Advertise Detroit Luncheons Planned

Announcement of five report luncheons for the Advertise Detroit campaign was made early this week by William B. Stout, general campaign chairman. Approximately 200 members of the campaign organization will gather at luncheons to report progress on the united civic undertaking, which will open on April 9 and close on April 19.

The Advertise Detroit campaign is sponsored by the Adcraft Club of Detroit and the Detroit Convention and Tourist Bureau.

"Preliminary reports received from advance campaign units have been highly encouraging," Mr. Stout declared. "Business men generally throughout Detroit are wholeheartedly behind this united project to attract new business and advertise our city's resources. We have two objectives: First of all, we wish to counteract the unfair publicity that our city has received recently, and secondly, we are determined to maintain Detroit's position in national leadership in attracting tourists and convention visitors. Few of us realize that these out-of-town people spend more than $40,000,000 a year with our business men," Mr. Stout said.

The advance reports to which Mr. Stout referred have been received from campaign division A, under the leadership of George M. Slocum and John A. Reynolds, and division B of which J. E. Frawley is chairman. Both of these are part of the advance sales organization.

Rapid completion of the general sales army under the leadership of James Dickson Jr. and Caspar J. Lingeman is also reported. This organization will number 186 volunteer workers. Wilber M. Leadership of the general sales army announced today included Emory Douglas, Jack Kennedy, Dr. Birchard E. Wyatt, Arthur D. Sutherland, C. P. Bradley and Judge Joseph Murphy, section majors. The following are team captains: Edward Charney, Patrick McGruddy, William J. Young, Leslie B. Eby, Women's Advertising Club, H. J. Krutsh, Russell Innes, Wm. A. Post, L. D. Allen, Frank D. Grosse Pointe Youth Killed In Auto Crash

Stewart Neff, 18, of 461 St. Clair avenue, was killed and Fred Gill, 16, of 17620 Jefferson avenue, was seriously injured early last Saturday morning when the car in which they were riding struck a utility pole on Lake Shore Drive near Renaud Road in Grosse Pointe Shores.

Three other boys riding in the back seat were taken to Saratoga General Hospital. One, Jack Farrell, 17, of 1316 Kensington, was released on Sunday. Edward Rivard, 15, of 866 Rivard and Douglas McElroy, 16, of 462 Notre Dame, are still confined to the hospital with minor bruises and lacerations.

Gill, the driver, lies in a serious condition, suffering from internal injuries and severe shock. The car was utterly demolished and police officials remarked that only traveling at a high rate of speed could have caused such havoc.

The crash, which occurred at 12:30 a. m., crushed the right side of the Plymouth sedan and killed Neff instantly. The car is the property of Edwin John Gill, the driver's father. The county prosecutor's office is postponing an examination until all the youths are able to make statements. All five boys are students at Grosse Pointe High School.

WORLD WAR TANK MYSTIFIES PASSERS-BY

Many Grosse Pointers have been mildly shocked lately at the sight of a snub-nosed, seven-ton army tank grimly resting on the lawn of the Alger V. F. W. Post 995, at 17145 St. Paul avenue near Neff Road.

This World War relic, the only one of its kind in Michigan, was obtained recently by the local veterans' organization from the United States Arsenal in Rock Island, Ill.

The machine's armaments include a stationary machine gun on the front, fired by the driver, and two swivel guns on the sides, discharged by a standing gunner. Naturally the guns have been removed but the open breeches are visible.

The tank was transported from Illinois to Grosse Pointe by truck, with expenses paid by the post. The weapon has so attracted local children that V. F. W. officials have made no plans to paint or repair the machine until the novelty has worn off.

In answer to many people's questions veterans officials stated that this ornament will take the place of the usual cannon. They also remarked that a tank is very appropriate, since many of the organization's members served in the tank corp during America's last war.

Y. M. C. A. Announces Expansion Program

The Detroit Y. M. C. A., through its board of directors, has formulated plans for a great five-year expansion program, which will be announced at the "On to '44" dinner for laymen at the Masonic Temple on Wednesday, April 17.

Howard A. Coffin, president of the Detroit Y. M. C. A., will outline the program which is intended to greatly increase the membership of the "Y" and carry activities of the association into suburban communities not now directly served by a "Y" branch.

While the outstanding feature of the great city-wide Y. M. C. A. meeting at Masonic Temple will be the launching of a five-year expansion program, it will also feature a pageant of tableaux as well. Pageantry and motion pictures will round out the evening's program.

The pageantry of tableaux will be particularly graphic, depicting outstanding events in the history of the Y. M. C. A. every decade since the founding of the movement in 1844 in London, England, by Sir George Williams. The first sequence of pageantry will dramatize the "Y" as it was brought into being in the humble upstairs bedroom of George Williams, then a clerk in a London drapery shop.

The second sequence will show the founding of the association in 1852, in Detroit by a group of laymen. While this first group had no buildings, no endowments and no income, it was to make itself felt from the start and be the forerunner of the association that today has branches serving strategic communities throughout the city, representing an investment of over $6,000,000 in buildings and equipment.

The Civil War with the part played by the "Y" in that conflict will be the background of the third sequence. The succeeding tableaux will touch on the rapid expansion of the Y. M. C. A. during the next half century, culminating in the great campaign of 1925 for the erection of six new community buildings.

The motion picture, which will be in color with narration, will show activities in both the boys' and men's departments, as well as mixed social and cultural groups.

The Farms nine has entered competition in a league consisting of Grosse Pointe Woods, Grosse Pointe Shores, St. Joan of Arc and possibly St. Clair Shores. The winner of the season's play will represent Grosse Pointe Township in the class B state championship to be held at Battle Creek.

All baseball minded Grosse Pointe boys are urged to join one of the league teams.

Control of Cancer Society Starts Drive

There are five great weapons in the peacetime war against cancer: Education, X-ray, radium, surgery and research. Without education the medicinal weapons are useless, declares the American Society for the Control of Cancer, since physicians are able to cure cancer only in its early stages. Education is necessary to teach men and women to go to physicians while conditions that may be cancerous are still early. Research is essential in order to discover new facts on which all progress in fighting the disease ultimately depends.

The tank, given by the War Department, is of an obsolete model, weighing seven tons. It has traveled 9,800 miles and is clean and in good condition. It is unknown whether this weapon saw service in actual war combat, but several bullet holes have been found in the protective armor. The War Department, for sentimental reasons, has refused to divulge any information on the tank's past record.

After the death of his mother he embarked to our shores where after a short time he enlisted in the National Guard. Spending some time on the Mexican border in 1916, was sent back home. At the outbreak of the World War Comrade Zarb was again at duty's call. A member of our famous old 31st Michigan National Guard (32nd division Red Arrow). He was transferred to a non-commissioned officers' school where he took up the duties of an instructor. He was discharged honorably with several citations mentioned. The Legion from that time on was Al's hobby. He originally signed up with the Chas. A. Leonard Post No. 1. In 1932 he transferred to our post. The drum corps (now disbanded) was his pride and joy and he worked faithfully to help make it the community's outstanding unit.

Comrade Zarb held several offices in our post before he became commander in 1938. During his reign he fought faithfully for the ladies to have an auxiliary and in April of 1939 it became a reality. Comrade Zarb's death will be mourned for some time by his many friends. May God have mercy on his soul.

Comrades, save those dimes and hop on the band wagon. The post commanders' dinner dance will be held May 10 at Northwood Inn. Dancing, floor show and surprises galore will be in store for you. Comrade Weil is very desirous of knowing who will be in attendance. Reservations must be made in advance as this is our first venture to honor our P. C.'s. Give the little lady a break and call for that reservation—Niagara 5555.

Next meeting April 17 at post headquarters.

Springtide of Spiritual Joy

IN AN exquisite passage in the Song of Solomon, the "beloved" sings (2:16-17): "Rise up, my love, my fair one, and come away with me; the winter is past, the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come." However variously this passage may have been interpreted, we may perhaps be permitted to see in it, for us, a hint of the call of divine Love to love in the human heart to awake from the dream of life in matter, to see the ever-appearing freshness and beauty of true being. Among the seasons, each of them bringing its wealth of beauty and variety, spring is thought of by many, especially by those who are acquainted with the rigors of winter, as the season eloquently illustrative of the awakening of new hopes, aspiration, courage, and inspiration.

Mary Baker Eddy, who was a lover of nature in its various forms, in a beautiful article, "Voices of Spring," in "Miscellaneous Writings" has written (p. 329), "Spring is my sweetheart. Spring is a metaphor which points to the ever-awakening of love, of gentleness, tenderness, sympathy; and she adds that its 'voices are sad or glad, even as the heart may be; restoring in memory the sweet rhythm of forgotten harmonies, or touching tenderly its fearful tones." Thus does love mingle with love in all the sympathetic interests of the human experience. How the ever-recurring expression of love, in families and among friends, sweetens the life, brightens the heart's harmonies, or touching tenderly its fearful tones. "Thus does love mingle with love in all the sympathetic interests of the human experience. How the ever-recurring expression of love, in families and among friends, sweetens the life, brightens the heart's harmonies, or touching tenderly its fearful tones."

So, in our daily experiences, even though at times there may seem to be the chilling clouds of depression, the voice of Love is ever calling to spiritual sense. "Rise up, my love, my fair one, and come away" and in obeying the call we shall "come away" from the dream of life and intelligence in matter, away from the beliefs of mortal ignorance, and see, through enlightened spiritual vision, the "flowers appear on the earth," that in every heart is some day to be joyous in the beauty and the harmony of the real and eternal.

There is no dearth of beauty, freshness, and goodness in the reality of spiritual being. No lack or loss, no chilling discords, no absence of Love and its loveliness.

If, however, in the dream of material existence, there seems to be some reason for sadness, then indeed "the time of the singing of birds is come; then should we lift our hearts in songs of gratitude for the ever-present harmony of real being, of life in infinite divine Love."

How swiftly "the long winter of our discontent" melts into the springtide of joy and gladness, when we obediently respond to the call of Love, "Rise up, my love, my fair one," for love, reflecting Love, God, is indeed fair and beautiful, peace-bringing and satisfying. Now, what is one to do about the difficulties, the wrongs, the shadows, which seem ever to haunt the footsteps of the human family? In the article mentioned above, Mrs. Eddy writes: "The human mind is a habitation of spiritual goodness, to be clothed from them, and she asks (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 331): "When downtrodden like the grass, did it make them humble, loving, obedient, full of good odor, and causes them to wait patiently on God for his rich heritage,—dominion over all the earth? Thus abiding in Truth," she assures us, "the warmth and sunlight of prayer and praise and understanding will ripen the fruit of Spirit, and goodness will have its springtide of freedom and greatness."

40 Unit Speakers Feature Pierce System

Music, drama, instructional material, news out of the air, checked in its flight, enunciated distinctly in every room of the school—this the new RCA high fidelity, sound systems assures Pierce pupils through 40 unit speakers. Sleekly efficient, the master control console installed in the administrative offices contains two complete radio reception units, automatic phonograph and multi-microphone facilities. Here are tri-functional switches governing each speaker unit and volume level apparatus checking the emerging impulses.

Dual radio units permit two different programs of either the standard broadcast or short wave band to be relayed simultaneously to two different sets of room speakers. Each speaker is individually engaged by the tri-functional switches—all or any lesser number may be in service. Thus two different departments of instruction may choose at the same time from the vast amount of educational material available through broadcast channels.

U. of D. High Presents Broadway Play

The Little Theater Group of U. of D. High School will present the Broadway bit, "Whistling in the Dark," at the Art Institute Auditorium, Saturday, April 29, at 8:30 p. m.

The cast includes several veterans of the last few years and many new faces. Gerry Leone takes the lead in the role of Wallace. Porter, the mystery story writer gone realistic. Supporting characters are played by Edward Agni, George Reno, Jack Wagner, Louis Charbonneau, Edwin Meier, Patrick Borphy, Richard Schrage, David Roney, Tom Dorais, Jack Sloan, Francis McGough, Robert Martin, Louis Badalano, Louis Martin, Warren Reuter, Tom Owens, Casimir Studzinski and James Risdon.

Writing mystery stories is an intriguing occupation and a good way to earn a living, but Porter finds that it is better not to let too many people in on the secret of one's genius. His self-advertised ability is put to work by a wide-awake gangster chief, and he is forced to make up a perfect plan to kill the crime commissioner. Porter cannot let pass such a dare, especially when it is backed up by a gun or two in the hands of expert professional men. He succeeds, sees to it that his own plan for poisoning the commissioner will fail for want of poison, and then finds he is still in a serious predicament. He cannot get away until the commissioner is no more. Knowing that this will not take place, he decides that the police are his only hope. Genius will not be denied; he gets in touch with them. How? Well—

Two Crops May be Grown in Planned Vegetable Plot

Lettuce is next to the earliest crop harvested in the garden. It is essentially an early spring cool weather crop. Therefore it is out of the way early. Plan the garden to start something along with the lettuce so that when the lettuce is used up the space it occupied will be occupied usefully with good garden material. It may be either with some other and later vegetable or with flowering annuals to brighten up the garden patch and provide bouquets later in the season.

Planning these successions and combinations is one of the chief reasons for putting a garden plan on paper. It is impossible to carry all the original ideas in one's head because when it comes to planting there is a confusion of space and plants that will cause delay in trying to remember what you planned to do. With a plan on paper one need only refer to it as a guide.

Plant Lettuce in Rows Three Feet Apart.

An early vegetable combination would be to plant rows of lettuce three feet apart. Between each two rows could be set a row of cabbage or cauliflower and in the foot and a half between the cabbage or cauliflower and the lettuce row of radishes could be sown. The cabbages and cauliflowers would need all the space when the lettuce and radishes were gone. Instead of cabbages might be substituted tomatoes or string beans. Instead of a vegetable, between the lettuce rows might be transplanted zinnias, the tall giant flowering kinds needing two feet apart for their proper development. Tall marigolds might also be used. Both would be room for a double row of asters as the plants could be set within six inches of the lettuce as it was nearing its season's end. In general, when you make succession plantings, do not follow root crops with root crops or plants of one family with members of the same family; for example, radishes and turnips. Here are a few combinations that work out excellently. Late peas followed by late cabbage; early lettuce by summer squash; spinach, lettuce, and radishes by string beans; early string beans by fall beets; early carrots by endive or winter radishes; early onions from sets by kale; peas by turnips, or carrots. Tomatoes may be set between the rows of peas to get started while the peas are reaching maturity, and then the vines are removed, leaving the entire space to the tomatoes. Cucumbers may be planted for pickles after the early lettuce, radishes, spinners and onions from sets are out of the way. Peppers and eggplants may go in after the earliest spinach and radishes.

These dual arrangements are the most important factors in drawing the plan for the vegetable garden. The small garden plan should be worked out carefully before the seed order is sent in. Now is the time to get it into shape, drawing it to scale and marking carefully the vegetables that are to follow the earliest crops to keep the ground working until frost.

Alger House Book Talks

Next Wednesday, April 10, at 2 p. m. Mrs. Carlos Fossati will review the Hopwood prize novel, "The Loon Feather," by Lola Fuller. "I Lost My English Accent," by C. V. R. Thompson, will also be reviewed. This hilarious book may be taken as the English comeback to "With Malice Toward Some."

Rest that vacant room through a Grosse Pointe Review lease.

P.-T. A. Card Party

Mrs. Hugh McTavish, chairman of Mason Parent-Teachers entertainment committee, announces a card party to be held at Mason School Friday, April 12, at 8 p. m. Table and door prizes and luncheon will be the added features of the evening.

All members and friends are cordially invited to attend.

Y. M. C. A. Notes

George W. Williams, 1317 Bishop Road, assistant vice-president of the Union Guardian Trust Company, will be installed as chairman of the committee of management of the Hannan Memorial Branch Y. M. C. A. on Thursday evening, April 11, at a supper meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

Howard A. Cottin, president of the Detroit Y. M. C. A., and Dr. A. G. Studer, general secretary, will participate in the installation proceedings.

Eugene C. White, 1357 Yorkshire Road, retiring chairman, will preside. Mr. Williams comes to the Hannan Branch chairmanship at a time when the Detroit Y. M. C. A. is facing its great "On to '44" expansion program looking toward the worldwide Y. M. C. A. centennial in 1944.

This worldwide centennial observance of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Y. M. C. A. in London in 1844 will have special significance to Detroit, as the board of directors of the Detroit association has formulated plans for a great five-year program, with definite goals of expansion to be reached by the close of 1944. Details concerning this five-year program will be discussed at the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday evening, April 11, at a supper meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

be outlined by Howard A. Coffin at the "On to '44" dinner meeting at the Masonic Temple on Wednesday, April 17, at 6:30 p. m. Twelve thousand active committeemen, leaders, and "Y" workers are planning to be in attendance at this meeting, which will be the outstanding program event of the Detroit Y. M. C. A. this year.

An unusual and unique program has been arranged for this event, which will be largely under the supervision of the Jam Handy organization. The program will be divided into three parts. First, important events in the history of the Y. M. C. A. will be presented in dramatic and tableaux form; secondly, colored movies showing the work now being done by the association in Detroit will be shown. The third part of the program will feature a presentation of the five-year program and plans for future work of the Detroit Y. M. C. A. The principal speaker of the evening will be Dr. James Lee Ellenwood of New York City, well-known author and lecturer, who has a nationwide reputation as a public speaker.

Wrestling Champs to Be Selected
Between 80 and 90 wrestlers are expected to compete in the national Y. M. C. A. wrestling championships tournament to be held at the western branch in Detroit on April 12 and 13. The wrestlers will come from cities throughout the United States. Entries already have been received from Baltimore, Washington, D. C., Boston, Cleveland, Toledo, Houston, Chattanooga and Itasca.

The first bout will be Friday night, April 12, with 30 matches scheduled on three mats, the wrestling getting underway at 7:30 p. m. Preliminaries will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with the finals to be run off Saturday night at 7:30.

Referees for the tournament will be Pat Richter, coach of the Dearborn Boys' Club; Kay Parker, coach at Fordson High School; Luit Kerne, wrestling coach at the University of Michigan; and Fendley Collins, wrestling coach at Michigan State College.

A. A. U. Handball Tournament
The national A. A. U. handball tournament, which will get under way in Detroit April 15, is expected to draw about 100 ace players of the four-wall court game. Entries have already been received from the following cities: New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Cleveland and St. Louis. All matches will be played at the Downtown Y. M. C. A. under the direction of P. J. Lee, metropolitan physical director. Mr. Lee expects 64 entries in the singles division alone.

Among the stars who will be in Detroit for the tournament are the winners of last year's tourney, Joe Platak of Chicago in the single division, and Frank Coyle and Ed Line of New York, who will be here to defend their doubles crown. Y. M. C. A. handball stars are expected to make up a large proportion of the entries. Al Zerbo and Dr. Milton Lappin of the Downtown "Y", winners of the "Y" doubles title, will be among those entered. Others from the Detroit area expected to participate are Louis Zerbo, State A. A. U. titleholder; Stan Galup of Northeastern Branch and Jack Hagenah and Paul Merio of the Downtown Y. M. C. A.

The tournament will give handball fans an opportunity to see in action the outstanding stars of the game.

GIRL Scouts
The Senior Scouts are invited to demonstrate the flag ceremony on April 15 at 7:30 in the Mair School for a Girl Scout rally. In this ceremony four scouts take part—two flag guards guard each flag and two flag bearers hold the American and Girl Scout flags.

The two guards are Mary Finnegan and Ruth Matka. The two flag bearers are Eleanor Gangier and Pauline Schuman.
A roller skating party is being planned for April 29 by the Senior Scouts.

Two members have recently been added to the district committee of the Girl Scouts: Mrs. Thornton E. Waterfall, who will handle the speakers' bureau for Grosse Pointe, and Mrs. Charles S. VanDyke, in charge of window displays. There will be a Girl Scout window in the Village the latter part of this month. Mrs. John Veech and Mrs. Henry H. Hubbard represented the Grosse Pointe district committee at the publicity conference on Wednesday, April 3, at the Y. M. C. A. This conference was sponsored by the women's committee of the community fund. Mrs. Donald E. Bleakley, the new metropolitan press relations chairman for Girl Scouts was also at the meeting.

TROOP 218
On Monday, March 25, our Girl Scout troop took a very delightful trip through the flower show held at Convention Hall. We enjoyed all the gardens but especially the Chrysler exhibit with the new 1940 cars. The troop is now working on international relations. Each week some of the girls bring foods which are grown in some other country outside of the United States and tell about the country and how this food is grown.

OUR SCOUT ROOM
By ELIZABETH MURPHY
We members of troop 124 consider ourselves quite fortunate in meeting in a room used solely for scout activities.

There is a bulletin board across the whole back of the room. On it are 10 charts, one for every field through which a girl must pass to become a second-class scout. Maps, stories and book reports written by the scouts are posted here too. We also have shelves for books and magazines.

In one corner of our room we keep an American and a Girl Scout flag, given to us by the Parent-Teachers' Association.

We have about 25 chairs for our circle and a big desk for our leader. All together, I think we have a scout room of which any troop would be proud.

MEMORIES OF METAMORA

By FAITH SADOWSKI
It was a sweltering day when our family took me to Metamora. As you probably know, this is the Girl Scout camp a few miles from Pontiac. This would be my first camp vacation, so I was very excited.

I remember clearly those first impressions of Metamora. I saw the inviting waters of the lake which I would have a chance to swim in every day; the hills which were very beautiful at sunset, and the lodge which was so comfortably cool.

These memories of Metamora are with me still.

Richard School Notes

The next meeting of the Richard School P. T. A. comes on Tuesday, April 16, at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of the school. Some highlights of the Richard program will be discussed and illustrated with motion pictures and lantern slides.

In preparation for the program the 6A class of Edwin Wendt provided funds by a judge sale with which they have purchased color film. They have photographed the complete process of the making of the Reporter, which is the school newspaper. The principal, Clarence J. Messner, has also done photography of school activities which will be shown on lantern slides.

There will be a benefit bridge on Wednesday, April 10, the proceeds from which will go toward beautifying the library. The chairman is Mrs. MacLeod, assisted by Mrs. Hughes.

Preparations are being made for a hobby and art show to take place in the month of May. Parents, as well as children and teachers, are being asked to co-operate. Pupils of the school have numerous types of hobbies, including the collecting of stamps, shells, coins, dolls and costumes. Many do excellent work in the several arts and crafts. Regular school time is set aside for hobbies and children also follow them in their homes. Only last week 10 pupils from Elsiea Nault's classroom entered their bird houses in the Detroit News contest at the flower show.

A Seventh Grader Gets the Low Down

By THE REVIEWER

"I'm just starting to wear long pants, and I'd like to know how to keep them in press."

That's the way one sturdy seventh grade boy at Grosse Pointe's new John D. Pierce Junior High expressed his reason for enrolling in the new cooking and household arts class for boys begun there last fall. There's nothing "sissy" about this boy or any of the other 42 who are enrolled. They're sensible chaps, thoroughly in line with the modern age, because they know that it's the smart thing today for the man to know almost as much about home management as the woman.

Thirty-three girls, not to be outdone by the "stronger" sex, are enrolled in a new shop course for girls and are doing better work than the masculine groups in the same courses.

When the 72 students enrolled in these courses grow up, they'll make better husbands and wives for having taken the work, according to the three instructors handling them. H. M. Woodward teaches the shop work; Mrs. Helen Anderson and Miss C. E. Greenhoe, the cooking. Boys, say these three, are better able to understand the problems involved in domestic management and thus have a better appreciation of the work done by their wives. They will be able to step in and help when help is needed or run the household entirely when "the Missus" is ill or away on a visit. Obviously, if they remain bachelors and desire an apartment or home, the knowledge of cooking and home management may be a life-saver. The course, although designated as "cooking," also includes general housekeeping and care of clothes. So the "boy with the long pants" finds the answer to his problem too.

The girl, on the other hand, can have no excuse for depending on hubby for every little household odd job after she's taken the shop course. She learns home mechanics, including use and repair of electrical appliances. She learns woodwork, construction of small articles, drawing and design, plastics, and art metal work. All of these can help to make a home more harmonious and more artistic.

How do the two sexes take to their rather unconventional classes? Like ducks to water, the three instructors agree unanimously and forcefully. Many more applied for the courses than could be accommodated, and everyone enrolled shows an enthusiasm and co-operation that is little short of phenomenal.

from another planet, totally unacquainted with all the background, might be a bit startled on dropping into the cooking class to observe busy groups of boys in frilly or plain white aprons diligently constructing baking powder biscuits or quick coffee cake. Over in one corner a boy might be observed ironing dish towels with all the poise and skill of a veteran housekeeper. Another might be sweeping, or ardently washing windows, while a group might be found in an earnest huddle over a puzzling recipe or a menu for a forthcoming meal.

In the shop the girls could be seen hammering or cutting away like professionals, more attentive to the explanations and directions than the regular boys' classes. There have been absolutely no casualties in the way of smashed thumbs or cut fingers, according to Mr. Woodward, who declares that the girls are really more skillful in handling the tools than the boys, once they "get the hang of it."

"Of course," he adds, in defense of his sex, "the girls are not doing any heavy work requiring real strength."

It all started three years ago when Mr. Woodward and Miss Greenhoe got their heads together and decided it would be an interesting experiment to have a shop club for girls and a cooking club for boys. Interest in the new club was tremendous. This year, with the erection of the new John D. Pierce School, with its splendid facilities, the activities became a part of the regular courses. They are elective, not required courses and are open only to seventh graders. Although planned especially to fit the groups, the courses are not greatly different from the regular work offered. The boys' cooking is in no sense a camp cookery course of the type offered in some schools.

An especially interesting angle of these courses, according to the instructors, is the high carry-over value. Boys almost invariably go home to prepare the same things they have prepared in class. A number of them are getting a lot of fun out of preparing breakfast for dad every Sunday morning. Others vie with their sisters at home in tempting the family appetite with tasty dishes.

Then, of course, there's no denying the attractiveness of that mid-morning snack just when a fellow is feeling the empties. There has been a suspicious increase in poundage on the part of some of the masculine cooks, according to Mr. Woodward. The boys secured regular chef's caps and aprons to replace their former rather miscellaneous assortment and as a result, the class presents a truly impressive professional air. Who knows? There may be a budding genius of the culinary art amongst the group, future Oscar of the Waldorf, who will carve his way to fame and fortune with the humble kitchen knife. One of the boys, Walter Kitchen, certainly should have a natural talent, if the name is any criterion. In an effort to try their fledgling wings, the boys took on such projects as making and serving the refreshments for the 7B Open House last fall.

The cooking course has a very simple objective, namely, learning how to prepare a simple meal. Class members are wildly anxious to entertain. C. E. Leavitt, principal, and Paul Junge, dean of boys at John D. Pierce, who were entertained by the class, were heard to remark: "A lot of married women couldn't make as good biscuits as these."

The girls made a number of articles so attractive they made very excellent Christmas presents. These included pins, rings, bracelets and other pieces of jewelry, book ends, what-nots, etc. They are justly proud of their handiwork.

These two courses represent a definite trend in modern education, a trend to bring practical living into the school, to educate boys and girls to be better homemakers as well as citizens. Marriage is a business in a way, a business for which definite training is needed for the boy as well as the girl. And there is never a dull moment in and meaningful to the youngster. He sees a use for them now and more use for them later.

And then there is that last flash as we turn to leave the classroom. A tousled boy in an apron stands on a windowsill, scrubbing away energetically at the window, doing a very good job of it, too. He grins as he wrings out the dripping rag. "Gee, I wish mother could see me now!"

Diagram showing drainage holes to admit water, line bottom with clean burlap, prevent sand from filtering through holes, fill with clean sand nearly to brim, small seeds may be sown on surface, shallow box about 2 1/2" to 3" deep preferably of new material, when seeds are sown cover with pane of glass and dark paper until germination, keep box in tray of water maintained at even level, slightly below top of sand, in full sun.

A method of growing seedlings in sand which is kept saturated has been developed by experimenters with soilless plant culture, including United States Department of Agriculture workers. Amateurs who have sunny windows in a warm room may find it easier than the more orthodox method of using flat boxes filled with potting soil. The saturated sand method calls for "flats"—shallow boxes—or "pans" which are shallow flower pots. Since they are to stand in water, boxes should be tight at the joints and preferably held together by a wire encircling the sides of the box and tightened. Drainage holes are more necessary than with soil. This time to let water in rather than out. Flats or pans must be clean—brush off old soil. The sand must be clean of soil and other foreign matter. Wash sand thoroughly. To keep sand from sifting through the drainage holes cover the bottom with clean burlap. Fill the flat or pan with the clean sand to within half an inch of the top, level the sand, then sow your seeds as in any seed box. Very fine seeds may be broadcasted on the surface; larger seeds should be sown in rows and carefully covered. Cover the flat or pan with a pane of glass and a paper blanket which will exclude light. Now place the pan or flat in a shallow tray of water, so that the water comes to within half an inch of the sand surface. Be sure the sand absorbs the water. Place the whole array in a sunny window, and keep the sand covered with the glass and paper until the seeds sprout, then remove paper and glass to admit air and sunlight. The seedlings may be exposed to direct sunlight without injury, so long as the water level is maintained constant. They should grow sturdily without damping-off and other troubles which often affect those grown in soil. It will not be necessary to feed the seedlings for several weeks. When they arrive at a size that you wish to call for extra nourishment, prepare a nutrient solution, or liquid fertilizer, which may be made from a balanced plant food using one quarter the strength recommended for mature plants. To apply, pour off the water from your tray and replace it with your nutrient solution. After a few days drain off the nutrient solution and replace with water. The water level should be a little higher than that of the nutrient solution. Seedling plants started in this manner may be transplanted to other boxes, with more space, or grown to considerable size by following the same method; or they may be moved directly to the garden.

8A Students Will Hold Open House April 18

To give parents and students an opportunity to become better acquainted with ninth grade courses the 8A open house will be held Thursday evening, April 18, at 7:30 o'clock at the high school.

Among the problems to be discussed will be the number of subjects each individual student should take as a 9B, graduation requirements, the various methods of college entrance and the ranking of each student in the class.

The 8A open house is most important in helping students select subjects to avoid the necessity of changes in the ninth grade.

An auditorium program is being arranged and the 8A chorus is expected to sing several selections under the direction of John Finch.

Fifty Grosse Pointers Now Attending U. of D.

In the number of students now enrolled at the University of Detroit, Grosse Pointe is second only to Detroit itself, contributing a total of 50 students.

This fact was revealed recently by the student council of the university, which completed a survey determining the geographical distribution of the institution's students. The survey further shows that of the total number of students contributed Grosse Pointe High School and St. Paul High School each send 25.

It was further shown that students from five foreign countries, including China, are in attendance at the university. Most of these are in the Engineering College. The majority of the students are, of course, from the United States and represented in their ranks are some 250 communities scattered throughout 34 states of the Union.

Of the states represented Michigan was easily the leader, with Ohio running second. The remaining nine communities contributing most students are all in Michigan, Grosse Pointe being followed by Highland Park with 36 students from two high schools. Third, fourth and fifth of the leading 10 are Royal Oak, having 31 students from three high schools; Hamtramck numbering 28 pupils from two high schools, and Dearborn with 25 students from three high schools.

The unit was well represented at the funeral of our Past Post Commander Al Zarb. Unit members took their places beside the men, forming an honor guard.

President Elva Nielsen attended the dedication of the iron lung at Children's Hospital, of which this unit was a donor. Also President Elva attended the Army Day luncheon at the Book Cadillac.

The girls are having a regular picnic while putting the quilt together and it certainly is a lovely quilt. I hope I'm the lucky one. Our social chairman, Helen Enders is right on the job with the lunches for the girls. Thanks to Kate Sorter for the ribs on Monday. Sorry girls, but our birthday party for May 1 at Towser Club has been postponed indefinitely, but our social chairman, Helen Enders has a card party planned for April 17 at Metropolitan Building. Lunch will be served at 12:30 Building. Lunch will be served at 12:30. Let's all turn out. The public is invited.

Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America

Mrs. Charles Norton Metcalf, state president of Michigan Chapter of Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, will head a delegation of Michigan daughters to the sessions of the general court of the national society Wednesday and Thursday, April 10 and 11, at the Hotel Washington in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Henry Bourne Joy, honorary national president, and Mrs. Metcalf will attend the national board meeting Wednesday morning and be luncheon guests of the national president, Mrs. Llewellyn N. Edwards, that noon at the Powhatan. All representatives will attend the banquet that evening at Hotel Washington.

At the opening session of the general court, Thursday morning at the Washington Hotel, Mrs. Henry B. Joy will nominate Mrs. Clarence J. Chandler of Detroit, present state chaplain, for the office of national chaplain. Delegates will be Mrs. Fred P. Baker of Midland and Mrs. Raymond B. Linsley of Three Rivers. Other visiting daughters will attend.

Soilless Gardens Are Coming Thing

"The day may not be far off when soilless gardens will furnish us with homegrown fruits and vegetables all year 'round!" predicts S. A. Shoemaker, high school biology instructor, whose classes plan to grow tomatoes, potatoes, gladioli and even pumpkins in a garden where soil is entirely supplanted by chemicals.

A water-posed garden will consist of a tin about half full of water that has been dissolved varying quantities of chemicals, the exact nature of which have been determined by chemical analysis of the soil. The plants to be grown, and the amounts of these chemicals possible to produce plants holes, leaves, tall stalks, large burly, and fruit.
Fill a jar with water, and just over the solution, be seed is a layer of moist peat which the seeds and bulbs grow roots.
Cover.
The chemical gardens will also will be watered with the new hormone, which will grow from cuttings of nearly of plants and trees.

Detroit Garden Center

On Friday evening, April 12, the Detroit Garden Center with the co-operation of the Detroit Rose Society is bringing Dr. H. N. Horvath, the famous rose hybridizer of Mentor, Ohio, to Detroit to talk on "New Roses and their hybridization." This will take place in the lecture hall of the Detroit Institute of Arts at 8:30 p. m. This talk should be of great interest to all rose lovers, especially to those with small places, because one of the most interesting of Dr. Horvath's many achievements is the hardy climbing roses with flowers which equal the beloved hybrid teas, so that those who cannot have rose gardens may still indulge in beautiful roses. "Doubleblooms," which is considered the best yellow climber so far, is one of his so-called "children" as well as Hercules, which has not only lovely pink flowers but whose foliage is similar to that of holly. Dr. Horvath will illustrate his lecture with colored slides. Mrs. Horace B. Peabody, president of the Garden Center, will introduce the speaker and the president of the Rose Society and many members as well as members of the Garden Center Executive Board will honor Dr. Horvath at a dinner at the Women's City Club before the lecture.

On Monday, April 15, at the John D. Pierce Junior High School in Grosse Pointe, the Garden Center will hold the second of its new series of garden talks and clinics in this new place. The time is 8 o'clock and the subject will be "Lilies from Bulb and Seed," with Dr. Frank B. MacMullen, who is a very successful amateur grower of lilies of all kinds.

Both of these lectures are free and open to the public.

Daughters Of Colonial Wars

Michigan Society of Daughters of Colonial Wars will be represented at the ninth annual meeting of the national society, to be held at the Mayflower Hotel, Washington, D. C., on Saturday, April 13, by Mrs. Henry Bourne Joy, state president; Mrs. Hessel W. Tenhave, state and national treasurer; Mrs. Fred P. Baker of Midland, state vice-president; Mrs. Lloyd DeWitt Smith, state historian; Mrs. Charles Norton Metcalf, genealogist. Alternates are Dr. Nellie G. C. Deffenbaugh, Mrs. Edward H. Eichler and Mrs. Raymond B. Linsley of Three Rivers. Others will be visiting daughters.

Safety Conference Plans Prepared

More than eighty organizations and associations are co-operating in the preparation of plans for the 1940 Michigan state wide safety conference to be held in Lansing May 22, 23 and 24.

Murray D. Van Wagoner, state highway commissioner, is serving as general chairman and announces that program plans are more comprehensive than ever before in the history of the conference. Programs are being arranged in a home safety division by Margaret Hartnacke of the Consumers Power Co., Grand Rapids; in the street and highway safety division by Capt. C. J. Scavarda of the Michigan State Police; in the industrial safety division by C. M. Tiernan of the Lansing Fisher Body Division of General Motors Corporation; in the school safety division by N. E. Borgenson of the state department of public instruction.

In order to make the conference more comprehensive this year a new division has been added. This is a general public safety division headed by W. O. Hildebrand, secretary manager of the Michigan Association of Insurance Agencies.

C. E. Wormuth, executive secretary of the conference, has announced that all exhibit space at the conference has been sold to manufacturers and others who will display most modern safety devices.

The state-wide safety conference is open to the public. There is no registration fee. Safety leaders from many other states as well as from all parts of Michigan are expected to bring total attendance to approximately 8,000 persons.

Honorary chairman of the event is Governor Luren D. Dickinson. In addition to Van Wagoner and Wormuth, the list of officers includes as vice-chairmen C. C. Carlton, vice-president of the Motor Wheel Corporation and of the Automotive Safety Foundation; Richard C. Harist, general manager of the Automobile Club of Michigan, and Secretary of State Harry F. Kelly; as vice-chairman of program, Frank A. Morrison, president of Corporate Service, Inc.; as treasurer, Hoyt L. Fracher, personnel director of the Detroit Steel Products Company, and as assistant secretary, E. Ross Farra, secretary-manager of the Grand Rapids Safety Council.
