

DOUBLE HEADER SUN. AT KERBY FIELD

BAND CONCERT TONIGHT

Grosse Pointe Post and Roose Vanker Teams Meet Sunday

Grosse Pointe Post baseball team will meet Roose Vanker, state champions, in a double header Sunday at Kerby Field at 1 p. m.

The Grosse Pointe team represented Grosse Pointe Post No. 303, American Legion in the Legion League and for a first-year team the boys did a very creditable job. A bitterly fought pair of games is in store for baseball fans who attend these games, although the boys are quite friendly off the field of battle.

The Grosse Pointe team is composed of local boys of the four villages and the City of Grosse Pointe and is supported by the different merchants, churches, and various municipal departments. Grosse Pointe Post takes this opportunity to thank them for the interest shown them and the boys in this worthy enterprise.

Be sure to see this game Sunday. Who knows, you may see several future big league stars in action, for several of these boys have signed contracts and they really play baseball of a very high caliber.

The Roose Vanker team won the district championship but lost the regional championship by a very slim margin in the final game to an Indiana team.

Don't forget—Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Hear the Louis-Farr Fight at The Mayfair

Arrangements are being made to present the Louis-Farr fight over the public address system as part of the program tonight at the Mayfair, Mack at the Seven Mile road, along with a splendid program of entertainment.

A special musical treat by Bobby Sheppler and his boys, and two splendid floor presentations, one at 10:30 p. m. and the other at 12:30 a. m. will be given. Join the happy throngs that head for The Mayfair of an evening. You will enjoy the hospitable atmosphere, and the fine foods and delightful beverages.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Bryant, of Elfair Place, left last Wednesday for a two weeks' stay at the Snows.

Scholarships to Be Awarded for Rural School Teachers

A plan whereby a greater supply of rural school teachers will be forthcoming in the state was disclosed here this week by Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction. Dr. Elliott disclosed his plans at the annual meeting of the Michigan County School Commissioners in Mt. Pleasant. Teacher college scholarships will be granted to prospective rural teachers, Dr. Elliott said. A plan has been worked out with the state board of education whereby superior candidates will be granted these scholarships as an inducement to teaching in rural schools.

"Michigan needs approximately 900 new rural school teachers each year," Dr. Elliott declared. Present programs call for training for less than this number, he pointed out.

Scholarships are to be granted by counties to the best qualified applicants. Applications must be filed with the office of the superintendent of public instruction in Lansing before September 1. A special scholarship committee consists of Dr. Paul Sangren, president of Western State Teachers College; C. P. Steimle, registrar, Michigan State Normal College; M. L. Smith, rural education department, Central State Teachers College, and John R. Emens, assistant superintendent of public instruction, Lansing.

Football Practice

Candidates for Grosse Pointe High School varsity and reserve football teams are asked to report to the high school boys' gym entrance on September 1, at 9:30 a. m. Howard Poe will coach the varsity team assisted by Charles Saltzer. Frank Banach will coach the reserve team.

Moonlight Cruise for Employees of Secretary of State August 31st

Diversified entertainment will be offered during the moonlight lake cruise to be given by employees of Leon D. Case, secretary of state, aboard the Str. Put-in-Bay the evening of Tuesday, August 31. A splendid array of talent has been engaged for the floor show while there will be novelty acts on every deck of the boat. An excellent orchestra will provide music for dancing in the main ball room.

A four-hour cruise has been scheduled, the boat leaving from the foot of First street at 8:45 p. m. The D. S. R. will have extra cars to care for the voyagers on their return to the city after midnight.

In addition to Secretary Case many other prominent state, county and city officials will participate in the outing.

Boat Race Calls Attention to Michigan Waters

No higher tribute can be paid to the great waterways of Michigan than to have the scene of the Detroit Gold Cup Races laid in one of her most beautiful water courses in the Detroit River. This aquatic event, which assumes international importance with the entrance of foreign boats for the first time, will focus attention upon the unsurpassed opportunities that Michigan offers the yachting enthusiast, whether he possesses a small sailing craft or a sea-going boat.

Two thousand, three hundred eighty-five miles of interesting and undulating shoreline, the longest in the union, invite inspection. Countless natural harbors and inlets assure safe anchorage in stormy weather. Refueling and docking facilities are available at even the very small communities which dot the coast.

Intelligence of Reindeer
Reindeer, although much more intelligent than cattle, are not as intelligent as horses.

Bill's Hardware Makes Bid for Local Trade

Bill's Hardware, 12888 East Jefferson avenue at Emerson, has been in existence for some five months, and during that time its patronage has grown by leaps and bounds, due largely to the well-stocked store and the pleasant reception by its enterprising owner.

Bill's carries one of the most complete lines of sporting goods in the entire vicinity; guns, fishing tackle, tennis equipment, etc., also a fine line of quality paint, electrical and plumbing supplies, as well as tools, cooking utensils, etc. A very fair price is maintained on all items, in fact it pays to buy at Bill's Hardware.

Even This Didn't Make the Chinese War Official

When this photograph, showing a transport loaded with steel-helmeted Japanese soldiers arriving at Tsingtau was made, Japan and China were technically at peace. Many of these men and many Chinese soldiers died, slain by each other, but still there was "no war."

Taxpayers Must Pay Before September 1st

By MARY JANE STOETZEL
Taxpayers have until September 1 to make arrangements for the payment of their 1933, 1934 and 1935 taxes by means of the 10-year plan, a new means of tax-paying just put in use. Every one who wishes to take advantage of this system of payment must see the treasurer of the municipality in which he lives sometime before the first of September.

The 1933, 1934 and 1935 taxes may be paid by the 10-year plan with no other charge except the two per cent collection fee on the installment, provided though, the 1936 taxes are paid in full, and that the taxes for 1932 and prior years are paid for either in full or through the third installment. After September 1 the payment of taxes for 1933, 1934 and 1935 may no longer be paid for by the 10-year plan. If the taxpayers wish to avoid tax sale this year's taxes must be paid in full, along with the four per cent collection fee and three-fourths of one per cent per month, computed from the date of return to date of payment.

If, however, you wish to pay your 1933, 1934 and 1935 taxes in full before September 1 there will be no other charge than the two per cent collection fee.

Delinquent taxes dating back to 1932 and prior must be paid for in full before September 1. There will be no other charge on this payment, other than the two per cent collection fee. This system of payment applies even to the overdue first and second installments. After September 1 and up to the time of the tax sale, all 1932 taxes and those prior may still be paid for in full or by the ten-year plan.

Warning

The City of Grosse Pointe Police Department wants to warn residents about a young man who has been calling on some of them at their Detroit office and representing himself as an employee of one of their departments. In all cases to date this man has asked for two dollars to help to repair his truck which had broken down. Residents are asked to hold this man, and call the police department.

Noted Capitalist Died Monday at Watch Hill, R. I.

John Stoughton Newberry, 71, capitalist and civic leader, died Monday night of a heart ailment in his summer home at Watch Hill, R. I.

The body was returned to Detroit for burial.

Mr. Newberry had been ill more than a year. His brother, Truman N. Newberry, his sister, Mrs. Henry B. Joy, and two sons, Camman and John S., Jr., were with him when he died.

Mrs. Newberry returned from Europe a few hours before he died, but upon advice of physicians went to a New York hospital. Another child, Mrs. John S. Lord, arrived shortly after the death.

Mr. Newberry was among the early stockholders of the Packard Motor Car Company and the Detroit Steel Castings Company. In recent years he had been vice-president and secretary of the Newberry Estate, Incorporated.

Mr. Newberry served aboard the U. S. Yosemite during the Spanish-American War. He delighted in discussing with other members of the Detroit Naval Reserve the naval engagements of the conflict.

Mr. Newberry was born in Detroit July 21, 1866, son of the late John S. and Mrs. Helen Handy Newberry. He attended Cornell University and during the World War was an instructor at Culver Military Academy. In 1908 he married Edith Stanton of Detroit.

Mr. Newberry lived at 99 Lake Shore Drive, Grosse Pointe Farms. He was a member of many Detroit and New York clubs and was an ardent golfer and yachtsman.

However, beginning September 1, in addition to the two per cent fee, the first one-tenth of these taxes will bear interest of three-fourths of one per cent per month, computed from September 1, 1935 to the date of payment. The second one-tenth will bear interest at a like rate from September 1, 1936, while the third one-tenth will bear interest at the same rate from September 1, 1937.

Any or all of the remaining installments may be paid for at the same time with only the two per cent fee added.

All property will go on account May 3, 1938 which has not been allocated for. That is to say, if the first installment of 1933, 1934 and 1935 taxes has not been paid, the property will be sold for the full amount of these taxes. Also, if the first three installments of the 1932 taxes and taxes for years prior to that have not been paid the property will be sold for the sum of all unpaid installments for these years.

It would be advisable for all landowners to take advantage of the existing law in order to avoid the necessity of paying an accumulation of penalties that can possibly be done to make these and interest at a later date. Everything to make tax payments easy is being done, therefore, taxpayers should show their appreciation by getting out and paying their taxes as soon as possible.

For further information in regards to these taxes get in touch with the treasurer of your municipality at once.

We wonder when Yvonne (we mean Evan) of the Grosse Pointe Review floor-sweeping (?) staff, is going to have a new top put on his car (?)

REVIEW LINERS GET RESULTS two weeks.

Large Crowd Attended Local Band Concert

By MARY JANE STOETZEL
Four hundred people gathered beneath the stars on the wide expanse of lawn in front of the Grosse Pointe High School last Thursday at 8:30 P. M. to witness the first of a series of two orchestral presentations by the Detroit Civic Orchestra. Tonight another splendid group of numbers have been selected for the concert to be held at 8 P. M.

Music lovers were enthusiastic in their reception of this skillful group of musicians under the direction of Herbert L. Straub last week. This orchestra, which is the largest of its kind in the State of Michigan, is presented free of charge by the Federal Music Project division of the W. P. A. Forty-five skilled musicians make up the Detroit Civic Orchestra.

The concert last Thursday was made up of a variety of pieces, some slow, others fast; some light, others heavy; some popular, others not so well known, yet all played with mastery. The director, Mr. Straub, conducted the orchestra with sincerity and authority, and without any bizarre mannerism.

The excellence of the performance given by the orchestra was matched by the setting provided by the High School building and its landscaping. The musicians were grouped at the center of the building and seats for the listeners were provided on the lawn. The school acted as a perfect "shell" and persons sitting in cars at the edge of the grounds were able to hear most of the program with no difficulty.

Opening with Suppe's ever popular averture, "Poet and Peasant," the orchestra swung into that well-known and loved-of-all waltzes, "The Blue Danube," by Strauss. From the opera "Snow Maiden" the orchestra played Rimsky-Korsakoff's comic piece, "Dance of the Clowns." This was followed by Rimsky-Korsakoff's realistic composition, "Flight of the Bumble Bee."

From the picture "Seventh Heaven" the orchestra played Mitchell and Pollock's waltz, "Seventh Heaven" Out from the pieces of that well-known and eminent American composer, Jerome Kern, the orchestra chose several selections from "Show Boat" to play. With the strains from "Show Boat" still resounding the orchestra completed the first half of their variety symphonic concert.

The second half of the program was as different as the first half. Each piece played represented a different composer and a different time. Elgar's loved piece, "Pomp and Circumstance," opened the second part of the variety program. It was followed by Lampe's "Sunny South," made up of various American folk tunes. Ramee's "Diane," a group of short selections from Bizet's opera "Carmen," and that thrilling piece, "Aragoaise," from the March of the Toreadors were played in order by the Civic Orchestra.

"Victor Herbert's Favorites," a group of selections arranged by Harold Sanford was next played. As a fitting close the orchestra played the finale of Tschaiikowsky's "Fourth Symphony."

Mr. Otto E. Krueger, supervisor of the Wayne County District, expressed himself as being very well satisfied with the reception given the players at their first appearance in this part of the metropolitan area and remarked that the facilities offered by the High School grounds for concert purposes were ideal.

"Crowned Hawk Eagle"
South Africa's fierce hawk eagles are also called "crowned hawk eagle." The bird is smaller than our American eagles. But its shorter, rounder wings permit better maneuvering in forests. With powerful beak and unusually large, strong feet, it yields to no creature of the air in viciousness. Among its many nicknames is "ogre of Africa's monkeys." Whittened monkey bones have been found time and again in an eagle hawk's nest. Even animals as big as young deer succumb to its slashing talons.

Fame of the Bahamas
Probably the greatest claim to fame possessed by the Bahamas is the fact that it was these islands which gave Christopher Columbus his first glimpse of the New World. It was the island of San Salvador, now known as Watlings island, which the great navigator first sighted on October 12, 1492, on his voyage in search of a new route to India.

West Point Key Position
When Held by Washington
West Point was held by Washington as a key position. If it had been captured by the British, New England would have been cut off from the Colonies to the southwest, such as Pennsylvania, New Jersey and part of New York. It served also as a repository of war supplies—gunpowder, cannon, ammunition and other stores, according to a writer in the Washington Star.

The inventories and similar documents taken from Major Andre when he was returning from the trust of treason with Benedict Arnold are revealing along both lines. The Point had been fortified from plans of French engineers and the Polish Thaddeus Kosciuszko, who was principally responsible for actual construction of the works. There were groups of batteries and forts bristling with artillery. Only the most cunning treachery would have made it possible to seize the stronghold. Arnold had arranged for all that, even to the extent of having one of the links of the great chain removed on the pretext of getting it repaired.

The newly formed federal government in 1790 bought 2,100 acres in the neighborhood of the post for a reservation. More has been acquired since. Because of the presence of many foreign military engineers at the Point, a school for young officers in engineering was established during the Revolution. Washington had favored such an institution even before the recommendation made by General Worthington.

West Point did not develop until 1817, when it was taken in charge by Col. Sylvanus Thayer, popularly known as "The Father of West Point." The formal founding of the academy dates to 1802.

Ordeal Bean Is Used to Prove Guilt, Innocence
The Calabar bean is sometimes known as the Ordeal bean, because it is administered to suspected criminals in West Africa in the form of a brew. These large, leathery, chocolate-colored beans are boiled, and accused parties are made to drink the concoction. If the accused is unable to retain the drink he is considered innocent. If the concoction has a deadly effect and he is poisoned, the witch doctor judges him guilty.

Scientists have found that there is a reason for both these effects, states a writer in London Tit-Bits Magazine. Ordeal beans contain an active substance known as "Physostigmine," or "Eserine," which when used in the eyes contracts the pupils. When taken as a drug it has a strong stimulating effect upon the bladder and intestinal tract.

If an accused man has a sensitive digestive tract, marked irritation is produced and he becomes violently ill. If, on the other hand, he is extraordinarily robust and has a digestion like a horse, he retains the drink, is poisoned rapidly, and even in the event of recovery is a doomed man.

Duties of British Ruler
The duties of the British ruler are largely ceremonial, the actual ruler being the Prime Minister supported by Parliament. He makes numerous public addresses, presides at receptions, inspects troops, visits various exhibitions, etc. He opens Parliament with a speech prepared for him by his ministers. As Whitaker's Almanac says: "The King has a right to veto bills passed by both Houses of Parliament, but in practice his veto is almost obsolete." His refusal to sign a bill passed by Parliament would lead to a constitutional crisis.

Ship Medical Officer Busy
Aboard ship the medical officer and his corps are a regular board of health, says a writer in Hygeia, the Health Magazine. They inspect fresh food as it comes aboard; assure the sanitary preservation and preparation of food; check the weekly menus of the crew; verify the heating, ventilation and lighting of living compartments; take necessary precautions against parasitic skin disease, and direct the campaign against flies, bedbugs and cockroaches.

Exploring Tibet
The very fact that the Tibetans denied admittance to their country whetted the appetite to explore it. At one time rumor reached the Tibetans that a white officer and 50,000 soldiers were approaching and when a white officer showed up with only ten soldiers his reception was somewhat unpleasant until the white man's guide assured the Tibetans that the rest of the soldiers were hidden away in the baggage. The result was a more respectful attitude towards the exploring party.

Recipe; Receipt
The words, recipe and receipt, are derived from a Latin word meaning "to take or receive." Receipt is almost always used in the sense of an acknowledgment for goods or money; recipe as a formula for the preparation of a dish or compound. Receipt: received the sum of, etc. Recipe: take the yolks of three eggs, etc. The R with a stroke through it used at the head of doctors' prescriptions, is short for Recipe, Deo volente, "Take, God willing."

Oldest Customs House
The oldest customs house built within the boundaries of the thirteen original colonies stands in the Colonial National historical park at Yorktown, Va.

Great Tooth of Buddha
Honored in Gay Pageant
One of India's most elaborate festivals is the pageant of the Sacred Tooth of Buddha. The "perahera" lasts for ten days, ending on the night of the "full moon." Richly adorned chiefs, troops of masked dancers, gaily decorated elephants, brilliantly illuminated streets and colorful processions, turn the city into a festive center.

On the last night the climax is reached with one magnificent procession. Hundreds of elephants take part, and full-dress regalia is worn by the chiefs. In front of the elephants, whips are cracked and tom-toms and drums continually throb. Ever so often the procession halts while special dances take place.

One elephant attracts more attention than its fellows for on its back is carried the golden casket of the sacred tooth of Buddha. This sacred tooth is said to have been taken from the pyre, and is held in reverence by one-third of the world's total population. The tooth is paraded around the streets and then taken back to the temple. Surrounded by a most the temple dates back to the Thirteenth century. The library contains ancient manuscripts, written with an iron stylus on talipot leaves.

Black Widow Spider Is More Deadly Than Snake
Old Mother Nature indulges in a grim joke sometimes, and she must have been in one of her "humorous" moods when she created the Black Widow spider. This merry widow of the insect world is one of the nastiest of all the creepy-crawlies—a murderous and dangerous female.

Not only does she kill and eat her husband when she has no further use for him, but she can kill a man—in fact, she has sent many to their graves, asserts a writer in Pearson's London Weekly.

The Black Widow is as tough as a gangster, too, and if you ever meet her, the only sure method of putting her out of action is to smash her with something hard, like a swatter or the back of a shovel.

Drop for drop, the Black Widow's venom is more deadly than that of the rattlesnake.

Owing to its larger size, the rattlesnake injects much more poison than the Black Widow when it strikes, and, therefore, its death rate is higher—it kills about one in three. The Black Widow kills about one in twenty, but she is more common, and bites more people, so that, in the course of a year, the Black Widow causes more human deaths than does the rattlesnake.

Meaning of Astrology
Astrology is the "science" of reading the fate of human beings in the stars. Astrology has a very long history; the first attempts to read the future by this means were made by the Babylonians, and thence spread to India and China. It reached Europe in the Middle Ages, and became so prevalent that, in the Fifteenth century, no court was complete without its astrologer. Most of the monarchs of those days had the stars read before they started upon any plan or fight, says London Answers Magazine. Astrology must not be confused with astronomy, which is the science and study of the heavenly bodies and their relation to the earth. This also was a subject studied by the ancient races, and as early as the Seventh century B. C., students began to separate the true science of astronomy from the pseudo-science of astrology.

"Four-Footed Toe Dancers"
African antelopes, known as klip-springers, are also called "four-footed toe dancers," because of the characteristic habit they have of poisoning themselves on the rocks in a position in which their feet resemble those of a ballerina. They rank among the smallest and most interesting of antelopes, standing less than two feet at the shoulder. Extremely nimble, they climb upward in the mountains with great speed, agility and sureness of foot, while in downward leaps they safely negotiate gaps of thirty feet from one rocky ledge to another, steadied upon landing by their cup-shaped "non-skid" hoofs.

Unjustified Attack on Indians
Probably the most atrocious of all the unjustified attacks on Indians by America's sanguinary "Indian fighters" was the Sand Creek (Colorado) massacre on November 29, 1864, in which 900 soldiers swept into this peaceful village of Cheyenne and Arapaho Indians and murdered and scalped 300 men, women and children. The tragedy was later condemned by a congressional investigating committee. — Collier's Weekly.

Influence of Nast's Cartoons
Thomas Nast (1840-1902) remains the dominant figure in the history of American caricature because the influence of his cartoons has never been surpassed. Not only were they an important recruiting factor for the North in the Civil war and also responsible for the overthrow of the Tweed Ring, says Collier's Weekly, but they introduced the donkey to typify the Democratic party, the elephant to represent the Republican party and the tiger to symbolize Tammany Hall.

here they carried off the fairest of the Indian girls. To their credit be it said that they treated their Indian wives with so much more attention than they usually received that the squaws soon saw the difference, and Cadillac reported that the Indian women "preferred a Frenchman of any sort to a savage."

In order to provide wives for the soldiers, the commandants, from time to time, applied to the officials in France to send out "widows and marriageable young ladies," and at various times companies of maidens, with outfits provided by the king, came to cheer and bless the settlement in the wilderness.

No one was allowed to marry without permission. Even Tony himself, in 1717, was obliged to solicit a marriage permit that he might marry an attractive widow.

Marriages under the English law were solemnized either by the minister or a justice of the peace. The French maidens were not adverse to having English suitors, and were so eagerly sought that they often stepped from childhood into married life.

Under the laws of the Northwest Territory, males of seventeen years and females of fourteen might be married, but the consent of parents or guardians was required if the man was under twenty-one and the woman less than eighteen years of age.

Farmers and Fishermen
A nation busy with farming and fishing, Portugal has little use for formal education. Although there are three universities, more than one-half the population can neither read nor write. The peasants, however, preserve by word of mouth a rich folklore, and their unwritten four-line poems, recited from one end of the country to the other, are famous. They are so numerous that a single collector was able to record 10,000. Their language, with its signal scarcity of l's and n's, is represented in the world's literature by the Sixteenth-century Lusiad, written by the one-eyed Camoes largely while in exile.

An Old Capital City
Turin, Italy, is a city of wide, tree-lined avenues, imposing public buildings and shady colonnaded streets that served as a model for the Rue de Rivoli in Paris. It dates from early Roman times and was for centuries the capital city of the House of Savoy, now the royal family of Italy.

Ancient Letter Forms
Martine's Sensible Letter Writer of the year 1866 contained form letters by which one could correctly address "a daughter, from a mother in town"; the proper way for a gentleman to write to his daughter on her preference to a suitor; "from a young gentleman clerk to a merchant in the city; to his father in the country soliciting more pocket money," or "to a friend who has traduced you."

Hawaiian King a Gambler
Although horse races are held annually in Hawaii, gambling of any kind is prohibited by law. Yet horse racing and gambling thereon was once the principal sport of Hawaiian kings. Several land-owning families of today owe much of their acreage to King Kalakaua's poor racing judgment. The king, minus cash, habitually attended races with a map of Oahu in his pocket. He wagered land against money.

Celebration Honors Tortoise
Natives recently held a celebration in honor of a tortoise presented 160 years ago by Captain Cook to the paramount chief of the Friendly Islands and still enjoying life on the palace grounds of the Queen of Tonga island.

Metallic Titanium
Metallic titanium is lighter than iron, but not nearly as light as aluminum. It melts at about 3,250 degrees Fahrenheit, a temperature too high for convenience in casting and too low to make it useful as a lamp filament. It was hard, brittle, and crystalline and could not be drawn into wires or rolled into sheets. It was not particularly resistant to the action of corrosive chemicals.

The Isle of Pines
The Isle of Pines, or Isla de Pinos, in the West Indies, is about thirty miles south of Cuba, of which it forms a part, belonging to Habana province. The island, discovered by Columbus in 1494, has an area of 1,200 square miles and a population of about 3,200. Nueva Gerona and Santa Fe are the largest towns.

Carpet Weaving Old Art
Carpet weaving is one of the oldest arts. It was practiced in Babylon 4,000 years ago. In 1791 the first American carpet mill was built at Philadelphia. The power carpet loom, an American invention, so changed the art that wool pile carpets and rugs were made generally available for the first time. The United States is the largest maker.

"Million Fish"
One of the hardest and most popular of toy fishes is the guppy, a native of the waters of Trinidad, Barbados and Venezuela. It is sometimes called the "million fish" because it multiplies so rapidly. It is also known as the "rainbow fish" because of the bright prismatic colors of the inch-long male.

First Record of Vested Choir From S. Carolina
The first record of a vested choir in the United States comes from Charleston, South Carolina. In the accounts of St. Michael's church appears a bill dated 1798 for "washing the surplices of the clergy and children," relates a writer in Literary Digest.

The next mention of a vested choir does not appear until 1833, when Rev. Dr. Francis L. Hawkes vested the choir at St. Thomas Hall, Flushing, New York.

But it was not until 1886, when Trinity and St. James churches in New York City led the way, that vested choirs became fashionable.

For the following twenty years, vested boy choirs sprang up in nearly every diocese in the country.

In 1903, Pope Pius X issued a Motu Proprio making it clear that the only true liturgical choirs were composed of men and boys.

The same year the order was issued, Grace church founded its choir-school. And though Pius X was the last to state definitely that true liturgical music is sung only by males, the Convent of the Sacred Heart named its schools of liturgical music after him.

Music sung by choirs was the earliest in church history. The Ambrosian chants are supposedly of Hebrew origin, having been collected and codified by St. Andrew in the Fourth century. In the Sixth century, Pope Gregory the Great codified more chants, supplementing St. Ambrose's efforts. It was Gregory who instituted the present major scale. He codified it as the hypo-Lydian mode.

Baseball, English Game, Played as Early as 1744
Baseball was a popular children's game in England as early as 1744, 95 years before Abner Doubleday organized the first baseball team in America.

Robert W. Henderson, in the official bulletin of the New York public library, says of the game played in England nearly 200 years ago: "It was not rounders, nor one-old-cat, nor even four-old-cat. We repeat: a children's game called baseball, in which a player after striking a ball, ran round the bases until he reached 'home.'"

The evidence is found in a book well known to book collectors. For many years it was regarded as the first book issued for children by the first publisher of children's books. The claim has in recent years been proved erroneous, but the book is still cherished regardless of the fact that it is no longer established as the first in history.

Not alone was baseball made known to the children of the United States through the pirated juvenile books, but English children coming to this country with their parents, brought the game with them, and baseball was played here long before Abner Doubleday gave the game his attention at Cooperstown, N. Y. He outlined a more systematic type of play, according to J. A. Krout (Annals of American Sport), but he did not invent baseball; England did that.

Saint Sarah, Egyptian, Is Claimed by Gypsies
That Saint Sarah, Bar, is the firm conviction of the nomad gypsy tribes of Europe. If Provençal legends are to be believed, says a correspondent in the New York Times, she landed at Saintes-Marie-de-la-Mer with the two holy women who gave their names to this village namely, Saint Mary Salome and Saint Mary Jacoby. Sarah was their servant, and all three are declared to have been personally acquainted with Jesus.

Since Sarah was an Egyptian, and since her skin was burnished, the gypsies adopted her as their own. She is their private saint. Further, their wanderings to Saintes-Maries have formed the subject-matter for poems, novels and folksongs.

Formerly, the gypsies "occupied" this Mediterranean village for four days; the first two for fasting and prayer, the last two for hilarity and amusement. Within the past century the number of days has been reduced to two, but the program remains unchanged.

During this two-day pilgrimage Saintes-Maries assumes unusual animation and color. Its population is magically increased and the historic hamlet becomes a chaos of dialects, melodies and costumes.

Early Veterinarians
Ancient Egypt, Greece and Rome had veterinarians. But then they concerned themselves with horses, the only animals deemed valuable enough to merit medical care. Most important to the ancients were their armies, and horses composed a big part of their armies. The first college for veterinarians was established in France in 1761; in America almost a century later. Then came the machine age, and horses lost their value. Veterinarians became fewer and fewer. But the recent increase of valued pet dogs and cats saved the profession. Veterinarians have their own medical association, and must study three or four years in a recognized college to become members. Student "vets" study all domestic animals, but often specialize in one, or even one breed of dogs.

"The Petticoat Candidate"
Gen. William Henry Harrison, first Ohio president, was called "the petticoat candidate" during his hard cider campaign of 1840, and here's how the nickname started: Before the battle of the Thames, several Indians, friends of the Americans, told Harrison that the British general, Proctor, had promised his Indian allies that he would turn Harrison over to them if the American general was captured. In turn, Harrison replied that if Proctor was captured, he would hand him over to the Indians on the American side so that they could dress him like a squaw. For this courageous response, a group of ladies presented Harrison with a petticoat that might be used as a starter if Proctor was captured, and later his opponents tried to make something out of this by labeling him "the petticoat candidate."

"Stink Birds"
Found only in northern South America, hoatzins (also called hoatzins) resemble pheasants, are brilliantly colored in olive, brown, buff and yellow. They exhale such a strong odor natives dub them "stink birds." Relics of prehistoric times, they are gradually losing their power of flight. Rounded, stubby wings permit them to flit only from branch to branch. They live near rivers and lakes, yet do not eat fish, but instead munch leaves and fruit. If the adult hoatzin is strange, the baby is even more so. Before it can fly at all, it climbs trees with sharp claws in the ends of undeveloped wings. It is also an excellent swimmer. Both these abilities are lost, however, as it grows up.

Rhino Horns
It is not generally known that the horn of the rhinoceros is composed of hair and can be bent in half without snapping. In China and the Far East it is greatly valued as an aid to longevity and cannot be purchased for less than 25 pounds sterling per cubic inch, says Tit-Bits Magazine. It is ground down to a fine powder and taken in the form of snuff. Most wealthy Chinese keep supplies of this fine gray dust in costly lacquered boxes made specially for the purpose and take the tiniest of pinches once a day. Centuries ago it was also used in Europe as a specific for fevers.

Steward Once Highest Officer
Although the lord high steward merely walks before the king at coronations, carrying the crown of St. Edward, in Saxon times he was the highest officer in the land, ruling in the king's absence.

The artists who draw for Tribune Service are the same expert men who prepare illustrations for use by some of Chicago's largest advertisers. They know the type of work that unflinchingly attracts the prospect's eye. Their work is practical—and, consequently, resultful. It helps make advertising profitable.

These Experts Want To Make Profits For You!

There's a good deal more to copy than a mere collection of words. Copywriters must be students of every phase of marketing. They must know their product—they must know their prospect. Naturally the resources of The Tribune command men who star at their work. Those same men work for you when you use Tribune Service advertising.

Advertising That Pays! FREE! At This Paper

The basis of successful selling is knowledge and ability. Every salesman must know his product better than his customer does. Advertising that attempts to sell without thorough regard for that principle is doomed to certain failure.

For that reason, in seeking an advertising service which we might offer our merchants with confidence, we made every effort to go deeper than surface indications and make an exhaustive study of how and by whom our advertising material was prepared.

In choosing Chicago Tribune Service we were guided by several factors. First, was the more logical, stronger copy, the more attractive and timely illustrations. But more important, is the organization back of the material. This Service is created and designed by the same men who must make merchandise more in a large and difficult market. They must know advertising—they must test their product by actual use and results.

Naturally, those men are in position to know newspaper advertising needs, and the problems of big and little merchants. Naturally those men must have trained ability and the knowledge of merchandise and salesmanship. How well they do their job can be seen in the finer results their suggestions produce. Not advertising alone, but real merchandising, real thought, real selling effort makes the use of Tribune Service intensely profitable to merchants everywhere.

You owe it to yourself to make a study of this better modern method for building business. The latest copy of Tribune Service is in our office. See it, study it, use it with our help and in the columns of this influential newspaper for the finest results you've ever experienced from advertising.

Shawls Were Once Worn by Both Men and Women

The shawl had its beginning early in our civilization. It was worn by both men and women among barbarous and semi-civilized peoples. It is thought to be referred to in the Bible—the twenty-seventh chapter of Ezekiel, to be exact, notes a writer in the Rural New-Yorker.

The silk shawl is originally Chinese. The lace shawl made its first appearance in Spain and the Cashmere shawl started its career in India. The Paisley shawl, which was a high-grade copy of the Cashmere shawl, was made in Scotland. But the young lady of fashion first discovered the possibilities of the shawl early in the Eighteenth century when British officers stationed in India began sending them home to England.

The style was greatly admired in fashionable London and soon feminine hearts on both sides of the water began to ache for possession of a Cashmere shawl—and masculine minds began to understand that if life was to pursue its even tenor they had to take out their ponderous wrought iron keys and dig down into the family exchequers. A fine Cashmere shawl of first-class coloring and pattern cost $1,200 to $1,500. Such a shawl would weigh about seven pounds. Later they were produced to sell as low as $70 or $80. Even so, this was quite a sizable sum in the era when the whole of Manhattan Island sold for $24.

Five-King Dinner Given in Thirteenth Century

There is much obscurity about the origin of the famous five-king dinner of 1363 in the Vintners' hall.

Apropos of a Swan dinner tendered in London by the Worshipful Company of Vintners, honoring princes of England, a writer in the London Observer describes the original company as Edward III (England), David (Scotland), John (France), Waldemar III (Denmark) and Amadeus VI (Cyprus).

"John," he continues, "was at the time a prisoner in England. He had been made a captive at Poitiers (1356) and was released on ransom four years later, but, on arriving in Paris, found himself unable to raise the money. His son had been left at Calais as hostage, and when he escaped in the summer of 1363, John returned to England to give himself up.

"It seems quite probable that the Vintners' banquet was given in compliment to him, for we read that he was received in England 'with great honor,' was lodged, as before, in the Savoy and was a frequent guest of Edward at Westminster.

"He died in the following spring, and his body was sent to France with royal honors."

Odd Rocks in Isles of Scilly

Nowhere else in the whole of the British Isles can such a plethora of fantastic rocks be found as in the Isles of Scilly. Noted for its flower fields, the oddity of the huge masses of granite, beaten and molded by weather and sea, presents a strange contrast. Some rocks look like petrified, prehistoric monsters. Others are like giant tortoises or grotesque gargoyles, while others resemble faces. Equally interesting are the loggans, or rocking rocks, one of which is 300 tons in weight, yet can easily be rocked by hand. Because of their striking peculiarity some of these rocks were objects of veneration to the bygone inhabitants of the islands. One such was the "Tooth Rock" on the Island of St. Marys. From certain markings on the base of this rock, which is 30 feet high, it is surmised that sacrifices were offered there in prehistoric days.

Where Shawl-Goat Thrives

In northern India, at the foot of the Himalaya mountains, lies the fertile, placid valley of Kashmir. Here is found a particular type of shawl-goat whose coarse outer hair is but the covering for an inner coat of the very finest and softest curly hair. And it is from this infinitely soft, fine hair that Cashmere shawls are made. These are of two types: sometimes woven in one piece, but more often in small segments and sewn together with such precision that the sewing is imperceptible. The second type shawl is embroidered instead of woven.

Lyrebird Named for His Tail

The male merruca is a gorgeous and elegant bird. Two of his sixteen tail feathers are as colorful as a peacock's, and their curves have given him his name, but he never holds them in the conventional lyre shape as depicted in dictionaries and encyclopedias and on Australian postage stamps. The female is just a pheasant, a little brown hen sort of creature who never participates in her husband's popularity. She cannot sing and she does not dance.

Poe Solved Police Mystery

Edgar Allan Poe achieved the unique distinction of having solved, under the guise of fiction, a real police mystery before the police themselves. In his book "The Mystery of Marie Roget," he gave a true account, as was proved by subsequent confessions, of what had happened in the famous case of Marie Cecilia Rogers in New York. —Collier's Weekly.

Scenes and Persons in the Current News

Dewey, the young racket-smashing special prosecutor who is running-mate as candidate for district attorney on the Republican ticket with the mayor. 2—Panoramic view of Shanghai's famous Bund which was rocked by explosions of bombs during the attack on the city by Japanese troops. 3—James Mattern (left), famed aviator who flew from California to Alaska to join in the search for lost Russian polar flyers, shown conferring with his navigator.

Robert Ballard Is Soapbox Derby Champ

Robert Ballard, twelve, of White Plains, N. Y., smiles as he receives the International Soapbox Derby championship trophy from Felix Doran, an official of the race. The contest, held at Akron, Ohio, was attended by a record crowd of more than 100,000. A handsome cash prize and a scholarship to college when he is old enough were the rewards for Robert's skill in piloting his soapbox vehicle.

Here's a Brand New English Custom

A sign of the times in Old England is this photograph, made during Chatham Navy week, which gives you an idea of the extent to which Europe is suffering from war jitters. The oilskinned gents at left are members of a "decontamination squad," who are rehearsing the duty they hope they'll never have to do—mopping up after an "enemy" gas attack. To lend realism to the scene an entire English family stands in front of its home, everybody gas-masked, watching the squad go by.

Seeks Bride on 121st Birthday

Cutting a birthday cake decorated with 121 candles, Abraham Wishkovsky is pictured, as he began his one hundred twenty-second year of life, at the home of the Daughters of Jacob in the Bronx, New York. In a birthday interview, Patriarch Wishkovsky, who is Polish by birth, announced that he is ready to marry again—for the sixth time—stipulating, however, that his bride must be "young and pretty."

POWER PLUS

Although her skill and technique deserve full credit for Jadwiga Jadrejowska's recent victory over Alice Marble, American tennis champion, in the tennis finals at Rye, N. Y., the power and determination of the Polish star, demonstrated graphically in this picture, were the major weapons in her armament. Here, too, is evidence of the great stamina that enables Jadwiga to maintain a killing pace in the pinches.

Basking in the Sun at the Waterfront Park

her solid blue colored collars and blue and white striped shirt.

Asbury Richardson was doing a lot of swimming and running around when I saw him. He tried a fancy dive off the board but something happened for he went smack-in the water.

The "Jagger Twins," Martha and Margaret Jagger were at the beach. Both twins were wearing peach colored suits, but Margaret's, at least I think it was Margaret, had blue trimmings on hers. The twins brought their supper down to the Park but there were so many hungry boys hanging around all afternoon that I doubt if they ever ate it. Alice Miller and Noreen Clees brought their dinner down to the Park along with the twins. Alice was all tugged out in a brilliant red jersey suit and cap; while Noreen looked charming in her new rubber suit.

Margaret Richardson was wistfully looking out over the lake when I caught sight of her in her blue and white dotted collars and brown bathing suit. I imagine Loretta Bastin was fired out from her afternoon at the Park. She did nothing but climb up and down one of the guard stands, run up and down the sidewalk, and jump in and out of the water as she pursued a big, bashful, bronze, blond lifeguard, who wanted to be alone. Loretta looked quite nice though in her peach suit with a green handkerchief tied about her neck.

Just as I was leaving I caught a fleeting glimpse of Ralph Walter as he ducked into Tony's refreshment stand for a snack.

Air Races, Stunt Flying, Maneuvers Planned for Sept. 18

At a general meeting of representatives of all Detroit's aviation organizations last Monday complete plans were announced for the staging of the city's annual air show. Taking the helm for the project was the Aeronautical Activities Association of Michigan, who will present the huge Detroit National Air Show at Wayne County Airport September 18 and 19, with the largest and most spectacular air program ever staged in this vicinity, according to Robert B. Evans, president.

Lending full co-operation in supporting the event and present at the meeting were members of the Detroit Board of Commerce, Junior Board of Commerce, National Aeronautical Association, aviation posts of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars, Women's Aeronautical Association, and the Michigan Chapter of the "99ers."

A full program of air racing, stunt flying, formation maneuvers, parachute jumping and novelty events has already been arranged for the show, with the nation's foremost speed and stunt aces furnishing the featured thrills. Additional activities planned will include a possible assault of the world landplane speed record of 352 miles an hour, and demonstrations of the industry's newest high speed craft.

Col. Roscoe Turner, nationally-famous speed pilot, is expected to arrive in Detroit this week to discuss plans for participation with members of the sponsoring committee. Major Alexander P. de Seversky, who established a speed record at the 1935 Detroit air show and designer of the world's fastest military airplanes has also been invited to be on hand with one of his latest creations.

Most of the racing aces and acrobatic fliers will come direct from the National Air Races in Cleveland.

Young Republicans to Attend Michigan Convention Sept. 17

Plans for the creation of one of the most outstanding political organizations among young men and women ever seen in this state will be outlined at the G. O. P. rally to be held at Bay City, September 17-18 it was announced here by John H. Carton, president of the Michigan Federation of Young Republicans. Carton has issued a call for all Republicans in the federation to attend the two-day gathering, which is sponsored by the Michigan League of Republican Clubs and other state-wide G. O. P. groups. More than 5,000 are expected to attend.

"The time has come when we must demonstrate to the older members of the party that we possess strength at the polls," Carton said. "Young Republicans of Michigan will be an important factor in the 1938 and future elections," he declared as he outlined plans for the Bay City affair.

State Senator Miller Dunckel of Three Rivers, is chairman of the executive committee in charge of the rally. United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg is to be the principal speaker. He will appear on a banquet program to be held the second evening.

"September 17 will mark the 150th anniversary of the signing of the United States Constitution," Carton said. "I can see no better time for Young Republicans to gather and rededicate themselves to the principles of democracy."

Other groups assisting in preparing for the rally include the Republican State Central Committee, James F. Thompson, chairman; Republican Women's Federation, Mrs. George W. Rogers of Detroit, president and the Michigan Service Men's League, Dr. Robert M. Ashley, of Wyandotte, president.

Public Letter B-O-X

Detroit, Michigan, August 12, 1937

Board of Wayne County Park Trustees, County Building, Detroit, Michigan:

Gentlemen:

I feel that I would be neglecting my duty if I did not tell you of the cleanliness of the Public Comfort Station at Northville Middle Rouge Parkway. My husband who has traveled widely the world over states that nowhere has he seen a better kept lavatory.

We were both most pleasantly surprised upon our first visit to the comfort station mentioned and wish to extend our vote of thanks to the caretaker thereof.

Very truly yours,

German Race Uses More Than Twenty Dialects

In describing Germany, Julius Caesar called that part of the country inhabited by the lowland tribes Germanic, or Lower German, and the more elevated regions to the south and southeast, German Superior. In time the linguistic designations of Low German and High German were applied to the dialects used by the inhabitants of these two regions.

There are more than twenty distinguishable dialects in the speech of the common people of the Teutonic or German race. These dialects shade into one another, observes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, the difference increasing according to separation, traveling on a line from the highlands of southern and southeastern Germany toward and through the lowlands bordering the North Sea and the Lower Elbe.

The Low German language comprehends several dialects of the north of Germany as well as the Frisian, Dutch and Flemish dialects, while the High German dialects are usually classified in two divisions as South German and Middle German. But since the time of Luther, whose translation of the Bible into what is known in literature as new High German, in distinction from the cruder literary language of the antecedent old High German, all these dialectic differences have been rapidly dying out, and are perpetuated only in the spoken language of the lower peasantry.

Of the Low German dialects, the old Frisian is practically extinct. Dutch is the national language of Holland, more correctly the Netherlands, and has a literature of its own, while Flemish has given way to the language of northern Belgium and by more than 200,000 people in the Nord department of France.

America's Near East

Western Ireland is America's Near East, according to a travel authority of Great Britain and Ireland. The western Irish call their country the next parish to America. They know more about America often than they do about Dublin and Cork, in their own country, for almost everyone in the Irish West has a brother or a son or a cousin in the United States. American association with western Ireland began with Columbus. People say that he sailed along that way and picked up one of the western Irish for his crew when he was setting off to discover America.

Folk Songs of Jamaica. The folk songs of Jamaica have their origin in the distant past, although a few have a distinctly modern note. "Mango Walk" and "Linstead Heath" may some day become popular in America.

Keys a Foot Long. When, in 1147, the Moors were driven out of Lisbon, many of them locked their houses and took away the keys. General Sanjuero found hundreds of such keys when he finally subdued the Moors. In Spain and Portugal there are front-door keys six to twelve inches long. They are believed to be duplicates of those the Moors removed.

The Butterfly Finch. The butterfly finch is a member of the bunting family and is commonly called the Nonpareil bunting. There is also one called the pintail Nonpareil.

Wayne County Park Commission,
3800 Barium Tower,
Detroit, Michigan.

Dear Mr. Bennett:

On Saturday, August 7th, the Pere Marquette Athletic Association held their seventh annual system picnic at Middle Rouge Park, Northville. We had in the neighborhood of two thousand people from all over the system; three special trains being used to transport them. Due to the splendid co-operation extended from your park attendants, there were plenty of tables for all.

On behalf of the association, I wish to thank you for the courtesies and the workmanlike manner in which your attendants took care of us.

Sincerely yours,

Goldfish Are Produced by Selective Breeding

Goldfish as we know them do not exist anywhere in the wild state. They are a product of long years of selective breeding. The wild fish from which goldfish were developed belong to the carp family and are numerous in the streams of China. They do not naturally have the golden hue, but are dark in color, much like ordinary carp, although the species tends toward albinism.

Centuries ago the Chinese fish culturists interbred light-colored specimens and produced many beautiful varieties. Fancliers further induced and strengthened the golden and silvery colors by regulating the quantity of mineral in the water.

When goldfish are restored to a natural environment, says a writer in the Indianapolis News, they often revert to the original dark color after a few generations. It is supposed that goldfish were introduced into England in 1691. Some of the first specimens sent to France were presented to Mme. de Pompadour, mistress of Louis XV. Goldfish are produced in large commercial aquariums.

The Seaman's Church Institute, New York City, is surmounted by a 200-foot Titanic Lighthouse tower.
