High School Notes

Advertisements aren't so easy to make as they seem. At least that is what high school journalism and art students discovered when they were assigned to make Hudson's ad for the reefer suit which is appearing in this week's Tower and 17 other school papers in the metropolitan area.

As a member of the Greater Press Guild, Grosse Pointe was assigned to make the Easter layout for Hudson's. Each school belonging to the Press Guild makes an ad for Hudson's or Kern's.

To begin with, four art and journalism students went to Hudson's to choose the suit. Barbara Godfrey, 12A, modeled it in all the art and journalism classes. After everyone had viewed the suit, the real work began. Journalism students put their heads together and thought of snappy headlines to attract the readers' attention.

When the suit was modeled in the art classes, it was found that the first sketches showed faulty observation. Several students made as many as 70 sketches of the suit before they were satisfied with their product.

Out of the 60 layouts made by journalism students, about two dozen were taken to Hudson's to be considered for publication.

Out of the sketches of 50 art students, about six were selected to be taken to Hudson's.

From all of these layouts and sketches, Hudson's selected the copy appearing today. Elizabeth Bishop, 12A, did the art work for the ad. Vonnie Young, P. G., contributed the headline. Shirley Clark, 12B, wrote the description.

Kerby School 3A's and 4B's are very much interested in Desert Lands. They have collected pictures, maps and books about the desert. They have read enough about desert lands to construct an Oasis Bazaar. The roof of the bazaar was red and white striped muslin. They hung models of oriental rugs on the floor. They made rugs for the floor. On these they collected coffee, coffee pots and cups, pottery, dates, goat-skin bags (sacks stuffed with paper), and clay fruits. On a sandtable they made a miniature oasis with palm trees, tents, wells, cooking fires, Bedovins and camels.

Again this year the Grosse Pointe High School Mothers' Club will offer scholarships to both the January and June graduating classes.

The scholastic record, extra-curricular record, need for financial assistance, character, leadership record and promise of college success and future civic usefulness are the factors to be considered in awarding the scholarships.

A written application should be submitted to Mr. Paul Rehmus or Mrs. Fred K. Hauck, 893 University place, before May 1. This application should state the college and vocational plans of the candidate.

Grosse Pointe High School has been proclaimed a particularly fine school, but Grosse Pointe still has its weakness, and among them is its fine arts department.

Says Mr. J. R. Barnes, director of curriculum. "The music and arts departments have been literally chained by lack of room, but considering the conditions under which these two departments have had to work, the results have been exceptionally good."

Thus profiting from previous experience, the new Pierce Junior High School designers have put special emphasis on the importance of having the right type of fine arts rooms to provide adequate working space and instruction.

As a result, the blueprints show two music rooms and two art rooms. The high school has one room for 1,600 students, while the Pierce High school will have much better equipped rooms for 950 pupils.

One of the art rooms is planned largely for the seventh grade groups, and the other is designed for more advance work. The advanced art room features: an individual work studio, a wash room, and a well-equipped pottery room. As these rooms are all partitioned with glass, the instructor may supervise all the students without difficulty. Under the windows on one side of the room is a long bench with drawers underneath for craft work.

The size of each room has been judged according to use, thus the seventh grade art room is 28 by 30 feet, and the advanced art room 30 by 35 feet. The average high school class room dimensions are 22 by 25 feet.

The new music rooms are both 30 by 45 feet. One of them is especially designed for instrumental music, and the other is planned for music appreciation and chorus work. Both rooms have "risers" or platforms at different levels to insure greater visibility.

Mr. W. J. Watkins, director of music, who planned the music rooms forgot nothing. Space is provided for the storage of instruments, band uniforms and music. In the corner there are four glass-partitioned practice studios.

Has Grosse Pointe the characteristics of a good high school? Is the teaching of the highest caliber? Do the students develop to the fullest extent?

To formulate answers to such questions is difficult in any school. It was in an attempt to simplify this task of evaluating a school that the North Central Association in 1933 held a series of conferences, during which the plans for a Co-operative Study of Secondary School Standards and Accrediting Procedures were prepared and organized.

It is the aim of the North Central Association to achieve by the study, a definite standard by which schools may be judged, and a practical way of measuring the effectiveness of a school. They also hope to be able to designate what means may be used to better a good school, and how regional meetings can further the growth of secondary schools.

One step in achieving these aims was the formation of a set of evaluative criteria which enables a faculty to appraise a school on such points as instruction, library, school guidance, extra curricular activities, school staff, school administration, and outdoors.

The criteria were examined, analyzed, and severely criticized by several experts in the field of secondary education. They are now being used as an experiment in two hundred secondary schools throughout the United States as a means of further determining the validation of the standards.

Grosse Pointe is the only high school selected from Michigan for this test. Thus, for the last two months, Mr. Paul A. Rehmus, principal, and the faculty, have been appraising the school according to the points mentioned in the criteria.

The next step in the study is a survey of the school by an expert committee. Therefore, during the week of March 20-27, Dr. Edgar Johnston, of the University of Michigan, and principal of the University High School, and Dr. James Matthews, of the University of Pennsylvania, will visit Grosse Pointe and make their appraisal of the school. They will visit the classes in all departments, observe noon and after school programs, see the assemblies, make a thorough tour of the school plant, study the guidance program, talk to students as well as teachers, and use every means possible to see how effective our school program is.

Costume design, or applying the principles of design to the selection and wearing of clothes, is being studied this semester by the commercial art II course under the supervision of Miss Marion Lampman at Grosse Pointe High School.

"The class," says Miss Lampman, "has a perfect set-up for costume design, for it is made up almost entirely of older girls, many of whom have been asking to do this sort of work since they first entered the art department. It is fortunate that art courses are not so rigid in this school that they cannot be changed to suit the needs of the students."

When the girls have completed this semester of work, they will have learned how to design present day clothes, using historical influences. They will have made a study of line, proportion, materials, colors, and accessories suitable for different individuals, and each will know what is becoming for her own type. In working out their problems, the girls will learn how to use different mediums such as water-color, pen and ink, and crayon, that are now used in fashion drawings and costume illustration.

"The art that is taught in schools today," Miss Lampman concludes, "is not what it was years ago when it was simply a smattering of painting, drawing, and picture appreciation. Today, which we as consumers need," design upon everything about us. In a class like this we can very definitely learn the discrimination and good taste which we as consumers need."

Why do Grosse Pointe High School students take speech?

A survey taken at the beginning of last semester by Mr. Donald Horton, instructor, disclosed that 33 of the 65 speech I students were taking speech because they wanted to overcome their fear of an audience.

The next most frequent reason seemed to be that they wanted to be able to talk interestingly.

Seventeen of these students were taking speech because they wanted to improve their vocabulary and diction. Then in varying degrees of frequency, these reasons were given by the students as why they were taking speech I: to overcome mumbling and poor enunciation; to learn to speak with ease, poise, and good posture; to learn to express themselves with exactness, intelligence, fluency, and ease; to learn to think on their feet; to learn to organize their thoughts.

At the end of the semester Mr. Horton asked the students to make written statements of whether they had gained the help they had expressed a desire for at the beginning of the semester. Most of the students had achieved what they wanted.

Typical statements were: "I have learned a great deal about speech habits which will be invaluable to me in later life." "I have become accustomed to thinking while standing. Not only thinking on my feet but expressing my thoughts in an organized and unified way." "I have come to the point where I thoroughly enjoy speaking in any class."

Lochmoor Protestant Church

Concluding the Easter series of sermons at the Lochmoor Protestant Church, Vernier road, the Rev. O. W. Burdette Olson's topic will be "Darkness and Dawn," Easter Sunday, April 9, at 9:30 a. m.

A special sermon for children will be delivered the first part of the worship service, when the whole Sunday school will join the congregation. Seats will be reserved for the children and their teachers. There will be special Easter music as well as the children's sermon.

Sunday School as usual, will be held at 9:30-11:15 for the children from nurseries to junior ages. The intermediates, senior young people and adults will meet from 10:45-11:15 a. m. The Young Men's class is having an interesting series of talks on "Adventures in Christian Living."

Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Towar will move from Iroquois avenue into their new home on University Place around the end of April.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Barbour, of Lake Shore road, are back in their home after a several weeks' vacation in Ormond Beach.

Neighborhood Club Activities

The class B basketball tournament came to a close Saturday evening, when the fast-breaking Dingies, led by Dick Kelly, sharp-shooting guard, completely outclassed the tiring Comets 41-19. The Verdonck man (Dingies) took a 16-9 advantage at half time and were never headed. Kelly with six field goals and two foul tosses for 14 points was the high man of the evening. Roberts, forward for the losers, helped to keep his team in the running during the first half with three successive long shots in rapid order.

Earlier in the afternoon the Dingies eliminated the Cavaliers 43-26. Capt. Geo. Verdonck led his team to victory when he collected five hoops and a charity toss for 11 points. Bill Crandall was the key man for the losers, gathering four baskets and a foul for nine points. In a nip and tuck game until the final whistle the Comets subdued the Saints (one of the favorites of the tournament) 23-19. The game was in doubt until Gordon Tanner, rangy forward for the Saints, left the game via the foul route. It was here that the Saints lost hope. It seemed that the odds were against them (even the officials). Dan Cronin, former Grosse Pointe High star, was high man with eight points. Tanner was the mainstay of the Saints, scoring two field goals and a foul before leaving the game.

In the first round games the Comets defeated the South Lake aggregation 37-36 in what proved to be the best game of the entire tournament. Cronin, rugged guard of the Comets and E. Archibald, star center for South Lake, shared scoring honors with 13 points each. The Saints completely outclassed the T. T. K. boys by the wide margin of 54-25. Tanner collected 17 points, the most points scored by any player in one game during the tournament. Cavaliers eliminated the Musketeers 28-22. Dick Beeigneul with 10 points was high for the victors. The Dingies proved to be too fast for the Blackhawks and defeated them by the score of 43-19. Kelly's 14 points was high for the evening.

The class A teams completed their first round games Saturday when the Indians, champs of the Club league, smothered the Lochmoor A. C. by the wide margin of 58-30 and the G. P. Aces eked out a 41-31 victory over Eastminster. The Indians led by Capt. Leo Durocher and Bob Allor, who collected over half of their team's points, were never behind. Taking a 22-10 advantage, at the intermission the champs just sailed on to victory. The "never say die" spirit of the Lochmoor boys was witnessed by the spectators when they tried to match the speed of the Indians. Bob Allor and Durocher scored 15-14 points respectively to take scoring honors for their team, while Hansen collected 10 for the losers.

The G. P. Aces, favorites of the tournament, received quite a surprise from the Eastminster boys and before the first quarter was over they realized they'd have to "turn on the heat." The margin of victory was made in the first half. Trailing 19-10 at the half, the Eastminster cagers matched the Aces basket for basket in the second half, but couldn't make up the 10-point difference from the first half and thus lost the contest 41-31. Ray Touhey collected six field goals and two fouls for 14 points to take scoring honors. Schram with 10 markers was high for the losers.

The class A contest is being conducted on the basis of two defeats and out. In the Junior league the N. C. Stars defeated the St. Ambrose Celtics 21-17 and by this victory went into a tie for first place with the Celtics. The Defer Flashes won their game when the G. P. Lions failed to place five men on the floor. The boys have two more weeks to play and some very interesting contests should take place.

Plans are being made for an All-

Star Grosse Pointe basketball team to play an all-star team from Hamtramck. The Hamtramck team is to be composed of former high school stars. A dance will follow the feature game. A preliminary game will also be played. The date of the game will be announced next week.

A course to include Practical Application and Child Guidance will be started at the Neighborhood Club on Wednesday, April 12th. Suggestions in First Aid and Instructions on Habit Training will be given. The course is given with a view to giving an opportunity for nursemaids and maids who have charge of children to discuss difficulties in child guidance and parent education, namely, Mrs. George True, who was educated at Cornell University and Merrill Palmer School, and who has had post-graduate and teaching experience at Merrill Palmer School. There will be a slight fee to cover cost of materials. Classes will be held the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month at 8 p. m. For further particulars you may call Mrs. Tue at TU. 2-3310.

The Neighborhood Club girls' team consisting of Billie Allard, Margaret Reno, Henrietta Keibrat, Ann Carr, Marjorie Hurlbut, Kit Carson, Shirley Louwers and Kitty O'Connor defeated Friendship House girls in the final game of the Intersettlement girls' basketball league by a score of 28-10. After the game the captain, Billie Allard, in behalf of the team was presented with a beautiful cup by Miss Margaret Russel, sports writer for the Detroit Times.

The Grosse Pointe girls' basketball tournament will soon be concluding the present basketball season as only four teams are now competing. On Tuesday night, St. Ambrose A team meet the N. C. Cadetts. This will be a deciding game for the teams as both have lost a game.

Game standing:

	W	L
A. O. C.	3	0
G. P. Stars	2	1
N. C. Cadetts	1	1
St. Ambrose	1	1

The girls' sport spree ended Friday, March 31, with the Girl Guards taking the lead in participation points with 188. The V. V. V.'s were second with 141 points and the N. C. Cadetts were third with 101 points.

Individual high scores were: Margaret McIntyre of the Girl Guards with 86 points, Clara Miller of the V. V. V.'s with 73 points and Beatrice Gieche of the Girl Guards with 70 points.
