To Discuss City Issues

Endeavoring to secure the opinions of the public regarding the major issues in connection with the writing of a City Charter, the Grosse Pointe Park Charter Commission has called a public hearing for 7:30 p.m. next Monday night in the Commission Chambers of the Municipal building.

For many weeks, the Charter group has been holding important meetings developing questions to submit to taxpayers in order to secure their ideas in a public hearing held in conjunction with a meeting of the Charter Commission. From the first meeting, it has been the consensus of opinion of the group, that the sentiments and ideas of the taxpayers hould be heard and given con-

Major points which they desire to have discussed next Monday night are the following:

- 1. Form of Government. 2. Size of Governing Body.
- 3. Method of Election of Gov erning Body.

4. Salary of Governing Body and Mayor. 5. Method of Selection of Mayor. 6. What Additional Officers Should Be Elected.

7. Should any Independen Boards Be Established?

8. Any other Specific Matters. All families living in the Park appearing on the Water Board mailing lists are to receive postal cards calling their attention to the Public Hearing next Monday night and referring them to the issues to be discussed published above.

CITY RULE IN WOODS

History will be written in Grosse Pointe Woods next Monday as electors go to the polls to vote on City Incorpora-

How to vote in the matter is, of course, each taxpayer's prerogative. But, it is important in passing to point out events leading up to the election and comment upon them, for the purpose of refreshing the memory of the electorate and helping to determine their decision.

The City of Grosse Pointe was first to leave the Township in 1934. Grosse Pointe Farms voted to incorporate as a City in 1949 and the Park was next in its spring election this year, leaving only Grosse Pointe Shores and Grosse Pointe Woods in the Township. With an estimated population now approaching the 10,000 mark, the Woods finds itself with a Charter adopted in 1927 when as late as 1940 the population was only 2,805. As so admirably stated by Commissioner Leon D. Ratcliffe, "It would therefore be surprising if an acting Charter Commission did not find some respects in which our present charter could be improved and changed to more nearly suit the needs and requirements of our enlarged municipality.'

The basic difference between changing from a village to a city is rather simple. It merely means withdrawing from the Township and adding the Township's functions to City Government.

It would seem that the correct conclusion should be that rejection of the change is only delaying the inevitable. The Citizens Study Committee unanimously recommended:-

The City Study Commission has found no disadvantages from city incorporation, some definite advantages, and man ypossible advantages. We, therefore, unanimously recommend that steps be taken to incorporate the City of Grosse Pointe Woods" without change of boundaries.

The Review goes along with their recommendation.

RECOMMENDED FOR GRADUATES

EDITOR'S NOTE: Once in a while a newspaper man departs from the sordid detailed writing of routine editorials, oblivaries, violent accidents and lawn fetes to unload a philosophy which really carries a message. Such a "gem" was written by Lafayette Young, publisher of the Des Moines, Iowa Capital. The former United States senator from Iowa left the following message, "If I Were Twenty-one" to be read to his grandchildren on their twenty-first birthday. The Review recommends for reading by high school graduates, as well as college graduates

Every grown man thinks that if he had another chance and his age were twentyone he would set the world afire in the way of achievement. He thinks he would omit every mistake which he feels he has made and make everything count. It is perfectly right for every man to feel this way but it is perfectly right for him to know that if he were starting over again, he would duplicate his former mistakes and make more colossal errors. A man who has succeeded reasonably might well succeed better. Those who have failed would undoubtedly fail again.

If I were twenty-one I would devote more time to sport and when I worked I would work harder than I have ever Tbeen able to work.

I would not search the world over for a location.

I would not aspire to sudden wealth

nor would I make my standards all on a financial basis.

At the age of twenty-one a man never expects to die. He attends funerals as a looker on without deep concern. He feels sorry for the person in the coffin but the thought never enters his head that sometime or other people will be standing around his grave. If I were twenty-one I would start with a firm belief that it is to be an eternal life after death. I would carry this belief with me in all my ambitions and undertakings.

I would understand that though a great American has said that opportunity knocks but once that opportunity is knocking all the time in all lives where there is: any brain power co-operating with physical strength.

If I were twenty-one I would form friendships of the right kind intending that I would be useful to my friends and that I would expect them to be useful to me. Thus I would have a co-operative organization for our mutual welfare.

I should not ask my friends to indorse my note and seldom would I ask any one of them to loan me money. Fortunes that endure are the fortunes which start with one's own strength and will to achieve.

I would try to make my fortune grow and I would enjoy a considerable part of it as I went along.

I would realize that speculations seldom make permanent fortunes. I have often read of young men and from the benches.

Roseville 9332

young women inheriting fortunes from their kindred. I Never have heard of such fortunes doing permanent service to those who came into possession of them. I would not sit down to live off a fortune.

I would not be ambitious to build a home half as big as a township. I would not do this if I had the money. I would not put this in my plan. A well-known society has frequently been singing during the last few years about aspiring to a cottage by the road to be a friend of man. Poets would not say this was good poetry but I believe the doctrines are good.

I would learn as early as I could that whatever came to me must come in joy and sorrow as a part of my life.

I would learn that joys cannot be compelled to appear and sorrows cannot forever be avoided.

I would try to have the common sense to enjoy my joys and the fortitude to endure my sorrows.

I would not be moving every month of the

I would not be in a hurry to leave the place where I was born. It is the thought of the young American that he must break away and go into new fields. Many have adopted this plan. I would not object to staying at home,

I would not object to my habitation having a name.

I would think it were a delight to remember the old trees and the grass.

I would fight the good fight.

I would aspire to having a wife and ildren, thus I would have a home If I were able to do so I would want to travel to see the interesting parts of the world.

I would never repudiate a debt. I would never lie to anybody.

I'd know something about the sky. I would know all that science could tell about the beginning of everything. I would do everything to maintain

I would read good books.

I would rejoice if my children could make music on instruments or with their voices.

I would realize from the opportunities afforded by America and the lives of our great Americans that there was no place on earth like our own land.

I would attend all patriotic celebra-

I would not object to belonging to social clubs but I would remember that my home was the place for my hopes and

I would pray night and morning and cultivate every living thing which could bear leaves and flowers and when the end came, thus surrounded and following these hopes and aspirations with the sunlight painting its picture through the trees and over the gables, I would bless God

By means of your newspaper I yould like to express the views of many corner lot owners. I have interviewed them concerning proposal No. 3 to be voted the residents of Grosse Poitne Woods on Monday, June 19, 1950.

The supposed benefits of a corner lot are:

1. No cost for side drive. 2. Neighbors only on one side.

3. A better chance to beautify the home. But actually the detrimental side is far greater: 1. (a) Initially corner lots cost

(b) Taxes are higher.

(c) Some of the residents of corner lots had to establish the side walk, all corner residents must maintain or replace any future unsafe side walk.

(d) Higher fence cost. 2. (a) No privacy, entire public on the other side.

(b) Kids and grownups cutting corners destroying grass.

(c) Corners prove to be a hangout for all the kids on the street and a gathering spot for teen-age puppy love.

Library Spotlight By JEAN TAYLOR of the Grosse Pointe Public Library Staff

As one resident put it, "With the lake at our doorstep, why hould we leave Grosse Pointe in the summer? We prefer a winter holiday." There is truth to this. We invite all the "stay-athomers" to make use of their library this summer.

All agencies of the Public Library will be closed Saturdays orm June 24 until Labor Day. t is hoped that in this ares where the five-day week pre-vails, this will cause little or no inconvenienc.e On the contrary, James A. During the school year the children flock to the library in butor to Furioso, a magazine a steady stream from the Vernier School next door, Many nearby residents, however, may not know that there is service at this station for adults as well. Although the hours are limited and the collection necessarily small. Miss Woodcock is glad to take requests for any books available in the system, bringing with her each Wednesday, the titles previously requested.

It is interesting to note that the Shores Station was the first public library to be opened in Grosse Pointe. On January 1 1922 the Wayne County Library at the request of Mr. George She received a special award Osius, organized a station for her efforts her senior year. Grosse Pointe Shores in the Vil-Joyce was news editor of The lage Hall. That was the only Spectator, the bi-weekly student public library in Grosse Pointe Township until February 1926 was editor-in-chief of The Blade, when Mr. George Elworthy asked to have a station in the Neighbodhood Club, then located in

Grosse Pointe Farms. The library report for the first year the Shores Station was open show 681 books issued for home use. At that time the station was open Wednesdays 7:30 to 9 p.m. and Saturday 2 to 4 p.m. Last year almost 4,500 books circulated at the Shores and it will have a substantial gain again this year

And now we are off for a few weeks vacation, during which time this column will be discontinued. What books are we taking with us?

We wish to express our appreiation to Mr. Blackburn and Miss Toni Ebner for the cooperation they have given us. A novice in the pen-to-paper school, we have had the helping hand of Mr. Orr and each member of the library staff and we appreciate the charity with which this column has
