Like The Old Woman Who Lived In A Shoe

This clever cartoon represents the Mason School in Grosse Pointe Woods, which has become badly inadequate for the lusty growing community it is intended to serve. The sketch was used by the Grosse Pointe board of education to emphasize the crowded condition of the Mason school.

According to figures issued by the board there are at present 674 elementary school children in the Mason school district. The school was originally designed for only 240 pupils. This results in an overflow of 434 pupils. Alterations in the original Mason school building takes care of 140 pupils of this overflow. One hundred and forty-nine pupils are housed in the Vernier school and 145 children are being transported by bus to the Defer school in the lower end of Grosse Pointe Park.

The rapid population increase in Grosse Pointe Woods threatens to further complicate this situation. An increase from 2,500 to 5,800 persons within three years, would indicate a further increase in elementary school children in the Mason district to 800, according to figures compiled by the board of education. During the past three years there have been 1,200 new homes built in the Mason district.

To take care of the overflow of school children, the Grosse Pointe board of education has proposed a bond issue of $150,000 for an addition to the Mason school. This bond issue will be voted upon next Tuesday, Sept. 30. You may vote at the elementary school in your district.

To make certain that you are registered to vote, telephone the board of education office, Niagara 2000. If you are not registered you may register any day up to and including Sept. 27, during office hours at the board office, 389 St. Clair avenue, City of Grosse Pointe.

There is nothing controversial about the issue to be voted upon. There is dire need for the additional school facilities in the Mason district and you should do your duty by casting your vote next Tuesday. Common sense would dictate that this vote be an emphatic "YES."

Fredericks, and her committee, the first of which will bring into our midst an outstanding personality in the Detroit area, Mrs. Myrtle Labbitt of radio station CKLW, whose subject will be "Living All Your Life." Her charm and informal, chatty style of presentation, make Mrs. Labbitt very much in demand for personal appearances.

There will be a reception for the new teachers in the school following the meeting.

An invitation is extended to all parents of junior and senior high school students to attend this meeting.

Prominent Shores' Resident Is Taken By Death Tuesday

George Osius, prominent Grosse Pointe Shores citizen, who served for 17 years as village president in the Shores died Tuesday, following a long illness. He was 81 years old.

Born in Germany Nov. 14, 1859, he came to the United States in his youth and in 1882 settled in Ann Arbor, where he was a bookseller and publisher. In 1886 he came to Detroit, where he founded the Michigan Ammonia Works, which was later consolidated with the du Pont interests. He was president of this firm until his retirement 10 years ago. He also held important positions in several financial institutions. Much of his earlier life was devoted to civic activities.

Shores President 17 Years

From 1911 to 1928, he served as president of the village of Grosse Pointe Shores. Ill health forced him to retire from that position. In 1932 the Shores village council named their park for him. The bronze tablet erected at the park entrance bears this inscription:

"To commemorate the public services of our beloved fellow citizen, George Osius, this entire community area has by resolution of the village council, adopted Feb. 1, 1932, been officially named George Osius Park and shall forever be so known and designated."

Surviving are his wife, Elise; two daughters, Mrs. Alvin Sherman and Mrs. Reginald MacArthur, both of Grosse Pointe; two brothers, Dr. Frederick of Pasadena, Calif., and Dr. Charles, of Detroit.

Funeral services will be held at the home, 900 Lake Shore road this afternoon. Interment in Elmwood cemetery.

Prominent Pointe Residents Endorse $150,000 Bond Issue

Telephone Queries Presage Approval At Election Tuesday

Prominent residents of Grosse Pointe leave no doubt as to their feeling of approval of the addition of classrooms to the Mason school building which is to be decided at the Bond Issue Election next Tuesday, Sept. 30. In a telephone canvass of some of these citizens the question was asked: "How Do You Feel About the Mason School Bond Issue?"

The following are some of the comments that were made by these people:

Bert H. Wicking, 781 Trombley road, vice-president, Detroit Trust Company:
"There's no doubt that additional classroom facilities are needed in the Mason district. The children in that area need increased facilities and we in our end of the school district should support this bond issue. The whole district aided us on the Pierce bond issue and we should do the same to help the residents in the Grosse Pointe Woods area."

Clyde M. Goodman, 2104 Roslyn road, president, Grosse Pointe Woods Business Men's Association:
"I endorse the Mason bond issue most heartily. A resident and business man of Grosse Pointe Woods I recognize that additional classrooms are needed in the Mason school if the best interests of the community are to be served. All qualified residents should support the issue by voting next Tuesday."

Dr. M. M. Sheaffer, Dentist, 1215 Audubon, president, Grosse Pointe U. of M. Club:
"Our Grosse Pointe school system is one of the best in the country and ranks tops in the state. The standards of our system are being threatened by the inadequate housing facilities for school children in the Mason district. In order that our high standards may be maintained we need the addition to the Mason school and every qualified voter should vote Yes on the Mason bond issue next Tuesday."

Dr. Hugh L. Dill, 576 Neff Road:
"I'm entirely in favor of the Mason bond issue. We need the addition and should vote for it."

Mrs. Helen Heil, 456 Neff Road, president, Grosse Pointe High School Mothers' Club:
"Of course the bond issue should be passed. Every mother of children in school realizes the importance of good air, light and equipment that are being organized."

A. Douglas Jamieson, council commissioner for the local area, will preside at the conference, assisted by the local executive, Amos R. Shields, and his staff.

Retirement Insurance Benefits for You

Are you receiving retirement insurance benefits under the social security act? And if so do you expect to go back to work — on a defense job, perhaps? Here is a reminder that if you earn as much as $15 a month (that is, more than $14.99) on a job covered by the social security act, your social security insurance benefits must stop while you are on that job — therefore, you must notify the social security board when you go to work. Write to the East Side Social Security Board Office, 8037 Harper at Van Dyke. If a benefit check comes after you have started to work, don't cash it. Return it to the U. S. treasury in Washington, D.C.

Sleeping at Wheel; Hits 2 Parked Cars

Returning home from work at 1:15 a.m. Wednesday, Earl Monks, Jr., 18, of 22324 Clairwood avenue, St. Clair Shores, fell asleep at the wheel and crashed into two parked cars on the south side of Lake Shore drive. Monks was driving east at the time of the accident.

He suffered minor cuts. Damage to the automobiles amounted to $90.

MISSION GUILD

St. Peter Claver Mission Guild is sponsoring its fifth annual city-wide benefit party, Oct. 1, at the Masonic Temple.

Charles Palms, Jr., is general chairman. Assisting him are the Hon. John P. Scallen, A. J. Bopp, and Elmer Ulrich.

Two Holy Ghost fathers, Henry Thielens, C.S. Sp., and Timothy Murphy, C.S. Sp., are honorary chairmen to Congressman Rabaut by Sept. 27.

George H. Kretschmar, 859 Pemberton, president, Grosse Pointe Lions Club:

"Speaking as an individual and not as a representative of the Grosse Pointe Lions Club, I favor additional school facilities as evidence shows they are required at this time. The Mason school built to house 240 pupils has about 600 crowded in. Beyond a question of doubt we should provide, as far as possible, good schooling facilities. I feel, as an individual, that it is a good sound government policy."

Ralph Netting, 657 Lincoln Road, president, Grosse Pointe PTA Council:

"The parents of school children in this community have responded in an excellent way to requests sent out from my office to the presidents of various PTAs to call special meetings for determining the facts regarding the Mason bond issue. As far as I can tell those facts have been ably presented in these meetings and in the public press. Grosse Pointe citizens are well informed as to the real need for this additional classroom space. Simply being informed, however, is not enough. Every citizen should go to the polls Tuesday and express himself so that there is no doubt about the opinion of this community on this issue."

This is the Grosse Pointe side of the field last Saturday, following the touchdown and conversion that resulted in final defeat for the Points Blue Devils by Birmingham high school.

High School Gridders Defeated 7-0 in First Game of Season

In the opening game of the season for the Blue Devils of Grosse Pointe high school with the Red and White of Birmingham they were forced to be content with the short end of a 7-0 score.

The only marker of the game resulted from a razzle-dazzle play pulled from Birmingham's bag of tricks early in the fourth quarter. With the ball in their possession on their own 35, first down and 10 they executed a triple lateral pass which helped them strike pay dirt. The play began as an ordinary line plunge, but to the chagrin of the Devils, soon turned into a reverse with two laterals at the end. The final of the four players handling the pigskin was Halfback Paul Kelly, who took the final pass at the line of scrimmage. He dodged one would-be tackler, cut back to the center of the field where with good interference dashed 65 yards for a touchdown. He also added the extra point from placement, making the score 7-0.

by Ray put the invaders on the Red and White 13 yard line. Again Birmingham held and Weaver's attempt of a field goal missed. Soon after Birmingham recovered a Pointer fumble on its own 35 and from there started their touchdown play.

CHAPTER VI Synopsis

Peggy Horton, whose older sister, Maxine Trueheart, home for a visit, is a successful screen star, is ashamed of her sheltered life with her grandmother at Roseland. So she pretends to Nancy, a visiting schoolmate, that she is engaged but that her grandmother does not know about it. From Harry Wilson whom she meets by chance she borrows a ring to wear as an engagement ring. Nancy, who has recently broken her engagement, is much interested in the ring, and wants to see the man. When Peggy loses the ring, Maxine asks a friend, a "detective," she says, to help find it, and decides to tell her grandmother that the ring was Nancy's. Nancy stood still a moment thinking.

"Isn't he here? I saw him from the house coming up the drive, but he didn't come in."

"Oh, all right," she said finally. "Only I still don't approve of having that detective come. I just know he is going to get us all in a lot of trouble. How did he happen to be here and know about you?" she asked, turning to Maxine. "He works at the studio in Hollywood and he is driving to New York. While he was in Chicago he talked to the West Coast studios and they told him that I was stopping here for a little visit before I went on East, so he came down here just to make sure that there had been no change in my plans. "He didn't think I would arrive until tomorrow, but tonight he heard someone in the hotel say he had seen me today, so he called right away. He wanted to see me anyway, so when Peggy suggested having him come out to look for the ring, he said all right. And he is coming out in the morning. I think maybe I had better explain it to Gran, so you all can be a few minutes late for breakfast. I think it would be best for Gran to ask me most of her questions. Peggy would probably get all mixed up."

thought of some big Irishman — weren't all detectives Irish, or did that only apply to city cops? — coming into this room of her ancestors and being judged by Gran. She remembered a detective she had seen in one of Maxine's pictures. He was a large fat man who wore a derby hat on the back of his head, and who seemed always to have a long cigar stuck in the corner of his mouth. Suppose that was the man she could hear Maxine talking to now in the hall. Could Maxine really know someone like that? If a fat man with a derby on the back of his head and a cigar in the corner of his mouth entered this room he might just as well give up all thought of his helping her find the ring. Gran would get rid of him without giving him a chance, she was sure. "Oh, I hope he won't be too bad," she prayed fervently as she heard footsteps crossing the hall. She shut her eyes, waiting to hear how Gran greeted him before she looked to see what he was like. "Gran," Maxine was saying, "this is Stanley Newton, a friend of mine from California. My grandmother, Mrs. Horton, Stanley."

"My dear," she said, addressing Nancy. "I feel so badly to hear that your engagement ring has been misplaced while on a visit to us. I do trust that this young man — Newton did you say his name was, Maxine? — will be able to find it quickly for you. Maxine assures me he is among the best in his line in California. Have you thought back carefully over your actions since you last saw your ring, Nancy?" "Oh, yes, Mrs. Horton, quite carefully. "You do seem to take the matter very sensibly, I am sure. Peggy looks more as if she had not slept than you do."

ing to Nancy. Peggy was feeling very uncomfortable both for herself and for Nancy, but the latter merely shrugged her shoulders. "Of course I had it. And now no one can find it," she replied indifferently. He looked at her in silence for a moment. "You make it sound like 'Thimble, thimble, who's got the thimble,'" he told her. "Now I shall use my own method," he explained to Mrs. Horton. "Miss Sawyer lost her ring, but the first person I should like to question is Miss Margaret." "Just as you think best," Gran agreed, rising quickly, turning to Maxine and Nancy. "Come, girls. We shall wait on the back terrace for your next move."

"How do you do?" was her chilly greeting. He stopped abruptly. "How do you do," he answered with no inflection. "Is the man crazy?" Peggy thought. "Imagine Gran's expression if I had rushed forward and we had shaken hands, Nice explanation. We had talked twice without either of us knowing who the other one was. Yes, that would have gone over big. I can see where he and Gran will not get along at all."

"Of course I am worried, Gran. To have Nancy lose such a gorgeous ring here!" Her grandmother smiled at her. "But, my dear, rings cannot run away. And we know that there is no one here who would have taken it, so that leaves it simply misplaced. I feel sure that Mr. Newton will be able to suggest the place where it must be. Oh, that must be he. I hear an automobile. We will go into the front parlor and see him there."

"Well, putting it in another way," Gran began again, "which detective method do you use?" "To tell you the truth, I rather combine a little of each of them and from that make my own method. I find I get the best results that way." Mrs. Horton nodded slowly. "Yes," she agreed, "I see how that might be done. Now in this case, of course, all you have to go on is that Miss Sawyer arrived here with the ring in her possession and last night when she went to put it on it had disappeared."

The old lady settled herself in a high backed chair with her back to the window; her tiny feet placed daintily side by side on an ottoman, the covering of which had been worn by her mother-in-law. When Mrs. Horton sat in that big chair with her feet on the ottoman she was like some little powerful judge who passed sentence on those who were brought before him. Peggy understood that now. Her grandmother was going to judge this Mr. Newton whom Maxine was recommending. Peggy had not thought of judging a detective, except by his speed in taking over the job and finding the ring. She smiled to herself as she

"WE LEAD, OTHERS FOLLOW"

Cutting Down on Electricity

As government departments take steps to cut down on civilian consumption of necessary materials, the consumer is gradually benefiting by an education in economy.

We have learned, for instance, as a result of the alleged gasoline shortage, how we can drive a car on less gasoline than we have used in the past.

Now, because of a shortage of electrical power, we are to be taught how to get along with less electricity. Some of us have always thought that electricity was limitless.

But now with an impending shortage, due to the great amount of power needed for running defense plans, we are offered dozens of suggestions for cutting down our electrical bills. Outstanding among those suggestions are the following:

- 1. Turn out lights when they are not needed.
2. Watch the basement light which sometimes burns all night.
3. Conserve on hot water if you have an electric water heater.
4. Keep the thermostat on your electric water heater between 135 and 140 degrees, no higher.
5. Keep the radio on only when you are listening to it.
6. Turn off the electric fan when it is not badly needed.
7. Use very small bulbs for any urgently needed night lights.
8. Use all other electric appliances sparingly and efficiently: Your electric mixer, toaster, small heater, washing machine, vacuum cleaner and iron.
9. Don't put hot food or dishes in the refrigerator.
10. See that your refrigerator is properly placed in your kitchen. Your refrigerator should be in the coolest part of the room away from your radiator, steam pipes, oven or hot sun.

All of those suggestions are good practical ones which require no sacrifice and which will save us all money. And the best way we can thank the government for showing us how to save money on our electrical bill is to invest that saving in defense stamps.

The Silk Stocking Era

As prominent women begin setting an example for the conservation of silk by wearing cotton stockings, it is interesting to review the rise and fall of the silk stocking.

In 1899, at the turn of the century, silk stockings first made their appearance in American stores. That year, 12,572 pairs of silk stockings were sold, which constituted one pair sold for every 2,500 pairs of cotton stockings. It didn't look then as if silk stockings were going to go over with women and even ten years later, in 1909, less than one per cent of the stockings sold were made of silk.

It was not until after the last war that silk stockings approached the popularity which they have had recently. Even in 1919, over half of the stockings sold to women were made of cotton, but during the next ten years cotton stockings became a drug on the market. In 1929 about 86 per cent of women were wearing silk stockings and last year over 90 per cent of the stockings sold were made of silk or rayon.

Girls who have grown up during the period since the last war may find it hard to get used to the cotton stocking idea, but their mothers should have less difficulty dropping a fashion which has actually had such a comparatively short life.

As for men, most of them, have never cared much whether their socks were made of silk, cotton or wool. All had preferences, but last year only about five per cent of men's socks were made of silk.

1,000 Expected to Attend the Annual Highway Convention

G. Donald Kennedy, state highway commissioner, this week reported virtually everything in readiness for the reception of an expected 1,000 delegates and guests at the 27th annual convention of the American Association of State Highway Officials which will open in Detroit, Sept. 29.

The program, as announced by Kennedy, lists numerous addresses by high ranking road-building authorities. Group meetings devoted to topics of vital importance to highway officials are also scheduled.

Prior to the opening of the convention, it was stated that all delegates in Detroit on Sunday night, Sept. 28, would be invited to witness the presentation of the "Ford Sunday Evening Hour" broadcast at the Masonic Temple.

"Convention headquarters," Kennedy said, "will be established in the Statler hotel, and all sessions of the convention will be held there."

Entertainment features will include the traditional "family dinner" Monday evening, expected to be one of the highlights of the entertainment program.

Tuesday noon, Detroit and Michigan men of the highway industry will give a luncheon to the delegates.

Another special feature will be the grand banquet to be given Wednesday evening by the automotive industry for all delegates and their wives. Following adjournment of the convention Thursday afternoon, facilities will be offered the members to make a sight-seeing tour of Detroit and vicinity and its defense industries.

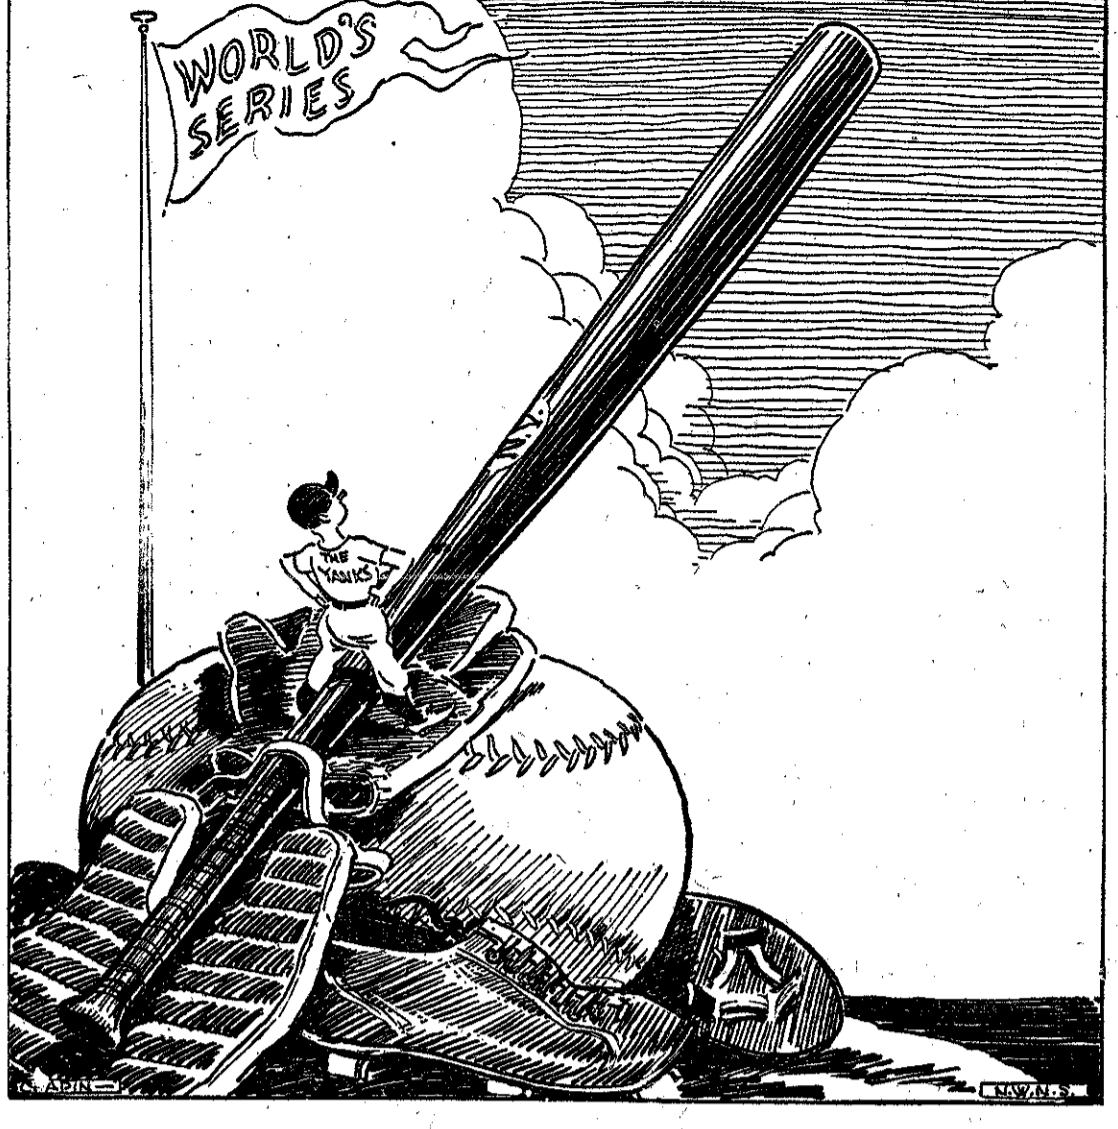

This will be followed Friday morning by a caravan trip through the state, giving delegates an opportunity to see Michigan's Great Lakes and view the northern part of the state including the Straits of Mackinac, the Upper Peninsula autumn's flaming forests shoreline drives, roadside picnic parks and many of our attractive resort communities. In addition to representatives from virtually every state in the nation, delegates will be present from Alaska, Canada, Puerto Rico and Hawaii. Kennedy pointed out that all phases of highway problems would come up for discussion during the four-day conclave, and that particular emphasis would be placed on problems of emergency construction necessitated by the national defense program.

New Booklet Issued By Social Security Board for Employers

A new booklet of special interest to employers has just been issued by the social security board. It is entitled "Make Your Money Count," and tells what social security contributions buy, also why wage reports must be correct. Copies may be had without charge by writing to E. E. Pollock, manager of the east side office of the social security board, located at 8037 Harper at Van Dyke.

"The booklet is of special interest at this time owing to the large number of new and temporary workers being hired, by many employers," Mr. Pollock said.

The five best "hatted" women in America, chosen by Edward Stevenson, Hollywood designer, are Claudette Colbert, Marlene Dietrich, stage actress Gertrude Lawrence, Lily Pons and socialite, Mrs. Byron Fox.

The President's Mother

The death of Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, the President's mother, on Sept. 7 brought out some charming little stories about her. She spoke proudly of "my son, the President," but thought nothing of interrupting a conference to ask him what he wanted for lunch. She traveled widely, and when she was in London a few years ago she visited Queen Mother Mary in her private apartments rarely seen by anyone outside the royal family. She was buried, according to Dutch custom, at the left side of her husband, as she stood at his left when they were married.

Rep. Clare Hoffman To Speak Sept. 30th

Congressman Clare Hoffman of Michigan who created a sensation by denouncing Britain's proposed union with America while waving the British flag from the tip of a fishing pole, will speak at an American First Rally at Cass Technical high school next Tuesday, Sept. 30, at 8:00 p.m.

Training Course Arranged For New Troop Leaders

Mrs. Paul Sutherland, education chairman of the Grosse Pointe Girl Scout committee, has arranged a training course for new troop leaders. Mrs. Seth Ellis will conduct the classes beginning Wednesday, October 8, in Room 303 at Defer School. Instruction will be given between the hours of 1:30 and 3:30 p.m. for a period extending through the months of October and November. Mrs. Ellis is an educational leader, trained by the central Girl Scout committee to give her volunteer services to districts needing her talents.

Atlantic — Safety

It's time the American people got an accurate accounting of what's happening to the guns, planes, tanks, etc., which are being built with those billions of dollars on which we will be making installment payments for the rest of our lives.

Is that equipment getting to Britain or is a lot of it lying on the bottom of the Atlantic? If it is reaching England all right, the Atlantic peril may not be as great as we are led to believe.

On the other hand, if these supplies aren't reaching England, why don't we hear stories about the sinking of ships carrying the supplies?

I don't think our government should release information which is of value to the enemy, but I can see no reason why we should not be informed about the things the enemy knows. Certainly the Germans know whether they have been sinking ships or whether they haven't.

I've heard plenty of people demanding that our navy go to war in order to protect the equipment we are sending to England, but before we go to war for this purpose it is a natural thing for us to want to know if this equipment isn't already arriving safely?

Ships — News

There is another strange angle about this shipping business and the attitude of our government toward war.

A good many people feel that the administration thinks we should go to war but is waiting for public opinion to take the same view. But if the administration does want war — and if many supply ships are being sunk — the easiest way in the world to kindle a war spirit here would be to release stories about equipment being destroyed.

The American people have willingly accepted the huge task of supplying Britain with arms. We don't want to see these supplies lost. But if, with our naval patrols and England's convoys they are arriving safely, we're delighted to hear it because it appears to make it less necessary for us to jump right into a war for which we are not yet prepared.

Although we are given little information by our own government on the safe voyages of these supply ships, reports from England indicate that they are, at present, getting there all right.

Confusion — Morale

Unless something is done to clarify the shipping situation in the eyes of the public, the confusion about it is apt to be even a more serious blow to national morale than has been the discussion of gasoline shortage in the East.

When Mr. Ickes announced a couple of months ago that gasoline consumption in the East must be drastically curbed, because of transportation difficulties, the people in the East prepared willing to accept rationing or any other form of curb requested. But when conflicting statements were made, saying that the alleged shortage was pure myth, the public became confused.

Although we all hope the oil situation is an isolated case, it would be unfortunate to have it followed by other serious examples of disunity and confusion within the government itself. And discussion on shipments to England offers such a possibility unless the American people are given a clear and undisputable statement of the facts.

Sacrifices — Willingness

Mr. Churchill, in a recent report on the war, asked for greater sacrifices by the American people, but he was concerned primarily with increased production rather than the problem of safe delivery.

But that problem of "greater sacrifice" is another one about which the American people have become confused.

Oh yes, there was that drive to get our old aluminum pots and pans, to which we contributed willingly, there will be those increased taxes which we will pay without complaint (except for the part of them which will be used for what some of us consider unnecessary government expenses), there is the defense stamp campaign, to which we have voluntarily already contributed a billion dollars, there is the curb on installment selling, which hasn't bothered us any, and there is the probable shortage of automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines, etc., which isn't keeping us awake nights.

But I think there are a lot of us who would gladly do a lot more sacrificing if we could be told what sacrifices would be a real contribution to speeding up defense production.

Texas Congressman To Address Gathering

Congressman Hatton W. Summers, of Texas, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives, will address the annual convention of the State Bar of Michigan scheduled at Jackson, September 18, 19 and 20, it was announced today by Glenn C. Gillespie of Pontiac, President of the organization. Over a thousand Michigan lawyers are expected to attend the convention.

Other speakers on the program include: Chief Justice Edward M. Sharpe, of the Michigan Supreme Court; Michigan State Senators D. Hale Brake of Stanton, J. T. Hammond of Benton Harbor, and Leonard J. Paterson of Sandusky; Representatives Nelson A. Miles of Holland, and Clark J. Adams of Pontiac; Joseph W. Planck, of Lansing, and Charles L. Goldstein, of Detroit, will address the convention.

Arrangements for the entertainment of lawyers attending the convention, their wives and guests, have been made by the Jackson County Bar Association. The entertainment program will be climaxed with a special showing of the "Cascades," the famous water spectacle which attracts thousands of people to Jackson each year.

This Week in Washington

After each talk which President Roosevelt has made to the nation in the past year, the first comment of a large number of people, including many congressmen quoted in the newspapers, has been, "His talk was practically a declaration of war."

One congressman is known to have made that or a similar statement following nine different statements of the President's. But in each case, after the spell cast by the President's voice has faded away and his talk is analyzed, it is evident that, although he is determined to see that Hitler is defeated, he still is wording his talks to avoid a state of actual war.

In his most recent talk to the nation, for example, when he made it clear to Germany that our ships would shoot first at any German ships sighted on the Atlantic, he said: "It is no act of war on our part when we decide to protect the seas that are vital to American defense. The aggression is not ours. Ours is solely defense."

The President has stated our policy from now on will be to "protect all merchant ships engaged in commerce." His policy in regard to this was clearly stated when he said: "No act of violence will keep us from maintaining intact two bulwarks of defense: First, our line of supply to the enemies of Hitler, and second, the freedom of our shipping on the high seas. From now on, if German or Italian vessels of war enter the waters, the protection of which is necessary for American defense, they do so at their own peril."

Although it is easy to interpret that statement as almost amounting to a declaration of war, a well-known Washington correspondent seemed to hit the nail on the head when he said:

"Why do we have to try to extend the President's statements? He has said that our ships on the Atlantic will defend themselves by shooting first. His explanation of that was clear and understandable. But he points out that it isn't war. So why do we have to try to say it is war? We may say that it invites war or that it is a step toward war, but in defining what we actually are doing we might as well use the terms the President himself uses rather than try to tack the 'war' label on every act."

There are many in Washington who feel that the President's speech was merely a matter of informing the public about what we actually have been doing on the Atlantic for several months. The action of our navy on the Atlantic has naturally been kept very secret and it may be that we have been "shooting first" when it seemed necessary for some time past. That of course is guesswork, but there are many well-informed men here who make that particular guess.

Aside from the President's speech and the reaction of everyone to it, the most talked over subject here recently has been the senate committee hearing to determine whether the moving picture industry should be investigated for producing films aimed at rousing us "to a state of war hysteria." Although those who favor such an investigation consist largely of the leading isolationists in the senate, the case has been given much attention because Wendell Willkie, last year's Republican candidate for President, is handling the defense of the movie interests. The isolationist committee claims that the movies offer no opportunity to spread their views to the American people but has produced numerous films which it claims are produced as propaganda.

FIRST FALL MEETING

The Grosse Pointe Motion Picture Council held its first fall meeting in the Ercle library Monday, Sept. 15, Mrs. E. J. Gay presiding. There was a fine representation from the schools and churches in the Grosse Pointe area, each one of which is entitled to two members. Miss Florence Stevens was appointed chairman of the nominating committee for new officers. The council meets on the third Monday of each month.

in keeping with his own feelings but he is striving to bring about more unity in congress on foreign policy. A more optimistic spirit on getting our defense program working at full speed has been apparent here since the President's recent appointment of Donald M. Nelson, who was once vice-president of Sears Roebuck & Co., as a sort of a one-man central planning agency to survey the whole defense situation, including defense and civilian requirements, materials available, machinery requirements and our labor supply. When completed, the survey is expected to give the first clear picture we have had of this country's actual capacity for production. For a long time one of the chief criticisms of our defense program has been lack of centralized planning. Mr. Nelson's assignment is the answer to this need.

Vernier School Notes

The 2B's and 2A's are glad to announce that the bee hive is back in our room. Mr. William Staack took care of it for us in his apiary this summer. This fall he gave us different bees in the hive. He sent us the bees that won first prize at the State Fair this fall. The queen is a very fine thoroughbred queen.

Some of the honey in our hive won the blue ribbon at the Fair. We are very proud of our bee family and hope you will come to see it. You will find the bees very busy. We can show you some cells of bright colored pollen, hundreds of larva growing to be new bees and of course our prize queen and honey.

One day when we were eating our lunches, every one had a piece of tomato from our garden. They were good and ripe.

The A Kindergarten children are watching the construction of a new house near Vernier school. The B Kindergarten have made a store and enjoy playing in it.
