this is rather remarkable. But some of us are more still than others. Those who have learned the art of relaxing are better able to keep still than those who cannot—in other words, those who are always fidgeting. Usually it is the more nervous type of individual who cannot be still. And if we do not practice it, we shall never learn the art.

It is a great art—this keeping still. Stillness of body comes from stillness of mind. When happiness is yours, there will be a lovely stillness in your life.—Exchange.

Egyptian Writing

The Egyptian system of writing, after being forgotten for over fifteen hundred years, was rediscovered by scholars in the Nineteenth century. The chief key was the Rosetta stone, found by the French when Napoleon invaded Egypt. This contained an inscription written in the old Egyptian characters and also in Greek. Patient study showed which Egyptian signs corresponded with the known Greek letters in certain proper names. From this the sound of some of the Egyptian words was revealed. Then it was found that Coptic, a language still understood by the Christian Egyptians, was a direct descendant of the ancient Egyptian tongue, and thus the meanings of many words could be guessed. Since then progress has been steady.

True Lover of Liberty

Graft, bonuses, the Macedonian situation, and armaments were what politicians cut their teeth on in Greece 2,254 years ago. Demosthenes, the great Athenian statesman and orator, with all the force of his patriotism tried to keep Athens free for democracy, but at last the Macedonians conquered. Demosthenes' speech, when he was offered freedom if he would surrender, quoted in the Golden Book Magazine, is one of the most perfect examples of patriotic eloquence in the world.

"For the honor of Athens," it ends, "I prefer death to bondage and thus I wrap myself in liberty, the fairest winding sheet." So he drew poison from his pen and smiled and died.

Old Mandate Carried Out

Following the provision of a Seventeenth century will, Leslie Deeley, a choirboy, stood on his head at Leighton Buzzard, England, while extracts from the document were read. The will was made by Edward Wilkes, who left charity lands to the town for the upkeep of almshouses. He decreed that, to impress the rising generation, the will should be read at certain spots every year. Years ago the boy who performed the feat was given beer and plum rolls. Now he receives money.

No Birds' Nest in Soup

Bird's-nest soup, the famous Chinese dish, is not made of bird's nests at all, the Princess Der Ling told Ruth Seinfel, of the New York Evening Post. It seems there is a swallow-like bird which lives on the rivers of China and makes its nest out of reeds and certain little fish. These little fish do not decay, but dry up nicely. The soup is made of them, after they have been carefully cleaned of all feathers and other irrelevant matter. It tastes like strong chicken soup.

Flight of the Crow

It is commonly believed that the crow flies in a straight line, hence the phrase "as the crow flies," meaning in a straight line from starting point to the object or place of destination irrespective of buildings, rivers, roads, hills or other obstacles which might make the distance greater if a person were to travel it on foot or by vehicle. The saying, however, is not based on actual fact, for the crow does not usually fly forward in a straight line.

Scientists May Be "Off" About Crocodile Tears

The phrase "crocodile tears" has been used for so long that it comes as a surprise to learn that, according to scientists, these reptiles cannot shed tears at all. According to scientists, the crocodiles possess lacrymal glands, but the secretion never reaches the eyeballs. It is believed that its function is digestive, to lubricate the animal's food. Some time ago, however, when experiments were carried out to ascertain whether crocodiles shed tears or not, the reptiles refused to oblige even when encouraged by a mixture of onion juice and salt.

The following incident which is offered as proof that crocodiles can cry, is related in London Answers: "When a boat was steaming up the Indus, a crocodile was shot and brought aboard. As it was lying on deck—believed dead—the onlookers were astonished to see what looked like tears trickling from the reptile's eyes."—Philadelphia Record.

Architectural Gem in Ancient City of India

The stone tower of the very isolated Temple of the Bayon stands in the jungle at the mathematical center of the ruined city of Angkor Thom in Cambodia. The temple was built by King Java Varman VII in the Twelfth century. Though originally planned as a Buddhist temple, it was later altered and devoted to the worship of Siva the Destroyer and the Giver. Each of the towers carries on each of its four sides, the head of the Bodhisattva Lokeshvara—"He who looks down with compassion." Around the base of the towers are galleries filled with bas-reliefs recording incidents in Cambodian life and history, a most realistic one showing the Khmer people at their daily tasks. Angkor Thom was the residence of the Khmer kings for five and a half centuries. Near it is the Brahmin temple of Angkor Wat, one of the world's greatest architectural curiosities.

Chapels in Oak Tree

An unusual oak tree, containing two chapels within its huge trunk, celebrated its twelve hundredth year of existence at the village of Allouville-Bellefosse, near Rouen in France. Nine men with their arms extended are barely able to encircle the base of the tree. Of course, its exact age is lost in the mists of history, but experts declare it must be approximately 1,200 years old. In the first chapel is a statue of the Virgin presented by the Empress Eugenie during the second French empire. An elegant wooden stairway surrounds the oak and leads to the second chapel which is known as La Chapelle des Calvaires. It is related that the tree was visited by Charles II, of England, and also by Louis XV.

Medieval Scholastics

The group called the schoolmen or scholastics of the Middle Ages attempted to harmonize reason and faith, philosophy and revelation. They accepted what the church taught about God and salvation, but they tried to show that reason and logic, particularly as shown in the work of Aristotle, led to the same conclusions. Some things, like the doctrine of the Trinity, were admittedly beyond human reason, but the scholastics tried to show that they were not contrary to reason. The schoolmen have often been accused of wasting time on futile hair splitting, but their keen development of logical processes and their confidence that the universe was reasonable have been of value for later science.

Egyptian Prayer for Beer

Prayers for the dead shown in a collection of Egyptian tomb sculptures on display at the Field museum, Chicago, reveal modern aspirations among the Egyptians of 3000 B. C. One prayer for an official of high rank pleads for "bread and beer on every feast day and every day." On the tomb of a lady named Ipt appears the modest petition for "1,000 loaves of bread, 1,000 jars of beer, and 1,000 garments."

Inspection of the tomb of another official identifies him as the "seal bearer of the king and the sole companion of the king." Similar inscriptions on tombs about him point out many other sole companions of the king.

Vermillion Production

Vermillion is the product of an ore known as cinabar, which is a compound of sulphur and mercury. In the manufacture of the pigment, the ore is thrown into earthen pots which are kept red-hot in the lower part. The substance volatilizes and coats the sides of the jars with cinabar. The jars are then broken and the material, which is a bright red, is scraped off the sides and ground fine, the powder being the common commercial product.

There are mines producing vermilion in Spain, Brazil, Peru, Austria, Hungary, Japan and China.

Modern Music Superior

It is true we know little about Greek music, but even if we assume that it was highly artistic, it could not have compared with ours. Modern music is virtually a creation of the last three centuries. This is due partly to the development of many new musical instruments, and even more to the explorations of the fields not only of melodies, but of harmonies and combinations of harmonies.

Still Much to Learn About Science of Food

If you can't leave your children a fortune, you have done something if you leave them ten more years of life than you had. We know the modern theory so often crystallized as a witicism that to live lengthily, select a healthier grandfather and grandmother who were long in the land. But one's years may be amplified by reasonable application of the laws of health and his children's extended by drilling them in the rules, F. H. Collier asserts, in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Let no boy grow up insisting on a dinner consisting of three pieces of pie and a cupful of coffee; nor is he very likely to grow up. The science of food and what the varieties of it do to one's constitution is still one largely of guesswork; but the doctors are finding out. In time they will know and can tell you exactly what is the matter with your teeth, your digestion, your lungs or your eyesight. Foods have something to do with this.

United States Classified as Industrial Nation

Throughout most of the history of the United States farming was regarded as the basic industry. With the rise of manufacturing, particularly since 1900, the value of manufactured products has exceeded the value of farm products. Today only a fraction of working people are employed on farms, whereas earlier in our history nearly all were so employed. While farming remains practically indispensable, it no longer is the basic industry. If a single industry were to be selected among the manufacturing industries it would be steel as that includes iron and coal. The United States now is classified as an industrial rather than an agricultural nation. Many states, taken individually, would still show farming as the basic industry. For the world, agriculture must still be regarded as basic, as from agriculture must come the food of the people, without which there could be no other industry.—Washington Star.

Variety of Orange

The word "kumquat" is from the Chinese "kankwat," meaning gold orange. The word came into English through the Cantonese dialect. This is a specific variety of orange—Citrus japonica—which, as its name indicates, originated in Japan.
