The beeping in mind that we interested in National Dewui profit, one is gratified S learn that Uncle Sam put his foot was secently on a junk dealer in ar neighboring state of Indiana The aforementioned gent had some 50 tons of scrap metal in his automobile graveyard and refused to yield it for the ceiling price of $18.75 per ton. He was "going to hold out for $22 a ton." The recalcitrant junk operator surrendered sufficient metal, that, with an equal part of pig kon will make four medium tanks and nine light ones.

We are wondering if some of the scrap metal chugging alone on four wheels in some of the Pointe's streets couldn't better be applied to the same purpose? In fact, about the only thing which makes us hap-Py about such junkers is that they weren't converted into scrap long enough before Pearl Harbor for them to have been furnished to Ever try to lift or move a "juke box" those funny noisy music machines which swallow your nickles for a nod of rythm? One large juke box contains steel enough for five light machine guns and brass enough to make 750 .30 caliber cartridge cases. Twenty-five cents spent for defense stamps will play prettier and more patriotic tunes.

A warm clear sun and brisk winds played some dirty tricks on Pointe motorists this week. The sides of streets and parkways looked so clear and dry with a thin crust of mud hiding deeper mires. One auto had to be towed to get away from a point on Moross Road and another motorist spent half an hour churning and see-sawing his car out of the mire on Lochmoor in the

Bids Opened For To Aid G. P. Woods

Following an agreement between the Wayne county road commission one informal and the other formal, and Macomb county officials last Tuesday, (March 17), Leroy C. Smith, Wayne county highway engineer, announced today that bids will be taken April 2 for construction of the Milk River trunk sewer which will serve much of Macomb county and northeastern Wayn county. This six-foot sewer will eliminate unsanitary conditions in Warren township, the villages of Warren, Roseville, and St. Claire Shores, and East Detroit, Centerline and Lake township.

Macomb county, under the agreement, will transmit all sewage in those areas and adjacent areas to the Wayne county line where the large trunk will carry the sewage to a connection with the Detroit sewage disposal system. The trunk sewer will be 14,800 feet long, and for the most part it will be placed parallel to the Milk river, which has been used as an open sewer for sanitary dramage through Grosse Pointe Farms and Grosse Pointe Woods, All sanitary sewage will be removed from this river.

This project gives assurance that Macomb county sewage will not be dumped into I ake St. Clair, which has heretofore been a serious source county shore Another important Pointe Woods to icderal housing that area because of madequate sanitary provisions,

Ed was comparing air raid precautions relative to here and there. They've even blacked out their traffic signals to mere, cross-like slits. And Ed swears he would sooner go through a bomb-ing attack in Michigan, than drive New York traffic in the dark. Maybe there isn't much difference at that. "The Missus," of the Ernie Browns, has always reminded us of somebody else - Al Smith of the Empire state. It must be her preference for a very becoming, but nonetheless brown and derby hat. Our card party got off to a flying start last Friday night. The reason was a large, ventilating fan that blew the cards, if not the customers, clear out of the hall before they could shut it off. However, the truck belongs, to the Grosse Pointe Frogs (Pup Tent No. 10, Military Order of the Cootie — the seamy and sunny side of the VFW) and Bill is looking for somebody to get the darned thing started and keep it going. Strange reverberations, like the clanking of chains and haunted houses, drift down to the tap room while these same cooties are holding a scratch on the floor above. Wierd connotations. From the point of vantage of this definition of God, Mrs. Eddy was enabled, also, to define and to demonstrate the undeviating will or law of God, the law of divine Love. She named this law Christian Science named this law Christian Science God's will or law, His Science, cannot be conceived of as separate from Rim. God or cause is law-producing. law-including, and law-enforcing God is continuously expressing His law, His Science, Through reflecting Him, men demonstrate or show forth God's divine law and the power which hich enforces it. Christian Science reveals that, although the rights of man are demonstrable here and now, they remain obscured, even hidden, to human sense until the true nature of man is discerned spiritually, and God's law is understood and practiced. The Master, you remember, taught his disciples to inform the people that "the kingdom of heaven is at hand." Our greatest need is to understand spiritual facts. When independent of the control of the understood, every fact, every truth, can be demonstrated. It is supremely natural, not supernatural, to understand and to demonstrate the truth of man's being, here and now.

Man's Right to Life

Webster defines the noun "right" as "that to which one has a just claim; . . . a power, privilege, condition of existence, or the like, to have or enjoy which one has a natural claim: as, the right of liberty." Life is a definite right of man; one, however, that only compassionate scien-tific Christian consciousness acknowledges. In pagan countries, a man's life is not his own, but may be at the disposal of one who calls himself his master. Christian civilization recognizes the individual's right to life. Christian Science teaches that each one of us lives because God is Life. We reflect the one infinite Life. We live to bear witness of that Life, that Truth, that Love, which is God. Our con-nection with Life can never be interrupted by disease or accident, never cut off by death. Through divine law, everyone has a right to understand and to assert the fact, "God is my Life." We shall all nave ife more abundantly when we understand this fact more clearly. Christian Science reveals that life is not in nor of matter. No con-dition of matter affects Life, God.

Man's Right to Realth

The right to live includes the right to health and harmony. It is right that men should be well and happy. These are rights which can be temonstrated as belonging to men through the understanding of God, of His presence and power. Health is one of the sacred rights of man. Men often fail to understand this right and to claim it until it seems to be a struggle to regain it. Since the real man of God's creating is spiritual and lives in an atmosphere of sanity and harmony, it is not tifficult to realise that man never toses his health. Man seem to be-nome deceived into believing that bealth is something personal some-thing dependent upon the so-called physical body, something that car be lost through breaking so-called physical laws (as if there were any such laws) and regained, perhaps through observance of these laws Obristian Science teaches that health is not a physical but a di-vinely mental condition which is permanent, even eternal. Men who think that they have lost their health are awakened through Christian Science to see that health is something inherent in man and that, quite contrary to popular belief, it is not dependent upon matter. Christian Science teaches as did St. Paul that health is restored to mor-tals as they "renew" their minds. Mortal prind instructed by divine change takes piace immediately; in other instances it seems to take some time for the realization of man's freedom from disease to be understood and accepted. Thousands of people are healed in Christian Science every day by this method of exchanging the faise beliefs of material sema for the truthe of divine terial sense for the truths of divine Mind. Mrs. Eddy says (Science and Health, p. 191), "The human thought must free itself from self-imposed materiality and bondage."

Everyone who turns to Christian Science is benefited and can be healed by this scientific method if the fact of God's allness is absolutely established in the thought of prac-titioner or patient. Physical healing in Christian Science is important but it is only a steppingstone to more far-reaching purification when we give up the erring belief in the experience of sickness, sorrow and death as unavoidable, and gain the understanding that man the rethe understanding that man, the re-flection of God, is, of necessity, as perfect, joyous and eternal as God Himself, then man's right to life and health will be established and will no longer be subject to perversion misinterpretation, and jeopardy through fear, ignorance, and sin. In the degree that we exchange the belief that all men must die for the understanding that all men must live throughout eternity because God does and His manifestations or ex-pressions cannot be otherwise than like Him, then the experience called death, which the great evangelist spoke of as the "last enemy that shall be destroyed," will cease to chili-the hearts of men with fear. Death will be seen to be but an empty boast of material sense. To the materially-minded, it seems to be able, now and throughout eternity to unfold har-moniously more and more of the Godlike qualities of man. Man's right to life and health is innate and inviolable. Healing Demonstrated again, to make good its threat, but spiritual sense and scientific reason-ing assure us that life goes on unin-terrupted for everyone who may

At my request the grateful man who been healed gave me a statement of his healing which I will share with you. Then there were two carbuneles on the back of my neck. They were very painful. Three physicians treated me without

She assured me that 'all things are possible to God' (Science and Health, p. 1). A practitioner was called about six o'clock. We read the testimonies in a Christian Science Sentinel and I went to bed very early that evening. Had the first good night's sleep in about six weeks. Life being but one of the syn-onyms used in the scientific defini-tion of God, a discussion of man's right to Life would be incomplete without taking into consideration the whole definition. The synonyms of Life used "to express the nature essence, and wholeness of Defty" (Science and Health, p. 465), as stated by the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, are Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Truth Love. These terms are illumined Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Truth, Love. These terms are illumined by the adjectives which precede them: "incorporeal, divine, supreme, infinite." Man's right to Life means also his right to Mind, to divine intelligence; it means his right to Spirit, real and lasting substance; his right to Soul, spiritual somedousness, a nure and boly mind; onsciousness, a pure and holy mind: to Principle, spiritual cause or origin; his right to Truth, changeless, self-existent being; his right to Love, to spiritual affection and affection for spiritual affection and affection for Spirit, its qualities, characteristics, and identities; his right to be leved by Spirit and, in consequence, by every one of Spirit's manifestations. In God's universe, all of His creatures express love to each other, as well as to God. We must strive to understand we must strive to understand man's right to Life in order to im-prove our daily lives, for the way we live our daily lives is sur highest human approximation of true living. In our everyday life, we mirror forth our concepts of God and man. We are demonstrating every day what we think God and man are. Our daily lives must be made to conform more nearly to real Life. To do this, we must improve our mental con-cepts of God and man.

To realise that every one of God's creatures has a right to Life makes us kinder, more considerate of each other and of the lesser creatures. It calls into expression equality and fraternity. Man lives to express the will of God, to be and to do good and to expect and to rejoice in the good done to him. God's purpose in giving life to men is that they should express low to exact other. press love to each other: to meak truth every man to his neighbor; to stand as representatives of purity and integrity in the affairs of the Truth, gives up its erroneous belief of impairment, and a man finds himself whole. Sometimes this change takes place immediately; in understanding of the purpose of life excludes selfishness. We could not and would not even wish to englaw our fellow men if we knew that the right to life is equal among men inalienable and inviolable. It must be clear that there is no power derived from Life in any evil thing or purpose and that evil falls for lack of life.

The Right to Liberty

Among the precious rights of man which men have sought throughout the centuries to establish on earth is the right to liberty—freedom, not only of person, but freedom to think for oneself and to express one's thoughts to others. Liberty is a definite, God-given right of man. Respect for the right of conscience is a foundation stone in true government. The greatest wrong that any government can do to the gov-erned is to deprive them of the right to think and to express their thoughts openly. The very progress and success of government depend upon this privilege of the governed. Freedom of individual conscience, free speech, and a free press are avenues open for inspiration from God. Behind all civil liberties and fundamental to them all is the liberty to worship God as conscience Liberty is freedom under law; it is not license to do as one pleases. Lawlessness is the very opposite of liberty. It is a subtle form of bond-age—not easily detected as such, for it would have us believe that it is freedom itself. Mortals may seem to be free to choose between good and evil, but when they choose to follow evil, they have chosen the way of bondage. That this is true can be seen all about us. Many are in bondage to the alcohol habit who think that they are drinking because they wish to do so. They fail to see what many who know them do see that alcohol has become master and that they are obedient to every crack of its whip. Do not make the mistake of thinking that the so-called freedom to indulge sensual appetite or to follow error in any direction is any part of the in any direction is any part of the true liberty of the sons of God. The many who have awakened to the fact that they are slaves of evil in some form or another should take hope. Christian Science will help them to correct their mistake and to name that their freedom is invate. and God-bestowed and cannot be denied them if they really wish to be free. This way out is open also to those who have allowed them-selves to be suppressed and domi-nated by human will expressed through family, through church or friends.

Totalitarian regimes of every kind would suppress all the priceless rights of man. They would regiment his thinking, his speech, and his ac-tions. Authority established on any basis but that of righteousness fears the higher God-ordained authority of right and justice, calls it evil, and tries to suppress it. In all of this present world turmoil let us be mindful of the old motto found in early copybooks: "Truth crushed to earth shall rise again." The fact is that the truth can never be gainsaid, for it is endowed with the omnipotence of divine Mind. It is true, as some of these vain theorists aver, that, humanly speaking, evil does seem to take advantage of free speech and free press; but with no right on its side and only vociferousness as its ally, who should fear it? The abuse of a right should abrogate that right only to the one who shuses it. Evil has no right and should be denied the right to make use of the rights of man, which exist only for the establishment of God's kingdom on earth. In other words, men have the right to express God, good, only, and they have no right at all to lend themselves as mouthpieces for the expression and propagation of evil or error. In a newspaper column I came across the following recognition of this spiritual fact:

Question: "Has everyone the right to his own opinion, if it is expressed as his oninion?"

Answer: "Not unless he knows what he is talking about; for two reasons: : "Not unless he knows what first, one's opinions profoundly in-fluence his own character and be-havior whether he expresses them or not; second, his opinions profoundly affect the lives of others. So, from every standpoint, no one has a right to any opinion that is not based upon the most exact knowledge obtainable. Anyway, why have opinions without knowledge? It ruins your character and destroys with consents to find the find. and destroys your capacity to find truth or even recognize it when you Bearing witness to Truth is of such great importance that one of the commandments given to Moses reads: "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour." "I know what that means," said a little Sunday school boy. "It means you mustn't say anybody's sick when it's only error saying they are and they aren't really at all." What about u grown-up boys and girls? Have we a right to say of any man that he is a sinner? A little clear thinking shows that it is error pointing to itself and calling that man which ian't man at all. Sin ought to be condemned, of course; but the sinner is not man, but an erring mortal mentality which must be put off through repentance and reformation.

The so-called sinner, healed of sin. is revealed in his true selfhood as a man, the beloved of divine Love.

The Right to Knew the Truth Before a man can tell the truth about his neighbor, about God, or about himself, he must prove his divine right to know this truth. It is one of the precious rights of man to know the truth about God and the universe, including himself. To know the scientific truth about any thing or circumstance will put a man in position to enjoy it or, if necessary to remedy any condition or circum stance which may seem to keep him from enjoying it. The truth is a healing agency powerful enough to break the grap of any ite. "If ye continue in my word," said Jesus. "...ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." This demonstrated freedom extends not reward of his labor, but to his home his belongings or effects. Everyone and everything upon when and everything upon which his thought rests will be benefited by his

"knowing the truth.

Man's Right to Protection "How are we to defend ourselves and our country best against evil swollen by mass mesmerism, backed by the power of diabolical physica force?" is a question occupying the attention of half the world. Christian Science teaches that no matter what human steps one's country may decide to take a man must find by decide to take, a man must find his refuge in Truth. The fact revealed by Christian Science that evil is powerless unless made powerful in the thought of an intended victim by fear or other false beliefs, car be demonstrated by everyone. No concentrated will or evil intentior of any nation or of any individua or group of persons pretending to be a nation, even though backed by the force of brute strength and crimina cunning can prevail against the om-nipotence of right and justice, the will of God, good. The truth is our only rejuge for self-delense. student defends himself best against the suggestions of evil who has learned best how to trust himsel; absolutely to the care of divine law which is Truth. To make himself worthy of that divine protection, he must first impersonalize the evi which is tempting him to call it man and realize that, because it has no origin in God, it is absolutely powerless. It must be plain that to the divine Principle or creator of us all, we must all be equally dear. "God is no respecter of persons." In the kingdom of ever-present Truth, there is no error, no evil to attack man, nothing to instill fear. Man, the beloved of divine Mind, is assured of safety and security God's law of omnipotent love. "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble"

A friend of mine feels that he has proved in a small way that his pro-tection lies in his realization of God's presence and power. He was running to eatch an approaching suburban trolley car when a dog which had the reputation for being victous, made directly at him. There was no human protection possible, as the dog was between my friend and the only house near. My friend stood still, declaring the presence and protection of divine Love. The dog seemed to become confused in its headlong cash, pas of my friend and turned around to bark in a bewildered fashion. My friend walked on to the ear stop, where the motorman greeted him with, "Well, you've a lucky fellow. I saw that dog grab a man by the trouser leg a week or two ago and tear his clothes almost off of him." That dog, by the way, was only reflecting the mentality of its owners, who were reportedly its owners, who were reportedly under the influence of liquor more than half the time, The young man the motorman referred to was given a whole new suit, with two pairs of trousers, but I wouldn't recommend this way of getting a new suit even if you needed one as badly as he did.

Man's Right to Happiness

The crown of the life patterned after the divine is the joy to be realized in learning to love God, good, supremely. We have this great gift of inviolable, eternal life that we may use it to express our love for God and His reflection, man. We have no right to live a life of empty idleness, of frivolous self-indulgence, and certainly not a life of criminal disregard for the rights of others. A man's life is not his own to spend as mortal mind suggests. Life is to be lived to unlift mankind to the realization that the more abundant life is the right of every son of God. of everyone who reflects divine qualities to his fellow men. Living has been defined as enjoying the pres-ence of good, of the spiritual real. We should be learning how to live and to help others to live. Worthiness to enjoy the rights of man is dependent upon our seeking "first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness"—upon loving God su-premely. When true happiness is seen as the spiritual joy realized in loving good above all else, the king-dom of God, heaven, harmony, is found to be "at hand."

It is right to be happy. True hap-piness is man's expression of the spiritual joy which is the atmosphere of divine Love. This spiritually mental state can be proved to belong to each one of us through right thinking, thinking based on the sternal facts of being, the allness of God and the nothingness of evil Until we grasp the spiritual fact that there is only one Mind and that one wholly good, we are without a de-pendable standard by which to distinguish true ideas from erring sug-gestions. Without this spiritual understanding, the pursuit of happiness falls into a trial-and-error method, wherein suffering instead of Science becomes our teacher in the way of life.

Christian Science offers a way of living based on intelligence and rea-son, a way wherein all may benefit who will. Happiness will be found by acknowledging that there is but one wholly good Mind and that Mind is not in matter. Persistent, honest effort to realize this truth will bring into our experience whatever origi-nates in this one wholly good Mind and is governed by it. Such effort and is governed by it. Such effort will open up to each one of us a host of God's angels; which our Leader defines (Science and Health, p. 581) as "God's thoughts passing to man; spiritual intuitions." These angels coming to one who is humble and receptive are not supernatural, awe-some apparitions, but are natural widences of the constant measure of svidences of the constant pre divine Love. By entertaining angels, we find that our every human need is met, whether this need be mental, physical, social, or even financial. Science discloses that there is an angel, a God-inspired thought, pres ent in every need, waiting for recognition, and that this thought is able to meet that need. Science shows also how to awaken one's recentivit to the presence and power of God'

Man's Right to Adequate Supply It is right that every one of us should have our needs supplied. But the man who thinks that, because he happens to be in it, the world owes him a living without effort on his part, or that his fellow men should be taxed to care for him even though he is not physically inca-pacitated, is radically wrong. God cares for man, but a man must ex-press right activity as the result of right thinking before he can prove this spiritual fact in his daily ex-perience. When we realize that the man God knows has no need, the belief that lack is a reality begins to fade from human consciousness. Since "all is infinite Mind and its infinite manifestation," as Mrs. Eddy points out in "the scientific statement of being" found on page 468 of Science and Health, then all supply is infinite, and there is no lack of anything needful to man's completeness and satisfaction. This must mean that there is adequate supply for every human need. God is the source of all good, which originates in Him as ideas. His good comes to us in the very form in which it will serve us best. Mrs. Eddy puts it (Miscellaneous Writungs, p. 307): "God gives you His spiritual ideas, and in turn, they give you daily supplies" you daily supplies."

There is infinite wealth in the Mind which is God, and each one of His creatures is heir to this infinite supply of good. This will never be attained by putting into practice the false doctrine that in order to become possessed of our share we must take from others all that they seem to have above what we think they should have. Wealth must be leveled up, not down; and this can be done by honesty in industry and by realizoy nonesty in industry and by realizing that we are all equal heirs of divine Love. The world needs honest employers and honest workmen Christian Science will help it to "level wealth with honesty" (Science and Health, p. 239). Our Father is rich; can His son be poor? It must be remembered, however, that all really substantial wealth is in ideas, spiritual ideas. Industry and justice, love and honesty will lift the leve of wealth in the new, free world which the right thinking of everyone who loves God, good, is beginring to build Meanwhile we each do our bit toward bringing this about by making our own demonstration to rise, through entertain ing spiritual ideas to the place all our human needs are met of the business, but for all of the equipment as well. Her expenses in-cluded salaries, supplies, rent, commission, and incidentals. She not have to borrow any money or defer a single payment when due. She did this by being receptive to and entertaining the angels coming to her from divine Mind. Through reliance on divine Mind. she continued in this business it met her needs and the needs of her family for many years. Jesus said, "I can of mine own self do nothing," but he proved that with God all things were possible to him. This spiritual fact is true of each one of us

The world's problem today is the same one which the Master faced and triumphed over, twenty centuries ago. The setting and the trappings have changed, but the essence of the conflict—Spirit, God, versus error, alias matter—is the same. The erring mentality which champions matter and physical force Paul called "the carnal mind." In Chrismatter tian Science we speak of it as "mortal mind" or "animal magnetiam"; the erring belief in a mind opposed to God. When a man understands that this counterfeit of Mine is "a liar and the father of it," that it is never a person, place, or thing, but just a lie, nothing claiming to be something, he divests it of reality and power. The only truth about it is its falsity, its nothingness. Having proved its unreality in his own mental processes, he can then see its nothingness more readily in the thinking of another and help him to banish evil from his consciou Such individuals are spiritual law-yers. They know the law of God and they know that the law of God ends human bondage and sets men free.

What we really need is the spiritual ability to detect the falsity of evil in ourselves and in others the understanding of the allness of good, which reduces the error to its correct status as nothing Master knew the nature of evil-its mythical, mental nature. He knew it as error, and he knew, too, that the place for each individual to take the piace for each intuition of the party against it is in his own consciousness. We can save the world from bondage and suffering only by knowing the truth about man, that it is not man who has sinned and must be punished, but that the carnal mentality is the sinner and must be put off without delay. This supposititious carnal mind must be seen as an impostor. a usurper of the place and power which belong lawfully to infinite divine Love. Spirit, Soul, that Mind which is without sin, that wholly good and pure Mind which was in Christ Jesus.

Our Leader

It was Mary Baker Eddy who pointed out to us this practical way of life. It was she who taught us how to worship the Father in Spirit and in Truth. She tested her discovery of the fact that Life, Truth, intelligence, and substance are not in matter, but the fault table. in matter, but that "all is infinite Mind and its infinite manifestation (Science and Health, p. 468) and proved it capable of performing the sudden cures identified with the Master's ministry. Mrs. Eddy's un-selfish love for God and man compelled her to make this discovery available to all mankind. She did this by publishing the Christian Sci-ance textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," and by establishing the Christian Science church with its many avenues for healing and uplifting mankind.

Mrs. Eddy is the spiritually inspired Leader in this world war against evil, a war which will end, when it is well fought, in victory for every man who enlists. Christian Science will end hatred, greed, and injustice, and will except the control of the contro injustice, and will reveal the This is the warfare of the Spirit with the flesh, to be fought to a finish in each individual consciousness. in each individual consciousness. "Progress," our Leader tells us (Science and Health, p. 233), "is the law of God." To progress, the student must be receptive and must use every bit of Truth made clear to him. He must push forward through every rent or rift made by intelligence in the veil of ignorance which, to hu-man sense, has obscured and hidden the spiritual facts of being these the spiritual facts of being these many centuries. Every man has a divine right to progress.

To win with Spirit in this warfare with the flesh requires faith, unwavering trust in God, good. It is faith in Love which makes trust in physical force and hatred powerless. Faith in Love is far from being just a combination of words Its present Faith in Love is far from being just a combination of words. Its presence in any human consciousness is proved by loving deeds and by facing without fear the full array of evil's boasted manifestations, knowing full well that they must fall for lack of living support. Faith the for several divine support. Faith in Love means too, seeing the qualities of divine Love as constituting the true selfhood of every individual on whom one's thought rests and knowing that the power of Love strips from the minds of men the evils which animal magnetism may seemed to have at-ached to them. Paith in Love means full trust in God, in good, and in the power of Truth to establish God's reign of "on earth peace, good will toward men."

Mrs. Eddy points out (Science and Health, p. 227): "All men should be free. . . Christian Science raises the standard of liberty and criest Follow me! Escape from the bond-'Follow me! "MAKING THINGS DO" to conserve materials for the war effort!

Hoc BRISTLES for paint brushes (largely imported from China) . . . tungsten (most of our supply comes over the Burma Road) . . . rope (Manila hemp) and burlap: These are just a few of the hard-to-get items that are now on the restricted list of materials needed for the war effort. Few people realize how long that list now is. It includes-in addition to such well-known things as rubber and copper and aluminum-many steel alloys (containing manganese, chromium, molybdenum, nickel, cohalt), chlorine, tin, antimony, magnesium, cadmium, mercury, zinc. There are dozens of other critical materials.

Here in the Edison Company, we are pursuing a policy of "making things do"... and of using substitutes wherever possible. We formerly built our farm lines of aluminum. When the shortage in aluminum developed over a year ago, we switched to copper. Now that copper is scarce, line extensions can be made only on government priority orders. So it goes all along the list.

We are using malleable iron castings instead of bronze, steel rods instead of brass on circuit breaker repair work. In our meter boxes, the "sleeving" on test leads is made of varnished cambric instead of rubber. Even in major plant additions, we are making numerous design changes necessitated by shortage of critical materials. These are a few of the ways we are cooperating with the nation's war effort.

Marine Paintings Now Being Shown

An exciting exhibition of marine painting, including an important collection of Old Masters, scenes of naval engagements, ship portraits of celebrated clipper ships, Mississippi river boats and whaling vessels, is now being shown at the Detroit Institute of Arts and will be there until April 5.

The important American realists of the late nineteenth and early twentieth century are represented, as well as moderns of the abstract
