Other than Easter, April will see the red planet Mars assume prominence in the southeastern Christian Science sky. At the start of the month, Mars will rise about three hours after sunset but will continue to rise earlier and earlier, as well as increase in brightness, as the month progresses.

"By the end of the month, it will reach the mid-point in the aky at midnight and will become the brightest object in the whole sky, surpassing even Sirius, the Dog Star, in brilliance," Professor Losh says.

Mr. Clarence Messner, Principal of Grosse Pointe's Richard School, has found such personal satisfaction in his study of ornithology but more than that, he has imbued many others, both adults and children with the desire to know more about this fascinating subject.

Mr. Messner is co-editor with Homer D. Roberts of a delightful little book, Enjoying Birds In Michigan. This is a 1952 publication of the Michigan Audubon MISSISSIPPI by Olen S. Pettin-Society and merits wide recogni-

A considerable portion of the book is given to 'Some Common Michigan Birds We Should Know.' "The descriptions are simple, short and factual, thus making for quick and easy use." Seventy-nine birds are here included. According to Mr. Messner, boy scouts are expected to know some forty birds. Three hundred would make a fairly complete list and possibly two hundred could be known by the student. The marginal line drawings by Homer Roberts are pleasing and effective.

THE FEELING IS MUTUAL-Heedless of their 1752 finery, Busan Neubauer and Stephen Lawlor prove to be two-fisted cake eaters as they dig into the giant pastry honoring the 200th anniversary of mutual insurance in America. At a "Conference on the Future" being held in New York, top scientists and scholars are making an "informed guess" on future economic and social trends.

PANE-FUL JOB-The vast, gleaming front of the United Nations Secretariat Building on New York's East River gets its periodic window cleaning. Manhattan housewives who complain about spring cleaning, and the problems of shining up the glass panes, might compare their own windows with the thousands of square feet of glass that this window cleaner must polish—and heave a sigh of relief

Fortune magazine, in its March issue, denounces Westbrook Peg-ler and praises Irving Brown, above, special AFL representa-tive in Europe, for his activities for democracy abroad.

NO. 1 EVANGELIST-America's No. 1 evangelist, 35-year-old Billy Graham, greets Britain with a smile upon his arrival in Southampton. Slated to address 500 members of the British clergy, Graham will exchange views on programs of religion in England and in the U.S. at a meeting in UPSY-DAISY - Without wear and tear on a sofa, two Korean children enjoy their favorite game, Nul, in the war-shaken capital of Korea. The acrobatic game, in which one child leaps up from a board as another child lends impetus by coming down on the other end, is a traditional pastime with Korean girls.

YOUNG SCIENTIST-Eighteen-year-old Paul Messinger of Los Angeles, one of the nation's top young scientists, hopes to be designing rocket ships for high-speed travel in the not-too-distant future. A model airplane enthusiast since he was six, Paul has just been graduated from high school and now plans to prepare for his career by studying aeronautical engineering at California Institute of Technology. Here, he puts the engine in a scale model of a midget air racer of his own design. The young scientist built an original radio-control device which he uses to maneuver

The Easter Bunny Lays an Egg

Of course, it is no news when the Easter Bunny lays an egg. The Easter Bunny has been laying eggs for years. But has the E. B. ever found at your house convenient little nests for his eggs, like those atop the handsome party cupcakes pictured here? The cakes may be made at home—with instant white cake mix, if time is short—or bought at your bakery counter. Cover them with frosting and plenty of snowy white or delicately pastel-tinted coconut; then let the children take over. They will love arranging gay jelly bean eggs in these natural little nests.

Eyecatcher At Chicago Auto Show

One of the eyecatchers attracting record crowds at the 44th annual Chicago Automobile Show is Buick's super-powered "dream" car, the XP-300, with its aluminum body and gold hubcaps. Powered by a 335 horse-power super-charged V-8 engine, this car is described by Buick as "a laboratory on wheels." It was built for experimental purposes only and Buick engineers say that some of the special features now undergoing tests on the XP-300 may some day appear in the family automobile of the future.

VISITING THE ALMA MATER-Film star Susan Hayward receives an orchid as a token of affection from the students at Prospect Heights High School in Brooklyn, N. Y., during her visit to her old alma mater. Pinning on the flower is Mary Alice Bradley, president of the school's General Organization, while looking on at left is Joan Lamb. Miss Hayward is in New York in connection with her picture, "With a Song in My Heart."
