ELAINE MARIE ARNOT

Miss Arndt has just returned from attending and demonstrating at the National Convention of Dancing Masters at Toronto and the Chicago Association at Chicago, of which Miss Arndt is a member.

The Convention made evident the decided change in the Style of Social Dancing this year. The manner of interpretation of present day dances has been modified so as to produce long smooth lines with picturesque posturing. Among the new numbers introduced at the Conventions were the Hollywood Tango, the Goombay Rhythm, and the Ciboney. These dances are arranged so they may be easily executed on a ball room floor.

Miss Arndt has had intensive training in all other types of dancing and has studied with several great artists of terpsichore. Miss Arndt will be remembered for her work in the V. V. V. Vanities, which was presented at the Neighborhood Club last April, as she staged and directed all of the dancing in the show. Her professional experience, together with study and creative ability and the power of imparting knowledge to others, has attained considerable recognition for Miss Arndt among teachers and students of dancing.

Students are now enrolling for the fall term at the Arndt Dance Studio, 919 Barrington Road, Lenox 7639. Courses in all types of dancing available for pupils of all ages, beginners as well as advanced.

Used Water in Gun The great naturalist, Alexander von

Humboldt, is said to have employed water instead of bullets in shooting birds for specimens at close range. His method was to pour water into the gun barrel on the top of a waterproof pad. The force of the water when the gun was discharged was sufficient to kill the bird at which it was aimed but did not mar its plumage.

Sun's Ultra-Violet Rays

The light of the sun contains ultraviolet rays to a greater or less degree in all localities on which it shines. The amount of radiation depends upon the weather. The percentage of ultraviolet rays in sunshine is greater at noon and in localities where the sun's rays are more or less direct, as in the tropies.

Busy Oysters

If all the enemies of the oyster should suddenly declare an armistice of 50 years, by the time hostilities were resumed the bivalves would fill all the seas of the world and every continent would be flooded by the overflow. A female oyster produces 11,-000,000 eggs at a time, recent tests show, but luckily for the world, only about 11 of these eggs develop into full grown oysters.

Persians Appreciated Silk

It was the custom in the East for ateliers to be attached to the royal household. Seventeenth-century travelers to Persia reported that the Persians excelled above all manufactures. in the weaving of silk and that the looms attached to the court employed at least 150 craftsmen who were generously cared for. The ruler in addition gave special awards to the artists whose work pleased him most.

As They Descend Trees

The opessum, like the bear, raccoon and most tree-climbing animals except squirrels, comes down a tree tail first by preference, although he may reverse the method when in a hurry. The coati, a relative of the raccoon found in Central and South America, is the only tree-climbing animal of any size which regularly comes down a tree head first.

Not Connected With Town Those who attempt to connect the origin of the phrase "go to Halifax" with Halifax in Nova Scotia are on the wrong track. That town was not founded until 1749, years after the phrase was popular in England, when it was established as a rival to the French town of Louisburg in Cape Breton and named after the second earl of Halifax, then president of the board of trade and plantations.

Electrical Execution

The electric chair as a method of capital punishment is about forty years old. The first man to be executed by this method was William Kemmler. Electric power companies were terrified that the advertisement of the deadly powers of electricity would seriously hinder their progress.

Lake Dwellings

The name "lake dwelling" is applied to human habitations built usually upon foundations of piles or posts, but, also constructed of trunks of trees, brush, earth or stone, and erected on the shallow borders of lakes, rivers and other inland waters. These structures abounded in Switzerland and adfacent parts of Italy, France and Germany in the Stone and Bronze ages, but are known to have existed in many other parts of the world.

Triumph of Invention

... in "Unsinkable" Vessel? One of the world's greatest inventions was the self-righting boat, the principle of which is used in all lifeboats. Cut out a piece of wood the shape of a slice of melon and you will find that no matter what you do with it in water, it rights itself in an instant.

Now another astonishing invention is announced—that of a ship which cannot be sunk. The inventor is M. Jöseph Chartrain, a Frenchman. Tests were made with a model of an Atlantic liner twelve feet long and weigh ing half a ton.

.The experts conducting the tests began by driving great holes in the model below the water line with crowbars. A full-sized ship pierced with holes on the same scale would have sunk in a minute or two. No efforts on the part of the experts could make the model do anything more than settle down an inch or two in the wa ter. The damaged model was tilted right over on its beam ends by great weights, but the moment these were removed it righted itself again.-London Tit-Bits.

Point Long in Dispute

Solved by Old Trees? Further proof that North America and Asia were once joined or were parts of the same continent has been found in northern Alberta, Canada Remains of trees said to be from fifteen to twenty million years old, yet perfectly preserved, were found in sticky tar sand near Fort McMurray. Gnarled branches and trunks of trees that could be whittled with a jackknife, and even the leaves and the insects that fed upon the leaves, were . in a good state of preservation, thanks to the air-tight embrace of the tar sand. Not only are these ancient trees far older than any previously discovered tree remains, but they are said to be the only known deposit of Juras sic period vegetation in its original state. The remains were discovered by the engineer of the Canadian federal department of mines, who is an authority on bitumen deposits.

Best Light for Working

The American Standard Code of In dustrial Lighting recommends an illumination of from 10 to 15 foot-candles on the work plane for close work in offices. To avoid eyestrain the illumination should not be less than 6 foot-capdles, but higher illumination increases the rapidity and accuracy of office work. Indirect lighting is not necessarily the best form of light ing for an office. Ewo things are essential for good lighting-viz., sufficient intensity and absence of glare. Under proper conditions semi-indirect lighting, or even direct lighting, may be satisfactory. Indirect lighting is more costly to install and maintain than semi-indirect or direct lighting. How Garibaldi Escaped

The story of Garibaldi's narrow escape from capture during his stay at the little capanna in the Ravenna marshes, may interest some of your readers. I have not seen it in print. It was told me some years ago by an old woman to whom I was introduced at Ravenna. While Garibaldi was in hiding news came that soldiers were on their way to search every corner of the marsh. What was to be done? It was decided to secret him in a hole dug for rubbish not far from the cottage. Boughs were laid over it, and children were instructed to play a sort of "Here we go round the mulberry bush," jumping over the hole, singing and dancing. The ruse succeeded .-London Times.

Tennyson Prophecy Amiss

Of Aifred Tennyson, the story is told that when a boy his grandfather asked him to write an elegy on his grandmother, who had recently died, and he put a small sum of money into the future poet's hand on the comple tion of the "job," saying: "There is the first money you have ever earned by your poetry, and, take my word for it, it will be the last!" A singularly false prophecy, for probably no poet who ever lived made more money by his poetry than Alfred Tennyson.

Spiders Not Insects

Spiders are not classified as insects because their structure is entirely different. Spiders have eight legs where as insects have only six. Further more, in the class Arachnida, which includes in addition to the spider, the scorpions and mites, the head and thorax are grown together but in the Hescapoda, which includes all the insects, the head, thorax and abdomen are distinct. There are other differences but those mentioned are the chief ones.

Why?

Two friends were having an indignation meeting of their own. Both had suffered domestic strife and now they were comparing notes.

"Aren't women the limit?" growled the first. "We husbands don't know anything at all and our wives know everything."

"Well," said his companion in misery, reluctantly, "there's one thing my wife admits the doesn't know." "What on earth is that?" Why she married me."

Living and Dead Better a live beggar than a dead king.—La Fontaine.

Scriptural Ages

Scientists have differed in explaining the great age attained by Methuselah and other patriarchs according to the Scriptures. An interesting solution is proposed by H. G. Wells in his "Outline of History." He says that the earliest recorded reckoning was by means of moons and generations of men. If the age of Methuselah was reckoned by lunar months, instead of years, it would bring the ages of the patriarchs down to about the average length of life.

Picturesque Zanzibar

Zanzibar is the most important trade center and has been for centuries the largest city in East Africa. This island is 640 square miles in area and has a population of 200,000, of which only 270 are Europeans. The remainder of the population consists of Swahilis, Arabs, Indians and Commorides. The most interesting things to be seen in Zanzibar are unquestionably the native bazars, markets and numerous curio shops.

Most of the weather vanes-more commonly called wind vanes or anemoscopes-employed by meteorologists have the general shape of an arrow, but vary widely in some of their details. Such vanes are planned, on the one hand, to be highly sensitive to shifts of the wind, even at moderate velocities, and, on the other, to be free from oscillations other than those

Probably the only cavern in the world in which music is produced by the wind is Fingal's Cave on Staffa island, one of the Hebrides, off Scotland. It was during a visit there that Mendelssohn was inspired to compose him famous overture, "The Hebrides." -Collier's Weekly.

Washington in Contempt According to some historians, George Washington during a hearing on a land dispute in 1784 protested the decision of a justice of the peace and was fined for contempt of court. He, however, succeeded in winning the lawsuit.

Accommodation

So that the 600 inhabitants of Little Burstead, England, would not have to take an 8-cent omnibus ride to Billericay to buy stamps, a post office was opened in the kitchen of the Little Burstead rectory.

Drums in Warfare

Drums were first used in warfare on English soil, probably at the battle of Halldon Hill, in 1333. When Henry VIII entered Boulogue, in 1544, drums led the way, indicating they were then included in state ceremonials.

At the Whirlpool rapids, at Niagara, the velocity of the stream is over 28 miles per hour. The crests of the waves are often 40 feet above the level at the edges. The whiripool is a little more than 314 miles from the Horseshoe falls. Here the river rushes into an elbow with tremendous force in a northwesterly direction, but has to turn in a northeasterly direction, and the impact of these two currents meeting forms the rotary movement.

Military Funerals

For a military funeral, officer's escort consists of the band, the body bearers, firing party and trumpeter. The size of the escort is in accordance with the rank of the officer. The escort of enlisted men consists of body bearers, firing party and trumpeter. The vehicle which carries the casket is the caisson. The casket is draped with a flag whenever one is available.

Friend of Freedom

William Pitt, earl of Chatham, though member of the British house of lords, was friendly to the American cause. Revolutionary Americans were especially fired by a sentence in one of his speeches saying: "If I were an American as I am an Englishman, while a foreign troop was landed in my country I never would lay down my arms -never, never, never!"

There are many factors which contribute to prolong the span of human life. Among the more important are improved living conditions, pure food, cleaner milk, pure drinking water, proper disposal of refuse and specific action of the public health service toward various diseases.

Cannel Caal's Properties

Cannel coal is a grade of bituminous coal believed to have originated from materials different from those ordi parily termed bituminous coal. It is characterized by its high percentage of volatile matter and its burning readily with a long flame. Cannel coal is used in the manufacture of illuminating gas and as a domestic fuel for open-grate fires. It is also used for steam production, like ordinary bituminous coal.

"Stationers" Chalk Up

Final Score on Author Old Burton of the "Anatomy of Melancholy" has lain for many a day far beyond the reach of any of the mortal irritations that might increase his acquaintance with the subject of his study, but presumably he would have been far from pleased with the very handsome edition of his work which Routledge has produced in one volume at a guinea, writes a columnist in the Manchester Guardian. For Burton did not want to write in English at all; his glance was back to ward the Middle ages, and he complains bitterly that "our mercenary stationers" would not let him write in Latin: "It was not mine intent to prostitute my muse in English . . . out to expose this more contract in Latin if I could have got it printed. Any scurrile pamphlet is welcome to our mercenary stationers in English, they print all . . . but in Latin they will not deal." However, he outwitted them to some extent, for though they forced him to write in Englishand a very quaint, characteristic, and vigorous English it was he packed the "Anatomy" richly full of Latin quotations. But this edition has turned every one of the quotations and extracts into English—so that at long last, the mercenary stationers have got the whole of their own way.

Absent-Minded Citizens

in Ranks of Travelers One in approximately every 100 persons traveling on New York subways leaves something in the cars. Gloves, pocketbooks, umbrellas, canes and paper packages containing purchases of every description from dill pickles to rose point lace, are the articles most frequently left behind. Among articles turned in to the "Lost and Found" department recently were a bass drum and kitchen sink. The drum owner explained that while going home late at night he awoke from a nap to hear the guard call his station. He rushed for the door of the car to avoid being carried past, forgetting all about his drum. The owner of the kitchen sink explained that he was having a heated argument with a fellow traveler which so monopolized his mind as he got off the car the sink completely slipped his mind.—Capper's Weekly.

Measures of Time

In astronomy there are three kinds of time-sidereal, apparent solar time and mean solar time. The first is used for astronomical purposes exclusively; the last is the ordinary time of civil life. Sidereal time is the time defined by the earth with respect to the stars, and a sidereal day is the interval between the passage of the meridian across a star and its next succeeding passage across the same star. Solar time is defined by the rotation of the earth with respect to the sun. Since the motion of the earth is not uniform, solar time is not satisfactory for daily use, and for this purpose mean solar time has been devised. The mean solar day has the average length of all the solar days of the year.

Nation's Banks

Mutual savings banks, which pay no profits to stockholders, lead as a class among the nation's banks. They hold more than $10,000,000,000, or 35 per cent, of all the savings in the country, Inasmuch as there are only 587 such mutual banks and they are located in only 18 out of the 48 states of the Union, compared with a total of over 20,000 banks of other classes, they may be said to represent the largest concentration of savings of any type of banks. Other types include national banks with savings departments, non-mutual or profit-making savings banks, state-chartered commercial banks, trust companies and sprivate

What Causes That?

A university professor is making an exhaustive study to see how eye color is inherited, and why blue-eyed parents sometimes have a brown-eyed child. Perhaps some other erudite scientist might endeavor to solve the problem of hereditary ear-wagging. Darwinians may claim that such ability merely denotes closer kinship with the lower animals. Yet every man secretly longs to enjoy this claim to distinction. Eminent men, diplomats and divines, have confessed to hours spent before a mirror trying hard to wag. Schoolboys more readily admit the fascination of the wriggling ear, and one who can do it is the hero of his class.-Exchange.

Historical

The plaques seen on some of the old houses in Georgetown, D. C., were originally used to designate the houses which were insured against fire. The stock of the Firemen's Insurance company of Washington was all owned by the volunteer firemen, and the company originally placed these plaques on the houses which were insured in that company so that the firemen might know whether or not any particular house in which there was a fire was insured with the company in which he held stock.-Washington

Special Protection for

Flock of Rare Geese Only one known flock of greater snow geese is still left in this country and these birds are being given the most careful protection both by officials of the United States and Canada through the action of the migratory bird treaty. This lone flock spends its winters in North Carolina and Virginia, where local game wardens give it protection. With the coming of spring weather in April the birds feel the urge to go north and usually fly directly northward until they reach the St. Lawrence river. Here they turn northeast and follow the river to a group of small islands, where every year they stop off for a few days to rest and feed. While taking their "breather" they are under the care of the Quebec mounted police, who send a patrol to the islands. Hunters in the past have taken an unfair advantage of the birds through resort to camouflage. The stream at this season is usually full of floating ice and the hunters, dressed in white and riding in white motorboats, approach close to the flocks before the birds realize that an enemy is at hand. Because of the rarity of the greater snow geese, particular pains are being taken to perpetuate the flock and perhaps bring about an increase which will later permit hunting of the birds.

Other birds found on the islands with the greater snow geese are the Canada goose, brant, black duck, pintails, mallards and teals.

Picturesque Old Stile Lives Only in Memory

Where are the turnstiles of older days? A traveling man who motors over most of the highways and byways of New England says he does not know where there is a single one. Generally they were built into a fenceline to debar vagrant cattle and permit the passage of humans. No two exactly alike, they were picturesque components of stone walls and rail fences. Generally there was a step or two of stone which elevated the stile base a foot or two above the ground.

To be sure, there are plenty of commercialized turnstiles at the entrances of fair grounds and amusement parks to "facilitate" the "collection" of "tickets and keep out gate-crashers. These however, have but slight relationship to the rustic stiles of wood, immortalized in song and story as trysting

Loss by Soil Erosion

The plant food removed from the fields and pastures of America every year by erosion is at least twenty-one times more than that removed by the crops harvested, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

The plant food taken by crops can be restored in the form of fertilizer, but that taken by erosion cannot be restored, because this ruinous process takes the whole body of the soil, plant food and all. Land impoverished strictly by plant food depletion, as sometimes results from continuous growing of the clean-tilled crops, is not worn-out land: the only worn-out land is that which has been so badly washed by erosion that it would be entirely futile to undertake its recla-

Livingstone Souvenir There is on exhibition at the Livingstone memorial, Blantyre, a very dilapidated copy of a Sechuana Bible that has on it two of Doctor Livingstone's signatures. One of these is dated "Tete, 1856," that is, just before he left on his first furlough. The book has been badly damaged by white ants. The chief interest, however, is not so much the book as a little slip of paper that it contains, on which, well printed in blue link, is ampicture of Hamilton palace (now demolished). It seems clear that it must have been long used as a book-marker.

Munkacsy's Ideas

When Munkacsy, great Hungarian painter, was a lad, he was dissatisfied with representations of the Christ which he saw. They seemed "effeminate personifications of too much humility." He wished to paint "such a man as could be severe to the wrongdoer, even while he was forgiving and tender to the repentant." To counteract the effect of the paintings of which Munkacsy disapproved, he himself painted pictures which have Christ's life for theme.

Toad in Medicines

The Chinese have used the toad for medicinal purposes for centuries, but they use him empirically without exact knowledge. Drug stores in China sell a hard toad cake which, when ground, is used externally as a local anesthetic. The measure is not without sense, as the substance does deaden the sensory nerves. The formula for the toad cake is a secret which all the king's horses and all the king's men could not drag from its makers

Wesley Family

The Wesleys afforded a pretty example of two qualities linked through several generations-music and religious fervor. Two of the Wesley grandfathers were expelled from their benefices as nonjurors. Charles and the great John showed both qualities in a high degree. Then comes Sebastian. a great composer of church music. His son, who died fairly recently, was a clergyman whose passion was music.

Stately Forest Trees The oak is spoken of as "the monarch of the woods," but the ash tree is "queen of the woods." Ancient stories tell us the gods held their council beneath an ash tree, on the topmost branch of which sat an eagle, watching the way of the world whilst a squirrel ran up and down the trunk, carrying messages from the bird to the gods. The ash is one of the easiest trees to recognize, with its straight trunk, the bark a pale grey color, its lower branches growing straight out from the trunk, curving gracefully to the sky. The tips are quite different from all other tree-tips, each ending ing in a stout grey twig, slightly flattened at the tip, and beyond this flat-

The Oxford movement in the Church of England originated at Oxford university in 1833 in an endeavor to "bring the Anglican church back to the principles of the early Christianity of the Fathers." Its foundational principles were laid down in a series of 90 pamphlets known as "Fracts for the Times," and to which Newman, Pusey, Foude and others contributed. One of them, written by Newman, declared the articles of the church might be so interpreted as to be consistent with the doctrines of the Council of Trent. This was condemned by the Anglican bishops in 1841 and Newman, with other leading tractarians, thereupon joined the Catholic church.

Electricity From Jordan

There is no river so universally familiar as the Jordan. It is a petty river, barely 100 miles in length, but it has always been of the deepest significance in the history of both Judaism and Christianity. Scientists say that the course of the River Jordan has been changed by nature many times during the ages. Today man has set himself to change the river bed once again and to harness the waters of the Jordan for his utilitarian purpose. The waters of the sacred river are now used to provide electricity for the people of Palestine and Transjordania.--Palestine Letter in the Manchester Guardian.

Amateur Gold Panning

The geological survey, says that there is little opportunity at present for an inexperienced person to make a living by panning gold. Placer operations are now conducted on a larger scale and require a considerable amount of capital. Although it might be possible for an experienced prospector to discover paying placer ground, provided he has ample capital to sustain him for considerable time, it is extremely unlikely that anyone without experience could hope for success. Gold placers of greater or less extent have been developed in nearly all regions in which veins carrying free gold have been mined.

Jewelry in History

Jewelry has been worn for at least 100,000 years, according to discoveries of the archeologists. The paleolithic man, although he knew nothing of metals, or even of tilling the soil, actually mined decorative stones and presented them to the female of the species. The jewelry of a mere 74,000 years ago included fourteen varieties of semi-precious and decorative stones, some of which have persisted in the fashions to our own day.

Ojibway Indians Still

Stage "Hiawatha" Story Canada has its own Oberammergau. For many years the Ojibway Indians of the Garden River preserve, alongside the city of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont .. have been presenting a riverside stage version of Longfellow's poem, "Hiawatha," in their own language. The first performance was put on at the Canadian Soo in honor of a visit from Longfellow's daughter. The poem is a glorification of the Soo area and Lake Superior. The River Kwasind was the St. Mary's on which the Soo is built and the rapids mentioned in the poem are the Soo rapids. The city's old Indian name, Pawiting, appears in the poem. It was the Ojibways who inspired the poem and it is their legends and stories which are told in it. The Soo Indians presented the play in several American cities years ago and once they appeared in London, England. Every character in the piece is taken by an Ojibway, and the whole play is given in the Indian language. The action of the play is explained to the audience through a loud speaker.

Long List of "Nevers"

Not Hard to Complete

The story of an American backwoodsman who had never seen a horse or heard of prohibition has no monopoly on "Nevers." Great Britain has lots of "Nevers." The late Lord Oxford never used a telephone. He was probably the only public man of these days who could say the same. People brought to Scotland from St. Kilda had never seen a train, a motor car, or a horse. This is not nearly so strange as the fact that, three years ago, a pretty Lincolnshire girl of seventeen, who had lived all her life in a village in the Wolds, took her first journey by train to Cleethornes.

Also she had never ridden in a motor car. An old lady of Longford near Nuneaton, who died not long ago at the age of one hundred, had never seen the sea, and never been more than twenty-five miles from her home. A girl of twenty, who lives twenty miles from Plymouth, has never visited that town or any place on the coast.-London Mail.

"The Baroque Florence"

The city of Lecce in Apulia has deservedly been called "the Baroque Florence" by Gregorovius, for certainly that style of architecture and sculptural decoration is on its churches and its large and small palaces, although Romanesque is the prevalent style of art in Apulia. The white soft Lecce stone is finely adapted to the petrified embroidery and lace which the chisel has engraved upon it. Among the most notable examples is the church of St. Croce, the seminary and its well, the Palazzo della Prefettura and the Churches of St. Chiara and Caterina. But when at Lecce the visitor should not fail to take the trip to Gallipoli to see its Greek fountain, the cathedral of St. Agata, by Genuini and its famous can-

Today the great horned owl is considered the least desirable of all the owls, because it competes with man in its search for food. The United States biological survey classifies the great horned owl as a "restraining influence in the wilderness, both on game and the enemies of game, for it destroys both, and thus does not destroy the balance of nature." On a farm or game preserve it becomes a menace, and there it cannot be tolerated.

Tribute to the Dog

"The intelligence of the dog," says Albert Payson Terhune, "is so uncanny at certain times that it takes precedence over anything possessed by man. Dogs feel states of mind, attitudes, emotions which must be exhibited in clumsy words to men. Long, long ago, their first ancestors made their compact of friendship and affection with men. That friendship has grown into an intelligent bond as well as an emotional one. And the brains of the dogs have commingled with the brains of man. In many instances, the dog's brains have not been inferior."

Beautiful Italy

The fruitfulness of Italy's meadows and vineyards, the majesty of her scenery, the kindness of her inhabitants and the glory of her sunshine lure an endless stream of eager seekers of beauty. A succession of civilizations-Etruscan, Greek, Phoenician and Roman-has left to Italy, from the snow-clad Alps to the fertile shores of sunny Sicily, an unimaginable wealth of art-churches, palaces, monuments, paintings, masterpieces of sculpture-all witnesses of its glorious past.-Exchange.

Astounding Facts

A drop of blood contains three million red globules, and there are more germs in the milt of a single codfish than men in the world. So small is this germ that one grain of sand is four million times larger than it. A hundred threads of the silkworm are just one-twenty-fifth of an inch thick when placed side by side, but there are some metals that can be drawn out to such a fineness that twelve hundred wires are only as thick as a hundred silkworm threads.

Nothing Too High Nature has placed nothing so high that virtue cannot reach it.—Rufus.

Bread May Be Claimed Oldest of Human Foods

In the ages since history was first written we have heard about bread from every country in the world. Egyptian statues made 6,500 years ago show slaves up to their elbows in dough, or dancing upon it barefooted. Persian housewives plastered their dough on the outside of a clay (now a sheet iron) oven surrounding a charcoal burner, and baked it pancake fashion. In parts of Brazil the natives still pound out their grain with clubs that look for all the world like policemen's clubs.

For centuries only dark breadmuch of it very heavy and coarse like the hefty four-pound loaves from the Black forest of Germany-was known by the people. Then one day a capricious English earl planned a banquet with a white color scheme and ordered his cook to give him white bread. How the cook managed to sift out all the chaff and save his head is a mystery, but he did, and the innovation was a huge success. For a long time white bread appar ently was confined to the use of the church, where it was made in the convents and monasteries and offered in the service. Then gradually the unblessed bread was sold to the nobility, and as wealth developed, baking was removed from the convents and taken up by the lords.

"Slow but Sure" Joins

Other Discarded Myths One continually hears of the slow but sure, and yet the laboratory results of the last eight or ten years show the slow but sure man is almost a myth.

The group who finish a test with laboratory apparatus in less than a minute make fewer mistakes than those who take more than this time. The group who take under a minute and a half make, in turn, fewer mistakes than those who take longer. One can, of course, find exceptions, men who rush through and make mistakes and others who go slowly, carefully and correctly; but even including the exceptions, the fast group is accurate, the slow group inaccurate. On combining the time and the errors, the best man proves twenty to thirty times better than the poorest .-- Johnson O'Connor in the Atlantic Monthly.

Flower-Loving Japanese The Japanese, who are traditionally a flower-loving people, claim that their islands produce 3,200 species of flowers. The white plum blossom tells of the coming of spring, then follow the cherry, wistaria, azalea, iris, peony, lotus, chrysanthemum and the camelia. The cherry is the monarch of all and it is celebrated by fetes and processions. The chrysanthemum is queen, and is on the crest of the emperor. It has been cultivated for 2,500 years. The Japanese often enrich the roots of wistaria with rice wine. Their peonies are sometimes nine inches across, and the 80 varieties, when cared for after cutting, will last three

Venerated Ikon in London

One of the most venerated treasures of the Russian church, the ikon, or sacred picture, of "Our Lady of the the Russian church of St. Philip, London, lately. It is a painting of the Virgin and Child on wood, surrounded by pearls, gold, and precious stones, and is said to have been found beside a brook where the Virgin Mary herself made an appearance. The late czarina built a church to shelter it. Prince Vladimir Galitzine stated that since the Russian revolution the ikon had been kept in Jugo-Slavia, but every year it is taken by a bishop to exiled Russians in ail the capitals of Europe.

Disappearing Ideas A French essayist said that he often lost an idea before he could find words for it. Perhaps that is what Browning meant when he spoke of fancies that broke through language and escaped, though he might have meant that the things expressed in language lost some of their fineness as he had conceived them. Whatever he did mean, it is true that ideas have a way of disappearing when you least expect them to vanish and leave no trace behind them. We forget when we desire most to remember.-Indian-

Noted American Woman

Dorothy Dix was an American philanthropist, born at Hampden, Me., April 4, 1802. About 1821 she opened a school in Boston. From 1824 to 1830 she wrote books of devotion and stories for children. In 1841 she became interested in the condition of jails and almshouses, investigating especially the treatment of the pauper insane. Her labors resulted in the establishment of many insane asylums and in prison and almshouse reforms. She was superintendent of woman nurses during the Civil war.
