New High School Building Formally Dedicated

Two keys, instead of the usual one, were presented in the dedication of the Industrial Arts Building on the high school campus last Friday night.
The keys were welded in the shape of a V, for the victory which the new building will help bring about. Dr. Paul Essert, superintendent of schools and master of ceremonies at the dedication, explained that one key was needed to open the doors in the morning, and another to open them at night, for the classes which are training defense workers.

The building was opened to visitors at 7 o'clock Friday evening, but the night classes were not interfered with. This new educational building like many another in the Grosse Pointe area was designed by the Perriek and Gamber firm of architects and constructed by the F. H. Martin Construction Company.
Program in Antidetonation
The program of dedication was begun at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium by the Grosse Pointe High Band, which played several selections and the National Anthem.
Dr. Essert introduced the members of the Board of Education: Charles A. Parcella, L. D., president; Halph M. Clark, secretary; Charles A. Poupard, treasurer; J. Lee Barrett and Dr. Clifford Lowman, M. D., trustees; Walter R. Clemons, principal of the High School; and John E. Barnes, staff, educational consultant of the board, who also introduced.

F. H. Martin, the contractor, presented the keys to Bronson V. Gamber, the architect, who in turn gave them to Mr. Parcella, who accepted them on behalf of the Board of Education.
Johnfish, director of defense training of the Chrysler Corp., who was to have spoken, was unfortunately compelled to be out of town on important war work, and therefore was unable to be present.
Mr. Parcella, in a brief address, stated that since Grosse Pointe High was originally intended to be primarily for college preparation, many people thought that the student who was not planning to go to college was neglected. It was for this reason that the Board of Education decided to build an addition that would train the non-college student in direct preparation for a job.
A movie, taken by William A. Mann, showing the building under construction and in use, was shown, after which the building was again opened for visitors.
Besides the night classes, many pupils from the High School were present and worked, demonstrating the equipment.

transfers and shall be permitted to proceed to shelters in nearby buildings. All lights shall then be blacked out, except those which are so reduced in intensity and concealed as may be permitted or approved by the Defense Council.
6. Nothing herein shall operate to limit the authority of police officers, air raid warden or other duly authorized officer to exercise the place and manner of the parking or storage of such vehicle or vehicles, in which event operators of vehicles shall immediately comply with the lawful directions of such officer or officers.
7. For the purpose of determining the person responsible for premises for the purpose of extinguishing lights or taking other necessary action.

SEC. 11. SUPPLEMENTAL ORDERS, AUTHORITY OF COORDINATOR:
The chief executives of the aforementioned political subdivisions do severally constitute the Coordinator of the Grosse Pointe Area Council of Defense as their duly designated representative for the purpose of promulgating, and do severally authorize such further orders, rules and regulations, including any amendments hereto, as may be necessary to insure the success of blackout and air raid protection measures and to protect life and property during blackouts. Any such further orders, rules or regulations, if of general application, and any such amendments, shall be published as soon as practicable after their promulgation. This Proclamation requires or permits action to be taken by the Defense Council, such action may be taken by such Coordinator.
SEC. 12. PENALTIES:
Any person who shall violate any provision of the proclamation or any further order, rule or regulation, if of general application, and any such amendments, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished as provided by the laws of this State.

Congressmen's Gas

Unquestionably the outrageous attempt of Congress to attach itself to the Federal pension rolls for life a few months ago had much to do with the temper in a certain circle of the X card gasoline rationing a few days ago.

In all fairness, however, a slightly detached and less heated view of the present can discover much justification for the issuing of these cards to our members of Congress. These gentlemen are officials of the Government, and by no means the least important.

A broader and more serious aspect of the controversy, however, directly affects every Representative and Senator and for that matter every citizen of the United States. One of the basic ideas in the constitutional structure of the House of Representatives was for the biennial election of its members that there might be a frequent accounting of their stewardship to the people.

It is perfectly right and in complete conformity with established and accepted American political practices that our Representatives should enjoy every facility and convenience in making their accounting to the nation.

These gentlemen who sit in the Capitol had been foxy enough when they accepted these gas cards to have stipulated that they did so under the understanding that they had some courtesy in the name of the candidates who opposed them for reelection, what became a storm of unwarranted proportion would have scarcely been a summer zephyr; in fact might have earned them a much needed reputation for fairness and generosity.

Government By "Hostages"

If Hitler had started this war with the premeditated purpose of destroying civilization and inaugurating a Second Dark Age he could not have chosen a more direct course than the one he is pursuing.

The magazines of late that the occupied countries of Europe have become should chill the souls of their readers and broodily hand out the torch to the flames of this kind of a this murdering crew if the news was broadcast that when this war ends and the inevitable army of occupation of the allied nations marches into Germany it will be attended to that which really rots the nation—the relatives of every one of these innocent men and women who have been wantonly murdered? This is one kind of appeal that the German war mentality might understand.

To the Editor

Friday, May 29, 1942 Several obviously apparently is just too early for most of our local residents to get up. Perhaps they had a bad night... too many cocktails... too much dancing. Of course, it's their privilege to do what they see fit.

With the Boys In the Service

Fred Stoepel, former Grose Pointe High student, is carrying the colors of the United States in the capacity of gun captain aboard United States merchant vessel.

Jack McGraw, of Kensington road, now a private with Uncle Sam's army at Fort Jackson, S. C., wrote Bob Laback of the News staff this week requesting The Grose Pointe News "to refer Bill you might try talking to the folks into a subscription for me. Talk to the parents of all the boys in the service and try to get them left for the army by the end of August."

Since Fred was transferred from the Dubuque in late November he has traveled about 27,000 miles aboard merchant ships laden with vital war material for our allies in the Near East. His trip took him to South Africa and Mozambique. "I preferred South Africa because I couldn't understand Portuguese," he said.

After a ten-day leave, he returned to his base in New York, where he will be assigned to another merchant vessel. Provided there is no change about, Fred will be in command of the ship in time of actual combat.

Alger House Gardens Scene of Artists' Market Exhibit

Edsel Fords Are Hosts At Successful Event

Green Foliage Makes Lovely Background for Colorful Display of Painting and Ceramics; Party Draws Many

The Alger House's formal gardens were the scene Tuesday afternoon of one of the most beautiful art exhibits ever witnessed by the members of the Detroit Artists' Market.

Since the party wasn't held at its private home this year, Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Ford played hosts with Mrs. Ford gowned in a canary yellow frock topped by a hand-knit brown jacket.

The general chairman of the Market, Mrs. H. Leo Simpson, was impeccably gowned in a black and white flowered print with a broad-brimmed black hat. Mr. Julius H. Haas and Mrs. Harry Winston were in charge of the exhibition of paintings and water colors for the annual garden sale, and made a noble job of it, too, with the colorful paintings and water colors by Detroit artists placed on easels against a background of dark green foliage. A gorgeous parade of ceramics bordered the pool, and around the grounds were tables of fascinating hand-woven linens and sets of silver and unusual costume ornaments, with Mrs. Richard Webber in charge.

Mrs. John Palmer Hodges was there, having just ascended to her new home in Washington, D. C., in a blue and white striped dress, looking like a queen. She'll be in town about ten days, she disclosed.

Mrs. Henry Bywater, Mrs. Joseph M. Dodge, Mrs. Orla B. Taylor, Mrs. Orison S. White, Mrs. Gayford Gillis, Mrs. Laurence Whittemore, and Mrs. George Lanning were all seen strolling about the grounds.

Conducted about a table setting memberships were Mrs. Thomas P. Henry, Mrs. Frederick L. Robinson, Mrs. Edward M. Hartwick and Mrs. Edward E. Rothman.

Marion Gaughen Engaged To William Adams Coombs
Mr. and Mrs. Frank X. Gaughen, of Roslyn road, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Marion, to William Adams Coombs, III, son of Mrs. William Coombs, of Manatee road.

The bride-elect was graduated from St. Mary's Academy of Monroe and attended Marygrove College. Mr. Coombs attended the University of Michigan. The wedding date has not been set as yet.

Woods Garden Group Holds Belle Isle Luncheon Meet
The Woods Garden Group met recently in the Garden Center on Belle Isle. After luncheon was served, Mrs. Bouton spoke on "Personals Throughout the Season" and showed colored slides of beautiful personals.

On May 26 the group met in the home of Mrs. E. Foster of Hawthorne road and "Delish's" were discussed.

Mrs. Dee Bradin Pointe Visitor

Mrs. Dee Bradin, who was never noted for inactivity, has been a number of places and done a number of things since she ceased to be a resident of the Pointe some time back. The driving force has been back in town this week and her friends have been enthralled with the tales of just a few of her numerous adventures.

Mrs. Bradin, whose blood has ever been tinged with a love for writing, acted as a correspondent, commentator and photographer of an ocean report. She officially represents the New York Times and the National Broadcasting company, two small organizations of whom you might have heard.

She is also working her head off for the benefit of some of the unfortunate war countrymen, refugees from the Dutch East Indies, now stranded in Australia. For this worthy cause she is making a coast-to-coast tour. She spoke last night in the Backham Foundation in Detroit.

Mrs. Bradin, who was born in Sumatra, spent four months in Java and Batavia during 1941, and has written numerous articles about the situation there besides giving her broadcasts over NBC. She also took some colored movies in Java which were considered so good by Paramount Studios in Hollywood that they added the dialogue and brought it up to date. This is now shown about last night in tonight her talk.

In 1940 Mrs. Bradin was sent to South America on an assignment while working for Harpers Bazaar, and a year ago last May she flew on the first Clipper trip from San Francisco to Singapore.

Tomorrow night she will lecture in Ann Arbor, and Tuesday morning will leave for New York, following which she will continue her extended lecture tour which will cover all of the United States and Canada. At the present she is writing for the American Magazine as well as writing her weekly feature for the New York Times Magazine Section.

Silhouettes

By these words you shall know her: "I'm just one of a million mothers in the United States who are doing as much as they can to help secure a victory for the Allied Powers."

You now know Mrs. Catherine P. Waddell, of University place.

Mrs. Waddell knits constantly for the Red Cross and belongs to the Grosse Pointe Breakfast Club, which serves breakfast for every group of draftees that leave the Pointe.

She is an enthusiastic member of the Mothers' Club at Grosse Pointe High School. She was the recording secretary for two years and the president for two years and now, although she holds no office in the group, she is the vice-president of the Parent-Teacher Council, of which she has been a member ever since it was formed in 1938.

Mrs. Waddell's hobbies are many and varied, as she changes them very so often. Right now studying Spanish takes up most of her time—she thinks it's a very good language to know something about in these days. Another one of her hobbies is sewing, and she used to make dresses for the Goodfellowes.

Her one interest which she has always had and is sure will never leave her is reading. Her all-time favorite is "Les Miserables" by Hugo, and for popular books she says "Looking for Trouble" is the best she's read in quite some time.

She has an absolute passion for ice cream and enjoys all sports, although boating holds top honors on her list. She also likes to watch a good game of football. In people she likes sincerity and a sense of humor.

Her friends call her Ted and everybody says she is one person who practically radiates friendliness. The secret must lie in being happy!

Parents Attend Big Girl Scout Court in Mason School

Candlelight Ceremony Held; Awards Given

Every Member of Troop 257 Receives Service Pin for Outstanding Work to Community and Country

More than 100 awards in various fields were presented before parents of Girl Scouts in Grosse Pointe schools attending the Court of Awards and a candlelight ceremony conducted by Troops 257 and 209 in the Mason school gymnasium last Friday night.

Mrs. Henry Green of Vernor and leader of Troop 257 and assistant is Mrs. Theodore of Hawthorne road, Mrs. and Church of Brys drive is leader of Troop 209, assisted by Mrs. V. C. Feller of Hampton

Troop 257 will be two years old next month and as a birthday present from Mrs. Green and the girls each member was presented with service pins, won for service to community and country. All of the girls have been doing good deeds, doing child care, sewing towels for the Needlework Guild, knitting sweaters for the Red Cross and scores of other acts for charitable organizations.

First aid badges were awarded about 40 of the girls. The impressive candlelight ceremonies were outstanding and awards on the program. Receptions, when the girls were given their birthday cake, were served.

Petty Points

We nominate for the title of most enthusiastic sender-offer of home dresses, Mrs. Wallace Gamber of St. Clair avenue. Gamber hasn't missed a day in the home room and she cheers them off.

Incidentally, Mrs. Gamber is a walker. Her son accused of not being the walker she is to be one day last week. He tried to change his opinion by Mrs. Gamber strolled to Clemens and beckoned.

Did we hear someone suggest taking contest to decide local? We'd scarcely know on to place our five cents in the hands of Mr. C. Edmund of Mrs. Gamber.

Let off to Philip F. Allard, ex of Grosse Pointe Woods, doing his part in the tie and program by riding a bicycle and work from Mr. Allard as what those things was he. He was in service in the war.

SCF Director Replies To Mrs. Benj. Shepherd

Report Published in News Last Week Charging Lack of Cooperation With Committee, Produces Detailed Answer.

Mrs. Mabelle W. Cleverdon, regional director of the Save the Children Federation, has answered charges contained in a report written by Mrs. Benjamin O. Shepherd of Ridge Road, head of the committee which recently conducted an auction on behalf of the SCF.

The report, which accused the director and advisory board of the SCF with lack of sincerity and cooperation with the auction committee, was published in full in the News last week. Mrs. Cleverdon visited the News office this week and delivered a letter which she requested the paper to publish, giving her side of the altercation which has sprung up between the two groups since "the SCF auction was held, raising $5,000 for the work of the federation. The letter, in full:

After reading the article which you published in your paper on May 28 and which included a copy of Mrs. Benjamin O. Shepherd's letter to my SCF Auction Committee, I felt it might be better not to pay any attention to it. On second thought, I realized that so many of our loyal supporters living in Grosse Pointe would be disturbed or puzzled—that I should like to reply inasmuch as the bulk of the criticism seemed to be aimed at me and also because Mrs. Shepherd's letter, in my opinion, was a fair and just appraisal of their picnic lunches, a jump rope and wear play clothes and shoes.

First, I wish to say that the SCF Auction Committee is to be praised for its excellent work. I know that the Executive Committee of the Detroit Division of SCF feels that Mrs. Shepherd's committee did an admirable and splendid piece of work and have written Mrs. Shepherd a letter of appreciation.

The Save the Children Federation has three major activities, two having been added by present war conditions. The national work is with the children of our Southern mountains, principally, and the value of our work there was recognized on April 14, 1942, in a wire from Dr. J. W. Studebaker, U. S. Commissioner of Education, to Dr. Claude Hardy of our school relations committee. "Hearty congratulations on the splendid work of your school relations committee in providing clothing for needy children apart from the direct benefits to the children of such service. Its morale building effects are incalculable."

Wayne Maestro Mocked by Blaze

Olde Wayne Club patrons are finding a private source of amusement in Howard Benedict's revival of "I Don't Want to Set the World on Fire" these days, since the fire which caused a little damage in the kitchen on Monday.

There was very little damage, and service was in no way impaired. However, the patrons appreciate Benedict's un-subtle bit of humor.

Howard claims he could have put the fire out, if he had been there, with his specially constructed spectacles that he uses in his rendition of "I Cried for You" in this number. Benedict attaches a hose to his specs and weeps tears, big enough to quench anybody's fire.

Rudy; Billy Selmeier, son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Selmeier; David and Duane Kalmber, sons of Deway Kalmber; Nancy Farr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Farr; Fred L.
