News Digest

Stanley King, of Fred's Market, is contemplating a matrimonial plunge about May or June, according to rumors.

In one of the sit-down strikes involving some 500 women, foreman was stripped of clothes and chased, and was his face red. This information was secured from an authentic source.

A good many of the strikes are not due to dissatisfaction of employees but rather the result of propaganda by a few disturbers.

It must be a terrible feeling to be forced to stay behind locked doors in one of these strikes, when not of your own choosing, yet many are doing that very thing.

It seems that Black Legion big shot are treated like royal personages, even to beer, as per newspaper photograph.

In New York, wholesalers are picketing the unions, asking for collective bargaining. What a mix-up!

A couple of young hunters chased a deer for hours around Belle Isle Sunday only to find that it had not escaped, but was permitted to run loose.

Baseball season is only seven weeks off, and winter is nearing the end, we hope.

Baby Derby in Canada was held legal. It looks as though heirs will lose out after all.

Me thinks it would be a good idea for Congress to give out medals for motorists who have gone over 10 years without a serious accident, and give the motorist some inducement to spare the slow-footed pedestrian.

Isn't it strange how bootleg whiskey can stray into distributing centers without any apparent owner. No wonder detectives and microscopes are necessary.

Following the recent escape from Jackson, the warden has asked that a wire fence charged with electricity surround the prison to prevent further breaks.

New Jersey Governor invites CIO chiefs to debate on labor's strike technique.

City of Grosse Pointe Fire Takes Three Lives

Last Thursday morning at 6 o'clock the residents in the vicinity of St. Clair and Maumee avenues were rudely awakened by the City of Grosse Pointe's fire department siren answering a fire call at St. Clair avenue at Jefferson in which the lives of a mother, Mrs. Constance Hayes, and her two children, Schofield and Constance, were lost.

Two other children were miraculously saved through the bravery of Nanette and Casimira Gzowski, who risked their lives to save the two youngest children of Mrs. Hayes from the flames.

The City of Grosse Pointe fire department, with the aid of the Grosse Pointe Park fire department, succeeded in getting the flames under control and kept them from spreading to neighboring buildings.

It was a remarkable display of fire fighting, and both departments are deserving of commendation for their determined effort to keep the fire confined as much as possible to the one home and eventually conquering the flames.

Your Government at Lansing

In the last week's issue of The Review a list of the Michigan representatives at Washington, including the Senior and Junior senators, was published. This, we believe, was very well received by our readers because of the importance of legislation pending and the vast amount of public interest aroused by it. We believe that our readers will want to know the names of our representatives at Lansing, together with that of the State Senator. Keep the following list for your further reference:

State Senator, First District (All of Grosse Pointe)
James A. Murphy, 317 North Coplin avenue, Detroit.
Representatives in State Legislature, First District
Edward J. Walsh, 4747 Ivanhoe Ave.

John E. Allard Seeks Office of Township Treasurer

John E. Allard, who is a candidate for the office of Township Treasurer, outlined his candidacy in the following statement:
"Township Treasurer is a most important office as all must concede. Approximately $1,000,000.00 is handled yearly and it behooves every one to see that only experienced, honest and faithful treasurers are elected but this, nevertheless, applies almost to all offices.

"Now at one time treasurers could be re-elected only once but the Legislature of 1933 revised that law allowing an additional two years, and again in 1935 this restriction was cancelled and now there is no limit to the holding of this office as long as the incumbent can be elected. Whether this action was wise or unwise is debatable, but certainly some security to the voters may be lost, unless changes are in order. Then, again, by the bringing in of new blood, as it were, more careful audits, different auditors, and a change of personnel might be of advantage and give others an equal chance to be of service to their community."

Have Curtains Cleaned Early for Easter

In view of the fact that Easter is only a month away it is advisable to have your curtains and draperies cleaned early at the Russell Curtain Cleaners to avoid possible disappointment in the rush as before Christmas.

To our knowledge there is only one curtain laundry in Detroit that handles the curtains of each home separately and without marking. This means quality, but also limited capacity. Their refusal to sacrifice quality for speed has been responsible for the remarkable success of the Russell Curtain Cleaners, 14727 Kercheval avenue.

A Recommendation

John E. Allard, a native of Grosse Pointe, I understand is seeking the nomination of Township Treasurer, on the Democratic ticket at the coming Primary, March 1st.

Kroger Service Commended

Dear Editor:

A few months ago I selected your peaceful community as the place to make my home, although I must confess one thing had me worried, one question entered my mind, a question only I could answer. Where could I find a grocery store in this community which I could depend upon? A store that would give me the same courteous service to which I had been accustomed? A place where my household dollar would go the farthest? A store that would respect and treat my children with courtesy regardless of their age? And most important of all a market where I could get choice quality both in meat and canned foods, as well as fresh vegetables?

These questions were finally answered by a process of elimination. Each grocery store in your community was put to a severe test. The delivery service of each was tried, the courtesy and the desire of the personnel of each store to help me select the best quality in merchandise, was taken into consideration. Inside of two weeks the test was complete, and my choice made.

I chose the Kroger store in your community, between Notre Dame and St. Clair as the food headquarters of my family. Such splendid service and courteous co-operation I have never experienced in any other food organization. To the personnel it seemed to be a pleasure to assist me in selecting my daily menu. Whenever I found it necessary to send the children and a correction had to be made, I was greeted with a cheerful smile and the correction made in a pleasing manner. Neatness in appearance, courteous service, and prompt delivery were the qualifications upon which my selection was based. If any of the housewives in your community are faced with the same question, I urge them to give my store a trial.

A SATISFIED KROGER CUSTOMER.

Editor's Note: There are five other Kroger Stores in the Grosse Pointe area which render prompt, efficient and courteous service.

Kroger Chief Aids in Flood Relief

MR. ALBERT H. MORRILL

Chain Store Organization Lauded for Help in Crisis

Food Shortage is Averted During Flood Emergency by Co-operation of Merchants

CINCINNATI, O.—As this city began settling back to normal after the greatest flood disaster in history, attention began to focus on the forces that alleviated suffering. One of the spotlights fell on Mr. Albert H. Morrill, president of the Kroger Grocery and Baking Company, who threw the entire facilities of his great food chain store organization into the battle against disaster.

Mr. Morrill was named Flood Food Administrator for the city by City Manager C. A. Dykstra, when it was foreseen that a serious situation was developing. All but a single wholesale grocery warehouse had been flooded, which cut off the supply to retail grocers—large and small alike.

Housewives, sensing a shortage of foodstuffs, began buying wildly. Shelves in many stores were almost bare. Acting quickly to avert a panic, Morrill assured everyone through newspapers and use of the radio that there would not be a shortage of food.

He asked them to buy in normal quantities. Realizing from Morrill's statement that they were adding to the peril by panic-buying, the housewives stopped their raids on retail stores immediately.

Then Mr. Morrill called a meeting on two hours' notice of representatives of all food interests in the city. All wholesale grocers attended, representatives of the Independent Retail Grocers' Association and the Independent Retail Meat Dealers' Association, packers, bakery, produce and milk men.

U. S. Daughters of 1812

Mrs. Charles H. Mooney, of West Philadelphia avenue, flag custodian of Gen. Alexander Macomb Chapter, United States Daughters of 1812, will be hostess in her home on Wednesday afternoon, March 3, at two o'clock, to chapter members and guests. Her sisters, Mrs. Lynn T. Miller, of Ithaca, Michigan, past State President of the Society, will act as co-hostess, and will also present the sixth paper of the series the chapter has been hearing on the War of 1812 in Michigan, this paper being entitled, "Perry's Victory; Activity on the Great Lakes." The president, Mrs. Lloyd De Witt Smith, will conduct the meeting.

Announcement will be made of program plans for the thirty-eighth annual state council, to convene Tuesday, March 30, in Hotel Durant, Flint, Mrs. Edward L. Murphy, chairman, and Mrs. Edward C. Smith, vice chairman, both of Flint, are in charge of local arrangements.

Cass Tech Alumni Dance Friday Night

Former Cass Tech students will have the opportunity to renew their friendship with old classmates and teachers when the Alumni Association holds its second annual homecoming at Cass Technical High School on Friday evening, February 26.

The entertainment will be dancing and games, including a travel-talk in the auditorium by Mr. Clarence Altenberg.

The committee in charge of the homecoming is composed of: George Rice, chairman; Vince Daly, Marion and Mildred Welch, Alice, Enid and Margaret Foege, Edward Smith, Walter Sudia, Edwin Ruff, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Fred Latta; Mr. A. E. Allen

They voted enthusiastically to accept a plan outlined by Mr. Morrill to establish a central warehouse in spacious Music Hall. This was done overnight, with a staff of Kroger buyers and merchandise men working on long shifts to keep food moving from distant points by trucks into the central emergency depot.

From this point, all retail food dealers in Cincinnati were able to obtain sufficient supplies, excepting meats, produce, bakery goods and milk, which were delivered to all stores through their regular channels.

Co-operation of all food interests in Cincinnati, large and small, was complete. Previous to taking over his official duties as Flood Food Administrator, Mr. Morrill organized the food distribution for the Red Cross. Almost overnight the demand for food for refugees became staggering. Experienced grocery men were needed. Mr. Morrill promptly supplied an entire 24-hour staff of men, who set up and manned a system of distribution to canteens and relief stations. He also donated a great quantity of foodstuffs to the Red Cross.

Learning of Mr. Morrill's outstanding work in Cincinnati, he was summoned to Louisville to help that stricken city solve its food problem. He chartered a plane and hurried to that metropolis, where he assisted in establishing a systematic distribution of food for the Red Cross in that city.

For its superior work during the greatest flood the Ohio Valley has ever known, the Kroger organization is receiving widespread praise.

is the faculty adviser. All former Cass Tech students, as well as alumni, are invited to attend this event.

Chapman to Lecture at Art Institute Sunday

Wendell Chapman, naturalist and author, and Burton Holmes, gentleman traveler, will give the next motion picture lectures on the World Adventure Series platform at the Detroit Institute of Arts. Chapman speaks on "Wild Animals of the Rockies" at 3:30 Sunday, February 28, and Holmes on "Beautiful Switzerland" at 8:30 Tuesday evening, March 2.

Chapman spent five years in the wilds of the Canadian and American Rockies, photographing rough-neck grizzlies, moose, buffalo, elk and rubber-legged mountain goat. He shows how beaver colonies with their carefully constructed dams established the first successful nation-wide flood control. They conserved rainfall, thereby creating fertile meadows and preventing soil erosion.

Burton Holmes will take his audience on a comprehensive motion picture tour of what he calls "the grandest little country in the world." He motored up and down the Alpine highways last summer, crossing the famous passes. He shows Lucerne, Zurich and other cities. He pictures Swiss life and customs, and exploits in the higher Alps.

GIRL SCOUTS

SCRIBE'S NOTICE
All scribes of the Girl Scout troops in the Grosse Pointe district will meet at the home of Mrs. Henry H. Hubbard, 49 Muskoka road next Thursday, March 4, at 4 p. m. It is most important that all scribes and assistant scribes attend.

TROOP 140

The girls in Troop 140 are very thrifty, for they are buying scout stamps. Some of the girls are saving for uniforms, and others for camp. The troop held a court of honor last Tuesday at which time Mary Jean MacKenzie, Mary Swift, Lucille Barnes, and Katharine Rebout received gold stars for having perfect attendance; Lucille Barnes and Marion Morris received patrol leader's badges; and Ruth Ogden and Ann Freuhoff were given assistant patrol leader's badges.

At the last meeting Miss Harris gave the nature test to a few members of the troop.

During this past week, preparations have been made for a day's hike to the Girl Scout camp at Metamora. This will take place as soon as the weather permits. M. M.

TROOP 141

The members of Troop 141 will meet at the Convent of the Sacred Heart on Thursday, February 25, at 3:30 o'clock for their regular weekly meeting.

At the previous meeting they became fascinated with the rock and mineral collection which their troop leader, Miss Betty Flucker, brought with her and it was decided that the girls should study rocks and minerals instead of insects.

At the meeting on Thursday they will continue this rock study and probably many will be ready to pass their test.

They have received permission to go and see the rock collection in the junior study hall at the next meeting. B. C.

TROOP 156

A new treasurer and scribe have been appointed in Troop 156. They are Jean Griffin and Patricia McGowan, respectively.

A tea to celebrate the troop's second birthday will be given on Thursday, February 25. The court of honor has charge of the tea. Each patrol is responsible for part of the refreshments. The color scheme is to be red and white.

The guests of honor will be the mothers. During the program the troop committee will be invested, which consists of Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Milz and Mrs. Griffin.

The scout troop wishes Pat Daly a speedy recovery from scarlet fever. P. McG.

GENERAL

Two new assistant leaders have been added recently to the staff for Troop 140: Miss Vera Crichton, who has been a Girl Scout, and is well prepared for this work, and Mrs. Charles O. Chestnut, who is a regular attendant at the training school.

The first meeting of the troop committee for Troop 140 was held at the home of Mrs. Albert Dickson on Washington road last Thursday morning. Mrs. John MacKenzie was elected chairman.

Troop 129 will spend the next few weeks studying cooking and sewing in order to enable the members to become capable of being second class scouts. The troop will be divided in half and Mrs. S. W. Wallace, troop leader, will conduct the cooking classes, and Mrs. Robert Waldron will teach sewing. The girls plans to make triangles for use in first aid, and also patrol emblems. K. P. H.

John E. King, president of a wholesale tea and coffee company bearing his name, ended his life Monday, police said, by shooting himself in the mouth with a .38-caliber revolver.

Mr. King's body was found by his wife, Mrs. Ida King, in the bathroom of his home, 512 Washington road, Grosse Pointe, at 9:45 a. m. He was dressed in pajamas, Mrs. King told Police Chief Joseph Brisson.

Mrs. King told Chief Brisson and Stanley Myrus, deputy coroner, that her husband had been suffering a stomach ailment for some time. She said that she did not hear the shot, her room being separated by Mr. King's room and another bath, from the place where the shot was fired.

Mr. King was widely known in business and social circles. He was a member of the Country Club of Detroit, the Detroit Athletic Club, and the Detroit Boat Club.

Besides his wife, Mr. King is survived by two sons, John E. Jr., of Detroit, and Lewis W., of Lake Forest, Ill., and a daughter, Mary Roby King, of Grosse Pointe.

Fire Victims Laid to Rest in New York

The bodies of Mrs. Constance Hayes and her two children, all burned to death in a fire which wrecked their Grosse Pointe home last Thursday morning, were taken Sunday night to New York City for burial.

They were laid to rest in Gates of Heaven Cemetery beside the body of J. Moylan Hayes, investment broker who died a year ago.

Funeral services for Mrs. Hayes and her two children, Schofield, 9, and Constance, 8, were held Saturday morning in St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, Grosse Pointe. The church was filled with socialite friends, some of whom were Mrs. Hayes' guests in her home the night before the tragedy.

The Rev. Fr. John F. Dowdle, pastor, sang the solemn high requiem mass, and preached a simple funeral sermon. He extolled the courage of Nanette and Casimira C. Gowski, neighbors, whose quick action saved the lives of Mrs. Hayes' other daughters, Alicia, 5, and Mary, 3.

The younger Hayes children were not at the funeral services. Only immediate relatives able to attend were Mrs. Hayes' sister, Mrs. Eugene Richards, and her brother, Arthur Burns, both of New York City, and a brother-in-law, Joseph Hayes, of Buffalo. Mrs. Hayes' aged mother, Mrs. Thomas Burns, is ill in her New York home.

The mother's casket stood at the head of the center aisle, during the service, with the caskets bearing the bodies of her daughters on each side.

Mrs. Hayes' silvered casket was covered with calla lilies and orchids. Her daughters' ivory caskets were covered with blankets of sweet peas, white carnations and red rose buds.

Lecture on Christian Science by Richard J. Davis, C. S.

Under the auspices of Sixth Church of Christ, Scientist, of Detroit, Richard J. Davis, C. S. of Los Angeles, California, lectured to a large audience in Cass Technical High School, Grand River and Second, Sunday, February 21st, at 3 p. m. Mr. Davis' subject was "Christian Science: Its Healing Message to a World in Need." Mr. Davis spoke substantially as follows:

It is probable that every man or woman in this audience, if questioned, would admit that the last few years have brought great changes in his way of thinking, his manner of living, and his attitude on many subjects. He could tell you of deep and difficult experiences, of adjustments, and situations which he never dreamed would be his. In practically all civilized countries, people have been called upon to face unusual problems and are still confronted with great difficulties.

To the thoughtful observer what appears at first glance as an economic, industrial, and social revolution is basically not that at all. Consciously or unconsciously, the fact is being driven home to all of us that we are taking part in and witnessing the greatest moral and spiritual revolution of all times. This does not mean that humanity is abandoning or forsaking morals, or a moral position, although it is judged merely by surface evidence, this might appear to be the case. As a matter of fact, what is really taking place is a quickened sense of moral and social responsibility. This great change means the forsaking of traditions of thought and conduct which are bad. It means the discarding of dishonest and ignoble ideals of business and government. It means the abandonment of false class and social distinctions. It means, in short, the abolition of selfishness in human thinking. The immediate manifestation may appear to be a great mental disturbance, but the ultimate result is far beyond our present ability to foresee and comprehend.

Religion and Morals

Morals are defined in the dictionary as that which pertains to right or wrong conduct and the ability to distinguish right from wrong. Morals and moral conduct have in the minds of most people usually been associated with religion, although an effort is being made today to divorce or separate the two. It is clear that this would be impossible, for standards of right and wrong conduct are and should be the very foundation of true religion. It is not dogma and creed which are the basis of religious faith, but an active moral sense, an ability to know what is right and good and a willingness to live by it. True religion stands upon the upright moral and ethical conduct of its followers and upon its spiritual benefits to them, and its efficacy should be so judged.

Standards of right and wrong, of moral and ethical conduct, are not confined, of course, wholly within the borders of religion or church organization. Indeed, the ability to perceive and distinguish between right and wrong, good and evil, can be the very foundation of a happily ordered human society. Therefore, in these days of mental upheaval, Christian Science declares that we should not be disturbed nor alarmed, but, on the contrary, grateful that a spiritual awakening is taking place in human consciousness, that there is a quickened perception of right and a desire to do it and what is most important—the ability to see evil for what it is, and to get rid of it.

The Christian Science Textbook

In their search for spiritual light, thousands of people today have found the consciousness of good, the kingdom of heaven, through their study of the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, undoubtedly, next to the Bible, the most widely circulated and discussed book in the world. Nearly all these individuals were led to take up the study of Christian Science in times of dire physical, financial, or moral need. The very fact that Science and Health has provoked such widespread discussion and argument is evidence that there is something in the book that is stirring human thought. Christian Scientists do not feel that it is necessary to defend their textbook. It stands on its own fruits and grateful testimony of intelligent men and women of the world, who have been lifted out of disease, sin, and countless other difficulties, through the power and operation of spiritual law, as revealed in that book.

The Discoverer and Discovery of Christian Science

Human nature, curiously enough, often leads people to base their estimate of Christian Science and its Discoverer on what they have gleaned from sermons or books which are unfriendly and incorrect in statement. And yet, if you wished to really know about the teachings of the Methodist or Baptist church, would you not attend the services of those churches and accept an honest statement from those competent to give it? Christian Science asks no fairer treatment than this.

Since Mrs. Eddy discovered Christian Science there has been an increasing multitude of people, in all parts of the earth, who gratefully acknowledge that they owe their health, happiness, supply, and regenerated lives to the consecration and devotion of that great woman. Today the world is beginning to accord to her the place she deserves as the greatest spiritual leader of the age. And many people not Christian Scientists recognize the influence and evidence of her spiritual teaching on human consciousness. A tree is known by its fruit, and the fruitage of Mrs. Eddy's life is already seen in what is comparatively a short time, in the great humanitarian movement of which she is the sole Founder and Leader. Her teachings lead this movement today, and will continue to lead it, through the centuries, because her character, ideals, and her teaching are expressed in her writings, and these writings every devoted Christian Scientist turns for the inspiration and guidance which will carry him forward toward greater spiritual achievement.

In 1866, Mary Baker Eddy proclaimed to an almost wholly unbelieving world that there was a Science or demonstrable understanding of Mind, a Science of thinking. She asserted that there was a law of divine Spirit back of this Science. She declared also that if men would study that law and understand it, they would find that it could be successfully applied throughout the entire range of human experience, and she based these statements on her own success in healing many cases of disease and other difficulties. Through reason, logic, and spiritual revelation she arrived at the conclusion that Mind, self-existent and eternal, was the primary cause of all true being or existence. She perceived also that if the cause or Principle of all being was Mind, so, logically, the effect of Mind would be mental. In other words, infinite Mind or divine cause would express or reveal itself only in a universe of ideas, a thought universe. Hence, she enunciated that tremendous statement of pure metaphysics (Science and Health, p. 468), "All is infinite Mind and its infinite manifestation, for God is All-in-all." Realizing that a basic spiritual cause could produce or reveal only a spiritual effect or creation, she saw that the whole world or universe of sense or matter, with all its diseases, sin, and death, was not the reality of existence, but a false illusion of consciousness, which the light of Truth would dissipate.

Mrs. Eddy took no halfway position. She perceived clearly the aliveness of Spirit, Mind, and the consequent nothingness or unreality of evil or matter, and there she stood. Letting Christian Science stand today, challenging the honest investigation of any thoughtful person.

The Real Man

Christian Science, starting on the premise that all is Mind and its manifestation, declares that man exists spiritually, eternally as idea in the infinite Mind. It clears up the mystery and confusion surrounding the origin of man, and satisfactorily explains the two conflicting accounts of creation in the Bible. Spiritually interpreted, and at the same time coinciding with reason, it states that the only real creation must be the spiritual, the one described in the first chapter of Genesis, where man is declared to be the exact and perfect image of God. God being Spirit, man is spiritual, the likeness of infinite Spirit. God being Mind, man is the image or reflection of infinite Mind. God being Life, man is forever conscious of Life. God being Truth, man is the expression or embodiment of all true being.

We all of us admit that we can think. We know that we are in possession of that wonderful and divine faculty, the power to think. This should be the indication to us of man's divinely mental origin and identity as idea. Divine consciousness is primal. Without consciousness and the power to think we have no proof whatever of existence.

Since man, then, is fundamentally mental, does it not seem strange that scholars and material scientists should have devoted so much time and energy in the endeavor to trace the origin of man and life always in matter? Why do they not look and search for a spiritual and mental cause?

One needs only to read a few books and articles by physicists and other thinkers of the day to see the confusing wanderings of these worthy men in a matter maze. They never seem to find the way out. Like a will-o'-the-wisp, it is always just a little ahead of them, and it always will be as long as they continue to base their search on a matter-premise.

One man, a great physicist, conceives of the universe as a great machine. But he thinks of it as a material machine, which will eventually be destroyed. What is there to inspire one in that? If he revealed the wonders of infinite Mind and its lawful government of the universe, then the world would be setting forth a concept that would uplift and encourage the race, and this is exactly what Christian Science offers to a needy world.

Material scientists will tell you that all there is to man is electrical energy, that you and I and the rest of the world are nothing but a lot of electric sparks. Do you like that? Do you like to think of yourself as nothing more than a group of electrons? Where does the nobility of man, his character and accomplishment, show forth in such a concept of the universe? Do you not see how absurd and futile such reasoning is? And it is futile because God, or Mind, is wholly ignored as the basic factor in existence. How ridiculous to reason that the genius of Shakespeare, the music of Beethoven, or the art of Raphael derived their source or sprang from electrical energy! Truly, the wisdom of this world is found to be foolishness with God. There is some encouragement, however, in the fact that recently a few able men, physicists and electrical inventors, have, in some measure, reasoned themselves out of false theories and begun to recognize that, beyond and above all their material delving and investigation, one fact remains—untouched and undisturbed—namely, that Mind is that Mind exists as the primary and, to them, unexplained basic cause of creation.

There has always seemed to be resistance to our teaching that matter is unreal. Well, my friends, an eminent scholar, not a Christian Scientist, describes matter as "holes in the ether." If this be true, the man who insists so positively that he has and wants a matter body and a material existence is virtually contending for a body made up of "holes in the ether." Now, how substantial is that?

Personally, I prefer to think of man as Mrs. Eddy so wonderfully describes him in Science and Health (p. 258) as "the infinite idea forever developing itself, broadening and rising higher and higher from a boundless basis." Such a concept is certainly more inspiring, yes, and more actually tangible than man made up of holes in the ether, or of electrons.

Throughout the ages mankind has persistently ignored the spiritual and mental factors in man's true being. Much attention has been directed to a matter body, keeping it well, making it comfortable, feeding and dressing it, and especially, giving it a good time. Therefore, when Christian Science explains man's true entity as mental—that is, as idea in Mind—it may seem at first hard to dissociate ourselves from matter. For so long we have thought of man as material and in a body, a soul in a body, a mind in matter or in a brain, and yet the only correct way to think of man is as idea, as mental, not material, as God's spiritual idea. Do not be afraid to assert and claim your spiritual identity. Man is spiritual, not material. In line with this Mrs. Eddy has written in her textbook (p. 369), "In proportion as matter loses to human sense all entity as man, in that proportion does man become its master."

The fact that you can think is deduced from the fact that you think, because the divine Mind is enabling you to think. When this truth is once grasped, it opens up the infinite resources of Mind that lie at hand for man as God's image or reflection. If man is, as Christian Science declares, "the compound idea of God, including all right ideas" (Science and Health, p. 475), there is no limit or restriction placed upon his reflection of divine intelligence. His unity with Mind endows him with the ability to reflect its originality and perpetual spontaneity. God's man is not a slave to false mental manipulation, but possesses divine power to think and act rightly. The understanding of Christian Science gives us inherent power to think things through, and determines the origin, source, and acceptance of every thought. In so doing we perceive how, through divine Mind, we can gain the only true victory over sin, disease, and death, and how, through the action and operation of spiritual thinking, what appears as healing takes place.

We all know that sin has to be thought before it can express itself in sinful action. So, too, disease, fear, and every other undesirable condition is traceable to a wrong mental state entertained. This wrong mental state Christian Science terms false belief. The divine Mind, therefore, expressed as right thinking always operates to dispel darkness or the error of false belief. This is what is taking place today. The operation and potency of Mind is making itself felt in every activity of human belief. Before the pure light of divine intelligence, the darkness of error is fleeing away.

True Basis of Healing

Sixty years ago Mrs. Eddy stood alone, proclaiming that divine Mind was primary cause and the sole factor in spiritual healing, the basis on which Christ Jesus healed the sick and raised the dead. Today the best physicians are awakening to the mental element in sickness, although by putting everything on a material basis they are by no means able to cope with it, since disease can only be permanently healed by spiritually removing the mental cause.

Some of the reputable doctors in the world today are studying constantly the part that fear and destructive emotions play in producing disease, and several have openly and honestly commended Christian Science for its teaching on this subject. Not long ago Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland, speaking before the American College of Surgeons, said: "The emotions, worry, fear, hate, and jealousy, affect every cell in the body; some organs are stimulated, all are disturbed, waste products are increased, foundations of certain characteristic diseases are laid."

Now, Paul, centuries ago in his Epistle to the Romans, recognized the effect of evil thought on the body, and, what is more important, gave the remedy when he said, "Be ye carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace." In other words, he indicated that material-mindedness is the foundation of all sickness, while spiritual-mindedness is the cure, and not only the cure but an ever-operative preventive. For years Christian Science has declared that every diseased condition is the result of incorrect thinking, that is, thoughts of fear, doubt, anxiety, irritation, and so on, and that what appears as a specific disease is not really a material state but the externalization of wrong thinking, perhaps unconsciously cherished or held to by the individual. How clear it is, then, that the cause of disease being mental, its cure also must and can be found only in the mental or spiritual realm. Christian Science shows us therefore that we are not dealing with a material physical manifestation at all, but wholly with certain mental states calling themselves material. As has been said, some clear-sighted doctors have begun to see the destructive nature of evil thought or emotions on the body, but they do not understand how to bring about a cure, because evil thoughts seems as real to them as good ones. In view of the fact that disease and every inharmonious condition appear because human beings are cherishing or holding on to some incorrect thought or emotion, how imperative it becomes for everyone of us to turn the searchlight into our mental homes!

The Elimination of Destructive Emotions

Let us therefore consider for a moment some of these destructive emotions and their effects, and let us see how they may be eliminated by Christian Science. Fear, of course, is the most basic erroneous mental state common to men. And why are men afraid? Primarily because, instead of understanding and believing in the oneness and aliveness of God or good, they are believing in the existence of an evil power. They believe that evil exists as an entity, and of course suffer the result of their accepted delusion. If fear expresses itself in rigidity or tension in the human body, if it can quicken or impede the circulation, or produce other physical effects, think, my friends, what can happen to your body this instant as the consciousness of Love's aliveness and omnipresence replaces the delusive state of apprehension, anxiety, worry, or terror. There is but one way to get rid of fear, and that is through the perception and realization that God is, as Christian Science teaches, All-in-all.

Wrong thoughts are, in a certain sense, secretive, or perhaps it may be said that they secrete themselves, so that they remain hidden and almost unrecognized. If, therefore, any one of us is secreting hate, envy, or a deep resentment or irritation, it should not be surprising if these poisonous thoughts express themselves in some forms of bodily secretions. And we cannot afford to delay for one moment the removal from our mental home of such harmful and destructive guests, for there is not a person on earth that can escape the good or evil result of his own thought.

Consider the quality of dishonesty, and dishonesty is clearly the offspring of fear. How it tries to conceal itself so that one may not recognize its presence! The tendency to be slightly evasive, indirect, or deceptive, what are these thoughts by repressive, paralyzing emotions that should never be permitted mental housework, that they may express themselves in some repressed or contracted manifestation on our human bodies. The dishonest businessman may for a time seem to be prospering, but he cannot escape the result of his devious and deceptive thinking. The only thing that will save him is, first of all, the recognition of those unwholesome qualities, and secondly, their replacement with thoughts of frankness, fairness, and love.

Some people have a tendency, and they often call it natural, to brood. There is nothing natural about it, for God never ordained that His child should be under an evil law of mental repression. Man, being the consciousness of infinite good, is spontaneously joyous and free. He is under no compulsion to repress emotions. He cannot harbor dark, morbid, or unhappy thoughts, for such thoughts are no part of his true selfhood, and he possesses divinely the power to eliminate and expel every tendency to hold on to resentful or sensitive attitudes. If one is brooding, is he not repressing and holding within himself destructive emotions which ought to be immediately removed? Christian Science enables us first to see the undesirability of such a habit, and then gives us the spiritual light and courage to talk over some point that needs discussion and clarification with another, or, better still, to see how trivial and unimportant mortal thinking is, and, on that basis, to dismiss it with finality.

In altering one's mental habits, it is not always necessary that others be informed of that which has been our failing, but there is certainly the demand that we face the thoughts which have made a claim upon us, and courageously see their false origin, and eliminate them. While we accord to the medical profession the very highest respect, it is clear that medicine, surgery, or surgery will not remove hatred, envy, and anger, since these are mental qualities and must be mentally eliminated; and, most important of all, Christian Science makes it clear that they must be replaced with love, kindness, and generosity.

An Answer to Atheism

Have you ever noticed that one of the characteristics of the so-called atheist or agnostic is a kind of fatalism? The man without God almost inevitably looks on the world with a depressing hopelessness, a kind of what's-the-use attitude. Christian Science reveals, as it does, the indissoluble and infrangible relationship to God, gives him an anchor for his faith and a reason for the hope within him. The Godlike man, or man of God's creating, is always hopeful, joyous, and buoyant. The godless man, on the other hand, is hopeless, discouraged, and afraid. He carries with him an atmosphere of pessimism. There are many people in that state of mind today, but the very hopelessness of materialism is carrying them toward the light, if they but knew it.

The agnostic or atheistic state of mind not only produces pessimism and discouragement but it also begets fatalism, a belief that all things are decided for us in advance and predetermined. What is the use, they say, of trying to do anything of ourselves? Fatalism, with its unhappy outlook on existence, has recently reappeared under the name of determinism. We find natural scientists and psychologists using this term, to describe a theory that everything, our human lives, our health, all material existence in fact, is determined by causes over which we have no control or volition. Christian Science is directly opposed to such thinking and declares that the only determining law is the divine Principle of the universe. It asserts that all causation being spiritual, every effect, emanating from the infinite and self-existent cause, is divinely and spiritually determined. It asserts the forever rightness of all things—causation being right and perfect, so must be the effect. Christian Science enables us to face this false materialistic philosophy with the understanding that the loving law of God has predetermined for us every right and good thing, success, capability, happiness, health, and peace. All of this and more is our eternal heritage. In her book "No and Yes" (p. 46) Mrs. Eddy has written, "Man has a noble destiny; and the full-orbed significance of this destiny has dawned on the sick-bound and sin-enslaved."

It is possible that someone may be thinking: This lecturer says that the determining, governing Principle of all things is good, and therefore capable of producing only a beneficent result. If that is the case, why am I in such difficulties? Indeed, why is the whole world today in such turmoil and distress?

This is a perfectly logical question, but in reply let me ask, To what extent have most of us given any real thought or attention to basic spiritual thinking? What effort has the average human being made to grasp or understand the spiritual cause of all things and apply the law thereof? Very little. How can we be expected, then, that spiritual law and its operation will be apparent to us while we spend our entire time in the ignorance and darkness of materiality? Who will deny that the need of today is a readiness, a willingness, and, most of all, a sincere desire for Spirit? Sincere desire for good is the key that will unlock the door and reveal the laws and universe of God's creation. Mrs. Eddy has written in her textbook (p. 492), "For right reasoning there should be but one fact before the thought, namely, spiritual existence," and again in the same book

(p. 170) she states, "Spiritual causation is the one question to be considered, for more than all others spiritual causation relates to human progress." To lift ourselves and the entire world out of its troubles, it would take us far in the right direction if each one of us would daily declare: From now on, there is just one thing important to me—a right understanding of God and the spiritual cause of all existence. I am not going to let one doubt, one fear, one skeptical suggestion deter me or hold me back in my search for God.

The man without God, without a real understanding of what God is, and of man's eternal relationship to his creator, is like a forlorn ship sailing an uncharted sea—a ship without a compass, a guide, or a destination. In order to be rightly directed, the sailor must box his compass, and chart his movements by the sun. Without it, he is never certain of his direction. So today, without an active moral sense, without some slight perception of fundamental Truth and faith in spiritual law, men and nations find themselves adrift, engulfed in a dark and hopeless sea of discouragement and despair.

Christ Jesus

Instead of trying to substantiate the facts in the life of Jesus of Nazareth, we find critics today endeavoring to explain them away. They have tried to prove, quite unsuccessfully, that he never lived, and they have particularly tried to disprove his so-called miracles. The effort is understandable, since the whole life of Christ Jesus, all that he said and accomplished, is at variance with ordinary materialistic reasoning, and can only be explained spiritually and metaphysically. People thinking solely in terms of matter and acknowledging only a material sense of existence would inevitably be perplexed, confused, and even alarmed at the human evidence of spiritual law, something which material reasoning could not account. Christian Science reveals that Jesus possessed exact and correct understanding of God and man. Exact knowledge is of course scientific knowledge—knowledge that has back of it divine power and law. This exact knowledge was also true knowledge or complete understanding of the truth. It was what he knew, the truth or divine understanding, that made him the Saviour or Christ, and he declared that knowledge of that same Truth would give every man freedom. Christian Science declares that in a knowledge of the Christ, the race has righted at hand that which will free us morally, physically, economically, and financially, and bring the kingdom or consciousness of heaven within reach of every man.

Money

Paul, in his letters to Timothy, touched on what is probably the most disturbing belief in modern civilization, when he wrote, "The love of money is the root of all evil; which while some coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows." What a multitude of people could rise and tell us today of experiences where the difficulties arising from the love of money, its presence, or its absence, have pierced them through with many sorrows! But it is to be noted that it is not money in itself but the love of it and the materiality attached to it that bring our trouble. When properly understood, Christian Science greatly alters our ideas about money, its value, its purpose, and its use. In fact, the more we know of true spiritual substance the less emphasis we place on the false concept of it. The continuing crises over money in the last few years should teach humanity that there is something basically wrong in the world's attitude about it, and that something must occur that will lift thought above dollars, pounds, or francs, into an appreciation of the true value of life.

It is the longing and desire for an easy and a pleasant time, which mortals believe money can bring them, that causes many of the heartaches and the tragedies of life, most of them not off the surface. In the background of many families there will be found the shadow of unhappiness which the possession of too much money or the lack of it brings, as well as the quarrels, the disputes, and inharmonious arising from a false sense of what constitutes true substance.

I was once told by a banker who had much to do with the handling of wills and trusts that back of that in every bank were hundreds of cases of discords, feuds, and hatreds between families, relatives, and former friends, and he, knowing the effect of wrong thinking on people's lives and their bodies, commented on the sad physical results and disease which spring from these inharmonies—all emanating from the love of money.

One of the very first things that the study of Christian Science does, is to stimulate a hunger and thirst after spirituality. It makes men industrious in the search for the ideas of good, and of course when an individual finds himself happily industrious he also discovers that indolence or ease in matter is not what he wants, but rather that activity which means the unfolding or accomplishment of righteousness. Christian Science teaches us to value money, not for the ease or luxuries that it might bring, but rather for the good that may be accomplished by putting it into circulation. Properly translated, it can truly become the currency of Love.

The mesmerism of material accumulation in worldly riches and the false gratification in their possession fade away when we perceive that the only things that bring abiding peace and satisfaction are the substantial ideas of Spirit. Matter in all its manifestations perishes and slips away from us, but God's ideas are permanent. They abide with us forever. Indeed, they constitute our true being.

There is nothing in the teaching of Christian Science that makes a virtue of poverty. It is just as incorrect to be materially poor as to be materially rich. Both states of mind—and they are states of mind—are wrong, and both must be changed. An intense belief in the possession of large quantities of them. It cannot be too strongly emphasized that so-called rich people are not necessarily material and worldly because they have financial means. On the other hand, it is evident that a so-called poor person may be extremely worldly if he is holding in thought an ungratified desire for material possessions, a longing for a life of ease in matter and the envy and jealousy that accompanies such a mental state.

True Values

In the light of Christian Science, the world's values as to what constitutes happiness, success, and prosperity are incorrect. We are beginning to see that a million right thoughts in consciousness are a far more substantial, tangible, and happying force than a million dollars in a bank. No stock market crash nor bank failure can take away this fortune from a man nor reduce his perpetual income of good. We see that the most valuable bonds are the bonds of peace and perfectness, and that the real bank is the treasury of divine consciousness. There the spiritual resources of Mind constitute a permanent reserve that will never be exhausted.

There are not many of us but have experienced loss of money or property in some form or other and possibly it has seemed like a hard and bitter experience. But as Mrs. Eddy so beautifully reminds us in Science and Health (p. 574), "The very circumstance, which your suffering sense deems wrathful and afflictive, Love can make an angel entertained unaware." This angel, or divine blessing, is expressing itself today in an increased appreciation of real spiritual values and in a change of ideals. We, as individuals, cannot and should not want to escape this purifying process which is leading us to see mankind's great need. Speaking to his disciples, Jesus said, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" So, are we not gaining a great blessing when we perceive that personal losses have been exchanged for spiritual gains? We are learning the futility of leaning on bank accounts, incomes and salaries, and learning rather to lean on the sustaining love of good which never fails.

Spiritual understanding shows us how we may live from the standpoint of infinity, how to think from the standpoint of infinity. Lifting thought to that spiritual altitude, there such a thing as panic or fear in the infinite universe of good? Infinite Love is certainly not going into bankruptcy, nor is infinite Spirit having a depression or in economic turmoil. If we lift our thinking to the hills of spiritual revelation from whence truly cometh our help, what do we see and recognize? Infinity declaring and uttering its divine glory, in harmony and order, expressing itself in affluence and abundance! How could there be lack in infinity—the infinity of divine substance which never fails nor falls short.

A Right Thinker's Responsibility

Spiritual understanding makes those who have it cities set on hills; and with it comes a responsibility to think from that elevated and illumined standpoint that will operate as light for the whole world. One should ask himself: Am I thinking from that grander outlook of infinity? Is my thought of such a character, so big and so expansive as to include and so benefit the whole race? Is my thinking, taking cognizance of the important and far-reaching changes taking place, and helping to adjust the confusion? Or is it revolving around just a human sense of my body, or perhaps my home, my family, or the narrow confines of my own community? These are things to be thought on. An individual is only as big and as great as his thinking. And all that constitutes true selfhood is thought. The real man is the embodiment of all right ideas. If he includes the universe in his thought, what kind of universe is it? Surely only a right universe, a universe operating harmoniously and according to the mandate of divine Mind; a universe that has never heard of conflict, discord, or turmoil; a universe in which there could not be a single element of strife, competition, or struggle; a universe that is declaring and evidencing the order and dominion of God's law.

Today, through Christian Science, we have that demonstrable knowledge which, if used, can save, redeem, and steady a world in chaos and great fear. The realization of Love's omniscience and omnipresence enables us to think with such steadiness and poise, to so clearly our consciousness of fear and alarm, to lift our thought so beyond the disturbed world-picture, as to forestall and offset every threat of error or evil thinking.

These are very much the days of prophets, but it is to be observed that not many are prophets of good. All through the Bible runs the injunction to beware of false prophets, of those who prophesy lies, who foretell evil instead of good. It is clear that from the standpoint of an infinitely good creator, there can be but one thing to prophesy, and this is the forever unfolding purpose of divine Mind and its inevitably good intention for all its ideas. Astrological prognostications and horoscopes can never be accepted by Christian Science, because they have no basis in Truth. The universe of Mind and its ideas is rotating forever according to the mandate of Mind, is forever governed by the beneficent law of Mind, and therefore does not come within the realm of astrological belief, and is untouched and unaffected by any superstitious thought.

As we survey the world today, the view we get is so complex, so confused, and so changeable, that the tendency might be, if we look at things as they seem to be, to judge by appearances and not righteous judgment, to look for cause where cause does not exist, and sometimes to ignore completely and fail to observe some wonderful and fine thing, that is taking place in the midst of what seems to be turmoil. Metaphysics, rising above the testimony of the senses, knows what is really taking place. Right where disorder, despotism, and autocracy appear to be, the scientific thinker is establishing the consciousness of peace and freedom. A right idea is always the law, the presence of omnipotence and Truth to the whole of false belief, just as, metaphorically speaking, the small smooth stone of David was the law of destruction to Goliath, the huge mass of matter or evil. Thinking rightly, Christian Scientists are able to see good, see progress, see right government, where disturbed thought sees only disaster and calamity. The Bible says, "Be not dismayed at the signs of heaven; for the heathen are dismayed at them."

The price of freedom in any country, however, is eternal alertness and the part of its individual citizens. Right thinking will never permit anyone to believe that any form of dictatorship, benevolent or otherwise, is right, or nearer right, than a democracy that springs from the ability of man to speak and act for himself. Every man should and must learn to think for himself, even if he has not yet done so, and the only true government must be self-government. Human beings, individually and collectively, who are not thinking for themselves, wish to be told what to do. History shows that the tendency to follow blindly human leadership instead of Principle almost invariably leads people astray. Mrs. Eddy in her great wisdom taught the members of her church to follow her only so far as she followed Christ. In other words, she humbly wanted the spirit of Christ to lead us, and she constantly turned the thought of Christian Scientists away from person to Principle.

Healing of the Nations

The most outstanding expression of government today is the general swing of thought to intense nationalism. It cannot, however, be the intention of divine Love, the Father of all being, to produce separation or to forestall unity of thought and action among the peoples of earth at a time when such action is so essential. There is no spiritual or scientific basis for the division of God's children into hundreds of races, nations, and languages, and in the United States, made up as it is of representatives of all countries, we are demonstrating what may be demonstrated everywhere: that the people of many nations and tongues can dwell together in peace and unity as one great human family or nation. Because we have one God, have we not all one common parentage? As Paul declared to the Athenians, "God that made the world and all things therein, . . . hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth." While respecting all that is good and fine in every nation, it must be seen that nationalism as we see it today is a glorification of a false and material origin of man, a glorification, and even a worship, of racial, national, and class distinctions. Nationalism is a kind of pride, just as it appears sometimes in individuals, who exalt themselves in pride of family, and invariably are looking at others with contempt and scorn.

Like individuals, all nations must become aware of their faults and shortcomings. Only in this way can we grow and develop that spiritual and moral strength essential to national progress. All countries have had unpleasant experiences in relations with others, but this does not mean that they should isolate themselves and withdraw right and proper co-operation with other nations. Understanding is all that is necessary to a right sense of unity, and lack of understanding is all that can prevent it.

No two people would hate or dislike each other if somewhere in thought there was not an element of fear. Fear is the archenemy back of all repulsions and misunderstandings. It is fear that makes nations compete, contend, strive, hate, and envy one another, always fear. But it may well be asked: Has Mind in its infinite wisdom and love provided for a cruel and frightful contest and struggle among its ideas? Does infinity know anything about national divisions, racial discriminations, or class distinctions? Does the harmony of infinite being know any of these things? To all of these, Truth declares: "I never knew you; depart from me, ye [false beliefs] that work iniquity."

We cannot establish a better type of government in America or elsewhere, if its basis be material. Real government exists and is to be found only in an understanding of the All-God. Mrs. Eddy has written in her textbook (Science and Health, p. 423): "Consciousness constructs a better body when faith in matter has been conquered." It may also be said that consciousness constructs a better government when faith in matter has been conquered; constructs a better industrial, economic, and financial plan; all of this, when faith in matter has been conquered. The basis of healing is not an anxious contemplation of a struggling fearful world, but a looking away from matter, matter body, matter government, matter possessions. It is the establishment of that divine consciousness, the kingdom of heaven. In that kingdom or consciousness of God, we find perfect and peaceful government, freedom, and joyfulness of action—all right relationships and co-operation of God's ideas, infinite abundance, contentment, and self-completeness.

In Lieu of Meat

(By Alene Theisner, Director of Nutrition, Detroit Dairy and Food Council)

It's like having your right arm tied up in a sling, isn't it, this having to plan meals without meat two or three times a week?

Unlike the Middle Age eaters for whom the Lenten regulations were originally formulated, we seldom eat meat more than once a day anyway. We are fairly well used to planning meatless lunches, therefore, but the meatless dinner is still a challenge.

Main dishes on the abstinence schedule must, of course, be equal to meat in nourishment and satisfaction to the appetite, and should be liberally reinforced with eggs and cheese. Milk will be used in these dishes wherever possible, and thus the family will be receiving this vital fluid in the full quantity needed for bodily health (one pint per adult, one quart per child), an amount which ordinarily they might not consume as a beverage. Cream sauce and white sauce are favorite binders for many of the savory casseroles of eggs, cheese, seafood and vegetables, and they are used for combining Lenten croquettes for deep-fat frying.

One of the handsomest pinch-hitters for meat is the vegetable plate of modern steam-cookery methods, color and texture-conscious vegetables served creamed, glazed, buttered and parsleyed, topped off in tempting manner with a perfectly poached egg swimming in golden butter on a nest of bright, well-cooked spinach.

Cheese is a magic ingredient adding irresistible flavor to a number of the low-cost energy foods which lack flavor, such as rice, potatoes, macaroni, spaghetti and noodles. The full possibilities of macaroni and spaghetti in combination with other foods are yet to be explored, but we know there are ever so many ways to dress these Lenten standbys besides the customary meat sauce. Mushrooms may be added to Lenten casseroles for delicate richness and flavor, and a flaky timbale or pastry shell dresses up the plate service of many dishes that are combined with a thickened sauce.

Cheese and Rice Souffle

- 1 1/2 cups cooked rice
- 1/4 cups white sauce
- 3 eggs
- 1/4 cups American cheese (put through food chopper)
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- Salt and paprika

Season the white sauce highly with the paprika, then add the cheese, stirring constantly until melted. Turn in the rice. Beat egg yolks, stir in the cheese mixture, and then fold in the whites beaten stiff. Transfer to well-oiled baking dish, set in a pan of hot water, and bake in a moderate oven (350°) for 30 minutes.

Vegetables a la King

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash pepper
- 2 cups milk
- 1 cup carrots (diced)

- 1 cup peas
- 1/2 cup celery (cut fine)
- 1 tablespoon green pepper (cut fine)
- 1/4 cup grated cheese

Make a medium white sauce of butter, flour, salt, pepper and milk, boil one minute. Add cooked and drained vegetables (cut fine), reheat, pour into a baking dish, sprinkle with grated cheese, and bake in a moderate oven 10 to 15 minutes. Strips of bacon may be laid on top of the cheese; when the bacon is crisp and golden brown, the dish may be removed from the oven.

Golden Cheese Sauce with Celery and eggs

- 6 eggs
- 3 large stalks celery
- Cook eggs about 20 minutes in simmering water; cool and remove shells. Trim tops from celery, wash carefully and cut stalks in halves, lengthwise. Cook until just tender in as little boiling salted water as possible.

Cheese Sauce

- 4 tablespoons butter
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups milk
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Few grains pepper

Melt butter in saucepan, add flour and stir until well blended; pour on milk and stir constantly, cooking until thick. Then add seasonings and cheese, and cook slowly until cheese is melted.

Cover tightly until ready to serve so that crust will not form on surface. If too thick, thin to proper consistency with liquid left from cooked celery. Arrange hot celery and eggs, halves or quarters, on platter. Pour sauce over or into one end of platter. Garnish with buttered toast points. Serve at once.
