LOUIS C. RABAUT Member of Congress

Following adjournment of congress in Washington, Rep. Louis C. Rabaut, Democrat of Michigan, has returned to his home on Three Mile Drive in Grosse Pointe Park. Representative Rabaut was influential in assisting the board of education in obtaining permission for the 18room school section to be constructed at Mack avenue and Vernier in Grosse Pointe Woods, after the original application to the CPA had been turned down. Congressman Rabaut states that he will be glad to be of any assistance to organizations or individuals in the fourteenth congression-

"We Lead, Others Follow"

A PROBLEM OF WAIST VS. WASTE

The hali finished dinner plates on the restaurant tables speak of anything but charity or thrift on the part of Americans While thousands of our allies and former enemies are suffering from malnutrition and are expected to die because of the lack of proper food Americans continue unconcerned to order large dinners and then leave half the food on their plates.

If these same people are so concerned about their waist lines then may we suggest they try exercising and smaller portions of the starch and sugar ladened foods. It's a disgusting by Judge Fred T. Miles on his plea fact that many of these men and women order full course meals of guilty. He admitted killing Beh and after "dabbling" with the food anounce, "I don't want to on Dec. 20, 1945 after the murdered make a pig of myself," and shove the plate away. Strange that they suddenly find a dessert just the thing to round out the meal! Ten to one the dessert will be the richest on the menu.

Some people seem to think that their duty goes only as far as paying taxes and obeying laws. What happens to their neighher, within the block or the world is no concern of theirs, and yet these same people would be the first to deride any action of our government or any other government eliminating aid to these suffering thousands. What they can't see is that taxes department of parks and recreation alone won't help. Money can't buy food if it's not available and it can't be available if it's in American garbage cans.

We have had to make comparably few sacrifices compared to those who suffered first hand the ravages of war, and now when we could offer food in compensation for what we have been spared we shrug our shoulders and with a toss of our heads order our favorite cake. After all we have the money to pay for it - so why should anyone complain, is the general attitude. What we've forgotten is the fact that we wouldn't have the money to buy the food if it hadn't been their country instead of ours directly hit by the war.

Next time you sit down to a meal, how about giving a little thought to those who haven't had a "square" meal to sit down to for the past five years and take only what you can eat. You won't feel underfed and with several million other Americans doing the same thing there will be some Europeans who sued by the plan commission as part will feel fed for the first time after that first meal of food from of the master plan for Detroit. Roberta Hershey, extension foods and nutrition specialist at Michigan State college, says the housewife will find it much easier to make pleasing ter's work before coming to the salads than to cook foods that will please on hot August days.

To make salads attractive, take more care in arrangement. Consider the rim of the salad plate the frame of the picture. Place the lettuce so that the outer edges are just within the rim-never hanging salad picture.

To preserve the crisp, fresh appearance of garden vegetables have the foods for salads a day in advance, and keep them in the refrigerator overnight, Miss Hershey suggests. For a texture contrastuse something crisp with something soft. For example, use celery in fish, egg and vegetable salads; use shredded cabbage or lettuce in shrimp, vegetable or fruit salads.

Tomato slices or wedges, parsicy watercress, sliced cucumber, lemon grapes, pickles or ripe or green olives are excellent for garnishes in fish salads. Fruit salads become more colorful with halves of strawberries, cherries, fresh mint, cubes or red jelly, grapes or nuts as a garnish. Pep up vegetable salads with aspic, cheese or a sprig of

To the Infantile Paralysis Committee

Copies Sent to:

DR. BRUCE H. DOUGLAS, Board of Health MR. ABNER E. LARNED, Chairman, Infantile Paralysis Committee Children's Hospital of Michigan

I have made several offers to give my services without charge in the treatment of polio victims without success. It appears that my being a Chiropractor bars me from contact with sufferers of this dreadful disease, even though we have a very effective method of combating this disease.

Here is how a Chiropractor would go about administering to a case of acute polio:

In the first few days after the first spasm the patient is maintained in a horizontal position in a comfortable well-ventilated room. His paralyzed parts are kept at an even, warm temperature to aid circulation, since the areas subjected to paralysis have poor circulation of both blood and lymph and become cold and clammy.

The average case is given spinal adjustments four times daily and deep tissue manipulation over the affected areas, especially the groin or along the lymphatic vessels.

If paralysis occurs in the lower extremetics, adjustments are indicated for sublinations (displacements of the sacrolliac and lumbar vertebrae. If the upper extremities are affected then specific adjustments are made in corresponding spinal areas.

Water is given the patient until his temperature has subsided, then only fruit juices until the doctor is satisfied with the progress made. This is followed by a light diet which is increased in accordance with Carriel discrition is given to elimination as the bowels and kidneys are usually affected to some extent and sometimes totally paralyzed.

Adviscory of the spine is paramount in policy as in other diseases. I am withing to take and bundle any case of pollo without charge where the parents are unable to pay for this service.

> Realizing the shortage of manpower we have uncomplainingly accepted this type of service and will continue to do so until door-to-door service can be made available. In the meantime, however, we have checked with the postal authorities and find that the mail carrier is not required to leave mail unless he can conveniently and with no trouble on his part pull up in front of your mail box, otherwise you receive your mail at a later date when parking space is available, irrespective of whether or not the mail is of an important nature.

In addition the mail carrier, according to rules may not pick up any mail unless he has some to deliver. In view of the fact that our nearest mail box is the best part of a mile away, how are we to post our mail if it does not suit government regulations to pick it up?

It is apparent that we are getting a special type of mail service, not as complete as other parts of the village where they have door to door deliverys and yet not as good as the rural resident on Rural Free Delivery who gets his mail irrespective as to whether someone is parked in front of his mail box or screen because of his service in the AAF, has returned in MGM's fast action "Adventure" which will be shown at the Colony theatre tomorrow and Saturday. Greer Garson, Academy award winner, who has won fans in support of her superb acting is Gable's leading lady. The picture has a seafaring plot with enough two fisted action and serious drama to satisfy the most adverse critic. Joan Blondell in a supporting role adds much to the plot. Jinx Falkenburg co-starring with Russell Tucker in "Talk About a Lady" is the added feature. This is in a much lighter vein, and with Falkenburg's beauty and Tucker's wit the picture is delightful entertainment. The plot isn't the best Hollywood has had to work with. but it will not bore the movie goer.

RETURNS IN 'ADVENTURE" Clark Gable, long absent from the

Great Lakes College Expects Record Fall Enrollment

Officials of Great Lakes College, Detroit, expecting an unusually heavy enrollment for the opening of the Fall term on September 16. innounced the construction of an addition to the school to provide more space to carry on its veteran training program.

The modern einder block addition vill be used as classroom and drafting room space and will provide for approximately 150 additional students. Flourescent lighting is being installed throughout.

The School of Business Training of the College was recently approved debut Thursday singing "Can't Help for veteran training.
