

Curriculum Advancement As Seen By Student of Grosse Pointe High

The text of a speech given at the January commencement exercises of the Grosse Pointe High School by a member of the graduating class.

By BRUCE LINDLEY
A challenge had to be met in 1928. The Grosse Pointe High School faculty was confronted with building up the academic subjects to the high standard that the quality of the pupils, the teachers, and the building demanded. It would have been a sheer waste of natural resources if our course of study could not have kept pace with these assets. And so this evening we shall briefly scan the beginning and the swift development of an academic curriculum that has proved an answer to that challenge.

First, let us look at the English department. A decade ago we had the traditional courses, English I-VIII, identical with other high schools. The students studied only English and American literature. A new course—world literature—was offered in 1932. The purpose of this study is to acquaint students with literary masterpieces of non-English authors in order to stimulate more cosmopolitan reading interests. It is interesting to note that Grosse Pointe was one of the first high schools in the United States to offer a course in world literature.

Last fall another new type of English course, known as remedial English, was introduced into the Grosse Pointe High School. The remedial courses are designed for the non-college student who has difficulties in reading, writing, and speaking; consequently, emphasis is placed on improvements in these abilities rather than on traditional English. Much use is made of magazines and other popular reading matter. This course has proved increasingly popular and practical. Some students are for the first time learning to read with appreciation and intelligence and to do constructive thinking as a result of that reading.

To aid the student in expressing himself through written language, three new courses have been added. The first is a course in Creative Writing (English VII). Students of this course contribute very extensively to Proem, the school literary magazine. That their work is effective is proved by the fact that Proem for many semesters has received first class rating and is now ranked All-American.

The other two courses which have been added to develop writing ability are the laboratory courses in Journalism which are concerned with various types of news writing and the publishing of The Tower.

The foreign language department in 1928 had 15 classes as compared with 25 today. During the last decade third and fourth year Latin; third year French and two years of German have been introduced into our curriculum. The addition of German shifted some of the French and Latin pupils into this course which is proving valuable to students entering medicine, engineering, architecture, and mechanics.

As a whole, language teaching methods have improved. Grammar is now regarded as only a tool—a means to an end, for our teachers are now adapting the course to the student rather than the student to the course. The innovation of the language libraries in the class rooms provides opportunity for students to read widely and to acquaint themselves with the customs and the life of the people whose literature they are studying. The content ranges from simple legendary stories to novels which are read in the homeland today by adults. In the French library alone there are about 200 volumes. The future of the foreign language department rests upon making the languages live for the student today.

The years have seen a change in the history department, both in the addition of new or different courses and in the improvement within the courses themselves. The enrollment in social studies shows a 209 per cent increase since 1928. Part of this increase, aside from the growth in student enrollment, is accounted for by a change in requirements. For instance, a course in building responsible citizens in modern America known as Civics I, and a course in vocational study called Civics II are now required by a state law passed in 1931. Civics II also plays a big part in our vocational guidance program. This course helps the student plan his vocation and analyze his abilities.

During the last decade 9th grade American history was found to be inadequate; consequently, it was combined with medieval history, made a senior high course, and is now called world history. Modern European history is still another addition. American history continues to be taught in the senior year, but it has undergone considerable revision.

The history department sees a future in its work as do the other departments.

It aims toward still better library facilities, to be used during class time, and toward a 60 or 90 minute class period so as to avoid the "hurried atmosphere" of today's classroom.

The science department has experienced a genuine increase in popularity. The fact that science enrollments in the senior high school have absorbed 18 per cent more than their share of over a thousand new pupils since 1928, proves this popularity. Yet there have been no senior high science courses added and but one year is required for college recommendation. It is obvious therefore, that these greater enrollments are largely self-earned. Modern students like science. Biology especially has an increased enrollment of late. Chemistry and physics have likewise followed suit. The teachers of these courses are now considering a new method of teaching as they come to realize that preparing everybody for college is wrong. For as Dr. Elliot, State Superintendent of Michigan Schools, says: "We have lost sight of the real purpose of high school when we put all of our stress on preparing people for college." In fact, only about 40 to 50 per cent of Grosse Pointe graduates go to college. With this in mind, the science department hopes to develop one-semester descriptive courses in chemistry and physics for the benefit of students not expecting to attend college. Such courses will satisfy requirements for graduation, increase interest, and will not hold back the college people. These courses probably would not "train young scientists," out would in some instances, arouse a dormant scientific interest and possibly persuade the pupil to undertake the more difficult laboratory studies. Although these courses are only tentative, they do show promise and would mark a great step in the progress of the science department.

In this brief survey we have seen that Grosse Pointe High School has advanced greatly in the academic field. Courses have been added, courses have been abandoned, and the remaining ones have been revised or modified in accordance with the changing trends in education. Our school is keeping step with the times. Our high record on achievement tests has already been pointed out.

Grosse Pointe High Ends Season with Victory Over Bathers

By DON MORRISON
Last week-end the Grosse Pointe High School cagers ended their 1937-38 schedule with a 28-12 victory over Mt. Clemens Friday, to give them second place in the Border Cities League, and then Saturday they were turned back by a strong Port Huron five 30-25.

In Friday night's game the Mt. Clemens squad had the Blue Devils baffled in the early part of the contest by the use of a zone defense, but the locals managed to account for 12 points before the half ended, while holding the Bathers at bay with only five counters.

In the first half Grosse Pointe scored on five field goals, two by Fliche, and one each by Teuhy, Beever, and Lee. Winters and Touhey each sank foul shots. Mt. Clemens made two field goals, one each by Wagner and Chapman. Pingel scored on a charity toss.

The second half saw the locals break through the Bathers' defense time and again to score 16 points. The fine defense work of the Blue Devils held the Bathers scoreless in the frame, and to only seven points in the closing frame.

In the second half the locals hooped six field goals, one each by Fliche, Beever, Cronin, Scott, Maas, and Barrett. Beever made two foul tosses. Scott and Lee each sank one. Mt. Clemens scored seven points on three floor shots, one each by Sharkey, Durst and Chapman, who also made a foul.

Dan Cronin, local forward, played an outstanding defensive game, and War-

U. of D. Cagers' Season to End on March 11

With hopes of hanging up the finest basketball record in the history of the University of Detroit, Coach Lloyd Brazil's Titan cagers meet John Corroll of Cleveland at the Naval Armory Saturday night in the first of a three game home stand that will conclude the season on March 11 with Notre Dame. In an earlier game played in Cleveland this year the Titans edged out the Carroll team in the final minutes of play by a 43 to 41 count.

Detroit's greatest basketball season was in the winter of 1918 when the Titans won 14 games. Having already tied that record by virtue of their two victories in Chicago last week, the Titan cagers will be out to set a new mark against the Blue Streaks Saturday night. However, if the first game played between the two teams in Cleveland a few weeks ago was any indication of the John Carroll team's strength, then it is certain that the Titans will find record breaking against the Blue Streaks a pretty tough assignment.

Last year in Detroit the Brazillen tripped John Carroll team last week, they did not have quite the same success with one "Tip" Spallino, who plays the forward post for the Blue Streaks. Taking scoring honors for the evening proved rather a simple task for this six footer who found the Titans' basket for a total of 15 points. Should Mr. Spallino continue his brilliant shooting Saturday night and receive a little co-operation from other members of his team, Detroit might be forced to postpone their record breaking business for another week at least.

As the John Carroll game will be one of the last opportunities for Detroit basketball fans to see the 1938 Titan cagers in action, a large crowd is expected to fill the stands Saturday night.

Although the great American game of college football is generally played on Saturday afternoon, the 1938 University of Detroit football team will play two games on Sunday, two on Friday night and one on Wednesday afternoon. The remaining five games are scheduled for Saturday afternoon barring any more changes in the Titan schedule.

Lloyd Brazil, University of Detroit cage mentor, lays claim to having a very unique basketball team this year. Not only are nine of his twelve man squad sophomores, but of the entire squad not one hails from the State of Indiana. "I think we've got something there," said the Titan coach, "because every squad roster I've seen from Main to California carries at least one Hoosier basketball player."

Christian Science Church

"Man" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, March 6. The Golden Text, from Romans 8:14, is: "As many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God."

Among the Bible citations in this passage (Genesis 1:27): "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 336): "Immortal man was and is Gods image or idea, even the infinite expression of infinite Mind, and immortal man is coexistent and coeternal with that Mind."

Capt. John D. Craig, Noted Producer, Town Hall Speaker March 9

Captain John D. Craig, Hollywood producer of adventure pictures, big game hunter, and leader of his own crew of deep-sea photographers, comes to Detroit Town Hall in the Fisher Theatre, Wednesday morning, March 9, at 11:00 o'clock. Captain Craig has been hailed from coast to coast as a lecture sensation, not only because he is engaged in a dangerous and thrilling business, but because he is one of the best story tellers on the platform.

"Adventures Making Thrilling Movies" is his subject. Craig is the man behind the thrill sequences in such pictures as Trader Horn, Devil Tiger, Eskimo, I Cover the Waterfront and many others. Craig and his young band of movie technicians have filmed sequences in 35 countries, on land and under water, for all the leading motion picture companies.

Craig is preparing now for the big "My Business", which comes out Feb. 24, has been selected as the March book for the Literary Guild of America.

Craig is preparing now for the big adventure of his career next summer when he expects to dive to the deck of the Lusitania to photograph the salvaging of the ill-fated ship which lies 321 feet under water off the coast of Ireland. For this under-sea expedition Craig and Gene Nohl, one of his crew, have invented a special "self-contained" diving dress in which the diver breathes a mixture of helium and oxygen. Recently Nohl tested it in Lake Michigan to a depth of 420 feet to set a new world's record. As a "dress rehearsal" for the Lusitania dive, Craig has been engaged to dive for the treasure on the Merida which is supposed to contain the crown jewels of Mexico and millions of dollars in gold. Tickets are for sale at Grinnell's Music Store, Detroit, RA. 1124, $1.10—$1.65 including tax.

Townsend Club Meets Tuesday

Pleasant memories linger in the minds of the friends and members of Townsend Club No. 7, following their big Colonial dinner and party held on February 22, at which time it was voted to send a telegram to Dr. Francis E. Townsend, their founder and leader, expressing their continued loyalty and true co-operation in their great work for the General Welfare Act, HR 4199. The meetings of this club are held on the second and fourth Tuesday nights at 8 o'clock, in St. Columba Episcopal parish building, on East Jefferson and Manistique avenues, entrance at 1021 Manistique.

Tuesday, March 8, there will be a business session with reports from officers and committees. A big surprise is promised those who attend in the plans for the program. Can you guess it? I doubt it, so come and learn all about it. Bring a friend or neighbor to share it with. The public is invited, especially the young folks. No admission charge.

Hear Judge Edward J. Jeffries over Station WJBK on Sunday, March 6, at 3:15 p. m. on the Townsend Plan.

U. S. Navy News

The highest deck extending from stem to stern is called the main deck. Partial decks above the main deck at the bow are forecastle decks, at the stern, poop decks; amidships, the upper deck. Partial decks above these, not extending to the side of the ship, are called superstructure decks. Complete decks below the main deck are called lower decks; when there are more than one they are numbered: first deck below, second and on larger ships there is a third deck. Partial decks below the lower decks are called platform decks, numbered in the same manner.

OLD NAVAL CUSTOMS

At various times during the history of our Navy the uniform has been drastically changed. Most of us know of the change that altered the uniform just a few years past. The earlier changes were much more drastic and changed the whole uniform. It was in 1815 that the Secretary of the Navy issued an order making the uniform for enlisted men a blue coat with six buttons on the lapels, blue pantaloons, a white vest, and a round hat with cockade.

Public Letter B-O-X

To the Editor: In your issue of February 17 you show a scene of a purported bombardment of Barcelona. The accompanying footnote tellings of great loss of life to civilians.

This picture has appeared in numerous newspapers for propaganda purposes to raise funds to maintain the Sovietized army who hope to drive Christianity out of Spain. I am sure our American people will not subscribe to such a diabolical scheme. I would suggest you procure a picture of the so-called (loyalists) training their guns on the children's orphanage at Teruel recently, killing and maiming a large number. If the leftists had confined their efforts to fighting men only, they might not have been compelled to admit a loss of 360 dead and a larger number wounded out of one Canadian and American regiment.

Gault McGowan, internationally known newspaperman, and recognized both in England and the United States as a reliable writer, says that he was obliged to conduct a special inquiry to discover why the truth was being kept from the world outside, says he. I tracked down the communist propaganda machine in Loyalist Spain. Class is set against class, and creed against creed. Indeed the people are rail-

County Reflections

By Jack Sablin
The real reason for the large Supervisors room at the County Building has finally come to light.

This past week has seen thousands of the interested and curious jamming the corridors and elevators of the County Building in an attempt to be present at the hearing of the Barker trial.

All other courtrooms being too small for accommodating the great throngs Judge James M. Jeffries is presiding over the case in the Supervisors room where the destinies of many others have been tried in cases heretofore.

was busy Tuesday morning signing some $802,000 worth of bonds covering the county issue in connection with the new incinerator plant for Detroit, which will provide work for a considerable number of present unemployed.

That the county is doing everything possible to promote work is further evidenced by the huge drainage program now in operation. Thousands are employed on this particular project and is not only providing work but is also giving the tax-payers of the county one of the finest drainage systems in the country and as the county has utilized federal funds in a large degree, it is benefiting at a great savings to the tax-payer as well.

Puy American is the slogan again being resounded. Following a meeting of the county auditors all orders coming from the county purchasing department will henceforth carry that stamp. Auditor Ray D. Schneider who proposed this movement stated "the recession may be tying up the strings of industry at present but that if every concern and civic body would purchase American it would help in bringing the recession to the end which we hope is near at hand."

Lingeman called attention to a release sent him by William Brownrigg, state director of personnel, in which it was brought out that many applications were being received for examinations that have not been announced and asking the applicants to apply only for such positions as have been publicly announced. At present there is one more examination to be held February 19 and will include Clerks, Nurses and Monitors. Blanks may be had by applying at the county clerk's office in the County Building.

"Like a tree"

TRAVELERS who visit the Sequoia groves on the Pacific Coast are impressed by the immense size and longevity of the trees. Some of the magnificent specimens, towering hundreds of feet above the observer, are estimated to be from three to five thousand years old.

According to their estimated antiquity, some of them were saplings when Abram began his journeying forth from Ur of the Chaldees and when he listened to the divine command (Genesis 17:1), "Walk before me and be perfect."

The beauty and grandeur of nature illustrate the continuity and endurance of good, and lessons drawn from them point to the unfolding of the ideal and real which to human sense seem obscured by the belief that life is material and finite.

In Scriptural metaphor both the good and the wicked are compared to trees. The righteous "shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water, that brings forth its fruit in his season; his leaf also shall not wither" (Psalms 1:3); while the wicked are as "trees whose fruit withereth" (Jude 1:12).

Whatever difficulties arise through the temporal storms of sense, we can look away from the material evidence and know that "the tree of life" never fades, but endures, for its roots are in divine Principle, and its branches outspread in the sunlight of reality.

The amount of the scholarship is $200. An additional $100 may be given by the committee for a second year's work if an outstanding record is maintained the first year and if the need for help is still in evidence.

FIGHTS JAP POACHERS

C. Chester Carlson, delegate of the Alaska Fisherman's union, points out on a map of Alaska some of the strategic spots where Japanese salmon poachers have set up their mile-long nets and seagoing salmon canning factories off the Alaskan coast. The poachers threaten America's $40,000,000 salmon industry with extinction. Mr. Carlson was one of several Alaska and west coast fisheries experts questioned at the bureau of fisheries of the Commerce department in Washington, D. C., about this poaching menace pending legislation to curb the salmon slaughter.

Cellulose Found in Most Plant Matter Specimens

Most types of plant matter contain large amounts of cellulose. Cellulose, as well as starch, is formed by the linking together of large numbers of molecules of certain sugars known as hexoses. The hexose sugars, which include all of the familiar sugars, are characterized by the fact that they contain a string of six carbon atoms in their molecules.

Corncobs, grain hulls and straw, and bagasse (dried sugar cane stalks) contain in addition a class of compounds known as pentosans. Pentosans are also built up from a large number of sugar molecules, but of a type known as pentoses, containing five instead of six carbon atoms.

When hexoses are heated with dilute acids, says a writer in the Chicago Tribune, extensive decomposition takes place, with the formation of caramel and various organic acids. Similar treatment applied to pentoses results in the formation of a large amount of furfural, a clear, water-insoluble liquid with a characteristic pungent odor.

Furfural, different from all other cheaply produced organic compounds, has its most important use in the refining of petroleum lubricants. Furfural is one of those compounds that do not dissolve in the oil but are capable of washing out from it a large part of the tarry materials that detract from its lubricating properties.

Blonds Have Most Hair; Brunettes, Redheads Next

It has been found that people with the most abundant body-hair have the least abundant head-hair, and that the proportion varies with the color.

Blonds have from 140,000 to 160,000 hairs, brunettes from 80,000 to 125,000, and red-heads from 25,000 to 55,000.

We all lose about 40 hairs a day, says a writer in Pearson's London Weekly, so that if you had a detective on your track, your head would leave a trail like a paper-chase behind you.

Every time you shave you throw 10,000 clues to your identity down the drain, for beard, eyebrow and eyelash hairs all have their own distinguishing marks.

In special circumstances the scientific expert can tell a male hair from a female hair, and he can cut sections lengthwise to decide from what kind of animal a non-human hair has come.

In section, hairs from dogs and cats are easily distinguishable, and a fiber of wool has a distinctive set of conical joints which can even show the variety of sheep from which it came. Silk and cotton fibers are also different.

Table Manners

Manners vary considerably in different parts of the world—especially table manners. What we would consider terribly rude in this country is regarded as excellent in India, says London Tit-Bits Magazine. If you dine with an Indian in his country you are expected to lick the platter clean—to leave anything on your plate is an insult to his food. Be sure to call for a second helping of everything in a loud voice, and a third, if possible. Always praise the items and give the impression that the food is delicious. You are expected to desist when you cannot eat more, not when you have had sufficient. Patting your stomach as proof is one sign. Indians are great eaters, and "strong" and "fat" are synonymous, especially among the "bannia" (shopkeeper) class. Among them it is common practice to tie a length of cotton around their waists and eat until their stomach swells and the cotton snaps. Then they cease immediately.

PATTY WINS AGAIN

Court of Brotherhood

One of the most ancient courts in this country is known officially as "Court of Brotherhood and Guesting," says London Tit-Bits Magazine. It is older than the Doomsday Book, is presided over by the warden of the Cinque Ports, and to it come the port barons clad in their ceremonial coronation robes to renew their ancient oaths ("to maintain their charters, franchises, liberties and customs." Among the traditional ceremonies is the reading aloud of an old order of Queen Elizabeth imposing a fine of three shillings, four pence, "to be paid forthwith," on any member speaking more than once on any subject, and the same penalty for anyone interrupting a speaker.

AIR PIONEER

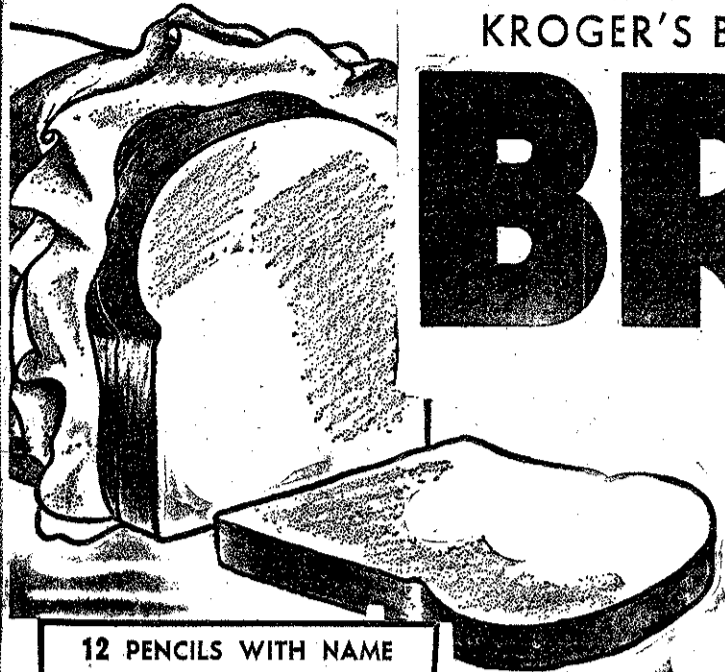

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, noted scientist and explorer who recently predicted that the world's air routes will soon be laid out in straight lines instead of the present curves. Pointing to the ultimate necessity of flying directly northward from the United States to Paris, he said that such a route would save at least 1,000 miles from the present course.

Pocahontas Asks Higher Freight Rates on Coal

Soft coal consumers in Chicago will pay $3,450,000 more in soft coal freight rates, in addition to an earlier increase of $2,300,000 if the Interstate Commerce Commission accepts the plea of the American Railroad Association that railroads face bankruptcy.

Approximately 55 per cent of this contribution, or $1,860,000 will go to the Pocahontas carriers, Pennsylvania, Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central and smaller lines which made profits during the first nine months of 1937. These same profits making lines obtained approximately $1,240,000 of the earlier increase. The Pocahontas carriers by themselves obtained $1,150,000 of the earlier increase and seek $1,725,000 of the increase now being asked at Washington.

So John Carson, Consumers' Council under the Bituminous Coal Act, pointed out today in an analysis of the freight rate demand. On January 31 Mr. Carson filed a brief before the Commission opposing a nation-wide increase in bituminous coal rates because 85 per cent of the amount would go to Pocahontas and other roads which need no relief.

It is the duty of the Consumers' Council to appear in the interest of coal consumers in any proceeding before the National Bituminous Coal Commission and to conduct any independent investigation relative to the coal industry as he may deem necessary. This includes the study of freight rates and, when it is the Council's opinion that they are discriminatory, he may appear before the Interstate Commerce Commission on behalf of the consumer.

"Chicago receives approximately 23,000,000 tons of bituminous coal by rail," Mr. Carson pointed out. "Of this amount more than 12,000,000 tons comes from the southern coal fields in West Virginia, Kentucky, and Virginia, which are served primarily by the Pocahontas carriers. The smokeless field alone furnishes approximately one-third of the Chicago all rail tonnage."

"Every dollar which the Pocahontas and other profit-making lines hope to get for performing the same service that they gave six months ago is a dollar taken from industries and private homes in Chicago. Even before the first increase was granted, the Pocahontas lines enjoyed such large profits that the Commission itself declared it 'shocked the conscience' to increase their revenue still further."

"The Pocahontas carriers are trying to obtain from the public through the Interstate Commerce Commission more money for themselves in a single year by increasing rates than all needy roads in the country together will get in eight months."

"The Consumers' Council is not opposing the plea of the railroads for higher rates on other commodities because needy roads might profit to some extent if such increases are granted. But the tactics of the Pocahontas and other profit-making roads in seeking those of a richer promoter of a scheme to raise funds for charity who takes the lion's share of all the funds raised."

ren Piche, local guard, was high scorer with three two-counters.

Two field goals in the closing minutes of play by the Port Huron quintet proved to be the deciding factor in Saturday night's tilt. From start to the finish it was a toss-up affair, with neither team leading by more than a few points.

The locals were in front in the opening frame 3-2, but the Hurons took the lead away from the Blue Devils in the second quarter and led at the intermission 14-12.

In the first half Grosse Pointe scored five field goals, three by Cronin, and one each by Winters and Touhey. Foul shots were made by Cronin and Touhey. Byrne hooped all of the Huron's field goals and also accounted for one foul toss. Cowley, Aubrey, and Goss each made charity tosses.

In the third quarter the Hurons added two more points to their lead, and from that time on they were never headed. Although going down in defeat, the Blue Devils played a very fine game.

The second half scoring by the locals was on five floor shots, two by Touhey and one each by Winters, Cronin and Piche. Winters accounted for two foul shots and Touhey made one. Port Huron sank seven field goals; three by Turnbull, two by Byrne, and one each by Cowley and Aubrey. Cowley and Turnbull each hooped one foul toss.

Byrne, Huron center, was high scorer for Port Huron with 15 points. Cronin led the locals' attack with nine points.

White Collar Workers Are Forgotten Men in Job Distribution

Scoring WPA employment policy as unfair to the white collar worker, the employment committee of Detroit white collar unions will ask more white collar jobs and elimination of the "pauper's oath" necessary for WPA jobs from City and WPA officials.

"The white collar worker is the forgotten man of the whole WPA situation," Grace Taylor, international organizer of the Office and Professional Workers Union, stated. "Although 15,600 WPA jobs have been created in the past 6 weeks, not a single white collar project has been opened. Detroit's white collar unemployed deserve a proportionate amount of WPA jobs. There are many projects which would be of immeasurable value to the city. Present Federal relief funds should be utilized to make Detroit a better city."

WPA certification methods discriminate against white collar workers, according to Miss Taylor. "The white collar worker may be hundreds of dollars in the red but he is still unable to obtain a WPA job because of relief standards. The pauper's oath as a requirement for a job should be eliminated," stated Miss Taylor.

There is no obligation or fee entailed in the registration. All white collar, professional and technical workers who need work will be registered. No union affiliation will be required of registrants. The registration will last for a one-week period.
