OUR THANKSGIVING

THE first Thanksgiving officially appointed in America was observed under circumstances from which a useful lesson can be drawn today.

The Pilgrims landed on the storm-swept beach at Plymouth on Dec. 21, 1620, at the very beginning of a long and savage New England winter.

With the aid of friendly Indians, the survivors scratched in a few acres of corn on the edge of the wilderness.

The fervor and sincerity with which this little band of English men and women upon a vast and unknown continent admitted their dependence upon Almighty God is not to be doubted.

Yet, as years passed and more Puritans arrived in Massachusetts, a change came over their devotions.

Judge Samuel Sewall records in his famous diary that upon one occasion a motion in the General Court to appoint a Thanksgiving "fell through."

The disposition to split hairs with the Lord has increased among us, as we have grown in strength and luxury.

COMMEND FARMS' RESIDENT Regardless of what action was taken by the Farms Council on the Pier improvement suggestions submitted by Gerald A. Keating of 205 Oak street, his efforts should be commended.

Mr. Keating, who is not affiliated with any political group, has revealed more concern over Village problems than a host of veteran residents.

By taking the time and trouble to study pier conditions and then offer his recommendations for improvements, Mr. Keating exercised a right that every Village property owner and tax-payer have but very few use.

Mr. Keating should be commended for his civic spirit and interest.

REVIEW THANKS READERS

A word of thanks to the many readers who contributed letters to our "If I Were Editor Contest," though we were not able to publish all of them, each and every letter was read and studied by members of the editorial staff.

Some of the suggestions will be accepted, others won't but in the end the Review will be more of the kind you want than it was before.

The contest is over but don't stop writing.

Student Writes Neighbory News Reporting Best

TO THE EDITOR

The enclosed is being sent in answer to the contest which your paper is now holding, I believe, I send it with the hope that it will at least be worth your trouble reading it.

Although I do not live in Grosse Pointe, I attend St. Ambrose High School which is located in Grosse Pointe. I am a 12th grade student and am 17 years old. I have an opportunity to read your paper when I visit my girl-friends who live in Grosse Pointe, and that is how I heard about your contest.

Thank you for your kind attention.

Yours sincerely Joan Nossal

What I would do if I were editor of the Grosse Pointe Review:

Ready with newsprint: Okay, start those presses rolling! What does that seemingly simple phrase mean to us, probably very little if anything; but to the editor of a newspaper, large or small, it comprises a great deal of mental and physical labor.

After grasping this fact I have concluded that the editor of a community paper bears many responsibilities. If he is to serve his community well, he should strive to make the paper interesting to all its readers, young and old alike.

Thus, should a neighborhood paper be operated, striving to keep the readers interested and giving them news in a friendly, neighborly fashion.

Urges More News About Teen-Agers

TO THE EDITOR:

As it is now, I don't think the Grosse Pointe Review needs many changes. Everyone who gets the Review looks forward to reading it each week.

However, I think a few additions should be made. If I were editor of the Review, I would print a lot more material about teen-agers in general.

Especially important, I think, is the fact that St. Ambrose receives very little publicity in your paper. I notice that a lot is written about St. Paul.

Respectfully yours, Yvonne Vandenhede

WINS IN EDITOR CONTEST

St. Paul High School senior, Joan Krehnbrink is looking through the new Webster dictionary she received from the Grosse Pointe Review for contributing one of the five prize letters in the Review's, "If I Were Editor" Contest.

Play-Up Crime Stories Advises High School Girl

TO THE EDITOR:

What would I do if I were the editor of the Review? I have sat and pondered over this question. Finally, I decided to write to tell you what I would do:

The Grosse Pointe Review has a set-up comparable to the city papers. The news page, the society page, and the school page hold interesting news for all Grosse Pointers.

An honest and intelligent newspaper run by an honest and intelligent editor is one of the most potent forces for good in a community.

The first page of my paper would contain the news stories. Too many news stories are written in a dead, uninteresting fashion.

The other pages would include society, fashions, sports, business, civic projects, and politics.

The editorial page in a small community could be most powerful in correcting social, economic, and political evils.

page over to a local school to paper. I would also ask some good hear their ideas on the news and views and to inject even more of that personal contact into my citizen to write an editorial column for the paper about once a month.

My newspaper would cater to no one class of people but to Americans. Both sides of every problem would be given and only on the editorial page would my ideas be aired.

My newspaper would not be a scandal sheet. To me there is no news in divorce or crime. I would exploit divorce only as a social evil which is breaking down American homes.

Finally I should like to state that my newspaper would have a philosophy taken from the canons of the press—Independence, sincerity, accuracy, truthfulness, impartiality, and fair play.

Sincerely yours, Joanne Krehnbrink, Senior, St. Paul High

Resident Would Feature Review's Want-Ad Results

TO THE EDITOR

An idea that you may find combines editorial and advertising work is to write a success story for your want ads that prove unusually productive of results for the advertiser.

I sold an aged typewriter that still had quite a kick in it within a few hours through a Review ad recently. In all, I had six calls, but the typewriter was carried out the door by a man who called first and then came to see it.

Your head might be "Review advertising the bell for advertiser," but in any case want ads lend themselves to good reading, and I believe Review readers would like to read what they do for others.

Sincerely, Stuart Hanger

Recommends Attention To Pointe Paragraphs

THE EDITOR: I have always found the Review a valuable, well written, willing to print both sides of a question, definitely 100% community-minded. Its editorials are timely, chosen and aptly suited to the locale. It is plain that this paper seeks to serve the public, therefore, I know that its editor is sincere in his desire for constructive suggestions. I am sure that the thought that should be called to attention should be called to the importance of your "Pointe Paragraphs"—perhaps a caption and there throughout the paper, such as, "HAVE YOU READ THE POINTE PARAGRAPHS?" or "DON'T MISS THE POINTE PARAGRAPHS", etc.—from this, I have another question which should interest and which follows. The idea should be developed at great length, but I have tried to be as far as possible for your sake as well as mine.

It is true that a community paper such as the Review depends a great deal on community organizations, schools, churches, etc., for its copy. It is true, also, that these organizations are most eager to see their publicity. However, much interesting material in the latter could provide information, if written, as well as newspaper copy due to the fact that the writers lack information. I am sure, the Review cannot afford to be a course in journalism to its publicity chairman!—but, unfortunately it could publish its policy (in the paper or on cards to distribute) and a key as to what constitutes for it an acceptable newspaper item, i.e. the When-Where-What-Why-How formula, common errors things to omit, information on photos accompanying articles, etc.

Such an arrangement would certainly save untold hours of re-writing for Review editors, result in more complete and interesting copy, and most of all, immeasurable GOOD WILL for a newspaper which has already proved itself most helpful to contributors who take the initiative to ask for help.

"Points for Publicity Chairmen" could well become "as broad cast upon waters," an advertising stunt from which the Review, as well as contributing organizations, would reap untold benefit over the years.

Although I have written publicly for several groups at various times in the past, I have written none during 1947, so feel free to make these observations. Thank you for the opportunity.

Sincerely yours,
Elizabeth S. Riehl, (Mrs. J. W.)

CITY BUSINESS MEN HOLD OPEN HOUSE

Grosse Pointe City police are holding open house after hours or not. Officers on duty late Saturday night found the doors open at six establishments.

The managers, who were notified, secured the doors and reported that nothing was molested.

Park Fowl Slated To Get Axe

At the next Park council meeting, the council will act on an ordinance prohibiting the raising or keeping of fowl in the Village.

According to Village Manager Everitt Lane, the ordinance will affect at least 100 Park residents. It does not include pigeon fanciers and poultry markets.

The action was taken after the Park office received numerous complaints about fowl causing a nuisance in the neighborhood.

The ordinance as prepared by Park Attorney Pierre Hefler reads:

No person shall raise or keep any chickens, ducks, geese, or other like fowl, or any horse, mule, cow, sheep, goat or other animal of like character within the Village.

The provisions of shall not be construed to prohibit the raising of a reasonable number of racing pigeons as a hobby and not for profit, nor the operation of live poultry markets; live fowl shall not be kept for a period longer than necessary to effect sale in the usual course of business; the premises shall be maintained in a neat, clean, and sanitary manner; and no condition shall be permitted to exist which is the source of any offensive odors or noises.

This ordinance shall take effect twenty days after the date of its enactment.

Two-Weeks Vacation Would Bring Kiss For Mr. Barnes

"What Would You do if the Board of Education were to announce a two-weeks vacation beginning tomorrow, 'this delightful question was asked of students by the 'Tower' staff, Grosse Pointe High School's weekly newspaper. Here are their answers:

JOYCE SCHREIBER, 11A: "Head back to New York."

USE CHAINS

4—Use steel tire chains when snow or ice conditions generally prevail. They reduce braking distances for cars and trucks from 40 to 70 per cent, and provide "go" traction often needed to start or climb hills.

5—Carbon monoxide poisoning is dangerous; never warm your car up in a closed garage. Check exhaust system and fuel boards for leaks. Old manifold type heaters should not be used unless frequently examined for leaks and other defects.

6—Good tire treads are desirable because they improve stopping on wet pavement, but do not depend on even new treads or rubber chains to help on ice or packed snow. Tests showed "rubber tire chains," while nice and quiet, actually skid further than bare tires on packed snow and ice.

ILENE BRYANT, 7B: "Faint."
ANNETTE DANNA, 7B: "I wouldn't believe it."
JERRY TOEBEL, 7B: "I'd kiss Mr. Barnes right on the nose."
MISS DORTHEY WOODELL, music teacher: "I'd fly to Colorado."

JOYCE LOGAN, 7B: "I would take the day before the vacation off to rest up for it."
SUZANNE ORPHAL, 7B: "I'd be dumbfounded."

RONALD HORSLEY, 7A: "Break for the door."
PHIL SKILLMAN, 12A: "I'd be so mad I'd just die!"
JEANNE JORSTAD, 12B: "Eat, sleep and do English VII."

PAT BURNS, 12B: "I'd simply be bored to distraction."
SALLY ANDRUS, 10A: "Wouldn't argue."
HARRY MACK, 12B: "Have their heads examined."

HARRIET NOBLE, 11B: "Announce it from the top of the flagpole."

Paula's Hi-Lites

by PAULA BEAUPRE

No doubt turkey with all the delicious trimmings and what the crowd will do come Thanksgiving Day has been the main topic of everyone's conversation during the last month.

Well, let's begin at the beginning. It's Thursday, the 27th and you've just convinced yourself that you must get up and help Mom with the wonderful dinner that she's been planning since the beginning of November.

Mom, of course, probably appreciated your interest and would like to have you help with things as peeling potatoes and such—but when it comes to the turkey, well, she would probably like to take all the honor for it herself.

So while you are twiddling your thumbs, why not add a holiday effect to the dinner table by fashioning a perfect November centerpiece.

Autumn colors and autumn flowers, along with a dash of imagination, provide the right materials for brilliant Thanksgiving centerpieces.

Chrysanthemums, asters, and dahlias are available in yellow, bronze, pinkwhite and soft red. Use flame-colored tritomas, Chinese lantern flowers, bitter sweet berries, and straw flowers to add a warm note.

PAULA

Several colors can be effectively worked together, or you may wish to combine intensities of one color in an interesting way, such as mums ranging from pale yellow to orange-red or bronze; asters from pale pink to rosy purple hues; or straw flowers in yellow, orange and orange-red. Bronze or brass containers are especially suitable for a Thanksgiving centerpiece.

An ingenious New York designer and authority on table settings creates unusual arrangements with vegetables. To make one of them, place a large cabbage in the center of your table and surround it with raw carrots, potatoes, green corn and several sprigs of green leaves. Top the cabbage with green leaves and stand a pair of Pilgrims figures nearby.

Time Marches On! And now you have just finished drying the blues and thinking that you'll never even look at another turkey.

While you're resting comfortably in the living room, you start wondering what the rest of the crowd is doing.

Why not call up some of your friends and take in the evening performance of "Carousel" at the Cass. Lots of people who know saw it their unanimous report was that it was one of the best musicals that they had ever seen. For those of you who prefer music in a more serious nature, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra will offer some marvelous entertainment on the same night.

All right, so you like music but you're more interested in a movie. Well, we can satisfy you too. For a technical musical romance, how about "This Time For Keeps" at the Michigan. Then, of course, there's "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty" at the Adams, "The Heale" at the Fox or "Unconquered" at the United Artist, and here in the Point, the Punch and Judy will feature "The Sea Hawk" with Errol Flynn.

Hope you all have a happy Thanksgiving and are truly thankful, thankful for all your many benefits.

In closing we would like to add a pun we overheard in the village shopping district during the rain and snow Monday.

"This weather is certainly in accord with the holiday spirit—isn't so foul." Valere For Now

150 Parents Visit Pupils at Richard

American Education Week, November 10 to 14, was a busy one at the Richard School, Township of Paroite west out to the homes on Friday previous and with the card was a program showing the nature of American Education Week and extending a general invitation to parents to visit the school. In all about 150 parents visited during the week.

Teachers of 13 classes, each put on a special demonstration lesson. The mothers of the two classes were invited to visit in the room for the entire afternoon. For an hour and a half they saw the class in action. Then the parents discussed the things they observed and asked questions of the teacher. Finally, they all went to the lunchroom where tea was served and they were given a better opportunity to meet one another.

Two classes, those of Miss Nichols and Mrs. Dombrowski, put on dramatizations in the school auditorium. The children planned their own plays, made all of the scenery and helped with the costumes. Every child participated in one way or another. The plays were attended by a large proportion of the parents whose children performed. Mrs. Tomoyama presented an Armistice Day program on November 11th for the parents of the group.

Daily during the week were to see cars driving into the school driveway in the trucks of which were stacks of newspaper and magazines piled high. This was the first part of the season and a great deal of enthusiasm was shown by everyone. In all more than 1000 papers were collected. For their work in bringing waste paper to school the children were furnished with a marionette show on Wednesday, November 26th. They will see the show on Monday and Tuesday on by Mr. Johnson of Highland Park.

The school is getting ready for the next P.T.A. meeting on Dec. 2nd at 8:00 P.M. Parents are cordially invited to be present.

Bells

By JOHN LUMLEY

EDITOR'S NOTE: John Lumley, a senior at Detroit University School, wrote the following article which appeared in the "D.U.S. Writer" a magazine of selected articles and anecdotes contributed by the students. We publish Lumley's "Bells" here because we feel it will be of interest to our readers.

All through your life bells ring. Some are brazen, clamorous; some shrill, giving notice of passing time; some confine you; others release you. All relate to your existence.

Joyous bells ring and chime at your Christmas, when you are given the name which you carry throughout life, whether it be Wilbur Macintosh or John Vandenberg.

More decorous bells remind you (dressed in a new suit, scribbled until you sting) to hurry to Sunday School, where you receive the impression of God and man, which you never forget as long as you live.

In school, bells confine you, control you, keep you from more enjoyable pastimes, force you to learn what must be the basis of all subsequent learning and teaching.

Then come wedding bells, showing so well your exuberance at having ended your long search for a mate, and as you pace up the aisle you hear leaps to praise God.

A little later, on a gloriously clear Sunday morning, bells chiming out of tune reflect your own spirit of joyous gratefulness and summon you to worship the Lord in your own way and give thanks that you are alive.

The most beloved bells of all, Christmas bells, hunting out the old Maxon changes, begin to take on new meaning as your life reaches the main point and tend to you all closer to your Saviour.

Sad moments come in middle age when, solemnly pacing out that last slow walk behind a funeral cortege, you hear bells play a solemn requiem reflecting the depths of aching sorrow you feel for the death of friend or loved one.

These last sounds reverberate from the musty walls of your mind until the brazen tongue of a solemn bell tolls nine tolls for your death, and thus ends your story.

Newcomers Plan Xmas Activities

About fifty members of the Grosse Pointe Newcomers Club enjoyed a very successful progressive bridge party on Friday evening, November 14th. The Howard Poppens, the Miles McKee and the Porter Strothers, all of whom live on Pemberton, opened their homes for the affair. At the end of the evening everyone gathered at the Poppens for refreshments.

The executive board held a recent meeting at the home of the vice-president, Howard Poppens. Tentative plans for the rest of the year were discussed. On December 6th, the Newcomers will join the Young People's Forum of the Memorial Church at a dinner dance. Mrs. Lester Elliott, Mrs. Joan Jankis and Mrs. Clifford Noville are helping with the arrangements.

The annual Christmas party will be held on December 10th. A committee headed by the Bennett Durgone is making plans for a gala evening.

If you have moved to Grosse Pointe from within the greater Detroit area within the past two years and are interested in meeting some new people, call Mr. and Mrs. James Dodge, TU. 2-1016, for further details.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

The Scout Calendar designates the week of November 9-14 as World Friendship Week.

And speaking of friendship, not long ago two of Grosse Pointe's Scout Council personnel lunched in a downtown restaurant with a Girl Guide from England . . . a very special Girl Guide, Miss Beryl Foster.

This English lass, shuns make-up and with a lovely soap and water, fog and dampness complexion has corresponded for some time with a "pen pal" in Detroit, a certain Miss Waugh. Last summer Miss Waugh and her family visited friends named Ambrose in California.

After hearing a lot about Beryl Foster from Miss Waugh, Mr. Ambrose became extremely interested in the English girl, and decided he'd like to do something for her . . . He wrote her a letter . . .

Result: Miss Beryl Foster, 18, a Sea Ranger Girl Guide, boarded a plane, flew across the Atlantic and alighted in New York, where she was met by Mrs. Ted Husing, no less. (Mr. Husing was announcing a football game, or he would have been on hand, too).

Beryl was "shown" Gotham, then she got on a train, stopping off in Detroit and again in Milwaukee; after that on to California where she will be the guest of the Ambrose family for the next four years. During this time she will attend college.

Yes, a very special Girl Guide, Miss Beryl Foster . . . and a very special man, Mr. Ambrose.

About 80 attended the leader's meeting November 18 in the Neighborhood Club, and heard Miss Edith Conant, speaker from National Headquarters. Miss Conant's talk developed into a lively discussion wherein ideas were exchanged and reviewed; thus bringing about a more complete understanding of Scouting's aims by all concerned.

Due to a heavy schedule Miss Conant could not remain long during the refreshment period following the meeting. But she left behind a feeling of greater awareness of the principles of Scouting, and a sincere admiration for herself, one of its major representatives.

Troop 299 indulged in a Sadie Hawkins Party on November 14 in the Richard School playground. Cider, cake, doughnuts and games were enjoyed by the girls, and by the boy guests invited for the occasion.

St. Paul's Troop 579 has sent a package to Europe. Contained therein: numerous oil cloth jean bags.

Camp Fire Girls To Model at Fashion Show

The biggest birthday party Detroit Camp Fire Girls have ever had will be their twenty-fifth, for Sunday, November 30, will be the start of Charter Week, their silver anniversary.

Grosse Pointe Camp Fire Girls and Blue Birds will co-operate in carrying out the celebration by acting as models in the Camp Fire Fashion Show to be held at Kern's on Monday, December 1.

The coming two weeks will be crowded with rehearsal sessions in the city's eight districts in preparation for the city-wide ceremonial, on Founders' Recognition Day, that will be presented Saturday afternoon, December 6 in the Rackham Building auditorium. Each district will be represented by tableaux in a pageant that will combine a story of the growth of Camp Fire through three generations of Detroit girls, with a presentation of activities that are now shared by more than 4,000 girls.

Mrs. Milo R. White's Charter Week committee will invite a Court of Founders, made up of 25 women who either pioneered the Camp Fire movement in Detroit or have made valuable contributions to its expansion, to attend the pageant as honored guests. Other members of the committee are Miss Claire Sanders, Miss Grace Brown, Mrs. John D. M. White and Miss Mary Fransworth.

MSC President Hits High Cost of Education

"A sign of a dangerous weakness in our social system," is what Dr. John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State College, terms the increasing cost to the individual of higher education.

"Whereas in 1925, 11.4 per cent of the State of Michigan's total expenditures was devoted to higher education, in 1946, only 5.5 per cent of its total expenditures was allocated to higher education," he reports. "In other words, as more and more of this state's young men and women have gone to state-supported schools, Michigan has devoted less and less of her income to their education."

To illustrate the point of "increasing cost to the individual," President Hannah reports that this year $4,729,000 of the college's income comes from student fees, while only slightly more, $4,987,000, comes from state appropriations.

"Thus we have a situation," he says, "in which a state-supported institution, founded and maintained to provide inexpensive education for its citizens, must look to outside forces for a very large source of its income."

"Make no mistake about it," he says, "unless we continue to make it possible for the young man or woman of intelligence, personality, and initiative to acquire a general and technical education, irrespective of economic status, we will have choked off our best sources of leadership and, by default, re-established an aristocracy that can lead us only into decadence and disaster."

But Seldom Ate Any

Robin Knew His Potatoes

Englishmen who are bemoaning the rationing of potatoes might find some consolation in the fact that many of the greatest Englishmen of history never had a single spud beside their bully beef.

Rations carried by King Arthur's men certainly contained no such starchy vegetable. Nor did Robin Hood and Little John ever plot against the sheriff while munching a steaming spud in Sherwood Forest.

"The reason for all this," explains Mabel Johnson, research editor of the World Book Encyclopedia, "is the fact that England never had a potato before the 1500's!"

According to history, continued the research expert, potatoes were first found in the New World by early explorers who brought the plant back to Europe. Potatoes were eagerly accepted by European farmers because they grow underground and are out of the reach of most crop pests.

Fossils Tell Past History to M Group

Hundreds of fossil specimens of insects and plants which lived 35 million years ago were discovered by University of Michigan geology students and faculty this summer and have been added to collections in the University Museums.

The discovery of the fossils was made during the summer field session at the University's Camp Davis, near Jackson Hole, Wyo. The fossils were found in southern Montana, where a party of about 20 faculty members and students were making a general geological study of the area.

Quello's Radio Quips

A pair of Jacks will open complete hockey coverage on WJR. Red Wing Boss, Jack Adams, and veterans newsman sports man, Jack White, will team up on a new Hockey Highlight program Tuesday and Thursday 5:30 to 5:45 starting December 9th. The big station is featuring complete seasonal sport coverage more than ever before... fourteen different sportscasters on WJR this year!

Complete staff overhauling at WJBK must be about at end now with the recent announcement of Arthur Sutton, seasoned radio veteran, as News and Special Events Director. Within the past few months, the station has announced a new station manager, sales manager, program director, publicity director, News Editor, Women's Editor, and several new pieces of talent.

One native Detroit profited directly from the Royal Wedding. Bud Guest, the goodwill reporter at large, received three hand-knitted overcoats for eggs as a result of his broadcast last week in which he ribbed the gift of knitted egg-warmers sent to Princess Elizabeth and Philip. Apparently, egg-warmers are in general use in Britain where homes are heated largely by fireplace rather than furnace. The idea is to slip one of the hen fruit ulsters over the exposed portion of the egg after it has been boiled to try to keep it warm while the "marster" finishes his grapefruit.

If you're planning to go into the broadcasting business, you better wade thru the Federal Communication Commission's 115 page "Economic Study of Standard Broadcasting."

The findings of the study among the new stations that began operation since V-J Day show that the ones in the black are the stations located in communities where there were no local broadcasters before.

The stations that tried to buck the old timers are keeping their books in red ink. Before V-J Day there were a few less than a thousand standard broadcasting stations on the air. By the end of next year, the FCC expects the figure to be doubled.

Ex-Yank Cameraman To Speak

Mr. Mason Pollock, former staff photographer of Yank Magazine, will address the Grosse Pointe Camera Club on his experiences as a photographer at the Club's regular meeting on Tuesday evening, December 2.

Mr. Pollock has a great fund of experience, gained as the Yank photographic correspondent covering the war activities in the Pacific, for a period of over two years. Prior to his war services as a Navy photographer, he was in free-lance work; and since his return to civilian life, he is operating in the business of commercial and free-lance photography.

The lecture will be illustrated by enlargements taken by Mr. Pollock on his various assignments, which include Iwo Jima, the East Indies, and the Philippines.

Mr. Lester McDowell, President of the Club, invites the interested public to attend the meeting, which will be held in the club-rooms of the Neighborhood Club.

Pointe Swim, Court Squads Gird for Season's Openers

By ROB PHILLIPS With the close of Grosse Pointe's Blue Devils football season, Coaches Frank Banach and Ed Wernet are busy shaping up their varsity swimming and basketball squads.

Head Coach Banach is beginning his nineteenth year at the High School and as usual will be getting another swimming team in condition. Last year Banach boasted an undefeated season for his Varsity tankers.

Coach Banach has an encouraging number of promising athletes getting into condition for the opening meet here on December 9 with Hazel Park.

Among those returning lettermen from last year are Art Beck, the previous season's backstroke, viewing the 200 yard free-style event.

Michigan state champion breast-stroker Bob Jenks, who is returning for his third year, is a "natural" for the 120 yard individual medley relay, along with the 100 yard breaststroke that he will probably be swimming through-out the season.

Bert Spurrier, also returning, presents a problem to Mr. Banach. It is a question whether a knee injury sustained in football some years ago will hamper his talents as a free-styler.

Banach has timed most of his swimmers already but as yet the times are unofficial. As for basketball, it seems that Coach Ed Wernet also has an abundance of talent.

Returning lettermen include Tom Willson, who starred last year. Herb Gerhard has a probable starting berth for the opening contest. Two new-comers are Vince Schook, a rangy center; and Baird Johnson. Both boys played excellent seasons last year with Coach Ray Fisher's Reserves.

Coach Wernet is aiming his five at a victory over Hazel Park here on December 5 in the season's opener.

PROSPECT Steve Owen, coach of the New York Giants of the professional football league, was a spectator of the recent University of Detroit-St. Mary's football battle.

Owen selected Gene Malinowski, Titan quarterback, as Detroit's ablest performer, and had warm praises for the big senior. "Malinowski handles a team from the T Formation better than any other quarterback I've seen," Owen said.
