Public Schools Open Sept. 10; Register Aug. 27

According to an announcement by Dr. Paul L. Esvert, Grosse Pointe public school superintendent, the regular fall term opening of the schools will be Monday, Sept. 10, when all classes start.

Most of the former students of the local public schools have already been registered and programs have been worked out for them during the summer so that it will be unnecessary for them to appear in the schools before Sept. 10.

POINTE PARAGRAPHS

by THE POINTER

It certainly is amazing to see how well the blind get along with their leader dogs, because the other day, two young gentlemen hailed a bus, boarded it, and then asked the driver to let them know when they reached St. Clair avenue in the city. Of course the driver obliged, but it was wonderful to see these two chaps leave the bus and walk up the avenue as though they were watching every store window and passerby.

Our hats are off to those who make the most of their disability and still attain the healthy and normal lives which the average person leads.

who was not in the public schools last year is requested to register in the junior and senior high school offices, Aug. 27 to Aug. 31, inclusive, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. It is important that any student who comes to Grosse Pointe public schools from any other school write immediately to his former school requesting that a transcript of his credits be sent directly to the registrar of the school which he is to attend. If he does not have his transcript it will be difficult to place him in the right grade or subjects in the local schools.

The school offices will be closed to the public Sept. 3, Labor Day, and Tuesday, Sept. 4, when all employees of the public schools will meet in an all-day conference for the organization of the school year.

Orientation Program— On Sept. 7, starting at 1:30 p.m. there will be an orientation program at both the Pierce and high school building to which all 7B, 10B and all new students to the Grosse Pointe schools are requested to attend. It is important that the above group of students attend these meetings in order that they may become acquainted with their homeroom teachers, with the school building and in order that they may be assigned to their homerooms. At this time, all homeroom teachers of these grades will be available in their homeroom for individual conferences of pupils and their parents. According to Dr. Esvert, this opportunity provides exceptional opportunity for parents.

He is James Macagnone of 5007 Crane, named in a robbery armed in connection with the hold-up at St. Clair Shores herb dealer 22, 1945.

Critical Situation Exists for New Pointe Teachers

The board of education reports that four teachers have resigned because of failure to find housing for their families in the Grosse Pointe area. Since replacements are extremely hard to get at this time of the year it may be necessary to curtail the program in some of the schools.

Mr. Campbell, housing counselor for the teachers, states that it has been practically impossible to find a house or flat in the Grosse Pointe area where families with children will be accepted. A fairly large number of rooms for single teachers has been listed, but more are needed with board or cooking privileges.

The board of education urges all citizens interested in the welfare of the public schools to help solve the problem. Call Mr. Campbell, NI, 2000 if you know of any houses, flats, apartments, or rooms available for teachers.

Propose Edsel Ford Property Be Used for Convalescence

A suggestion that Macomb county exert every influence to have the federal government purchase the estate of the late Edsel Ford, for use as a veterans' convalescent hospital, was made to the board of supervisors recently.

The Ford estate is in that part of Grosse Pointe Shores which lies in southern Macomb county.

The originators of this appeal were members of the Corp. Walter F. Bruce Post No. 1146, VFW, of St. Clair Shores.

No immediate action was taken by the supervisors who are busy with their regular sessions and tasks.

Opposition Lacks Sufficient Cause For "Stop" Order

Harry Stammeler and Saul Sloan, who filed a restraining order against the village officials of Grosse Pointe Farms 10 days ago, were denied an injunction prohibiting the erection of buildings on the Mack avenue business frontage between Moross and Kerby roads, Tuesday morning by Judge Toms in the Wayne county circuit court.

The two men, developers of real estate in that section, attacked the constitutionality of the new amended village zoning ordinance and asked a temporary injunction restraining the village from enforcing it.

After Judge Toms denied the injunction, the village did not ask that the bill of complaint be dismissed. This order holds until such time as the case is tried in circuit court if the two men wish to carry this further.

The latter's arguments for their restraining order centered on the proposed depth of a theatre to be built on Mack avenue. They felt that if the theatre were built, it would interfere with the use of the property at Kerby and Mack, infringing on their rights as property owners.

With the court's decision backing them, the village may now issue building permits to Max Kogan, developer of the Moross-Mack frontage. Mr. Kogan is completing arrangements to deed to the village a 20-foot strip of land in the rear of his buildings to be used as a public alley.

Missing for Year, Pointe Bombardier Now Presumed Dead

While no previous publicity was given to the work being carried on at the Oak Ridge project because of necessary secrecy about the experiments and production of the atomic bomb, the USES can now announce that the metropolitan Detroit offices recruited 1,094 workers for Oak Ridge.

The figures are not available for the number recruited here for the other two secret-project plants in the west but quite a number of highly skilled workers were located for these projects from this area.

Speaking about service: We were on a bus the other day when a Park police car drew alongside and a young lady stepped out. As the driver hastily pulled over to the curb, she explained that she had transferred at the city limits but had left some packages on the bus. After summoning the assistance of Officer E. Hoyer, he gave chase to the bus; obliging passengers handed the woman her parcels out the window. She then, very sedately, walked over to the police car and was driven back to the limits.

Super service, we call it!

REMEMBER?

One Year Ago This Week

The City of Grosse Pointe council had refused to recognize the union which had been organized by the municipal employees and who had become members of a local union.

Observers were wondering if the dispute concerning the Fisher road boundary situation between the City and Farms would ever reach a decision for each municipal government had adopted a resolution to recognize a district boundary line. The Farms advocated that at the intersection on Jefferson the boundary line should run southeast and run 33 feet along the center line of Jefferson avenue to the present

The robbery of a Grosse Pointe Farms tavern was solved within twentyfour hours last week when three Detroit men were nabbed by Royal Oak township police.

Albert Porecca, proprietor of the Old Brick Inn, 18650 Mack avenue, told Grosse Pointe Farms police early Thursday morning that $179.55 had been taken from a cash drawer and a 32-Cal pistol the night before. Investigation by Sgt. E. Labadie proved that entrance was gained through a rear washroom window, and that the cash register and all cabinets were ransacked.

That same evening, the Royal Oak police called the Farms, telling them they were holding three men, Carl A. Weishaupt, 17, 3697 Superior, Stanley J. Sawinski, 18, 19315 Spencer, and Samuel Miller, Jr., 25, of 8268 Brentwood for investigation.

It was learned that Officer Fred Gail of that force, chased a car on Dequindre for speeding; trying to evade him, the driver smashed into a tree. The police found $190 and a 32-automatic pistol in the car and on the three persons; they traced this to the Farms robbery.

In making a complete confession to Sgt. Labadie and the Royal Oak police, Miller and Sawinski admitted that they entered the Inn while Weishaupt remained in a car parked on Belanger.

Following the robbery of the Farms establishment, the trio drove to 21-Mile and Dequindre and broke into a grocery store. Completing this, they stopped at the Green

Because of the cessation of hostilities on August 14, the large group of men who were scheduled to leave for service into the armed forces from Grosse Pointe were notified on August 15 that their induction was temporarily postponed.

robbed in his office.

The other two men, Frank Colletta, 22, of 2959 Hunt, and Joseph C. Amaradio, 32, of 12060 Laing, were tried by jury and found guilty. They were given five to 10 years by Judge Alton H. Noe. Macagnone asked for a separate trial and it was granted.

In the plea for dismissal, the defendant's attorney argued that there had not been sufficient proof entered in justice court to link Macagnone with the crime and that in the circuit court, witnesses failed to identify Macagnone with the crime, although the other two men were readily named as the thugs. A frank admission was made, however, in that Macagnone was the driver on the robbery occasion, and upon being searched, was found to have a loaded gun. There was nothing else, the appeal said, which tied him with the crime in St. Clair Shores.

Judge Spier handed down a suspension of the holdup charge but asked that Macagnone be tried on a charge of carrying concealed weapons by Wayne county authorities. At the time of their capture in Grosse Pointe Park, the officers found the loaded gun in Macagnone's pocket, another beside the car, and a watch, wallet and key case belonging to Salis, $115 and a metal tube with which they strangled the victim, beside the car. Macagnone has a police record and is a parole violator.

Kercheval Avenue Property in City Sold; to Be Improved

A Detroit real estate firm has set a price of $500,000 for the property. Recently, the Wayne county board of supervisors had studied a recommendation that they purchase the estate as a public recreation center. This move met opposition from officials from Grosse Pointe Shores, Grosse Pointe township, St. Clair Shores and Lake township.

Mr. Breaun states that he intends to improve the site immediately with an ultra modern one story building, containing two stores, with ample parking arrangements.

Justice Binds Two Over to Circuit Court

Two men were bound over to circuit court this week by Justice Joseph Belanger on charges of passing bad checks and larceny.

Officers A. Hough and H. Hennig of the Park detective bureau apprehended Fred Kent last week on complaint of the proprietor of a local tavern who said that the man had passed a bad check in his place of business several months ago.

Kent was found guilty by Justice Belanger who remanded him to the county jail when he failed to produce $500 bond.

The second person who appeared before the court was Howard A. Eynouf of 644 Kitchener who was arrested August 18 and charged with the theft of $170 from the Toddie House on East Jefferson on July 14. Arraigned on a breaking and entering charge, Eynouf waived examination and was released on bond for trial at a later date.

FROM THE DAYS OF YORE

SERGEANT DAILEY'S "FEUDAL" CASTLE

Because most children have vivid imaginations, a great part of their young lives is spent day-dreaming about what they want to be when they grow up. About the latest fashion for boys is to become a knight as they grow older.

Count Dracula is a very popular character in the case of boys. In the case of girls, it is the story of Cinderella and the prince who saves her from the evil stepmother and the ugly stepsisters.

Minor damage resulted in both crashes.

THE TIME HAS COME
 A great deal of space in newspapers, magazines and other publications, as well as the movies and radio, has been devoted to asking and warning the American public what to do for the coming servicer, and what should be expected from them. It is the hopes of these people from executives to the parson to avoid the "apple carts" and "pencil sales" that follow World War I. The people of the nation, the businessmen, the employers, and all others who are in any way connected with them, have been urged to assist these men in their return to civilian life.
 This means the renting of homes to them as well as find-jobs, setting them up in business and providing education and other provisions.
 These men have been fighting for the American home; they have been fighting to come back to these homes, in Grosse Pointe as well as in any other spot in the country. It is up to every one of you who have houses, flats, apartments and rooms to provide for these men and their families so that their dreams of the battlefields will become reality on Grosse Pointe soil.
 Everyone is urged to see that these men, their wives and children receive a fair break and are allowed to establish homes, in many cases the first of their married lives, in rented dwellings, with decent landlords who appreciate what they have done for them while serving in the armed forces.

Salvage Chairman Urges Continuance of Saving Program

While the military needs for fats and oils as reflected in explosives and other direct war goods, are sharply reduced by the long-awaited realization of V-J Day, the need for salvage of all possible used household fats continues, according to Neil Blondell, chairman of the Grosse Pointe salvage committee.
 "When the war ended," he said, "we were scraping close to the bottom of the barrel in our supplies of fats and oils. The need for these items in reconvertng industry to peacetime production and in fulfilling a starved civilian demand for synthetic rubber, nylon, textiles, lubricants, soaps, pharmaceuticals, and hundreds of other items cannot be satisfied except by economy in our use of fats and oils, and salvage of all used household fats."
 Blondell pointed out that used household fats are still worth four cents and two red points per pound when turned in at local butcher shops and other salvage agencies, and said he expects the national fat salvage campaign to continue until supplies can be brought into balance with demand.

SERVICE PARADE

Headquarters, Bremen Port Command. — Staff Sgt. Edgar Geist, Jr., 331 McKinley road, Grosse Pointe Farms, is one of 60 servicemen singing with the Bremen Port

Glue club, believed to be the only group of its kind on the Continent. Members of the club were selected from personnel of the Bremen Port Command, which operates dock and harbor installations within the Bremen Enclave supplying American Occupation forces in Germany.

Sergeant Geist arrived overseas in February, 1944, with the 859th Ordnance Company. He entered the Army in December, 1941, taking his basic training at Camp Roberts, Calif. He is a surgical technician in his unit.

Before entering the army, Sergeant Geist was a pre-medical student.

Majuro Atoll, Marshall Islands. — Bronze Star medals, in recognition of "meritorious service" performed during recent rescue raids to Japanese-held atolls in this area, which resulted in the evacuation of a total of 753 Marshallese natives, have been awarded navy military government officers, Lieut. Hilliard B. Wilson, USNR, 601 Fourteenth avenue, San Francisco, Calif., military government officer at Majuro, and Lieut. (jg) Joseph T. Sinclair, USNR, 938 Balfour road, Grosse Pointe Park.

"Landing on shores where large numbers of Japanese were known to be present," stated the citations, their "capable leadership contributed substantially to the success of these missions without loss of American lives."

Assembly Area Command, France. — An experienced photo technical unit, which processed more than four million photographic prints for the U. S. First Army in Europe, is at Camp Detroit, near Laon, in the Assembly Area.

As part of a Ninth Air Force Tactical Reconnaissance Group taking aerial photos of enemy installations for the First Army, the unit operated in close conjunction with the army's photo intelligence department furnishing them with more than 400,000 reconnaissance photos a month for interpretation.

Activated at Chalgrove, England, in April, 1944, the photo men landed in Normandy on D-plus-15 and were continuously on the move because of the need for speed in delivery of prints to the fighting forces.

The unit consequently participated in five major campaigns and has been awarded the Meritorious Service Plaque for outstanding operations. Commendations for outstanding services have been received by the group also from First Army headquarters and the Ninth Tactical Air Command.

Members of the unit include Sergeant Robert F. Conner of 829 Beaconsfield.

With the Fifth Army, Italy.—Pfc. Joseph Riegler, of 155 Lakeview, a machine gunner, recently was awarded the Distinguished Unit Badge as Lieut. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, Jr., commanding general of the Fifth Army, presented the Distinguished Unit Citation to his battalion for its conquest of Monticelli Ridge, dominating height on the Gothic Line in Italy.

The outfit, 3rd Battalion of the 363rd Infantry Regiment, 91st "Pfeifer River" Division, by securing the high ground in a week of ferocious battle, made it possible for Fifth Army troops to negotiate the fortified defense line at Il Goggio Pass.

Flanking and occupying a small village at the base of Mount Altuzzo, the battalion reduced a number of important outposts serving the Germans as a cushion against attack. After beating off several German counterattacks, one company of the 3rd Battalion fought its way to the crest of Mount Altuzzo, cutting off intense artillery, mortar and rifle fire and many barbed wire entanglements, crossing minefields and knocking out several pillboxes.

The company on Altuzzo-day a grudging battle with the defenders of Monticelli Ridge, in which neither side gave ground. Then orders were given for the 3rd Battalion to take the ridge at all cost. Advancing and climbing grimly through concentrated enemy fire, one platoon attained the ridge, its strength reduced to 11 men by the time the summit had been reached. Before the height could be recaptured, the position was consolidated by a force of 30 other members of the 3rd Battalion, who stormed the peak as soon as the first platoon had reached the objective.

Intense artillery and mortar fire was brought to bear on the defenders as they retreated down the far slope of Monticelli Ridge.

"Monticelli, the dominating peak in this key defense point," the citation states, "had fallen before the courageous and determined men of the 3rd battalion."

With Sixth Infantry Division on Luzon. — Jon P. Kauchek, husband of Mrs. Eleanor M. Kauchek, of 606 Neff road, Grosse Pointe, has been promoted from private first class to technician fifth grade (corporal) as a clerk in headquarters of the Red Star Sixth Division artillery.

Kauchek received his basic training at Camp Roberts, Calif., and came overseas in March, 1944. He participated in the Maffin Bay and Sansapor campaigns on New Guinea before coming to Luzon.

Aboard the U.S.S. Solace in the Pacific. — Chester O. Boots, 25, pharmacist's mate, third class, USNR, 1012 Bishop road, Grosse Pointe Park, serves aboard this navy hospital ship which has gone through nine bloody campaigns in the Pacific.

The vessel evacuated and treated wounded at Tarawa, Eniwetok, Kwajalein, the Admiralties, Saipan, Guam, Peleliu, Iwo Jima, and Okinawa.

For treating wounded at Pearl Harbor the ship won a navy unit commendation for skill and speed shown while the Jap attack raged around her. At the Gilberts she became the first hospital ship to evacuate 700 Marine volunteers produced a blood bank aboard the So-3rd Battalion, meantime, had fought a face which set a precedent for later large-scale employment of whole blood.

Crew members worked around the clock at Iwo Jima, handling 2,000 patients in three evacuations. They doubled their tempo at Okinawa, handling 4,000 casualties in seven trips.

Equipped with complete laboratories, operating rooms and a pharmacy, and manned by navy nurses and hospital corpsmen, the Solace during the assaults at Iwo and Okinawa used 1,800 pints of whole blood, 1,200 of plasma, 150,000 sulfa tablets and over 2,300,000 units of penicillin.

to clean up and make our rooms ready for occupancy.

I don't know for sure, but I believe we are the only outfit in the ETO who are quartered in a real feudal castle. This castle was built in 1588, but was partially destroyed in the Thirty Years' War and rebuilt in 1760. The enclosed cards will show the old tower in the background which was not destroyed.

The castle is built on one of the town's two hills. The sides of the cliff go straight up for hundreds of feet, with the medieval structure perched on top. Access to the place is only by means of a crushed stone road winding up the mountain and flanked on either side by high stone walls, — about three feet thick, — surmounted by a parapet with notches cut for matchlocks or perhaps crossbows. I could see the holes in the rock where stages were set, upon which the soldiers stood to ward off invasion in days gone by.

Half way up the road one comes to a massive iron gate which hangs on rusty hinges. It took five men to swing it open. Before reaching the castle, we came to a moat that runs around the place on three sides, — the other side is the sheer cliff. An ingenious arrangement lowers a drawbridge and raises another massive iron gate at one operation. On either side of the drawbridge are massive masonry sentry boxes and I could almost see a knight in armor challenging our approach, or a herald with a long horn blasting out a flourish announcing our entry.

Across the drawbridge and clear of the sentry boxes, another door must be opened. This one is of massive oak, about 18 feet high and fully 24 inches thick, studded with spear heads, with the spears sticking out. I've read about castles in the movies and in the books, but I never thought I'd live in one some day. This place is absolutely beautiful and staggers the imagination or stimulates it. It's massive and Wagnerian.

The castle overlooks the town which lies in a valley, and beyond the other hill winds the river. This place had been remodeled one time for a hospital for German soldiers. It has windows, lavatories, showers, and beds.

We sat in a huge dining hall hung with tapestries which picture the history of this feudal pile, and which I hope to decipher soon with the help of the townsfolk. A big fireplace is on one end of the hall, and we sat at a massive oaken deal table, and every time I sit down here I can imagine serfs bearing in huge platters of boar's heads, roast goose, venison, and rabbits, and with wolf and deer hounds laying around waiting for scraps. I can vision flagons of mead and Rhenish and Moselle wines being passed among the assembled barons just returned from the hunt.

The castle is entirely surrounded by a high, thick masonry wall with another parapet on top, and at the back is an old tower much older than the rest of the castle. It is very high with walls about 15 feet thick. Up near the top are little rooms, inhabited by bats and strange-looking birds, and the whole tower is enveloped in thick, clinging vines and ivy, and a little tree has taken root in the earth between the masonry.

From the top of the tower one can see the countryside for miles around, and the little village, nestling down in the valley, which has not been bombed out nor destroyed by artillery, is really beautiful.

On one wing of the castle is another high tower, rebuilt after the razing during the Thirty Years' War. This tower has winding stone steps leading up to its top. Off the stairway are rooms opening into the sides of the tower. These rooms, tho hundreds of years old, have been modernized with hardwood floors, beautifully paneled walls, but an ancient air still pervades the place and is reflected in the old lamps stuck into the walls and old battle axes and shields hanging about.

The officers have taken over these rooms, but as I came up early, I picked out a swell room for myself and Humphry, who is rooming with me.

In the center of the castle grounds is a large shady court with old oak trees, and some other old gnarled trees that I never saw at home or any other place in Germany. They look as though they had been brought from far off lands by the Crusaders.

I sit in this court, and close my eyes. I can see knights in armor entering the gates at the far end. A jousting bout is scheduled for the day, the horses are in armor, and the gay knights are competing at the lists for the hand of a fair lady. In the windows above the court and on a balcony overlooking the lists are fair ladies in lace collars and blasts the opening of the joust. I open my eyes. The knights and ladies are gone — it's only a couple of GI's hanging out of the window — but if I close my eyes again, they all come back.

Tomorrow if I get time, I'm going to explore the underground where I know I'll find wine cellars, and farther down will be dungeons and horror chambers of the Middle Ages — the counterparts of those found at Buchenwald — the rack, leg irons, handcuffs hanging from the ceiling, a funnel with teeth marks for the water cure, and other fiendish devices brought from the Spanish Inquisition and copied by these present day fiends called Nazis. strange-looking head dresses. A her-

Will write you about it after I complete my visit below ground.

Bye now,

"Mind" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, Aug. 26.
The Golden Text (Daniel 2:20, 21) is: "Blessed be the name of God for ever and ever: for wisdom and might are his... he giveth wisdom into the wise, and knowledge to them that know understanding."
Among the Bible citations in this passage (Isaiah 2:4): "And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks: nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more."
Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (467): "It should be thoroughly understood that all men have one mind, one God and Father, one Life, Truth and Love. Mankind will become perfect in proportion as this fact becomes apparent, war will cease and the true brotherhood of man will be established."

Police believe that because Mangiapani's slaying took place at almost the same spot the patrolmen were killed, gangland enemies of his wanted to link him up to the Park double murder.

A 49 year old Detroit who mistakenly thought a private detective was a go-between was taken to the Park police station when the former entered the detective's car with a large bundle of goods stolen from Best's, and said "ok, let's go." THE JOB AHEAD

The news that made August 14 a never-to-be-forgotten date in history has been followed by glorious days of rejoicing and thanksgiving.
Now, as we enter the long-awaited era of peace, we face new tasks, new responsibilities—new opportunities. Immediately ahead is the job of swift reconversion to civilian production.
Your Telephone Company has its reconversion problem, too. For Michigan Bell has been on a war footing through all the 44 months since Pearl Harbor. The needs of war took over the raw materials and manufacturing facilities which normally would have allowed us to expand. At the same time, the armed forces and war industry required a vastly increased use of the telephone.
Under those circumstances, there was just one thing for Michigan Bell to do—take care of war needs and essential civilian needs first. All of them were met. But in many instances we were unable to provide telephone service to others who asked for it.
The patience and understanding of the public throughout the war has served as a constant encouragement to our 14,000 employees and has helped them maintain a traditionally friendly and courteous service under trying circumstances. We are grateful for the tolerance of those who have had to do without a telephone, or have had service from us that was not as good as we wanted it to be.
Now we mean to remedy conditions just as fast as we can. We are tackling the job with all we have.
Even in the dark days when victory seemed far away, Michigan Bell engineers were busy designing a post-war program. Their plans call for spending $120,000,000 for expansion and improvement in the next five years—to provide all needed service—to catch up with normal growth and assure safe margins for future development—to utilize scientific improvements—to extend the rural telephone system.
The program will include the erection in Michigan of 46 new buildings and major additions to present buildings, the purchase and installation of $50,000,000 worth of switchboards and other central office equipment, the placing of long distance cable containing 50,000 miles of wire, and local cable containing 2 1/2 million miles of wire—enough wire to encircle the earth a hundred times.
We recognize as our first obligation the supplying of service to 125,000 Michigan families whose orders have been held up because of war. But this part of the job, too, will take time.
Bell System's Western Electric Company—manufacturers of vital communications equipment for both Army and Navy, makers of 5,000,000 military telephone sets for war use, biggest producer of radar systems—is already reconverting its huge factories to the production of civilian telephone equipment to speed relief of the serious telephone shortage.
Nearly half of the waiting applicants can be served as soon as enough telephone instruments roll off the production line—a matter of months. But telephones are only part of the need. To fill the other orders, cable must be produced, placed and spliced; complex central office equipment must be engineered, manufactured and installed in telephone buildings. Much of this manufacturing and installation involves hand-soldered connections—millions of them—and it must be done in close quarters where only one or two men can work at a time. It's a long slow process.
Many of the projects in our post-war program are already engineered and the equipment ordered. The job is started. It will be accelerated as rapidly as manufacturing facilities, materials and trained men become available.
We already are hiring and training inexperienced men and we hope to have back with us soon our 2,800 experienced employees still in the armed forces. The expansion program will mean jobs ultimately for about 2,000 new workers in addition to our own returning veterans. Thousands of other workers employed by contractors and suppliers will also benefit from Michigan Bell's program.
While the work will be pushed forward with as little delay as possible, we still must ask your co-operation and your patience. The magnitude of the manufacturing and installation job is such that many of those now waiting will not have telephone service for a long time. It may take as much as two years before telephones can be installed generally without delay.
We intend to keep the public advised as to the progress we are making, not only in meeting immediate needs but in moving toward our long-range objectives. And with every confidence we look forward to the day when we again can provide good telephone service whenever and wherever it is wanted.

President

Polio Precautions

Through the summer months and into September the threat of outbreaks of infantile paralysis is most ominous.

Here are some of the general precautions to be observed:

1. Avoid overting and extreme fatigue from strenuous exercise.
2. Avoid sudden chilling such as would come from a plunge into extremely cold water on a very hot day.
3. Pay careful attention to personal cleanliness, such as thorough hand washing before eating. Hygienic habits should always be observed.
4. If possible avoid tonsil and adenoid operations during epidemics. Careful study has shown that such operations, when done during an epidemic, tend to increase the danger of contracting infantile paralysis in its most serious form.
5. Use the purest milk and water you can. Keep flies away from food. While the exact means of spread of the disease is not known, contaminated water and milk are always dangerous and flies have repeatedly been shown to carry the infantile paralysis virus.
6. Do not swim in polluted water.
7. Maintain community sanitation at a high level at all times.
8. Avoid all unnecessary contact with persons with any illness suspicious of infantile paralysis.

"Here Comes the Waves, is the feature which has been billed with "The Woman in the Window," to be shown at the Shores theatre next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The story centers around the devotion which Betty showers upon her favorite pin-up crooner, "Dream-boat" Crosby. From there on, the fun begins, especially after Betty signs the crooner's name to a promotion idea for the Waves and is assigned to assist him in a huge stage production. Sonny Tufts is around providing laughs and situations which only he and Bing, as navy men in bell bottom trousers, could engineer.

Casabella Cafe Opens Doors on New Decorations

Looking forward to a fall and winter season of night club hilarity, the Casabella cafe reopened last Thursday after a dark period in which the place was gone over from stem to stern. The new decorations and lighting effects tend to make the surroundings more pleasing than they were before.

New seating arrangements and the placing of the piano up front lend added umph and hearability to those sophisticated parodies by Peggy Bell, "the girl who keeps you smiling," Jimmy and Ralph are still on hand as your genial hosts, and all in all Casabella promises to become your East Side night spot if you are not already among those who have it on their must list.

After choosing his profession to become a priest, he volunteers to leave his home in Scotland and sail for the Orient. The missionary builds up his mission after it had been destroyed by fire, and overcame several obstacles which mean almost disaster for the priest and his parish.

Peace Still Brings Need of Relief for Destitute

The war is over, peace is on its way, but the war's effects become more apparent each day. In Detroit, as everywhere throughout the United States, wartime restrictions are resolving into postwar problems. The Europe of today, with its destruction and suffering, is a far cry from the Europe of prewar days and the China of a decade ago didn't know the hunger and homelessness that years of stubborn resistance and continual struggle have left. Funds collected in the community war chest campaign this fall must be sufficient to help in all these places, and many more.

V-J Day didn't bring shoes for the barefoot children on the stony Greek mountains. Nor did it bring potatoes, meat, or milk to the four and a half million Netherlanders in advanced stages of starvation. It didn't replace the homes, schools and industries of China. It didn't solve any recreational or health problems in Detroit. And, because it didn't do any of these things, it didn't take away the need for a community war chest campaign this fall, with a goal set at $8,490,336.

Rabaut Compares Days in London

London. — Rep. Louis C. Rabaut joined the thousands of American, British, and Allied servicemen celebrating V-J Day in Piccadilly Circus, London.

As chairman of the subcommittee on appropriations for the departments of state, commerce, justice, and the judiciary, Congressman Rabaut is head of the group inspecting the foreign service offices in Europe, and studying postwar diplomatic and commercial problems of interest to the United States.

"I was crossing the North Sea to England," Rabaut said, "and spent two days in London, the first two days of the blackout, eating with other residents of one of the hotels in a sub-basement. Then we went up to Oxford, to the historic, Mitre hotel, for two weeks. There we were issued gas masks. Like everyone else in Britain we carried them around with us day and night. We left England on the first American ship to sail after the outbreak of the war."

When Congressman Rabaut returned to England on the Queen Mary, the huge ship docked at Southampton last week for the first time since the outbreak of the war.

"It is good to be back in England when the nightmare is over," Rabaut said. "It is good to see London's lights blazing brightly again. A lot of things have happened in the intervening six years. I am sure that a better understanding has been achieved among the peoples of the Allied countries. This is confirmed by the fellowship of the Allied soldiers celebrating V-J Day in Piccadilly."
