Monet, and Cezanne. The prints were displayed both in the art room and in the hall show cases.

In observance of National Art Week the art department last week exhibited art exhibits, last week's being the first 30 prints of paintings by modern art.

Some of the artists represented in high students included a trip to the collection were Van Gogh, Degas, Detroit Institute of Arts.

The cast for the three-act fall production, "The Cradle Song," to be presented in the auditorium of the high school by the Pointe Players on December 3 and 4 at 8:15 o'clock, has been announced by Mr. Donald Horton, faculty adviser. It is as follows: Joanna—Jean Trombley, 11A. Teresa—Dorothy Miller, 12A. Vicarress—Joan Reutter, 11A. Prioreess—Marjorie Kaufmann, 10A. Mistress of Novices—Barbara Fairbairn, 12B. Marcella—Janet Teideck, 12B. Maria Jesus—Elizabeth Bishop, 11A. Sagarrario—Catherine Raupugh, 11B. Inez—Frances Freiwald, 11B.

Tornera—Catherine Hauke, 11A. Monitors—Betty Farmer, 12A; Viva Cossey, 12B. Doctor—Stewart Smith, 11B. Antonio—Bob Hurst, 11B. Poet—William Ludwig, 10B. Understudy for Teresa—Barbara Ferry, 9A.

Special passes for a visit to the Air Reduction Sales Company on Saturday, November 13, at 10 o'clock are being secured from the company's office in New York for chemistry students in the classes of Mr. George Lance and Mr. Harvey Christenson.

Fifty selected students will be taken through the plant as well as shown several special demonstrations.

One will be a demonstration of how liquid air is made for commercial purposes, as in hospitals where oxygen tanks are needed for artificial respiration. Liquid oxygen is also used for oxy-acetylene blowpipes which are used for cutting and welding of metals.

It is expected that 75 junior high school students will make the field trip to Selfridge Field to be held on Saturday, November 13.

The seventh and eighth graders will be conducted through the hangars and will inspect various planes. A parachute opening will be a feature of the tour. Guides will explain important points of interest to the visitors.

A bus will leave the high school at 8:30 Saturday morning, returning about noon. Mr. Paul Junge, sponsor of the trip, will accompany the students along with Mr. Wilbur Enders and Mr. Ernest Lafollette.

A series of lectures at Alger House, Grosse Pointe branch of the Detroit Institute of Arts, similar to those given last year, will be continued this year by Mrs. Laurence Clark of the Alger House staff.

The lectures will be given on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. Students will attend during their regular class periods accompanied by their teacher.

For those students attending Alger House for the first time there will be an introductory lecture to the building. For students who have attended Alger House previously there will be three new lectures, one on methods of painting, another on sculpture and methods of sculpturing, and a third dealing with architecture emphasizing the design of Alger House.

Teachers wishing to take their groups to Alger House may make arrangements by calling Mrs. Clark. Any clubs which meet after school and would like to make the trip can also arrange for these lectures.

An approximate total of 1,500 children from the high school, elementary schools and private schools of Grosse Pointe heard these talks last semester.

An article on world literature by Mr. John Barnes, director of instruction, appears in the November issue of The English Journal.

In the article Mr. Barnes tells of the plan used in the Grosse Pointe High School to teach students world literature. Units of work and general objectives are described. Mr. Barnes also explains the bases taken into consideration in selecting authors and their works for reading material.

To show the results of the world literature course Mr. Barnes points out that in the Literary Acquaintance Test of the Cooperative Test Service, one of American Council on Education, 61 Grosse Pointe seniors enrolled in world literature made a median score higher than that made by 1,443 other seniors in other schools and 6,484 college sophomores.

North Dakota and Titans Clash Here Saturday Afternoon

(Continued from Page One) plays halfback, where his speed is valuable in running the ends and in grabbing forward passes. Neither of the colored stars is very big, each weighing 175 pounds, but both are strong as well as fast runners. Pollard, in particular, has a genius for keeping his feet when tacklers hit him.

North Dakota and Detroit will be fairly well matched in the matter of weight, an unusual condition this year, as the Titans have been giving away a lot of poundage. Not that the Dakas are a small team, however. They have one 210-pounder in the person of co-captain Jack Mackenroth, who plays either tackle or center and plenty of fellows weighing 185 or better.

Captain Lloyd Amick is a splendid type of running guard, weighing 190 pounds with the speed of a track man. Another fellow whom the Titans must watch is Charlie Gainer, an end who weighs 195 and stands 6 feet 2 inches. Last year he was a standout and this year he is said to be even better.

The Dakas are coached by C. A. "Jack" West, who has been with them since 1928 and has won six Conference championships in nine years. He is a graduate of Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and has been coaching with marked success for more than 20 years. His son "Jack" West is the regular varsity center and such an excellent one that nobody ever could accuse the coach of parental prejudice in giving him the job.

In their last game the Dakas beat their arch-rival, North Dakota State, by a score of 27 to 0, two touchdowns more than last year, an indication that they are stronger than when they whipped the Titans in 1936.

Neighborhood Club's Country Fair Was Highly Successful

(Continued from Page One) ternational Booth. This club had charge of a dart and balloon game, that was especially favored by the male element at the carnival. Edward Pograze, George Deets and Gás Mehn were in and out of the booth helping awhile and then walking around. According to Joe money taken in will be used for charity.

Margaret Reno went about her gym advertising the Fortune Telling Booth, sponsored by the N. C. Cadets, in a green and orange gypsy costume. Betty Fetter and Rita Fluery, members of the club, helped to draw in the crowd to the fortune telling booth.

Beatrice Giache and Sylvia De Zutter were practically hidden in an eskimo hut where they were selling chocolate, strawberry and vanilla ice cream. This booth besides a kite game booth was under the direction of the Girl Guards. Judy Ellis, Marion and Ellen Roddy, Ruby McRoy, Noreen Shaw, and Dorothy Lee and Elizabeth De Wolf helped in the two booths.

The News Staff, a club that puts out a paper every now and then, had a game where you had to drop pennies in a glass that was placed in a container of water. Frances Habitz, Virginia McKenna, Barbara Japk and Edith Baker were behind the booth watching the pennies fall.

Boy Scout Troop 79 entered a sidewalk cafe in the carnival. At this cafe hot dogs, ginger ale and coca cola were served at small tables. Behind the counter were Craig Smith, Dick Parks, Walter Dailey, Arthur Hogardh and Robert McIntyre serving refreshments. Serving and wiping up tables were Harold Lee, Bob Linsdeau, Bert Koppau, Tom Pleger, Donald Brown and Bruce Preston. The Scouts are going to put their money in the treasury and help swell it up.

The Buckaroos of Radio Station CKLW, dressed in cowboy outfits furnished music for those who desire to dance in the modern or old-fashioned style.

INSURANCE TIPS

By H. Thompson Stock

To the person that is familiar with fire insurance decisions in the olden days before there were standard fire insurance policies, the printed conditions of the present day fire insurance contract are very interesting. Restrictions have been put into the policy because of legal controversies. For the same reason, the standard policy has been broadened. If it were not for the fact that laws of many states dictate the form of policy to be used, the insurance policy of today would be still broader and simpler.

On a Saturday night, February 3, 1855, a Mr. Titton closed his clothing store at 140 Fulton Street. Imagine his surprise when he returned Monday morning to find that his store had been destroyed by fire and that his stock had been moved to a building across the street. Some of his stock of merchandise was missing because it had been stolen during the confusion of moving. His insurance company contended that this was a theft loss and not a "fire" loss. The court held that it was a "fire" loss. So today our standard policy excludes loss "caused directly or indirectly by theft."

In 1863, Mr. Brady's wood shingle roof warehouse in Detroit burned. On account of an ordinance, he could not repair or rebuild the building unless it had a composition shingle roof. The insurance company refused to pay the extra cost of a composition shingle roof. The court held that the fire was directly accountable for this extra expense and that therefore the insurer was liable. Today the policy specifically excludes "allowance for any increased cost of repair or reconstruction by reason of any ordinance or low regulating construction or repair." The policy, however, may be endorsed so that the insured can recover value of his damaged building in case he has to tear it down in order to rebuild.

A turnpike company insured a bridge. When it burned it wanted to collect the amount of tolls lost. So in order to inform insurers that the present day policy does not pay for loss of use, the policy states that it does not allow "compensation for loss resulting from interruption of business or manufacture." Compensation for loss of use by fire can be secured by means of rent, use and occupancy, profits and leasehold insurance.

The policy states that it covers loss "by removal from premises endangered by fire except as herein provided." This clause is merely informative as the courts have held that such expense is a fire loss. On July 4, 1866 during a conflagration in Portland, Maine, a Mr. White moved from his factory his stock of brushes and tools to a safer place. Though endangered, his building did not burn. His insurance company refused to pay the expense of removal, claiming that he had not suffered a fire loss. The court, however, held that fire directly accountable for the loss.

The numbered printed conditions of the standard policy exclude loss by "lightning unless fire ensue in that event for loss or damage by fire only." But this limitation is cancelled by the lightning and electrical exemption clause which is part of all the forms now attached to fire insurance policies. Loss by lightning now is covered except damage by lightning to electrical apparatus unless fire ensue and then only for loss by the ensuing fire.

Another important broadening of coverage that has been made recently without extra charge is the "inherent explosion clause" that is a part of the dwelling forms. The numbered printed conditions exclude loss "by explosion unless fire ensues and in that event for loss or damage by fire only." With the inherent explosion clause, dwelling policies now protect the insured for nearly every explosion that may arise within the house. Steam boiler explosion for which the owner needs steam boiler insurance is excluded.

A very definite relationship between a legal controversy and a revised policy is seen in marine insurance. The House of Lords of England decided that the insurer of the Steamer Inchmaree was not liable for loss resulting from a steam boiler explosion. As a result of this decision in their favor, marine insurers broadened their coverages to include losses of this sort and the clause used is still known as the Inchmaree clause.

Within the past year the guest of an automobile salesman who was hurt while riding in the salesman's car contended that he was a passenger for a "consideration" in order not to come under the California automobile guest act and the court held that he was. But this ruling enabled the insurer of the automobile sales agency to deny liability. As a result of this case, the word "consideration" is being changed to the word "charge" in the clause in automobile insurance policies prohibiting carrying passengers for "charge."

Witherite and Coal
Witherite was discovered in a mine in Durham county, England. It is four or five times as valuable as coal, and both minerals are mined at the same time.

"Little Girl, Curl" Verse
The verse beginning "There was a little girl, she had a little curl right in the middle of her forehead" was by Henry W. Longfellow.

Rust, Corrosion Destructive
Rust and corrosion cause an annual direct loss exceeding that caused by fire and flood combined.

Happenings of the Nation Told in Pictures

Aerial Preacher Spreads Gospel From Sky

"Sky pilot," a term sometimes used flippantly to describe a minister, is employed in a literal and serious sense when Rev. Al Waer of Whittier, Calif., takes to the air to preach the Four Square Gospel to congregations 1,500 feet beneath him. Waer preaches to throngs on the earth through a loud speaker system installed in the plane. He will also use the plane for gospel sky writing.

Scenes and Persons in the Current News

Lifeboat Rescues Potomac Flood Victims

Victims of raging Potomac river flood waters are evacuated from their inundated homes by a rescue boat at Bladensburg, Md. More than 1,000 homeless persons waited for the waters to subside before returning to their dwellings.

Goalie Is Busy as Hockey Season Opens

Members of the Chicago Blackhawks make a concerted attack on the enemy goalie in an attempted scoring drive as the team opens its season with the New York Americans at the Chicago Stadium.

Auto Loses Race With Trolley

Max E. Sparberg of Los Angeles is lucky to be alive. Above is shown the demolished remains of Sparberg's car after he dropped a decision to a trolley car. Sparberg escaped with a number of abrasions.

Wrestlers Try a "Mud Match"

In the first "mud match" in history, Sandor Szabo, Hungarian, defeated the Hindu, Prince Bhu Finder, in 12 minutes at San Francisco. In the picture, in case you don't recognize him, the prince is on top. The combatants were covered from head to foot with the good wet earth when it was all over.

"Nuts to You, Willie Squirrel"

Life for Willie, pet squirrel owned by Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Britten of Greenville, Tenn., is just one dentist chair after another. Willie's front teeth began to curve backward toward the roof of his mouth and his owner carted him off to the dentist to have them ground off. The dentist opined that Willie eats too much prepared food. "Nuts to you, Willie," says the dentist.

Loyalist Sub Stranded at Brest

Pictured above in the harbor of Brest, France, is the Spanish loyalist submarine C-2, left stranded by its crew which divided into Red and anti-Red groups. A rebel plot to seize the submersible failed and the boat is now awaiting a new crew to take it back to Valencia, Spain.

TO WED GREEK PRINCE

Princess Frederica Louise Christa, twenty-year-old daughter of the duke of Brunswick, whose engagement to Prince Paul of Greece was announced recently. Prince Paul, brother of King George II of Greece, is heir presumptive to that throne. The princess is a second cousin of former King Edward VIII of England.

GOLF MEDALIST

Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Greensboro, N. C., who recently established a modern record in women's golf when she won the qualifying medal in the national championship at Memphis, Tenn., for the second year in succession. Mrs. Page played the course in 79 strokes, matching women's par.

SIGNS FOR MOVIES

Airline hostesses are all so capable and charming that the inroads of Cupid are the most serious factor involved in alienating them from their jobs. Now comes an announcement from an airline company indicating another threat. As evidence we show you a picture of pretty Daphne Lane, airline hostess who has just received a motion picture contract from one of the major producers.

BONNEVILLE CHIEF

James D. Ross of Seattle, who has been appointed by President Roosevelt as administrator of the Bonneville dam project. Under the supervision of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, Mr. Ross will administer the transmission and sale of all hydroelectric power produced at the gigantic new dam on the Columbia river.
