

PROPOSE INCINERATOR PLANT

Newly elected officers of both the Veterans of Foreign Wars and their Auxiliary were installed on Thursday evening, November 17th at the Deifer School Gymnasium. George Tighe, Commander of Wayne County Council Veterans of Foreign Wars was in charge of the ceremonies for the Veterans and Mrs. Gladys Moody assisted by State Department officers for the Auxiliary.

The Ladies' Auxiliary Drum and Bugle Corps of the Hornaday Post of Ferndale were on hand to add to the glamor of the activities, they are to be complimented on their fine showing.

Lunch served by the ladies of the Auxiliary was delicious.

The new officers of the Ladies Auxiliary follow:

- President—Mrs. Gertrude Lingeman
- Sr. V-Pres.—Mrs. Daisy Reeve
- Jr. V-Pres.—Mrs. Fanny Brunk
- Treasurer—Mrs. Mildred Hotelling
- Chaplain—Mrs. M. Houghtaling
- Secretary—Miss M. Lingeman
- Conductress—Mrs. Alice Backman
- Guard—Mrs. Violet Weber
- 18 months trustee—Mrs. B. Webster

Coloq Bearers—Mrs. Bertha Hazlett, Mrs. Odelia Skitt, Mrs. H. Dorie, Mrs. Ruth Slater

Patriotic Instructor — Mrs. Lenore Caslen

Historian—Miss Emily Tesoriere

Our entertainment committee and the ladies of the Auxiliary are to be complimented on the way they handled the last party given at Roland Gardens on November 11th. It was a financial success and we are looking forward to another one soon.

Word has been noised around that the Commander has a big surprise in store for the kiddies in the form of a Special Christmas Party, we will probably hear more about it at our next meeting.

Sergeant's line up your squads for the next meeting, Monday November 28th.

Monticello Ballroom

Maxiene of the Monticello School of Expression announces the opening of a special class of tap and ballet for beginners and children's classes in natural expression. This special course in natural expression is one of Maxienes own creations. It takes in all the typical dances of other countries beginning with Egyptian and its technique, Russian, Spanish, Slavic, Natch Girl, Dutch Highland Fling, Gypsy and dances representative of all the prominent countries of the world. Special creative dances for the individual type, also the American Indian Dance.

The natural expression course gives the individual student an opportunity to learn the type of dance best suited for her individual expression. When the course has been completed each student will have majored in at least one of these dances and will have a knowledge of the various dances. For detail re-course call Maxiene at Lenox 6735.

On Saturday Nov. 27, the Monticello will hold a get-together night. The special price with the pass will prevail for this event and Floyd Snyder and his Band will furnish the music.

The project was sponsored by Mrs. Robert O. Lord of Grosse Pointe, who donated the prizes which were twelve jars of assorted poster paint, a lettering brush, and a ribbon.

Incinerator Plant To Serve Grosse Pointe Area Being Considered

A PROPOSED incinerator plant to serve the five Grosse Pointe Communities for the disposal of garbage and rubbish is under consideration today by the Grosse Pointe Township Board and the respective councils of the five villages.

The establishment of an incinerator plant has been thought of for some years here and consideration of it was revived at a special meeting of the Township Board held Monday evening last and attended by representatives of the five villages in the Township.

Alfred J. Garska, president of the Park council, represented the Park; Richard Connors and Norbert Neff, president and clerk respectively of the Village represented that community; Michael Beaupre, president of the Farms council acted as representative of the Farms; Mr. Bennett, business manager of the Shores, spoke for that village and Edmund C. Vernier, president of Lochmoor, represented that community.

The plan for the establishment of the incinerator plant as outlined at Monday evening's meeting by Alfred J. Garska briefly provides the following: A site to be furnished the concern advancing the proposal of the incinerator; the erection and equipping of the plant and the financing of same to be handled by the concern; the payment of $20,000 annually by Grosse Pointe Township for a period of 10 years and at the expiration of that period, the ownership and operation of the incinerator plant to be turned over to the Township.

At the present time, it was pointed out in the discussion at Monday's meeting, the cost of disposing of garbage and rubbish is borne by the respective villages with the exception of Grosse Pointe Shores which is not at the present time confronted with this problem or service to its residents. Under the proposed plan of an incinerator plant to serve the needs of the Grosse Pointe area, the cost of $20,000 annually would be borne by the Township and spread accordingly on the Township tax rolls, with an expected consequent reduction on the tax rolls of the respective villages with the exception again of the Shores.

Substantial savings to taxpayers as a whole would result by the establishment of such an incinerator plant for Grosse Pointe, it was represented by Mr. Garska. (Continued on Page Four)

Mason P-T-A

The Mason Parent Teacher Association will hold its regular meeting at the Mason School Tuesday, Nov. 29, beginning at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Gruhitz will speak on Treasures in Reading, and Maya Gruhitz will play several selections on the piano. Through the courtesy of the Byron Booksellers of the Fisher Building in Detroit, Mason School will have on exhibit in the library many books of interest to children and adults. Books for Christmas gifts may be ordered at this exhibit.

Neighborhood Club Activities

Two benefit basketball games will be played at the Neighborhood Club Saturday, November 26th. In the first game, 7:30 P. M., the V. V. V. Girls will play their opening game of the 1932-33 season. This promises to be a very exciting game as the local girls are very anxious to gain a victory in their initial game.

The second game will be played at 8:30 P. M. with the Neighborhood Club boys, last year's Grosse Pointe Champions, also opening their 1932-33 season. This game also promises to be an exciting struggle with the local boys anxious to get started on the right foot.

A small admission charge will be asked the proceeds to be used to defray the expense of suits for the boys' team.

The annual Neighborhood Club Xmas Party will be held on December 22nd, for the Community. Mrs. Willard Worcester is in charge of the program which will consist of two short plays, by the Blue Birds and the Camp Fire Girls, dances by the V. V. V. Girls and Miss Elaine Arndt, and songs by Miss Marge Vail. Santa Claus will be there, of course. There is no charge and everybody in the community is invited.

Michigan State College Extension Work

An invitation is extended to all women to join the class of the Grosse Pointe Home Economics Extension group. The project for this season will be "The Well-Dressed Woman." The next meeting will be Nov. 30. Members will bring scissors and paper for cutting collar patterns. The class meets on Wednesday afternoon from 1:30 to 4:00 at Defer School, Kercheval and Nottingham.

The local group fee is 25 cents monthly, the M. S. C. course is free.

Hospital Rooter

Peace. Quiet. Soft voiced nurses gliding through the halls of the Cottage Hospital on Kercheval avenue. Then a sunny room where a white-haired invalid lies surrounded by flowers nodding in a cool breeze.

Suddenly comes a distant roar, surging and receding in regular rhythm resolving itself into the words, "Yay, team, Yay team. Fight 'em. Fight 'em."—School spirit penetrating even to a hospital—young voices cheering in a frenzy as their team sweeps down the field for a touchdown.

As yell follows yell, familiar voices imagined in the medley conjure pictures of a child or friend in that joyful crowd, and bring a quickening of pulse and a new spark of life. For a brief interlude a ghost of youth haunts the room. But soon, the last cheer over, the last point won, the chattering crowd strolls home.

Then—A nurse pads softly into the dusky room and gently shuts the window. A rubber-tired dinner tray slides in. More peace. More quiet.

The Neighborhood Club December—the V. V. V. Girls are giving one on December 3rd, the Delta Chi Sigma Fraternity, Alpha Chapter on December 10th, and St. Ambrose on December 17th. These three organizations are well known for their successful dancing parties, so don't fail to attend all three affairs. Good music and a good time promised to everybody.

There will be a Camp Fire hike to Chandler Park on Friday, November 25th, from 1:00-5:00. Each girl will bring something for a Pot Luck Supper over a camp fire.

The new Gym class for girls 10-13 years has been scheduled for Wednesday afternoon from 4:00-5:00 instead of Monday. All those interested, report at the Neighborhood Club at that time in gym. Suits and shoes.

Music School

The Neighborhood Club Music School announces the opening of special classes for beginners, six years up, in piano. Individual attention will be given to each pupil according to his needs. The classes will be limited in number and the tuition will be correspondingly low. For further information, call the Neighborhood Club.

Cosmo Hamilton To Lecture on Divorce

Cosmo Hamilton, brilliant English novelist and dramatist, will discuss our modern divorce problem when he speaks before the Detroit Town Hall Series audience at the Wilson Theatre, Wednesday morning, November 30, at 11 o'clock.

Few contemporary authors can claim Mr. Hamilton's brilliant reputation as a modern and a cosmopolitan. In the course of his literary work he has made a thorough study of marriage and divorce, and he is convinced that many features of matrimony and divorce which shock orthodox folk at the present time will be regarded with indifference a few decades hence.

In a series of debates in the East, last winter, between Cosmo G. Hamilton presented the side of the moderns against the orthodox views of his distinguished countryman. He has spent much time on this side of the Atlantic and is thoroughly familiar with American institutions and social life.

Cosmo Hamilton belongs to one of England's most illustrious families. He is the brother of Sir Philip Gibbs and Major A. Hamilton Gibbs and the uncle of Anthony Gibbs. He adopted his mother's surname by legal process.

He is the author of 41 plays and more than a dozen successful novels. His plays include, "Arsene Lupin," "Scandal," "Bridge," "The Wisdom of Folly." Among his novels are "The Infinite Capacity," "The Outpost of Eternity," "Adam's Clay," "Caste," "Damned Little Fool."

Defer School P-T-A

The Defer School Parent Teacher Association are sponsoring an afternoon bridge party in the school auditorium, to be held December 1st from 1 to 5 p. m. The admission is $1.00 per table, or 25c per person, and the proceeds will be the nucleus of a "Lunch Fund." This fund will provide lunches for children who are needy, and who might otherwise have no lunch. It is hoped that all persons in the community, who are public spirited and philanthropic, may avail themselves of this splendid opportunity to assist those deserving pupils within our district.

You are urged to attend either singly, or in groups, by Mrs. Walter Hafke, Social Chairman, who has provided the most practical table prize imaginable, and has chosen to assist her: Mesdames W. E. Decker, H. C. Brooks, R. M. Clark, H. Gieseking, J. H. Kerns, G. Mathias, G. Wernet, L. Charvot O. Friewald, J. Hosten, M. E. Miller, J. McPherson, C. Treadwell.

The roadway on top of the Great Wall of China is 15 feet in width.

Grosse Pointe Post

The party Saturday night was not so well attended. It seems that competition was a little too keen. Our first allegiance should be to our Post. It seems, especially in the last few months that the majority of our members only attend Post parties when there is nothing else to go to.

Whatever the difficulty is, it should be ironed out, because we may as well face the fact now as later, a Post cannot survive without loyalty and co-operation from each individual member. Everyone should feel that they are needed—those who do not want to take an active part should at least give their support by turning out to meetings and social functions.

We have the opportunity of making our Post one of the finest in the city. Some means of pepping up a little more interest must be found. So bring on your suggestions. I would suggest a good old fashioned "bawling out." Something that will bring home the responsibility you should feel toward your Post.

Remember, we are a military organization and notice of a meeting amounts to a command and should be considered as such. Well, I guess that will about do for now—but remember, it is only a sample of what is in store if the "gang" doesn't snap out of it. The next meeting will be Wednesday night, December 7. How many of you will remember this and be there?

Pledge yourself right now to attend. Bring your suggestions for improving and bringing back the interest in Post activities, but above all—be there.

Plans are being formed for a card party to be given at the Neighborhood Club, November 30th, by the ladies of the Drum and Bugle Corps to help defray expenses of instruction. All the ladies of the Post and their friends are invited and an enjoyable time is assured. You will be given further notice, including all the details later. Plan now to attend.

Titan Topics

When Detroit lost to Michigan State 7 to 0 the Titans not only had to accept their second defeat of the season but their first shutout. When Holy Cross beat them 9 to 7, they hoped that they would get through the season without another licking. Failing that, they were confident that they would at least score in every game. In fact, they expected to score heavily against State, believing that it would be a wide-open game in which both teams would have an offense considerably superior to the defense.

Since Charles E. Dorais came to Detroit, his teams have had two seasons in which they were not "whitewashed" They won all their games in 1920 and made at least three touchdowns in all save that against the University of Dayton, which team was played in a sea of mud. The next year they tied Marquette 6 to 6, and lost to Oregon State 14 to 7, but they at least crossed the goal line in every game. In 1930, they played scoreless ties with Marquette and Michigan State on successive Saturdays. They made only three points against the University of Iowa and lost 7 to 3, but they did not score.

Last year two teams shut them out, DePaul 12 to 0 in an opening game that was played far too early for them to be ready. The game was scheduled for September 22 as part of the American Legion convention program. Nobody seemed to get very excited about it and all the Titans had to show for their response to an appeal to help make the convention a success was a licking at the hands of a third-rate team. Later they played Villanova a scoreless tie on a field that was more suited to a regatta than a football game. Now they've got to wait until next fall to gratify that ambition to go through without failing to cross the enemy goal line.

Mothers Club Meets

The meeting of the Grosse Pointe Mothers Club to be held on November 28th sponsored by Mrs. Tore Franzen, will have the following programme: Speakers — Mrs. Esther Holmquist, Teacher of Weaving at Seven Arts Academy, Mr. Ragner Arneson, Architect and Interior Decorator of the Swedish School.

Vocal Selections — Mrs. Ingeborg Wohlborg
Piano Solos—Mrs. Sonnikä Bergis-hagen.
Swedish Dance — Lorraine Dalzen and Tore Franzen, Jr.

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters

When Valerie von Sturm demands that Paul Onslow, head of the Sylvanian delegation at the Geneva Peace Conference, choose between her and his career, he writes his resignation. Then he is strangled. Professor Bauer, a noted scientist, who has called to attend Valerie's dinner-reception that night, restores him to six hours of life with a machine of his invention. Paul who shows an uncanny knowledge of events happening since his demise, tears up his resignation. He says he knows his assailant—Karl Krantz, Valerie's former fiance, suspected by the police chief of attacking Paul, enters.

Chapter V

"GOOD evening gentlemen," said Karl. Then apologizing, "I hope I haven't delayed dinner. My cab was held up in traffic."
"Oh, International Boulevard, wasn't it Karl," asked Onslow.
His friend stared at him dumfounded as he agreed. Satisfied that there had been no murderous anger between these two the Commissioner puffed at his cigar resignedly.
When the others had gone down to join Valerie's guests, Karl remained behind with his friend, still puzzled that he should know of the traffic delay. His uneasiness increased as Paul presented him with valuable papers in case of his death and showed little interest in Valerie's dinner party. When Karl had gone down, Paul took the flower from his dresser and put it in his lapel. He lifted Ivan's cross and hung it about his neck.

Valerie was waiting for him at the foot of the staircase, her eyes shining, devouring him. She reproached him tenderly for his tardiness. Then slipping her arm in his, she presented him to her guests.
When dinner was announced and the company divided into partners and passed into the dining room Valerie looked for Paul to take her in. She was astonished to see him leaving the room with the Marquessa Franco on his arm. Puzzled and hurt she went in with Karl.

At the table, her composure recovered, she set about placing her guests.
"Monsieur le Commissaire, will you sit here, next to me," indicating the chair on her left. And you Professor, on Papa's left, and Karl, on Papa's right, and Paul—here—beside me."
Paul passed the chair designated.
"If you don't mind Valerie, I'll sit here beside the Marquessa. She is so interested in politics."
Valerie's smile faded, her eyes filled with pain at the rebuff. This was the second affront. Then collecting herself, she turned to her guests.

"Shall we be seated?" Soon the courses began to arrive and the guests forgot the incident.
When the cigarettes had been lighted Paul slipped away. He had ordered his car to be ready to take him to the conference, and sent Ivan to ask Valerie to meet him in the garden.
He came upon her under the poplars. "Valerie," he murmured, "I had to speak to you before I left."
"Judging from your manners," her reply came coldly, "I know what you're going to say."
He moistened his dry lips.

"I don't want to hurt you dear, but what you ask is impossible. Think what you want me to give up—a great political career—a brilliant diplomatic life—everything I've striven to achieve."
"I see," her hands writhed agonizedly, "they mean so much more than I or my love."
"My dear—"
"That's it— isn't it?" His arms moved out to embrace her and she shrank away. "Don't touch me. I suppose, after your victory tonight, you'll go home—and they'll unveil a statue in your honor, sneering. THE GREAT PAUL ONSLOW—PATRIOT. That's so much finer than any tribute, I could give"—her voice broke—"even though mine would have called you, 'Father'."

Blind with anger she could not see that she was crucifying him. Only half hearing his tortured, Valerie, don't—"

she went on "Oh I wish that bullet this afternoon had taken both of us. I would have died thinking that you cared —"
"Don't—Valerie—don't," he cried, his arms going about the woman he loved. Then as quickly he realized the futility of that desire. He could only hurt her. He released her. As he did she checked her tirade.
"Oh Paul," she turned to him. Startled she saw Ivan's cross gleaming on his shirt front. "I thought you didn't believe in God or crosses."
"Sometimes we learn."

The strange remoteness of his tone awed her.
"Paul don't be so strange," she begged. Then, "Darling you can have Sylvania and your career—but you must have me too. I won't give you up."
Somehow he managed to steel himself to answer.

"I should never have come between you and Karl. Your happiness lies with him."
"My happiness is my own affair. You don't love me—that's all."
She looked at him a moment, then whirled away from him. He watched her go. Then he gazed at his wrist watch.
Six hours to live! Six hours of breath and the stars! Reckless bravado and despair rushed like a fire through him. He sprang into his car and loosed the whole power of the engine. The mad pace exhilarated him as he tore along the roads, entered the city and flashed through the streets. A tire burst—the car swerved crazily. Paul laughed. Then a lurch—a sickening crash—

When Paul emerged from the wrecked car bystanders muttered:
"Only the devil could live through that."

The daredevil smile was still on his face. Then the clock struck. An hour of his time had flown. The thought sobered him. He entered a church and walked down the silent shadow aisle softly, so quietly that an old woman kneeling at the altar rail did not hear him. She was praying aloud that she might see her son again, who was dead.

Onslow stood behind her, pity writ large on his face. She buried her head in her hands, wailing. Paul came close to her, and spoke gently to her. She raised her head, not quite sure she had heard a voice. Then she saw him.
"What are you doing here?"
"I was brought here with a message for you. Your son hasn't left you mother. He's with you every day, loving you . . . watching over you. Some day you will be with him again. You and he will go on together . . ."

She watched him go, awe and wonder mingled in her look.
"Going my way?" he heard a woman's voice beside him as he walked toward the palace. He saw the pretty woman of the town who had accosted him earlier.
"I was arrested because of you," she said. "It cost me a fine."
"I'm sorry I caused you trouble," he answered sympathetically. "What can I do to make it up to you?"
The girl had expected a different answer. She stared at him. Then she caught his arm.

"Let's go in here."
They entered the glittering cafe before which they stood. Soon they were dancing. Suddenly Paul felt a hand in his coat pocket. He grasped it quickly. It was the girl's.
"Why did you do that," he demanded.
"Because I need money," she answered defiantly. "What's money to you? Nothing. To me it means a chance to get away from all this."
They had reached their table. He read truth in her eyes. He gave her some bills from his wallet.
"Here take these!"
He bowed at her wonderstruck gratitude and left her. Outside, he adjusted his hat. He felt a hand on his sleeve. It was the girl.

"Wait, when will I see you again?" He smiled sardonically.
"Day after tomorrow in the Rue Morgue."

Lion's Skin for Monarchs

The principal use of a lion's skin is for rugs with the heads mounted. In some parts of Africa, however, they are still the insignia of royalty, and their use as cloaks or garments is restricted to the reigning monarch.

Amber a Fossil

Amber is a fossil resin, consisting of the sap of an extinct species of pine tree of the tertiary period. In the regions where it is found near the seacoast it was probably carried down by rivers that no longer exist. The transparent variety contains up to 4 per cent and the opaque variety up to 8 per cent succinic acid.

Making Sweet Sounds

There are three types of musical instruments—percussion, wind and stringed. Probably the percussion instruments were the first, though legend takes the pipe of Pan back to prehistoric times.

Briefly Told

He gains wisdom in a happy way who gains it by another's experience.

Old Norman Trees

A tree census of Normandy disclosed the fact that there are many multi-centenarians in the forests. A yew tree in the village cemetery of Saint Ursin (Manche) was planted 900 years ago. There is also a colossal yew tree 32 feet around at Blondiere which is known to have been growing in the seventh century.

No Knowledge of First English Poet Laureate

There is no authentic record of the origin of the office of poet laureate of England; it is said to have been created during the reign of Edward IV (1461-1483), though earlier than this date, during the reign of Henry III (1216-1272), there was a king's poet who was paid 100 shillings a year.

Maoris Firm in Belief That "Tiki" Brings Luck

Although the Maoris are becoming civilized to an extent where they can send intelligent representatives to the New Zealand parliament, they nevertheless cling religiously to the greenstone charm called "tiki," which they superstitiously believe will ward off all evil.

Where Rhine Is "Lost"

The mighty Rhine river, flowing through half of Europe, is camouflaged when it reaches Holland. The traveler need not ask, when in Holland, where is the Rhine? Not even the natives know.

"Romantic" Writers

Against the rather cold rationalism of the eighteenth century there set in a reaction which emphasized the emotional side of life. It went in for poetry, and the beauties of nature, and rather idealized the past, particularly the Middle Ages.

House of the Dead

In the Chinese cemetery at Panama, a strange building has been erected. Although modern in construction, it is designed after ancient Chinese architecture, preserving the oriental lines of decoration. The building contains 150 separate compartments for coffins.

Nurses

We have always been afraid of nurses with their professional austerity, for they do so many things we do not understand. Here is the most pressing question we failed to ask: "Why is it that one has to be awakened at 6:15 in the morning to have his hands and face washed when he is going to be given a bath anyway at 7:15?"

White House's Gold Piano

The gold piano in the East room of the White House cost $15,000. A plate attached to the instrument bears the following inscription: "This piano was made for and presented to the United States government, Theodore Roosevelt being President, January, 1903, by Steinway and Sons, E. M. and J. H. Hunt, designers of the case. Decorations painted by Thomas W. Deming. Advisory committee, Edwin H. Blatchford, Thomas W. Deming, Frederick Howes, Richard M. Hunt and J. Burr Tiffany."

Neglected Children

Satan keeps school for neglected children.—C. H. Spurgeon.

"Immortal Will" Called Most Quoted of Poets

If one told you that you are quite apt to quote Shakespeare almost any day in the week, it would strike you as unlikely, says a writer in the Literary Digest. The Atlanta Journal brings up a list of common sayings, whose source, you might say, was anywhere but in Shakespeare's plays.

Character Not to Be Told by Shape of Head

The person who undertakes to judge character by the shape of the subject's head must have a care or a mistake might be made. The shape of the forehead is no index to the quality of the gray matter contained therein, according to Doctor Hrdlicka, who is an authority.

Invest in Books

You can own much and possess nothing. Many a pauper with the indefinable quality of taste is far richer than the people who own the greatest amount of things. It is a problem of use. A book is paper, printing, binding. You must bring to it the touch of the vital mind.

Mushrooms

Do not depend on so-called tests for distinguishing between poisonous and edible mushrooms, warns the United States Department of Agriculture. It is not true that only poisonous mushrooms will tarnish a silver coin placed in the utensil in which they are cooked, or that they will become edible if soaked or boiled in salt water.

Elephants Roamed Sweden

A mammoth tusk was recently found by workmen in the sand by the River Goeta Aelv, not far from Gothenburg, Sweden. The find has been brought to the attention of the museum authorities at Gothenburg. This is the second similar find made at this river, proving that at some distant period the giant ancestor of the modern elephant roamed the forests of ancient Scandinavia.

Great Literature

The greatest thoughts of the greatest souls that have ever lived have expressed themselves in majestic even though simple language. The Psalms and Isaiah and the Sermon on the Mount are splendid examples from the Bible. Shakespeare, Wordsworth and Browning in England and Emerson, Lowell, Whittier and Longfellow, to mention only a few of our American writers, are all worthy of perusal for the dividends in satisfaction they will pay us who will read them.

Smile Contagious

Smile even if it hurts you. The result may be a surprise. This world is only a looking glass, giving back to every man the reflection of his own face. Frown at it, and the world will return a sour look; laugh, and you will find it a jolly companion.—Grit.

Pioneer Autoist

Elwood Haynes, of Kokomo, Ind., received in 1893 the first license to operate an automobile.

History of Modern Candy

In the old days candy was made only by druggist and was used almost entirely to disguise medicine. Candy for candy's sake is little more than a century old. In England, the term candy is generally used only for crystallized confections made of sugar. Candy made of molasses is termed "Toffee."

At the Punch & Judy

Jack Holt in a role that is NOT sympathetic, it's happened, in "This Sporting Age," you shall see the personable hero of "Bright," "War Correspondent," "Dirigible," "Submarine" and other hero yarns as a human enough fellow but one who takes vengeance in his own hands.

Eastminster Presbyterian Church

"How To Live Above Sin" is the sermon subject next Sunday at the 11:00 o'clock. At 7:30 p.m., Miss Winifred Carter is the harp soloist. She is a member of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. She was found in London, England by Mrs. Aimee McPherson, and taken to Los Angeles and made the harp soloist in her "Angelus Temple."

Mending Celluloid

Ether has a wonderful effect in keeping broken parts of celluloid together. Tie the several pieces carefully in place and run some ether along the crack. The celluloid will then soften and naturally work itself into one piece again when dry, becoming perfectly hard.

CAMPAIGNS FOR PENNY SEALS

Mrs. Wilber M. Brucker, wife of the Governor, on a trip to Michigan State Sanatorium in the interests of the 1932 tuberculosis seal sale, found in this lovely child the picture behind the work done with children by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

Incinerator Plant To Serve Grosse Pointe Area Being Considered

(Continued from Page One) The site suggested for the plant was a parcel of property owned by the Village north of Mack avenue in the City of Detroit. No definite decision was reached at Monday's meeting, the matter being referred to the respective councils of the several villages. A combined meeting of the councils of the five villages is scheduled to be held at an early date to further consider the project.

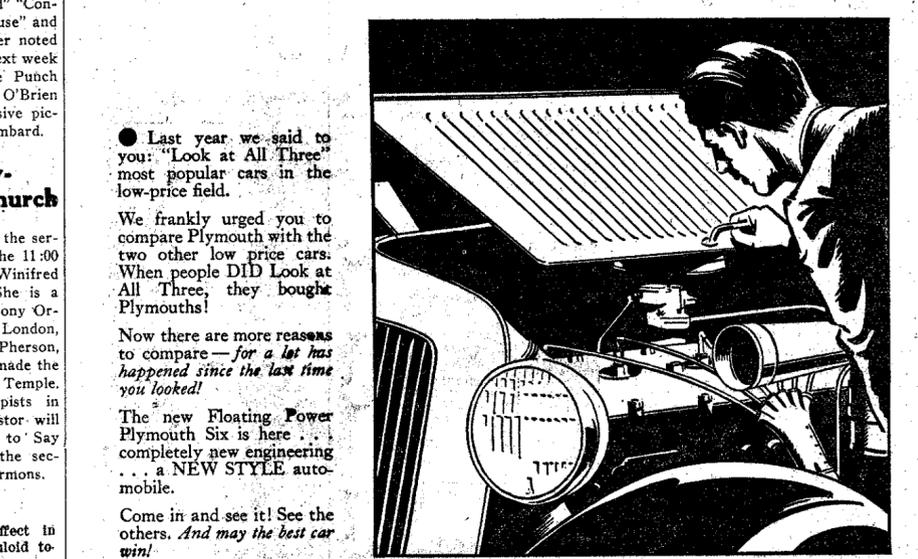

Established Coal Dealer Explains How To Reduce Our Overhead

Today we are trying to reduce every expense possible in order to make both ends meet, in other words, we are trying to get all we can from each dollar spent. Now, this is a noble idea, but we must be careful that we do not fall into the very common fault of "false economy." We cannot buy everything we need at the cheapest price merely because it is cheap because by so doing we not only have to use inferior merchandise, but it is really costing us more in the long run.

There's a New reason to Look at All Three

Last year we said to you: "Look at All Three" most popular cars in the low-price field. We frankly urged you to compare Plymouth with the two other low price cars. When people DID Look at All Three, they bought Plymouths! Now there are more reasons to compare—for a lot has happened since the last time you looked! The new Floating Power Plymouth Six is here... completely new engineering... a NEW STYLE automobile. Come in and see it! See the others. And may the best car win!
