G. P. Woods to Stage Memorial Parade Along Mack Avenue

An open invitation to all Grosse Pointe residents to take part in the Memorial Day services here has been extended in a joint statement by Walter Hoyt, commander of Burns Henry Post, No. 303, American Legion, and Roy Barbeau, commander of Alger Post, No. 995, VFW.

Ceremonies will last the entire day beginning at 9 a.m. when services will be held at the grave of Burns Henry in Elmwood cemetery. At 10 a.m. similar ceremonies will be conducted at the grave of Col. Frederick M. Alger in Elmwood cemetery.

Joint Memorial Day services for the dead of all wars will take place at noon in St. Paul's cemetery in Grosse Pointe Farms.

At 2 p.m. the members of both posts and their auxiliaries will participate in the Detroit Memorial Day parade and at 7 p.m. they will take part in the Grosse Pointe Woods parade.

On Sunday both Posts will assemble at Fisher road and Grosse Pointe boulevard at 10:30 a.m. to march to Christ church for Memorial services at 11 o'clock.

A new feature will be introduced into the parade this year when members of the many civilian defense units will march with the veterans of former wars in the first Memorial Day service of World War II.

Grosse Pointe Woods will hold its parade Saturday evening, with the line of march forming at 7 p.m. at Cook road and Mack avenue. The parade will extend along Mack avenue north to the Macomb County line.

Following the parade, marchers and watchers will gather at the Woods Community Club house where they will hear a talk by George Elworthy, co-ordinator of civilian defense. He will be introduced by Alois Ghesquiere, president of the village.

A mounted squad, led by mounted police, will head the parade, followed by the boys drum and bugle corps of the Burns Henry Post, No. 303, American Legion, and the women's drum and bugle corps of the Roose-Vanker Post.

Lieut.-Col. Owen J. Cleary, of the Michigan state troops and chief air raid warden for the state of Michigan, addressed the gathering, speaking on the importance and seriousness of the task which these volunteers will be called upon to perform.

Chief, Present Certificates. George Elworthy, co-ordinator of civilian defense for the Grosse Pointe area, introduced Lieut.-Col. Cleary.

Final plans have been completed for the dedication of the Industrial Arts building of the Grosse Pointe high school, Friday at 8:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium, according to Paul L. A unique feature of the dedication will be the showing of a film, locally produced under the direction of William Mann of the Grosse Pointe high school staff, showing the development of the building since the ground breaking, June 1, 1941, and depicting the students at work in the various shops and laboratories.

On 24 Hour Schedule. The building has three large industrial shops, one to be used by the junior high boys for exploring their interests in the industrial field; another for specialized woodwork for higher grades and a third for machine tool and metal specializations.

Pointe Blackout Pronounced Almost Complete Success

Grosse Pointe turned into a ghost town Sunday night for the 15 minutes of its first full blackout practice.

An almost 100 per cent co-operation was given by Grosse Pointe's residents and the drivers on the streets to make this test blackout even more successful than had been anticipated.

Only one ticket was given thru-out Grosse Pointe, that one by City of Grosse Pointe police to the driver of a car who kept on driving, with the car lights out, after the blackout was in force. A few minutes later the car was found parked at the curb, but this time the occupants were smoking cigarettes in violation of blackout regulations.

Few Minor Violations. No tickets were issued in Grosse Pointe Woods, the only Grosse Pointe village operating under its (Continued on Page Eight)

Lingeman Blasts Proponents of Home Rule Plan

Charging that "public hysteria is being used as the instrument to stampede the people into the acceptance of the selfish interests and pet schemes of a group of selfish Detroit interests," Caspar Lingeman, Wayne county clerk, took the spotlight at last Friday night's public rally on the proposed Home Rule amendment for Wayne county.

Lingeman's surprise declaration came following speeches by William C. Lovett, secretary of the Detroit Citizens League, who is promoting the passage of the Home Rule proposal; Alfred E. Meder, attorney for the City of Grosse Pointe and a member of the Wayne county board of supervisors; and Julius L. Berns, supervisor of Grosse Pointe township also a member of the county board.

MacDonald, 27 years old, of 14276 Knox avenue, East Detroit, was released on a $1,000 bond pending examination in justice court when arraigned before Judge C. Joseph Belanger last week. Arrestment of Kelly Postponed; Collapses In Court Appearance Arrestment of Kenneth Kelly, 20-year-old Detroit youth, on charge of manslaughter, scheduled for yesterday morning, has been postponed until Kelly is strong enough to stand trial, Judge Joseph P. Uvick ruled.

The boy was released Wednesday noon from Cottage hospital where he had been recovering from burns suffered in his futile attempt to rescue Mrs. Florence Ortwine from the flaming car in which she met her death two weeks ago following an accident at Cadieux and St. Paul. Kelly was driving the other car involved.

Kelly was brought to the police court directly after his release from the hospital but collapsed before the trial could get under way. He was released to appear for trial later, and collapsed again upon reaching his home, his mother said.

said Daniel Webster:—
"THANK GOD, I AM AN AMERICAN!"

MY PIONEER forefathers fought the elements to cross wide seas, to cling tenaciously to forbidding shores until sustenance could be won from the reluctant soil, and to vision the Westward miles where dreams of promise widened a dangerous horizon.
THE BLOOD that is in my heart coursed through veins drained dry on many battle fronts... dyed scarlet the snows of Valley Forge... pulsed defiance to the fleets opposing John Paul Jones... leaped to tumult on land and on sea... reddened the poppies of Flanders Field... and always in some unselfish cause that generations have sanctified by prayer.
I HEAR the ancestral voices answering still another summons to the ramparts of Freedom, and it is good to know that they are altars of Humanity itself. Again the eagle and the flag spread against an embattled sky. With forbearance yet with grim conviction, the Generations that am I stand at salute. As presses throb with earth-entrancing news, I consecrate myself to Duty.

FITTING IT IS that the Day set apart to herald this pledge of patriotism and this spiritual determination of purpose, should fall on the Sabbath. For the patriot is a living prayer.

LAKE SHORE DRIVE CHOSEN FOR STREET LANDSCAPE AWARD

Lake Shore drive along Lake St. Clair in Grosse Pointe Farms won the annual street and highway landscape award of the Michigan Horticultural Society, according to notification received by the Wayne county road commission from Prof. H. O. Whittemore, of the University of Michigan, trustee of the society. Blending in with the plantings of the estates fronting on the lake, the highway landscaping is largely composed of oriental shrubs and trees. Landscaping, initiated in 1933 upon completion of the highway construction, is growing more beautiful every year. Much of the plantings are between the highway and the lake which is all filled-in land. "A full measure of credit for the award should go to the Lake Shore planting committee of the Michigan Garden club," said Leroy C. Smith, county highway engineer. "That group co-operated wholeheartedly in solving the problem of dressing up the highway without interfering with the view of the lake from both the roadway and the adjoining homes."

Culture of Tomatoes
 By V. R. DePETRIS
 The tomato is by all odds the most popular and at the same time the most productive plant variety in the Victory Garden. When properly grown each tomato plant should yield one peck of good fruit during the season. This average yield however will result only if one starts out with good sturdy plants which have been well grown and conditioned for transplanting. Weak, spindling plants which have been grown crowded in extremely warm temperatures will not give good results. As a rule before these plants can recover from the abuse given under glass and the shock of being transplanted to the open ground, much valuable time has been lost and the crop will have been checked by cool weather in late Summer.

plant foods taken out of the soil by different plants may be likened to the vitamins and the hormones in the human system. They help to keep the plant healthy and vigorous. That is the reason for crop rotation in a nut shell. The tomato is strictly an American plant. It was unknown elsewhere until after the discovery of American The Spaniards brought it to Europe from Mexico where it was widely cultivated by the native Aztecs who called the plant "tomatl" from whence we have derived the present name "tomato." Until a period less than a century ago, tomatoes were considered poisonous by nearly every one and therefore were not eaten. The idea that tomatoes were deadly poison must have originated from some fanciful legend narrated by some superstitious individual who supposed that the ancient Aztecs were possessed of the devil and could therefore eat them with impunity. However, soon some person who either did not know of the supposedly poisonous qualities of the tomato or who possessed rare courage ate a tomato and lived to enjoy it.

Far from being deadly, tomatoes are very healthy and team with many needed vitamins to make them deserve the honor of being called the "King of the Vegetable Garden."

Catholic Information
 Saints—Who Are They, and Why?

Lots of saints, according to the Catholics. Saints to whom to pray. Saints after whom churches, colleges, and whatnot are named. Saints with relics to venerate. Saints with feast days to celebrate. Saints with pictures, statues, medals and the like. What nonsense!

Lots of heroes in American history. Heroes to emulate. Heroes after whom we name our states, cities, towns and public buildings. Heroes with relics to venerate. Heroes with birthdays to celebrate. Heroes with pictures, statues, U. S. stamps and currency to commemorate their deeds. Is this nonsense too?

Yet the cases are parallel with the one exception that Catholics pray to the saints. We do not pray to pictures or statues, but only to the saints of which these images remind us. We do not adore the saints, but in honoring and praising them, we please God. Who has definitely designated many of these heroes of Christianity, as His Own beloved in heaven, to whom we may give public devotion and ask their intercession in our prayers.

Definitely designated by God! We say this advisedly, because the identity of each saint is no haphazard guess. No soul is canonized (declared a saint) by Mother church, until, through that soul's intercession, at least two miraculous cures have been performed — cures of organic diseases which the Congregation of Rites passes upon as being impossible of cure by any means known to medical science.

Thus the saint in heaven fulfills his part in "The Communion of Saints" by listening to our prayers and by carrying to God the worthy pleas of our poor, weak humanity. God alone we adore. Jesus Christ is our sole Mediator. But we can ask our friends on earth and God's friends in Heaven to pray for us, which interferes not in the least with the many prayers we say directly to God.

If any non-Catholic thinks that our doctrine of the Communion of Saints is strange, let him remember that more than two thirds of all Christendom has believed and acted upon this doctrine for 1900 years. Let him remember also that from the first century to the sixteenth, this beautiful and devotional creed permeated all of Christianity. Remember, too, that we are ever willing and eager to furnish you with information on any Catholic subject. Just write to:

"Surge Recorder" helps improve your ELECTRIC SERVICE

Because lightning is a frequent cause of trouble on electric transmission lines, the more we know about lightning the better we can develop safeguards against it... and the fewer times lightning will damage the lines and equipment that serve you.

Lightning "surges" travel along transmission lines like a wave in water. The wave rolls along until it strikes a sharp cliff, then dashes high and breaks over it. Similarly, a lightning surge moves along a line until it hits an obstruction — a transformer, generator, terminal substation or whatnot — and may then "flash over" the object that blocks its path. Lightning surges have entered substations and powerhouses, blown up switches, starting disastrous fires and destroying equipment. So it is important that we know as much as possible about the whims of lightning.

The small black box shown above houses a "Surge Recorder" used to measure the currents that flow in a lightning stroke. It is installed on some of the 24,000-volt lines of The Detroit Edison Company. Simply described, it works as follows: A piece of waxed paper is inserted in a gap between two copper blocks. A lightning "surge" jumps the gap, puncturing the paper and leaving a small hole. By measuring the size of the hole, the size of the lightning current may be determined, and valuable data collected on the nature of these destructive surges that wreak havoc on our lines.

The Surge Recorder is one of many developments that are "all in a day's work" — improvements designed to bring you better electric service at lower cost. The two go hand-in-hand. During the last twenty years, the average price per kilowatt-hour paid by our residence customers for electricity has dropped 46 per cent. The Detroit Edison Company

Choice of Varieties
 In last week's column, four varieties of large tomatoes were recommended and one small fruited variety. The varieties recommended were Marglobe, Pritchards, Scarlet or Scarlet Topper, Norton and Riverside. These four varieties are not of course the only good tomatoes on the market as far as fruit and flavor is concerned. Such varieties as Bonnie Best, John Baer, Ponderosa and Stone produce good fruit in equal abundance, but, and let me emphasize this clearly, all of these varieties which were not recommended are all susceptible to the so-called "fusarium" or wilt disease and rust which must be combated by spraying, skillful culture and crop rotation. The Victory gardener should not be burdened with these added requirements in growing tomatoes when there are excellent varieties which were bred purposely for resistance to disease. For a variety which produces round and large fruit which are meaty and almost coreless, and one which produces very heavily and fairly early, I do not believe that the variety Marglobe can be surpassed. Besides all of these attributes, the Marglobe tomato is very resistant to disease and therefore will give the Victory gardener little trouble. The other three varieties, Pritchards, Scarlet, Norton and Riverside are all very good and should be tried. Incidentally the variety Riverside was produced by the U. S. Department of Agriculture just for its disease resistant qualities in combination with good quality and productivity.

Setting Out Plants
 Tomato plants should be set out only after the weather is warm. If planted too early when temperatures are in the low forties, the plants will fail to grow. There is nothing gained therefore by planting too early. The proper time is usually from the end of May into June. Space the plants in rows three feet apart. Pulverize the soil around the plants and add some fertilizer which is low in nitrogen and high in phosphorus. Fertilizers with excessive amounts of nitrogen will produce a rank growth with heavy foliage but little fruit. Drive stout stakes six feet long near each plant and begin tying the young plants to these stakes. Do not use a fine string nor tie too firmly since the stems will grow rapidly and be cut by this treatment. Water thoroughly, not in dribbles and cultivate frequently.

Treatment After Planting
 If the weather is warm, tomato plants will make rapid growth. Begin disbudding the plants by removing the leaf shoots formed between the leaf axil and stem. The idea is to get the plants to grow up along the stake and allow the fruit to develop and ripen under direct light of the sun. The flowering and fruiting buds will appear opposite the leaf. These of course should not be removed. Continue tying and removing excess branches until the plant has reached a height of about two feet. At this time, more branches may be allowed to remain. Yellow foliage near the base of the plant should also be removed to permit air circulation and prevent insects from breeding. Continue to cultivate and to fertilize every 10 days or two weeks until the fruit begins to ripen. You will begin picking fresh luscious tomatoes by early August, and the plants will continue to bear delicious fruit until cut down by frost. After the plants have been destroyed by frost take up your stakes and save them. You will need them next year. Pull up the dead plants and burn them as soon as dry. If you are planting a Victory Garden next year and I am sure you will, I would suggest that you make a mental or a graphic sketch of the location of your crops, particularly the tomato. They should not be planted in the same soil again. To do so would invite future trouble. The plants exhaust certain elements out of the soil according to each variety. These elements are not necessary plant foods. If this were the case it would be a simple matter to replace them with chemical fertilizers. The elements besides the various chemical

Alger Post, VFW N-E-W-S
 By NORVIN L. WYATT
 To view that tranquil little cemetery, on Seven Mile near Ridge road in Grosse Pointe Farms, one would hardly believe it once was a shambles — that Past Commander Bill Kane and a hand full of charter members of Alger Post had to beat down the weeds to find the headstones they were seeking. on that first Memorial Day 11 years ago. The beginning of a new post of the VFW, and also a practice that Post has faithfully followed ever since, the decoration of soldier's graves. This was brought to mind last Sunday when seven past commanders lined the speaker's table at the annual banquet in the post's club-rooms. When over a hundred men heard the story of the cemetery recounted, along with the meandering tactics of the post before it finally settled where it is. Somehow both of these things have become closely entwined with each other. They seem destined to endure together. The past, the present and the future. The resting place of those who have gone on and those of us who are still left to carry on to the best interests of all. Maybe that could be better understood in the words of Past Commander Roy H. Appleman who said, "That seems to be what holds us together. At no other time nor at a more appropriate time has this nation needed a gathering like this. A gathering of men from all walks of life, religion and creeds, who are met for a common cause on common ground." The soldier's evenjural heritage. And Appleman went on to say that he believed, "our being what we have been in this community has had its part in making the boys who have left it for war, much better soldiers than we old vets ever were." To bear out his statement both Chief Trombly and Neil Blondell, of the Grosse Pointe officials, agreed they were glad to have this post of the VFW in the community and hope it will continue as it has. And, to get back to the type of a gathering it was — the common ground of mutual friendship, we may add that Fred Nagle, a former German soldier, who many of us may have met to both of our regrets over there, now sits among us regularly. Alger post of the VFW has been selected by the Grosse Pointe Home Front to sponsor the sendoff of the 97 draftees who will leave this area Friday morning, May 29, at 7 a.m. Past Commander R. J. Reichling, Sr., will act as general chairman and Past Commander Charles Babcock will be the principal speaker. Breakfast will be served the inducted men at the Neighborhood club before they are escorted to the Grosse Pointe city limits. Alger Post's Memorial Day program begins at the gates of Elmwood cemetery at 8:45 Saturday morning. Alger will join the Burns Henry post of the Legion for services at the grave of Burns Henry. Later Alger Post of the VFW will join the Alger Post of the Legion for services at the Alger mausoleum. If time permits a visit will be paid to Mt. Olivet and Barney Besso's grave. Then — on to St. Pauls — that pleasant plot on Seven Mile and Ridge road. On Sunday, May 31, Alger Post will meet at the corner of Fisher road and Grosse Pointe boulevard at 10:30 a.m. From there the membership will march to Christ Episcopal church where the Reverend Kramer will conduct the annual Memorial Day services. Citizens of Grosse Pointe are cordially invited to any of these services, especially those of you whose sons, fathers or brothers may be in the service now. And now — after faltering through this copy — this scribe is stepping out until Fall. At least one of his readers will understand where he is heading and why. Maybe it's just to find out "How Green A Valley Is."

Writes Patriotic Poem
 Frances Frost wrote the following poem in the 6A language arts class:
OUR FLAG
 Our flag is flying overhead
 With lovely stripes of white and red.
 White stars upon a field of blue
 Makes up our flag to which we're true.
 Sailors at sea, and soldiers on land
 All fight for our flag and for what it stands;
 For truth, for courage, for loyalty too,
 For children and grownups like me and you.
 So when you see your flag up high,
 Lift up your head unto the sky
 And be glad you live in a country so grand,
 Where freedom reigns throughout the land.

"It can't happen to me. I'm in the safest spot in the world. I live in Detroit."

If that's what you think you'd better learn this little geography lesson. And learn it quick.

Look at the map again. Follow the arrows from Norway. They make it terribly clear that a Berlin bomber, using Greenland as a stepping stone, could drop its load on Detroit as easily as on New York.

And military experts say that this is just the course an enemy air attack would probably follow. For while the Atlantic coast is fairly well protected by an arc of newly acquired bases, America has a wide open back door through the wilderness of Canada. That door leads straight to Detroit's defense industries—industries that feed war material for the entire world.
