Victory Gardening

By V. M. DE PETRIS

Americans this year are planting gardens to help their country in the war emergency and to maintain morale at home.

The planting of gardens at this time will help the war effort on the home front by making available health giving food from the land. Moreover, the labor needed in cultivating Victory Gardens might have remained unemployed and therefore unproductive were this program not undertaken.

Victory Gardens will not only make more food available to the country, but they will bring us health giving vegetables teeming with the necessary vitamins to keep us healthy and sound. In the last war food was a vital factor in bringing victory to the allies. In the present war food again will prove decisive. As a nation, we must remain strong and healthy so we may at all times be in prime condition to either work or fight.

These are just a few compelling reasons for Victory Gardens. We need not consider more.

Hope to Be Helpful

This column will attempt to help many of our amateur gardeners with their gardening problems. If the reader is interested in gardens, he may proceed with a small plot on his own property or he may obtain one of these gardens by applying to his municipality. All that will be needed is the small fee of one dollar and the will and determination to devote a little time in horticultural work to produce both vegetables and flowers.

Your Victory Garden committee does not advise the plowing of valuable lawns for this purpose, especially when fertile idle land is available for cultivation.

2 GOOD REASONS FOR A PRACTICE BACKOUT

Should Plan Carefully

The rows should be carefully planned and laid out. We should do this thoughtfully so that erosion is at a minimum.

The location of rows should preferably be North to South so that plants will not cast shade upon each other. We should make certain that life giving sunlight reaches every plant in our Victory Gardens at least for a good part of the day. If, therefore, you plant such a garden on your own stake, under any circumstances, place this plot under trees.

Prepare the soil by carefully raking and pulverizing it when it is in a dry state. Do not attempt to work it if it is wet. Ordinary heavy soil does not need fertilizer, although fertilizer if used will help to produce better crops. Make the rows straight by using a line attached to two stakes.

Depend on Preference

The types of vegetable and flowers you wish to grow should largely be personal preference, but the writer does not encourage cultivation of such crops as potatoes, squashes, pumpkins, etc. These can be more profitably grown on farms.

While all plants are obtained from seeds, there are many garden plants whose seed must be sown. These include egg plant, pepper, etc. Best results are obtained by buying young plants of these and transplanting them when both the ground and the weather are warm. Among the vegetables which can be raised by direct sowing of seed in open ground are radishes, carrots, beets, beans, corn, etc.

The time of transplanting and sowing varies with the variety but is usually between the 20th of May in the vicinity of Detroit. A few tender plants such as tomatoes, pepper and egg plant should be planted after Memorial Day excepting in some unusual sheltered location.

Plant Deeply

In sowing seed, do not sow too thickly. Pulverize the soil with a hoe and rake thoroughly. After sowing cover seed to a depth of approximately four times the diameter of the seed. This is an approximate rule but it is a good one to remember. Larger seeds of beets and tomatoes should be sown a little deeper while smaller seed may be covered less.

Turn the soil after sowing and then water thoroughly. The time for germination will depend upon the variety and the temperature. In transplanting, one of the most important things to remember is not to plant too deeply. Plants should be planted at approximately the same depth which they grew.

Junior League's Shop Has Opening

Now, when we are all concerned with maintaining civilian morale, the Spring opening of the Junior League Little Shop in the Village shopping district should be of special interest to Grosse Pointers.

The Little Shop, although it carries china, glassware, silver, and complete line of gifts, is operated solely as an outlet for the linens and baby clothes made by the handicapped people of greater Detroit, or the Detroit League for the Handicapped. These people, whose earning capacities are so limited by their handicaps, are constantly overcoming the greatest obstacles to help them achieve that objective, not through charity, but by the purchase of the practical and beautiful products of their labor, which are considered by many a real privilege.

A great effort has been made this spring to produce new, useable articles in new designs and interesting materials. Make it a point to go into this accessible shop and see the new spring things — everything from dish towels to bedspreads—especially from Tuesday, May 28 through Friday, May 29, when you may be able to make the most of a door prize, whether or not you make a purchase.

FARMS TO GET CARS

New scout cars for the Grosse Pointe Farms police were approved Monday by the Farm Council. Immediate shipment is expected.

The tomato is perhaps the most widely grown and preferred vegetable in the home garden. This popularity is well deserved. The tomato is not only one of the most healthful vegetables grown but one which yields abundantly. Moreover, it can be used in both salads as well as raw or cooked and for preserving or canning. From the foregoing, it is apparent that the tomato holds first rank in the vegetable garden. It is truly the king of all vegetables.

When properly grown tomatoes plants may be made to yield large quantities of fruit. For this reason, this column next week will be devoted in a large part to the culture of tomatoes in Victory Gardens.

We will consider staking, pruning, fertilization of soil and other salient points to help raise large quantities of luscious fruits from comparatively small plots.

Michigan Alumni's Annual Spring Frolic to Be June 6

Event Is Sponsored By Chapter In Pointe

Gala Dance and Supper Will Be Staged In University Club; Reservations Limited to 100 Couples

The Grosse Pointe Chapter of the University of Michigan Club will hold its annual Spring Frolic, Saturday evening, June 6, at the University Club on E. Jefferson. The Supper Dance in February was so popular with those who attended that the club was asked to repeat that kind of a party.

The music will be furnished by the Rounda Orchestra under the direction of Mr. Perry. Supper will be served at 11:30 and will include as before, chicken pie, steaming potatoes, fried salad, dessert and coffee. This is all cared for in the price of the ticket, $3.75 per couple.

Due to the size of the supper, rooms and dance floor, tickets cannot be sold to more than 100 couples. Table reservations for group parties may be made with Miss Bernice Moore, who may be reached at Niagara 2309 from 9 to 5 and at Drexel 3474 after 6 p.m. Tickets may be obtained from any of the officers or governors of the club as well as from Miss Moore.

One of the interesting features provided by this orchestra will be old fashioned square dancing with an instructor and caller. It will not be possible to accept or cancel reservations after Thursday night, June 4, so it would be advisable to make all party arrangements well in advance and as definite as possible. This will be the club's last activity this year, and it is sincerely hoped by those in charge of this party that all of those who have enjoyed the previous parties can arrange to get out for this one and have one more good old "Michigan" time together.

An intensive drive for salvage is getting under way in the Pointe area this week, sponsored by the American Women's Voluntary Service. Mrs. John Sweeney of Boronia is chairman of the committee in charge of the campaign.

Under the direction of the Wayne County Salvage Committee, the A W V S is expected to yield a great deal of material scrap and rubber for production purposes. The collection of all residents is urged.

Leaflet pamphlets are being distributed to every home in connection with the drive. Leaflets are being handed out in the city and it is expected there will be a great deal of material for collection.

At the same time, the committee also announces that a course in Home Protection is being held in the hall on Monday morning. This will be a class course to be held on Tuesday and Friday, from 10 to 11:30 a. m. Howard Bingham will be the instructor.

Richard Pupils Raise Wild Baby

Three grey cat was running in the lawn, pawing at a grey animal in the grass. At the time the cat gently slapped grey. Mr. Mathewson, who was watching from the yard door, saw the little grey cat to jump feebly away.

Mr. Mathewson discovered the grey cat in the yard. It was a very young, wild rabbit, much larger than a little grey, and who seemed to be afraid and evasive.

After most morning his daughter, Paula Mathewson, took the cat to the Richard School. It was an extremely odd cat to raise a wild rabbit without its mother.

It was taken to the school each morning and the third day a nursing bottle was donated. The nursing bottle was placed on the other side of the cage.

Town Meeting

One of the outstanding advantages of residence in the smaller divisions of municipal government is the opportunity afforded to each citizen to participate in the discussions and decisions of public affairs. Such an opportunity is afforded in the town meeting scheduled tomorrow night in the Pierce Junior High school arranged by the Citizens' Association of Grosse Pointe Park for a discussion of the benefits and disadvantages of the Home Rule amendment for the residents of the Pointe area.

Gas

In the seventeen Atlantic seaboard and tidewater states where gas rationing has already been introduced an experience has been encountered which is not indicative of patriotic cooperation in the war effort. An unexpectedly large proportion of the applicants for gas cards have by misrepresentation obtained "X" and "B" cards to which they were not entitled.

Ships and Things

The American people do not relish the idea of meeting the submarine menace along our coasts by the method of building ships faster than the enemy can sink them. Undoubtedly the naval authorities understand this matter far better than the arm chair strategists, but the latter can be blamed for wondering why it is possible to construct a vast tonnage of cargo ships around 2000 miles of submarine-infested ocean with a relatively smaller loss than we have in sending our own boats up and down the coast within sight of our own shores.

Dies Irae

An incident that probably passed almost unnoticed in the heavy war news of the day appeared in the press a few days ago which suggests the detestation and hatred that must be mounting against Germany in the countries that have abandoned plundered. Out of her own food supplies, which must be carefully husbanded during these times, England had promised Turkey 70,000 tons of wheat.

Among the conquered peoples of Europe, who learned of the incident by the grapevine telegraph or through prohibited radio listening, in hatred for their oppressors must have been fanned anew. The comparison between this humanitarian act and the planned war policy of a country which supports war by plundering the conquered, by enslaving civilians for the production of munitions for the killing of their own friends and relatives, and finally by starving to death the mothers and babies and helpless aged, must engender a fury which will be fearful to contemplate when the inevitable turn in the tide of the war occurs.

Vice President Wallace and the other planners for a better and more just society will probably encounter their first great embarrassment when they sit at the post war council table and face the representatives of the plundered, enslaved and starved peoples of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Greece, Norway, Holland, Belgium and France.

Another great American humanitarian who was our supreme representative in the dispositions following the other world war faced similar embarrassments. When President Wilson met the more realistic Lloyd George and Clemenceau he encountered oppositions which he was wholly unable to overcome.

It is yet too early to speculate on post war settlements. We know already that there is a tornado of illwill in Europe which will be difficult to control. And quite possibly our own tempers will be inclined to sweat-heat and light when we have reached the end of the journey and will have suffered more serious dislocations than a rationing in sugar and gas. First of all, there is a way to fight with win.

Madagascar-Martinique

The people are anxiously regarding, from their ill-informed side line, the progress of the well concealed negotiations our government is carrying on with the Laval government of France. They hope it is not going to be another case like the one which was being handled in the hope for is to obtain the neutrality of France for the remainder of the war. Even that seems to be a difficult, contract.

The whole world knows that Laval is unfriendly to the Allied Nations. In political spirit and thought he is blood brother with the Hitlerian scheme of rule. He is openly allied with that central European group whose concept of decency in international relations is best epitomized by Von Dietrichow's characterization of treaties as "scraps of paper."

The British grabbed off a toehold on the northern tip of Madagascar, likewise belonging to France, but thousands of miles from British shores, for no more tangible reason than as an additional safeguard of her route to the East.

Play, with a discussion of racial background and of the native Indians who constituted the majority of the population of much of South America today. For a better understanding of the matter being mentioned reading the latest published version of the Latin American present context. "Blood and the World" by Ciro Alegria, Farrar & Rinehart, which is a deeply moving story of the struggle of the worst in modern civilization on the best in the primitive.

The year 1942 is of particular importance in Brazilian history. It is the 40th year since the discovery of Amazon by Orellana and the 5th since the Amazon was opened up to international traffic by Don Pedro. To commemorate these occasions, Modern Age is publishing on May 11th, "Amazing Amazon," a gay, informal account of an 800-mile trip to the headwaters of the great river, by Ross and Bob Brown. Mr. Brown, who is absolutely qualified to write "Good neighbor" books, for they have lived 15 years in Brazil and know and love this country.

Modern Age announces that "Remember Pearl Harbor," the only full eye-witness account of the events of December 7th, by Blake Clark is now in its second printing. Hawaiian sales alone have reached the astounding total of 2,800 copies and the publishers feel that this is the best possible guarantee not only of the accuracy, but also of the dramatic effectiveness and morale-awakening power of the book.

Oliver Dione Hornel opened her talk on "Understanding Our Good Neighbors," recently acted in the University of Michigan extension series on "The New Books and

So many parents have now completed their First Aid courses that it isn't safe for one to have an accident in a public place. It would be certain death at the hands of the mob which would rush to practice the newly acquired knowledge.

One of the teachers recalled his class the other night with an experience he had while journeying to Birmingham recently. Far out Woodward he came on an automobile accident. The victim was gashed out under a tree while two factions argued vociferously above him.

A student confesses that a lump as big as a baseball came up inside him when, the day after he finished his first aid course, a car overtook directly in front of him on a hill-side road.

These women who came back for more must have been troubled up for we heard some of the same ones who were damning the poor teacher for scaring them, praise him to the skies at the course progressed. Or maybe he just toned his subject matter down a bit.

With the opening of the Detroit race season approaching, we are led to wonder what the horses of the Pointe's two best known trainers, Ted Dahl and Fred Alger, are thinking these days. Both are far away, serving in the United States Navy.

IT CAN HAPPEN HERE. If you can find anything wrong with the following sentences, all we can say is that you are a better person than most. Beware only hold out for six weeks against Germany.

India, an act, incidentally, which excited not a ripple of resentment in all France aside from personal fulminations from Laval himself. Are we to remain quiet in the continued possession by the same hostile French government of a group of little islands within hailing distance of our home shores which could easily be used by an enemy as a jumping off point for air attack or as a submarine base?

With the exception of the French islands there is not a point in or near the whole North American continent that is not under our control or open friendly to us. It is intolerable that this pestiferous spot should be permitted to remain a nuisance and an anxiety, during the whole course of the war.

"BARON STRESSES JUDGMENT NEEDED NOW IN BUYING WHEN SPENDING YOUR MONEY, SPEND IT WISELY. BUY THINGS OF A PERMANENT VALUE." - Baron, April 25, 1942.

A Man's Hands

Poppy Day, May 24, 1942

President Roosevelt said not long ago: Americans from all walks of life, rich and poor, country-bred and city-raised, farmer, student, manual laborer and white collar worker, will learn to live side by side, to depend upon each other in military drills and maneuvers, and to appreciate each other's dignity as American citizens.

Another generation learned that lesson. How well you may judge for yourself from the letter that follows: "Dear Jim: 'A man's hands are ill suited to the fashioning of paper flowers. Time was when we would have laughed aloud at the suggestion that was long ago when we were young and strong."

Even giant turbines need "LOW gear" TO "KEEP 'EM ROLLING" at top speed. The speeding wheels of large turbines like the one above are playing a vital part in Detroit's war industries - generating electric power for hundreds of factories, for homes and offices and homes. Yet strangely enough, these high-speed machines have a "low gear" so slow as to barely "turn over"...

Comedy Will Help War Program

The "Penhouse Players", a group of the Aviation Cadet Recruiters, are staging the play "Broadway" by Dunning-George Abbott, June 11 and 12, at the Marine Temple Scottish Rite Club. The proceeds are given to the United States government to help win the war.

Training "on the job" in war industry has resulted in as much as 50 per cent increase in production in some cases, according to reports of the War Production Board's labor division. Training within industry is one of the ways in which the U. S. is meeting the skilled labor crisis.

Scouts Bring Season to Close With Arts and Crafts Exhibit

The Cubscouts of Richard School's Pack No. 630 had their last meeting Tuesday night at Grosse Pointe Park, Michigan, and will resume activities after school starts in the Fall at Pack No. 74.

The change in number is due to the organization of a scout troop at Richard School this past year. In Cubscouting the 600 series denotes a Pack without a scout troop for the boys to graduate into, and since Troop 74 has been organized by Charles Lord, the Pack was redesignated with the same number as the troop.

Awards Are Presented Fifty individual Cub awards were made, a record breaking number, for a total of 157 for the year. Among these were set Webelos awards given to Dick Schmitz, Jim Hearst, Jim Flom, Ted Olaus, George Kennedy, and Blount Slade. This is the highest award and indicates that the boys are ready for scouting.

Blount Slade is one of the very few boys who has received every possible award that could be granted a Cub. Instead of the usual entertainment provided by the Pack Committee a very interesting first aid demonstration was put on by Troop No. 74.

Major feature of the evening was the crafts exhibits put on by each Den. These displays were placed on tables around the gym for the visitors to examine. They were excellent and represented a great deal of effort and ability on the part of the boys and the Den Mothers.

Pin Back Hitler's Ears Ceiling prices now are in effect for most goods bought by consumers. Everyone should remember it is up to him or her to help the merchant put into effect this far-reaching program.

Remember that prices need not be the same in all stores for the same article. The maximum price is the price for which a particular store sold a particular article during March. Also, there are some articles on which there is no fixed maximum.

Give the store-keeper a break. Don't start yelling right off the bat. This is your program, it is for your protection; eventually, you will be called upon to help with its enforcement; but, right now, be tolerant, considerate and cooperative.

Light the way to victory by turning off all lights during the Power's "blackout" next Sunday from 10 to 10:15 P. M.

ALEXANDER KORDA presents
with Merle OBERON

Probably the most important news on the screen front is that "Kings Row" has outdone Detroit film officials and set house records at the United Artists theater, where the picture is going into its sixth consecutive week. Movie moguls point out that the picture is the second one in U. A. history that has run for 42 weeks.

The first movie was "Gene With the Wind," which of course had the break of a best-selling novel and a very long publicity campaign to find the girl, Scarlett "Kings Row," while the novel was well read, nevertheless appeared suddenly in film form and without too much advance notice.

Rudyard Kipling's famous story "Anglo-Boo" has been made into a technical film by the Korda brothers and will be released this week at the Michigan theater.

Kipling's tale of India was exciting reading, and made a good film. Sita, the boy wonder, leaps and frolics through the jungle growth and gives an inspiring performance as the little boy raised by a pack of wolves.

The Korda have done a wonderful job of scenery work and every minute of the picture will probably hold you spellbound. As far as color photography goes, the picture has little equal.

The companion feature is "Gentlemen After Dark," a thriller. At the Palm-Stage the Edward G. Robinson picture holds over for another week, and the new addition to the bill is Bob Hope's "My Favorite Blonde," which has just finished two successful weeks at the Michigan.

Star to Return To Club Royale

Club Royale has been all-a-buzz during the past week for the news that Dean Murphy, young comedy star, returns for his fifth appearance to star in the new "Show of Shows" that opens on Friday at the Club Royale.

It was at the Club Royale that Dean Murphy first created stardust attention and from there went to Broadway's leading theatres and the supper clubs of Manhattan. It was at the Royal Palm in Florida this season that Paramount picture mogul saw him and decided he should become a Paramount picture star. So because of early picture commitments, Dean will only appear in the new show for one week. Pretty Kay Vernon, comedy stylist deluxe, brings some charming tunes for a spot of reverie. # Story of Welsh Miners On Alger Theatre Screen

A miner, boxer, soldier, actor, a transport officer, and now a politician—all of these occupations have made Mr. Richard Llewellyn one of the most colorful literary figures of our time. His great novel of Wales, "How Green Was My Valley," made into a motion picture by the Century-Fox, which opens at the Alger theatre Friday, has become one of the greatest best-selling novels of all time.

He dedicated his book thus: "To my father and the land of my fathers." As you might gather from this, Llewellyn and his family were not only Welsh, but were proud of it. Although he looks to be about thirty-five, when he begins to talk about all that he has done and seen you feel that he must be older. (See days in St. David's, Cardiff, and London.)

12-year-old Roddy McDowall portrays Hue Morgan, past whose eyes all the tender, memorable business of life flows in Richard Llewellyn's "How Green Was My Valley."

years ago. And at that point he decided to finish his novel, "How Green Was My Valley."

"How Green Was My Valley" was produced by Darryl F. Zanuck and directed by Academy Award Winner John Ford. It

The co-starring team of Errol Flynn and Olivia de Havilland will be back at the Punch and Judy Theatre this Friday, Saturday and Sunday in their newest picture, "They Died with Their Boots On," a film that tells in spectacular detail the story of General George Armstrong Custer of the nation's most colorful heroes. Director Raoul Walsh, master of the outdoor epic, guided the production. In support of Flynn and Miss de Havilland are Gene Lockhart, Charley Grapewin, Arthur Kennedy and Regis Toomey.

Sound and snug in plot, "The Feminine Touch" is one of the year's most successful attacks on the public ribibilities. This is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy with Rosalind Russell, Don Ameche, Kay Francis and Van Heflin, in a story as modern as the new tax rate and it will be at the Punch and Judy Theatre this Wednesday through Thursday.

The story, told with a highly inventive and original sense of wit, relates how a professor of linguistics writes a book denigrating the theory of jealousy. The academician's wife is unconvinced, but reacts until they arrive in New York to meet the publisher, Van Heflin. They also meet his assistant, Kay Francis, who promptly falls for the convention-flouting professor.

The situation is ideal for the wife, because the publisher is a playboy who cannot resist a pretty face. She promptly sets out to win his husband's jealousy.

Miss Francis, in love with the publisher, has the same objective when she showers attention on Ameche. From this four-cornered tangle the story moves swiftly into a climax of hilarious and sustained merriment.

"The Feminine Touch," in this instance, may not be more deadly to the male, but it's more lively, Kipling to the contrary.
