APPOINTED CHAIRMAN

Joseph F. Verhelle and Geo. W. Stark. Leonard N. Simons, Regional Chairman for the Detroit Observance of Brotherhood Week, has announced the appointment of George W. Stark and Joseph F. Verhelle to serve with him as vice-chairmen.

Stark, well-known columnist and official historian for the City of Detroit, has long been interested and active in furthering the cause of inter-faith understanding.

Among the many civic positions held by Verhelle, President of the City Bank, are Trustee of St. John Hospital, President of the Catholic Family Center, and First Vice President of the United Service Organizations of Metropolitan Detroit.

1952 Brotherhood Week, February 17 to 24, is sponsored nation-wide by the National Conference of Christians and Jews and locally by the Detroit Round Table of Catholics, Jews and Protestants.

"Better understanding is always created by men of different faiths working together," stated Simons. "This will be the first time that three Detroit men, each representing a different faith, will work together as chairmen of Detroit's part in this national observance. A Catholic, a Protestant and a Jew... all getting behind this one big Brotherhood celebration. Our general objective is to make brotherhood work 52 weeks a year every year."

From early morning the newsboys will be at intersections at points all over Grosse Pointe. Make sure you do your part.

Join your neighbors and friends through the purchase of a Goodfellow paper and "Be a Goodfellow."

Concerning Christmas Decorations

Certain rules have been set up by the Fire Departments for Christmas decorations, ornaments and Christmas tree installations in public places in the coming holiday season.

These simple rules may well mean the difference between a safe Yule season or a hazardous one for families and guests.

1. No paper decorations to be used.

2. All decorations must be eight feet above the floor.

3. All decorations must be flame-proofed.

4. All decorations must be kept a safe distance from lights.

5. No natural decorations can be used except wreaths which must be spaced at least ten feet apart.

6. No Christmas trees will be permitted without special permission from the Fire Chief. Where permission is granted, trees must be treated to reduce flammability and all ornaments must be non-inflammable.

The following formula for the reduction of flammability of Christmas trees is accepted by this office:

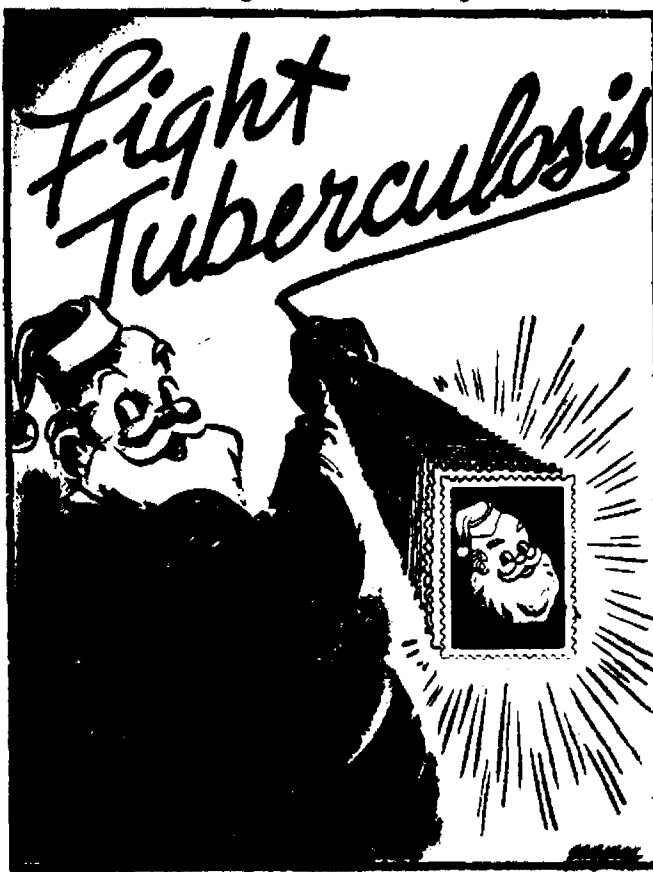

Combustion can be reduced by allowing the tree to absorb a solution of calcium chloride. This is done in the following manner: Use calcium chloride to one-fourth (1/4) the weight of the tree in pounds and mix this in one and one-half pints of water to the pound of calcium chloride.

Then cut the tree at the bottom on a diagonal slant and place the tree in the solution for a few days so that it will absorb this chemical mixture. Also, use a Christmas tree stand with a container for water in which the base of the tree is placed. This keeps it moist during the time it is used for decorative purposes.

If these regulations do not fully cover your plans for Christmas decorations, kindly contact the Fire Chief for assistance and approval.

FOR THE HOME
It is well that the foregoing regulations also be observed in private homes as a safety precaution for your family and guests.

Library Spotlight

By Jean Taylor

We stole in at the rear of Wayne's State Hall, the other morning to hear the British novelist, Elizabeth Bowen, address the students. As we hesitated at the entrance, a young colleen caught up with us. "You must be going to hear Miss Bowen. So am I, and" she continued, "why, oh why will people insist on calling her English? She is as Irish, as Irish . . . well, as Irish as I am." Judging from those twinkling black eyes, we decided Miss Bowen must be very Irish indeed.

Elizabeth Bowen was born in Ireland and spent a great part of her childhood there. That it still holds a share of her affections is evident in the number of Irish scenes and people that find their way into her stories.

In private life she is Mrs. Alan Cameron and has made her home in England for some time. She has long been one of our enthusiasms and if you haven't made her acquaintance, we suggest that you sample some of her books.

One of her earlier efforts, "The House in Paris," she mentioned in her talk, as her own favorite among her novels. The story is built about the meeting of two young persons, strangers to each other, in a strange house in Paris, their developing romance and how this chance meeting radically changed the lives of all the principal characters in the book.

Her first novel, "The Hotel," written some twenty years ago, has for its background, Italy, a country which she knows well. It is a "witty ironic picture of social life among English ex-patriots in a shabby genteel Italian hotel."

One of her best-known novels, "Death of the Heart," is "a psychological study of a young girl, whose innocence and honesty are brought into conflict with the sophisticated futility of life in her half brother's home in Regency Park, London."

"The Heat of the Day" is laid in London during the second world war. The Atlantic Monthly said of this "Imagine a Graham Greene thriller projected through the sensibility of Virginia Woolf and transcribed with a certain amount of Jamesian over-elaboration" and you have "The Heat of the Day."

Elizabeth Bowen, admittedly a disciple of Henry James and Frost, is frequently likened by critics to Virginia Woolf. In her talk to the students, she confessed her admiration for this author, who had been a close friend. She chatted informally about writing in general.

In discussing the physical side of writing, she mentioned the fact that Miss Woolf, for some time before her death, because of doctor's orders, had been compelled to limit her writing to two hours a day. Yet, according to Miss Bowen, she accomplished as much in those two hours as her writing colleagues did in their regular eight hour day. Also, we were told, Virginia Woolf always wrote standing up, at a shoulder high desk. Others among her friends, said Miss Bowen, kneel down like camels and write on the floor. Of course we know Mr. Churchill prefers to write in bed but we never realized before that there were so many ways of putting pen to paper.

Not all of Elizabeth Bowen's books will have a wide appeal. "Collected Impressions," a volume of miscellaneous essays, is an uneven book of limited interest.

"Bowen's Court," is biographical, the story of the Bowen family and of the house in Ireland, Bowen's Court, for which the author has a lasting affection. She says of it . . . "A Bowen, in the first place made Bowen's Court. Since then, with a rather alarming sureness, Bowen's Court has made all the succeeding Bowens."

Her last book, "Sherbourne Hotel," released only a few weeks ago, we have not seen. From advance reports, we judge that this too would have a limited audience. It centers about an old hotel in Dublin and traces the civic and social growth of this city.

Elizabeth Bowen's short stories should not be overlooked. "Ivy Grips the Steps" is one of our favorite collections. It is not so much what the author says as that which she leaves unsaid, that makes these stories notable.

OCD Tells Dangers of Germ Warfare

(This is the first of a series of six short articles on biological warfare prepared by the Michigan Office of Civil Defense. The purpose of these articles is to outline the dangers of biological warfare and to describe the counter measures that can be taken. This material is based on the Civil Defense booklet "What You Should Know About Biological Warfare.")

What is biological warfare?

Biological warfare is the technique, well-known to our enemies, of attacking this nation with living agents such as plant-killing insects, with poisons or toxins, such as those that come from bacteria, and with special kinds of chemicals, such as weed killers. Biological warfare is often called "germ warfare," but actually it is broader than that because it includes attacks with chemical agents.

Biological warfare, Civil Defense officials emphasize, is a special weapon for use against special targets. It does not kill or sicken every person in a whole state or even one city.

Attacks by insects, toxins or chemicals can be aimed at people, animals or food crops, or all three at once. Such attacks can be launched by the armed forces of an enemy nation or by secret agents.

Biological warfare is not a secret super weapon. Civil Defense officials emphasize, is a special weapon for use against special targets. It does not kill or sicken every person in a whole state or even one city.

There's nothing new about biological warfare—but the techniques of waging such warfare have been rapidly developed in the last 50 years. In history, germs, not generals, have more than once decided the outcome of battle.

Plague cut down the Crusaders at the gates of Jerusalem. Typhus riddled the Moors in Spain and dysentery thinned the ranks of Napoleon's Grand Army as it moved on Moscow. These were natural germs, naturally spread. The danger today is from biological agents deliberately spread as a weapon of war.

America's defenses against diseases, however, are about the best in the world. Civil Defense authorities point out.

Restaurants are graded, drinking water is purified, foods are checked for purity, rats and other disease-carrying vermin are constantly fought, mosquito-breeding pools are treated. America's success against "natural germ warfare" is shown by the record of diseases such as smallpox and typhoid fever. Fifty years ago, these diseases caused wholesale epidemics. Now they are very rare.

(The second installment will deal with the methods of biological warfare.)

City-County Building May Get Coffee Spot

Architects in charge of the City-County Building are considering a coffee-and-milk bar in the basement for the 3,600 persons who will be employed in the offices.

No space was allotted for such purpose in the original plans, but municipal and county department heads contended that it is necessary, saying that there is no adequate restaurant near the site.

Malcolm Sterling, the building architect, said that space in the basement is available.

Johnny Hazely, former Wayne University football star, is in Germany with the Army. Hazely is leading scorer in the service football conference playing with the Heidelberg Lions (an Army team) which won the Conference title.

DUS Loses To St. Paul

By Nick Boos

D.U.S. dropped its third game of the season to a very shabby St. Paul five last Friday night. The game was played at D.U.S. and was a very exciting one although the home boys didn't do so well.

The game was hard fought with both teams having their ups and downs. D.U.S. was plagued by some very fancy shooting on the part of St. Paul. D.U.S. jumped off to an early lead but at half time the Flyers led by the score of 15-13.

High point man for D.U.S. was their 6-ft. 5-in. center Bruce Garbutt with eight. Scoring honors for the game went to Walters of St. Paul who dropped in 19.

These teams meet later in the season and St. Paul can expect trouble.

Church Has Its Annual Music Festival

The quartet members are: Hazel Carter, Stella Anderson, Phillip Steding, and Fred Brandt.

The choir will be directed by George McLeod. Nova Bransby will play "The Shepherd's Carol" and Trumpet Voluntary on the organ.

SCOTTY McWILLIAMS

TUGGER ZEKE

Bearded, overall-clad, barefooted hillbilly, Tugger Zeke, makes his debut at Chesterfield Arena, Gratiot near 10-Mile road, Friday night with the program beginning at 8:30 o'clock, against the as yet undefeated Chief Lone Eagle, in the main wrestling event.

The Eagle has defeated his every opponent with comparative ease in his appearances at Chesterfield, but in Tugger he meets his largest opponent, being considerably outweighed by the colorful southern boy.

The semi-final is a bout which the local promoter says he has been leading up to by signing Paul Orth to short bouts. It involves Scotty McWilliams, fast becoming the favorite of favorites at Chesterfield and "Tarzan," McWilliams was hard-pressed last week but managed to get over Ray Clark. This set him in solid with the fans who are mixed in their belief that he will be able to get over the rugged and experience Orth.

El Capitan, the grappler who made headlines when he landed in the Saratoga hospital for surgery which required 18 stitches to close a wound in his eye, meets Bob (Porky) Wallis, in one of two short bouts. Ferenz Sixsax mixes with Johnny (Rough-and-Ready) Gates in the other. The latter proved last week that his broken nose, suffered here recently, has completely healed, and he is as ever ready to meet all comers.

All Can Take Part In Fighting TB During Christmas Seal Sale

Among the Christmas mail received recently in many American homes was the Christmas Seal letter, containing sheets of the 1951 Christmas Seal which features the jolly face of Santa Claus and bears the Double-barred Cross in red, registered insignia of the National Tuberculosis Association and its 3,000 affiliates, of which the Tuberculosis and Health Society of Wayne County is one.

Conducted by the voluntary tuberculosis associations, the Christmas Seal Sale opened on November 19 and will continue until December 25. In Detroit and Wayne County, proceeds from the Seal Sale finance the Tuberculosis and Health Society's tuberculosis prevention and control program.

Christmas Seals are an investment in man and support a nation-wide organized attack by the American people against TB, a disease which is killing at the rate of 100 persons a day in this country. The people's fight against tuberculosis dates back to June of 1904 when a group of doctors and laymen, determined to take action against the disease which was then the leading cause of death in America, banded together and organized the National Tuberculosis Association.

Since the NTA was founded, voluntary associations have been formed in every state of the Union, and in Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Canal Zone—all supported by the sale of double-barred Christmas Seals.

Three years after the NTA was organized, in 1907, the first Seal Sale in this country was conducted in Wilmington, Del., to raise funds for the treatment of a small group of needy tuberculosis patients. The following year, in 1908, the Christmas Seal Sale became nationwide and has now become a holiday tradition. Double-barred cross Christmas Seal funds make possible a year-round program to combat TB on four broad fronts: health education, case-finding, rehabilitation, and support of medical research. Certainly every one of us is interested in preventing and controlling tuberculosis, in making our American communities healthier ones in which to live. And all of us can take a direct part in fighting TB by buying and using Christmas Seals. For Christmas Seal funds help in the conquest of tuberculosis, a disease which leads the causes of death in the United States in the age group from 15 to 35.

Here's Low Cost Cranberry Dessert

Cranberries and oranges combine with economical nonfat dry milk into a delicious dessert—cranberry refrigerator cake. It is tasty but not too rich. It is highly nutritious but it is low on calories and cost.

Nonfat dry milk replaces egg whites in the dessert and it gives a smooth fluffy texture that literally makes this cranberry refrigerator cake melt in your mouth. A spicy touch is added by the coating made of finely crushed gingersnap crumbs.

A luscious whipped topping made of nonfat dry milk garnishes the cranberry refrigerator cake. Nonfat dry milk is milk with only the fat and water removed and it contains these important milk nutrients—protein, calcium, riboflavin and lactose. It is available at the grocer's in one-pound packages which cost about 40 cents and yield five quarts of nonfat milk.

Here is our cranberry refrigerator cake with whipped topping:

Cranberry Refrigerator Cake
(Makes 8 servings)

Cake
1 tablespoon (1 envelope) plain unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup orange juice
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon grated orange rind
1/2 cup sugar
1 16-oz. can jellied cranberry sauce, beaten
1/2 cup Starlac (nonfat dry milk)
1/2 cup water

Crumb Mixture
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
3 tablespoons butter, melted
1 cup finely crushed gingersnap crumbs, lightly packed

Blend together gingersnap crumbs, butter and orange rind. Press on sides and bottom of 8-inch spring form pan. Soften gelatin in cold water about 5 minutes. Dissolve over hot water. Stir in orange and lemon juices, orange rind, sugar and cranberry sauce. Chill until mixture begins to thicken. Sprinkle nonfat dry milk over top of 1/2 cup water. Beat with rotary beater or electric mixer until stiff, about 7 to 10 minutes. Fold whipped nonfat dry milk into gelatin mixture. Pour into crumb lined pan. Chill in refrigerator until firm, about 2 to 3 hours. Remove from mold. Garnish with sweetened Whipped Topping if desired.

Prescription for Living Reviewed for Baha'is

"At the time of death, we should be happy," said Mrs. Wilma Ridley, speaking before a group of Baha'is and their friends in the Points on Friday evening, "because it is like a plant being removed from a small pot to a larger vessel, or a bird being released from its cage. This purchase of man's life in this existence is to prepare himself for the life to come, to launch himself on a trip to his dearest dream. Life is a one-way ticket and we cannot go back to correct our mistakes. We should therefore give much thought to our actions here, and realize that we should prepare carefully for our step into the next world, not knowing when it will come. It should have even more care than we give to the preparation for marriage or acquiring a job.

"If a man has not planted good deeds and good character in this world," Mrs. Ridley continued, "he will not reap them in the next. There is reward and punishment in the next world just as there is in this, so man should not feel that just because there appears to be lack of justice in some cases on this earth, he will slide by in the next world." Mrs. Ridley continued the review of the book, "Prescription for Living" which is being conducted by the Baha'is the first Friday of each month, and copies of this book are available at the Pierce Public Library.

Club Members See Holiday Table Settings

Later in the afternoon, Mrs. Vaskey Nabedian, who is noted for her many blue ribbons won in both national and local flower shows, gave a demonstration of holiday table settings.

The Club members brought gift-wrapped Christmas presents which are to be distributed to the residents of the Thompson Home.

Christmas Seals Available Here

"We benefit ourselves when we buy Christmas Seals for we are helping to support the Tuberculosis and Health Society of Wayne County, an organization which is working the year round to conquer tuberculosis in our community." Mrs. A. G. Herreshoff, Grosse Pointe Seal Sale Chairman for the double-barred cross, said today.

"The Tuberculosis and Health Society of Wayne County is one of 3,000 affiliates of the National Tuberculosis Association and this current Christmas Seal campaign will finance the fight against tuberculosis for 1952," Mrs. Herreshoff went on to say.

At the same time, Mrs. Herreshoff announced that double-barred cross Christmas Seals will be available at a booth in the Grosse Pointe Bank and at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club starting Monday, December 10.

Mrs. Herreshoff urged that everyone buy their double-barred cross Christmas Seals and help to conquer TB.
