Grosse Exaggerations? By A. PRYOR

Hi, folks! We've always wanted to begin the column that way but nobody would let us. Now that we're celebrating our second birthday as ye olde scribes of the Grosse Pointe Review, we're throwing caution to the winds and getting as folksy as we d--- (oops) well please.

And that reminds us of a bit of news that happens as ye go on and will probably have the same effect on you. Ye Editor is PUTTING US ON THE SHELF during July and August, so you can all go away on your vacations, happy in the thought that you won't be missing a thing! He has evidently watched our hair turn gray, right under his very nose and besides, we've hinted at needing a little time in which to finish our novel. Been working on it for only three years and we already have the title, the dedication and the last chapter. All we have to do is off are the first fourteen chapters and we're all set.

Weekly ho-hum. In a recent issue of a garden magazine, an 'ad' that suggests to the new groom that he keep his bride happy with Standard Plumbing Fixtures! (A for ever from the plumbing of Grosse Pointe.)

A new Irving tone over the air waves, called "Beethoven's Bounce." (Don't know about bouncing, but this ought to make him turn over.)

Having nothing much to talk about these days, someone asked us what six articles we'd hurriedly grab to take along, if we knew we'd be stranded indefinitely on a desert isle. Much quicker than we could have grabbed any of them, we said, "Lawrence Olivier; a crate of pads and pencils; a victrola with four Bing Crosby records of "Star Dust"; a thousand cans of spaghetti and a can opener." The question started us wondering what other people would take and we made some wild guesses about a few: Mrs. Cortland K. Larned: A book of "guessing" games, a dictionary, a comb and a telephone.

Mary Margaret McAlpine: A set of golf clubs, a tennis racket, bowling ball, row boat and a pair of skis.

Lewis Bredin: A pair of slacks, business suit, dinner coat, 'tails and white tie," a razor and a horse.

Mrs. John T. Woodhouse: A dog. (Continued on Page Two)

Spring Cleaning Called 'Painless'

How to make spring housecleaning as painless as possible was described today by Orla M. Fair, manager of the Michigan State Employment Service office, located at 11640 Kercheval avenue. "All a housewife has to do to take the worst headaches and backaches out of spring cleaning is to call our local state employment office," Mr. Fair said. "We have registered for work a large number of thoroughly skilled women experienced in house cleaning work and handy men to do the rug beating, painting and heavier clean-up work." The employment office also has skilled craftsmen available for other temporary or permanent jobs. The telephone number is Lenox 9500.

Veteran Detroit Lawyer Dies

Sidney Trowbridge Miller, 76, of 10 Beverly avenue, Grosse Pointe Farms, died at his home last Sunday night after a long illness. Miller had been a well-known attorney and political leader in Detroit for many years, having been born here in 1864. He graduated from Harvard Law School and has practiced law in Detroit since 1887. During the first World War, Miller had charge of Michigan's Red Cross subscriptions. He was buried Tuesday in Elmwood Cemetery.

Port Huron Man Named As New School Principal

Walter R. Cleminson, principal of the senior high school at Port Huron, has been elected to the principalship of the Grosse Pointe High School by the Board of Education. He will succeed Paul A. Rehms, principal in Grosse Pointe for the last three years, who resigned to accept the principalship of the senior high school at Lakewood, Ohio, a Cleveland suburb.

Known as one of the outstanding high school administrators of Michigan, Mr. Cleminson comes to Grosse Pointe with a notable record of achievement behind him, and in obtaining him for the local school, the Board of Education considers it has been most fortunate. Mr. Cleminson's selection followed a lengthy and thorough canvass of possible appointees. Advice and suggestions were sought from numerous institutions and individuals, according to Dr. E. R. Van Kleek, superintendent of schools.

Woods Residents And Business Men Fete Local Officials

Grosse Pointe Woods' six-man Village Commission, Village president and Village clerk were honored last week when local residents and business men presented them with a banquet. Commendations Post, Matzen, Lavera, Kone, Nander, Bush, and Ross, plus were the center of the admiring people's attention.

Dodge Dillman Yacht Again To Sail

The huge $2,000,000 yacht of Mrs. Anna Dodge Dillman, which for five years has been a source of interest and curiosity to Grosse Pointers, is again being prepared for service and will sail the Great Lakes this summer. The vessel, Delphine II, left its mooring at 17840 Jefferson avenue last week and cruised down the Detroit River to Wyandotte, where it will be taken into dry dock to be thoroughly reconditioned.

Since its construction in 1921, the Delphine II has had some rough sailing. A fire gutted the boat in New York in 1926, and it sank at its dock. It also ran aground several times before it was boarded up and tied to its Grosse Pointe Farms dock in 1935.

The ship is 257 feet long, 35 feet wide, draws 14 feet 9 inches of water, carries a crew of 40, 10 personal servants, plus the owners and their guests. The boat is also equipped with two crew launches, another 30-foot launch, and a 35-foot speedboat. The Delphine has five decks, a $60,000 pipe organ and eight guest state rooms.

High School Senior Rows On DBC Crew

Eugene O'Brien, 17-year-old senior at Grosse Pointe High School, will row No. 2 oar on the Detroit Boat Club's heavyweight eight when it meets a Wisconsin crew next Sunday on the Detroit River. O'Brien, 170-lb. husky, rowed with the newly formed local high school crew last year. Boat Club coach, Jud Ross remarked that this is the first time a high school athlete from this area has been made a member of that club's crew. The local eight will be matched against the University of Wisconsin's picked crew Sunday and will seek to avenge a defeat suffered at the Badger's hands last Summer in Madison.

U. of M. Library Honors 500 Years Of Printing

In both the William Clements Library and the General Library on the campus of the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor are a number of interesting and invaluable exhibits of printing, commemorating as they do this year the five hundredth anniversary of this universal art.

At the Clements Library which is devoted exclusively to American, only books covering the early American efforts in printing are being shown. Of particular interest to Detroiters is a volume printed by Father Gabriel Richard, who was the first printer in Detroit. His volume, Les Ornaments De la Memoire, was published in 1811.

Several examples of Benjamin Franklin's works are included in the showing. Of particular interest to students of typography is a book printed from type made of tin by the Jesuit Missionaries. Another rare example of typography depicts a battle in which the illustrations were made completely from type ornaments. Only one copy of this piece is in existence and it is the property of the William Clements Library.

The exhibit at the General Library is well rounded out and consists of volumes from many parts of the world including a replica of the famous and rare Gutenberg 42 line Bible. The Typothetae-Franklin Association of Detroit plans to distribute a keepsake of the Clements library exhibit at the dinner early in June commemorating the 500th anniversary of printing.

NOTICE

"The Grosse Pointe Review" will be distributed on Tuesday of next week instead of Thursday because of the celebration of Memorial Day. This change will be for next week only.

The officers urge that the members avail themselves of this opportunity to participate in shooting at the outdoor range in the Shores during the summer season and possibly win one of the several fine medals awarded at each shoot.

New Telephone Weather Service Proves Popular

According to a report issued by a Michigan Bell Telephone Company official last week, 397,130 persons dialed WE 1212 during the new telephone weather bureau's first month. This is an average of 13,238 calls per day and indicates that many Detroiters are making active use of the new service. The highest average for any one hour is the time between 7 and 8 a. m. This is attributed to the fact that this is the time when most people leave for work.

Wednesday has proved the busiest day, while Sunday's record is the lowest. The record number of calls for one day was April 15, the date that the service was started. This total was surpassed by the number of people who called to discover what the next service included.

The Alex. Theatre, Charlevoix at Wayburn, is beginning a new series of beautiful Tru-Blu Enamel Ware to be given free to all ladies every Wednesday and Thursday evening.

This new kitchen treat is double coated on extra heavy metal in cobalt blue trim, and the handles can not possibly come off.

All Grosse Pointe women are cordially invited to attend and obtain a set of these wonderful kitchen utensils. The doors open tonight at 5:45, with the first feature beginning at 6:00.

The Sweetheart Beauty Ware set, which has been offered for the last 11 weeks on Wednesday and Thursday nights, will now be changed to Friday and Saturday evenings to permit all ladies to complete their set.

Much interest is being created by the activity of Henry's 5c to $1.00 Store, 1940 Kercheval avenue, in connection with the nation-wide crochet contest which will name the 1940 crochet champion this fall. Proclaiming the message of "Be the 1940 Champion" the store is making every effort to bring the national title and honors to this community by helping local women enter the unusual competition. It reports that many local residents will take part in the final national judging.

Officials of the store explain that all entries in the contest must win a first prize for crochet in a 1940 county, local or state fair to become eligible for the national finals. The store has therefore tied its art needlework department up with the activity of the local fairs which will take place in this territory during the year. All crocheters are being advised to enter their handwork immediately in the fairs, with the hope of winning first prizes there.

Within the store, bright colored posters and banners announce the contest and explain the classifications included in the judging. One poster of particular interest challenges all women with a caption reading "What! Can a Man Crochet Better Than You?" The challenge is printed beside a photograph of John Miller, crocheting lumberjack of Sacramento, Calif., who won one of the major prizes in the contest held last year. Many women are out to revenge Mr. Miller's triumph.

Clerks in the store are prepared to answer all questions regarding entry and the type of threads and designs that will be eligible. Rule sheets are being distributed across the counter. Any mercerized crochet cotton is eligible for the contest, the store explains, and 10 classes of designs will be accepted. The classifications include tablecloths, bedspreads, handkerchiefs, scarves or scarfs, blouses or dresses, baby garments, household accessories, fashion accessories, edgings or insertions, and chair sets. In addition, special prizes will be awarded for the best crochet submitted by girls under 16, by ladies over 70, and by men. It is expected that many masculine crocheters will participate in the special "For Men Only" class.

Word comes to us that Jo Nellie Martin, who for several years has been regarded as one of the Pointe's foremost hairdressers, has joined Marie Bird at the Grosse Pointe Hairdressers. At the present time Miss Martin's services are only available on Thursdays and Fridays.

Now under the experienced management of Paul Pepper, Eugene's cuisine is of a nature truly different. In addition, patrons are entertained with music by Muzak. And just what is "Music by Muzak?" The answer to this entails a visit to Eugene's. Patrons will find Eugene's air-conditioned and comfortably cool.

Mrs. Vera McGowan 1251 Nottingham has been appointed to the staff of Spirella Corsettiere. She will serve Grosse Pointe residents.

Perhaps you do not want to write the great American Novel, but you probably will want to write a simple 25 word statement and win the Fiesta 90-piece dinner ensemble that's to be awarded to a resident of this county. According to Mr. Rolf, of Rolf's Hardware, 341 Fisher Road, dealer in Lowe Brothers Paints, the Fiesta ensemble table service for six is a masterpiece of sparkling colors. And in addition to a complete set of genuine Fiesta dishes in a service for six it includes knives, forks, spoons, tumblers and glassware.

"Yet," says Mr. Rolf, this dinner ensemble will be given away free to the winner of our local contest open only to residents of this county."

Said Mr. Rolf in a statement today, "I imagine that every woman would like to have this ensemble for her home. It's sold by leading department stores the world over, and it's made by the world's largest maker of pottery. Everyone is invited to our store this week end to see our Plax Color Fiesta, and to get the facts on which to base their 25-word contest statement. We have arranged a colorful, animated Plax Fiesta Display and a streamlined demonstration to give visitors all the facts about Plax, the Universal Beauty Finish."

Furthermore we have samples of Plax which will be given away absolutely free, as will free contest blanks on which to write the 25-word prize statement."

The contest will be open to anyone except employees of the store or their families. There is no obligation to buy anything and no fancy writing ability is necessary. Entries will be judged on the simple merits of the statements, and in the event of a tie, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

So concluded Mr. Rolf: "We feel sure that so one will miss this opportunity to visit our store this Friday and Saturday and enter this easy-to-win local contest."

Gerald Lester, proprietor of Jerry's Household Service for the past 12 years, announces to his Grosse Pointe clientele his purchase of the business of "Jordan the Mechanic," who was formerly located at St. Clair and Kercheval. Mr. Lester states he is in a position to give excellent service, not only to his present customers but also to all the folks who formerly depended upon "Jordan the Mechanic" for a wide range of household repair services. "Jerry" is now located at 4734 Hereford, corner East Warren.

Chas. Salerno of Salerno Hardware, 15128 Mack avenue, wishes all his friends and customers in the Pointe to know he is most appreciative of their visits to his store during National Hardware Open House Week, April 25 to May 4. It is his hope that all who came found their time well spent in looking over the interesting merchandise exhibited at that time, and still to be seen by any who wish to drop in.

We've heard of casting pearls before swine but never (until recently) had we heard of casting mothballs to wedding guests. At the Book-Baker wedding reception last Tuesday, a well known G. P. bachelor arrived dressed in a "frock coat" that sent the guests scurrying for a breath of air. One of those best friends who DO tell you, suggested that he de-mothize himself before proceeding any further into the midst of the gathering. The g. p. b., who was then on his ??? glass of champagne, dug into his pockets and hauled out handfuls of mothballs, which he tossed to the passing guests. A jolly time was had by all—notwithstanding.

If you missed "Little Chicadee," with W. C. Fields and Mae West, you're very lucky. LaBelle West should have retired after her last opus and Fields is too great a genius to be cast in a "doo!" like this one. The high spot (if any) was when Fields, who has had a "night before," looked at himself in the mirror, stuck out his tongue and said, "All night long, a midget with mud on his feet, has been tramping around on my tongue." That ought to give you an idea!

In all the darkness, there is a steady flame—DON'T forget it—the Red Cross!

Costume Hints for College Graduates

Material and Style Matter of Individual Taste.

By CHERIE NICHOLAS
It depends on whether the sweet girl graduate favors the simplest street-length type to wear under her conventional gown or a more formal type that will serve as a party frock later on in the summer, as to the materials best suited.

Sharkskin, cottons, especially pique, and various crepes are recommended for the simple street-length dress. For interest, play up pockets, unpressed pleats, yoke details, wide midriff belts introduced as a part of the dress, cunning boleros and other clever little high-spot styling details.

Dotted swiss, eyeleted pique, cotton lace and organdy each have their place also in the fabric list for graduating frocks, formal or informal.

In dressy mood that foresees dance and party events for summer, you have such intriguing choices as mousseline de soie, marquisette, net, chiffon and quaint dimities.

The big news for the girl graduate is about flowers. You do the unusual this season—clip them to your diplomas, or carry out the flower-bracelet idea, pose them in the hair and you can get effect in long swinging festoons. Bouquets of quaint old-fashioned flowers accent youth.

Enormous Bags

Some of the new bags are that enormous they are almost amusing—that is until you become accustomed to them. They take care nicely of all the little belongings you want to carry with you. The handsome bag matched to the hat milady wears in the picture is really quite conservative in size compared to bags we will be seeing this spring and summer. The good-looking champagne-colored bag with matching straps here is done in magenta and white with poppies and a poppy-colored veil as decorative features.

Grecian Sandals With Evening Wear

The ancient goddesses wore no heels, where today's moderns walk on wedges. That is almost the only essential difference, however, between the mythological versions of the sandals and those designed to accompany modern evening dresses. You will find today's mortal goddesses wearing gold kidskin ones made with narrow straps that crisscross the feet and are tied well above the ankle bone with a small bow.

Paris Frocks Have Their Own Coats

The season promises to be more suit-y than coat-y, and most of the coats are shown with frocks, either matched or contrasted. Sports coats are made of fluffy surfaced wools, the fluff less deep than in the Teddy Bear varieties of the winter.

Cheviot and diagonal worsteds are important. Checks and plaids, often restrained, are also seen.

Afternoon Frock in Carnival Stripes

Red, yellow, blue and green are striped in a carnival effect on a black sheer background for a long sleeved afternoon frock. The bodice is softly bloused and trimmed with a rippled harlequin collar of sheer white organdy.

Paris Flashes

The formal blouse is very much in evidence. Simple black for daytime ranks high in style prestige. Slim straight silhouette continues to gain in favor. Dark dresses have colorful yokes, the hats repeating the color. Agnes creates matching bags and hats of check ginghams, also chintz. The newer skirts are fashioned with hip yokes from which fall pleating. Leading couturiers are creating beautiful cotton frocks to day and evening. Newest afternoon prints are patterned with widely spaced medium size flowers.

Garden of Roses

A rose census by Park Superintendent William Nicholas of the 20,000 rose bushes surrounding the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., revealed that there are 67 kinds of roses represented.

Thinks White Men Reached Minnesota Region In 1362

White men probably made a voyage into Minnesota in 1362, 130 years before Columbus landed at San Salvador, Dr. George Lechler, Wayne University archeologist, has reported to members of the American Archeological Society. He pointed to evidence accumulated in four years of research, showing that the mysterious Kensington Runestone found 186 miles southwest of Duluth is an authentic "calling card" of the Norsemen. His findings augment those of certain other scientists which point to the same conclusion; but there is no unanimity of opinion on the Runestone's genuineness.

The 200-pound boulder, inscribed with runic figures, describes an exploring trip of "eight Goths and 22 Norwegians" that year and the establishment of their camp at the spot where the stone reposed. When a Swedish farmer discovered the curiously engraved message near the small village of Kensington, in 1898, the figures were translated; but, they were branded a forgery, largely on the assumption that the Norsemen could never have penetrated so far from their Greenland settlements.

Dr. Lechler, after examining archeological, historical, and geographical evidence involved, bases his belief in the stone's genuineness largely on the peculiarities of spelling in the words used. These peculiarities, long believed evidence of the forger's clumsiness, have been found through research work within the past year to be typical of Norse runic writings at the purported date.

Historical events transpiring in Greenland would almost certainly have caused the Norsemen to become acquainted with Hudson's Bay, whence they could have penetrated by water most of the way to Kensington.

"The motion was supported by Commissioner Breining and carried by the following vote: Yes, Commissioners Breining and O'Brien; Nays, None. Whereupon it was ordered that the above described streets in the Township of Gratiot be hereafter County Roads under the jurisdiction of the Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Wayne."
THIS NOTICE IS GIVEN UNDER AND BY VIRTUE OF ACT NO. 283 OF THE PUBLIC ACTS OF 1909, AS AMENDED.

AN ORDINANCE

Section 1. No person, firm or corporation shall distribute or cause to be distributed any obscene, immoral or lewd printed matter or pictures or a combination of the two, or matter which advocates unlawful conduct, in the City of Grosse Pointe.
Section 2. No person, firm or corporation shall litter or cause to be littered any streets, alleys, public places, or other outside premises either public or private, in the City of Grosse Pointe with any printed or written matter.

Section 3. It shall be unlawful to obstruct traffic on public streets, alleys or walks in the City of Grosse Pointe in the distribution of any written or printed matter.
Section 4. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to distribute or cause to be distributed in the City of Grosse Pointe any commercial handbill or other printed or written commercial matter by placing or causing the same to be placed in any automobile or in any yard or on any porch or vestibule or in any mail box, not in the possession of or under the control of the person so distributing.

Section 5. Section 4 of this ordinance shall not be applicable to the distribution of any newspaper or magazine; to the delivery of mail; to the delivery of any matter which the owner or occupant of the premises may have heretofore requested to be delivered at the premises; or to the distribution of any printed matter (other than obscene, immoral or lewd printed or written matter) or pictures or a combination of the two) by attaching the same to an outside door or screen knob during daylight hours in such a way that it will not be blown off.
Section 6. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to distribute or cause to be distributed in the City of Grosse Pointe any commercial handbill or other printed or written commercial matter by the ringing of door bells, knocking at doors, or any other means of attracting one inside the premises to come to or open the entrance door, unless such person, firm or corporation theretofore secured the written consent of the occupant of the premises.

joined with us in producing various designs. The suggestions of those who favor a smaller plate are being thoroughly considered. We certainly would favor a smaller one, so long as visibility were not sacrificed, because the State saves money in reducing the size, less steel being required.

"When the police officers and the automotive research men get through testing the different samples on the roads, we'll study their findings. The final selection will be based on actual driving experience, not on any personal preference for this or that color combination, size, or any other factor entering into the problem."

Sec. 8. It shall be unlawful to use the streets, public walks or public property in the City of Grosse Pointe for advertising purposes by means of loud speakers, phonographs, violas, or otherwise, and no owner or occupant of property abutting such streets or public walks or public places shall use loud speakers, phonographs, violas or otherwise so placed on his own or another's property as to advertise upon public streets, public walks or public property.

Sec. 9. The invalidity of any section or sections of part or parts of any section or sections of this ordinance, shall not affect the validity of the remainder of this ordinance.

Sec. 10. An person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this ordinance shall be punishable by a fine of not less than ten dollars nor more than fifty dollars or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than ninety days, or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court.

Sec. 11. This ordinance shall repeal any ordinance of the City of Grosse Pointe in conflict therewith.

New Michigan Plates Will Be 'Road Tested'

The 1941 model of Michigan's automobile license plate will be a "road-tested" job. In his effort to arrive at a proper combination of size, color and design, Harry F. Kelly, secretary of State, has ordered the production of a dozen or more sample plates, all of which will be used on the road, to be studied under actual driving conditions.

State police and automobile manufacturers will join in giving scientific tests. Their conclusions will determine just what kind of plate will adorn the 1941 car of the Michigan motorist.

"Visibility is a chief consideration of the law-enforcement officers," says Mr. Kelly. "They want to be able to see the license numbers at long distances. The manufacturers are interested also because they desire a plate that will harmonize with the streamlining of the cars they produce, and one which will be easily fitted to the car."

Local Track Team Takes Second In State Regionals

By DICK BODYCOMBE
A picked group of Grosse Pointe High School track athletes traveled to Ferndale last Saturday afternoon and finished second in competition against five other Class A schools in the annual state regional track and field meet. Ferndale, playing the ungracious host, rang up 38½ points to take top honors, while the local Blue Devils trailed close behind with 35½. Edison Robbins provided Grosse Pointe with a first place in the half-mile event, while Bobby Sturman tied for first in the pole vault.

Melchior Ferrone and Don Kammer counted second and third in the shot-put as did Ralph Savory and Charles Lee in the high hurdle event. Ralph DeWinter ran second in the 100 and 200-yard dashes, while Ray Weaver and Ed Reoch contributed a second in the quarter mile and a fifth in the mile, respectively. These nine boys who placed in Saturday's festivities are now eligible to participate in the State finals to be held in East Lansing next Saturday.

Hunk Anderson Signs With Chicago Bears

Heartly "Hunk" Anderson, late of the Detroit Lions, signed a one-year contract with the Chicago Bears last week, and will handle line coaching duties for this team during the coming National Professional Football League season. Anderson, who played five years of pro football with the Bears after graduation from Notre Dame University, returns to Chicago to assist George Halas, owner and coach of the well-known grid squad.

First "Dubbers" Meet Called Great Success

The first Dubbers tournament was a great success, although the day was cold and dark. It was very well attended, 34 members turning out for this first play. During the evening prizes were awarded to the following members: First prize was won by Floyd Champine of the Grosse Pointe Farms Fire Department, and other prizes were won by George Poupard, Bill Beaupre, Harry Furton, August Billett, Dan Allor, Carter Piche, Bill Mason, Fred Hood and Fire Chief Ledger Chauvin. Two ladies' prizes were also awarded. First prize went to Mrs. Joseph Trembly, and the other to Mrs. William Beaupre. There will be another Dubbers tournament next month. Watch for an announcement in this paper in the near future and make plans to attend.

Student-Faculty Game Turns Into Rout

By DICK BODYCOMBE
An argument of long-standing was definitely settled last Tuesday afternoon, when the male section of Grosse Pointe High School's teaching department joined hands and crushed an all-star student baseball team in their annual softball contest. The teachers, combining confidence, experience, and actual skill, proved themselves vastly superior as they banged out a 9-4 victory before a good-sized crowd of amused students and spectators.

For years, the teachers have been the target of good-natured jeers and taunts showered upon them by over-confident students. When actually goaded into physical competition, the men have jammed these threats down the astonished students' throats. But each successive class believes that it has the invincible teamwork needed to down the so-called "old men" and each class in turn is sorely disappointed. This year's batch of boy athletes was no different than their predecessors, so after days of practice they considered themselves ready for the battle. After four innings they were ready to "call it quits."

But it appears that this will become a perennial question, and once a year the poor teachers must drag out their dusty equipment and liniment and prove that they are still "masters" of the situation.

New Race Season Marks Many New Improvements

The Photo-finish, the Puett starting gate, electric odds board and the saliva test are among the racing improvements at the Detroit track which have brought congratulations from turf fans and owners alike in recent seasons. But another advance was made this year about which the owners are particularly enthusiastic.

This is the slashing of the purses on the larger stakes to be offered during the 43-day meeting. Ordinarily purse reductions don't produce any cheers, but General Manager Clarence E. Lehr did not reduce the purse total. He simply took the money from the big purse and spread it over the entire program in larger purses for the daily feature races.

More than $360,000 in increase over last year, will be paid out to horsemen before the spring meeting is over.

Lehr's move was calculated to halt what had become a chronic pain to the horsemen who brought their entire stables into Detroit to stay for the entire meeting. They grew tired of watching some of the country's biggest stables ship their stars in here on Thursday, shoot for a $5,000 to $25,000 purse in a big stake race, and then, having grabbed the pot, ship out on Sunday to leave the other horsemen to scramble for the smaller purses.

Under the new program daily feature races are being offered with a value of from $1,000 to $1,500, which will enable all the stables on the ground to send out their best horses after worthwhile purses during the week, instead of keeping them in the barns from one week-end to the next. They are being rewarded for bringing in their entire racing strings. As a result, the Detroit track has drawn stronger and better balanced stables than ever before.

Racing followers will benefit through better programs during the week, for the new move has resulted in the elimination of the $800 top-and-bottom card of eight claiming races. Some sort of a purse or handicap event is on tap every day.

The track management expects to have the program completed each day by 7:30 p. m.

Lecture on Christian Science by George Channing, C.S.B.

Under the Auspices of Sixth Church of Christ, Scientist, Detroit, at the Sixth Church Edifice, Kercheval and Manistique, Monday Evening, May 20, 1940

A Lecture on Christian Science Entitled Christian Science: The Demand of The Times By GEORGE CHANNING C.S.B. of San Francisco Cal.

You and I, who have come upon this present period of the world's history as participants in its unfolding, are, or should be, little surprised that a great New England woman, whose spiritual status enabled her to be God's messenger to this age, has reminded humanity clearly and definitely that "the time for thinkers has come" (Science and Health, vii: 13). In the world of our time, the demand, or insistent desire, of men is for these three things: namely, security, health, and love, and for the intelligence which supplies this demand. The human mind, so-called, is baffled. Its reputed intelligence promises so much but yields so little that seems reliable, satisfactory and permanent. That is why thinkers are needed, and the time is ripe for their coming. For none would deny that true intelligence, perfect and incapable of error, can solve any problem, can unfold the health, security, and love which our times are demanding. Manifestly then, the need of humanity is for increasing capacity to discern, outside the limitations of human thought, the presence here and now of true and perfect intelligence and to understand the availability of such intelligence to meet the demand of the times.

In such understanding, consciously and unconsciously pursued, is the sum and substance of humanity's long-time search for God—a search which Christian Science has crowned with success through revealing that true intelligence, the perfect, divine Mind, is Deity itself, expressed in that intelligence which is the primal and eternal quality of God. This achievement places the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, the humble, God-loving undaunted Mrs. Eddy at the head of the march in this age of true thinkers whose time, she made plain, is here.

WE GET WHAT WE LOVE

The way of true thinking is the way of right desire. It culminates in the revelation to human consciousness of divine intelligence, or God, and the manifestation of the effects of God which include love, health and security. If, therefore, humanity is today being compelled to examine its desires, to seek its affections, to be molded by wisdom, humanity is on the high road to true attainment. "Desire," says Mrs. Eddy, "is prayer," (Science and Health, 1: 11), and she says it out of the fullness of her understanding that prayer is answered. She knew that in a very profound sense our experience is determined by what we love—determined, if we love God, in terms of harmony or of complete dominion over all in harmony that may seem to appear to us. Remember the French proverb which, catching a glimpse of this fact, warns and at the same time promises: "Be careful what you set your heart upon, for you will surely get it." Remember, more importantly, the Scriptural admonition: "Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life." (Proverbs 4:23), and also the Master Christian's co-ordination of experience with affection when he said, "... where your treasure is, there will your heart be also" (Matthew 6:21). Remember, too, the remarkable summing up of this truth by Mary Baker Eddy, already referred to here, whose textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" admonishes: "Hold thought steadfastly to the enduring, the good, and the true, and you will bring these into your experience proportionably to their occupancy of your thoughts" (p. 261:4-7).

When Christian Science presents God as the one intelligence and focuses attention on man as the reflection of God, and the good that becomes manifest therefrom, it presents no archaic notion of religion, no false piety, no technical theology. It presents the living, vital truth which is justified by its effects in terms of unending good. It presents a full view of God and His man, including the universe, a view which is remarkably new only because it is remarkably complete.

INTELLIGENCE IS DIVINE

Intelligence as has already been said here, is divine. Nothing short of perfect intelligence can make a universe or hold it together. And nothing short of divinity can be perfect. The perfection of divinity is its completeness; and completeness means infinitude. Could intelligence be reliable which asserts its ability to be honest but not to be just, to be merciful but not to be wise? Could intelligence be able to save from sin and at the same time stand helpless before the ravages of disease? Could it make men shrewd and smart and cunning to the point of developing refined means for exterminating their fellowmen and themselves under the contradictory justification that intelligence demands it? The answer to these questions is obviously "No." It is a false sense of intelligence that answers otherwise—a mortal mirage supported by the illusive physical senses whereby the human mind is deluded into the notion that life flows only to decay, that life must develop from nothing to greatness, only to decline from greatness to nothing and the grave.

MORTAL GREATNESS A MIRAGE

What a mirage is the greatness thus developed! Fattened for slaughter, so to speak! Built up in stature to become a larger morsel for that which devours! No wonder the human mind is fleeing the wrath of its own nature, seeking firmer foundations outside itself. Limited by its own educational systems, devoted to the proud human intellect whose refinements acknowledge and insist upon the assumption of destruction, human thought is nevertheless emerging today to a greater hope of salvation than it can ever give itself. I am not here condemning educational systems. Educational systems have a function to serve. "Academics of the right sort are requisite" (Science and Health, p. 195: 19), says Mrs. Eddy. The truth is that in so far as educational systems assert and accept the reality of human sense, they are contributing to the refinement of human sense to the point where its nothingness is exposed. And at that point it is replaced by divine intelligence—perfect and infinite Mind—to which heaven itself appears.

This infinite Mind is God. Because it is infinite, it is perfect. It is synonymous with Love that is infinite and perfect; with Principle that is infinite and perfect; with Life, Spirit, Soul, Truth, its infinite and perfect nature. For each of these terms, all of them used in the Christian Science textbook as synonyms for God, describes and includes the characteristics of the other. Mind, let us remember, is complete. Its completeness identifies it with Love, for that which is less than Love is self-destructive, while God, Mind, is self-sustained. Its completeness identifies it with Principle, for that which is less than Principle is inadequate to be the source of all. Its completeness identifies it with Life, for that which is less than Life is not living; with Spirit, for less than Spirit is matter, subject to decay; with Soul, for less than Soul is a limited sense; with Truth, for less than Truth is false.

DIVINE MIND'S UNIVERSE

PERFECT

This divine Mind which sees, conceives, and understands in terms of completeness is aware only of the universe of its own creating. Imperfect, it could not exist itself; and existing, it conceives—that is, creates, in the nature, image, or idea, of perfection. Is there any evidence of this creation? Yes, in the fact that the universe survives. In the fact that Life is, and the universe, including man, is its expression. If the so-called mortal mind, which claims to see, conceive, and know in terms of incompleteness and self-contradiction, had ever projected a universe, the inherently suicidal, self-destructive nature of that so-called mind would have destroyed that universe in the making. Is there no significance in the appearance that the material universe includes the element of destruction? Can consciousness be aware of existence and also of non-existence? Can it know its own death if the very ability to know, to understand, is a faculty of Life, not death? Indeed, can there be any consciousness of unconsciousness? Can there be any reality in that which is impossible?

If existence must be perfect in order to be (and perfect existence entertains no contradictions of itself—no sense of non-existence), then perfect existence is real, and the Mind which conceives it is eternal. And this Mind is the infinite, divine intelligence which is reflected by man. It has no kinship with mortality, nor with conceptions or conclusions based on mortal premises. It is the center and circumference of being, which expresses its own untarnished nature in the universe it creates. It gives forth its own manifestation in terms of holy, indestructible qualities which constitute the eternal man. It blots out by its presence all illusion of imperfection, for, being infinite, it leaves no room for aught that is not included in its perfect presence.

TRUE IDEAS HAVE POWER

From the divine, perfect Mind, the foundation of all, proceed true spiritual ideas. If these ideas were abstract, unavailable to humanity, and without practical effect, it would be useless to devote ourselves to considering the nature of the truths of Christian Science. But experience has proved them to have holy power. Utilization of them, in the degree that they are understood and truly accepted, has borne unending fruit in terms of the redemption of mortals from the destructive tyranny of the mind of mortals. And the present proof of their power, in the experience of hosts of men and women, confirms the Biblical assurance of complete salvation from sin, sickness, and death. Nor would that compassionate, unselfish, deeply spiritual woman, who discovered Christian Science, ever have been able to check the ignorant march of mankind toward the unhappy goals of human thought—ever have been able to find, or have desired to find, The Church of Christ, Scientist, composed in The Mother Church in Boston and its branches throughout the civilized world, if these spiritual ideas, divinely revealed to her, had not proved their efficacy in terms of spiritually intelligent living.

Therefore, I invite our attention here on this occasion to divinely spiritual ideas. For, the effect of these ideas, entertained in thought as real and true, is the fulfillment of our fondest hopes for victory over evil, for deliverance from the mercilessness of mortal illusions. In other words, I invite our attention to the Christ, for the spiritual idea of God operating in the human consciousness to displace and destroy the errors of mortal sense, is the Christ. It is the Christ because it heals and saves, making "wise unto salvation" (II Timothy 3:15, to use the Apostles' phrase. It is the activity of the divine Mind with which Christ Jesus was endowed—Jesus, our great Example, who knew God as his father, and saw and perceived as real only the universe which God, divine Mind, conceives, and who lived and had his being consciously in that universe. Because Mind sees and is aware of its own manifestations exclusively, Christ Jesus, whose Mind was God, so acknowledged and utilized by him, did not see as real the universe which is the seeming manifestation of so-called mortal mind.

JESUS SAW SPIRITUAL FACTS

Jesus saw the eternal spiritual facts. They were indigenous to his nature, and he so recognized them. This made him wise. It identified his thought wholly and exclusively with Truth and thus marked him as the most intelligent man who ever trod this globe. All his thought or consciousness proceeded from the divine and perfect Mind. The result of this intelligence was that reality was ever before his gaze and reality never had a chance to be supposed by him to be true. Wars and rumors of wars, sin, sickness, and death, hatred, malice, and sorrow were unable to limit or disturb his awareness of the perfect qualities of the divine Mind he reflected, nor to interfere with his demonstration of the presence of the consciousness of harmony. Unable to impress him, the illusions of evil were simply, to his consciousness, false; and his understanding of their falsity, through his beholding of divine reality, wiped out the appearance of their existence for those who sought his help. Is not this the intelligence for which humanity is pleading, which you and I are needing, and which, in a word, is the demand of the times? Is it not the infinite, divine intelligence which is Love, reflected in that love, which is the most needed and yearned for thing in the world—love that is so true that it crases the unloved qualities of so-called mortal man and recognizes and exalts the true man as both lovable and loving? Consider the Mind which was reflected by Jesus, unfolding its ineffable love for his human disciples; and, in his contacts with his disciples, emphasizing the effectiveness of divine Love's activity, healing and saving mankind. Consider the case of Thomas, that doubting disciple. Here was one of the twelve, who, like the others, had enjoyed the friendship of Jesus, had listened to his incontestable explanations of the indestructibility of divine Life which Jesus embodied, and which is expressed by every individual aware of his own spiritual status. Here was one who had not only heard these explanations but had seen them practically applied by Jesus in the restoration of the sense of life to individuals, who, mortal sense had said, were dead, and in the erasure from the thought of the onlookers of their acceptance of the notion that that particular individual had died. Yet, Thomas when he, shortly after the murderous assault upon Jesus, known as the crucifixion, saw Jesus walking and heard him talking, failed to discern the glorious fact that Life, the divine Life which Jesus was conscious of expressing, had not been destroyed. In this failure he refused acknowledgment of the one fact which made his Master's mission a success. Yet, Jesus loved him even at that moment. He loved him so much, indeed, that he permitted him to see the risen Lord—permitted him to see in the way his dull senses could at that moment comprehend—permitted him to identify what Thomas' clouded human sense saw only as a fleshly Jesus through the wounds in the hands where the nails had pierced and the hollow in the side where the spear was thrust.

LOVE NEVER WITHHOLDS

Thomas wanted to see the Christ. His desire was right. Jesus knew that. So he let Thomas see, in the way Thomas could. He let him see the Christ, or rather the evidence in the flesh that Jesus, in overcoming death, had demonstrated the Christ, the spiritual idea of divine, indestructible Life, or Mind. And Thomas saw it in the degree that the thought of Thomas was aware of desiring the Christ, even though that desire seemed woefully small. It was nevertheless there, just as it is here in your thought and mine. We, too, are permitted to see the Christ, the consciousness of sonship to God, which enables us to inherit the divine Father's bounty in terms of ever-present awareness of good, in the degree that the desire to see the Christ in us, in other words, is to be Christlike, or genuinely our desire. The faithful, Mary, treading her day-break path to the tomb where Jesus was laid, yearning to see the Christ, with which, she knew, the mentality of Jesus was exclusively endowed, saw him in glorious amazement and appreciation at the point where human sense yields to spiritual Truth and the infinite evidence it supplies. She had her reward in the exaltation of her own life to the realization that her immediate need was consciously met. Thomas, with less spiritual desire and therefore less spiritual discernment, but nevertheless with some spiritual desire, also had his reward in the improvement of his sense of life to the realization that his immediate need was met. It is important to note that the experience of the faithful Mary and of doubting Thomas left neither where it found them. Each progressed in spiritual discernment, true intelligence, from his present standpoint of thought; Mary crying out in the immediacy of spiritual recognition: "Rabboni"; which is to say, Master" (John 20:16); and Thomas, in penitent appreciation for the patience of his Lord, capitulating with the acknowledgment, "My Lord and my God" (John 20:28). Thomas needed to grow to the point where material sense did not seem to dominate him and thus contribute to his acceptance of the illusion that he saw Christ materially. But the fact remains that he saw the Christ, because his honest desire found response from Love. And he doubtless learned much from the loving rebuke from the Master "... because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed; blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed." (John 20:29).

LET NO ONE DESPAIR

In the light of this narrative let no one despair whose heart is sincere, even though the light seems slow in coming. You and I, like Thomas, see and feel the love of God for us, the love of the divine Father for his spiritual child; and you and I, perhaps like Thomas, need to grow to the point where material sense does not deceive us into accepting the illusion that health and harmony come from matter. God gives us nourishment, security, health, and harmony. Oh, may our hearts be so filled with the desire to know God and to express our spiritual at-one-ment with Him that we never lose the sense of nourishment, security, health, and harmony, but only the illusion that these are material. For the sincere desire for spiritual Truth is rewarded in whatever way our honest desire can appreciate the spiritual consciousness of good. May we always use the spiritual understanding which recognizes it as the consciousness of good, spiritually and eternally indestructible. May we come out from among material sense and be separate from the fear that good is physical, therefore limited and subject to withdrawal from man. May we have the wisdom to know God, divine Mind, as the one controlling influence over our thought and our lives, and the intelligence to identify ourselves with His qualities, thus improving human experience until it is educated out of itself, swallowed up, or displaced, by the uninterrupted spiritual sense of God's eternal good. May we, even when sense says we doubt, like Thomas—may we at least desire the Christ with the honesty of Thomas and thus, through Christ's loving response, progress to the alertness of Mary, to the conscious identification of ourselves with all that expresses the infinite Mind that is also Truth and Love.

LIGHT ON HOW TO LOVE

Perhaps, at this point, someone will still feel prompted to say: "This is a beautiful statement, but how can it be used? What practical approach to using it can I make in the clashes, disappointments, and limitations that accompany the daily grind of my life? I know that love is a demand of the times. I do not need to be persuaded to love, but I do need light on how to love." My friend, you are not alone in your query. We all need light on how to love, and Christian Science gives that light, explaining in its text book, already mentioned in this lecture, the steps that show us victorious. First, and immediately effective, is the desire to love. We must purify our desire and make it unselfish and spiritual. Keeping the desire active in thought improves the desire and brings it to fulfillment. Next, and overwhelmingly important, is the model before our thought, for all of us, consciously or unconsciously, work toward thought models and we bring out in ourselves the nature of the model. Therefore, my friend, let our model be perfect. Keep God before the thought, and the conscious activity which expresses God's presence. Know the nature of God as infinite Love. The Christian Science textbook helps us to the true conception, and our reason, intuition, and experience confirm its truth. Look at our model continually. See divine Love in its impartial, intelligent, generous, unselfish, tender, compassionate, purifying aspect. Rejoice in our improving ability to see our model more plainly and we shall presently be rejoicing in the evidence of love in ourselves, and the evidence of Love, such as security and health in our experience. The activity of divine Love in us, let me say it again, the manifestation of the Christ,

It reveals our sonship to God. It dispels in our thought the illusion of its absence, until we are conscious of its occupancy of the whole of our mentality.

The Mind which Jesus manifested was God, and that manifestation of God, healing, saving, banishing the motion that there is any other mind, is, as we have said, the Christ. This Christ is the true model of man, expressing the presence of God. Let it be your model, my friend, for it is natural to you. It will bring out your individuality—what it is in you that makes you, you. It will lead to self-discovery—your individual status as the child of God—and will reveal to you your talent for expressing true being, thus making manifest in daily experience your resourcefulness, wisdom, security, health, and love—in a word, your job.

DIVINE INTELLIGENCE REVEALS HEALTH

In view of what has been said here, identifying spiritual love as the demand of the times, something should be said also about the health of mankind. For, just as surely as Christian Science teaches and demonstrates that true intelligence is divine Love (from which the expression of spiritual love proceeds), it proves that true intelligence is the antidote for disease. God, divine Mind, is true intelligence. He neither knows nor permits disease, nor is He deceived into the notion that disease exists. Disease expresses the mortal supposition of a lack of ease, or a condition of incompleteness or lack of wholeness. That which is whole (the Anglo-Saxon tongue calls it hale) is healthy. God is whole. If He were not so, He would not be God. If He were impaired, deficient, or, in a word, diseased, neither He nor the universe would exist. For, the universe is, as is taught and revealed in Christian Science, as is being explained in this lecture, as has been and is being demonstrated by a host of men and women, and is open to demonstration at all times by you and me—the universe is the manifestation, or idea, of perfect, infinite Mind. Hence the non-existence of matter, for matter is the illusory universe conceived by imperfect, mortal so-called mind, which cannot and does not exist in spiritual reality, since perfect, divine Mind is all. Perfect Mind is whole. It knows its own wholeness. If perfect Mind is recognized and utilized as the Mind of man, man knows his own wholeness. And this truth heals disease. The healing of disease is the healing of thought. It is accomplished through the displacement of whatever appears to be imperfect, mortal, or death-fall, mind governing human consciousness by the immortal (with-no-death-in-it) Mind.

CHRIST JESUS SHOWS WAY TO HEALTH

In the healing of disease, as in all other respects, Christ Jesus has set the example. He knew that the intelligence which knows all reality knows that reality is harmonious, holy, and diseaseless. Consequently, he applied this intelligence to expose disease as an illusion. By this means, the most effective means of healing the world has ever known, and, in fact, the only truly successful method, he healed a man sick of the palsy so that the man not only rose unaided from his couch but walked away, carrying his couch as he walked. He healed lepers who asked his assistance, and sent them back presumably to useful lives. In the presence of Truth, error cannot exist. Accordingly, he healed a woman whose imploping thought reached his pure consciousness of God's reality, when she touched the hem of his garment. He opened a blind man's eyes. And, in the words of Scripture, he went about healing all manner of diseases among the people. He knew that the demand of his times, just as it is the demand of our times, was for the effects of God, divine Mind, or intelligence; but he also knew that mankind did not recognize God as the cause of these effects. He deplored this condition, but he loved humanity. Accordingly, out of his great love, he helped those hearts that desired the Christ, even though the desire was ever so little, to feel the power of God in their lives. By his marvelous healing of myriad inharmonies of mortal thought, he sought to turn men's affections and allegiance to the cause of those healings—to God, whose presence, reflected by man, reveals heaven here and now. He is succeeding. The message of his mighty works is thundering down the ages. It has thundered in human consciousness to the arrival of that historic spiritual unfolding—the bringing to earth of Christian Science, the divine Comforter, promised by Jesus as coming to lead into all truth, and revealed to this age by God's own messenger, the God-ordained, spiritually-minded, compassionate Mrs. Eddy. Through the necessities of our day, men are desiring, with increasing intensity, the effects of God—expressed as love, health, security. And through the ministry of Christian Science men are coming, at least in some degree, to understand God as the cause of these effects and therefore to desire Him, to love and obey and give the heart's fidelity to the infinite Source of all good, the Lover of every good and perfect gift, the divine Father, er, who makes and keeps His children secure.

SECURITY IS FROM GOD

Having considered the nature of love and health, let us now consider security, the third aspect of the effects of God, which constitute the demand of the times. What is the human demand for security except a reaching out for what can be found only in the degree that God is found? Is there anything secure but God? What is it that outlasts all false opinions of man? What is it that remains when human sense has fled? Man's security is in God, the divine intelligence he expresses. He is anchored in spiritual wisdom which, untouched by human will, reveals his daily footsteps. There is a woman of my acquaintance, who, bereft of husband and seemingly of support, looked into her own consciousness of God's presence for the wisdom that was to be her security. She recognized her individual talent for expressing usefulness, helpfulness, service, and other spiritual qualities that attest the immediacy of divine Mind. Then the mode of what was to be her daily activity took form in her thought. It led her to establish a business which keeps on growing and also keeps her alert to improve her perception of her true selfhood which reflects God, and is loved of God. Today she is demonstrating her security, and also her health, through utilizing the wisdom which God supplies.

GOOD CANNOT BE THWARTED

Is there anything to prevent the spiritual demand of our times from finding its fulfillment? Can you and I desire and seek after divine intelligence, whose effects are love, health, and security, and be thwarted by some influence able to interfere? My friend, God is the only power; and God is the Mind of man, to be acknowledged and demonstrated. Man is never at the mercy of anything outside himself. It is your privilege and mine to think our own thoughts, to be at one with the Mind that is perfect. We do not need to accept notions, conclusions, assumptions which deny the reality of spiritual ideas which come from God. We can always and under all circumstances assert the reality and dominion of our divinely derived intelligence. If notions of mortality, limitation, unspirituality seem to knock at the gate of our consciousness, that is malpractice, whether seeming to proceed from ignorance alone or from malicious intention to harm. And the handling of malpractice is always the same—the recognition and utilization of immortal Mind as the only Mind of man, thus excluding the suggestions of evil. The suggestions of evil may seem to come often. They do no harm, but rather strengthen us in Truth, if unbelieved and completely rejected. They came even to the pure consciousness of Christ Jesus but he handled them with definiteness and finality, supplying us, as always, the perfect example. He knew that the handling of evil consists in the rejection of evil, and accordingly, he declared "... the prince of this world cometh, and hath nothing in me" (John 14:30)—nothing in his mentality which is akin to evil and therefore able to believe in evil. It is only the consciousness of limitation that can experience limitation, the consciousness of heartbreak and loneliness that can experience heartbreak and loneliness, the consciousness of disease or death that can experience disease or death. But the only Mind is the Mind which is God. In the degree that you demonstrate that fact, you will find no consciousness of evil in you, and therefore no evil affecting your life. And, conversely, you will find all good appearing. The Discoverer of Christian Science has made it plain that "the mind of the individual only can produce a result upon his body" (Christian Healing, 6:21-22). Let us persistently acknowledge the only Mind to be divine, producing by its law, the results of beauty and holiness.

EVIL IS ALWAYS FALSE

But how about the case where mortal mind seems to succeed in being believed, and the results of evil seem to appear? Evil is always false, and therefore nothing, and the proof of that fact can be unerringly made. Christ Jesus has already supplied the example. He permitted the crucifixion, which he might have avoided, only to show mortals the way to conquer the seeming presence of evil. He proved its powerlessness. By persistent recognition of his spiritual being he kept his sense of selfhood beyond the range of mortal hatred to harm. Evil could not impress his consciousness and therefore was robbed of its illusion of existing. This is the way of victory. It is not the way of the escapist, if by that term is meant the coward who runs, and leaves the sense of evil appearing to be something, to be real and capable of power. Christian Scientists are not escapist. They overcome. They face the illusions of material sense with the spiritual sense which erases the illusions. If they walk through the valley of the shadow of death, they, like the Psalmist, fear no evil, for they know that evil is unreal to God and must be so to man. They "fight the good fight" (Miscellaneous Writings, 278:6-7) by utilizing the activity of spiritual truth to blot out the material falsehood which seems to hammer for admission to thought. They do not release themselves from their so-called problems—run away from the field of battle. They set out with the courage of the Christ and the enduring weapons of divine warfare to prove their problems to be sense illusions; and God, in the immediacy of His own divine will, releases them from their problems. Through such warfare they grow in stature as the children of God—each in "his own niche in time and eternity" (Retrospection and Introspection, 70:18-19). They bring out in themselves the qualities which are identified with true character—the character of the Christ. They hold their ranks open with the joyous and unselfish motive of making plain the way of salvation to all who desire dominion, by spiritual means, over the tyrannical limitations of the flesh. We are not promised happiness in material allotments; but we are promised victory by spiritual means, and victory is co-ordinate with joy. Robert Frost, the poet, has truly said: "The best way out is always through." Christian Science agrees, and adds to the meaning of the statement by turning it upside down. "The best way through is always out."

HUMILITY LEADS TO POWER

My friend, a word about humility—that glorious quality which robs you of pride but does not rob you of power. Your ability to demonstrate the truth about God and man is God-given. Recognize this fact, and be grateful to the infinite Giver; and you have attained humility. All of our power to witness the appearance of our subjection to evil, to show forth in us the alertness, vigor, true intelligence, wisdom, which increases our spiritual stature and attracts all good—all of this power is by the grace of God. Use it with all agility and consecration, but never be tempted to say or think it is a personal possession. Increase your ability. It is your spiritual duty. Acknowledge your importance as the eternal, individual expression of divine presence. Let your illustration in you of what God does for man be the most telling, persuasive illustration you can make of man's infinite mental proportions under God, but always bear in thought that your achievement is illustrating the doing of God, not of man. This way lies affluence, for it is the way of humility. It is the way of divine intelligence, unfolding its effects in terms of love, health, and security, thus meeting the demand of the times. It is the way, of thinkers, whose time, we have agreed, has come. It is the way of Christian Science, meeting the needs of mankind, in agreement with all that is said, and also implied, in the comforting promise of Christ Jesus, a promise which is the benediction I leave with you, radiating assurance and dispelling in its spiritual significance all doubt of our God's unlimited goodness to the hearts that desire His love: "Fear not, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom" (Luke 12:32).

Cleminson is president of the Edwin L. Miller Round Table, an organization of high school principals of southeastern Michigan, and has also served as its secretary and vice-president. He was twice chairman of the high school division of district 3 of the Michigan Education Association and when at East Lansing was president of the Lansing area of the Phi Delta Kappa Alumni Club, an organization devoted to leadership and research in graduate study. He has been chairman of the public relations committee of district 6 of the Michigan Education Association. He is a Rotarian. When engaged in graduate study at Ann Arbor, he served as assistant to Dr. Clifford Woody in the university's bureau of educational reference and research. He is a member of numerous educational associations.

Cleminson has brought about substantial improvements in the guidance program and in the course of study work at Port Huron, and with committees of teachers has frequently visited the Grosse Pointe High School, so that he is known to some of the local staff. Although he will not officially assume his new duties until September 1st, he will spend most of August in Grosse Pointe as well as some time between now and the end of the school year. Mr. Rehms will be in Grosse Pointe until July 1st.

High School Nine Loses To Monroe

By DICK BODYCOMBE
 After pitching five scoreless innings Russ Davis, Grosse Pointe High School's left-handed pitcher, weakened in the last frame of Saturday's contest at Monroe and allowed the Trojans to score two runs and edge out the local baseball nine 7-6.

Davis entered the game in the latter part of the opening inning, after Monroe had pummeled Eddie Smith out of the box, and went along smoothly until the last inning. Grosse Pointe gathered all six of their tallies in the first three innings. Art Wittstock and Walter Pickard each collected two hits for the Blue Devils.

Tuesday, the Blue Devil nine traveled to Wyandotte, and right-handed Lawrence Shock turned in the best single pitching performance of the current season. Shock permitted only one hit, although Wyandotte scored two runs on errors. Grosse Pointe combed three Wyandotte hurlers for 10 runs including a long homer by Art Wittstock, Blue Devil catcher. This is the third win against four losses for the local squad.

Tennis Team Takes Fourth In Regionals

Grosse Pointe High School's tennis squad finished in fourth place in the state regional meet held last Saturday on the local courts.

All of the high school singles players met defeat in their first matches, while the three doubles teams won their initial matches, but dropped their second encounters.

This marks the first year Grosse Pointe has failed to finish either first or second in a regional meet, and also is the first year a local player has been unable to qualify for the State finals.

Last Tuesday afternoon, the Blue Devils dropped their last dual match of the season to Wyandotte. This loss brings their total record to two wins and eight losses.

With a wealth of young material available for next year, Coach Lawrence Westerville has something well worth waiting for.

WHO ARE THEY?

Who are these men? What's their racket? Wotta they got to offer? Are they great industrialists, politicians, scientists, artists? Why should I give 'em my money?

These men are vets. Their aim is to salvage that part of their lives that's left them after a great war. They are trying to help themselves and their large community of wounded fellow soldiers. No, they aren't great. They aren't famous. They are men from common walks of life who, in the first flush of their youth, found themselves fighting for a cause. But they might have been great. They might have invented a motor car, an electric light; they might have been governor, senator, president; they might have got that culture for cancer, written that great novel, painted that great picture. MIGHT HAVE BEEN. Instead they fought great battles. They're still fighting... fighting so people Won't say, "WHY SHOULD I GIVE 'EM MY MONEY?" They don't want money given them. They want to earn it. And they make tiny flowers—poppies to sell. They want you to buy them... as straight merchandise... so that they can help themselves with better medical care and facilities. So that they can let us enjoy our healthy bodies and normal lives without the burden of the memories that the last war has cast into their lives. You will remember, of course.

GAS COMPANY IN $3,000,000 CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM

Work is progressing rapidly on the new 22-inch high pressure gas main now being laid to handle increasing load demands from the East side of the city. The picture above shows a twenty-foot section of the huge pipe being lowered into place on the main's route along Fort Street. The 22-inch main is just one part of the Gas Company's 1940 construction program, which calls for the building of 80 miles of new mains serving new areas and older districts now filling up with homes. The Gas Company will invest over $3,000,000 this year to keep pace with and anticipate the needs of growing Detroit.

"BEYOND THE BENCH"

By JUDGE THOMAS F. MAHER Of Traffic Court

Controlled Speed

Law enforcement authorities are in general agreement that the principal cause of most of our serious traffic accidents is fast driving. The operator of a motor vehicle who drives his car at a speed which makes it impossible for him to have his car under control is a definite traffic menace and every effort should be made to eliminate him.

Two factors should be taken into consideration by the driver to determine the controllable speed of his vehicle: the mechanical condition of his car and, most important, some knowledge of the distance it travels per second at various speeds and the distance required to bring the vehicle to a stop. As an example, a car traveling at 20 miles per hour moves 29 feet per second and, assuming that brakes and tires are in good condition, may be brought to a complete stop in 39 feet.

With spring in the air, an open road ahead and a good car, it is no wonder motorists feel the human urge to step out it—and there is nothing criminal in that. Nevertheless, when the urge to make haste reaches the point of heedless disregard for the life and property of others by permitting a motor vehicle to reach the "out of control" stage, such a driver has attained the potential killer class. It is most unfortunate that such motorists cannot all be apprehended before the inevitable accident happens and not after.

Obeys all speed regulations. They may not all suit your personal convenience but you will be doing your bit to solve a great traffic problem.

And, above all, make haste only when you can do so in safety.

Rain Cancels All Local Ball Games

Due to inclement weather of last Sunday, all games in the Grosse Pointe Baseball League were postponed.

Double headers will be held later in the season, when the teams who were scheduled to oppose each other last Sunday meet again.

The schedule next week finds Grosse Pointe Farms playing host to St. Joan of Arc, Carrier's Athletic Club invades Grosse Pointe Woods, Grosse Pointe Shores meets Grosse Pointe Park on the Park diamond, and Gratiot Township draws a bye.

Y. W. C. A. Notes

Mrs. Frank Klingbiel and the Friendly Service Committee at Central Branch Y. W. C. A. are all puffed up with pride over the tremendous success of their recent benefit bridge party at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, which netted nearly $300 to aid in this phase of Y. W. C. A. work. As a result of their efforts many needy girls will receive a well-deserved "lift" which may be in the form of emergency food or housing at the Y, clothing (or perhaps even a permanent wave) to help them make a better appearance in seeking employment, or some other bit of service which is of major importance in solving a girl's particular problem of the moment. In 1939 more than 300 girls were given free food and housing by the Y. W. C. A. and nearly 600 were assisted in solving some personal problem. More than 100 girls were placed in employment through the Friendly Service department which also acts as a referral agency.

Christian Science Church

"Soul and Body" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, May 26.

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 261): "Hold thought steadfastly to the enduring, the good, and the true, and you will bring these into your experience proportionably to their occupancy of your thoughts."

We are very proud to say that at our meeting of May 20th we had 50% in attendance. Grace Smith also was with us, although she is an old member it was the first time she has been able to attend one of our meetings. Hope we will see more of her.

Let's make an effort girls, and turn out next time and see if we can go over 50%. Our Unit was 105% in membership by March 1st, but let's see if we can help Clara Bishop get a few more new members. Let's you forget, girls, a reminder: Spaghetti Dinner, May 25th at 68 Kerby Rd. Call for reservations before Friday, NI 4645, or TU 2-1813. Memorial Service at church, May 26th, Poppy, May 28th. The few of you girls that left our meeting right away missed out on a treat from our president, Elva Nielsen. She took about 15 of us girls into Sanders, and I feel sorry for poor Mart and Doris for they will have to eat hot dogs and beans for the rest of the week. We certainly didn't try to save her any expense on the treat. I hope Mart and Doris will forgive us. Mart, I'll see that you get an extra serving of spaghetti if you will wait till Saturday.
