

Grosse Exaggerations?

By A. PRYOR

It was almost worth being a temporary invalid, to meet the emanensis of Jennings Hospital, one Henry Muell. Among other things Mr. Muell dabbles in ceramics, and decided to make a small donkey for Mrs. Roosevelt, whom he greatly admires. We had the pleasure of reading some of the correspondence between Mr. Muell and Mrs. Roosevelt's secretary and were amused at the following excerpt from one of Mr. Muell's letters: "Of course he is a symbol of the Democratic party and I do believe Mrs. Roosevelt will like him very much. Mr. Roosevelt might get a kick out of him also." With justifiable pride, he showed us Mrs. Roosevelt's letter, thanking him, and assuring him that she would certainly keep the little muell.

In the vicinity of the Hospital the other day, we saw a small boy walking along the street. When he came abreast of the hospital, he looked up at the windows and shouted in a ten year old treble, "Hope you're all O. K. in there."

A Grosse Pointer, who runs her small household with the aid of a lone colored girl, was upset to find that her electric bills were mounting to alarming proportions. She telephoned whoever-you-call-for-surch and a mechanic was sent to investigate. He didn't have to search very far before solving the mystery. The maid-of-all-work had been cooking, baking, and ironing all summer with the refrigerator doors open. Said it was much cooler that way.

If you happen to be the type who likes to drink "pop," "cokes," or beer right out of the bottle, pull up a chair and listen to this. The other day a captain of one of the local boats, opened a bottle of beer and started drinking it out of the bottle. The first swallow "felt" peculiar, so he took a good look at it and found that it contained numerous particles of glass; some of which he had already swallowed. He hadn't broken the bottle in opening it either, so it would behoove you hearties to watch out. It was a well known brand of beer, but we are too nice to mention the name.

We understand this is an oft told, and printed, tale, but since it was new to us, it might be to you. When Anne Morrow Lindberg was a little girl, she had the unhappy faculty of noticing the worst features of a person and blurring out her opinion of them in front of everybody. One day her mother asked J. P. Morgan to tea and was fearful lest little Anne make a verbal pass at Mr. Morgan's very prominent nose. All went well however, with Mrs. Morrow chatting nervously to keep Anne from being able to speak. Finally she sent the child out of the room and with a great sigh of relief, poured Mr. Morgan's tea and said sweetly, "Will you have lemon or cream in your nose?"

THE CIRCUS-BACKSTAGE:—If you saw Gargantua, the greatest gorilla in captivity, you might be interested in knowing the following: He is largely a vegetarian, but his daily rations also include a pound of liver, 3 quarts of milk, mixed with chocolate and Caro syrup, 2 loaves of raisin bread, apples, bananas, celery and lettuce. In his natural habitat, he had a few luxurious tidbits, such as birds eggs and bugs. None of this however, has had any sweetening effect on his disposition.

The four elephants each eat 150 lbs. of hay a day. 1000 lbs. of beef are bought daily for the wild animals, the lions share alone being 12 lbs. per lion. There are 1,250 people traveling with the circus and 4,000 meals a day are served from the cook tents. The food is better than that of the average hotel.

We talked to "Bud" North, manager of the greatest show on earth, and found him enthusiastic about the modern trend in circuses. All the costumes, for example, were designed and made by a leading theatrical costumier. The circus is also buying thoroughbred horses, in order to breed the finest show horses in the country. We were amused to discover that Mr. North had taken an afternoon off to attend the Shrine Circus. When we ran out of questions, we asked how long the circus would run in Chicago, to which Mr. North replied, "From the 30th to the 39th." Seems like carrying modernity too far.

Rites Held Monday for Walter Schweikart

Funeral services for Walter Schweikart, 75, who was in the boat building and livery business for many years, were held at 2 p. m. Monday in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Henry Seiss, at 840 Lakepointe avenue, Grosse Pointe Park. Mr. Schweikart was the father of Carl Schweikart, former assistant prosecutor and now clerk of Grosse Pointe Township.

Mr. Schweikart was born in Detroit and as a boy lived on Belle Isle, then known as Hog Island, one-fourth of which was leased by his father, one of Detroit's early settlers. He retired several years ago and has been living at 1018 Beaconsfield avenue, Grosse Pointe Park. He died in Grace Hospital Friday.

In addition to Mrs. Seiss and his son, Carl, he is survived by his wife; another son, Walter, Jr., former Justice of the Peace of Grosse Pointe Township; two sisters, Mrs. Ella Melchers of Algonac and Mrs. Julia Walters, and a brother, Capt. John Schweikart, 350 Parkview avenue.

Grosse Pointe Schools Music Program Gets National Recognition

The "Nation's Schools," leading American publication in the field of school administration, will publish in its August number an article on the development of instrumental music in the Grosse Pointe public schools, an announcement in the July issue indicates. The announcement reads as follows:

"There is music in the air that surrounds every school building these days, but few school systems have gone about the job of band building with more zest than has Grosse Pointe, Mich., a residential suburb of Detroit. "The Grosse Pointe public schools have just completed their second year of instrumental music teaching. In the junior-senior high school the band meets daily for rehearsal and once a week in ensemble groups for continued lessons. Grade schools have small bands, pre-instrumental classes and beginners' classes. Advanced classes are the next step.

"William J. Watkins, director of music, will next month give a factual step-by-step account of what happened in this school system where instrumental music was wanted and needed, where nothing had been done for many years and where authorities were willing to provide the necessary equipment and staff."

Detroit Federal Symphony Orchestra Presents Program July 20th

In addition to the famous Fifth Symphony of Tchaikovsky which will be the major offering of tonight's program, the orchestra will also feature the Russian Sailor's Dance from the Red Poppy by Reinhold Gliere. Gliere studied with Ippolitov-Ivanov at the Moscow Conservatory and as a composer attracted favorable attention by his inventive power and technical workmanship. The Russian Sailor's Dance is only one part of several which he wrote for a ballet. The Offenbach Overture is a gem of its kind.

ENJOYING PICNIC LUNCH AT N. Y. WORLD'S FAIR

hundreds of fascinating exhibits. And they find that the best things at the Fair are free. During the first month of the exposition the average per capita expenditure within the fair was $1.17 and this included restaurant meals for most of the visitors.

Expansion of Army Air Corps Planned

Of great interest to hundreds of young men throughout this area is the news that the United States Army plans to expand the Air Corps to 140% or an increase of strength from the present 2300 airplanes to a minimum of 5500. This program of expansion to start as of July 1, 1939.

Many hundreds of young men who possess the necessary qualifications and who have, in the past five years graduated from local high schools, will welcome the opportunity to become identified with this thrilling branch of our country's service and at the same time secure a comprehensive training in a fast-growing industry, for, the program, scheduled embraces training in all of the basic and essential trades or crafts associated with flying and a young man who has completed his "hitch" with the Corps and who has mastered any of the allied and essential services, will have the ground-work necessary for further advancement in commercial and civilian branches of the aviation world. Then, too, there is a great appeal to red-blooded youth in the romantic and

Alger Post News

There's apt to be another picnic late in August. The citizens of Warren, in appreciation for the turning out of the Sons of Veterans Drum and Bugle Corps at the town celebration on the Fourth of July, wish to extend the facilities of their park to the Post. patriotic aspects of association with the Air Corps and a background of training therein. The following is a brief summary of the plans for the proposed Air Corps, United States Army Expansion:

In two years, the airplane strength will expand about 140 per cent or from about 2,300 airplanes to a minimum of 5,500. About 3,300 of these airplanes will be active and of these, about 2,000 will be combat type. The task of production is, for the most part, on the shoulders of the aircraft industry. The major task is to obtain, house and train the necessary personnel. The magnitude of this task is apparent when one considers that the officer personnel will be increased about 90 per cent and our enlisted strength by 25,000 men—a 140 per cent increase.

Our enlisted problem is a major one. In two years we must take in 25,000 men and of these, about two-thirds must be given specialized Air Corps training. Five new bases are to be constructed, one each at Alaska, Northeast United States, Southeast United States, Puerto Rico and Panama.

Plan for Army Air Corps Mechanics' Training

During the months of July, August, September and October, 1939, 1,200 men will be enlisted each month; for the months of November and December, 1939 and January and February, 1940, 1,500 men each month; and for the months of March, April, May and June 1940, 3,300 each month, making a total of approximately 25,000 men. Of this number the Air Corps plans to train 17,000 as specialists in all the technical subjects related to the maintenance and operation of aircraft and its accessories. The remaining 6,500 will be used to fill existing vacancies in Air Corps organizations, both in the United States and in foreign possessions. The number to be trained will be divided among selected civilian schools and at the Air Corps Technical Schools located at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Illinois (about 100 miles south of Chicago) and at Denver, Colorado. In order that all applicants for enlistment may have no false impression concern-

Samaritans Will Stage Dart Baseball Tourney

Samaritan Dart Baseball Association, sponsored by Detroit Council of Samaritans, announce that plans are being completed, and entries are being accepted for the all-girl teams contest, in this fascinating game which has developed into a recreation that has spread itself country-wide and so similar is it to the National game that its popularity is instantaneous.

The Wolverine Trophy will be awarded the winning team, and cash prizes amounting to $1,000 are to be awarded to the contestants, including a popularity prize at the end of the tournament.

Girls who wish to enter the contest may procure all information by addressing John R. Flynn, 855 Atkinson avenue, Detroit. All girls between the age of 18 and 28 are eligible.

ing this Army training, the following regulations and procedure will apply.

Only regularly enlisted men of the United States Army will be given this training and no one will be trained as a civilian. Upon acceptance by the Recruiting Officer, each man then becomes a Private in the Regular Army and is paid $21.00 a month, plus board, uniforms and other clothing. He is then assigned to an Air Corps station where he is given a short course in basic training and the duties of a soldier. During this recruit training, the soldier may make application to attend school in any of the many selected subjects. He is then given tests to insure that he has the ability to pursue the course which he has selected. Such tests consist of mental alertness and a simple mathematical examination which covers the subjects of arithmetic and algebra. If, upon completion of these tests, the applicant is selected to attend the technical school and receive training in one of these courses, he is then placed upon the school eligibility list and will be transferred to one of the schools for training as vacancies occur.

The present capacity of technical schools is being rapidly expanded to accommodate the additional personnel which must be trained. Upon completion of his technical training, the soldier is then eligible for promotion within the Army but if he does not care to remain in the service, he can be discharged at the end of the three-year period and return to civil life as a competent technician in his chosen line of work.

Major Burns Henry Post, 303, Auxiliary

The Post Drum and Bugle Corp is fast rounding into shape and by the time the National Convention rolls around we should be ready for most anything. This is the last call for membership in the Corp. With your help he can do it. Let's be a little more active. So long and aw'll be seeing you.

Schools' Growth Adds Housing Burdens, Van Kleeck's Report Shows

(Editor's Note: The first instalment of the Superintendent's annual report to the Grosse Pointe School District's annual meeting told of some of the notable strides during the last year in developing new courses of study in our public schools. Below the Review prints the second instalment of Dr. E. R. Van Kleeck's report. The third and last will appear in a later issue.)

The record of the graduates of the high school who go on to college has been steadily and rapidly improving for some eight years and it continues to advance. The large group of freshmen at the University of Michigan from Grosse Pointe High School had this year the best first-semester ranking in our history. A total of 431 recommended Grosse Pointe High School graduates has entered 78 different colleges throughout the land during the last eight years. Their records show appreciable improvement over the eight-year period and are above the average for college students as a whole. Only the continued selection for teaching positions of high calibre men and women, such as those now serving, plus unceasing effort on the part of teachers and administration, can maintain such records. Grosse Pointe High School graduates can now obtain unconditional admission to any college or university in the country.

National Recognition

National attention has been directed to the high school this year also by the development of a new form of publication, the pictorial magazine, View Pointe, which takes the place of the unsatisfactory old senior "annual." The splendid high school newspaper, The Tower, observed its tenth anniversary this year. Through the cooperation of the Detroit Boat Club, which furnished free coaching and loaned shells, Grosse Pointe became the first public school in this section of the country to introduce rowing as a sport. In an attempt to inform the parents of our junior-senior high school boys and girls more fully and more helpfully concerning the school development of their children, an additional semi-annual report on character and personality has been worked out. Time does not permit even a listing of the honors won by our alumni at other institutions or of the distinctions attained during the year by school publications, athletic, forensic and other activities.

282 Graduates in 1939

The high school graduating classes of January and June, 1939, will total about 282 students, the largest number ever to be graduated in one year from our high school. The first class to graduate, that of 1925, numbered 24 pupils. The rapid growth of the system is also shown by the fact that only five of this January's 76 graduates were born in Grosse Pointe—a situation perhaps unparalleled in the country!

167,565 Books

Public library book circulation increased during the first eleven months of this year to 167,565, or 9,730 over the corresponding previous eleven months. A total of 637 more patrons registered to use the public libraries during the same period. Registered borrowers now total 9,277 persons. Time unfortunately does not permit a more detailed account of the efficient functioning of the public library program.

Finances

The school tax rate this year has been decreased about one third of a mill and is the lowest in several years. The school organization represents an enterprise spending, in round numbers, one million dollars annually. Roughly one-third of this is spent for debt service—the costs for principal and interest on our 17 district-owned buildings, on the new junior high school, and on two small sites held for future elementary schools. This leaves about two-thirds of a million dollars for the operation of the nine schools and five library branches. Constant study is given by the Board of Education to the problem of obtaining the best possible educational program as a return for the money invested by the taxpayers in our pupils and our children.

On June 30, when the current school fiscal year closes, the district will have lived within its budget for another year and will have a cash balance.

Indebtedness

The bonded debt of the school district was increased $350,000 during the year. This was for the portion of the $878,000 cost of the Pierce Junior High School which is being met by bond proceeds. The new total indebtedness of $4,001,000 was reduced during the year $65,000, leaving the bonded debt as of June 30, 1939 at $3,936,000. Against this sum the sinking fund has increased $95,660.85, from $786,728.62 to $882,389.47 during the year. Deducting the sinking fund total from the total bonded debt, leaves the net debt of the district $3,053,610.35. The reduction in indebtedness, plus the increase in the sinking fund, total $160,660.85 for the year.

The district's own bonds sold during the year at 118, the highest price yet obtained. Tax collections, both current and delinquent, have been very good during 1938-1939.

The Growing Burden

Building permits during the calendar year 1938 totaled 396, compared with 407 in 1937, 599 in 1936, 247 in 1935, 40 in 1934, and 25 in 1933. Permits for homes for 225 families have been issued from January 1, 1939 to May 31, 1939 by the five municipalities. Of these 122 were issued in Grosse Pointe Woods, where the Mason School overcrowding is rapidly reaching the "saturation point." For the first four months of 1939, the value of these permits was $1,254,335, an average per family of $7,602.04. Grosse Pointe continues to be one of the most rapidly growing of the high-type metropolitan suburbs of the country, and the school enrollment reflects this increase.

Improvements in Plant

The maintenance and operation of the physical plant continued on the unusually high plane that has been established in Grosse Pointe. Expansion of the maintenance personnel has been arranged and will probably result in genuine economy by catching and caring for more small repair jobs before they become larger and more expensive.

The district is concerned with 20 separate buildings, 18 of which are in use for school and library purposes. Five of these are library branches, of which three are housed in the municipal buildings owned and maintained by the Park, Farms and Shores. A small but attractive new home for the library branch in the Woods was equipped and opened last September and has resulted already in a doubling of book circulation there. The City branch building, which the district owns, will have to be moved sooner or later from its present site. The Park branch, which has enjoyed the hospitality of the Park Municipal Building for a number of years, will be moved next fall into the large new quarters in the northwest wing of the new junior high school building. The other fifteen buildings are the old Cook School, which is used as a church; two bungalows used by the grounds and maintenance staffs; a dwelling house on Roslyn road, which the Board rents to tenants; a supplies warehouse, which was formerly a three-room portable school house; the old school building on St. Clair avenue housing the Board of Education offices; the Grosse Pointe High School; seven elementary schools, and the Cadeux junior high school annex. Cadeux will be empty next year, but, at the present rate of growth in our enrollment, may have to be opened by the fall of 1940 or 1941. The smallest of the elementary schools, Vernier, was reopened for public school purposes last fall to help care for the very rapid enrollment growth in Grosse Pointe Woods. For the same purpose, the library at the Mason School has been converted into a classroom. This summer, to take care of growing enrollment, it will probably be necessary to open one more room at Vernier, again to use the libraries at Mason and Richard for classrooms, partition the playground at Richard into two classrooms, partition the auditorium at Defer into two classrooms and convert the playground at Mason into a classroom.

Richard Playground

The Richard enrollment is by far the largest of that of any of the elementary schools, but the playground area there is almost the smallest in the system. The Board of Education has assured interested residents and parents that the problem of increasing the size of the Richard playground will receive early attention.

St. Joan of Arc Lawn Card Party

The ladies of St. Joan of Arc are making plans for a lawn card party to be held on the church grounds on Wednesday afternoon at 1:30, July 26. All games will be played, and refreshments will be served. Everyone is invited to spend a pleasant afternoon in ideal surroundings.

Contract Bridge

By P. G. MUNRO

(Originator of The Autobidder) In Contract Bridge, a "Pianola" hand is one which does not require a player to play it; it plays itself. Hands which are not "Pianolas" require thought. There is one which was defeated by one trick simply because the declarer played thoughtlessly:

- North S-9 6 2 H-A K J 9 D-J 10 C-Q 10 8 3 East S-A 7 H-6 2 D-A K 8 6 4 C-9 7 6 2 South S-5 4 3 H-Q 10 7 4 D-Q 9 3 C-J 5 4

West is the declarer at Four Spades. North opened with the King of Hearts, which won the first trick, and shifted to a trump to stop Hearts from being ruffed in Dummy. Declarer won this trump trick in his own hand and played a heart in the hope of ruffing his last Heart with the Ace of trumps in Dummy. West won the trick and, being a good player, immediately led a trump to rid Dummy of its last trump (the Ace). Declarer could not avoid the loss of another Heart trick and the Queen of Diamonds for the defeat of the contract.

After winning the second trick in his own hand if declarer had given a little thought to the situation he would have realized that, if he drew the adverse trumps himself he would be left with a losing Heart, or if he led a Heart in the hope of ruffing his losing Heart with the Ace of trumps in Dummy, the opponents would lead a trump (after winning the Heart trick) to deprive him of his Heart ruff. Therefore, declarer's only hope of fulfilling his contract would be in the establishment of the Diamond suit to provide a discard for his losing Heart.

Accordingly, declarer after winning the second trick should have led a Diamond from his hand and "ducked" in Dummy, allowing the opponents to win that trick. Thereafter, the opponents would have been limited to only one more Heart trick regardless of what they led, and declarer would have made his contract of Four Spades.

Students' Problems

By BARBARA MARION (High School Journalism Student)

Results of standardized tests throughout the State of Michigan reveal that the average student mentality in Grosse Pointe Public Schools is higher than that of the general population. Nevertheless, Grosse Pointe student have their problems.

L. M. Bartlett, director of Child Accounting and Adjustment for the Board of Education, states that the children who have difficulty in adjusting themselves in the school and home may be classified in two distinct groups:

- 1. Those who are confronted with a physical disability in reading, hearing, or speech and are therefore definitely at a disadvantage when competing with normal classmates. 2. Those who because of emotional conflicts suffer from unnatural mental conditions which must be corrected before a proper adjustment to desirable study habits can be made.

In the first group, careful and extensive tests are made of the child's physical disabilities. In many cases an elementary student does not conquer his first impulse to confuse stem letters such as q, b, g and d, when learning to read. In the more serious examples of reversals, "was" is interpreted as "saw" and the child, in extreme cases, distorts many words until they appear in reverse order.

Cooperation between the child psychologists on the staff of the Board of Education and the students' parents and teachers and specialists usually proves to be the salvation of the physically maladjusted child. The second group of students whose development is retarded by emotional conflicts present serious problems that must be analyzed with regard to the personal obstacles that confront them. Case histories reveal that unhappy home life, rivalry between brothers and sisters, or the loss of a parent are among the most frequent causes for unhealthy mental conditions. By working with parents and children the staff psychologists are frequently able to help the student in finding a satisfactory remedy for the cause of the maladjustment.

The Grosse Pointe Board of Education is giving the utmost attention to the problems of its students. Mr. Bartlett is confident that as the school system grows and facilities increase, the Department of Child Accounting and Adjustment will be additionally capable of rendering invaluable assistance to students who have problems.

Milk Foundation Issues Data on Industry

How many bottles of milk are delivered to U. S. doorsteps daily? How long a train would be required to haul the entire U. S. yearly milk supply? What percentage of the average American's annual food consumption is made up of dairy products? What would it cost to send a quart of milk parcel post?

These and a lot of other interesting questions about the dairy industry are found in "Milk Quiz," a pamphlet issued by the Milk Industry Foundation. Anyone who looks up the answers which are also given here will learn a lot about milk.

More than 43 per cent of the people "quizzed" at the famed Chautauqua in upstate New York reported that they drank two or more glasses of milk daily, while 31 per cent said they drank at least one glass a day.

Only 23 per cent of the Chautauquans thought payments to farmers for milk made up the largest single item in a distributing company's expenses, while answers on the relative importance of wages were also inaccurate with 35 per cent citing wages as the largest item instead of the second largest.

P. S.—The answers to questions in the first paragraph are: 30 million; 17,000 miles; 25 per cent; 8 cents in a single zone.

Grosse Exaggerations

(Continued from Page One) SILHOUETTE.—She is tall and "willowy," has eyes the color of strong black coffee in the sunlight, unplucked eyebrows, dark hair, high cheek bones, and a mouth very like Loretta Young's. She gives the impression of being rather timid of people and her most outstanding characteristic is that of tenderness. You couldn't imagine her taking a healthy swat at a mosquito. She swims and plays golf, but in most sports prefers spectating to participating.

Has a "truck farm" which she likes to play around with and enjoys having small informal Al Fresco dinners in the garden of her very attractive home. She doesn't like large social gatherings or anything pertaining to "night life." She has original ideas about interior decorating, (one of her hobbies), and will go to great trouble to find just the right chair for a particular corner. She has a keen eye for color combinations, and unusual arrangements. Dresses well by instinct rather than careful study. Her appearance is definitely not her first consideration, and luckily it doesn't have to be. She is the most natural looking woman we know. Doesn't use makeup or adornments of any kind, but if she did, would out-glamour the most glamorous. She collects minatures and saves "Fortune" magazines. Hasn't much use for bridge but enjoys I Q games and always has a new supply on hand. She often "threatens" to take up something—Mahjong, knitting, French, piano lessons—but doesn't get ground to it. She enjoys gardening, being domestic, playing with her children and being active on committees. Gestures a great deal when talking and shows a flattering interest when someone else is talking. In spite of a rather vague manner, she is genuine, kind, sympathetic and thoroughly unspoiled. Her intimates call her "Annie," which we think highly unsuitable. She looks like our idea of Kathleen, Eloise, or Leanoire. Her name—Mrs. Joseph S. Sherer Jr.

We thought it might be fierce fun if Gov. Dickinson instigated a "non-wicked" week, just as we have "clean-up" week, "be-kind-to-dogs" weeks etc. It would give us all a nice change from this sink of vice, (that the Governor has suddenly discovered), in which we all live.

Speech Classes Are Declared Helpful to High School Students

By SUE STEPHENSON (High School Journalism Student)

"Gee, I wish I had my litcher book here beuz I've got nothin' to do right now, and I'll have forty-four pages of litcher to read tanite," declared Speakumogoot, a high school junior.

"What did you say?" wondered bewildered Friend.

"Whassa matter? Kuncha unnerstan' whut I wuz sayin'?"

"No! I can never clearly understand what you say. Listen, Kid. Why don't you take speech next semester? It would do you a lot of good, and you'll like it too. It's a swell course!"

"Why should I take speech? I c'n make 'e munnerstan' me, 'n that's enough, isn't it? I don't wanta be an athortle on how to make speeches."

Friend advised, "Well, I'll tell you, Speakumogoot. That depends on one's standard. With a dont-care attitude like yours, you could wear tennis shorts at a formal prom! The quality of your speech fits the standard you set for yourself. Good speech will be important and valuable to you through your whole life."

Friend is right. Good speech is important. One must have it in order to live an abundant life. It is important as a means of expression, a way of telling others what one knows, and wants, and feels.

Your speech tells who you are. Personality which begins with good speech is always considered in choosing an applicant for a position. Often the man with the best personality (the best speech) is chosen not to sell goods but to sell good will.

The speech course in Grosse Pointe High School aims to make better everyday speakers and better platform speakers of Grosse Pointe High School students.

The course, called Speech I, teaches the students to recognize good speeches and good speaking. The students learn how to prepare a long formal speech and how to deliver it effectively. They learn to choose themes with a purpose, to pick interesting subjects and appropriate, catchy titles, and to use interest-arousing introductions.

One of the most interesting discussions of the class is about audience interests. Proper use of the voice and body are studied and practiced as well as good diction. These discussions help to build poise and to overcome nervousness.

Other units include speeches for special occasions like the after-dinner speech and the speech of introduction, and a study and discussion of conversation.

The climax of the course comes with radio broadcasting and the use of the microphone. A radio broadcasting "studio" is set up back stage and short amateur radio programs are given to the audience on the other side of the curtain.

Practice in public speaking is gained by speaking before the class from 20 to 25 different times. Two longer formal speeches are required in the unit on preparing the speech. These formal speeches are given from the stage of the auditorium.

Besides practice in speaking before the class students have the opportunity to introduce speakers in assembly and sometimes to speak in assembly themselves. The masters of ceremonies for the exchange assemblies come from the Speech I classes. The speech students helped to carry on the View Pointe drive with speeches made in all the homerooms, and often the commencement speakers are students who have taken speech.

Good speech is important in life. The speech course helps students cultivate good speech habits.

Rep. Louis C. Rabaut Led Fight on WPA Bill

Leading the only successful attempts to broaden the WPA relief bill, Representative Louis C. Rabaut, of Michigan, scored a decisive victory in behalf of both American Youth and the Nation's aged during the 14-hour-long debate in the United States House of Representatives recently.

In one of the most controversial and lengthy meetings of its history, the House at this time passed a bill to provide $1,735,000,000 for work relief during the year starting July 1. At the same time, it severely restricted the spending and use of this fund, lengthened the hours of work, abolished the Federal Theatre Project, and provided for a new plan of WPA administration under a three-man board.

Mr. Rabaut's success was outstanding in that almost all of the many other attempts to amend the bill as it was reported by the Committee were overwhelmingly defeated by the reform-minded House, whose members were bent upon taking "politics" out of relief and also upon taking a slap at those who have suggested that the WPA should be made a permanent institution.

Unquestionably the most significant achievement of the day's session was the passage of Mr. Rabaut's amendment exempting heads of families, men and women with dependents, from the 18-month consecutive employment limitation which the bill would impose. Under this provision, persons on WPA would be removed after 18 months and would be ineligible for reinstatement for 60 days. The Rabaut amendment was deemed of particular value to the residents of Michigan, where employment condition in the automobile industry make it difficult for persons past 45 years of age to meet personnel requirements for rehiring. It was pointed to as being of service to the Veterans, almost all of whom automatically would be exempted because they fall within this age group.

Congressman Rabaut's other victory came when the House added $19,000,000 to the proposed fund for the National Youth Administration, making a total of an even $100,000,000 for that agency. This was the only instance in which money was added to the bill as recommended by the committee, but the amount was still $23,000,000 less than asked by the President.

In his speech asking for the additional allotment, Mr. Rabaut lauded the NYA as protecting the "susceptibilities" of the young from being misled through adverse circumstances. He pointed out that the average cost per youth under the program was only $125 per year and, citing the testimony of J. Edgar Hoover that most criminals arrested are between the ages of 16 and 24, urged that the cost of NYA as a preventative to crime was much less

Mr. Rabaut, who comes from the 14th Congressional District, composed of southeastern Detroit and the Grosse Pointe area, has long been a leading supporter of programs of aid for the old and young. He was one of the first sponsors of the "40 and Over" movement, seeks legislation requiring the employment of a certain percentage of that age group on Government contract work, and has made many pleas in behalf of youth, being a leading supporter of the CCC.

Christian Science Churches

"Truth" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, July 23.

The Golden Text (John 17:11, 17) is: "Holy Father, keep through thine own name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one, as we are... Sanctify them through thy truth: thy word is truth."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Psalms 43:3): "O send out thy light and thy truth; let them lead me; let them bring me unto thy holy hill, and to thy tabernacles."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science Textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 286): "The understanding to Truth gives full faith in Truth, and spiritual understanding is better than all burnt offerings."

Community Fund Gives Hints to Swimmers

More than 50 Detroiters will drown this summer. This prediction, based upon statistics of other summers, will be true unless the necessary precautions are taken by Detroiters who go swimming during the approaching hot days, according to Alfred S. Moreou, first aid director of the Detroit Chapter, Red Cross.

"Our records show that more than 97 per cent of all drownings take place at unsupervised beaches and pools," Moreau declared. "Therefore, the best safeguard is to swim only at places which have life guards, graduated depths, for different grades of swimmers and complete life-saving equipment. There is no excuse for breaking this rule because Detroit and Grosse Pointe have more supervised pools than any other place in the world."

"Dare-devils and pranksters are the most dangerous persons on the beaches. The show-off who dives from the most perilous perch and the smart-aleck who cries false alarms for help are not only risking their own lives but are endangering the lives of others. These and the inexperienced swimmer who ventures beyond his depth are the cause of nearly all preventable drownings. The experienced life-saver is trained to recognize and watch all three."

Working through schools, departments of recreation, summer camps, and four life-saving corps in Detroit, the Red Cross, a Community Fund agency, is instructing nearly 10,000 swimmers annually. Last year more than 800 passed the junior life-saving tests and more than 400 passed the senior tests.

The Red Cross has issued the following warnings to both novice and expert swimmers:

1. Check your swimming ability during the season's first plunge; you may have forgotten more than you realize.
2. Remember, distances appear shorter in water.
3. Ask for information before going into strange water. Sunken objects, weeds and swift currents often trap experienced swimmers.
4. Dive only when you are sure of the depth and condition of the water.
5. Learn how to handle canoes, row-boats and other small craft. They are dangerous only in the hands of the inexperienced.
6. Never swim alone.
7. Do not swim during the heat of the day or when overheated.
8. Never swim until two hours after eating, to avoid cramps.
9. Don't call for help in fun. It may cost your life when you are really in need.
10. Alcohol and water do not mix.

Gas Tax Collections Reach All-Time High

Harry F. Kelly, Secretary of State, reports a gain of $895,314 in the gas tax collections the first six months of 1939 over the same period of 1938. This is an all-time high for the Gasoline Tax Division. The total amount collected from January 1 to June 30, 1939 aggregates $13,928,037, topping the previous high record for a six-month period in 1937 of $13,736,999 by $191,038. For the first six months in 1938 the total gas collections were $13,032,723, so the gain for 1939 is more marked.

Churchmen Meet at University of Michigan

"Religions of the Near East" will be the general topic of discussion when Michigan churchmen, directors of religious education, and professors and students of religion meet at the fifth annual Conference on Religion at the University of Michigan, July 23 to 30.

Guest speaker at the Conference will be Dr. George P. Michaelides, professor of church history and religious education at the Near East School of Theology in Beirut, Syria.

The summer conference was introduced at the University in 1934 as one of the direct attempts to understand divergent views of religion and as a means of relating both laymen in the Summer Session and ministers in the state to the religious education which is being developed for students, according to Dr. Edward W. Blakeman, counselor in religious education.

Prizes amounting to $500 for student writing will be awarded this summer to students of English composition at the University of Michigan, it has been announced by Prof. R. W. Cowden, director of the Hopwood Awards.

True Independence

WHEN Paul said (Acts 22:28): "I was free born," he spoke of his freedom as a Roman citizen—freedom that was his because of his father's citizenship. But, although the great Christian warrior valued highly the heritage of liberty that was his right as a Roman citizen, he knew well that genuine freedom is not a matter of race, color, or creed, but of individual spiritual living and demonstration of the power of God in human affairs. He said in Romans (8:21), "The creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God."

Materiality is bondage. Spiritual freedom is won in individual experience by putting off the old or carnal concept of man, and putting on the new or spiritual idea of man and the universe. Jesus reasoned with Nicodemus on the problem of spiritual freedom when he said, "How can a man be born when he is old? Can he enter the second time into his mother's womb, and be born?" Then Jesus replied, "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God" (John 3:3, 4, 5).

Jesus was speaking of the new birth, the salvation of mankind through spiritual living. The aim of the Nazarene's glorious ministry was to prove for all time that spiritual regeneration is a present possibility. All can, and indeed eventually must, overcome any belief in man as material. A material concept of existence, manifested in sin, sickness, poverty, death, gives place to the truth of being, accepted and utilized.

The world is greatly in need of enlightenment as to what constitutes genuine freedom. Independence is not so much a condition of environment as of thought. When Paul and Silas were in prison, bound with chains, they sang songs of praise to God. Their thoughts were not bound, although bands held them and prison walls were around them. Nothing could deprive them of their true freedom—their relating in God's goodness. The natural result of their conscious spiritual freedom was release from prison. . . .

The belief that man is material, that he lives in matter and finally dies out of matter, is a binding, limiting belief. It is not the truth of being. The real man is the reflection of God, Spirit; he lives and moves in infinite Mind. Mary Baker Eddy writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 475), "Man is idea, the image of Love; he is not physique." Continuing, she says: "Man is incapable of sin, sickness, and death. The real man cannot depart from holiness, nor can God, by whom man is evolved, engender the capacity or freedom to sin."

Until the individual begins to see man's spiritual freedom, he is in a state of mental bondage; but the dark experiences of sin, sickness, poverty, and despair yield to the understanding that the real man is spiritual and perfect—the image and likeness of God. Besides stating a great spiritual fact, the Master gave an arresting command in these words (Matthew 5:48), "Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." . . .

Obedience to human law brings freedom in experience, as is readily seen. Traffic signals, for example, give freedom by their very restraints. So do other necessary laws of restraint provide freedom to those who observe them. Restrictions of law seem binding to the undisciplined; but a mistaken sense of freedom sought through self-will may bring about destruction. There is no freedom in the exercise of passion, in self-indulgence, in fear. The moral code, understood and obeyed, is the best guarantee of individual and universal liberty, the basis of true democracy.

The need for universal liberty is growing in the hearts of men. Divine Love has planted the seed therein, and each obedient, grateful thought aids the growth. As this growth is nurtured, human laws will become better and be more generally obeyed, and mankind will finally accept the Master's summary of the moral code as their chart of life. They will love God and keep His commandments, and they will love their neighbor as themselves. Speaking of freedom, under the marginal topic "Proper self-government," Mrs. Eddy says (Science and Health, p. 308): "Like our nation, Christian Science has its Declaration of Independence—God has endowed man with inalienable rights, among which are self-government, reason, and conscience. Man is properly self-governed only when he is guided rightly and governed by his Maker, divine Truth and Love." —The Christian Science Monitor.

Detroit Named on Executive Committee of Tuberculosis Assn.

Highlights of the National Tuberculosis Association's annual meeting at Boston were reviewed this week by Theodore J. Werle, who represented the Michigan Tuberculosis Association at the conference.

Michigan people will note with interest the election of Dr. Bruce H. Douglas of Detroit to the National Tuberculosis Association's executive committee. At the meeting Dr. Douglas, past president of the state tuberculosis association, presented a paper on the value of tuberculin testing. Medical specialists attending the Boston meeting approved the tuberculin test as a means of uncovering tuberculosis in apparently healthy persons. Dr. Douglas said that the test is an inexpensive way to find such persons who are harboring tuberculosis germs in their bodies. Tuberculin testing and chest X-raying are two of the most valuable medical methods for detecting tuberculosis, it was agreed. In Michigan these two modern weapons of discovery are provided extensively through funds raised in the annual sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals.

Another main feature of the meeting occurred when Dr. Henry D. Chadwick of the Middlesex County Sanatorium at Waltham, Massachusetts, was elected president of the National Association. For a number of years Dr. Chadwick resided in this state, serving Michigan people in the health field. During that time he was president, over a two-year period, of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association. Health leaders throughout the state will recall his efforts and interest in the control of tuberculosis.

The second day of the meeting saw the joining of two important tuberculosis organizations when the American Sanatorium Association became the American Trudeau Society. Dr. John Barnwell of University Hospital at Ann Arbor, MTA official, was elected vice-president of the joint organization.

Nearly fifty Michigan people in all attended the conference held at Boston in the interests of the nationwide fight against tuberculosis. An outcome of the meeting it is expected that the ways and means of preventing the spread of the disease will be bettered for the benefit of citizens throughout the state.

Detroit residents who were registered at the Boston conference were: Dr. Henry F. Vaughan, Dr. Morris Braverman, Dr. C. E. Woodruff, Dr. G. E. Harmon, and Dr. A. B. Derby, of the Detroit Health Department; Dr. W. F. Tuttle and Dr. N. H. DeJanney, of Herman Kiefer Hospital; Dr. and Mrs. Harlan Harrison, of the Michigan Trudeau Association; Dr. William B. Howes, Dr. D. S. Brachman, and Mrs. Emma L. Sherwood, of the Detroit Tuberculosis Sanatorium; and Mr. L. T. Clark, of the Parke, Davis Company.

Expansion of Army Air Corps Planned

He's Champion Contest Winner

To such time-honored methods of working one's way through college by selling magazines or waiting on tables, Henry Shull, junior at Northwestern university, has added a new one—winning prize contests. Shull, shown above, has won 59 prizes worth $3,500 in the last five years and is paying his school and living expenses out of his winnings. Among the prizes Shull has won and converted into cash are an automobile, a bicycle, three refrigerators, two watches and a trip to Mexico City.

Parks Air College, East St. Louis, Illinois.

Generally speaking, to be acceptable for enlistment in the Regular Army applicants must meet the following requirements.

They must be between the ages of 18 and 35 for original enlistment, unmarried, and those under 21 must have the written consent of their parents or guardians. They must be at least 5 feet 4 inches in height, and weigh not less than 115 lbs. They must be of good moral character, as evidenced by written testimonials from reputable citizens of their respective communities. They must be in good health and free from incapacitating or disfiguring deformities. They must be citizens of the United States by birth or naturalization at the time of enlistment. They must be able to pass the intelligence and literacy tests as prescribed in regulations covering recruits for the Regular Army.

The various arms and branches of the Regular Army conduct schools where the soldier is trained in work analogous to his duties. The Air Corps, United States Army, maintains two Technical Schools, one being located at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Illinois (about 100 miles south of Chicago), the other at Lowry Field, Denver, Colorado. These two schools have thorough courses in the many trades and sciences identified with military aviation and include:

- Bombsight Maintenance,
- Airplane Mechanics,
- Aircraft Mechanists,
- Aircraft Welders,
- Metal Working,
- Radio Repair,
- Radio Operators,
- Parachute Rigger,
- Air Corps Supply,
- Technical Clerks,
- Aircraft Armorers, (machine guns and bombs),
- Photography,
- Carburetors,
- Electricity,
- Propellers,
- Engines,
- Instruments, etc.

Entrance qualifications to Technical Schools vary with the subject to be pursued, but each student will possess a certain degree of mental alertness as determined by the revised Army Alpha Tests and mathematics tests. Four years of high school education, or its equivalent, is desired, but regardless of experience or training the soldier selected to attend the Air Corps Technical Schools must be proficient in arithmetic and be able to handle without further instruction problems in fractions, decimals, ratio, proportion, and square root.

The normal procedure of a soldier upon being enlisted for the Air Corps is to be sent to one of the Air Corps bases where he is, at Government expense, completely outfitted in clothing and assigned his place in one of the large, modern barracks and at the dining hall. The recruit undergoes a short period of soldier training. In this recruit school he is taught the fundamentals of soldiering, close order drill, personal hygiene, first aid, military courtesy, customs of the service, how to properly handle and shoot the .45 caliber Service automatic pistol, guard duty, etc.

Upon graduation from the recruit school, a period of about three months, the soldier is trade tested and placed in one of the various departments of his choosing, or where it is believed he will be best suited. If the young soldier shows aptitude in his work he is encouraged to attend one of the Technical Schools already mentioned, and where he specializes in his chosen field. But one subject at a time is taught, and these courses vary from six to nine months each. It is not unusual for a soldier to attend these schools two or even three times, thus becoming proficient in more than one subject, such as propellers and instruments; engines and carburetors; machinists and welding are common examples.

The academic school and training given in the Air Corps is of the finest, and it, plus travel, one's contacts and experiences, admirably equip the soldier for success when he reenters civil life, the Air Corps offers much should one decide to make the Army his career.

Anyone desiring information on the Air Corps may write the Commanding Officer, Selfridge Field, Michigan or the Recruiting Officer, U. S. Army, Room 631 Federal Bldg., Detroit, Michigan.

Visitors are always welcome at Selfridge Field during the daylight hours. If large groups contemplate visiting the ultra modern aerial base, it is suggested they communicate with the Commanding Officer, giving the time and date of arrival. An experienced guide will meet and accompany them on the tour.

Pamphlets outlining information as to attachment to the Air Corps may be secured from N. P. Neff, City C during office hours at 17150 Mauw avenue.

By A. PRYOR

One of our distinguished Grosse Pointe residents has invented an ideal summer "escape." At the rear of his garden, he has built a log cabin painted white, entirely screened, and complete with comfortable, cool white furniture and huge fireplace for outdoor cooking. The piece-de-resistance is a hidden apparatus which when turned on, will produce a refreshing rainfall. Rain patters on the roof and all about the cabin, drips from the eaves and surrounding cherry trees and makes everybody present feel cool, calm, and collected.

Dept. of utter chic.
Hammacher Schlemmer, the New York hardware firm, enclose a self-addressed envelope with their bills; its color is pale yellow and if you do your own envelope "flicking," you'll find a very tasty lemon flavor on the back flap. It is so good, we've been racking our brain to think of something else to order from them. For our own personal stationery, we prefer a cool shade of green with mint julep stickum. It would help our correspondence duties no end.

Dr. and Mrs. John Hartzell's seven year old son Johnny wanted a crew haircut, so his obliging Mother took him to a barber shop to get one. On returning home, young John decided it wasn't exactly what he had in mind, so he took the matter in one hand and a pair of scissors in the other, and finished the job himself. The result is a little surprising; individualism, more ragged than rugged, but Johnny is happy about the whole thing.

William T. Walker, whose billboards Detroit has been hiding behind for years, has brought his recent bride to Grosse Pointe for the summer. We understand that from her native California, Mrs. Walker has brought a new idea; she uses five coats of nail polish—one white base and four reds, for every manicure. We've always been stumped for the exact meaning of the word pronounced "she-she," but maybe that's it.

Way back when spring made her debut, we noticed (among the ladies of G. P.) a sudden enthusiasm for golf. Now the golf courses are fraught with females dubbing around at all hours of the day. Their enthusiasm is not only confined to mere playing on the links; it stalks every social gathering like a plague. We, who cannot tell a niblick from a stymie, have had the painful pleasure of listening to their hole-by-hole descriptions until we almost wish they'd go back to discussing operations. We don't know anything about the latter either, but at least it's a comfortably morbid subject—not so blatantly hardy.

An acquaintance of ours lost his wallet at the N. Y. Fair and deciding that his pocket must have been picked, he returned to Detroit bitterly disillusioned with mankind and inclined to agree with the Governor about the pitfalls of the drate big City. On arriving at his office the following morning, he came face to face with a package. Uh-huh, the wallet—complete with greenbacks, sweepstakes ticket and business cards. A veddy nace lettah from an official at the Fair, informed our lucky friend that the wallet had ben found and turned in at headquarters AND they trusted he had not ben inconvenienced.

Unfurling our Fall muffler from a newspaper the other day, we came across an article which struck first one eye and then the other. It consisted of John Barrymore's caustic epigrams

PROGRAM NOTES

The Bruch G-Minor Concerto for violin and orchestra ranks high in the modern literature for the violin. The composer had a thorough and sympathetic knowledge of the beauty of the "king of string instruments" and revealed his understanding effectively in this work. From the very beginning the Concerto found favor and has continued to bear repeated hearings easily. The outstanding feature of the work is its emotional calm, and emotion, however, filled with poignant longing and deep respect.

Mr. Bistrizky, tonight's soloist, for a number of years, has been one of the most admired members of the first violin section of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. His artistry as a concert soloist is widely known and commands high praise. Among his other activities, Mr. Bistrizky is conductor of the Associan Symphony Orchestra of the Detroit Y. M. C. A.

To-Jo Farms Fire Clues Hunted

Suspecting arson in the $40,000 fire which destroyed the To-Jo Farms roadhouse, Mack and Eight and One-Half-Mile roads, Fire Chief Harold Lanstra of St. Clair Shores today launched an investigation.

He said: "I don't think a match or cigaret could have caused this fire to spread so fast. It is possible a firebug may have set the blaze."

Nelson Feir, 39, a volunteer fireman of St. Clair Shores, was recovering in St. Joseph's Hospital, Mr. Clemens, from injuries incurred while fighting the fire. He was trapped in the blazing frame structure and escaped through a window.

Junior High Financing Gets $878,000 Building For $350,000 In Bonds

(Editor's note: The rapidly growing school enrollment in Grosse Pointe, and school financial and housing problems were described in the recently-published second installment of Superintendent E. R. Van Kleeck's annual report to the school district meeting. The Review prints below the third and last installment of this report.)

So far I have mentioned only incidentally the largest single advance of the year—the activities in connection with our first junior high school building, an expansion badly needed for the last several years. The Board of Education was able after prolonged negotiations to obtain almost immediately and on December 8 ground was broken. The cornerstone was laid April 19. Today, the construction has reached the point where the plastering is nearly finished. Marble work, glazing, millwork, linoleum, terrazzo and other floors, locker installation, painting, installation of electrical and plumbing fixtures, plus the work of other trades and the installation of furniture and equipment, remain to be accomplished in the next two and one-half months. The builders expect that the structure will be ready for pupils when school opens in the fall. If this is accomplished, the construction and furnishing of the school will have taken less than nine months, which, we are told, would be something of a record.

Second Largest School

On this site, there is being erected a school with a pupil-capacity of nine hundred. This will make it our second largest school, its capacity being exceeded only by that of the high school. Housed also in the building will be a large, complete and thoroughly modern public library. An auditorium will seat 950 persons and will therefore be the largest public auditorium in Grosse Pointe, some fifty per cent larger than the high school auditorium. Earlier hopes for a swimming pool for this building had to be abandoned because of the cost, but the building has been so designed that a pool can be added very conveniently if desired.

The Federal Grant

After working over some dozen sets of preliminary plans, a final design for the building was adopted. From the Public Works Administration an outright grant of $395,100 was obtained. This is a grant not a loan and none of it therefore has to be repaid and no interest is paid on it. The voters of the district on September 27th last approved the acceptance of this grant, the bonding of the district for $350,000 and the increasing of the fifteen-mill millage limit by one mill per year for each of the next five years. In bringing to the attention of the voters the need for the Pierce school, the Board enjoyed the hearty and active co-operation of the various parent organizations of the district, the realtors, the Grosse Pointe Review, and numerous other organizations and individuals. The total vote cast was the largest in the district's history and the plurality given the Board's plan was seven to one on the millage and nine to one on the bond issue. A very large increase in the number of registered school voters was obtained.

Speedy Construction

The remainder of the funds for the school, about $132,000, was derived from monies accumulated from excess collections of delinquent taxes over estimates and from economies in the schools' operating budget over a period of years. On December 2nd bids for the building itself were opened, and due to keen competition, were found to be substantially below the estimates. With the prompt and speedy co-operation of the PWA, approval of the contracts was obtained almost immediately and on December 8 ground was broken. The cornerstone was laid April 19. Today, the construction has reached the point where the plastering is nearly finished. Marble work, glazing, millwork, linoleum, terrazzo and other floors, locker installation, painting, installation of electrical and plumbing fixtures, plus the work of other trades and the installation of furniture and equipment, remain to be accomplished in the next two and one-half months. The builders expect that the structure will be ready for pupils when school opens in the fall. If this is accomplished, the construction and furnishing of the school will have taken less than nine months, which, we are told, would be something of a record.

Financing the Junior High

The savings effected on the building proper have made possible the purchase with the help of the PWA's 45 per cent grant of much equipment and furniture that would otherwise have to be financed from locally-raised real estate taxes. It is hoped to have the building put into use with just as nearly complete furnishings and equipment as possible. In the detailed planning of both building and equipment, both the architects and members of the central administrative staff have given unstintingly of their time and energy. The Board of Education has attempted to follow again with the Pierce School its policy of buying quality in both building and furniture, thereby bringing about substantial ultimate economy as proved in the case of the high school, now eleven years old. Despite this insistence on materials and workmanship of quality, the cost per cubic foot for the building will be modest.

Lowest Interest Rate

In the sale of the $350,000 bond issue, the district was fortunate in obtaining the lowest interest rate paid to date on Grosse Pointe school bonds. The rate of two and one quarter per cent is about half the average interest charge on earlier school bond issues. The necessity, under the Michigan statutes, of paying off the entire bond issue in five years will doubtless prove an ultimate advantage in a rapidly growing community such as ours but at the same time it results for five years in greatly larger annual costs for the retirement of principal and these inevitably come at the same time as the expenses for operating Pierce—teachers, custodians, administrative, and clerical staffs, supplies, water, fuel, light, etc.

Over-Crowding

This long-desired erection of the John D. Pierce School, named for the first State Superintendent of Public Instruction in Michigan and in the United States, will make possible the closing, at least temporarily, of the three so-called junior high school annexes in the Cadieux, Defer and Trombly schools. It will also give some relief to the high school. It needs to be emphasized however that the district was, because of the depression, so far behind in its building program, and the high school enrollment is growing so rapidly, that the Pierce school is only a temporary palliative for the overcrowding. Additional sites for both elementary and junior high schools should be acquired, preferably before they are subdivided and become more expensive, and especially before houses are erected upon them. These new sites should be as large as can be afforded.

Five-Sixths Filled

The Pierce school will open filled to about five-sixths of capacity. This will mean that there will be less unused capacity at Pierce on the opening day than has been true at the opening of any of the other schools built in the last dozen years. More than 150 of the Pierce pupils will be from the eastern half of the district, and are children whose parents have applied for permission to transfer them to Pierce. The high school will still have an enrollment of about 1,350, or almost its stated capacity.

To be principal of the Pierce school, the Board has appointed the assistant principal and director of guidance at the high school. Four other major administrative posts have also been filled during the year by the promotion from within the ranks of the local staff of other able and well qualified Grosse Pointe teachers.

Other Board Activities

Your Board of Education became last winter one of the charter members of the new National Association of Public School Boards, an organization which will study educational problems common to schools throughout the country. Trustee Barrett has been elected a director of this association.

Held 30 Meetings

Too much cannot be said for the devotion to duty, the intelligence and the never-failing energy with which your Board of Education members have applied themselves to their job of directing what is by far the largest single enterprise in Grosse Pointe. The Board has met formally on thirty occasions during the year—eleven regular meetings and nineteen special meetings. The number of special meetings has been increased because of the junior high school (and I have no doubt that the meetings have been both more numerous and lengthier by reason of the necessity for "breaking in" a new superintendent!) This is the largest number in many years, and is fifty per cent larger than last year. These thirty meetings have averaged more than two hours apiece in length, but they merely suggest the amount of time and thought which the Board has given to the problem of educating the boys and girls of this community. Conferences, committee meetings, correspondence, telephone calls, visitation of schools and attendance at school functions, almost without number, have consumed far more time than have the meetings themselves. I congratulate Grosse Pointe on its Board of Education and I congratulate those who voted today on their good judgment in returning to office without opposition the two members whose terms expired.

Kercheval Frontage

Just completed a few days ago was an important transaction on which the Board of Education has been working for several years—the sale of the business frontage on Kercheval avenue between Notre Dame and Cadieux road, a move approved, I believe, by a previous annual district meeting. It is a joy to be able to say that not only was the purchaser a firm of the very highest standing but also that the price obtained was one which the Board and numerous realtors who have been consulted during the last two or three years consider most satisfactory. The co-operation of the Council of the City of Grosse Pointe in the amendment of ordinances is gratefully acknowledged. The Board of Education has included in the sale an additional parcel twenty feet wide and a full block in length, north of the alley on the property, restricted to use for parking only, which, it is hoped, may serve somewhat to ease the parking problem.

In summary, this year, the district provided educational facilities for the largest number of boys and girls in the community's history, 4,329 as of June 1st.

—maintained its most extensive collection and circulation to date of public library books.

—operated more schools than ever before.

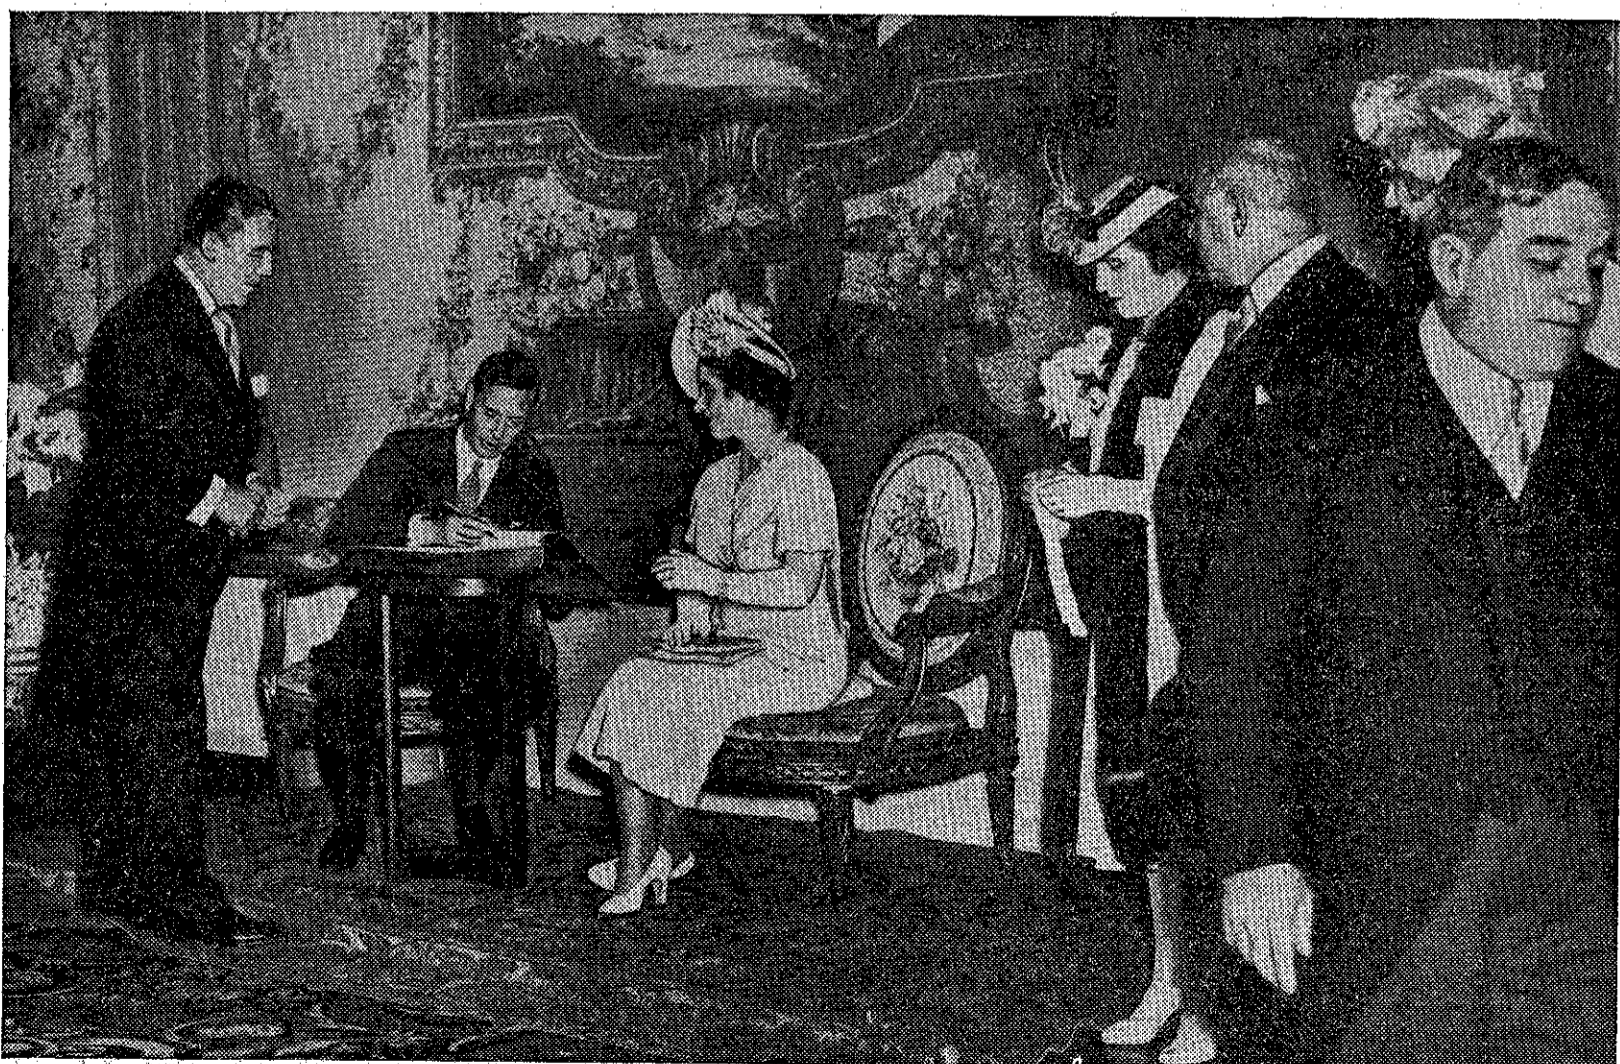

—used the services, as a result, of the largest number of teachers and other employees yet necessary.

3,000 More Pupils

Total school enrollment June first was 226 pupils more than on June 1, 1938. The 4,329 total is three times the enrollment of 1,443 fifteen years ago—an increase of nearly 3,000 pupils! Most striking is the sixteen per cent enrollment increase in one year in the senior high school. Such a rate, if continued, would mean a doubling of senior high school enrollment every six years! If any such rapid rate of growth continues, it may conceivably result eventually in the necessity for either a large addition to the present high school or the erection of a second senior high school or of a combined junior-senior high school building.

May I express at this time my deep personal appreciation of the reception which has been given me as a newcomer in the community. The Board, the parent organizations, the various school faculties, the other school staffs and the community generally have made genuinely satisfying this first year among you.

Contract Bridge

By P. G. MUNRO (Originator of The Autobidder)

Things are not always what they appear to be in Contract Bridge, as the following hand reveals:

South is the Declarer at Three-Notrump. West opened with the 5 of Spades which declarer won with the Queen. Declarer then counted ten winning tricks if the Diamond finesse went wrong, namely: two Spades, two hearts, four diamonds, and two Clubs.

Accordingly, after winning the first trick, declarer attempted the Diamond finesse which East won with the King and returned a Spade. Declarer instantly saw his defeat but it was then too late. It made no difference whether declarer won that trick with the Ace or held up until the third round, the opponents must eventually get in with the Ace of Hearts and run their remaining Spades to defeat the contract by one trick.

Declarer, if he had give a little thought to the situation, should have attempted to knock out the Ace of Hearts by leading the King at the second trick before taking the Diamond finesse. If the Ace of Hearts won the trick, declarer can make his contract.

If the King of Hearts were allowed to win the trick, then the Diamond finesse could be taken and the contract fulfilled. Contract Bridge requires thought. Therefore, think before you play.

The Good Neighbor

WE HEAR much today of the "Good Neighbor" policy. One of the most encouraging signs of the progress of social justice in the world is the increasing sense of responsibility concerning the welfare of our fellow beings.

Community welfare campaigns often adopt the slogan, "Be a Good Neighbor." In times of disaster organized agencies spring into action to alleviate distress regardless of race, creed, or color. Men are definitely awakening from callous indifference to the sufferings of others to a desire to relieve these sad conditions and remove their causes.

In view of this awakened consciousness we may well ask ourselves, "Just what is a good neighbor? It is anybody who appears this question in the parable of the good Samaritan. But it is well to remember that he predated his description of true neighborliness by first emphasizing the two great commandments (Luke 10:27), "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself."

Then followed his story of the man who fell among thieves and was left by the roadside in his distress, and was passed by until rescued by the Samaritan, who thus proved himself a good neighbor.

Therefore, in striving to be a good neighbor to one's fellow men one must start with love for God and intelligently to love God requires a correct understanding of His nature. In the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, God is defined (P. 587) as "the great I AM; the all-knowing, all-seeing, all-acting, all-wise, all-loving, and eternal; Principle; Mind; Soul; Spirit; Life; Truth; Love; all substance, intelligence." Thus God must be acknowledged as the only power and presence, the All of man's existence. One must turn to Him in childlike trust, confident that His law of ever-operative good is sufficient to meet every human problem. This is truly loving God supremely.

How easy it is to love the all-loving God, but how often it seems difficult to love one's neighbor when so much that is unlovable is apparent about him! But is the unlovely mortal one's real neighbor? The Bible tells us (Genesis 1:27) that man is made in God's image, and that image surely cannot contain or include a single quality not to be found in God, the original. That which seems disagreeable or discordant is no more part of the real spiritual man than is mud which may be spattered by a passing car a part of the person it besmirches. Even as the mud cannot deceive us, neither should the false qualities which claim to be part of our neighbor. It is our task to separate the false from the true and to see the real reflection of God. This is truly loving our neighbor.

To love our neighbor as ourselves includes even more. To love one's own true selfhood aright is the opposite of self-love, for it requires us to separate the false qualities of thought from ourselves as well as others and to prove that we are indeed "the sons of God" (1 John 3:2), in thought and act. We must see ourselves as the spiritual, loving reflection of the all-inclusive Mind, completely controlled by divine Principle. We cannot unsee the faults of character in others and yet cherish them in ourselves. To see ourselves and others as God sees His creature, fulfills our duty to love another as ourselves.

Jesus' answer in the parable to the question (Luke 10:29), "Who is my neighbor?" is as applicable today as it was then. All of God's spiritual ideas, His children, are truly neighbors. Charity should begin at home, but not end there. As we meet the common daily opportunities to be helpful which lie on every side with the cheery smile, the word of encouragement, and little services, we are proving that our neighborliness is practical. . . . But we need to broaden our boundaries by including all mankind into our friendliness. . . . Then let our thoughts, like good Samaritans winged with spiritual power, reflect the Love which reaches beyond boundaries of community and country, and provides abundantly for His universe. Confident faith in His government among the nations will help to lift the heavy clouds of fear and oppression which threaten the peace of the world today.

One more lesson may be learned from the parable of the good Samaritan. The immediate need was met and a provision left for future care. Then let us add to our right thinking about our neighbor the assurance that God's continuous, abundant supply for His children is throughout eternity. Thus placing ourselves and our neighbors in God's care, knowing that all is well, we are truly loving God supremely and being a good neighbor.—The Christian Science Monitor.

"Any woman a man happens to like at the time, is his ideal. I don't care how my ideal dresses or paints her face. The weird job of a Choctaw Indian on the war path, is better than an expression like a boarded-up window."

The next woman I love will be one who will not talk when a nod will do. And then only in the affirmative.

Anytime I felt like walking in the rain, everyone of my wives stopped me. An ideal wife would have stopped the rain.

No man wants to say, "Is that you dearie?" and have his mother-in-law answer, "Yes."

Doctors Using New Drug in Pneumonia Cases: Report Success

The lives of more than 100 Detroit children who might die from pneumonia this year may be saved in the Children's Hospital of Michigan by the use of a new drug which checks the disease overnight.

The use of sulfapyridine, a new variant of sulfanilamide, has reduced the pneumonia death rate from 15 per cent to two per cent, according to physicians in this Community Fund agency.

More than 900 children are given care for pneumonia in the hospital annually. Until this year the death rate has been the same as that throughout the United States which has averaged 15 per cent for the last seven years.

Records from the study of 625 children here from December 1 to June 1 indicate that 98 per cent of the children who get pneumonia may be saved by the use of the new drug and other advanced methods of care. The remaining two per cent die in most cases from other complications or because it is too late to do anything for them.

Because of this officials in the hospital have urged that parents call their family doctors for their children on the slightest suspicion of pneumonia.

This saving of lives has been made possible by an intensive study of pneumonia started last year in Children's Hospital under the direction of a physician who is a specialist in bacteriology and child care. The first step was a long series of tests by laboratory technicians to find which one of the 32 types of pneumonia had infected each child.

When they found that a child had one of the types of the disease for which different kinds of helpful serum have been developed treatment with the right kind of serum was begun.

If the tests showed that a child had one of the types of pneumonia for which no serum is available physicians had to rely on the use of oxygen tents, special diets, sedatives, blood transfusions, and expert nursing care. The disease was fatal for 15 per cent of these youngsters. The chances of recovery for those who could be given serum were 95 out of 1000.

These were the methods used until sulfapyridine was brought to this country from England last fall. The new drug was first used in Children's Hospital in December. Physicians found that sulfapyridine in addition to being more effective than serum in individual cases had many other advantages.

The new drug worked with all kinds of pneumonia while serum could be used for only about half of the 32 types. Serum must be injected but the new drug is a powder which can be mixed with water, orange juice and other liquids and swallowed. The expense of treating a child with serum ranged from $15 to $100. Sulfapyridine treatments cost 25 cents a day with a total cost for each patient less than one dollar. Finally, sulfapyridine kills the pneumoia germ overnight. In the average case it was found that the fever returned to normal and the child was on the way to recovery 24 hours after using the new drug.

Sulfapyridine has been used more extensively in Children's Hospital than in any other similar institution in the country. At the fifty-first annual meeting of the American Pediatric Society held early in May at Skytop, Pa., Children's Hospital made a complete report on 200 cases treated with the new drug. The next highest report was on 75 cases by the Babies' Hospital of New York.

Although physicians conducting the pneumonia study in Children's Hospital point to sulfapyridine as the great single factor in the reduction of the death rate they stress that this will not cause a departure from the regular procedure of laboratory tests, the use of available serum, and the continuation along the lines of scientific research to find better means of fighting pneumonia.

The value of using sulfapyridine and serum together has not yet been determined according to one of the physicians conducting the survey.

"There is evidence to indicate that the combined use of serum and sulfapyridine may reduce the mortality rate still further and may eliminate some of the complications of pneumonia," he said. "Therefore we think it unwise at this time to abandon the use of serum and the accompanying labor it

"It is likely that sulfapyridine may prove as beneficial for adults as children although the distribution of the 32 types as they occur in adults is quite different from the types as they appear in children."

Specially designated gifts which have made possible the intensive study of pneumonia in Children's Hospital will be exhausted next fall.

"Because of the expiration of these gifts and a five per cent reduction in Detroit Community Fund budgets this year we must face the responsibility of having to curtail our pneumonia study," Margaret A. Rogers, superintendent said.

The Children's Hospital of Michigan is the largest private institution of its kind in the world.

"Love" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Christian Science Churches throughout the world on Sunday, July 30. The Golden Text (Jude 1:21) is: "Keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life." Among the Bible citations is this passage (I John 4:16): "And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him." Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 510): "Love alone can impart the limitless idea of infinite Mind."

Room Bureaus Set Up For New York Fair

NEW YORK (Special)—Two agencies have been set up in New York City to insure World's Fair visitors' getting living accommodations at a most reasonable price. One is the Mayor's Official World's Fair Housing Bureau, Inc., with headquarters in the Chanin Building, 122 East 42d Street, set up by Mayor LaGuardia to locate rooms for visitors in private homes and dwellings.

The other is the Hotel Room Information Bureau of the Hotel Association of New York City, representing 180 hotels with a total capacity of 80,000 rooms. The bureau is at association headquarters, 221 West 57th Street.

Both agencies function without any charge to the visitor in finding him clean and comfortable accommodations at a price within his means. Rooms in private dwellings range in price from $1 per night per person upward, with the average per person $1.50.

Every Western Union and Postal Telegraph office is equipped to handle requests for rooms in conjunction with the Housing Bureau's operation. Every policeman in New York City is familiar with the plan and is equipped to give visitors first hand information on methods of obtaining registered and sponsored rooms.

On making the application for a room the visitor pays a deposit of 50 cents per night per person for which he receives a receipt. The receipt may be presented to the landlord in lieu of cash as part payment for the room.

Abundance

IT WAS a desert place and there were five thousand to be fed. A lad had brought five loaves and two small fishes. But a disciple said (John 6:9), "What are they among so many?" How different was the view taken by Christ Jesus! The disciples' thought was fearful and their outlook limited. They saw a hungry multitude. Jesus saw hungering hearts: his thought was spiritual. With supreme confidence in the affluence of good he looked to heaven, harmony, and gave thanks.

What a glorious proof was then given that divine law is ever operating in human affairs! The Master knew that supply is primarily spiritual, not material. In obedience to divine law he turned away from sense testimony and demonstrated the truth of present abundance.

It is to be noted that in the demonstrations of Christ Jesus there was no hint of insufficiency or of incomplete demonstration. The need was always met. There was food left over after the five thousand had been fed.

The impotent man was so completely healed that he was able to obey the command (John 6:8), "Rise, take up thy bed, and walk." At the command of the Master, Lazarus came forth from the tomb, "bound hand and foot with graveclothes." And to those who stood by Jesus said with authority (John 11:44), "Loose him, and let him go." Thus every remaining evidence of the claim of death gave way before Jesus' recognition, in Science, of the perfect man, God's image and likeness.

What is the human need? Food, shelter, clothing, money—these are legitimate human needs. The Master promised his followers that these necessary things should be added to those who sought first "the kingdom of God, and his righteousness" (Matthew 6:33). They were to be added, but these things in themselves do not constitute the fundamental human need. Humanity needs to understand God. There is need for spiritual knowing, spiritual living—for holiness. We need to labor to the end that sin, greed, fear, envy, and dishonesty will give place to honesty, unselfishness, purity, and love.

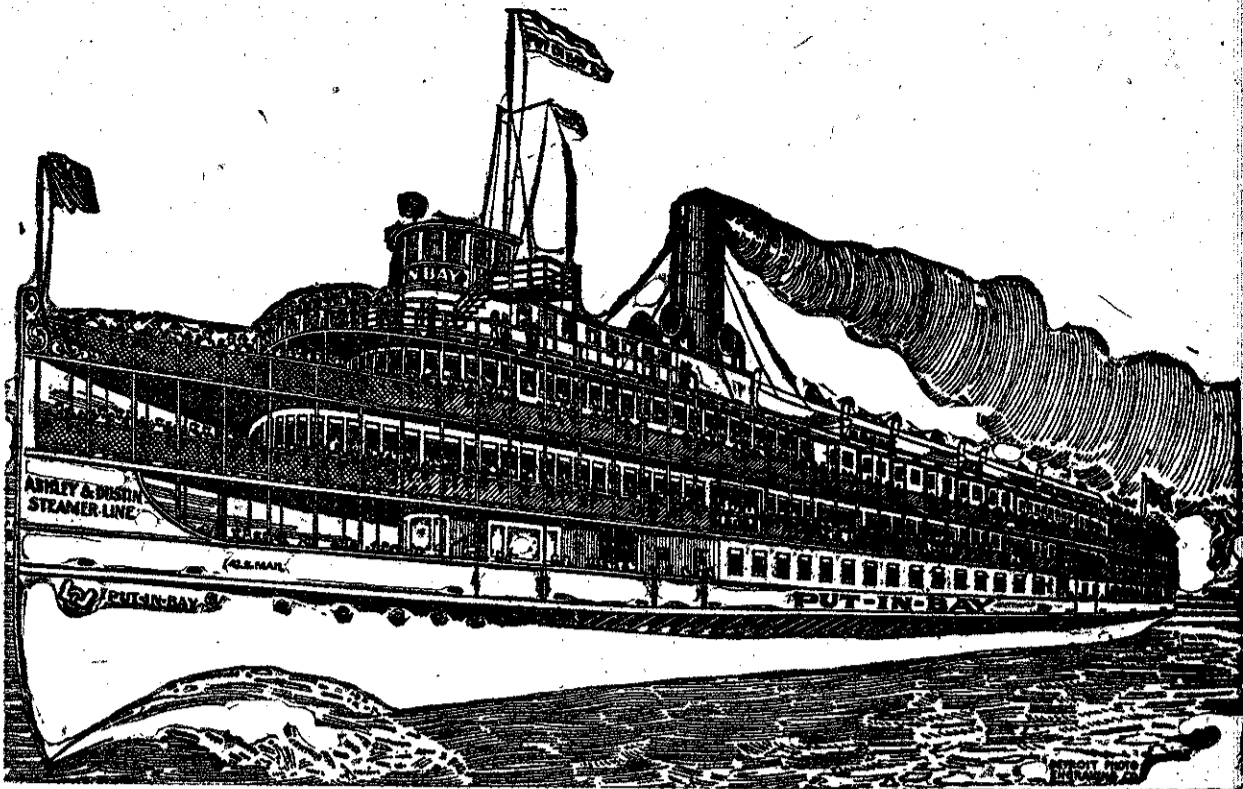

We need to know that, in reality, we are God's children, and that we are held in the arms of ever-loving Love. Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, says (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, p. 494), "Divine Love always has met and always will meet every human need." We have only to be obedient to divine law in order to experience the fulfillment of this promise. The need may be for patience, strength, moral courage, honesty, confidence, or more kindness and gentleness in our daily contacts. Love supplies these needs. We can turn to Him in full assurance that the realization of Love overcomes envy, greed, criticism, doubt, and fear, which have no place in His kingdom.

Lack of any good or useful thing evidences error of belief. All lack arises from the belief that life, substance, and intelligence are material, hence circumscribed and limited. Limitation is always connected with the belief in matter. We need to acknowledge this fact and all that it implies. No amount of material goods will free us from the belief in limitation. The remedy for lack, want, and insufficiency lies in gaining the spiritual understanding of ever-present good.

The real man is spiritual and perfect. He is conscious only of limitless good. Understanding this, one can deny the material supposition of lack. In denying lack and insufficiency and acknowledging the presence of spiritual abundance, the seeker is conforming to God's law—the law of good, which is ever operative and available in human affairs.

So long as we look to matter for our supply, we find lack. Jesus looked away from the evidence of the senses to Spirit, God, when he fed the five thousand. The result was that there was enough and to spare. When we look primarily to a pay envelope, a bank account, or any other material thing for our supply, we throw the weight of our thinking on the side of limitation and lack. In managing our human affairs, honesty demands that we balance our budget; but we can claim persistently and joyously that our real income is not material, but spiritual. We can look away from a limited sense of supply, and thank God for the affluence of good. . . .—The Christian Science Monitor.
