At the Punch & Judy

"Too Busy to Work," Will Rogers' latest starring picture will be shown at the Punch and Judy theatre on Friday and Saturday of this week.

Marion Nixon enacts the leading role and other favorites in the cast include Frederick Burton, Dick Powell, Jack O'Hara and Louise Beavers.

"Red Dust," opening at the Punch and Judy theatre for three days starting Sunday, presents the interesting combination of Clark Gable and Jean Harlow, in a turbulent story of Cochinchina.

Keyholing the keyholes is the unique and hilarious process by which the unique Warner Brothers picture "Blessed Event" adapted from the stage play of the same name provides audiences with an unusual hour of entertainment.

A TOAST What though the waves of yesterday Return upon our beach, And come again and slip away Forever out of reach Let's reignite the torch of days And hail the new born year— Old Father Time's young progeny Is worth a rousing cheer! —A. C. CLAPP, in Chicago Daily News.

How Times Have Changed— THE custom of celebrating the advent of the New Year is sunk in antiquity. Let us glance down the centuries toward some of the first stunts in which the populace indulged and see if we aren't inclined to draw a breath of relief as we exclaim, "How times have changed!"

Old New Year's and the New New Year's MASSACHUSETTS made New Year's a holiday long after the American custom of New Year's calls, which justified its observance, had gone the way of the pelika and the hoop skirt.

But to the young the watchnight meeting was always a dreary service, only to be endured in view of the joys of the morrow. And when the life and color were taken out of the observance of New Year's itself, there seemed little sense in ushering in a day of gloom with a still gloomier New Year's eve.

As people's acquaintances increased numerically their circle widened geographically. Horse-drawn vehicles were still the indispensable ways of getting about. A gentleman who in 1869 could call upon 100 or more ladies and find room in himself for an equal number of cups of coffee or glasses of sherry was compelled, in 1879, to reduce his calling list by half; he could not get all the way round, even if his brains and his legs held out.

Facing Difficulties The difficulties one sees ahead in the New Year should only encourage one to put his head a little higher in the air and walk more firmly and courageously.—Collier's Weekly.

Synopsis of Preceding Chapters Jimmy and Mac pick up Peggy and Millie on Broadway. When Millie falls into a sewer excavation they rush her to her room. There they meet Mona, who suggests a party in her room. Peggy steals off to her own room, followed by Jimmy.

Chapter V WHERE'S Peggy? cried Jimmy excitedly, bursting into Millie's room. "Why—she went to the license bureau" replied Millie, surprised at seeing him alone.

"Gee—it's funny," remarked Millie dreamily, "fallin' in love." "You said it," Jimmy retorted. "Specially when it's all on one side!" "What do you mean—Jimmy?" frowned Millie. "Ain't you happy?"

At one time the New Year was celebrated by the giving of presents just as Christmas is today. Gloves were a popular contribution to a lady's wardrobe because of their rarity. If the gentleman was hesitant in selecting the gloves in person, it was perfectly proper for him to give money for their purchase, which was known as "glove money."

When pins were first invented, about the beginning of the sixteenth century, they were an even more acceptable gift in feminine circles. They were rough hand-made pins, but were considered rare pieces of workmanship compared with the skewers of bone and wood then in use. If money was given for their purchase, it was known as "pin-money," a phrase which has clung to the language, and connotes money used for any extras, pins or other.

In early America the New Year was celebrated with the simplicity that was part of the times. With no steam cars, motor cars or telephones, people had to depend on stage coaches and ox teams for transportation. It was said that it was of no use to sit up and watch the old year out as the "clocks did so vary that they knew very little of the crossing." So the settlers celebrated by making multitudinous calls the next day, jingling merry sleigh bells and shaking off snow on the door step.

The Chinese are said to celebrate New Year's in the most unusual fashion of all. They actually feel compelled to pay off their debts before they can be at peace with the world. All the customs of various nations this is perhaps the one most worthy of emulation.—Indianapolis News.

Humility Good or Bad Humility is good when it stimulates, it is bad when it paralyzes, the active powers of a man. It may do either. We have noble examples of humility as a stimulus; the sense of weakness making a man all the more ardent to use all the strength he has. But if conscious weakness causes a man to believe that it makes no difference

At the Fisher A gala New Year's show is at the Fisher theatre this week. A thrill, action-packed bit is on the screen, "The Devil is Driving," in it Edmund Lowe, Wynne Gibson, James Gleason, Lois Wilson and little Dickie Moore are seen.

United Artists Ronald Colman in "Cynara" is now in its second big week at the United Artists Theatre. This modern daring romance, with Kay Francis and the new screen discovery, Phyllis Barry, in the cast, has become the talk of Detroit, the same as the stage play was the sensation of two continents.

"Murray Hill" To Be Presented at Civic

As cheerfully gay as a New Year's greeting is "Murray Hill," Leslie Howard's innocuous farce, which will be presented with Raymond Hackett, handsome leading man of stage and screen, and Joan Madison in her farewell bill at the Bonstelle Civic theatre, the week beginning Friday, December 30.

New Year's eve will be observed in the theatre with the traditional second performance on Saturday night, following the regular 8:30 performance. The midnight show will start at 11:30 p. m. so that the first act curtain may fall on the stroke of twelve.

Mr. Hackett comes to Detroit directly from Broadway, where he was playing "Armand" to the "Camille" of Lillian Gish, in the distinguished revival produced by Robert Edmond Jones. He won great success in talking pictures playing leading roles with Ruth Chatterton in "Madame X," with Norma Shearer in "The Trial of Mary Dugan" and numerous other popular stars, after long runs of George M. Cohan's "So This Is London," in which he appeared for a year in England, and two years with Mary Boland in "Cradle Snatchers."

In "Murray Hill" Mr. Hackett has the role played by Leslie Howard when the play was first produced, in 1927. The farce is a case of mistaken identities, involving Hackett, as Wrigley, a mortician's assistant, and Robert Henderson, as Worthington Smythe. When Smythe presents himself to his three ancient aunts of the Tweedle name at a family memorial service, he is so intoxicated that the amiable family attorney substitutes Wrigley, the only available young man, as the beneficiary of the will. From that point the play gambols through the heart of young Amelia Tweedle, played by Miss Madison, who was raised by her aunts in complete ignorance of men. The graceless nephew dashes off on a wild escapade with one aunt, played by Jessie Busley in her best comedy manner. Others in the cast are Francis Compton, as the lawyer, Amy Loomis and Helen Ray as the other two aunts, and Walter Vaughn as the butler.

A Toast to the New Year

RESOLUTIONS BROKEN BY MARIE MARSH

BOB JUDSON went down to breakfast New Year's morning with his shirt cuffs dangling. He had watched the old year out and the new year in at his young sister's party and had promised to go skating with the "crowd" by nine in the morning. "What in thunder do you mean by swiping my cuff buttons, Peggy?" he said to his sister. "Only this," cooed Peggy, who was eighteen and uncommonly pretty. She held up her hands, showing the cuffs of a blouse of masculine cut. "I needed them, dearie, so before you were awake I came in and got them. Don't be huffy, sweetheart, it's New Year's day."

his little sister to cover his besetting sins: Not to flirt. Not to be scrappy. Note to be late for dinner—"It annoys cook so." Not to be hoggish—This had special reference to neckties, fountain pens, cuff buttons, etc. Not to get engaged before the next New Year's day. "Because unattached men are scarce and we need you in the bunch to piece out with." "Bobbs, dear," resumed Peggy, "I've

RING OUT, WILD BELLS

RING out, wild bells, to the wild sky, The flying cloud, the frosty light; The year is dying in the night; Ring out, wild bells, and let him die. Ring out the old, ring in the new; Ring, happy bells, across the snow; The year is going, let him go; Ring out the false, ring in the true. Ring out the grief that saps the mind For those that here we see For out the feud of rich and poor; Ring in redress to all mankind. Ring out a slowly dying cause, And ancient forms of party strife; Ring in nobler modes of life, With sweeter manners, purer laws. Ring out false pride in place and blood, The civic slander and the spite; Ring in the love of truth and right, Ring in the common love of good. Ring out old shapes of foul disease; Ring out the narrowing lust of gold; Ring out the thousand wars of old, Ring in the thousand years of peace. Ring in the valiant man and free, The larger heart, the kinder hand; Ring out the darkness of the land, Ring in the Christ that is to be. —LORD TENNYSON.

asked some of the girls to come in this evening to practice a new dance step. We're a man short. That is we are a girl extra. Sally's bringing her cousin," she continued. Bob's social engagements in his own and his sister's set kept him until darkness had begun to settle. But, as he reflected, it was only half past five, and with half an hour to get home and dinner at half past six, he would be in good time. He could boast to Peggy that he had kept all his resolutions at least for the day. He was aware of the fact that there was a young woman walking hurriedly beside a man on the opposite side of the street. Then he saw the young woman, quickly across the street. She waved her hand and fairly pounced upon him with a "Why, Marmaduke, dear, how glad I am to see you!" Tom remembered the first resolution given by Peggy, "Not to flirt." "I thought it was you, Marmaduke," said the girl, walking beside him and laughing gaily. "Of course, you were on your way to our house. We half expected you, but I didn't know you would come this way." It seemed to Tom that the girl was talking very loudly. And then in an aside she said, "Marmaduke Butler's your name."

Long Journey Things are seldom so bad that they cannot be worse, and this must be the consolation of those who, continually made the butt of others for some peculiarity, come across a victim of circumstances suffering from the same peculiarity in a more exaggerated degree. The French Marshal Vivonne once indicated this feeling in a witty reply to the king. Vivonne and the Comte d'Auvergne were probably the most corpulent gentlemen of the court at the time. "Marshal, you really are getting too fat," said the king. "You ought to take more exercise." "Your majesty does not know, then, that I take a great deal of exercise?" "No; what do you do?" "I walk around the Comte d'Auvergne three times every day."—Washington Post.

New World's "Discovery" Some historians of the Roman Catholic church are of the opinion that their missionaries reached the western hemisphere before the discovery of America by Columbus. They claim that documents from the Vatican archives, which were published in 1893, contained information concerning the diocese of Gardar, in Greenland. This first Catholic diocese in the New World was established about 1125 and had resident bishops until 1377. However, other historians claim that the church of San Nicholas, in Santo Domingo, which was founded by Governor Ovando in either 1502 or 1503, is the oldest Christian church in the New world.

Exploded Illusions Fond illusions about animals have been destroyed. For instance, says the Los Angeles Times, polar bears do not eat fish but grizzlies will. African apes actually turn pale when they hear the lions roar; Indian apes listen with indifference to lions, but go insane with terror when they hear the Belgian tigers. Man of war birds will eat only fish that are thrown into the air by keepers where they can catch them on the fly. Wild parrots learn to talk from tame parrots put in the cages; the wild animal park is "long" on lions; they can't even be given away.

Wellington Nominated Himself When George IV requested the duke of Wellington to form a ministry, nothing was further from his thoughts than making the duke the premier. When the king, then at Windsor, opened the dispatch box containing the duke's list, he burst into an exclamation of mingled mirth and amazement: "D—n his eyes! I asked him to make out for me a list of a cabinet, not to put his own name at the head of it." But George IV hated "trouble"; the duke's name stood at the head of the list, and the king let it remain.—From the London Spectator, February, 1882.

Birds Had Teeth The first birds, which developed from the flying reptiles, all possessed teeth. As they progressed into the later stages of bird evolution, however, the teeth were lost, and there are now no living birds with teeth.

Friday by Mr. Axel Gruenberg and Miss Lucille Cornell dramatic coaches. It is as follows: Bill Harrington, Glenn Trofast; Mrs. William Harrington, Ilene Guyer; Grace Harrington, Yvonne Fourette; Patricia Harrington, Grace Schreck; Billy Caldwell, Edward Stammen; Tony Anderson, Ronald Muir; Sadie Buchanan, Bernice Sinclair; Francis Patrick O'Flaherty, John Schmitke; "Trip" Busty, Lawrence Slatkin.

How the younger sister wise-cracks her way into the heart of her sister's boy friend with jokes memorized from a book on character building purchased from a correspondence school is the concern of the plot. In the course of her career of cleverness, Patsy's family seriously doubts her sanity. "Although the play is a comedy and is filled with wise-cracks," said Mr. Gruenberg, "it is by no means silly." The play will be presented Friday, January 13, in the Grosse Pointe High School auditorium.

Leslie Granger, 12B, has been appointed as chief justice of the honor court. The assistant justices are Arthur Treut, 12A, Walter Foraker, 11A, Virginia Hoelze, 10B, Martha Clise, 9A, and Harry Mouch, 8B. These justices were appointed by Eileen Beever, president of the student association and approved by the senate and Mr. J. R. Barnes, principal.

Each Monday after school Grace Kerr and Lloyd Burgess, members of the National Honor Society, conduct biology classes. According to Mrs. Myrtle Wagner, instructor of the class, the pupils taking advantage of this instruction are showing a great improvement.

James Black and Douglas MacAlpine were recently awarded honorable mention in a Quill and Scroll national contest. Douglas competed in a current news contest while James wrote an editorial entitled "Depression."

Mr. H. C. L. Jackson, columnist for the Detroit News, gave the school journalists sound advice at the Press Club dinner on how to behave if they should ever break into the profession. More than 30 guests listened to Mr. Jackson's talk, including the following faculty members: Mr. and Mrs. Trip-pensee, Mrs. Ruth Flom, Miss Anna Sima, and Miss Doris K. Trott, Press Club adviser.

Janet Albyn, managing editor of the Tower, announced the staff for the journalism I issue of the Tower to be put out on January 11.

The following will publish the paper: Flora Kies, Janet Moffat, Frances Bennett, John Sullivan, Esther Span-sky, Robert Kulow, Eugene Werner, Edwin Carlson, James Black, Tom Rein, Birthdays, Harriet Graham; Old Grads, Daniel Andrews; Sports, Raymond Harns, Joseph Schwarz; Circulation, Leonard Sachs, Jack Sherman, Robert Pearce; Did You Know? Thirteen girls in the office practice class are holders of jobs; they act as secretaries to thirteen teachers. Typical of the work they do is that of Bertha Danna, who works for Mrs. Elizabeth Hudson, Latin teacher and sponsor of the Philathians. Frequently, she mimeographs tests for the Latin classes and recently she mimeographed 10 song books for the Philathians and made 14 ditto copies of an outline.

Margaret Kyser and Betty Schreck are working for Mr. S. A. Shoemaker, director of guidance. Their duties are to type business letters and answer telephone calls in room 141. Mr. Shoemaker is particular about keeping his desk in good order, and they assist in that effort.

Ilene Guyer and Doris Bury are secretaries to Mr. F. Geary, director of athletics. Their duties are to make dictations, check the arks for the eligibility of the boys, run off copies of intramural football schedules on the ditto machine, and type the lists of players on the intramural teams. They have also listed the names of all boys in school, and the athletics in which each boy participated in 1931-1932.

Adrienne Dekien works for Mrs. Ruth Flom, English teacher. She typed some of the declamations of the 8-A home room representatives. Mary DeClerq is working for Miss Frances Griffen, Latin teacher. She has made charts for the class grades and types other declamations for the junior assembly.

Ethel Hoschke works for Mrs. Ethel Kinkead, English teacher. Marjorie Mallet is secretary for the Mother's Club. She has typed postal cards for the mothers.

Helen Hyatt works for Mr. Lincoln Igou. She has been making charts, which are required in the office record for references.

Margaret Degraeve is working for Miss Doris Trott, journalism and English teacher. Margaret has been typing copy for the Tower and class outlines for the journalism course. She also takes care of the tabulations and filing of cards for the point system, working directly for Miss M. Kremmin, who has charge of this work.

Alice Raskin is working for Miss Elizabeth Harriman, French teacher, and Miss Janet Adams, art teacher. Alice has been making stencils, copies filing, writing business letters from dictation, typing out manuscripts for plays and general assistance.

Margaret Comyn has been doing secretarial work for Mrs. Jetta White, home economics teacher. She has made stencil copies and typed business letters.
