NAVY RELIEF SOCIETY LAUNCHES DRIVE TO FILL $5,000,000 QUOTA

Proudest tradition of the officers and men of the U. S. navy, from the War of 1812 down to date, has been that "the Navy takes care of its own." The agency for this care of the disabled and help for the families of men who perished in the service of their country has been the Navy Relief Society, formerly set up in 1820, incorporated in 1904, and managed by a board of officials within the navy department.

Now, for the first time, comes an appeal to the public generally for a fund of $5,000,000 nationally, of which $300,000 is Michigan's quota, to assist Navy Relief Society in meeting the problems caused by the tremendous expansion of the navy to two-ocean status, with thousands of new seamen, pilots and officers answering the enlistment call to make the America flag triumphant upon the seas and bring ultimate victory in the war against totalitarianism. Naval regulations make it impossible, in this period of growth and transition, for these new thousands of navy members to immediately take part in a voluntary contribution system which supports Navy Relief Society, according to Capt. R. Thornton Brodhead, Navy Relief not only cares for the injured sailor, or his family in case of death, but it helps mothers and wives of men who make sacrifices to join the colors.

The Michigan Citizens' committee to raise this state's quota of the $5,000,000 fund between April 29 and May 14 is jointly headed by Wendell W. Anderson and W. Ledyard Mitchell, and their group is being assisted by members of a Detroit Aeraft club committee long identified with navy activities in the state.

To the thousands who joined the navy from Michigan in 1940 and 1941 when expansion first started, there have been added more than 8,000 new recruits since Pearl Harbor. Michigan has a recruiting record currently of 29 men for every 100,000 of population — ranking with New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco. One out of every three recruits in the ninth naval district, to which Michigan belongs, is from Michigan. Nearly a dozen Michigan firms hold the coveted "E" pennants which are awarded for excellence of quality in manufactured products as well as for speed in meeting contract awards.

The navy's two great training schools in Detroit — that of the Ford Motor Company in Dearborn, where 2,000 young men are graduated every three months as experts in machine trades, and the one at the naval armory which specializes in electrical work — are putting on the firing line the men who will use the product of this great industrial arsenal to the best effect. The coast guard has undertaken the protection of the mammoth Great Lakes ore fleet this summer, without which all argument production would dwindle to a trickle. All of this is but a fraction of the activity the navy department is engaged in today and the people.

On a normal peace-time basis the Navy Relief Society requires a budget of about $200,000 a year, which it has always had on its own income from the gifts of navy men and their wives. But in 1941 the load went up to $500,000 in loans and grants in 11,000 cases and $136,000 in grants and outright gifts to 4,000 emergency cases. It is pointed out all coast guard personnel as well as the regular navy, naval reserve and marine corps is embraced in the society's activity now.

Summarizing the expressions of scores of navy leaders and friends of the navy throughout the nation, President Roosevelt has said: "There is nothing finer than to build up this fund for the Navy Relief Society. I urge you to do your best, and to do it now." The navy personnel has passed the 500,000 mark. Navy Relief Society belongs to these men and is one of their most cherished possessions, is the reminder of its president, Admiral Harold R. Stark, who says: "The people back home can best help the Navy by helping those whom the navy men leave behind them. Remember, they are ready to fight and die for their country — and happy because it is for their country."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Everlasting Punishment" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, May 3. The golden text (Psalms 9:16) is "The Lord is known by the judgment which he executeth; the wicked is snared in the work of his own hands." Among the Bible citations is this passage (Galatians 6:7): "Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

Catholic Information

The Church That Is Never Empty

If you had seen the face of a certain man, who was walking dejectedly down the street, you probably would have said: "Poor fellow, he is in some grave trouble!"

If you had seen that same face a few minutes later at the altar rail of a Catholic church — a face whose eyes were glued on the tabernacle door in the center of the altar — whose lips were moving slowly and silently, you might have said: "He seems to be — not just praying — but talking to someone."

And if, awhile later, you had seen that same young man leaving the church with vigorous step and with soft, grateful eyes, you might have actually witnessed the fulfillment of Christ's promise: "Come to Me, all ye who labor and are heavy laden and I will refresh you."

Catholic churches are often crowded. They may at times contain no human beings. But at no time is a Catholic church empty; for in that little altar closet, called the tabernacle, there is always the Body and Blood, the Soul and Divinity of Jesus Christ under the form of bread.

This is the Personal Presence, the Real Presence of Him Who died to redeem the world. This is the Bread of Life, concerning which Christ said: "He that eateth this bread shall live forever." This is the Bread of the Last Supper, divinely changed to the Body of the Son of God and offered daily to every Catholic in Holy Communion. This is God, Himself, to reverent Catholics who bend their knees before the altar and doff their hats before the church door. This is the Holy Eucharist which draws from all quarters of the globe hundreds of thousands of pilgrims, for public acclaim, glorification and supplication at those great Eucharistic Congresses.

Some time step inside a Catholic church when no services are being held. Watch the worshippers. Be there but one or one hundred present, you will notice that each is individually praying — not as one prays at home or out in the open spaces — but more as one converses with a Great One and a Loved One Who is right there personally present. If you do this, dear Neighbor, we believe you will have respect at least for the Catholic's firm conviction that a Catholic church, when deserted by human beings, is never really empty.

Every inquiry on Catholic beliefs and practices is freely and courteously answered. Address: Catholic Information Society of St. Paul's Church, Mary Lemaire, 328 Rivard, Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Richard School N-E-W-S

One of the 5A groups has been working for some time on a very interesting unit in social studies. Besides the many aspects of the social studies a great deal of arts and crafts, much reading and arithmetic and all of the language arts were found useful in completing the unit. One of the interesting activities of the unit was the taking of colored movies of the children at work which will be shown at the next P.T.A. meeting on May 20.

Here is a contribution about this whole unit written by one of the members of the class, Butch Edgar: "For some time Mr. Ferry's 5A group has been studying about communication and transportation. We started with the caveman and worked up to modern times. We have learned the names of great men that invented something to do with communication and transportation. We saw movies on the telephone and we made movies of ourselves at work. Some of the girls made a model airplane. Two boys put a telegraph set together. Then some boys and girls made a time line on communication. Some children made slides and others made graphs. We also drew pictures on communication and transportation."

ELECTRIC POWER for Industry

Last February 9th, the nation advanced its clocks and watches one full hour "for the duration." People ask us—"What has the adoption of War Time meant in actual saving of electric power?" The huge turbo-generator you see above produces seventy-five thousand kilowatts of electricity—enough to take care of all the electric service requirements for a quarter of a million average families. A single one of these machines, complete, costs one-and-a-half million dollars, not counting transmission or distribution equipment to handle the current it produces. These great generators are put "on the line" as needed to meet peak-load requirements for electric power. Prior to February 9th, in the late afternoon, the demand for electricity from our power plants began to rise rapidly as lights were turned on, and electric ranges started cooking the evening meal. This simultaneous demand for power—from homes, stores, and factories—resulted in a high "peak" load, because lighting and cooking came together.

Since February 9th—after the nation changed to War Time—lights are turned on later. The home lighting load has been separated from the commercial lighting and cooking load, and fewer machines like the one above are needed to meet the evening "peak." It is estimated that our evening 30-minute peak has been reduced 50,000 to 75,000 kilowatts by the change to War Time. This releases valuable generating capacity needed by industry for the manufacture of war materials. Incidentally, The Detroit Edison Company's total generating capacity is now 5 1/2 times greater than at the close of World War I. The Detroit Edison Company.

Grosse Pointe

Burns Henry Post N-E-W-S

The committee headed by Norbert Hall, who staged the going away party for board 57's April quota, are to be congratulated, also their friends and neighbors of the boys, although it was not difficult to get up on a beautiful Spring morning. I am sure the mothers and fathers know how, how we feel about their sons. I hope a bright new blue starred service flag looks out from a window of each home from where a son has gone to war. Louis Baldwin, member of this post has entered service in the navy. A charter member and past commander, Lou has served the Grosse Pointe Legion in many capacities faithfully and well; we are going to miss Comrade Baldwin very much. We have been very fortunate to have a capable volunteer take over his duties as drillmaster with the junior drum and bugle corps, in the person of Sergeant Winterhalter, ROTC instructor at Southeastern high school.

Our last post meeting was social, it will long be remembered by the guests and members. Timely moving pictures were the preliminary, "Fighting the Incendiary Bomb," which is very thorough in detailed instruction, and the conservation department film, "The Red Poacher," which deals with Michigan's forest fire fighting men, and machines. Youngsters and oldsters danced away the rest of the evening. An enjoyable program thanks to Chairman Neelsen.

BLACKOUT

(Continued from Page One.) to break in and arrest under the state law. However, for this initial test, no such authority has been delegated to local police officers by civilian defense headquarters here.

Instead, the problem of convincing recalcitrant residents of the necessity of complying with blackout regulations will be undertaken on the part of the air raid wardens as a "selling job" in the terms of Clarence Blessed, chief warden.

Those whose lights remain on will be notified to turn them off by the warden of that block. Should any person refuse to comply, the warden will note his name and address and will return at a future date to attempt to "sell" the person on the idea of the necessity of the blackout regulations.

While more drastic action may come later, this will be the system used here Sunday night, officials agreed.

Chief Warden Blessed has also asked those Grosse Pointers who will not be at home during the blackout period, to leave the lights off in their homes or to ask neighbors to turn the lights off for them during the 15-minute period.

45-65 YEAR OLDS REGISTER IN DRAFT

Mrs. S. F. Whenton, of 428 Touraine road, was one of the scores of women who volunteered their services in helping to register in the draft the more than 3,200 local men between the ages of 45 and 65. Here Mrs. Whenton is shown registering Edward N. Munro, 574 Barrington.

NO DRAFT NUMBERS THIS WEEK

Due to the draft registration of men from 45 to 65 years old over last weekend, officials of draft board 57 were unable to compile additional lists of order numbers of those who registered in the previous draft. The list will be continued and additional order numbers printed in next Thursday's edition of The Grosse Pointe Review.

RESIGNATION

(Continued from Page One.) tions will be open to present firemen as well as to others qualified under civil service rules.

Chief Holme presented his resignation to the village commission at the suggestion of Commissioner Johnson following the results of a physical examination given to Chief Holme recently along with other members of the fire department. The results of this examination, according to Commissioner Johnson and Village President Karl B. Goddard, disclosed that Chief Holme, who is 64 years old, is no longer able to carry out to the fullest extent the arduous duties of fire chief.

"I wish to emphasize that the resignation of Chief Holme was not 'requested' by me, as headlined in a local paper last week," Commissioner Johnson told The Review yesterday. "The resignation was 'suggested' in the light of the physical report and the chief was told to think it over and let me know his decision. The decision was made known in his letter of resignation to the commission.

"Moreover, I made the suggestion in the belief that it is to the best interests of the chief, himself, and will benefit both his personal welfare and his personal health, which will be better safeguarded by giving up the arduous duties of fire chief. The suggestion was certainly not based on the chief's 'old age,' as erroneously reported, but solely in the sincere belief that it was to the chief's own personal benefit and that it was he himself who has the most to gain by his resignation.

"Myself as well as the members of the commission felt that it was to the best interests of the taxpayers as well as to the department itself to suggest Chief Holme's resignation and to replace him with a younger and more active man. "I also wish to add that the suggestion was not my idea alone. I do not have the power to 'fire' anyone. That is the authority of the commission as a whole. The matter had been discussed very thoroughly both with the physician who conducted the examination (and who recommended Chief Holme's resignation) and the other commissioners as well. All of the commissioners including President Goddard agreed unanimously that this was the proper action.

"I have already discussed with Chief Holme the question of a financial arrangement at the time his resignation becomes effective. The plan which I outlined to him is satisfactory with him, according to what he told me. I know, also, that anything that can be done by the village to reward him for his years of faithful service will be done."

The question of reorganization of the fire department has long been recognized as one of the paramount problems to be faced by the village. Discussion around this problem has been constant since the advent of the present administration.

Chief Holme's resignation, however, has been the fact that Grosse Pointe Park provides no pension system for its employes. To offset this fact in the case of Chief Holme, however, the village commission, in addition to making a financial settlement with Chief Holme on his retirement, will seek to find some other less strenuous position in the village which will be acceptable to him.

"I have determined that we will do all in our power to provide Chief Holme with a comfortable financial arrangement on his retirement," President Goddard declared at the meeting Monday night. "Moreover, should he care to continue in active service to the village I know there must be some less arduous job open to him I have one in mind now which I intend to propose to him. Whether or not he desires to accept it, whether or not he desires to con-

Pointe Park hereby states that it will be the policy of the village (a) to maintain basic salary and wage rates at the amounts now in effect and (b) to adopt and follow a plan of automatic pay adjustment through quarterly cost of living allowances in respect to such portion of compensation as is not in excess of $500 per quarter ($2,000 per year), such allowances to be in amounts sufficient to compensate for the increase from time to time found to exist in the cost of living, provided, however, that full jurisdiction is reserved to fix and alter the salary and wage rates of persons not eligible to receive such allowances and to make individual changes in basic compensation based on merit and responsibility."
