News From Pointe's Elementary Schools

RICHARD SCHOOL
The Parent-Teacher Association held a very successful meeting on Tuesday last week. Two hundred seventy-five people heard an interesting discussion conducted by Mrs. Helen Williams, psychologist from Rochester. The first spoke on various phases of child psychology and the parents' part in successfully helping their children through the present-day crisis.

A motion picture on "How to Handle Indestructible Things" was shown at the beginning of the evening.

The group was served coffee, cakes and cookies from a most attractive table in the gymnasium. The mothers on the committee responsible for the informal luncheon were: Mrs. Robert Patterson, Mrs. Kent Zimmerman, Mrs. B. G. Rich, Mrs. Frederick Diekley and Mrs. William Browne, chairman.

TRUMBLY SCHOOL
Approximately 200 people attended a very interesting Trumbly P.T.A. program which was held in the auditorium on Tuesday evening, March 24, 1942.

The demonstration of the 2nd grade Verse Speaking Choir under the direction of Gertrude Hunt included several exercises for the benefit, lip, jaw and palate, which proved of tone and rhythm can be secured. The choir gave several selections. Three of which were later put to music. Alice Elaine James was the announcer for the group.

The 3-A class, under the direction of Harriet Greve, gave a demonstration of one phase of their physical education work—the rhythmic exercises for more poise and better posture. These are especially to good health and for this reason vital to our home defense.

Group play demonstrated with the 4A Saxette Class how the expressive rhythm and the reading of the music assist the children to become successful players. The selections "My Dad A Little Lamb" and "Burrhead March" were given.

GREEN YOUNKMAN AND JUDY MCKEON sang a solo on their favorite. Pupils from Mr. Boyd's advanced instrument classes also presented selections. Wilma J. and Russell played a violin solo; Ralph Allured a saxophone solo; and Bob Birker a cornet solo.

Forty Trumbly graders from the 5th and 6th grades under the direction of Naama Jones presented the following songs which were chosen for their beauty, friendliness, fun, and patriotism: "The Song," "Natura's Promise of God," "Paul and the Chicks," "Lullaby," "Island of My Dream" and "Homeland." Donna Lee Davenport announced the numbers.

A movie "How to Handle Indestructible Things" concluded the program.

The patriotic spirit among the Trumbly School pupils was evidenced when they recanted the custom of forming in a group around the flag pole in front of the school building for flag raising.

This ceremony has been carried on each Friday morning when the weather permitted for the last two and half years at Trumbly. Bob Temple and Donald Miller were chosen to raise the flag while Donald Binder, the 4B class president, led the group in the flag salute. Don Chaney gave an excellent speech about the flag. Tommy Swanson and Donna Jean Schroeder gave the readings "Year Flag and My Flag" and "Our Flag" respectively. Patriotic songs which were directed by Miss Gertrude Hunt were sung by the 3B class and the entire school group.

TRUMBLY SCHOOL
The 4B grade of the Trumbly School visited the Goodwill Industries last Friday. The class was accompanied by Miss Greve, cafeteria, cleaning establishment and storekeepers.

One of the most worthwhile observations was the ragged furniture and smashed toys being worked upon and remade so that they could be used by the workers as good as new. This gave the group an understanding of how old toys, furniture and other articles can be converted to those in need. All this is accomplished by donations to the Goodwill Industries.

An original five scene play, "From Myth to Fact," was presented by the 6A class of the Trumbly School on Friday, March 20, in the school auditorium. The parents and the fourth, fifth and sixth grades were invited to attend.

During the past few weeks the class has been studying about the development of science. The play

To give him classification in regard to his rank. It is probable that as this work progresses labels will be received from other employers in the community than those who are operating Victory Gardens.

Work with these employers will be credited as indicated below. Although work with parents will be recognized in part, the object of this work experience training program is to provide young people with experience for working for other employers than their parents.

Rank and Pay Rates
The first period and rank is that of apprentice or trainee in which the worker qualifies. These are recommended standards of the Victory Garden Labor Battalion. They are not obligatory on the part of the employer but simply suggest a standard which is encouraged to provide an incentive for young people to do increasingly satisfactory work and to improve in their work habits. It is recommended that work done during training periods receive a wage or stipend which is close to private rate of 20c per hour, as a corporate rate of 30c per hour, and as a minimum rate of 15c per hour.

The following degree the worker is raised as a private and is provided with his insignia as such which will be furnished by the Associated Garden Clubs.

1. Training Period to Private. Three lectures and one satisfactory work experience recommendation signed by the employer. At the completion of this work experience and degree the worker is raised as a private and is provided with his insignia as such which will be furnished by the Associated Garden Clubs.

2. From Private to Corporal. This promotion in the workers' rank is based upon his ability to work under a variety of work experiences or for different people. He will be eligible for the rank of corporal at the pay rate of 30c per hour when he has completed six hours of satisfactory work, recommendation by two or more employers or 8 hours under one employer.

3. From Corporal to Sergeant. This is a test of the worker's ability to carry on sustained work experience in such he can work without close supervision over a long stretch. Any worker who can demonstrate his ability to work an consecutive hours on two different days either for the same employer or for two employers is eligible for the rank of sergeant. The recommended rate of pay of 35c per hour.

Employers who call the office or workers will be included of these three different classifications or workers and can choose whichever type of work they prefer. It is to be borne in mind constantly however that these are recommended rates of pay and are not obligatory under any circumstances.

Save the Children Federation Members Working on Final Plans for Big Event April 17 and 18

The Auction committee for the Save the Children Federation held its last meeting yesterday morning to make final plans for the Auction to be held at the Art Salon Galleries on April 16 and 16, both afternoons and evenings.

Gifts will be accepted this week and will be picked up by the donor will call Mrs. Shepley at Niagara 2788 or Mrs. Ruth Bedford at Niagara 9222. The more gifts there are to sell, the more children of the Metropolitan Defense Area will be helped. For the money from the Auction will definitely be spent in this localized area under the direction of the Office of the Civilian Defense, Mrs. Benjamin O. Shepherd, the Auction chairman, has announced.

Yesterday's meeting was, therefore, a fitting close to the committee meetings. Dr. Edna Noble White, president of Merrill Palmer School, spoke on the day nursery plans and the courses for volunteers which would be offered at the school. After her talk, there was a subscription luncheon for the committee and all those interested in the school plans.

But the committee members are busy as far as work is concerned. Mrs. Alfred H. Reppas, just back from Troy, has her cataloguing committee working in shifts this week and next to complete the listing of all the gifts, and there are some lovely ones.

One of the latest reports includes a complete Victorian bedroom set, a carved walnut chest, a painting by Wagner, some lovely pieces of Sheffield, a decenter set, brass chandeliers, a small Italian chair, some handmade tiles and pottery, a rare Chinese bowl, and many, many more.

Mrs. George Buehnel has been appointed treasurer of the auction, and Mrs. Lloyd G. Hooker is making her last minute plans for the Preview Tea to be given for the donors on April 12, at the Art Salon Galleries.

Call today to have your gift picked up. Your bit may save a child.

Badminton Club To Stage Party

The Grosse Pointe Badminton association, that clubby group which takes its exercise in the High school, found that it's such fun to close its season with a party, that it is winding up its activities with a series of them.

The directors had a gathering in the home of the retiring president, Robert Bryant, of Lincoln road, the week before last. Now the whole organization is going to get in on a fine blowout, April 10.

The party is being kept pretty much of a mystery, just the committee is knowing at this point what it is to be held, but plans which have been divulged to the News are rather special.

The committee is holding a meeting this week in the home of Mrs. John Veech, first woman to be elected a director, on Lakeside avenue.

Women in the War Effort To Be Conference Subject

"How are Detroit women being trained and placed in war production? How can Detroit's existing health, housing and recreation centers be geared to new needs? What are child care centers, and are they needed in Detroit? What are our responsibilities for building good labor standards today?"

These and many other pertinent questions will be answered by experts in a city wide conference on "Women in the War Effort" to be held at the YWCA on Saturday, April 11, from 10 a. m. to 4 o'clock, sponsored by 25 leading Detroit social agencies and organizations. Everyone interested in invited luncheon reservations are requested by April 9 at the YWCA, Cadillac 9220.

Mrs. C. Hayward Murphy, of Oxford road, tops our list of outstanding Grosse Pointe personalities. Mr. Murphy is the mother of two charming daughters, Mrs. Francis S. Cronin (Mary Blair Murphy), of Baltimore, and Mrs. Eppa H. Heston (Nancy Murphy), of Grosse Pointe.

Although petite of stature, this is not in the least indicative of Mrs. Murphy's capabilities. She is active in club life, was president of the Women's Exchange for three years, and she is on the board of the Women's City Club.

Mrs. Murphy says that the great challenge in her life is the Crossword Puzzle, "... and certainly it isn't bridge, for she is an inveterate bridge enthusiast and plays a flawless game. She is a devotee of the Detroit symphony and a member of the Detroit Museum of Art Society founders.

Mrs. Murphy claims no hobby, but surely her fine collection of jade and carnelian miniatures should be counted as such. During the summer season she is a rabid baseball fan and if she is not in the stands you can find her huddled around the radio listening in on the game.

All people have pet peeves, and her's is a certain downtown department store. On the patriotic side, Mrs. Murphy has just turned in four sweaters to the Red Cross.

Magene Mitchell O'Connor is Bride of Russell Riley

Mrs. Magene Mitchell O'Connor were a gown of powder blue, printed in plum colored flowers, and carried white orchids when she became the bride of Russell Hill Riley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Riley, of Lefevoy, Ill.

The Rev. Samuel Porter officiated at the ceremony at 4:30 o'clock last Saturday afternoon in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Mitchell, of Touraine road.

Mrs. Harvey Kinney, sister of the bride, was the only attendant and she wore a navy dress printed with red and white poppies, and carried gardenias. Arthur Schellberg came up from St. Louis to be best man.

Mrs. Mitchell were proud: Mrs. for the occasion and a bouquet of orchids.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Francis Mitchell of Effingham, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Tazary, of Big Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. Marian Bartholomew and Mrs. Schellenberg, of St. Louis.

Annual Meeting Held by Society

The Michigan State Society, Daughters of American Colonists, held its annual state assembly on Wednesday, March 18, in the Regis hotel in Detroit. Mrs. Edward H. Eichelzer and Mrs. Ralph E. Wiener were the hostesses.

Mrs. Edward P. Dickson, Jr., state regent, presided at the luncheon preceding the meeting. The T-shaped luncheon table was an attractive with groupings of small United States flags.

A complete summary of the year's work was given by the officers and committee chairmen.

Delegates and alternates to the national assembly, to be held in Philadelphia, April 24 and 25, were elected. Those chosen to represent the Michigan Society were Mrs. Jacob J. Lamb and Mrs. Charles H. Mooney. The alternates are Mrs. Henry B. St. John, Mrs. Simon, Mrs. Edward H. Eichelzer, Mrs. Hansel D. Wilson and Mrs. Curtis T. Wolford.

The regular monthly meeting of the Dominican High Mothers' club will be held in the Dominican High School, Witherell and McKinley roads, on Wednesday, April 8, at 7:30 p. m.

Members of Grosse Pointe Association Staging Art Showing in Museum; Event Opens Sunday

Members of the Grosse Pointe Artists Association are still rushing in yesterday with their pictures sculpture work to be entered in their Annual Exhibit at the Alger House Museum.

Six hundred invitations have been sent to Art Societies, Art school staffs and personal friends of the members for the opening tea on Saturday, April 4. On Easter Sunday the exhibition will be open to the public and will continue through April 25.

To pique your interest, we might give you a brief preview of some of the outstanding pictures. John Pappas entered a canvas titled "Winter Hill" which is particularly notable in his use of fresh colors and free style brush work.

Mrs. John Fox, president of the association, is exhibiting an oil still-life and a landscape. The still-life "Copper, Green and Gold" is indicative of the artist's color sense, and "Under The Big Chestnut Tree," so aptly titled, will be a favorite. The painting is a very naive quality about and this one in particular is amusing from the point of view. One of the finest escapes in the exhibition is "The Blue Doves" by Mrs. Doris Hesse Stebbins. These are but a few of the

Some 25 residents gathered in the Nester home Friday night to see where they were getting in the matter of protecting their neighborhood. The Nester recreation room made a cozy place for the meeting and some lingered on into the small hours to discuss the situation.

Boat Club Gives Hard Times Party

A Hard Times party is the proper stunt during war-time and the Detroit Boat Club gave one of the best Saturday night. The main and supper was excellent, although the price per "hard-timer" did not exceed $10. The girls were anything from checked gingham to overalls and the men's costumes were just as varied.

Mary Lloyd Carpenter was sporting a glamorous scarlet tweed jacket and it may have been partially responsible for attracting the soldiers that were clustered around her table. Among the crowd I spotted the gay threesome of Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Moser and Don Schilling. Others "doing it up" were Eugene Werthel and Bill Stansfield, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Quirk, and Yeoman Roger Vander Kar.

MR. E. D. VINING, of Maryland avenue, left last Saturday with her daughter, Betty Ann, for El Paso, Tex., where Betty will be married to Arthur O. Elliot, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O. "Sarah Is So Sensible"

by
Marian Eddy Standish

How could he have been so impatient over her desire for a career. How could he have so much misunderstood the girl? He had never realized until now that she loved Mary as he would never again love another. These weeks of searching for Sarah—then the little ones they were enduring now—had opened Jimmy's eyes to her knowledge that she wanted Mary in it would give all interest and all delight.

How very little Jimmy overestimated the fact that he had told Mary how much she meant to him and he had kissed her—but only as a sort of brotherly way. Perhaps now he would never HAVE a chance at the kitchen table. The two men sat close together, their heads touching. She ate beans and a big slice of bread and butter. She reached quickly out and put sugar into her coffee and then milk from the pitcher. "I'm waiting," she said. "I'm waiting," she said. "I'm waiting," she said. "I'm waiting," she said.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE
When the two men pulled Mary out of the trunk where she had been packed over those country roads she was so stiff from the constrained position that for a moment she could not stand. They had to hold her upright until her some muscles relaxed and then they were able to get her into the car which had been asleep for some minutes. When the pain of this had subsided she sat down and waited. It was so long that she was almost in a small room. She sat there, unthinkingly, until she had been taken to her room and she had a bath. The flickering light settled into a steady glow and by her side was a chair that she was in what was evidently a kitchen.

It was small, bright and cheerful. She handed her the sheet of paper and the end of a pencil which had obviously been checked. "So far I am all right. Please do what they say. Have 300,000 francs and will let you know where to put it. If you tell police they won't let it. Please, daddy. Do not let them find out that you have done this for me. I'm waiting for you. I'm waiting for you. I'm waiting for you. I'm waiting for you." "Now understand this," he said. "You are to stay as long as you believe, but let me hear one thing out of you and you'll go to the big money center. We're going to take the gas out of your mouth now and feed you. Now remember! Not a sound out of you, though for that matter it wouldn't do you any good. There's a bit of soul with millions of francs."

"He pulled the piece of cloth from Mary's mouth and the girl moved her lips and worked her jaw. He hurt, she found, and she saw the man's eyes here. One of them, the younger, brought her a dipper of water and she tried thoughtfully to sip a little. After that she could speak.

"Thanks—could I—wash my hands before I eat?"

They showed her into the bedroom with another warning and closed the door. Mary went to the washstand, opened the neck of her blouse and with the end of the rough towel, she bathed her face and neck—looking indignantly at the spots left from the measles that still disfigured her neck and shoulders. "Think, Heaven, she thought, her face was fairly clear. After that previous five minutes she had not opened her mouth in ceremony and the older of the two men jerked his head at her as she said she must come out. They had flattered a kerosee stove and the smell of coffee seemed to Mary to be the most delicious she had ever smelt. The girl realized that in spite of her fright, in spite of the slight discomfort of her body and mouth, she was tremendously hungry.

"They brought her a plate of food, a cup of the steaming coffee, she was allowed to sit down at the

Pointe Players Again Score With "Tovarich" Production

By ALLEN PARDECCI
"Tovarich" was played before large audiences last Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday nights at the Grosse Pointe High school. Produced by Pointe Players, the high school dramatic organization, the play was enthusiastically received by both parents and students.

Carl Vogt and Rosanne Stupp played the leading roles, taking the parts of exiled Russian nobility. Directed by Mrs. J. J. Anderson, assisted by the assistance of Mrs. Elizabeth Hill.

"Tovarich" was a dramatic play, but the group did an exceptionally good job in the cast. They were: Carl Vogt, Rosanne Stupp, Margaret Littlefield, Louis James, James Ryan, Robert Shephard, Pat Tobin, Ted Johnston, Fred Johnston, James Austin, Marjorie Lennon, John Deane, Bob Hauke, Henry Williams, William Anderson, Ellen Rice and David Kenny.

He arranged and quickly showed the group back into her hall. She started to protest but the sag showed her brutally. They led her hands together, then her feet and the younger man bent down and opened a well hidden trap door beneath her. They lifted her by her heels and her shoulders and Mary was so discouraged as she saw the group were going to put her down that trap.

"I'm waiting for you," she said. "I'm waiting for you," she said. "I'm waiting for you," she said. "I'm waiting for you," she said.

Cinderella Books Star Combination

A star combination that proved itself so successful with its first appearance, is again due to hit the nation's screens. The lovely blonde Madeline Carroll and the stalwart blonde Stirling Hayden who were so well paired in "Virginia," are again next Friday to the Cinderella Theatre in their new production "Bahama Passage." "Bahama Passage," which is based on Nelson Hays Billing's novel, "Bahama Passage," tells the story of a girl who comes to the salt-producing island in the West Indies and takes the heart of its owner by storm. Advance reports have it that the excitement rides unusually high when, after a series of thrilling adventures, the two are left stranded alone on the island—a modern Adam and Eve in a garden paradise.

The story of the girl who knows what she wants and how to get it, the blonde star turns in one of her best roles in "Bahama Passage," which fulfills the promise of stardom she

The long-awaited Carole Lombard picture "The Heir or the Heiress" started today at the United Artists Theatre and shows our country a much changed man from his role in the early family epic.

The only holdover from the old Hardy films is that Andy can still get in a lead out of more trouble than he can solve. In this film Andy goes in trouble with the FBI and later, to please his Dad, attends the co-ownership of very pretty center, Donna Reed.

Spring—1942

Spring is only ten days old but already we have more of the dates on our calendar to tell us that a new season is quickly on the way. The birds are stretching, the first of robins and other feathered songsters are here and even the very ground in the garden is taking on which seems to invite the spade. The white wings will multiply on the river and lake. The tangled woods the trees are giving forth their green of a quality and abundance not surpassed in seasons. The patient day and night boiling in the house in the basin will readily convert this into a greenness which will be especially welcomed in year of sugar rationing. Soon we will note with Victoria's Laureate the deeper crimson, the waning Waxwing's new crest, the heeler iris on the burnished Dove. Food and parents no difficulty in recognizing the lighter turn in the face of the youth of the household. The old drab days of winter are fast receding and new work of light and hope comes on the scene. The new dress which all nature will fast assume come a strengthening realization that this metaphoric is symbolic of this land of ours, of America the faithful, pointing ever forward to things new and yet beautiful and to a redemption of body and spirit preservation of that which is, and the promise of to come for ourselves, for our children and for their land.

Service and Conscience

There is no better way to maintain the morale of people during the war than to enlist the largest possible active participation in one or more of the open to civilian service. The men and women who seriously and constantly of their time and effort are to have their courage and spirit completely enlisted. In addition to the great need for large numbers of men in the various departments of civilian defense for practical work to be done through the use of their own hands and their own brains, there is a continuous realization of the possibility which rests upon them personally and upon theirs in civilian life to carry on. That desire which is latent in every patriotic heart to do a worthwhile work for the nation's need will best find satisfaction in the performance of a varied routine service. The complexity of modern war, the bringing of entire populations within the danger zone, calls for the help of practically everybody. There is in this emergency into which almost everyone or old will fit, and it is the duty of every patriotic man and woman to acquaint himself or herself where capacities will best apply, both for the Nation's well-being and their own conscience and composure.

Same Weapons

It is useless to try to plot a war-winning campaign in a country which does not contemplate equal sacrifice and effort by all. Any criticism of labor in war industry because it insists on only 40 hours a week except a time or double time rates is silly and hypocritical. It does not oppose with equal vehemence the maneuvering war industrialists for bonuses and outrageous salaries. The manufacturer of plane motor starters who paid merely $29,000 salary and "cuts" and himself a paid $150,000 salary and bonus, is not a hypocrite. It leaves a dark brown taste in the mouths of the citizens and prompts the natural query as to how there here like these there may be not yet uncovered. The American people must realize quickly that this can only be won by the citizen, who should be primarily for personal profit beyond that which is necessary in the case of the worker to keep abreast of advance costs, and in the case of the manufacturer, to pay just return to the stockholders with whom in many instances this return is their chief or sole source of income. The countries that started this war and who planned its prosecution with the exactness of a scientific formula, are the real meaning and conduct of "all out war." With it is no mere catch phrase to stimulate patriotic ardor. It is a grim reality to be enforced and applied with equal thoroughness. It is a weapon which they have tried with skill and effect since firing their first shot, one which we must adopt quickly and genuinely if we hope to survive against their attack.

Meat of Democracy

It is a reflection on the civic mindedness of the people of the Park, Farms and Woods when only about seven of the citizens who are qualified to vote goes to polls to participate in the election of local officials. It appears that the old officials who have proved their ability and capabilities were selected but the meagre recorded was a small recognition of merit on the part of the men and women who have profited by the unselfish alert conduct of their municipal affairs by these men. In indifference to local elections is very often the prelude to mismanagement and graft in village and city government. Possibly in a community such as ours where general intelligence and basic civic virtues rank high may be an unwarranted complacency. Many may see themselves with the belief that the qualities in government which have benefited so many municipalities in this country cannot happen here. This is an unjust assumption. When the men and women of a locality become obviously uninterested in the conduct of their public affairs the stage is set for the infiltration of unscrupulous and scheming elements which deliberately plan to over and run the business of local government for their own advantage, which invariably means to the disadvantage of the decent but "sheep" of the community. One certain effective safeguard against this situation is an alert citizenry which takes its duties seriously. Faithfully, in fair or stormy weather, gives expression to that first function in a free land, the casting of the ballot. It is little credit to these Grosse Pointe residents that at the very moment when the country is being plunged into a war whose chief issue is the retention of democratic ideas in government, we should exhibit such indifference to the franchise which is the lifeblood and soul of working democracy.

Symbolic scene for Editor & Publisher by Harry Brubaker

Philippine Backdrop

MacArthur's dramatic exit from the Philippines will recall to many of the oldsters that he is not the first American military figure who has used the islands as a backdrop for eye filling exploits. There was "Black" Jack Pershing who had a war with the kilt-wearing Moros of the Sulu's so effective that he shortly persuaded these natural born pirates and bloodletters to a loyalty to the American rule that has endured quite satisfactorily to the present day. A recent news item says that the sons and grandsons of these same doughty warriors have sworn to fight to the death against the Japs, i. e., for our mutual Uncle Sammel.

Then there was the red headed Kansas militia captain who after swimming a river under fire with a towline in his teeth, conceived the idea that by gaining possession of the person of the No. 1 Hell raiser of the insurrection, substantial progress would be made toward settling that unmanageable. Disguised as a native, Fred Funston entered the tent of the Filipino leader at night and seizing brother Aguinado by the hair of his head and seat of his pants (if any), delivered him, with the aid of five companions, to the American military headquarters as the prize package of the season. Funston's logic proved correct and the insurrection was quickly over. This was the same Fred Funston who in April 1906, then with the rank of General, was in military charge of the ruined city of San Francisco. He deemed the possession of useful human fingers carrying rings sufficient evidence of looting, raping and possible murder to justify filling these gentry with cold lead. This discouragement was applied and these ghoulish practices stopped like a stone wall. It is also the same Aguinado who after masquerading under a pseudo loyalty to America for forty years has recently been reported to have thrown in his lot with the venomous dwarfs in temporary possession of Manila.

A Knight Sounds Forth

The Sir Knight who stood up in the British House of Commons the other day and tumbled with honor and indignation at the suggestion that British soldiers or sailors anywhere on earth should be subjected to the orders of American officers hasn't excited a ruffle on either side of the ocean. He is merely the latest example of the embarrassments and nuisances with which all countries at times have to deal. The best proof of the utter lack of support for his thought among the people of Great Britain is seen in the tired yawn with which Commons received his remarks. But the keenest disappointment to the Knight must have been experienced when he discovered the next day the complete unanimity with which every important journal of Great Britain smothered him with silence.

There has never been a time within living memory when the British and American people have moved with such real mutual understanding.

MRS. R. M. ORAVSON WRITES: Where and when do you think that the fighting in Africa will take place this summer?
ANSWER: As far as I have been able to determine, both the allies and the axis have agreed to drop the "hame and home" arrangement, so popular last season, and are planning to fight on the North African opening in Terna the week of June 10th, Trobruk June 15th, and beyond June 20th.

A traveling man sat on one of my labbers and ordered the following—"Orange juice in a greeny glass, fried waffles cooked so long that they were to be as tough as the leather on a horse, a hot brown to a crisp." He then requested that I let my hair fall down over my face and that I sit down at the table with him. Don't you think he was most peculiar?
ANSWER: Just homicide.

Petty Pointes

By Buck Leer

"This rationing business is more complicated than we realized. For instance, a release from the State Department of Agriculture informs us that it was necessary to get approval for 600,000 pounds of sugar to feed honey bees to the state between now and the time sugar is again available to them in flowers. Bees are regarded as essential to the war effort and county war boards will see that they are well fed. The honey they produce is a substitute for sugar and the bees is valuable in aircraft manufacture. More important, the wax is a pollination agent and without their busy help, crops could not be produced commercially at a profit, nor as abundantly as war demands call for."

"Put Mark on."

There followed a lengthy period during which Mark the News and most everyone in general were mutely berated. The editorial was -ll wrong. Nothing about it was right. Mark had the wrong idea. . . . EASTER SERVICE—11 A. M.
Sermon—"The Companion of Our Way"
Reception of New Members

While you're out SHOPPING
use your convenient DETROIT EDISON OFFICE
WHILE you are out shopping or visiting or on the way to an afternoon movie, use the most convenient Edison office to transact any Detroit Edison business you may have. It is designed to serve your needs quickly and comfortably—for bill inquiries, appliance purchases, service inquiries, bill payments, turn-on and turn-off orders, lamp renewals, etc.
There's more to it than just convenience. Using your Detroit Edison office when you are in the vicinity is a patriotic help. With tires, care, etc. being rationed, The Detroit Edison Company is adjusting its work to meet wartime conditions. There will be no hindering of our emergency service; it will be as prompt as ever. Under the tire rationing provision, we will still be able to get tires for our heavy trucks, and in emergencies—storm, wires down, etc.—line trucks will be on the job as always. But the present tire rationing order will not allow us to purchase tires for delivery trucks or the ordinary light cars with which we do most of our business. You can help us by carrying lamp bulbs, small appliances and packages to and from the Detroit Edison office. The Detroit Edison Company.
