It means that you can buy fresh fruits, vegetables, seafoods, poultry and meat that has been what is known as quick frozen, a recently developed revolutionary process of preserving the fine qualities of freshness and tastiness until the consumer ultimately is ready to use it.

Ordinary freezing destroys the flavor and changes the texture of foods, but this new process retains the flavor and texture. These foods are frozen as soon as they are obtained and thus preserve much of the finer qualities of the product which is lost to a great extent in the ordinary method of handling these same products.

Enquire at Fred's how you can be assured of absolutely the maximum in freshness, and you will be convinced of the advantages of this new service which is now available locally for the first time at Fred's Grosse Pointe Market, 17030 Kercheval avenue.

Social Security Number Essential

Because of the failure of many employers to list Social Security numbers for all workers on quarterly wage reports sent to the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission, Director Abner E. Larned, announced that delay may be caused in processing individual wage records for some covered workers.

"Unless every covered worker has a Social Security number and the employer lists that number as required in the quarterly wage report, the Commission will be unable to determine that worker's weekly benefit amount should he become unemployed after July 1, 1938 and apply for benefits," Director Larned said in emphasizing the need for every worker having a Social Security number, regardless of age. Workers over 65 are covered in this compensation law and their wages have to be reported.

County Reflections

County employees will be turning out en masse Friday Nite, May 20th, to honor Harold E. Stoll, Register of Deeds, at a dance given him at the Hotel Statler. There will be almost 2,000 county employees and their friends there to let Harold know the high esteem in which they hold him.

Of all the County officals and employees there is no more highly respected and well liked than Harold Stoll. His quiet sincerity, coupled with a thoughtful, friendly nature have gained for him the loyalty and respect of

This May Festival, as the dance is called, is an annual affair that never failes to draw a large gathering of county, city and state notables, along with a couple thousand other friends.

Wm. McDowell, one of the old timers around the County Building, is in a serious condition at Receiving Hospital with a broken back.

"Mac" was injured in an automobile accident a week ago last Wednesday. He has been a County Building electrician and engineer for about the last

The County Building new photostat machines are the first in the County to be equipped with the most modern improvements that enable the machines to photograph, develop, fix, wash and dry photo prints automatically. The new devices were installed on the machines last week.

According to Jack McEwen, who works in the County's Photostat Department, they do darn near everything, eat and sleep.

Over 400 fans are needed to cool the spring fever brows of the County Building workers and to combat the heat waves of torrid summer days.

Ed Aspinall, chief County Building Engineer, estimates that it takes three to four months to repair, clean and replace these fans, with one and sometimes two men giving the job 80% of their time. Ed says these men start way back about January when the wind is frozen solid enough to cut in strips and wind into the fans and when summer comes, why they merely put the fans up about the building and let them thaw out and fill the place with cooling breezes almost as good as modern air conditioning.

ng basement housed the boilers and generators that supplied the building with its own heat and light, but now these have been removed to make room for more record rooms and offices. The Edison Company now furnishes the County Building with its steam heat and the electricity to run the elevators, while the Public Lighting Commission supplies electricity for the thousands of electric light bulbs in use every day. of the same name. About 15 years ago the County Build-

Clark Finley, clerk in the office of -Jack Sumeracki, the County Treasurer, tells us of an amusing incident of the other day. It has to do with one of the men employed by a certain abstract company in Detroit. This fellow, so Clark says, is quite loyal to his company and claims that his company never makes a mistake when checking and bringing abstracts up to date. So the other day when a woman customer came into the Treasurer's office and very indignatly stated that there was a mistake in her abstract, which had been brought up to date by the same company, Clark thought he would rib this fellow about it.

The abstract showed the woman's mother to be dead—a fact that she quite vehemently denied. In searching for the cause of the error, it was found that when checking the Register of Deed's Records, the abstractor had found a death certificate of a woman deceased.

When this mistake was shown to this certain abstractor, rather than admit the company was wrong, he claimed they should shoot the old woman.

Shades of the unidentified dead haunt the dark recesses of the County Building stockroom. Here in this self-same spot, 15 years ago, was situated the County Morgue. Here in the basement of the County Building, kept on ice were the corpses of those who met an untimely end, until they might be identfied and given burial.

Now the same place is used to store books, pencils, ink and erasers that are on rows on rows of shelves, the paper, found necessary to the life of the County Building.

The three men whose duties include the care of the stockroom say the place is as dead now as it was 15 years ago. Says one of them, Don Rocheleau, "Nothing ever happens here. Things just come in and things go out." Don sort of wishes he, or better yet, one of his two companions, Gil Brucker or Melvin Weger, might meet up with one of those nameless spirits who find their rest disturbed by reams of paper and bottles of ink stocked unceremoniously on top of them. He thinks it might make things more interesting for them down there to have a nice friendly ghost to talk to when things are dull.

"Jack" Is Small Flag

The Union Jack, as applied to the flag of Great Britain, is a misnomer. 'Jack" is a diminutive, on the sea, so that only a small flag is rightly termed a "jack."

New Pointer's Viewpoint

Parking one's car in Grosse Pointe, whether in front of a residence or store, is never much of a problem. But New Pointer learned that if you drive down to the business district of Detroit you are liable to have to use a parking lot nine times out of ten. According to the density of the district, one pays anywhere from ten cents for all day up to ten cents an hour. In one of these lots New Pointer got into conversation with an attendant who had which is close to genius.

"Out where I live," said the attendant, "the cars are always knee deep. When I drive home, I often have to walk about a half a mile to the house, after finding a place to park. That is, I did have to until I made my hydrant."

"What do you mean you made your hydrant?" asked New Pointer. "Just that," said the attendant sericusly, "last winter I got a block of wood and made a fire hydrant, covered it with nice red paint and gilt paint for the metal parts. It took me a month to do and it looks almost better

"What do you do now you got a hydrant," New Pointer asked.

"Well," said the attendant, "my fireplug stands right smack in front of my home all day, and when I come back in the evening after work, I pull up in the space in front of the hydrant. and then I pick it up and put it in the back seat of the car for the night. When I leave for work early in the morning, I set it out again."

"Don't you ever have any trouble; what if there was a fire and the firemen found the plug was dry?"

"Only twice was there any trouble, and one it was all my fault and I had to pay a fine," said the attendant. "You see one night I forgot to put the hydrant in the back of my car, just left it where it was. In the morning when I came out there was a ticket on the windshield for illegal parking. Nothing I could do, but pay the fine.

"Another time a dog living in the neighborhood went mad and tried to bite me. I guess the hydrant was one of his landmarks and when it kept disappearing and coming back, well, it just drove him mad. Since then my wife shoos dogs away and we haven't had any trouble." New Pointer went away wishing he

What do you look for in a permanent

As strange as it may seem, all women do not look for the same thing. Some want a "name" and would not buy a wave without national prestige. others seek a wave boasting of high oil content-a "reconditioning" wave; again some seek a gilt-edge guarantee, regardless of name; and lots of them think only of price.

But what is really important?

First and last, she expects that a permanent will be a good foundation for any hairdress so that she will not have to spend as much time or money on finger waves. In other words she is buying "ease of grooming."

Everyone knows that the same named permanent put in by different operators gives different results. That hair differs so much that the skill of the operator and the reputation of the shop which does the work are the two biggest factors. Every woman knows that merely skimmed milk and flour won't make a cake.

Ends Season Sat.

The University of Detroit golf team will close one of its most successful seasons this Saturday when the Titan linksmen journey to Columbus, Ohio, for their match with Ohio State. Despite the fact that Detroit failed to win all of its games, the year will nevertheless go down as one of the best in Titan golf history. Playing the strongest schedule ever tackled by a U. of D. foursome the Detroiters were never once badly beaten, only two or three points proving the difference between victory and defeat in each case. On the other hand the Titans conquered such outstanding teams this season at Notre Dame, Michigan State Normal, Toledo U. and Western State.

Should the Red and White down Ohio State Saturday, they will shake a Big Ten jinx that has been their nemesis since the opening of the season. Detroit has lost but three matches to date and all three defeats can be credited to members of the Western Conference. The Titans' first two matches of the season were dropped to Purdue by a 13 to 14 scores and Indiana by a 151/2 to 111/2 count. After touncing the Irish, Detroit lost to Northweastern by a 101/2 to 71/2 score. Since the Wildcat was a carpenter and had the brains to game, the Titans have won three straight matches, but none of them from members of the Big Ten league.

Regardless of the fact that the Ohio State team was defeated this year by Notre Dame, the Detroit linksmen are plenty worried about the week-end's encounter. After losing to Detroit, the Irish trippled Pudrue, yet the Titans were unable to accomplish the same feat when they tangled with the Boilermakers. However, with all members of the team shooting in the best of form, Detroit figures to have a much better chance of defeating the Buckeyes than they had against their earlier Western Conference foes.

A six man team will make the Ohio State trip, despite the fact that only four have been picked to start. Bob Babbish, August Fogoros, Carl Collett and Bob Temple, the foursome that has been carrying Detroit's golf hopes for the greater part of this season, are sure of seeing action in Columbus this Saturday. Coach Bill Joyce will hold a practice session with the entire squad during the latter part of this week from which two men will be picked to fill out the team.
