C.A.P. Fliers Writing Saga Of Patriotism

any Pointers in Colorful Group Which is Performing Great Service

By ROBERT E. LUBBECK

They are not likely to encounter a German Messerschmitt or a Japanese Zero in these American skies—the men and women in the Civil Air Patrol are doing work that is theirs and theirs alone. This is their story, and this is how it ran. The Civil Air Patrol from facts reported and endorsed by Earl South, the Public Relations Officer of Wing 83 of the C.A.P. of the State.

The C.A.P. enrollment in Michigan totals around 3,250 and although there are no figures available, it has been estimated that dozens and dozens of Grosse Pointes are members. National membership is over $1,000,000, more than 35,000 pilots and the remainder are trained mechanics, radio operators, observers and ground crew members.

These active in blazons, in relief falls, violations, etc. in early Spring they were sent to the Great Lakes; they took for Army gunnery school at Detroit. They are looking for enemy agent airplanes. They hunt for ships in distress, for air raid centers and even carry light night on short hops. They have become a very valuable auxiliary to the Army Air Corps.

Pointers Heads Women

Detroit's all women squadron, under the command of Mrs. John Hammond, of Grosse Pointe, is to be the largest feminine contingent of flying home guard in the United States. It is claimed to be the only complete women's squadron in the state on active duty, with 30 women pilots, an equal number of observers, and a full complement of their flight attendants.

Flood Control Gets Out of Hand in Woods

Trouble shooters were making repairs last Saturday morning when the News photographer made this picture at Mack and Eight Mile roads, where lightning had again struck the wires which feed the pumping station in Grosse Pointe Woods. With the pumps not working, many basements in the Woods were flooded. The same thing happened last year and residents are demanding that the council see that another line is installed or an auxiliary motor purchased to take care of such emergencies.

"Pull for the Shores, Boys" Is Song of Woods Residents As Basements Are Flooded

Angry Victims Threaten to Storm Council Meeting After Lightning Strikes Wire to Pumping Station Second Time

Residents of Grosse Pointe Woods—especially in the Hollywood section—will have to pray a little while longer that lightning doesn't strike three times in the same place. If it does however, the people of the Woods are apt to hold an ark and leave the Woods, singing "Pull for the Shores, Boys, Pull for the Shores."

Just a year ago the Woods was in the midst of a deluge when lightning struck the high tension power line that supplies the "V's" Marler road pumping station. The result was that water was not carried through the main and consequently flooded the basements of many of the homes in the Woods.

Investigation Started A few weeks later the Woods council began an investigation to see if the Detroit Edison couldn't install an auxiliary power line to the pumping station that could go into operation should the main line be put out of commission by lightning.

No storm came and the investigation dragged out until just a few weeks ago, when the Edison announced that no line could be installed because materials were almost next to impossible to get and the equipment was needed to install power lines in defense areas.

Figures on Sugar Rationing Point to Jammed Cupboards

The Grosse Pointe Rationing board released figures Monday showing that during the month of July it had rationed, for canning, almost 22 tons of sugar to Grosse Pointe and Gratiot housewives.

Three Pointe Cruisers Now On War Duty

Boats Owned by Woodall, Fruhauf and Couzens Sold to Navy for Patrol Work

It was learned Wednesday by The Grosse Pointe News that three of the Pointes well known heavy duty pleasure craft have been sold outright to the United States Navy and are now on the Atlantic coast in anti-submarine service.

The boats, all familiar sights in peacetime years along the inland lakes, and kept in Grosse Pointe are owned by Herbert J. Woodall of Oxford road, Harvey C. Fruhauf, of Three Mile drive, and Frank Couzens, who lives in Detroit but kept his boat at the Grosse Pointe Yacht club.

The United States Navy purchased the boats under contract for their owners for an undisclosed price. The craft will be used by the Coast Guard Auxiliary and are believed to be already in service on their war time mission.

The government paid the owners a full value for their boats and they will be used by the Navy and Coast Guard even after the war.

It is understood that Coast Guard cutter which will join the Great Lakes region, will maintain the ships in the Atlantic.

The boats have been completely refitted, armed for anti-submarine duty, and have been equipped with radar. Their duty will be to patrol the eastern coastal waters and thus relieve the Coast Guard of anti-aircraft duty out farther in the Atlantic and other waters.

These boats, now the largest ex-Dodge, now in the Atlantic and believed being used by the Coast Guard, were built by the King. The Dodge boat has been in service for several months.

Speeding Youths Land in Hospital

Two speeding youths were slightly injured early Monday morning after a wild ride through the program.

According to the Firms issued record on the case, James Clark of 373 St. Clair avenue, were spinning out Lake St. on Friday at 2:30 m. when they sidestepped a car driven by Dr. William Bremer of 302 Trounstein.

Because police did not witness the accident, tickets are revolved through the court system and the youths, who will appear in court September 2 for a hearing.

Pitcher-Scribe Grinds Out Distorted Yarn of Battle

Any similarity between this story and the truth is purely lucky because it was reported by "Smiling Jimmy" of the Grosse Pointe police department.

Knowing "Smiling Jimmy" would turn in a whitening yarn of the Firms and City baseball game last Friday evening, the News assigned Casey to cover it.

Casey pitched for the City, then sat down and wrote the story. The gross error of the Fred Sanders, confectionery, was closed this week because of a strike of workers in the area.

It was deleted Wednesday that Arthur M. Stringari, named several weeks ago by the AFL local 77 to represent the Farms municipal employees as their member of the three-man strike arbitration board, has resigned from his post due to pressing business matters.

Morton Zimmerman, assistant to the president of the Detroit Central Council of the Union of Labor, has been named to replace Stringari.

The Far massed City really had a battle and the Farms led up to the sixth inning by a score of 3-2. Then a series of mishaps, coupled with lively hitting and running, saw the City go ahead, 6 to 3. The Farms police and firemen came right back with two runs in the eighth but it wasn't enough, and that's the way the game finished.

Correspondent Casey is still proud of his team this week. He calls the Farms police and fire departments every few minutes, posing as a Farms resident, to discover the score. He is not driving fast in the Farms.

Ten Have Families
"Probably ten men with families will enter teaching service in various Grosse Pointe Schools in September. The problem which faces the community is to find four to six row houses, apartments or flats which are in the salary range for rental by these teachers.

"From 30 to 40 single teachers will enter service in Grosse Pointe for the first time, and for these the committee will attempt to locate rooms and small apartments. Various real estate firms have promised their heartiest cooperation. Mr. Campbell at the Board of Education offices calls indicating cooperation and help of citizens of the community.

"We are not going to lose any more teachers because of housing shortage said Mr. Campbell. Teaching is an important part of our national defense and war effort. Grosse Pointe citizens are proud of the quality of teachers that come here, and this move will help maintain that quality."

Asked of Rotary Dr. Paul L. Esert, superintendent of schools, asked members of the Grosse Pointe Rotary Club to assist in finding homes for the teachers, at the regular meeting of the service organization in the Whittier Monday afternoon.

He said that contacts are being made with various officials of the Pointe municipalities to see if it may be possible to waive certain rooming and zoning laws which prohibit the renting of rooms in certain areas.

The Pointe received a great deal of publicity in the metropolitan Detroit press several weeks ago when a defense worker's family from a University place residence on the grounds that it had been turned into a rooming house, complained that the Pointe was unresponsive.

There is some indication that governing bodies of the various municipalities may relax some of the restrictions to take care of the situation.

Very Few Vacancies
Conversation with some of the leading realtors of the area adds interesting details to the picture here. It appears that there simply aren't any houses left in the area which rent for less than $100 per month, and practically none for under $125. There are a very few, and those not so desirable, in the $125 to $150 estate men are against relaxing restrictions on rooming houses, as they feel it might impair property values, but as one of them put it—"There's a war on, and if that would help the war effort, we'd all like to put up with it and live it."

Three weeks ago there were 16 vacancies in terraces available in the Pointe. Fourteen of these had been rented up to last Saturday and terrace units are generally among the first to go, according to those in real estate.

There is practically no building in the Pointe due to restrictions and priorities. Homes costing $6,000 or less may still be built, according to government regulations, but excepting in Gratiot township and a small section of the Woods, restrictions call for more expensive dwellings. In addition it has been very difficult to obtain materials, though contractors are beginning to think they see light and that they will have less trouble on this score in the immediate future.

This would undoubtedly mean much more building in Gratiot and in some sections of the Pointe where restrictions are relaxed. It is hoped that other members will follow.

Generally speaking, the real estate men are against relaxing restrictions on rooming houses, as they feel it might impair property values, but as one of them put it—"There's a war on, and if that would help the war effort, we'd all like to put up with it and live it."

Two of the Legion members, Ethel Clark and Grace Smith, are on the recovery list, and it is hoped that other members will follow.

Important People

Grosse Pointe schools are facing something of a crisis in the difficulty being encountered in finding homes for some 40 new teachers who are being added to staffs here.

The unusually large number of newcomers is the cause of several contributing factors. The war has made great demands, taking many of the male teachers into armed service, and the increase in the number of students has made additional teachers necessary.

The type of teacher which has jurisdiction over our children so many hours of so many days in each year, should cause most of us, particularly those who are parents, to consider the problem. And the record of Pointe students, not only here, but in the institutions of higher learning to which they progress after graduation from the high schools, is indication enough that the officials in charge have done a most creditable job in their selection of teaching staffs.

These officials have deemed it necessary to appoint a special committee to solve the problem of housing these new teachers, but the job should not be left to them alone. The housing situation in the Pointe area is acute, due mainly to the war. At least 10 of these teachers bring families with them and require more than a single room, as is the case with some of the unmarried instructors.

Anyone having knowledge of suitable quarters for these important prospective residents of the Pointe will be doing a community service by conveying that information to the proper authorities. This can be done by calling Niagara 2000.

Camp

Parents are beginning to count the days before Sally and Johnny will be coming home from their long summers at camp. Long to Sally and Johnny, but not to Mother and Father; time goes so much faster as one grows older.

Camps have filled a vital need in the lives of millions of youngsters of many generations, but this year they have had a peculiar significance for many American parents.

Camp plans are usually discussed during the long winter evenings, after the children are bedded down for the night and their elders, released from the strenuousness of their healthy young presences, have time to lay plans for the future. Last winter most of these parents were thinking of the war and of America as the newest champion to enter the lists. Even this most thinking people knew how the war was going to affect their families. They had already begun to realize that even the youngest were going to be assigned staggering roles in the world of the future.

While the first thought may have been to keep Sally and Johnny home this year, subsequent thinking in a great many cases sent the children on their happy, carefree ways. It might well be the very last summer they would have a chance to go away to camp. Why deprive them of it? These decisions were well founded.

The children will be coming home shortly, and in almost every instance, they will be improved, and they will be far better equipped to cope with lives more difficult than those which have confronted children for many years past.

Camps which are well run, and they have to be well run now or they won't open for a second season, give these boys and girls of ours a training that they can use throughout their lives. Self-reliance, sportmanship, reciprocity, stamina... they are going to need them in the years ahead.

And right here in the Pointe there have been camps that have meant much this summer to the war parents of war children who have had to stay at home. During these trying days, the day camps which have been so popular here for a number of years, have filled a new need.

The mother who in the past has had nothing to do but lie in bed and shout out of the window occasionally when junior disturbed her napping, has found herself bouncing out of bed at a middle class hour, rushing hither and yon to do this for the Red Cross, that for the AYWS and something else for another of the many organizations that are furthering the war effort. And the care of junior would be a real problem, were it not for the day camps.

Through these camps mother has been given freedom to devote her time to the patriotic duties which have called her, content in the knowledge that the children were under expert supervision, that they were getting their fresh air, exercise, food, naps and instruction while she was carrying on her wartime job.

Grosse-Exaggerations

A. PRYOR

"Our own affections still at home to please is a disease: To cross the seas to any foreign soil is peril and toil; We wish their use might as when they cross, we're worse in peace: What then remains, but that she still should cry not to be born, or being born, to die"

—Francis Bacon from "The World's a Bubble"

If the New Yorker hasn't already copied the following article out of Time magazine for its "Department of Utter Confusion"—then we hereby beat them to the draw. Under "Milestones" in the August 10th issue, we find listed: "Died, Harry (nee Hilda Margaret) Weston, 26, brother of England's famed woman athlete Mark Weston; by her own hand (hanging) in a meadow near Plymouth, England. He was born a girl, was successfully operated on several months ago (for a not uncommon genital abnormality called hypospadias) when she was about to be called up for national service. Her sister became her brother six years ago, after losing the Woman's British National Shotputting Championship from 1924 to 1930, in August, 1936, married a girl she had known as a girl."

Do not miss you can find it on page 82 of Time—and what's more, they don't give any prizes for figuring the whole thing out.

In one of the recent issues of Vogue, Frank Crowninshield, one of our favorite writers devoted his entire article to the clever and witty "saying" of an old man, after having the Woman's British National Shotputting Championship from 1924 to 1930, in August, 1936, married a girl she had known as a girl. "Guide To Hearticulture," a thin little volume that deals with old fashioned pictures and the savings that Herford was so noted for.

"He stole some cord from the spider's web to make a fence on the first of Feb."

(We don't know what happened to January.)

For March we find:

"From seeds held stored in an corn jar— he selected with care on the first of Apr."

Next came,

"In garden beds of every shape, he planted seeds during the first of Apr."

Suddenly fired of it all, we thumbed our way to the December page and for our pains, read the following:

"When the snow came down like a soft white fleece, He potted his plants on the first of Dec."

(Maybe we're wrong, or maybe Mr. Crowninshield has something of Herford's up his sleeve, that we haven't been able to find.)

Amid the debris outside of the office door the other day, we fell over an important looking card with an official looking seal on the left hand corner. Being of the non-nosey type we glanced at it and found that the name of the student whom we happen to know, was inked in somewhere in the printed matter, which read: "Chicken Chaser's Permit. This permit entitles the holder to wear a chicken on all the privileges of a chrome chicken club, including all the socks on the jaw he can gather. He may observe, however, that the name of the student whom we happen to know, is in his territory." This charming little membership card (in case the High School is interested) was issued by I. Chuck, secretary and Cobble Gobbler.

Nothing gets the jewelers of the world idle—even the war. In a recent brochure sent out by a well known New York jeweler—we are introduced to all the old stories in new settings, by the following foreword: "Keepsake is a priceless word—a lock-to-the-heart word for the girl whose worth and sentiment are entwined like a lover's knot. It is a charmed word again today, when friends mean so much and part so often, when peripatetic brides of the hour are sent packing to distant encampments, or home to mother with their husbands are absent the whole business. Among the beautiful times-love words we find these keepsakes..."

CALENDAR OF A GOTILAMITE Sunday:

Erskine Gwynn told me tonight that Sonny Robinson, to whom we devoted several paragraphs a few weeks ago, was dead. I had met Sonny the day he was released from the Detroit-ningholm. He told me of his adventures abroad, of his detention in Portugal's concentration camps, and of his great hunger to return to the U. S. He was son of the Marquis de la Clara and the brother-in-law of Macoco. I was leaving for my vacation, and he planned to get together upon my return, at which time he was to tell me some inside stories of abroad for use in this story.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt met the young Berlin's soldier show. Has seen it twice and has made reservations for a third visit, in the meantime, sending no less than four parties to the show as her guests. Must have more influence than I have, for on at least two occasions I have been rebuffed in my attempts to buy decent tickets to which to send some particular friends.

Town was dead tonight. First time in many years that I've spent a Sunday in Manhattan during July or August. Have a confession to make. I was in New York during the Summer is wonderful Lonsome—and therefore perfect—and therefore wonderful!

Monday:

Heard the fantastic story explaining why the book which promised to be a best seller has been recalled. "Signed Their Honor" is the title, and it is by James Aldridge. More than 40,000 copies had been distributed before publication date. It concerns an RAF aviator, his adventures and romance in Greece. It appears Aldridge took the name of an actual aviator whom he believed dead, and in fact, he is said to have advised the publishing firm he was using a real name—that of a friend who had been left behind with the so-called Lost Battalion, all members of which he knew had been buried under the feet of the Nazis. He had been in it in Washington. Not only that, but he has made it evident that he is British.

It's like the idea of his name being used in a book—even as good a look as Aldridge—to the publishers had to recall as many good copies as they can lay hands upon. Very embarrassing! Good word those girls are doing—the ones enrolled in the Auxiliary Aerial Warning Service. The course is tough and demanding, but highly important. Latest recruit is Ray Bolger's wife, Gwep Rickard. Others include Sonia Stokowski, daughter of the conductor, and Marguerite Wagner, wife of Howard Gullman, the angel for many of Broadway's successful shows.

Very often these comic boys come through with a delightful quip. Henry Youngblood's timely one is that his last week's sary check came back stamped, "Insufficient Rubber."

Looking at the Movies

By R. E. LUDWICK

As expected, "Mrs. Miniver" continues for a second week at the United Artists theater and leaves no doubt in Mr. and Mrs. Grose Foster's mind that the picture is the finest in several seasons—including "Gone With the Wind."

In any other season "Mrs. Miniver" would win the academy award hands down but in 1942 film critics and the general public are going to have a hard time deciding between "Mrs. Miniver" and "The Sign of the Cross," which is due for a Detroit release at some future date.

"Winkie Doodle Dandy" is now showing in New York and drawing down top prices and top audiences. "Mrs. Miniver" is also in the first runs, and while at popular prices, it doing just as good a business, although without the general flack waving apart that marks the Cagney show.

It will be interesting to see the final results, but it is our bet that they will tie for top honors.

While scouting through back columns this year we've noted that local audiences have already seen the cream of the 1942 pictures and could easily adjudge them positions on any best-run theaters. For instance here is a list of already outstanding celluloids that have been released since January: "Mrs. Miniver," which ranks first.

Condition of Dodge Is Called Hopeless

Mrs. Wesley Seyburn of East Jefferson avenue, Grosse Pointe, is rushing to the bedside of her brother today from Maine as the condition of John Duval Dodge, millionaire real-estate broker, grows steadily worse.

Dodge, who suffered a cerebral hemorrhage following an arrest yesterday by Detroit police, is reported near death in the Detroit Receiving hospital and hope had about gone for his recovery as the News went to press.

Mrs. Seyburn is expected to reach the hospital sometime today. Dodge's first wife lives on University place with her daughter, Mary Ann Dodge. Dodge at present lives with his second wife in the Detroit Towers. He was arrested yesterday morning by Detroit police who discovered he had broken into the second story window of a friend's home on Van Dyke place.

An attending physician reported late last night that Dodge had practically no hope of recovery.

Thriller, Musical Coming to PUNCH

This Friday and Saturday, at the evening performances only, the Punch and Judy Theatre will present "Dangerously They Live," starring John Garfield, Nancy Coleman and Raymond Massey in a story that fully lives up to its exciting title.

The thrill-packed film tells about the extraordinary adventures of a pair of everyday young Americans who defy danger to track down Uncle Sam's secret enemies. Besides the three starring players the cast includes Moroni Olsen, Lee Patrick and Esther Dale.

The Saturday matinee for children will be Joe E. Brown in "Shut My Big Mouth," plus one hour of cartoons and novelties. Hold on to your hearts boys, Rita Hayworth, America's Irrigation Girl, will be at the Punch and Judy Theatre this Sunday through Thursday in "My Gal Sal," a Technicolor musical.

An inspiration she certainly is at Rita's starred with Victor Mature, John Sutton and Carole Landis. In this gay and up-to-the-minute story of the life of Paul Dresser, famous composer of "My Gal Sal," and a hundred and one other hit tunes.

The picture has been mounted lavishly with nothing spared to make it an outstanding film musical, and Director Irving Cummings has seen to it that everything fits into place so that the film is geared to delight all moviegoers.

Find Pedestrians Chief Violators

Failure to stop top and then look both ways before stepping into the street is the most commonly violated provision of the City's new Pedestrian Protection Ordinance.

This was revealed Monday by Inspector Christian Nelson, head of the Accident Prevention Bureau, following the first seven days application of the department's new policy of issuing tickets rather than warnings to violators.

Other provisions of the ordinance which prescribe that pedestrians must except under certain circumstances, cross with the green light at signalized intersections and that they must yield right-of-way when crossing streets at places other than crosswalks are generally observed, Nelson said.

Mortality probably because they are more accustomed to complying with traffic regulations for the most part careful to avoid infractions of the new law. The most common motorist violation is failure to yield right-of-way to pedestrians on right or left turns, although a number of violation notices are also issued to motorists who do not allow pedestrians who have started across the street on a green light to continue to a place of safety in the event of a light change in the meantime.

As a result of the department's policy of substituting enforcement for education, the daily average of tickets issued for violations of the ordinance rose to 145 last week. Since June 15, effective date of the new law, 3,078 tickets for violations of which approximately 80 per cent were for violations on part of pedestrians.

Form Auxiliary To Guard Plants

As the chief executive and law-enforcement officer of the county under the provisions of the State constitution, Sheriff Andrew C. Baird has thrown the facilities of his police organization into the war plans of protecting the many plants in the outlying areas of Wayne county against acts of sabotage.

As an example of his untiring efforts toward preventing emergencies and sympathizers from acts of destruction, it is interesting to mention that under Deputy John W. Creedon, a police officer of long experience, Sheriff Baird has organized an auxiliary body of deputes, numbering some 150 trained men, whose duty it will be to serve in times of emergency.

These men have all attended a police school of instruction instituted by Sheriff Baird and are only awarded their badges and deputized when they have completed the prescribed course and satisfactorily passed the final examinations.

It is expected that within the next ninety days this force will be augmented to about 500 men. These men are all volunteers and receive no pay either during their training or when on actual duty.

The Home Front in Michigan

Labor Day isn't very far off and when it comes it will differ from similar days in the past in at least one respect. It will strike a distinctly feminine note, and the object more merely than the good ladies of the auxiliary will make the sandwiches. It means that women are playing an increasing part in the production upon which we depend for victory.

Here's the picture right now: There are 13 million women in the U.S.A. more than there were last January, and 1,750,000 of these are working in war industry. By the end of next year, total civilian employment is expected to reach 53 million. Of these 18 million will be women.

In other words, we must add between four and five million women to the roster of workers, if we are to reach the estimated peak figure for 1943 employment.

They have been a definite hit at the Huron Restaurant in New York. L. Sullivan the singing star of George Jessel's High Society. Bette Davis after a late war absence is singing the latest of the moment in the way Bette performs like them sung. Rita Roper, an acrobatic stunts student of the famous Merrill Lynch dancers, demonstrates the fine art of control while the Royal's own dance line, the Royalettes, after sparkling new routines. Women Asked To Register For War Work

The United States Employment Service in collaboration with the War Manpower Commission and the War Production Board are currently conducting a restriction drive of all women residents 18 years of age up through the active work range in Wayne and parts of Macomb, Washtenaw, and Oakland counties. Registration cards will be delivered by mail-carrier to all the women in the area mentioned above. All women within the age limit are urged to participate in this voluntary registration, the purpose of which is to determine how many women and which women are available and willing to take work in war plants. This registration drive does not mean an immediate offer of work, but it is desirable to make a reservoir of available woman power which can be tapped immediately as opening occur.

In a few months, it is believed, all available and employable female workers will have been absorbed into war industries, and that is where the women of the United States come in.

Women are expected to register whether they have a job at the present time or not, whether they have children they couldn't leave home alone or not, and whether they want to work or not.

The registration forms should be made out clearly, all questions should be answered, and the form should be returned within 48 hours after receipt.

Larger Draft Quotas Seen

Deferments of 2A Selectees Also Being Tightened, Officials Slat

"Expect larger quotas and tighter up on 2A deferments," said officials from all Wayne County Selective Service boards held Thursday at a general meeting held in Detroit.

Victoria Caruthers, a clerk at local Board 57, reported to the board that representatives from all Wayne County Selective Service boards were told to expect much larger quotas for the coming months.

An increase of more than 10 per cent, Mrs. Caruthers stated, will be looked for in late April, September, and October quotas. At present Board 57 receives monthly quotas of more than 125, although it usually furnishes sufficient 1A men has caused the board to send only about half the quota to the front.

A marked tightening of 2A classifications is also going into effect. This work that representatives engaged in vital defense work as at present many single men, it is believed, that inability to furnish sufficient 1A men has caused the board to send only about half the quota to the front.

By cutting down on the number of 2A's the board hopes to substantially increase its number of 1A's liable for immediate induction.

Board 57 has not had a draft of another quota due but it is possible that another group of 2A's will be sent before September 1.
