G. P. Township Government

Grosse Pointe taxpayers should derive a sense of satisfaction from the feature news story about corse township in The Detroit News last Sunday. Disclosing a disgraceful waste of tax moneys in the down river township, the article made comparisons between the lavish expenditures of public funds there and the economical operation of our Grosse Pointe township government.

Ecorse township with a population of 18,571 and an assessed valuation of $47,657,676 listed expenditures of $106,885. Grosse Pointe township with a population of 23,445, an assessed valuation of $77,228,190 is operating on an annual budget of $37,875 and as the article pointed out, has a far more efficient type of township government.

With 9,615 registered voters in Ecorse township and 18 voting districts, annual election expenses totaled $11,875 compared with Grosse Pointe's 15,301 voters in 24 election districts and budget allowance of $4,000.

Grosse Pointe township officals are to be congratulated on the economical operation of our township government, rendering as it does a splendid health service and a very efficient police radio in addition to a multitude of other services.

NEW SAFETY DEVICE

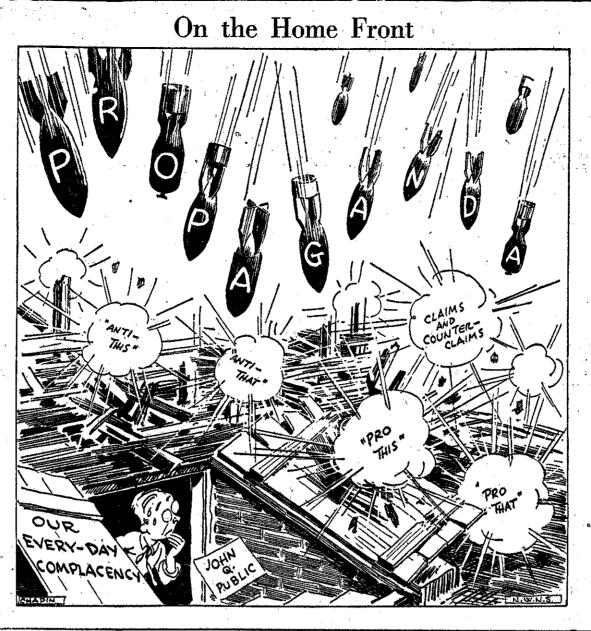

Newspaper men in Minnesota recently previewed what could develop into a major change in highway safety supervision - a signboard which automatically tells the automobile drivers when they are going at a dangerous speed.

The sign, which was prominently placed before a highway Pacific. junction, read: "Junction ahead! Your speed over ----" and as each car approached the sign the speed at which the car was traveling was recorded.

There is no magic about the way the sign works even though the psychological effect upon the motorist is most startling. Two photo-electric cells are placed along the right of way approximately 750 feet ahead of the sign and 36 feet apart. As a car passes the first detector the sign lights up and as it passes the second detector the speed is instantly recorded on the board.

In addition to cross-sections, the inventors, L. T. Mork of St. Paul and George E. Sykora of Minneapolis, say that it is adaptable to dangerous curves, approaches to cities or towns and can even be fective blockade against Japan. used in unison with a second sign to warn motorists that a car is approaching from the other side of a hill.

It all sounds like a great contribution to the safety of the motorist of the future, except for one thing. On a test sign that was used in the first demonstration, under the line about speed were big lighted letters reading, "Home Brand Coffee."

If this safety device is going to be used for highway adver- tirely free from the United States in tising, thus placing advertising at the most dangerous points on highways, it would seem as though the danger feature of such signs would more than offset its safety possibilities. But advertising evidently is the plan, for the manufacturers have stated that the signs will be leased for advertising purposes only and not for speed trap

We hope that the manufacturers will have a change of heart, however. We can imagine every local police department recommending such signs, but if they are just to be an advertising novelty then it would be better to forget them and wait for other safety inventions sponsored by firms with more humanitarian interests.

England's Gasoline Rations

Although in many sections of this country we are being asked to cut down on our consumption of gasoline and oil, our possible sacrifice on that score amounts to little compared with that of the people of Great Britain.

When the British faced a shortage the petroleum board promptly rationed the use of gasoline for all vehicles. The rationing gard. for cars for private use was the most stringent. Each automobile owner was issued a coupon book good for one month, the number of coupons depending upon the horsepower of his car. For a car similar to the average one in the United States, the coupons entitle the car owner to buy approximately 10 gallons per month - enough to go about 40 miles a week. and Tay

Doctors, as well as others with a good reason for having more gasoline, are given extra books. Trucks are permitted from three to as many as 23 gallons a week, depending upon their weight, but even for commercial purposes there has been a drastic reduction in the amount of gasoline which anyone residing in Britain is permitted to use:

In most of the world today, the automobile which has become United States. such a necessity to Americans, is being treated as a great luxury and in very few countries is it being used at the present time for ness would make even a much heavier pleasure driving.

In England, the smaller automobiles, which consume a minimum amount of gasoline, have been the best-sellers for some time. It will be interesting to see, as we gradually tighten our gasoline belts, if the smaller, more economical automobiles will replace the large cars on our highways, if bicycles will become a popular means of transportation, or if Mr. Ickes will get our oil problems worked out so that we can continue to use automobiles with our present disregard of gasoline consumption.

State Fair to Give Defense Bonds to Every 50,000th Visitor

Working in conjunction with the United States government the 92nd annual Michigan state fair will give away $25 national defense bonds to fair visitors, it was announced today by the fair manager. This is believed to be the first time defense bonds have been used in this manner, Youngblood was told by Frank N. Isbey, Michigan director of the bond sale. Isbey commended the plan as worthwhile promotion not only for state fair attendance but for the sale of bonds as well. As outlined by Youngblood, the bonds will be given away under the following ircumstances : Every fifty-thousandth person and the last one through the fair between the time the show opens August 27th and closes September 7th a bond. Children are not excepted. Attendance figures for each day will be closely guarded so that no one save special checkers will know when each 50,000 mark is being approached. Attendance this year is expected to exeed a half million. Winners will have their names inscribed upon the transferablem bonds which will be presented ceremoniously by Youngblood. They will then become the guest of the management at the fair for that day. Bonds and defense stamps also will be on sale at a special booth on the fair grounds during the fair, it is planned. Debutantes wil act as saleswomen.

Nazi officials have been fighting the British "V" campaign by adopting the letter to indicate German "Viktoria" rather than British

For the first time, U. S. Army, Navy and Marine corps took part in joint maneuvers at Jacksonville, N. C. Marines are shown landing on a beach with a 75mm pack howitzer. Four destroyers and six troop ships took part in this practice attack.

"Victory." Here the symbol is being lettered on a German train.

British Practice Invasion Tactics

Some military experts hold that the Reds engaging the Nazi on the Eastern front, Britain has a golden chance to invade the continent. Here are British Bren gun carriers and motor cyclists landing from a British invasion barge in Scotland. Winston Churchill witnessed these training maneuvers.

Then he decided to go to the police station. It was then that he! found that his ornament was the missing angel. It is about six inches tall, and is one of four on the wrought tabernacle of bronze, gold, silver, and other metals. It was made in 1554 for the Cardinal of Bologna, brother of the Pope. It was placed on the high altar of a Bolognese church and was used to hold the sacred elements for the Holy Communion. The tabernacle was brought to America from the Cook collection in England and was loaned to Alger
