Drivers may find it a trifle more difficult to escape the law for traffic violations should the new law permitting the tagging of cars by police officers in Detroit pass.

It seems that plans are underway to make it somewhat more expensive and difficult for drivers to secure new driver's licenses. It's always the taxpayers who suffer for all these new innovations.

What this country needs is a new fool proof car, that can run and think for itself, without the aid of human effort. There is a suggestion for a genius to work on.

Grosse Pointe Post 303 NEWS

By AL ZARB

Say, when those boys from the Drum and Bugle Corps give a party, you can bet your last nickel that it would be a "wow!" Saturday night's party at our Legion Hall at 1750 Mack Ave., was a humdinger, a capacity crowd filled the hall, and everybody seemed to be having a swell time. The square dance is becoming quite popular. The refreshments and lunch were everything that could be desired and they were plentiful.

Tex Hoyt, as usual, made the most noise, ably seconded by Leo Weil. The party, as usual, lasted until the wee hours of the morning, and from the broad smile on Bill Kort's face, I would say a huge success financially.

Some more of our members are entering the political field. Harry Hanley is running for President of the Park and Marvin Moesta for Commissioner; also Harvey Hohlfeldt is running for Township Treasurer. I don't know if there is anybody else running for office, so I guess those are the only ones from 303.

I haven't seen Rudy Schmidt lately at Post meetings or at our Saturday night parties. Anybody know what happened to him?

Before I close, those of you who live in the Grosse Pointes, get out and vote. That's a civic duty you owe yourself and your community. Remember you can't vote unless you register (this means you and your family too, Tony).

No party next Saturday, the 22nd. The hall is rented out for a big wedding.

Court Halts Building Modernization

Circuit Judge Henry G. Nicol ruled Friday that Mrs. Lillie Paye, owner of three buildings at 16903-09 E. Jefferson Ave., Grosse Pointe, could not remodel or modernize her property but would have to let it suffer the effects of natural deterioration.

The Judge denied Mrs. Paye a writ of mandamus to compel the City of Grosse Pointe to grant her a remodeling permit for the structures, which are used for commercial purposes. In refusing a permit, Grosse Pointe municipal authorities invoked a zoning ordinance, passed after the buildings were constructed, restricting the neighborhood to residential property.

Extensive modernizing operations were begun by Mrs. Paye without a permit. When that was discovered, the Grosse Pointe officials refused to allow her to continue and granted a permit that allowed her only to take steps to keep the structures from collapsing.

GROSSE POINTE MOURNS DEATH OF ROY D. CHAPIN

The Rev. Francis B. Creamer, of Christ Episcopal Church Chapel, Grosse Pointe Farms, conducted the funeral services for Roy D. Chapin, automobile leader, in the home, 447 Lake Shore Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday. Entombment was at Woodlawn Cemetery.

Mr. Chapin, who died Sunday at Henry Ford Hospital of pneumonia, was president of The Hudson Motor Car Co., served as Secretary of Commerce in the Hoover Administration, and since the pioneer days of the automobile industry had played a leading role in its development. As an advocate and indefatigable worker for good roads, he was nationally known for the part he played in the creation of the Nation's highway system.

Soon after word of his death flashed over the press wires Sunday night messages of tribute and sympathy began arriving at his home. Alfred Reeves, vice president of the Automobile Manufacturers Association, of which Mr. Chapin was a former president, telegraphed Mrs. Chapin as follows:

"With the passing of Roy D. Chapin a Nation mourns the loss of one of its outstanding, constructive-thinking industrial executives and a citizen of the kind that has made America.

"His countless friends here and abroad, and particularly his friends and associates in the motor industry, well remember his successful leadership as president of the Automobile Manufacturers Association, which resulted not alone in the advancement of a great business, but set standards for ethical co-operative competition that continues to be offered as examples for all business.

"His sound views included the development of a fine, helpful co-operative spirit among his workers, while his charities were many. Everyone sympathizes deeply with you and your family in the loss of an ideal husband and father."

Among the other tributes paid Mr. Chapin were those from several of Michigan's Republican members of Congress. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, a close friend, said that he was shocked to learn of the death. Rep. Clarence J. McLeod, of Detroit, said: "He was a big factor in building the automobile industry in Michigan. His loss will be felt by City and State."

"I believe the development of good roads was due to the active and intelligent interest in this subject displayed by Mr. Chapin in the early days," was the tribute of Rep. Roy O. Woodruff, of Bay City.

Representatives Earl E. Michener, of Adrian, and Carl Mapes, of Grand Rapids, dean of the Michigan Republicans in the House, also paid tribute to Mr. Chapin.

An Open Letter by Harry C. Hanley

The following letter was received for publication from Harry C. Hanley, candidate for President of Grosse Pointe Park:

This letter is written to state my views and tell why I am a candidate for office.

Our Grosse Pointe Park Government is in the grip of a political machine. The police, firemen and other municipal employees are part of a cycle-manned to keep the machine in power. Each election they are supposed to deliver their quota of votes to the polls. If they rebel against this task they are dismissed from the force regardless of how competent they are in their work.

I believe in separating municipal employees from compulsory politics and to further this idea, endorse the plan of Civil Service.

The Grosse Pointe Park political machine makes bold use of assessments to silence criticism, and even "buy off" opposition.

I say this corrupt practice must stop. This is Michigan, not Louisiana.

It is the practice of the Park political machine to "put the pressure on" any who openly assist in a campaign against them. If a man runs for office independently, he is branded a cheap office seeker with literature distributed by municipal employees.

I want to know why they are so sensitive to opposition? Any public office holder must expect competition. Democracy is founded on this principle. A good government welcomes criticism; a bad one needs it.

Because the administration is a machine, it is a form of Partisan politics of the lowest type. If a man wished to be elected to office he has had to "see the gang," and the price of this election has been to support the special interests of the machine and their friends.

I believe that Grosse Pointe Park should have a non-partisan local government, where it is the solemn pledge of the elected to uphold the interests of the entire public.

The Grosse Pointe Park machine in an effort to build up outlying political fences, has supplied thousands of Detroiters with tickets to our Lake Park. (Continued on Page Three)

Copland and Miss Suzanne Copland. Mrs. Mills received her guests in a gown of black crepe with a white corded silk collar and a narrow band of the same, studded with corded silk gardenias, which extended from neck to hem.

Pioneer Furniture Man Died Last Week

Richard H. Krakow, Sr., who with his sons had operated The Krakow Furniture Co. at 6927 Gratiot Ave. since 1913, died last week in the Henry Ford Hospital. He was 79 years old.

Mr. Krakow was born in Germany the son of a shoemaker. He came to Detroit with his parents when he was 7 years old, making the trip in a sailing vessel. The trip required two months and an epidemic of smallpox ravaged the ship's passengers during the journey.

When a young man, Mr. Krakow studied stone carving and sculpture under Marcus Stevens and later with Julius Melchers, widely known sculptor. In the making of his models and other work, he learned cabinet making. In 1888, he formed a partnership with several others and organized Reuther & Co., whose factory stood at the present location of the Crowley-Milner Co.

Detroit's Exposition Highlights Outlined

When we say that the 1936 Exposition will be a veritable "Little World's Fair," we mean just that. The management has exercised every effort to secure exhibits that are out of the ordinary, and manufacturers and organizations which will be represented in the Exposition have co-operated wholeheartedly in this respect.

The Ford and Lincoln exhibits will occupy 5,000 square feet of floor space, while the Chrysler exhibit will occupy 7,500 square feet. Both of these exhibits will show many novel machines in operation, a display which will be educational, fascinating and of interest to the entire family.

The recreation division occupying 7,000 square feet in the Hall of Silver (entrance on Woodward avenue) will be specially constructed and fittingly decorated with native trees and shrubs to compliment displays in that section.

Of particular interest is "The World a Million Years Ago," Messore and Daymon's unusual animated display of prehistoric animals--Cephalopods, Triceratops, Tyrannosaurus, Dimetrodons, the Hairy Mammoth and Man through the ages, that inhabited the earth a million years ago. This was exhibited at the Chicago World's Fair for two years.

The Exposition presents the first public showing of a "Seabird" automobile--something entirely new in automobile design.

A replica of a Michigan copper mine, 100 feet in length, showing the different ore stratas as they appear in the natural earth formations will be on exhibition.

These are just a few of the interesting things you will see and learn about at the 1936 Detroit and Michigan Exposition.

They will be joined in Europe by Mr. Zeder and other members of the family in June.

The Rev. Gilbert Otte heard the wedding vows.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white chiffon, the bodice distinguished by the graceful cape sleeves. With it she wore a small white hat with a flaring face veil. Her flowers were white roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaids were Ione Hallis and Marie Stoezner. Both wore American Beauty crepe frocks and corsages of gardenias.

Albert Darmstaetter was Mr. Wetzel's best man and the guests were shown to their seats by George Diederich.

Mrs. Harris chose for her niece's wedding a gown of dark beige crepe, with accessories of brown. Her flowers were gardenias. Mrs. Wetzel was gowned in brown crepe, made with a short jacket and a blouse of chartreuse. She wore violets and sweetheart roses.

A dinner at the Harris home for members of the families and the bridal party followed the ceremony.

An Open Letter by Harry C. Hanley

A member of the Commission recently made a public statement that he knew of over 3,000 stock tickets being passed out.

I say, this practice must be stopped in fairness to our people who want to use their own park, which is often too crowded, and especially unfair to the residents in the neighborhood of the park, who are subjected to this increased traffic nuisance.

The Grosse Pointe Park machine has never been a real expression of the majority of electors. Last year they gathered less than 20 per cent of the registered vote and won against their opposition by only 215 votes. Any time half the votes of Grosse Pointe Park come to the polls the machine will go. They know this well. That is why the important question of City form of government (likely to draw a large vote) was set for a special election, rather than at the time of the regular election, March 9th, costing the public unnecessary loss of time and money. The desire for small elections is also in back of the system of having but two voting booths in the whole village of 12,000 population. (During our State and County elections we have 8 booths in the Park area.) Lack of convenient voting booths discourage voting in the residential areas south of Jefferson and in the north east section of our village.

I am in favor of more convenient voting places. I also favor fewer elections.

The Grosse Pointe Park political machine puts on a good front to the public. Good service is rendered in such small things as refuse collection, etc. The taxes are high and can be reduced. But what is going on behind the scenes? Let's look at the record of our sinking fund as shown in the State Treasurer's report. Our Grosse Pointe money was invested in Melvindale, Clawson, Ecorse, Bloomfield, Royal Oak, Erin Lake and Southfield Township bonds to the tune of $108,500.00. Certainly no respectable representative government would make such a large series of rotten investments. There isn't a good bond in the list. I can not believe this can all be attributed to official stupidity. Manipulation is apparent. This is a direct result of machine administration whose resolutions are prepared and issued in machine fashion, without the full commission knowing what it's all about. With this type of financing what is going to happen to our tax rates in 1940 and thereafter, when our 30 year bonds start to come due to our three million dollar debt?

I am in favor of a thorough investigation of our financial status. We have men in our Village who will act on a citizens committee to help us out of the mess we are in, with reputations for ability in finance.

In a few words, I am running to help smash a machine government. A machine is a non-representative special privilege government. It is "gang rule" dictatorship, carried on in a hushed huddle. We want a representative government open and informative. I would be helpless against the machine if elected alone. I urge my friends who vote for me to also vote for the candidates for the Commission: Marvin W. Moesta, Jules Degreave, and Carl A. Williams, who are opposing the three incumbents.

Ginger Rogers Solos in Her Latest Musical

There's a new treat in store for Ginger Rogers' fans in her current musical with Fred Astaire — the red-blonde dance stylist, whose whirlwind stepping has always been done in a team number with her co-star in their previous hits, solos for the first time in "Follow the Fleet," which opens at the RKO Downtown Theater Friday, February 21.

Clad in brief rehearsal shorts, this first lady of the personality dance goes it alone to the catchy rhythms of "Let Yourself Go," one of seven songs composed for the nautical RKO Radio romance by Irving Berlin.

Revelation of Facts Regarding Ethiopia at Art Institute Sun.

What is really happening in Ethiopia? Are the Italians winning or losing? What are the facts behind the dispatches—the startling facts that the most rigid military censorship in history have thus far shut off?

Josef Israels, brilliant young New York Times war correspondent and Pathe Newsreel editor, will answer these questions in his illustrated lectures on "Ethiopia's Death Struggle" at the Detroit Institute of Arts at 3:30 and 8:30 next Sunday. Garden Group Lecture in Grosse Pointe Well Attended Last Week

Dr. Pirnie illustrated his talk with colored films, pictures taken largely at the 80-acre sanctuary at Augusta, where there is a 20-acre lake. Everyone was enthusiastic over pictures of flocks of wild ducks and turkeys and pictures of eagles and other birds. Wild life management means encouragement in some directions and control in others, particularly in the matter of nuisances such as starlings and sparrows, Dr. Pirnie told his hearers. He also stated anyone can have a bird sanctuary if they choose if they have so much as an acre of ground.

Following the talk there was afternoon tea with Mrs. James S. Holden and Mrs. Murray W. Sales presiding at the silver tea and coffee urns. The table was lace covered and centered with a beautiful arrangement of gay spring flowers.

Among those at the meet were Mrs. Renville Wheat, Mrs. James T. Shaw, Mrs. Raymond K. Dykema, Mrs. Frederick M. Alger, Mrs. Harold D. Baker, Mrs. Douglas Campbell, Mrs. Charles A. Dean, Jr., Mrs. Percival Dodge, Mrs. Allen F. Edwards, Mrs. C. Henry Fletcher, Mrs. Frederick C. Ford, Mrs. Lucian Moore and her sister Mrs. Gaylord W. Gillis.

Others were Mrs. Edward P. Hammond, Mrs. Fred T. Moran, Miss Sarah Hendrie, Mrs. W. Howie Muir, Mrs. W. Beresford Palmer, Mrs. Julius C. Peter, Mrs. John G. Rumney, Mrs. Howard F. Smith, Mrs. William P. Hamilton, Mrs. Neil McMillan, Miss Fredrika D. Allen, Mrs. Wood Williams, Mrs. Stephen T. Stackpole, Mrs. Joseph G. (Continued from Page One)

"I enjoyed a close contact with him while he was Secretary of Commerce," Michener said. "He was a sincere and capable business man who brought to his work in the Cabinet the background and intelligence required in such posts today."

"I had a very great respect for Chapin," Mapes said. "He was a capable, high-grade man whose early death was a distinct loss."

Mr. Chapin is survived by his wife, Inez Tiedeman Chapin, whom he married in 1914; three sons, Roy D., Jr., John C. and Daniel; three daughters, Joan K., Sarah Ann and Marian; a sister, Mrs. James O. Murfin, and a brother, Cornelius K. Chapin.

A Message to GARSKA

Why have a political machine in Grosse Pointe Park?

Will Mr. Garska explain why good Grosse Pointe Park money was used to buy such bonds for the sinking fund, as Melvindale, Clawson, Ecorse, Bloomfield and Erin Lake, Royal Oak, Southfield Township bonds, to the tune of $108,500.00?

This was done by the machine and no self-respecting representative government would make such a long series of rotten investments.

Why have a political machine that controls the municipal employees to the extent that they are forced, on election days, to work for the machine and deliver their quota of votes, and are picked accordingly? When they rebel against the machine they lose their positions, as happened after past elections.

This is not "last minute propoganda." An opportunity is offered the machine to attempt to answer this in the next issue of the Grosse Pointe Review.

I hereby challenge Mr. Garska, personally, to a public debate, on these questions, at any time before the election.

Candidate for President
