ST. PAUL'S HOLDS FALL FESTIVAL

Mothers Club Will Meet October 24th: Dr. Derry, Speaker

The program chairman, Mrs. Lawrence J. Mattice, of the Grosse Pointe Mothers Club has arranged a very attractive program for the October meeting which will be held in the High school auditorium next Monday, October 24th at 8 o'clock. The speaker, Dr. George H. Derry, president of Marygrove College, will be introduced by Dr. S. M. Brownell, superintendent of the Grosse Pointe school system.

The instructors in printing, manual training, domestic science, swimming and gymnasium, will be introduced to the assembly by Dr. J. R. Barnes, principal of the Grosse Pointe High school and later the parents will adjourn to these respective rooms, where open house will be held.

The musical numbers include a piano number by Mr. William Fishwick, a violin solo by Miss Aline Closson and a vocal solo by a school graduate, Miss Pearl E. Bliss, following which tea will be served in the cafeteria.

De La Salle Tackles St. Philip Neri Next Sunday Near Airport

St. Philip Neri high football squad tackles DeLaSalle Reserves at DeLa Salle Field, Connors and Glenfield opposite the city airport, Sunday afternoon, October 23rd, at 2:30 p. m. The team representing the Christian Brothers' school has made an exceptionally fine showing so far this season under the capable piloting of Coach Carroll "Dinty" Benson and will give the St. Philip eleven an exciting afternoon. Coach Storen has developed an excellent line for the Charlevoix and Lenox avenue school and his back field is fast. Lovers of the pigskin game are assured of plenty of thrills from these two sets of flads who lack only a season or two of weight and experience to set them up with the league contenders.

DeLaSalle Field is directly opposite the Municipal Air Port and can be reached by Gratiot cars to Connors or by Chalmers bus to Wilshire and thence to Gratiot and Connors.

Bonstelle School of Dance and Drama

Although they have lost their beloved leader the Bonstelle School of Dance and Drama will go on. It is well organized and has been established for over eight years. Ballet, interpretive, character classical, ballroom and tap dancing is being taught under the capable direction of Olga Fricker and Drama is taught under the efficient Helena Stungo.

Mason Parent-Teachers

The regular meeting of the Mason school Parent-Teacher Association will be held at the Mason School, Tuesday, October 25, at 8 o'clock. The children of the school will present an Art program consisting of interpretations of pictures and sculpture.

Learn To Dance At The Arndt Studio

Long legs! That, says a Parisian fashion manager on a coast-to-coast tour of the United States, is what makes the average American woman appear smart and well dressed. And he adds that with their figures American women can wear almost any style and look well.

True, the American ideal of the beautiful woman is one that is lithe and physically well poised. But all this does not come from the simple fact that many of them are long-legged. They devote much of their time to exercise the most popular type of which is dancing, because it is very interesting and enjoyable and develops poise and grace which is a most important factor in life.

To be a social success one must be able to dance and do it well. Social dancing or ballroom courses under the direction of Elaine Marie Arndt include instruction of Elaines-VinegarTree™ which one is often in doubt about, and which are as important as dancing itself. This instruction is especially good for the children. No one is too old nor too young to dance. Dancing is valuable at any age to develop the child and keep the adult healthy and in good form. If you can walk Miss Arndt can teach you to dance.

Let her advise you on the type of dance training you need. Information and interviews gladly given. Advanced dancers wishing theatrical work call Lenox 7639; studio at 919 Barrington Road.

Clancy Praised

Rep. Robert H. Clancy, Republican candidate for Congress from the Fourteenth District, "belongs to the class of outstanding servants of the people who should be re-elected regardless of the voter's feeling toward the national administration as a whole," Paul Buckley said in a radio address from Station WJMB recently.

"The necessity of making a campaign for Mr. Clancy after his success at the primary election arises wholly from the fact that this year promises to be one of major political upsets," Buckley said.

"It is a year in which many office holders in either of the two great political parties are faced by defeat, regardless of their experience, their worthiness as candidates or their fine records of accomplishment in office, unless the voter measures the individual candidate by his value to his city and state.

"Mr. Clancy has served Detroit as a representative in Congress for many years. His record there is well and favorably known. As Michigan leader of the wet block in the House of Representatives, his clear-cut and determined stand against the prohibition act made him a militant enemy of the Eighteenth Amendment long before repeal appeared as a plank in the Democratic platform.

"He has fearlessly opposed and attacked the methods of Federal prohibition agents along our own river front whenever they endangered the lives of innocent men, women and children, and in this regard he led the fight to kill the Hudson Border Patrol bill, sponsored by the Anti-Saloon League, which aimed at rum runners, but which would have resulted in the greatest distress to all pleasure craft on the lakes and river."

Mr. Buckley said Clancy's fight against legislation raising taxes to be levied on automobiles, which would cause a further decline in automotive production and unemployment of automobile workers, has earned for him "the right to return to Congress to protect his city from those who are at all times attempting to crucify the automobile industry and put it 'on the spot.'"

"The ballot on Nov. 8 can and should be split," he said. "The voter should not be swept away in the promised upheaval by anyone who has attempted to climb aboard the band wagon of the party he believes will receive the most votes.

"It is our duty to distinguish between Mr. Clancy, a man who is well aware of the dignity of his office, who is fitted by his years of experience as a fearless congressman, and one who has aligned himself with the popular party of the moment hoping to rise to victory on a blanket vote."

Crusaders Press Campaign for Red, White and Blue Bill

A state wide campaign to clarify the erroneous statements made about the prohibition repeal amendment will be undertaken the week of October 24, H. L. Wadsworth, State Commander-Treasurer of The Crusaders announced today. Mr. Wadsworth and William G. Lewis, Executive Secretary, together with other prominent speakers will address at least ten meetings in as many key cities of the outstate Congressional Districts.

"Although we are assured that the repeal measure will pass by an enormous majority, we want our members and sympathizers to know the true facts regarding the misleading and libelous statements certain dry speakers have made about the amendment and the organizations sponsoring it," stated Mr. Wadsworth.

"State Repeal has certain very definite benefits and Michigan voters should know them. This is the purpose of our state campaign—it is not intended to further the interests of any particular candidates.

"National figures are being herded here to exhort the people on the retention of prohibition, all drawing their conclusions from a false premise. Most of these speakers are pseudo-religious politicians of the most dangerous sort because their conscienceless misrepresentations are directed to the passions and prejudices of the uninformed voters.

"The Crusaders must bring the facts about prohibition, and the proposed change in the State Law, before the people if the voters of Michigan are to know this truth and carry out at the polls their overwhelming resentment of our existing dry laws. Our organization is working for Temperance which can only be restored by abolishing prohibition.

"We have won the battle of changing public opinion; the battle now is to translate into legislative action the will of the people."

Alger, State Chairman of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, and Representative Robert H. Clancy and Mr. H. L. Wadsworth, State Treasurer of the Crusaders of Michigan.

The meeting will be followed by a program of modern old style dancing, as well as a number of vaudeville acts. The public is invited to attend.

George P. Schudlich, General Chairman of the Repeal Parade Committee, will make a report on plans for the parade to be held November 5th.

Grosse Pointe Post Will Not Take Part In Veterans Hearing

By RUDOLPH SCHMIDT
At an Executive Board meeting of Grosse Post No. 303 of the American Legion held Friday evening, October 14 at which meeting the following were present: Commander Butts, Krapp, Baldwin, Cramer, Dr. Cranson, Smith, Schmidt, West and Walker an open discussion was had regarding the action taken by a number of veterans as to the dismissal of veterans from public employment without a hearing.

It was moved and supported by a majority of the Executive Committee to keep Grosse Pointe Post out of any controversy regarding the hiring and firing of men whether they be in public or private employment.

The Executive Committee firmly believes in the unselfishness and integrity of all the officials of the entire Grosse Pointe Township and at this time wishes to repudiate and deny that Grosse Pointe Post No. 303 of the American Legion is in any way sponsoring any movement in the aid of any veteran who has been recently laid off and feel that if any such action was taken by any of our Village or Township officers it was done without prejudice and partiality.

Let it be further known that any action being taken legal or otherwise, is not sponsored by Grosse Pointe Post No. 303 but by some individual men which action is beyond the control of the Post Executives.

The local group fee is 25 cents monthly, the M. S. C. course is free.

Dancing Eliminates the Awkward Age and Promotes Health

Little tots as young as three years are taking up ballet dancing at Craves Studios in Grosse Pointe Village. At this age a desire to dance enters into their little lives and instruction in dancing as depicted by Viola Grae, ballet instructor for Mr. Craves, satisfies their incentive to interpret music and at the same time acquire grace and poise.

Acrobatic and tap dancing instruction under Mr. Craves enables children who are not strong physically to build up their incentive to interpret music and illness that may attack them.

Parents will find money spent in dancing lessons for their children well invested as many physical and mental benefits are derived from the right kind of dancing instruction.

Democratic News Events

WHAT EDITORS ARE SAYING

IN REVIEWING Roosevelt's power speech delivered at Portland, the Columbus, Ohio, State Journal (Republican paper), said, "No other man has advanced a better way of avoiding the evils of monopolistic encroachment, and of setting to rights the people have become the servants of the utilities instead of the utilities serving the people."

"Roosevelt is a real candidate. There is no indecision, no straddling of issues, no quackery about this candidate for president. He admits frankly that he has no magic cure for the depression. He does not try to capitalize human misery. But he proves that he has a keen and constructive mind and a tremendous store of knowledge about his country and its problems.

"His courage, the courage that enables him to win a desperate personal fight against illness while fighting the evils of big money control and crookedness in politics, is history. It has been many a year since voters have had the opportunity to elect such an American as their president."—Portland, Ore., News (Ind.)

Governor Roosevelt Says:

"Have the leaders of the Republican Party, under a captaincy distinguished during the past four years by error of leadership, unwillingness to face facts, whose whole theory of curing the country's ills has been to call his leading sufferers together in conference to tell him how they may be healed; has this party, I ask under this leader suddenly become the heaven sent healer of the country who will now make well all that has been ill? In other words, has the Republican elephant, spotted with the mire through which he has wandered blindly during these last four years, suddenly by miracle over night, become a sacred white elephant of spotless purity, to be worshipped and followed by the people, or has he merely been scrubbed and white-washed by cunning showmen in the hope that they can deceive a credulous electorate for four years more?"

"Government cannot prevent some individuals from making errors of judgment. But government can prevent to a very great degree the footing of sensible people through misstatements and through the withholding of information on the part of private organizations great and small which seek to sell investments to the people."

W. O. N. P. R. Conduct Intensive Campaign Throughout State

The Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform is doing intensive campaign work in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan while The Crusaders are sending their speakers and organizers into the Lower Peninsula.

Among the places visited and contacted by Mrs. Beth F. Adams, State Organizer for the W. O. N. P. R., are Marquette, Ishpeming, Negaunee, Newberry, Sault Ste Marie, Munising, Gladstone, Escanaba, and Menominee. Meetings to arouse enthusiasm, distribute literature and instructed voters were planned in the various places. Many of the larger towns are planning rallies in election week.

Mrs. Edwin Kriehoff of Grosse Pointe will speak again Prohibition in Lexington to the Sanilac County Council of Women, October 14th. Her subject is "Why Michigan must repeal its dry law."

Mrs. Frederick M. Alger, State Chairman, is busy every week with campaign speeches and meetings in various parts of the State. She will visit Battle Creek and Grand Rapids shortly to confer with District leaders of her organization on their election plans. She speaks in Detroit at Temple Beth-El on October 24th, before the National Council of Jewish Women. She states that mass meetings have been planned in all parts of the State and that work is being concentrated on the Repeal of the Michigan State Dry Law.

"DESTRUCTIVE criticism is never justified for its own sake. But to build we must first clear the ground. We must find out why the present Republican leadership built so unwisely. We must determine the causes that made the old structure collapse. We must take borings to determine the necessary character of the foundation."

"Roosevelt is a real candidate. There is no indecision, no straddling of issues, no quackery about this candidate for president. He admits frankly that he has no magic cure for the depression. "BEAU BRUMMEL"

A PLAY IN FOUR ACTS

CLYDE FITCH

A POINTE PLAYERS PRODUCTION

Directed By

FLORA KIES, '33

GROSSE POINTE HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

OCTOBER 21 and 22, 1932

(Produced by Special Arrangement with Samuel French of New York)

The idea of this play was suggested to Clyde Fitch by Richard Mansfield and it was first produced with that most distinguished of all American actors playing the title role at the Madison Square Theatre on May 17, 1890. It played over 250 performances on Broadway and was then taken on tour, playing city and hamlet through the length and breadth of the land. Everywhere, it was received with enthusiastic acclaim. In its own day, it never lost its popularity. "Beau Brummel" became almost a household word—and continued to delight countless audiences with its lofty romanticism. Only in the last two or three decades has public taste for a more realistic dramatic fare sent the magnificent "Beau" back to his untimely grave.

In resurrecting the "Prince of Dandies," The Pointe Players feel that they are serving a double purpose: the theatre-goers of a generation ago may renew a pleasurable acquaintance with the romantic Mr. Brummel, and the younger audience may indeed forget the realism of today in this brief glimpse of the heyday of the American theatre when melodrama held the stage and acting was a noble Art.

First Scene—The morning toilet. Mr. Brummel despatches a proposal of marriage, assist his nephew, and sends for a new tailor.
 Second Scene—The Beau receive a number of friends and makes an unfortunate blunder.

THE SECOND ACT—

THE FOURTH ACT—

First Scene (six months later)—Mr. Brummel's lodgings in Calais.
 Second Scene—The attic at Caen. A very poor dinner with an excellent dessert.

Members of the audience who have witnessed previous Pointe Players productions ("The Passing of the Third Floor Back," spring 1931; "The Queen's Husband," fall 1931; and "The Cradle Song," spring 1932) will recognize in the present cast only five familiar faces. Of these, ROY MAYPOLE alone, playing the title role, has appeared in all past plays. He may be remembered as Lanckum in "The Passing," as Phipps in the Sherwood comedy, and as the Old Doctor in "The Cradle Song."

RICHARD GROVE, as the Prince of Wales, played the part of Joey Wright in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back."

HENRY PARSONS played Laker in "The Queen's Husband" and a Countryman in "The Cradle Song."

Both MARGUERITE COLLING and MARIAN PFEIFFER appeared in the 1932 spring play; the former Sister Maria Jesus, and the latter as Sister Marcella. ALICE HORN was one of the Nuns in that same production.

The other members of this cast appear for the first time as members of the Players.

GEORGE LLOYD, for two years president of the Pointe Players, and AGNES ANDERSON, who will be remembered as the lovable Sister Joanna of the Cross in "The Cradle Song," played leading roles in the Playhouse production "Every Woman Can."

Sought English Throne

The Chevalier of St. George in English history was James Stuart, eldest son of King James II of Scotland, known as the Old Pretender. He was proclaimed king of England on November 9, 1715, after the great Scottish victory of Prestonpans.

Oldest English House

England's oldest occupied house has been established as the Fighting Cock Inn at St. Albans. Part of it is believed to be 1,110 years old.

Peacock Throne Marvel of Oriental Magnificence

The marble and gold palace of Delhi, in India, mecca of many tourist parties, lost its wonderful "Peacock Throne" many years ago, but the legend of its grandeur survives and is accepted as indicative of the splendor of the rajahs, much of which survives to dazzle the visitor from foreign lands.

The peacock throne was so called from its having the figures of two peacocks of solid gold standing behind it, their tails expanded, and the whole so inlaid with sapphires, rubies, emeralds, pearls and other precious stones of appropriate colors as to represent life.

The throne itself was six feet long and four feet wide; it stood on six massive feet which, with the body, were of solid gold inlaid with rubies, emeralds and diamonds. It was supported by 12 pillars all richly embellished with costly gems, and a fringe of pearls ornamented the borders. Between the two peacocks stood the figure of a parrot, said to have been carved out of a single emerald.

The throne was taken away by Nadir Shah to Persia as loot and was last heard of in Teheran, where presumably most of it was melted down. Its estimated value was six and one-half million pounds sterling, that is $24,050,000.

Cave-Picture Galleries

Unique in Art History
In the heart of the Indian jungle lies a narrow gorge containing the caves of Ajanta, cave-picture galleries unique in the history of art. They are adorned with paintings which are in no wise inferior to the frescoes in the tombs of the kings of Egypt.

European art work seems the creation of yesterday when compared with the productions of Asia. Besides the frescoes at Ajanta, for example, the age of the so-called "old masters" of Europe fades into insignificance, as the latest Ajanta paintings were completed hundreds of years before the fourteenth century Flemish and Italian artists commenced to paint.

The frescoes may be divided into narrative scenes, portraiture and decoration, and the illustrations of incidents in the life of Buddha perforate take pride of place. The birth of Gantama, his "Great Renunciation" when he abandoned family and wealth, his enlightenment after resisting the powers of darkness—all these episodes may be traced in the paintings and sculpture at Ajanta. The portraits include representations of Buddhas and Bodhisattvas—Buddhas of the future—in addition to figures of the Brahmanic deities.

The court life of the period also is depicted.

Whales Largest of Mammals

An 80-foot diplococ would have 48 feet of tail, 20 of neck and only 12 of body length. These creatures were vegetarians, and with their relatively tiny heads—no bigger than horses' heads—they must have had to eat continuously during all their waking hours to get enough fuel for their huge bodies.

Yet these ancient monsters were not the largest animals that ever lived. The biggest animals are living today—the whales. Though not so long as some of the dinosaurs, they are more solidly built, and therefore considerably heavier than any dinosaur probably ever was. And being warm-blooded, flesh-eating animals, they are without doubt more efficient animals than the great dinosaurs were.

Typewriter Old Idea

The first typewriter of which there is record was patented in England as early as 1714. Over a century later, in 1829, the first American typewriter, called a topographer, was patented by W. A. Burt. In 1833 a typewriter was produced in France, having a separate key lever for each letter. In 1844 and in 1846 typewriting machines were invented in England which, like many of the other early machines, were designed primarily for use of the blind, and so produced embossed characters. Between 1840 and 1860 Sir Charles Wheatstone invented several typewriters, which are now in the South Kensington museum.

Marmalade and a Queen

Writing from Nice, France, that she particularly enjoys our "Historic Snorts," Olga Kaufman questions the supposed English origin of marmalade. "Many queen of Scots brought over from France the preserves she loved so well," says this correspondent. "Mary loved it to such an extent that every time she was ill she would call for it—until it became known as 'Marie est malade' by her French court, and through the years it has degenerated into 'marmalade.'"—Pathfinder Magazine.

Protected by Nature

The eggs of the killdeer present a good example of protective coloration. They are so mottled as to be scarcely discernible in their crude nest which is nothing more than a slight depression in the ground among a few pebbles, bits of wood and shells. The colorings and markings of the young birds are equally protective and the young of this species are especially adept at hiding in slight depressions in the earth where they blend perfectly with the background.

And Sometimes Alimony

The partition in matrimony causes much of the acrimony.—Fr. Wayne News-Sentinel.

Historic New England Has Rival in Virginia

While we continue to regard New England as the most interesting section of the country in which to motor, because of its historical associations with the Revolutionary war and its results, we think Virginia comes second because of its relation to the Civil war.

New England with its long ocean scenery, its Cape Cod, Plymouth, Salem, Boston and New Hampshire and Vermont mountains, is highly scenic. Virginia, as the scene of great battles, takes precedence over all states in which the Civil war was fought. It has impressive mountains also. From Harper's Ferry down to Winchester with its Sheridan's ride, its Bull Run battles, its crystal caverns, its White Sulphur and Hot Springs, the National bridge, Lynchburg, the Confederate capital, Richmond, Cedar Creek, the Wilderness, battlefield, Petersburg, Spotsylvania and its bloody angle, Fredericksburg, Danville and Appomattox, where Lee's surrender broke the back of the Confederacy, are features of the state.—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

Films Expected to Aid

Future Historic Study
History classes of the future may be enlightened by news pictures showing great men of the past "in their habits as they lived" and the glamorous events of many years ago.

The possibility of such graphic visual instruction to supplement dull wrestling with dates and the hackneyed informative phrases of the ordinary textbook has been set forth by an educational authority. He said:

"The superior learning of children taught with well-constructed pictures as an adjunct to oral and written instruction has been indisputably proved by independent investigation.

"The vaults of the theatrical producers are filled with treasures for the schoolroom, in which many great epics of history have been reincarnated. Of all the source material to be drawn on none appeals more to the imagination than those actual recordings of human activity which the news reel companies have been gathering from the four corners of the world over a period of 30 years."

A number of large firms are devoting special attention to educational films.—New York Sun.

Sweden's Wood Industry

Sweden was among the first countries to advocate reforestation and few if any countries of the world have succeeded as Sweden in rationalizing the care of the forests and the various industries revived therefrom. The result is that the country now stands in the very front ranks as a producer of soft wood, wood pulp, and all the by-products of the saw-mill industry. As a result of the care and intelligence exercised the wood has been shown by test to be of a very superior quality. The timber is felled at a time when the sap does not circulate; the floating in very cold water reduces the risk of disease in the logs; the material handled by modern machinery and last but not least the superior quality of the labor employed, which has a fine sense of judgment in matters of wood quality.

Giant Earthworms

An earthworm native to southeastern Australia attains extreme lengths of 10 or 12 feet and diameters of 3/4 of an inch, although the average specimen is only 3 or 4 feet long. It belongs to the same animal as our common earthworms. The progress of these gigantic worms through the soil is attended by gurgling and sucking sounds clearly audible to persons walking on the surface. Their eggs resemble large olives. Related species which attain a length of several feet are found in parts of South America, Java and other parts of the world.

Girls' Blood Made Flag

Japanese school girls, fragile as butterflies and small as pixies, must not faint at the sight of blood. To test their courage seven Tokio high school girls gathered recently around a white cloth in the center of which they had drawn a circle. After a solemn soprano chant the maidens pricked their fingers deeply, held them over the circle until it grew red and the cloth became the flag of Japan.—Time Magazine.

Freak Fish Born

It is said on good authority that probably no other living species produce more abnormalities than fish. Two-headed fish are not uncommonly hatched at the various hatcheries of the state conservation department and instances have been born with five perfect heads to a single body and tail. Most of these fish do not live past the stage when artificial feeding becomes necessary, although some do live to the adult age.

Long Flights of Birds

It is a moot question what birds hold the distance flight records, but several mentioned by Laurence B. Fletcher, of the Northeastern Bird Banding association, are at least worthy of honorable mention. A banded tern traveled 9,000 miles from Labrador to Madagascar. In the Indian ocean, Fletcher related, while a humming bird made a round trip from a Franklin (N. H.) garden to the pampas of central South America.

Beware of Him

Mrs. Francis B. Sayre of Cambridge, Massachusetts, vice-chairman of the Massachusetts Democratic Committee. Mrs. Sayre, before her marriage was Jessie Woodrow Wilson. She is the daughter of late President Woodrow Wilson.

Associated With Kidd

One of Captain Kidd's haunts was the Penobscot Bay region of Maine. The bay, about midway between Kittery and Lubec on the coast thrusts itself inland from the ocean for 30 miles as far as Bucksport, where it narrows to form the mouth of the Penobscot river. Its widest expanse, between Rockland and the southern end of Deer Isle, is about 20 miles.

Woodchuck Good Eating

In pioneer days, the groundhog or woodchuck was considered the makings of a toothsome dish, says the American Game association. Nowadays they are not generally eaten, but since woodchucks are strictly vegetable feeders, there is no reason why farmers who kill woodchucks should not follow the example of pioneers and eat the 'chucks.

"The Vinegar Tree" by Penman Players Showing at Lafayette

A comedy that is laughable rather than logical, so hilarious, indeed, that it comes close to being a farce, is "The Vinegar Tree" which the Penman Players will present at the Lafayette theatre for the first time in Detroit during the week beginning Sunday evening, October 23.

The play, which is from the pen of Paul Osborn, a graduate and formerly a member of the faculty of the University of Michigan, deals with the lives of Augustus Merrick, his wife, Laura, her daughter, Leone, her sister, Winifred, and several of their friends, who are gathered at the Merrick home for a summer week-end.

The complications arise from the presence of Max Lawrence, a famous artist, who is Winifred's lover and Laura's ex-flame and Geoffrey Cole, Leone's college boy friend. Laura tries to revive the affections of Max, which causes Winifred to annex Geoffrey, and which causes Leone, in turn, to throw herself at the head of Max. Augustus is grumpy through it all, but understanding enough to do the right things and bring everything to a happy conclusion.

It is a madly muddled mess, and Laura's scatter brained effort to regain some of the thrills of her youth, coupled with Winifred's cheerfully immoral viewpoint on life, and Leone's puppy love squabbles with Geoffrey as a result of his half baked theories on marriage, bring about a series of excruciatingly funny situations. The climax is too good to be revealed here, but The Vinegar Tree should be worth seeing without fail, especially in view of the excellent production that may be expected from the Penman Players.

Titan Topics

The game of 1930 in which Detroit was victorious 36 to 0 as the finest exhibition of football ever given by the Red and White.

Although West Virginia opened the season with eight lettermen eligible and some fine sophomore material, the Mountaineers have not been able to get going. They lost their first three games, including a 40 to 0 trouncing by Pittsburgh, but they showed a marked improvement in holding the powerful Temple team to a score of 14-13. Coach "Greasy" Neale said after that game that he saw real hope for his squad and he will come here expecting to break the long string of defeats that has marked the alliance between the two colleges. If West Virginia is able to beat its ancient rival West Virginia Wesleyan today, the victory undoubtedly will act as a tonic to Neale's men and perhaps make them one of Detroit's most formidable foes.

West Virginia will present another of those very heavy teams that Detroit is constantly encountering this season. It looks as if the Titans in making up their schedule sought out the biggest opponents to be had. Neale's line will average 200 pounds and his backfield close to 180 if he uses his "power" combination. For once Detroit will not have to meet the Warner wing back system of offense, as the Mountaineers use a tandem backfield formation and an unbalanced line. This means that Detroit will have to learn a new defense during the coming week as both W. and J. and Holy Cross their last two foes, were exponents of the Warner theory.

West Virginia has an excellent punter in the person of Patsy Slate, the regular fullback. Slate has been out of the game considerably this season but probably will be in shape for the Detroit battle. If he is, the Mountaineers' offense will be considerably improved in every respect, as he is a good blocker and ball-carrier in addition to being a star kicker. The Mountaineers will present the only ambidextrous passer in captivity—Bill Parriott, half-back. Parriott is said to be just as good with one arm as with the other when throwing the ball and the fact that he has this talent keeps the defense guessing. He is also a good ball-carrier.

Detroit fans will remember the excellent playing of the huge Virginia backfield in last year's game here when the Mountaineers held Detroit to a score of 9 to 7. That game, by the way was one of the best of the 1931 season, despite the fact that West Virginia came here right after taking a 34 to 0 whaling from Pittsburgh. The Mountaineers have a sophomore star in Jimmy Scott who is used very much in the manner that Detroit employs Earl McCracken. Scott weighs only 150 pounds and is not sturdy enough to stand the gauntlet throughout a game, but he is introduced at "psychological moments" and he has gradually made good. Like McCracken, he seems to furnish the spark to start touchdown marches.

Because of the weight and power shown by West Virginia, it is certain that Detroit will open up against that team. Pittsburgh found the Mountaineers very vulnerable against forward passes and while Detroit does not claim any such brilliant throwing and receiving combinations as that boasted by the Panthers, her aerial game is improving all the time.

In commenting on the West Virginia game, Coach Dorais said, "I'm always afraid of those teams that start the season with some reverses. If there is any material at all—and there certainly is plenty of it at West Virginia—it generally means that the outfit will find itself all of a sudden and make somebody pay for the early indignities. I'd rather play somebody who has won from a bunch of push-overs and thus has achieved the idea that it is unbeatable. Unless I'm greatly mistaken, Neale's team is going to be one of the toughest on our schedule. There is sure to be at least one good game in that squad and it will be just our luck to catch the Mountaineers the day they are hottest."

Otto Stoll

On his record of a business-like administration of a public office, Otto Stoll deserves re-election as County Register of Deeds, at the coming election on November 8. He has succeeded in keeping his office abreast of changing times, until today it is recognized as a model of efficiency. The California Taxpayers' Association used Mr. Stoll's office as a model in urging that photographic recording be adopted in that state. Mr. Stoll secured the adoption of the present system, after showing that a change from the old type-writing system was necessary on account of the tremendous growth of Greater Detroit. The present system of recording will care for the needs of Wayne County for many years to come without additional cost to the taxpayers.

Mr. Stoll was one of five present County officials picked as deserving re-election by a local daily paper, which advised those readers who were going to vote the Democratic national ticket, to return the Republican county officials to their office.

Both the junior band and orchestra played. A folk dance was given by the 7B girls and Hilda Hiller entertained with a solo tap dance. A play, "Celebrating Columbus Day," was also given.

9 to 9:30 o'clock refreshments were served in the cafeteria.

The 7B open house originated last year and it will continue each term.

Name Is Spanish

Florida was given that name by Ponce de Leon for two reasons—first, because it was a flowery land; and, second, because he landed on the day of the Spanish festival called Feast of Flowers, which corresponds with Palm Sunday.

Many Goldenrod Varieties

There are about 125 varieties of goldenrod, most of which are found in this country. They are cross-fertilized by butterflies and bees, and are typical insect-pollinated plants. The pollen gives a positive hay fever reaction, but, not being wind-borne, can cause hay fever only upon direct inhalation.

Hercules Myth

The Pillars of Hercules are two hills on opposite sides of the strait of Gibraltar, so called because of the myth that they had been torn asunder by Hercules to admit the flow of the ocean into the Mediterranean.

Five-Day Week Common

Soviet Russia, in establishing a five-day week, merely adopted a calendar which was in use more than forty centuries ago among the ancient Hittites and Assyrians, Dr. I. J. Gelb of the Oriental Institute at the University of Chicago, discovered.

Tablets containing the business correspondence of some Assyrian merchants who went to trade in the Hittite city about 2200 B. C., were also found. Their messages were inscribed on clay, which were then baked into brick. The tablets disclose that the credit ratings of the Hittites were none too good with the Assyrian visitors. The visiting merchants, charged the local business men from 50 to 60 per cent for loans, and one Assyrian lender got 180 per cent and a bonus in honey. The terms never exceeded six months, and there was no difficulty in enforcing a judgment. If the borrower didn't pay, he became the slave of his creditor. Between themselves, the Assyrians loaned money at from 20 to 30 per cent.

The borrowers were not without legal protection, however, it was disclosed by one tablet, deciphered by Doctor Gelb. "I am returning here with the half mina of silver which I owe you," the debtor wrote, "and if you again request payment, I have the right to kill you."

Flax Cultivation Old Matter to the Maoris

The application of science to industry has done much to increase the productivity of New Zealand soil, but in one instance at least science has now only discovered what the old-time Maoris knew 100 years ago. This fact was readily admitted by Dr. E. Marsden, secretary of the New Zealand department of scientific and industrial research, when discussing the development of the flax industry. Doctor Marsden said the Maoris had a complete knowledge of the varieties of flax suitable for their several purposes. Three of the best varieties used by the department for breeding and crossing have been obtained from old Maori women. Some of the plants owned by these Maoris had been maintained for specific uses for the past 100 years, and the knowledge of the peculiar properties of the different varieties possessed by the aged cultivators had surprised the research officers.

Voyaging Merchant Fleets

Crowe and Cavalléselle wrote of the merchant fleets of old Venice: "Every year six fleets were formed and manned and conveyed at the public expense. The freightage of the fleet was sold by auction and anyone might ship his merchandise at the price of the day. One squadron sailed to the Black sea with goods for Russia and Central Asia; another stopped at Constantinople after touching at ports of Greece and the islands; a third took the Armenian traffic to the harbors of Asia Minor and Syria; a fourth fed the markets of Egypt through Alexandria; a fifth, the Moors of Africa and Spain; the sixth went through the straits to the Netherlands and British Isles."

Where "Bad" Means "Good"

For the protection of the word "bad," the German government has passed a special law. The word "bad" is affixed before the names of countless big or small German spas. A "bad" is a health resort where nature supposedly provides all that is required to restore the health of weary humans. A town may now call itself "bad" only if it has "special medical qualities, such as mineral springs, curative waters, or specially invigorating air." Furthermore, it must have perfect drinking water, good quarters for visitors, hygienic sanitary provisions and at least one doctor and one drug store with full medical equipment.

Queer Old Beliefs

Chocolate, which has enjoyed first place popularity for many hundreds of years, was once regarded as a sinful food. Joan Franz Rauch in 1624 wrote a treatise about chocolate in which he condemned it as a "violent inflamer of the passions," and urged that the monks should be forbidden to drink it. Another writer complained that the addition of sugar destroyed the value of chocolate, because sugar was a "corrosive salt and an enemy of the body."

Beginning of Great Work

What is said to be the earliest Ladies' Aid society work is spoken of in the ninth chapter of Acts, from the thirty-fifth to the fortieth verses, describing Tabitha, or Dorcas, who with other saints and widows devoted their time to serving the distressed of the early Christians, ministering to the sick and afflicted and making little coats and garments for the clothing and health of the poor, children, as well as ministering to the disciples and apostles.

Laugh at Yourself

Prof. Carl G. Gaum of Rutgers college, New Jersey, who when he says that, smiles: "A moron, a halfwit, even an idiot, can laugh at other people's mishaps; the man who can laugh at a superstition, a custom, a tradition, an institution, must be an observer; but the man who can genuinely laugh at himself, is truly intelligent."—Quoted in "Golden Book."

Harry S. Toy

Vigorous prosecution of criminal cases by Prosecutor Harry S. Toy, republican candidate for re-election to that office, and Mr. Toy's successful efforts in the war on crime in this community were among the out-spoken commendations heard this past week in addresses made by several members of the ways and means committee of the board of supervisors.

Strenuous protests were voiced against the slashing of the salaries of Prosecutor Toy and his assistants. These objections were made by Mayor Clyde M. Ford, of Dearborn, and Councilman John W. Smith, of Detroit, who led the fight against the reduction of salaries in the prosecutor's office.

Commenting on the opposition toward pay cuts in the prosecutor's office, the Detroit Times said: "A feature of the fight against the pay cuts was the defense of Prosecutor Harry S. Toy by Clyde M. Ford, mayor of Dearborn and nephew of Henry Ford, and by John W. Smith. Smith argued with Ford that Toy's record of fighting gangsters and racketeers and the increased efficiency of his office should exempt him and his assistants from reductions."

"Smith delivered a ringing speech for Toy. The prosecutor himself had previously appeared before the ways and means committee of the supervisors, asking special consideration for his staff. The supervisors, Smith said, were being intimidated into making pay cuts by the bankers. It was at the best and demand of the bankers, he asserted that the City of Detroit had made pay cuts.

"He (Smith) compared the cost of the prosecutor's office, $260,000 with $3,000,000 of legal talent arrayed against the prosecutor and his assistants during the year."

The Detroit News quoted Councilman Smith: "There is no more important office in Wayne County than that of the prosecuting attorney. We need now, more than we ever did, a fearless, incorruptible staff, and that is what we have."

County Auditor

Wayne County has weathered the financial crisis so well that it is receiving praise from many officials all over the country. The Detroit Board of Commerce recently commended the Board of County Auditors with the statement that they have perfect control of all Wayne County matters.

William Gutman, chairman of the Board of Auditors, who is a candidate for re-election this fall on the Republican Ticket, today said the financial condition of the county is considered the best of any county of comparable size in the United States.

Mr. Gutman, William Green, Jr., and John C. Cowan, comprise the Board. It is the duty of the Auditors to investigate the needs of each county department, to assist in the arranging of expense budgets, and to act in an advisory capacity on all matters of management. The Auditor's office is a very important one. Its responsibilities are akin to those of the general manager of any business institution.

Wayne County's bonded indebtedness is only $5,000,000. This compares with the $350,000,000 indebtedness of the City of Detroit. The Auditors this year recommended a slash of $5,645,836.52 from the tentative county budget for next year's expenses, including 20% cuts in the salaries of officials who are paid $4,000 or more and 10% from the pay of employees who earn more than $1,800. This salary slash alone represents a total reduction of $461,000 from the 1933 tax roll.

In the Canadian Rockies

The largest glacial lake in the Canadian Rockies is Maligne, nearly 20 miles long. It is hemmed in by high mountains, few of them climbed, some not even named, great masses that geologists say are older than the Alps; tremendous peaks bearing a burden of snow and ice that never leaves them.

Dieting Hint

If you want to have perfect teeth, you should, according to an expert, partake every day of two apples, a pint of orange juice, two bananas, at least one egg, lettuce, and two other kinds of vegetables, and up to four glasses of milk. He does not state what you should eat to support the other parts of the body.
