Grosse Pointe Post Initiation Ceremonies On Wednesday Dec 1

The next meeting night, Wednesday, December 1st, has been designated as "Initiation" night. All new members of Grosse Pointe Post are urged to appear this night that they may be fittingly welcomed in our midst. To this end a party is in the process of the making, and although all the details have not been worked out as yet, it has definitely been arranged to show the pictures of the New York Convention, and to have dancing to round out the evening.

Your committee are deeply appreciative of the co-operation of the wives of the members in settling the lunch question at the last Installation Party and they have decreed that the same procedure will be followed. For the benefit of the ladies of the new members this procedure will briefly be outlined, viz.:

1. Bring sandwiches, cakes, or what you desire for your own use, and for the refreshment of your guests.
2. Bring a few extra sandwiches, cakes, or so forth, for the Committee to place on the long table for the refreshment of Post guests.

In this way one of the most delicate situations encountered in planning a party can be solved, the Committee not having to worry as to whether there will be enough food to go around, or too much, or whether the guests do not like this or that. Remember lunch, for yourselves, your guests and some extra for Post guests.

The initiation ceremonial will start promptly at nine o'clock, then there will be dancing until eleven-thirty at which time the movies will be shown, after that dancing as long as you wish.

All members, new and old be sure to come, bring your wives, and your friends and let's make this party a success. Wednesday, December 1, 8:30 p. m. Initiation night, Grosse Pointe Post.

Spurring Members to Increase Their Ranks This Year

Grosse Pointers Urged to Join Up NOW

With the Christmas season rapidly approaching, THE TOY CLUB is starting its 1937 campaign for memberships. Its slogan, "Not a Kid Without a Toy for Christmas" has been the rallying cry for friends of underprivileged children who will see to it that Santa Claus does not forget to come because the family funds are needed for food and clothing and rent, and there is nothing left for childish luxuries such as toys.

Last year THE TOY CLUB furnished toys and candy for over 1,500 children, which included children in five orphan homes. Since the beginning of its existence THE TOY CLUB has not turned down a single request to provide a toy for a poor child.

"FORGOTTEN"

THE TOY CLUB is a Grosse Pointe institution organized in 1933 and is unique in that there are no officers in the club. Every member is a private in the ranks enlisted to bring joy to underprivileged kiddies and no individual name is ever mentioned in connection with the good work of the club.

Headquarters of the club are at 15224 East Jefferson avenue, Grosse Pointe Park, where memberships may be secured. New and used toys in good condition will be gladly accepted. Just call Lenox 4554 and toys will be picked up, or drop them in.

Annual membership due in THE TOY CLUB are 50 cents per member. Family memberships will be welcomed. Your 50 cents will provide lots of joy for some poor youngster, as all toys are purchased at very low prices and there is not one cent of overhead expense.

Memberships may also be secured by getting in touch with any of the following:

City and Village officials and members of the police and fire departments of Grosse Pointe Park, City of Grosse Pointe, Grosse Pointe Farms, Grosse Pointe Shores, and Lochmoor.

Members of THE TOY CLUB invite you to join their number. Fill out and mail in the application blank printed on the front page of this paper together with your 1937 Dues and help make some unfortunate child happy this Christmas.

Interesting Facts About Tung Oil Tracts

Mrs. J. Barbour Williams, of Pontiac, Mich., is the author of an article published recently in the Pontiac News, relating her observations on a trip to Pearl River County, Mississippi, where she inspected the tung oil industrial development in that section, with particular attention to the land owned and now being sold in Michigan by the Land Sales Corporation, ninth floor, David Stott Building, Detroit. Mrs. Williams described a 10,000-acre tung oil grove in the district which is already producing a substantial return to its owner, paying high interest on an investment of several hundred thousand dollars. More important, however, was her description of the small groves that are yielding a good living to many people of small means, who add to their tung oil income by raising garden truck, melons and general produce in the rows between the trees. As a result of this trip, Mr. and Mrs. Williams made a substantial investment in Pearl River County tung oil land, through the Land Sales Corporation, colonizers, with offices occupying the entire ninth floor of the David Stott Building, Detroit.

Thanksgiving Service At Sixth Church Christ Scientist, Thursday

Sixth Church of Christ, Scientist, will hold its annual Thanksgiving service next Thursday morning, November 25 at 11:00 o'clock. Services will be held in the Church's temporary quarters in Pillar Lodge Auditorium, 14535 Kercheval avenue between Marlborough and Philip avenues.

Thanksgiving services will be held Thursday morning in all Christian Churches and Societies throughout Detroit. An interesting feature of these services will be the testimonies of healings of sickness, sin, sorrow, and lack, through the ministrations of Christian Science, which are related briefly by members of the congregation.

The special Thanksgiving Lesson-Sermon read in Christian Science churches throughout the United States, consists of citations from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy.

The Golden Text for this service is taken from Psalms 28, "The Lord is my strength and my shield; my heart trusted in him, and I am helped: therefore my heart greatly rejoiceth; and with my song will I praise him."

The Lesson-Sermon contains this verse from Nehemiah 8:10: "Then he said unto them, Go your way, eat the fat, and drink the sweet, and send portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared; for this day is holy unto our Lord: neither be ye sorry; for the joy of the Lord is your strength." Among the correlative passages from Science and Health is the following (p. 13): "Are we really grateful for the good already received? Then we shall avail ourselves of the blessings we have, and thus be fitted to receive more. Gratitude is much more than a verbal expression of thanks. Action expresses more gratitude than speech."

THANKSGIVING By FLORENCE POWELL

Lord God of harvests, thy promise is fulfilled again,
Thy miracle through earth returns sustenance to men.
Nut seed and berry will nourish some small living thing;
We behold the beauty of the wild bird on the wing.
The trees have flung coats of autumn's glory 'round their feet,
Meadows are frosted, and wild life scurry's to retreat.
Thou hast given Lord; teach us just distributions fall.
Man is worthy of his hire; the ox his sheltered stall.
We offer thanks dear Lord for abundance and good cheer,
And for the peace that reigns on this most blessed hemisphere.

Recipe for Dressing by George Deets

Show your appreciation for papa's efforts in carving the bird by giving him some oyster stuffing inside of it.

1 pint of oysters
1 pint of fine bread crumbs
3 oz. butter
½ oz. grated onion
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 dessertspoon poultry dressing
¼ cup diced celery
1 egg.

Remove crust and grate 1 pint of day-old white bread crumbs, packing into measure. Grate the onion, saute in butter and mix into the crumbs. Chop the seasoning and diced celery, and beat the egg, mixing all into the dressing. Pack lightly into bird. If some of the family insists on sage dressing, stuff the bird with that, as usual, but make a little bag for the oyster dressing and put it into the roaster beside the fowl.

Primary Schools Aided by State

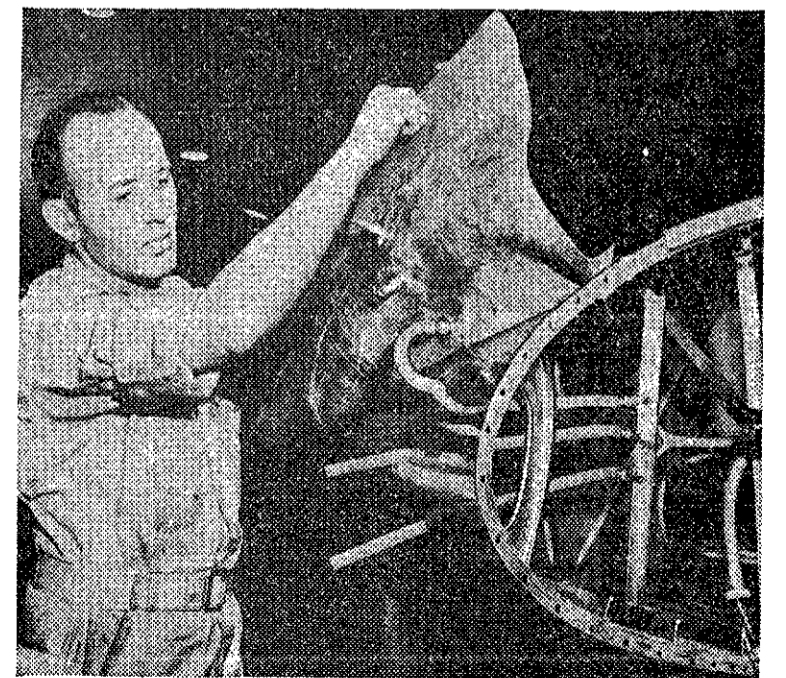

Primary school and in Michigan this year will amount to $11.39 per child, Dr. Eugene B. Elliott, state superintendent of public instruction, has disclosed. The total fund now being distributed is $15,931,352 more than the legislature took into consideration when appropriations were allocated.

The legislature fixed the primary fund at a minimum of $15,000,000, then appropriated a total of $28,000,000 to be given out to districts as state aid money. Governor Murphy cut 10 per cent off the $28,000,000 figure, or an amount of $2,800,000. With the primary money running one million dollars more than was anticipated, the total money given to schools by the state will be about 6 per cent. More than $10,000,000 in primary money has been distributed so far.

WORLD CRUISE

By W. R. LENCE
Fourth Article

MADEIRA (Continued)
Two years ago, I had a visit with Mr. John Frothingham Welch, the president of the Madeira Wine Association, whose grandfather and father were born and reared in Philadelphia. The grandfather, James Welch, was appointed Ambassador to the Court of St. James, by President Thomas Jefferson in 1807. The father was brought to Funchal for his health, and the family has resided here ever since.

In appreciation of courtesies bestowed upon me, I went to his office again to pay my compliments. The man at the office told me that Mr. Welch was at home on account of illness, but he would be glad to see me if I would go out to his home. One of them kindly took me to the home, which is located farther up the side of the mountain less than a mile away. Mr. Welch courteously received me, and I spent more than an hour with him. He was kind enough to show me over his lovely home. On the walls are pictures of presidents and other officials of our government. The home also contains rare pieces collected from many parts of the world. The rooms are large, and include six sitting rooms. I told him that he had facilities for a lot of sitting.

Madiera is a possession of Portugal, and Mr. Welch has an intimate knowledge of his government, and is also thoroughly acquainted with European conditions. I asked him about the war in Spain, and he frankly expressed himself concerning it. He said that it is a foreign war being fought on Spanish soil. It is a fight between Dictators Mussolini and Hitler on the one side, and Dictator Stalin on the other. Portugal has never recognized the Soviets, and has no intention of doing so.

In explanation of improved conditions in Portugal, and its island possessions, he said that they put the Leftists out of power seven years ago, and that general conditions have been improving ever since. Taxes are not burdensome. For unemployment, old age pensions and insurance, the employer pays 2 per cent, and the employee pays 1 per cent of the payroll.

Mr. Welch said that the grapes for the 6,000,000 gallons of wine made in Funchal annually are produced on the island, and all of them grow on the sides of the mountains. There is no level ground on the island, except a plateau on top of the range of mountains, and it is non-productive. The people are thrifty, and very few of them are on relief.

The streets and walks of Funchal are paved with volcanic stone. Some of the walks are paved with small stones, about the size, shape and color of pecans, and appear to be paved with real pecans. The "Parking" in the center of the principal street is paved with this kind of stone, and set with figures of white stone of the same size and shape. Mr. Welch said the dark stone is picked up on the beaches of Madeira, and the white stone is gathered on the beaches of Porto Santo Island. The action of the waves makes them smooth, and changes the shape to that of the pecan.

Standing at the water's edge is a large white warehouse with the familiar "Texaco" sign inscribed upon it in large letters, also the lone star trademark. These signs are conspicuous from considerable distance out in the harbor. They burn Texas gas on the Island of Madeira.

TANGIER
The Reliance sailed from Funchal at 6 o'clock Monday evening, and was in the Harbor of Tangier when we arose Wednesday morning. From the port-hole of my stateroom I was treated to a good view of a beautiful sunrise, as the sun came up from behind the mountains of Morocco. The multi-colored panorama was a delight to the eye.

Tangier stands in an amphitheatrical valley. "Main street" runs up through the center of the amphitheatre, like a winding aisle-way. Close by on the other side of the Strait, in conspicuous view, is the shore of war-torn Spain. A large British cruiser and two French destroyers on one side of our ship, and two destroyers on the other side, are grim reminders of war. Tangiers and its environs are international territory, governed by an international commission.

The entire city appears to be in view from the promenade deck of our ship. Several skyscrapers which were not in existence two years ago stand out conspicuously. Also a new, attractive looking little hotel stands near the fine beach at the east end of the city. The skyscrapers and apartment houses instead of office buildings.

Automobile assignments were made before we left the ship. I drew No. 21, and when I located the car, I found it to be a good Plymouth. Others rode in Fords, Dodges, Chevrolets, Buicks, etc. Practically all of the cars are American made. My auto companions were Dr. and Mrs. Backenstowe, of Pasadena, California. The drive took us up the mountain, around through the east end of the city. The grand apartment houses are in this section. Built of concrete and stucco, and newly painted white, they are clean and beautiful. There are also some splendid residences built of the same kind of material.

Leaving the city, we drove to the summit of Marshan Plateau Mountain, the highest peak near the city, from which we had a fine view of the city, harbor, and surrounding country. The Rock of Gibraltar, 37 miles away, is in plain view. Here on this rocky eminence, Abd-el-Krim fought his battles, in his war with Spain. A descending spiral drive took us to the "Kasbah," the palace of the sultans who ruled Tangiers hundreds of years ago. All rooms open upon a large paved court. The Mosaic walls and marble columns are beautiful, but compared with the Al Cazar and Alhambra, the entire palace is commonplace.

The native Moslem quarter adjoins the "Kasbah." The married women are all veiled. Men wear gowns and a kind of "night cap" over the head. These gowns were white at one time, but are now multi-colored, according to the amount of dirt on them. The heads of men and boys are closely sheared, but one long tuft of hair is left. They expect Mohammed or some celestial being to catch them by this tuft of hair and carry them up to heaven. What provision is made for bald-headed men, if any, is not stated. Mosques in other Moslem cities are open to visitors provided they remove their boots, or symbolically remove them—but here the mosques are closed tightly to "Christian infidels." The cruise party had its introduction to the Moslem world here.

Following a labyrinth of narrow, winding streets, the guide took us through one street not more than three feet wide and up a stairway to a "coffee shop." It is rightly named because they serve nothing but coffee. A native orchestra with grotesque looking instruments, furnished what they called music. Visitors who took coffee paid one shilling, and those who only sat and listened to the orchestra paid a half shilling as a "cover charge." It is a part of the game for Moslem guides to lead their visitors into places of this kind and "gyp" them.

All the Moslems at Tangier work a "skin game" of some kind. Hundreds of salesmen hound you from the time you land until you get back to the ship, and exact the highest possible prices. The purchaser who does not "Jew" them down gets "stung" awfully bad. The Moslems who are not salesmen or guides are beggars. Begging is a fine with them.

Doctor Blackenstowe mailed five letters at the post office. The clerk applied the stamps and, after much figuring with a pencil, he gravely stated the amount due. Doctor Blackenstowe handed him a half dollar, and he threw it up and let it drop on the counter to ascertain if it would ring.

There is evidence of prosperity in Tangier. Several large buildings are in course of construction. Main Street, which is large enough in some places to be called a street, is crowded with a mass of moving humanity. There are no vehicles of any kind here, and the street is full from wall to wall with pedestrians. The nationalities are as variegated as the multi-colors of costumes.

Tenders carried us back to the ship, where luncheon was served. At 3 p. m. the Reliance lifted anchor, and entered the most important strait in the world. To the ancients, it was the gateway to the great unknown. Almost all of the passengers went to the Promenade Deck to view the sights. The sun was shining brightly, but it was cool and wraps were necessary.

Red River Colored by Clay
The Red river of the North (there's a Red river in Texas and Oklahoma) is often colored by the clay through which it runs. Hence the name. Rising in Minnesota, it flows 350 miles almost straight north into Lake Winnipeg. In spring the headwaters thaw while farther north it is still frozen solidly. Floods result. Before railroads came the river connected Canada with the Mississippi river. Small steamers went up it to Lake Traverse and thence down the Minnesota river to the Mississippi.

Continuity of Wedding Ring and Eternal Love

When the bridegroom places the wedding ring on his chosen one's finger and says, "With this ring I thee wed," he little realizes the history that lies behind the simple wedding band.

Long before the ring became a symbol of matrimony, it had a mystic significance with the ancients, states a writer in the Washington Star. The circular continuity of the ring was accepted as a type of eternity and hence of the stability of affection. Often the rings were inscribed with loving wishes.

Coming up to the middle ages, the ring often was used at solemn betrothal ceremonies. Frequently lovers who were about to separate for long periods of time demonstrated their lasting affection by going through the ring ceremony.

Even greater significance to the custom was given by the invention of the linked ring. Made with a double and often a triple link which turned upon a pivot, it could be turned into one solid ring. It was customary to break these rings apart at the betrothal. This solemn ceremony was done in front of a witness. The prospective bride and her bridegroom each kept a ring while the witness was given the central one of the trio. When the marriage contract was fulfilled at the altar the three parts of the ring were again united and the ring used at the ceremony.

A custom that has survived in a revised way to the modern day was the habit of engraving simple sentiments in the nuptial hoop. Rhymes to rival Ogden Nash were inscribed in many Sixteenth and Seventeenth century wedding rings.

"Our contract was Heaven's act," "In thee, my choice, I do rejoice," and "God Above, Encrease Our Love," express the medieval version of the couple's happy sentiments.

Infants React to Sound

More Than to the Light
Every child when born is both deaf and dumb. From such an inauspicious beginning the normal child's auditory powers begin to function, and are closely related to the development of voice and speech, observes a writer in the Washington Post.

Hearing begins from the first day, occurring when the baby's cries force air through the Eustachian tubes of the mouth to the middle ears. This filling with air of the middle ears causes them to respond to vibrations of sound against the eardrums.

Once the sense of hearing is developed, it is very acute and remains so, unless the ear is attacked by disease or is injured. For instance, infants react more definitely to sound than to light. A strong light may only cause a sleeping baby to turn in order to avoid it. But a loud noise will awaken the baby, and perhaps frighten it or throw it into convulsions. Therefore, quiet is imperative for the small child during its rest.

Practically all babies are born with normal ears and prospects of good hearing. A small number, because of hereditary weaknesses, or other prenatal cause, may be born with defective hearing and speech organs. Determination of this lies solely with the family doctor or an ear specialist.

Frigid Finger Reaches Low
New Zealand breaks the rule that glaciers usually stop near the lower limits of perpetual snow, above the timber line. Some of its rivers of ice wind over wooded slopes to end only among tree ferns and other sub-tropical vegetation. Fox glacier, reaches down to 670 feet above sea level. Its surface is rough with patches of rock debris and with the sharp ridges of great crevasses.

Kipling's Autographs
The late Rudyard Kipling once was asked by his grocer to pay his bills by check. Mr. Kipling did so, then noticed the checks never came back from the bank. He investigated, found the butcher was selling the checks as autographs. Since the author rarely autographed anything, his name on a check was worth more than the check itself!

First Lamp Patent in 1798
In 1798 the first lamp patent was issued to John Love, of South Carolina, for a tallow lamp. The earliest patented lamp known is the nursery lamp made by William Howe, of Boston, dated 1812. The second earliest example appeared nearly two decades later, in 1831, and the patent was issued to John W. Schulz and William Trull. Between the granting of these two patents twenty others had been issued.

David Livingstone Long a Missionary, Explorer

David Livingstone was a Scotchman, born in Lanarkshire in 1817, and when a boy he worked in a cotton factory. In 1840 he landed in Port Natal, South Africa, as a medical missionary of the London Missionary society, and became an associate of Rev. Robert Moffat, whose daughter he afterward married.

For sixteen years he labored in the mission work, and during that time discovered Lake Ngami in the northwestern Bechuanaland, and crossed the continent from the Zambezi river to Loanda, a journey which occupied eighteen months.

While in England in 1837 Livingstone published "Missionary Travels and Researches in South Africa." Returning to Africa he devoted himself to exploration, and in 1865 resolved to find the sources of the Nile. During the remainder of his life, observes a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, there were frequent periods when he was not heard from for months at a time, and it was during one of these protracted absences that Henry M. Stanley began his travels to search for him and found him in great destitution at Ujiji, on Lake Tanganyika.

Dr. Livingstone died in 1873 while exploring the river system of the Zambezi in the belief that these were the headwaters of the Nile, having penetrated to the south shores of Lake Bangweolo Rhodesia. In 1874 his body was interred in Westminster abbey.

Pearls Cannot Be Given Life

Pearls are things which never die. They are either born still-born and dead, or living. Still-born pearls with their dull, dead look can never be revived, according to a pearl specialist. This doesn't mean that all pearls that look dead are really so, though it takes a real expert to know when looking at them just after they have been extracted from the oyster. In most cases, the upper layer, or layers, of an oyster are not at all pretty. Having been built by the oyster in successive layers of congealed fluid, each layer has its own characteristic. The expert pearl jeweler's job is to see what layers lie below those which are uppermost, and to decide what tint and what layer will give the greatest value to the pearl. And then to remove the less beautiful layers without damaging the lower, richer ones.

Maelstrom Described

Poe on Norwegian Coast
The Maelstrom's existence, as described by Edgar Allan Poe and other writers, is indisputable, although its dangers are often exaggerated, states a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer. It is a remarkable whirlpool on the Norwegian coast, just southwest of Lof-foden islands. The strong currents rushing between the Great West fjord and the outer ocean through the channels of these islands produce a number of whirlpools, the Maelstrom being the largest and strongest. The name means "grinding stream," and the grinding is done between the island of Mo-shones and a large solitary rock in the middle of the straits.

Such extravagant stories have been told of this great eddy—how everything that enters the border of its current is instantly sucked down to a bottomless abyss—that its very existence has been doubted. Its perils, of course, were greater in the days of smaller ships and no steam power.

As a matter of fact, steamships may cross the Maelstrom in calm weather, at any state of the tide, without difficulty. And in the summer, at change of tide, the current is comparatively calm and even small boats may venture upon it. But in winter or in a storm it is highly dangerous for any vessel to try to pass. During a storm from the west the current runs continually to the east at the rate of six knots, without changing its direction for rising or falling tide, and the stream boils with such mighty whirls and eddies that a vessel of any size would have great difficulty in getting through. The danger is not of suction into the heart of the whirlpool, as legends have supposed, but of being dashed to pieces against the rocks. Dead whales are sometimes thrown up on the coast, killed in this way. The depth of the whirlpool is only 20 fathoms, but just outside the straits soundings reach from 100 to 200 fathoms.

"Jai-Alai," Ball Game, Rivals the Bull Fight

"Jai-alai," better known as "pelota" (meaning ball in Spanish), is a game somewhat similar to hand-ball, which originated in the Basque provinces of France and Spain. In parts of Spain, it rivals bull fights in popularity, says a writer in the Detroit News. Originally "pelota" was played with hand, naked or gloved, or with a stick, but now a stout basket-work gauntlet, called a "cestus" or "chistera" is used. This basket, a Basque invention first used at Ascan, France, revolutionized the game by increasing the propelling power of the players and the carrying force of the ball.

The game may be played either indoors or outdoors and requires a cement court, 200 feet long and 65 feet wide, with at least two walls 36 feet high. Four walls may be used. There are usually four players and among the professionals are men who have done little else since boyhood. The ball is of solid rubber, small and weighs about four ounces. During play, the ball is bounded from wall to "cestus" and must be kept in motion. The game is very popular in the Basque provinces, Spain, Cuba and South America. According to the Americana Encyclopedia, "It is claimed for this game that it requires a better eye, more speed, activity and surer control over every muscle of the body than any other sport."

Original Glass Bottles Valuable

It has been commonly acknowledged that glass bottles, shortly after their invention, were "worth their weight in gold." But an item in the American Magazine indicates that these transparent containers were valued much more highly than the yellow metal in old Egypt, where a price of $3,500,000 was set and paid on one glass bottle. Originally made only by master craftsmen and used in the packaging of rare attars and cosmetics, glassware required 40 centuries of study and refinement to reach its present superiority and inexpensiveness. The common foodstuff bottles on our shelves today are more perfect by far than the crude bottles of long ago—yet they cost us practically nothing!

Ancestry of Cameo in Doubt

The earliest ancestry of the cameo will always be a matter of conjecture, according to Cyril Davenport of the British museum whose book, "Cameos," is the illuminating result of extensive study and research. But for really skilled work, we need not go farther back than to the Egyptian scarabs, which were seals with the backs cut into the semblance of the sacred beetle. The outline of the scarab cameo persisted for a long time.

St. Giles Cathedral Historic

St. Giles cathedral, standing on the line of the "Royal Mile"—that medieval street which leads from castle to palace in Edinburgh—has been the scene of many important events in the past of the Scottish capital. The walls have echoed the thunderings of John Knox, the reformer, and it was here, according to tradition, that one Jenny Geddes, in 1637, flung a stool at the Dean of Edinburgh as a protest against the introduction of Laud's Liturgy.

One Third of Cars of Michigan Are Owned in Wayne

More than one third of all the motor vehicles in Michigan are owned and licensed in Wayne county.

A report prepared by Leon D. Case, secretary of state, shows that 1937 license plates totalling 1,614,056 were issued and that Wayne County registrations were 606,056, an increase of 56,080 over 1936.

There are 532,237 passenger cars registered in the county, an increase of 50,723 over the 1936 figures. Commercial vehicles total 47,109 as against 44,615 in 1936. There are 21,267 trailers as compared to 23,298 in 1936 while a new license registration effective this year shows 2437 house trailers. Motor cycles this year number 1299 as against 862 in 1936.

When the present motor vehicle law became effective in 1915 Wayne county had only 50,096 motor cycles. The registration for the entire state in that year was 160,000 with total collections of $1,739,000.

For the year of 1937 it is estimated that the secretary of state's office will have collected more than $50,000,000 of which approximately one third will be contributed by Wayne County. While in 1916 the business of the office was primarily the issuance of license plates and auto titles the office today has the added responsibility of collecting the gasoline tax, chain store tax, malt tax, chauffeurs and operators license tax as well as many other duties.

Safety Campaign Produces Results

Although the safety educational campaign sponsored by Leon D. Case secretary of state, has been under way but a few weeks splendid results have already been noted.

More than 10,000 children of school age have signed pledges in the Michigan Safety Club.

Fifteen safety matinees have already been held in neighborhood theatres in Detroit and Wayne County and many more are being arranged.
Two radio programs are presented each week over Detroit stations.
School and Police officials are giving whole hearted assistance in the arranging of meetings while the public response and cooperation has been extremely gratifying to Secretary Case and his aids.

Crowds ranging from 500 to 1500 have attended the safety matinees. Although the majority of those in attendance have been children a surprisingly large number of mothers and fathers have accompanied their youngsters to the meetings and have evinced deep interest in the proceedings.

The programs have been designed to appeal especially to children but there are also many features which not only entertain the parents but cause them to give more serious thought to the fact that their individual and is needed in the battle to reduce the appalling toll of traffic deaths and accidents.

The Michigan Safety Club has as its director Tom Carroll who for many years has been prominent in safety safety promotion work.

Mr. Carroll, known as the "Safety Messenger" conducts the theatre matinees as well as the radio programs.

In the theatre and radio presentations Mr. Carroll has the able assistance of Miss Prudence Butterfield, popular radio entertainer, for my years associated with children's programs.

The theatre programs include two safety films, short comedy subjects, songs and piano solos by Miss Butterfield and a short, instructive safety talk by Mr. Carroll.

It these matinees safety pledges are distributed to the children all of whom are eager to sign and enroll in the club. Latter it is planned to present handsome club buttons to all children who are members.

Glass Was Discovered on the Coast of Palestine

The origin of glass is lost in myth and romance but there are many legends told in regard to it. One of these credited to Pliny, notes a writer in the Los Angeles Times, is that it was accidentally discovered by some Phoenician merchants who landed on the coast of Palestine and cooked their food in pots supported on cakes of niter taken from their cargo. They were greatly surprised to find this solid matter had become a fluid and mingling with the sand had produced a transparent substance now called glass. Cold fact says the temperature of the fires could not have been great enough to melt the sand, but science has ever had a way of interfering with romance.

America began its story of glass before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock. A glass house was established in the English settlement at Jamestown, Va. This was the first factory built on this continent. Its first products were bottles. Later a considerable trade was established with the Indians in supplying them with colored beads with which they were greatly enamored. Years later glass factories were established in Massachusetts, New York and other New England and mid-Atlantic states, but it was not until after the American Revolution that the glass industry really took root here.

Over three centuries have passed since the first rough bottles were produced at Jamestown. Today we take all manner of glass products as a matter of course which in the early days of the industry would have seemed impossible to produce.

Three Methods Are Used in the Curing of Pork

There are three methods of curing pork—the sweet pickle process, the dry salt method, and the dry cure, states a writer in the Chicago Tribune. In the first, used for hams, the meat is soaked in vats containing salt brine, a sweetening agent, and nitrate of soda. The cure requires 20 to 75 days and a constant temperature of 36 to 40 degrees must be maintained.

The second method consists of putting layers of salt between piles of meat. The third is used largely for bacon and consists of soaking the meat in a light brine containing sugar and nitrate of soda. To finish off the cure the meats are placed in smoke from burning hardwood which adds to the flavor and color.

The salt used prevents spoilage, the sugar offsets the taste of the salt, and the nitrate preserves the color.

Lard is made from hog fat, either by boiling in an open kettle or through a steam pressure method. It is cooked, filtered, and chilled, the cooking separating the meat fibers from the fat. The remainder, cracklings and tankage, is used as stock and poultry feeds.

Origin of the "Annie Oakley"

According to "American Tramp and Underworld Slang," edited by Godfrey Irwin, the phrase "Annie Oakley" means a free ticket or pass to an amusement or entertainment. The passes were punched with holes to prevent their being sold as regular tickets and to prevent money being refunded if the show did not go on, as is customary with paid admissions. Thus, they resemble the cards that were used for targets, after the famous rifle shooter, Annie Oakley, finished shooting at them. Annie Oakley performed with the Buffalo Bill circus for 17 years. The term originated in the circus world, but is now included in the slang of stage, screen and boxing circles.

Polar Eskimos Friendly

Polar Eskimos are a friendly, happy people who live farther north than any other human beings. They rove the Arctic from Greenland to Alaska. Skin tents are their habitation during the brief summer; snow igloos their winter homes. Their food, save for a few birds' eggs and berries, is exclusively flesh—the seal, bear, fox, whale, walrus and reindeer being the provender. They are prodigious eaters, hence their plumpness and perhaps their good nature.

Silver Whitest of Precious Metals

Silver is the whitest of precious metals. It is susceptible of a lustrous polish and has excellent working qualities. In its pure state it is too soft for uses wherein it is subject to wear; so it is usually alloyed with copper. The terms "sterling silver" and "coin silver" indicate alloy proportions. Sterling silver is alloyed in proportions of 925 parts pure silver to 75 parts copper. Coin silver contains 900 parts pure silver to 100 parts copper—this is the standard for United States coinage.

Glaciers "Rivers of Ice"

Glaciers are really "rivers of ice," formed in mountains where more snow falls than can possibly melt. Eventually the ice piles up as high as 1,500 feet, gets so heavy it begins to "flow" downhill. Generally it moves about 1 inch every hour, though in New Zealand and Greenland glaciers have been known to bowl along 30 feet a day. Though a glacier creeps, its tremendous weight carries everything before it.

County Reflections

By JACK SABIN

Of the elective officials of Wayne county, County Auditor Edward H. Williams occupied the most advan-ageous position in the recent municipal election. Recently selected to succeed himself in office for a period of four years, backed by a powerful organization, he was in the unique position to swing his prestige and following in the recent city election.

Williams, however, refused flatly to play politics, maintained a strictly neutral attitude, and as a radio commentator offered to the various candidates equal opportunities to participate in the period allotted to him over one of the local radio stations.

Williams believes that the ancient rules governing politics are antiquated, and that the average citizen today is competent to select for himself or herself those who will represent them in office.

It occurs to your columnist that this is an attitude similar to that taken by Harold E. Stoll, Register of Deeds, Probate Judge Thos. C. Murphy, Treasurer Jacob P. Sumeracki, and other outstanding public officials who have devoted their time and energy to better and more economical administration of local government.

Detroiters in general relax in relief when they were informed that the condition of Circuit Judge DeWitt H. Merriam was not serious. "Dewey" as he is best known to his legion of friends, underwent an operation in a local hospital, although of a serious nature, the operation was a success.

Judge Merriam, learned in the law, an outstanding and impartial jurist, is a delightful combination of matured brains and democratic camaraderie. Not only well read in the law, but red of hair, except for the wide expanse of forehead, but he is frank and boyish in manner, unswerving in decision and has won for himself the admiration and liking of all with whom he has come in contact.

Just to remind you that, after all, elections are decided by the voters and not by the candidates. Now that the ballots have been counted and the issues settled the fact remains undisputed that the good judgement of the majority prevailed. This is and always will be the ultimate test of representative government, whether local, state or national.

Secretary of State Leon D. Case announced this week that his office had placed a printing order for 13,500 copies of the Session Acts for 1937.

The legislature this year having passed nearly double the number of Acts of the former session, has increased the size of the volume to 1,000 pages and may result in an increase in the price of $1.50 which has prevailed for many years. According to Case the copies on order will be ready for distribution on December 1st.

Harold E. Stoll, Register of Deeds, again calls attention to the Public Act No. 103, which went into effect Oct. 29th. This act requires all instruments recorded in the office of the register of deeds to have signatures of parties thereto, witnesses and notaries typed, printed or stamped immediately beneath the signature of each.

At first it appeared that this ruling applied only to deeds, but an opinion from the Attorney General's office included Chattel Mortgages and other instruments filed in the office. As many requests are made for certified copies of various recordings, this new act is beneficial, in the signatures heretofore illegible are now correctly designed and eliminate false certification as well as making it far easier to verify and check back on transfers of deeds and mortgages.

Sports Featured at Coming Detroit Winter Event

Extraordinary motion pictures of hunting and fishing in the far places of the world, big game hunts and explorations will be shown as a feature of the Mid-West Sportsmen's Show section of the 4th annual Detroit and Michigan Exposition, January 21-30, 1938, it was announced yesterday by Charles A. H. Thom, general chairman.

This unusual film will be presented by E. C. (Eddie) Schwimmer, widely known big game hunter, fisherman and lecturer, who conducts the Acme Camera Exchange in Detroit.

"I have hunted, fished and photographed in the Arctic twice, the Tropics eight times, toured the world twice and sampled the sports of two hemispheres and five great oceans," he asserted. "I find that the real pleasure in hunting sports is not in doing death and destruction to the beautiful things I see but in the lure of strange places, vivid life, robust action—and in color."

Schwimmer has been a hunting and travel enthusiast for nearly fifty years. His movies, many of them in color, include action shots of the giant Alaskan Kodiak bear, wolves, moose, and harpooning of whales.

He plans within a few days to start another trip to photograph the Rocky Mountains with its new coat of snow and will return in time to make personal appearances at the Exposition at Convention Hall.

New Plan of Insurance Available Locally

By H. THOMPSON STOCK CITY PLANNING NECESSARY TO PREVENT CONFLAGRATION In an analysis made by the National Fire Protection Association of 100 conflagrations since 1900, it was found that wooden shingle roofs helped spread the fire in 55 conflagrations.

conflagration in 1908 in Chelsea, Massachusetts. The chief cause of the fires' rapid spread was the carrying of burning brands to wooden shingle roofs. In 1916 wooden shingle roofs were responsible for the $8,000,000 Paris, Texas, the $1,500,000 Nashville, Tennessee and $5,000,000 Augusta, Georgia conflagrations.

Detroit, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Toledo have very many wood shingle roof fires compared to other cities. The use of wood shingle should be prohibited. In fact there are over 534 cities over 20,000 population that prohibit their use. But there are still 320 cities over 20,000 population that permit its use.

In 37 conflagrations, inadequate water distribution system was a contributing factor. In 33, inefficient fire departments were a contributing factor. Wind velocity over 30 miles per hour was a contributing factor in 33 conflagrations, lack of exposure protection in 18 and congestion of hazardous occupancies in 11. City planning should zone and plan cities so that fires cannot easily pass from block to block.

Boulevards and parks should be used as conflagration barriers. Perhaps this is the reason for Detroit's wide downtown streets as the city was relaid after it had been destroyed by a conflagration in 1809.

Traffic congestion should be avoided. In the Augusta, Georgia conflagration of 1916, cotton bales stored in the streets slowed the fire department. Dead-end streets without adequate turn around provision are bad. Factories should be kept out of residential districts. High buildings increase the fire hazard.

Grosse Pointe Township citizens should be informed as to what progress their local governments are making along the lines of fire and conflagration prevention, why dead end streets are permitted and why there is no ordinance prohibiting the use of wood shingles on new buildings and when re-roofing old buildings.

'Trick' Auto Plates Increased for 1938

Along with other records for business volume being currently established in the Department of State, Leon D. Case, Secretary of State, has found that the fee for special numbers for automobiles has reached an alltime high.

To meet the 1938 demand for low or special numbers, nearly 30,000 sets of plates numbered below 1,000 in various combinations of letters, have been set aside throughout the state, but the supply will not be adequate.

The great stream of requests for special numbers means, among other things, that the distinction of special plates will shortly have all but disappeared, Case believes.

Considerable attention has been attracted to the diversity of reasons offered by those who seek special plates, or special combinations of letters and numerals. By all odds, the hardest request to fill recently, came from a numerologist, who eyed the entire range of available plates seeking one which would unmistakably convey some cryptic message to others of his turn of mind.

For years, when only numerals were used, low numbers were of considerable attraction. A few years ago, the introduction of letters greatly increased the number of special plates possible, but the public's appetite for them was not appeased. In 1938, the series of AA plates, along with FF, EE, VV and other more familiar letter combinations, will be virtually snowed under by new ones devised to meet the demand.

It is believed the urge for special numbers will be reduced as more and more plates of this kind are made available.

It has been the idea of the present secretary of state, as it apparently was of his immediate predecessors in that office, that if you can make people happy by giving them the license plate numbers they want, why not? However, if it gets to be too much of a burden on the staff, sooner or later some secretary will devise a system that will do away with the whole matter of choice of plate numbers.

Old Method to Test Gold The ancient test-stone, needles and acid method of determining the karat quality of gold never has been improved upon as a convenient test. Starting with the fact that pure gold is called 24 karat; that less than 24 karats indicates the relative amounts of gold and alloy in the metal (18 karat gold is 18-24ths gold and 6-24ths alloy); and that nitric acid dissolves alloy but not gold, it is seen readily why old methods are still in use.

Sport Briefs From University of Detroit
John McDermott, sophomore full-back of the University of Detroit Titans, wasn't considered good enough for a regular job with St. Ignace High School, Chicago.

The game with Manhattan seems to be a jinx to the University of Detroit Titans. In 1936 Jim Piper, star triple threat man, sustained a broken wrist that kept him out the rest of the season.

If you ask the University of Detroit Titans, Fritz Pollard, Jr., Negro half-back of the University of North Dakota team, which meets Detroit on November 13, is one of the best backs in the world.

University of Detroit players rank Wyoscki, Villanova's big left end, as one of the best wingmen they have played against in years.

Playing against Villanova under the handicap of an infected leg that had kept in the hospital for a week, Andy Farkas, Detroit's great running back, had to relinquish the national scoring lead on October 30.

At the homecoming game with Villanova, the University of Detroit invited the fathers of varsity players to sit on the bench.

The University of Detroit Titans may have a "brother act" in their line next year. Bill Nienstedt who probably will step into Captain Joe Cieslak's place at tackle when Joe graduates in June, has a "baby" brother on the freshman team, also a tackle aspirant.

With Andy Farkas, his best ball-carrier, in the hospital and both regular tackles limping badly, Coach Gus Dorais of the University of Detroit Titans became so desperate before the Manhattan game that he threatened to dust off old "Statue of Liberty" play and use it against the Jaspers.

Gus Dorais' success in coaching the college All-Stars to victory over the Green Bay Packers last September has greatly stimulated attendance at the University of Detroit games this season.

Legislature Meets to Hold Auto Tax Reduction As Is
Any need for a special session of the legislature to retain the 36 per cent reduction granted motorists the last three years on the cost of their license plates apparently disappeared this week.
