Latin Mass Will Be Sung June 3 and 4

Under the sponsorship of the Grosse Pointe High School Mother's Club the music department of the Grosse Pointe High School is presenting a chorus of 112 voices under the direction of William J. Watkins, offering "St. Cecilia Mass" in Latin, at the High School auditorium Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:15 o'clock.

Singing the original Latin words, the Grosse Pointe High School chorus directed by Mr. William J. Watkins, music instructor, will present Gounod's St. Cecilia Mass June 3 and 4 in the high school auditorium. It will be assisted by soloists from Ann Arbor and the University of Michigan Symphony Orchestra conducted by Mr. Thor Johnson of the University School of Music.

The St. Cecilia Mass, which replaces the Music Festival of preceding years, represents the semester's work and outstanding achievement of the vocal students. This chorus of 112 voices consists of the A Cappell Choir under Mr. Watkins and the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs under Mr. John Finch, music instructor.

Though deeply religious in nature, the St. Cecilia Mass was composed for concert and is regarded to all intents and purposes as an oratorio or sacred cantata. It is seldom attempted in high schools. The part of it was first performed in London in 1851, it received wild acclaim.

Its name is derived from the patron saint of music and from the Latin "Ite missa est" (Depart, the assembly is dismissed). It was sung by the Deacon before the conclusion of service.

The entire Mass, which is to be sung in Latin, includes "Kyrie," "Gloria in Excelsis," "Credo," Invocation (to be played only by the orchestra), "Sanctus," "Benedictus," and "Agnes Dei."

Anthony La Bonty Rescued from Lake on Memorial Day

Five-year-old Anthony Francis (Sonny) La Bonty is alive and playing with his seven brothers and sisters at their home 1320 Lakepointe avenue, Grosse Pointe, because of the bravery of a patient in the United States Marine Hospital, Windmill Pointe Monday.

"Sonny" was rescued from Alter road canal late Monday by Harold H... ing, 22, of Kewawee, Ill., who was his first day's liberty from the hospital after an operation that had kept him in bed five weeks.

"Sonny," with James Britz, 8, of 1385 Lakepointe avenue, was playing on the banks of the canal when he fell in. James yelled for help as "Sonny" caught the branch of a tree overhanging the water. The branch broke. "Sonny" went under. Heberling, a youth, was returning to the hospital after watching the Memorial Day parade. He heard James' cries and saw the smaller boy struggling in the water. Unmindful of the bandages that still covered the scars of the operation he had undergone some weeks before, he plunged in and brought the lad to the bank.

Adequate public library facilities for Grosse Pointe were sought by a delegation of taxpayers who presented petitions signed by 589 residents of Grosse Pointe Park to the Board of Education at its regular meeting last Thursday at the Board of Education offices.
The petitions were presented by Mr. Fred Goodell. They urged the board to take steps to provide a public library building. The possibility of erecting such a building in connection with the proposed junior high school in Grosse Pointe Park was suggested.
Mr. Charles A. Parcels, president of the Board, outlined for the delegation the history of the development of libraries in Grosse Pointe and the consideration already given to future development by the Board.
Mrs. Charles Marden, Mrs. G. E. Swanson, Mrs. Dale Brown, Miss Florence Bachor, who were active in circulating the petitions, were among those joining in the discussion.

Grosse Pointe High School is one of the eighteen schools in Michigan selected to participate in a special twelve-year statewide study of the high school curriculum, according to announcement made by Dr. S. H. Brownell, superintendent of Grosse Pointe schools.
"The study is being financed by the General Education Board, a national educational foundation, and by the State Department of Public Instruction," explains Dr. Brownell. "It will be supervised by the Michigan Study of the Secondary School Curriculum, a state committee sponsored by the State Board of Education in cooperation with the State Department of Public Instruction. The General Education Board, a national foundation, has made a grant of $57,500.00 to be used in the study over a period of four years. Additional costs to the local school district, if any, will be determined by the local school authorities in relation to changes they may decide in the future to make in the instructional program.

Ten 12A students were elected into membership of the Grosse Pointe High School chapter of the National Honor Society last week, by the faculty council, composed of department heads and the administrative officers.

The new members include two boys and eight girls: Doris Allen, Charles Chapman, Elizabeth Goodrich, Jacqueline Hauck, Harriet Heames, Jean Jackson, Margaret Jensen, and Janet Tiedeck.

These students all have at least a B average from the ninth grade on, and rank in the upper fourth of their class in scholarship. In the estimation of the faculty council they are also outstandingly superior in leadership, character and service.

Only 12A's are now eligible for membership under the action of the general faculty last fall.

Pins were given to the new members at the Honors Convocation Thursday, May 26.

Mr. Harold Husband, high school history instructor, is the author of three recently published magazine articles on educational problems.

"Parent-Student Co-operation" and "Training Junior Executives" appear in The School Activities Magazine.
"Athletic Insurance," together with pictures of Dr. Walker and Bill Stone, was published in "The Nation's Schools."

The Cadet, junior high school newspaper, put out by English classes at the Defer-Trombly Annex, has been rated one of the twenty best duplicated papers published by junior high schools by the National Duplicated Paper Association. The judges placed it with a group of papers particularly "outstanding in community value." The staff of the Cadet consists entirely of seventh graders and 8B's, working under the supervision of Miss Bernice Moore.

"The general purpose of the statewide study is to discover, evaluate, and develop desirable modifications in the instructional program of the high school, in order to provide the best possible type of education that today's high school students need, both those who are and those who are not going to college," said Dr. Brownell. "Each local school participating in the study will retain all of its local initiative and responsibility, but will receive assistance in the form of material, consultation service, and specific help.

"The study is being financed by the General Education Board, because the problem of adapting the high school curriculum to the student and to community needs is a national one. The results of the study in Michigan are expected to be of help to schools throughout the nation.

"The planning and preliminary study for this statewide study has been in process during the past year under the direction committee appointed by the State Board of Education. The members of this directing committee are S. M. Brownell, Superintendent of Schools, Grosse Pointe; John R. Emens, Deputy State Superintendent, Lansing; Ogden Johnson, Principal of Ishpeming High School; Harlan C. Koch, Assistant Director of the Bureau of Cooperation with Educational Institutions, University of Michigan; Paul T. Rankin, Supervising Director of Research and Information, Detroit Public Schools; H. A. Tape, Principal, Lincoln Consolidated School, Ypsilanti; and J. E. Wellwood, Principal, Central High School, Flint.
"In August, 1937, this committee appointed J. Cecil Parker as full-time director of the study. Funds for his salary and expenses for one year were secured from the General Education Board. Recently, the General Education Board appropriated further funds to finance the study for a period of three years. The complete plan anticipates a twelve-year study.

"The plans for this study in Michigan include a long-time cooperative program for the improvement of secondary education in three ways: first, by working intensively with a group of 18 participating high schools in developing modifications of the present instructional program; second, by assisting a group of 35 associated schools in meeting their instructional problems; and third, by making every possible contribution to the improvement of instruction in all of the secondary schools of the state," explains J. Cecil Parker, state director of the study.

"Two groups of schools will participate directly in the general study. One group, including the Grosse Pointe High School, will be known as the eighteen participating schools. These schools were selected by the Directing Committee of the study on the basis state with respect to size, type, location and nature of the instructional program. The second group will consist of approximately thirty-five schools to be known as associated schools."

At a meeting the superintendents in communities having participating high schools, Mr. Parker described the nationwide problems of high school education which led to the launching of this study and several other similar ones in other parts of the country. He said, in part: "During the last fifty years enrollments in public high schools have increased more than thirty-fold. The nature of the pupil population in high schools has definitely changed and is changing. In 1890 the high school pupils were characterized by great similarity of purposes, interests, needs and capacities. In 1938 the high school pupils are characterized by great differences of purposes, interests, needs and capacities. Five or six of every seven will probably never go to college. Not only has the high school population changed, but the kinds of interests, purposes and abilities necessary to effective living have undergone far-reaching changes during the last fifty years."

In concluding, Mr. Parker said, "The needs of our youth, the nature of the pupil population, and the nature of living today are challenging the high school of today to enlarge its conception of its functions and to improve its instructional program. The Michigan Study of the Secondary Curriculum intends to meet the challenge by means of careful and extended study of the problems of secondary education in Michigan."

Campus requirements, scholastically and socially, will be discussed and explained in a series of programs starting July 7, which the Home Institute of The Detroit News has arranged for high school boys and girls. The programs will be varied according to the type of school and the special things which make up their most outstanding departments, such as sports, music, art, drama, etc. Some programs will include movies of campus scenes and activities; others will have dramatic presentations. Where sports are outstanding some of the colleges will have their athletic coaches on the program.

There is no charge for this series. Meetings will be held each Thursday afternoon through July and August, in the Auditorium Studio of WWJ—The Detroit News at 2 o'clock. As the seating of the Auditorium is limited, admission tickets are necessary, and can be secured by sending the attached coupon to the Home Institute, or sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for a ticket.

Giro Lands Mail on Post Office Roof

A feature of the program observing the twentieth anniversary of air mail flight, the demonstration showed the practicability of vertical landing and take-offs by means of the autogiro and the attendant saving in time.

FOR FAMILY ALBUM?

Possession of a camera by a foreigner in Japan is almost tantamount to conviction of espionage, but things are different in United States possessions, as may be judged by this photograph which shows an official Japanese naval photographer shooting everything at sight during a visit of his ship to the harbor of Honolulu, Hawaii. He is using an efficient camera in a highly fortified area, but maybe he just wants some snapshots for his family album.

Blondes Hold Peace Conference

Blondes from many parts of the United States interested in preserving peace are pictured as they answered the roll call at the first National Conference of Blondes to End War. The purpose of the "Blonde Brigade" is to fight war. Should America be invaded, members of the brigade will meet the enemy. They are confident that there isn't a soldier in the world who would shoot a lovely blonde.

NEW YORK FAIR MALL TO COST $60,000,000

NEW YORK—Sixty million dollars will be spent to make the mile-long Central Mall of the New York World's Fair 1939 the greatest artistic project in the history of expositions. The middle section of the mall is shown above in a scale model. The tree-lined esplanade will contain (left to right) the largest ball and tallest triangular spire ever built by man-kind, the highest sundial, the biggest portrait statue of modern times, honoring George Washington, and four statues dedicated to freedom of press, religion, speech and assembly. Literally scores of fountains, five waterfalls, hundreds of trees and more than a million plants will add to its dignified beauty.

DEAF-DUMB STAR

Handicaps of lack of speech and hearing have not prevented John Gray, seventeen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gray of New Canaan, Conn., from following in the footsteps of his famous uncle, the late John McGraw, former manager of the New York Giants. Gray is a natural ball player both in the field and at bat. In addition to playing first base for the school team, he captained the basketball team of the Mystic Oral school from which he graduates this spring.
