Drastic Changes in Education to Meet Demands of War Forecast by Noted Educator at Teachers' Conference

Schools Open Next Week for 6000 Students

The opening day scene is one to be familiar to everyone, whether young or old. It is a thrill this day, the future looks bright. All come back in their own way, some have a face which none ever could see on the first day to give the principal, none have to give book records, the honor of all kids.

City Receives National Safety Award

For compiling the best record among communities of its size throughout the United States, the City of Grose Pointes has been presented with a plaque designating it as the winner of the 1941 Pedestrian Protection contest, sponsored by the American Automobile Association.

Gas Rationing Believed Due Very Shortly

Signs accumulate to show it won't be long now; Offices Convinced. Signs accumulate that gas rationing will soon be with us. Executives in charge of the various area rationing offices profess to have no definite knowledge of the new move but none will deny that they look for such an order at any moment.

Pointe Sadly Lacking In Collection of Tin

Less Than Quarter of Estimated Amount is Produced Here; Majority of Households Fail to Save Cans. The collection of tin cans that was made in the Grose Pointes on August 29 was only a partial success, or, to put it more accurately, it was a disappointment.

Dr. Edmonson Cites Gravity of Situation

U. of M. Dean Brings Authoritative Information from Washington. What will undoubtedly remain as the high spot of the Grose Pointe School District's one week conference on the "Conservation of Educational Resources" was the masterful address delivered by Dr. J. R. Edmonson, Dean of Education of the University of Michigan, on Tuesday morning in the High School auditorium.

City Gets Plaque Officially Recognizing it as Safest of Size in United States

Officials of All Pointe Municipalities on Hand at Presentation Ceremony Sponsored by Local Rotary Club. The City of Grose Pointes, through Mayor Mason P. Rumney, at the meeting of the Rotary club Monday in the Whittier, formally received the plaque from the American Automobile Association which commemorated the high honor that was designated for it last April as the Number One city of those under 10,000 population in the United States for its pedestrian safety record.

Death Takes Charles Hicks Suffers Heart Attack in Lincoln Road Home

Charles B. Hicks, aged 47, died suddenly in his home at 558 Lincoln road early yesterday morning, following a heart attack. City of Grose Pointe police received a call to the Hicks home at 1:55 a. m. They used an inhalator and artificial respiration, but Mr. Hicks was pronounced dead at 2:20 a. m. by Dr. Hugh Dill, family physician.

20-Year-Olds Now Receiving Questionnaires

105 Men Also Due to Answer September 18 Induction Call From Board 57. Twenty-year-old Pointers registered at Board 57 will receive their questionnaires beginning this week. The local Board has just completed the mailing of questionnaires to all those between the ages of 21 and 45. There are approximately 105 men in this age bracket registered at the Board.

Two Patrolmen Replace Resigned Park Officers

Two men were added to the Grose Pointe Park police department this week, taking the positions of William Sam Bass and Almoner Bross, who recently resigned. The former will take another business position and the latter to join the Navy.

All is Quiet For Students

Farms Fall Salvaging Program Finishes With School District in Time. Smuth, village engineer of the Grose Pointe, announced this week that the municipality's fall salvaging program was finished. The program consisted of public, private, and parochial schools in Grose Pointe.

Flooded Streets Follow Car Crash

The rains came, but in the form of fire hydrant water that flooded early Monday morning through the Gladwin and Mark sections of Grose Pointe. The unreluctant flood occurred when an automobile driven by Edmond Fayad, 27, of East Detroit, suddenly ran into a fire hydrant on the corner of Mack and Gladwin. Fayad told Park police he never to miss a car that he was driving.

Pointe Ball Stars to Play Double Header on Labor Day

Grose Pointe baseball fans will be treated to an outstanding contest Labor Day at Kerley field. The second game will find Pointe tangle with St. Paul's. The game will be the first of a doubleheader beginning at 1:30 p. m. The second game will find Grose Pointe tangle with St. Paul's.

Nice Ride Nets Defense Worker $40 Net Fine

Howard Snell, Jr., of Lewiston town, was fined $40 Thursday morning by Judge C. Joseph B. Chandler in a Grose Pointe Park case. Snell was arrested by Park officers after he had led them on a merry chase during which time he had exceeded 45 miles per hour on Charles, and failed to stop for Mack avenue at Washington.

Servant Charged With Ring Theft

Grose Pointe Park detectives recovered a diamond ring valued at $100 from the home of a woman charged the thief, a negro woman, with grand larceny. The woman, who is 23 years old, was charged by the police that she had stolen the ring from her room.

Wardens' Hopes for Helmets Dashed by Official Decision

One of the remotest possibilities was it that Grose Pointe's air raid wardens will be equipped with protective steel helmets. The local laws probably have a duck inside the nearest possibility of the wardens' hopes. The local laws probably have a duck inside the nearest possibility of the wardens' hopes.

Choking Spell Followed by Fatal Heart Attack

Joseph Sharron, aged 40, died suddenly in his home at 105 West 1st street, Monday afternoon, following a choking spell which was followed by a fatal heart attack. Grose Pointe Park firemen upon the scene of the death found the victim in a room with a window open.

Fall Election

We have become so engrossed in war that fewer persons than usual have given heed to the thought that less than a year from now the quadrennial process of selecting a President will be well under way. This is probably as it should be with the people's thought given to things so much more vital to the common welfare.

However a civic duty devolves on the citizens of this country which cannot be delegated or avoided even in wartime. The course that political thought will take next year is going to be largely determined by the result of the elections this fall. President Roosevelt has already had a preliminary defeat in the rejection of his man Mend for the democratic nomination for Governor in New York state. An interested query at the moment is whether he contemplates small revenge by encouraging the nomination of a third party candidate who might deflect support from his own party's nominee.

There is a general belief there will be a substantial reduction in the Democratic majority in the House this year. This would be in line with the experience in previous similar circumstances. In the midst of the last war there was a major slump in the Democratic party's control in the House despite President Wilson's frantic election appeal for support for the President in time of war.

In the Civil War it was only the urgent admonition against "swapping horses in the middle of the stream" that re-elected Lincoln and continued support in Congress. The biennial election affords the people their constitutional opportunity to register approval or disapproval of the conduct of the Government. In time of war these questions become vital.

If the voters found much with which to disagree in 1918 Heaven knows there is plenty, and more, to pucker the brow of John Citizen when he enters the voting booth this Fall.

Day of Reckoning

As the mounting cacophony of war sweeps the world the voice of the pacifist, the conscientious objector and the general propagandist of brotherly love goes into an accelerated diminuendo. They have had a heyday for the past twenty years but will soon be as void of sound as a shattered phonograph record.

These lately heard preachments of sweetness and light are a mawkish frolic today. They have their place in a world now already well divided between the forces of freedom and slavery. As Bishop the great Canadian ace of the last war and now head of Canadian flying forces recently said, "with this war needs on our part is more first-class fighting hate."

To win this war we have to discard the feather dusters of the pacifists and grab the battle axes of red blooded fighting men.

When President Roosevelt the other day expressed the purpose to bring personal retribution to the murderers of hostages, he more accurately reflected the earnest conviction of his fellow countrymen than in any of his recent utterances. They hope that these lists for post war reckoning will not omit any from the Master Murderer himself down to the meanest subaltern among the slave drivers in the occupied countries who had the misfortune to have commanded a firing squad.

The President's suggestion that these barbarians were to be turned over to the courts of the respective countries in which their atrocities were committed will be especially pleasing to Americans. "Due process of law," you know, and all that, but in the immediate background another American institution looms: lynch law, quick, sure and certain for evildoers.

And when the newspapermen in his press conference asked whether it might not be difficult to confine these long suffering people to the orderly procedure of court trials, Mr. Roosevelt said he sincerely hoped it could be done, but a hundred million Americans could see the melancholy droop to the eyelids and the sharp bulges in the cheek caused by the pressure of the presidential tongue.

But anyway, not the least pleasurable of the post war scenes will be that of jury boxes, and judicial benches (if such there be in Europe when war ends), occupied by the relatives of the innocent fathers, sons and husbands who were murdered by Hitler's Gestapo and militarized assassins sitting in judgment on their cases.

It can be written down as certain, also, that this forthright declaration by the American President will not bring sweeter slumber to the German murderers. They probably already have an uneasy feeling that this sentiment is wholeheartedly backed by a people numbering 130,000,000 units who "walk only of victory and who have as yet "just begun to fight."

Satisfactory as is this glance ahead, there remains however, first, a war to win.

Grosse-Exaggerations

A. PRYOR

The heauteous Germaine North, wife of the circus tycoon, gets all our credit this week for stories amusing and uproarious. She brought a million of them when she arrived in the Pointe fresh from New York. We don't think she'll mind it if we repeat one true tale she related.

Mr. and Mrs. North are what might be called steady customers of the Stork Club when they are in New York, which is frequently. On their most recent trip they had been in town about ten days and hadn't missed a single night at the famous spot. On the evening of this particular story they had lingered much later than usual, breaking up their kin rummy game about 5 in the morning, and had dragged themselves wearily back to their hotel.

Neither Mr. or Mrs. North had any important engagements early that day, so decided to sleep the clock around. They carefully phoned the desk and gave orders they were not to be called under any circumstances. They hung the "Please Do Not Disturb" sign outside their suite and retired in a state of exhaustion, at 8 A. M.

Promptly at 8 A. M. came a buzz at their door, waking both, and starting an argument as to who should get up and see what was going on. Mrs. North left. Opening the door she steeply spotted a Western Union lad, whom she berated for ignoring the sign, then snatched the telegram and sent him on his way.

When she opened the message, this is what she read:—"DEAR MR. AND MRS. NORTH—WELCOME TO NEW YORK! WHILE YOU ARE HERE I HOPE YOU WILL MAKE THE STORK CLUB YOUR HOME... AND ENJOY EVERY MINUTE OF IT. (SIGNED) SHERMAN BILLINGSLEY."

The circus has come and gone again. Many a juvenile heart was gladdened and many a pulse, not so juvenile, moved up a beat or two at the vision of the lovely ladies in the aerial ballet and the gals with the intriguing contortions on the flying trapeze.

And of course there were young men aplenty on flying trapezes to thrill the ladies of all ages—nine to ninety. Running neck and neck with an Italian tenor there is no spectacle in the whole human comedy that will more readily motivate the romantic feminine fibre than that of a really handsome young man or men, on a far-swinging trapeze.

But really, in all fairness to the Fair, it is doubtful if any single thing in the whole masochistic exhibit of "The Greatest Show on Earth" more fascinated the women than the little feisty wreny baby monkey who had lost his real mama in the big fire and had been adopted by a would-be mother monkey.

She patted him, chuckled him under the chin, talked to him in mother monkey endearments that any human mother could interpret with crystal clearness. An occasional mild spank on his little bottom taught him that discipline was to be an expected part of his earliest life.

First lessons in personal hygiene were imparted in the meticulous care with which the foster mother removed an occasional migrant insect from baby's silky down.

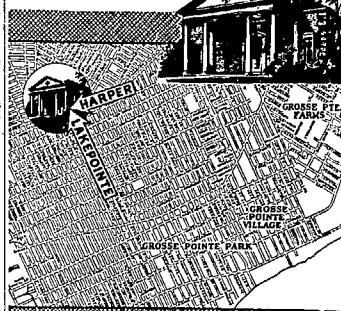

And then to descend from the cultural and vesthetic to the gross materialism of a selfish world.

A group of W. P. A. graduates were loitering about and casting a disapproving eye on the speed with which the take-down crew were "retrieving" the show for its quick journey up-state.

"Ain't it a shame Bill! What a cushy two-months' job this would have made for our old gang!"

Oh! The circus has everything!

By LOUIS SOBOL

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Album of Manhattan—

Just before he was scheduled to leave for England the other night, general Sir Alexander Korda was introduced to George Jean Nathan by this reporter. What followed is one for the books. The critic and recently knighted motion picture man spent the next fifteen minutes explaining why each disliked the other intensely. Some nickel words were employed by Sir Alex—a few of the dollar type by Sir George. Then, as Lieut. Burgess Meredith juggled at Korda's arm explaining that they were late for an appointment, the film man reached over smilingly for Nathan's hand. Nathan, as smilingly clasped Korda's hand—and then, holding hands affectionately, they started hauling each other all over again.

Word came to me Tuesday evening that a certain Robert Travis, Assistant U. S. Attorney-General, was on the hunt for me. Rapidly I ran over in my mind what Federal offense I might have committed recently and, still fretting, I went to meet the Washington official only to find in him the tall, good-natured former schoolmate and co-reporter of other days. So we strolled discussing younger years, back to high school days at Crosby and two names popped into the conversation.

"Do you remember 'Mutl' Davis?" I asked and Travis said yes, he did, and I told him that copy-going Davis had become one of the outstanding traffic men of America and had gone to the Burns Road as chief assistant to Daniel Aronstein when the latter went over last year.

Then Travis said to me something (Continued on Page 7)

will do when it comes to clothes for college undergraduates and their younger brothers in prep school. Either the clothes are styled exactly right...or they're all wrong. Ours have natural shoulders, straight-hanging coats. They're made of "just right" materials... and are flexibly tailored to have the required casual air.

You'll know the moment you see them they're "on the beam"... and you'll find the prices are sensible too. Tweed suits for campus wear... flannels and worsteds for week-ends in town

Teachers Lay Plans for Another Year

of Conferences Eliminates Most of Confusion that Ordinarily Comes With First Sessions of New Term

A week of conferences in planning the work of the Grosse Pointe public schools began with a conference of district and supervisory officials with the Superintendent, Dr. Paul Foster, on Monday afternoon. This was followed by a reception of the Administrative staff and new teachers beginning their work in the Pointe on Tuesday morning.

Education

National Importance
After a few further brief reports of the work situation per- taining to the curriculum study program, Dr. Edmonson spoke more directly of the relationship of the new work to the national welfare.

He disclosed that there was already an important public opinion which advocated the limitation of all educational processes to those which had a social or economic basis which conducted directly to the national war effort. These three major outlooks of criticism of the continuation of college education as heretofore known.

This suggestion was further amplified by the general consensus of the youth of the city, the age of 18 would be conscripted for military service. Within a brief period these three major outlooks would be 8,000,000 men in the military and naval services. All the same moment, however, when these critics advanced their suggestions, for an abbreviation of the college course, there was an equally earnest insistence that education be up to the highest standards to be procured with greater vigor and practically. The hope was also advanced that teaching profession would remain on the job and not seek the more attractive service and life.

Education Badly Needed
The necessity for the continuation of education through the high school age, from which point your youth can go on into specific training for the specific tasks allotted them in the war effort, was stressed by the recognition that modern war has brought about a very rapid process that the victory might well be determined by the training of the winning army.

In connection with the subject of the repeated study of the National government in functions which he had believed were better reserved to the state in the present emergency, however, with the assistance of the National government that all education should for the time be considered to the purpose of national defense, he stated he was prepared to discuss the problem.

These he grouped in two general categories which he designated as "Some Dark Prospects" and "Some Bright Prospects," and representing himself as being an undaunted professor in the National government in functions which he had believed were better reserved to the state in the present emergency, however, with the assistance of the National government that all education should for the time be considered to the purpose of national defense, he stated he was prepared to discuss the problem.

McDonald Tells His Platform for Congress

Clayton G. McDonald, candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Fourteenth District has been a resident of this district all his life. His father and grandfather were also born in Detroit and his family have lived here all his life. His father and grandfather were also born in Detroit and his family have lived here all his life.

Mr. McDonald is 40 years old, married, has one daughter and lives at 17430 Mummer, Grosse Pointe. He is a veteran of the First World War and after being mustered out in 1919, worked in local factories, got into the building and financing business and is now in the investment banking business.

Mr. McDonald's position on the great public questions which confront the country is clear and unequivocal, offering a pleasing contrast to the ambiguous excesses of many who seek the support of the voters. Because he knew from personal experience the political and economic conditions which confront the laboring man during readjustment following the war, he is particularly qualified to give sympathetic help to their problems and is particularly qualified to give sympathetic help to their problems and is particularly qualified to give sympathetic help to their problems.

That Mr. McDonald's standing on this subject is not mere platitudes is evidenced by his bold declaration on many issues of a more controversial nature. He said that if we want to prevent inflation we must do the job completely; ceilings on wages, farm products and all other goods are necessary if we are to win the war.

He favors a Federal sales tax as opposed to increase in the income tax rate as its source for the next year's taxes but he would still be paying this year's taxes probably.

More Donors Badly Needed At Red Cross Blood Bank

You can save the life of an American soldier or sailor. They are fighting—and dying—for you. Will you give a pint of blood to save their lives?

The American Red Cross is collecting blood from voluntary donors for the use of America's armed forces. Thousands of donors are needed—urgently—for the emergency.

Every healthy adult between the ages of 21 and 60 can participate in this vital war effort and help to keep American troops safe and painless, and requires but an hour of your time. You can resume your usual routine, return to work, drive a car, or perform any normal activity immediately upon leaving the center.

Your cool is available today, but with growing military transportation needs, your cool may not be tomorrow! So do your country's service...

Neff to Hold Voting School

City Clerk Will Instruct Those Wishing Information on Friday, Sept. 11

In accordance with established practice, Norbert P. Neff, City Clerk of the City of Grosse Pointe will conduct a "School" of question and answer session for newly registered voters on Friday evening, September 11, 1942, in his office at 17150 Mummer Avenue, at 8:00 p. m.

The purpose of this instruction period is to make available to voters information which will assist them in voting correctly by voiding their ballots minimized. This is of especial value in connection with the present system of secret primary ballots now in use in Michigan.

While this "School" is primarily intended to be for the use and convenience of residents of the City of Grosse Pointe, newly registered voters in the Grosse Pointe area are welcome to attend and make use of the opportunity to secure necessary information.

One reason we need lead: The guns of a pursuit plane vomit bullets at the rate of 300 pounds per minute.

Police Get Unexpected Aid From New Pedestrian Law

In addition to penalizing car drivers, Detroit's Pedestrian Protection Ordinance is doing a job that few of its sponsors predicted.

The law, which otherwise might be regarded as a mere nuisance, is doing a job that few of its sponsors predicted. It is doing a job that few of its sponsors predicted.

Police authorities are quick to admit that the pedestrian law is not the answer to the crime problem. It is doing a job that few of its sponsors predicted.

Victory Gardeners Will Be Spotligted

Neighborhood Club Will Be Scene of Big Event on Saturday and Sunday, September 12 and 13; Canning Featured

Patriotic flower arrangements will probably take the spotlight, as far as beauty is concerned in the Gross Pointe and Eastern Michigan Horticultural Society autumn show, which will be held at the Neighborhood Club on September 12 and 13 in conjunction with the Gross Pointe Victory Garden Council Harvest Show.

Although the flower arranging is expected to be popular, the fact remains that this has been a practical summer project for the Victory Gardeners. ## Miss Sally Sullivan's Betrothal Announced

Popular Post-Deb Will Become Bride of Edwin D. Clarke of Beaupre Road; Wedding Plans Not Yet Definite

The engagement of one of Grosse Pointe's most charming post-debs, Sally Sullivan, was announced Saturday afternoon at a cocktail party in the Sullivan home on East Jefferson.

Sally is betrothed to Edwin D. Clarke, son of Mrs. Harry C. Clarke, of Beaupre, and Eddie was back from his camp in the east for the announcement party.

Everyone knew what was going on as soon as they saw the banners strung out of the huge stone urns on the porch, one saying Sally and the other Eddie. The bride-elect wore a soldier blue eye gown, with tiny plaits around the neckline forming a pleolum. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Sullivan.

Sally was graduated from Grosse Pointe High School and finished at Ste. Genevieve's in Montreal. She is a member of Sigma Gamma Beta of School and went to society in 1940.

Her fiancé is a graduate of Kenyon College, where he was an Alpha Deb.

No definite plans have been made as yet concerning the wedding date.

MRS. DELOIS PARKER HEATH, of Kercheval avenue, returned last week from New York with her son, Bill, who has been at Camp Kieve in Nobleboro, Maine, this summer.

MRS. GEORGE N. MONRO, III, of Touraine road, returned last week from Harbor Point, where she was the guest of Mrs. Richard P. Joy for two weeks.

PEGGY NICHOL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Nichol, of Nottingham, who will become the bride of Matthew King Millard on September 12, was honored by Nan Julian on Sunday afternoon at a tea and trousseau shower held in Nan's home on Nottingham.

Looking at the Movies

By R. E. LUBECK

Fall weather usually brings good pictures to local screens, and this season will be no exception if the first of the list of coming productions is a typical example.

Opening tomorrow, Friday, at the Michigan theater is Irving Berlin's latest show "Holiday Inn."

This film is a music makers delight with Fred Astaire and Bing Crosby teamed for the first time.

The combination is perfect; Astaire's feet and Crosby's voice go together like ham and eggs. Advance publicity teases the film as the smartest vehicle either star has done in some time.

For the show old master Berlin has penned eleven new songs, best of which are "Happy Holiday," "Be Careful It's My Heart," "Sing of Freedom," "I'll Capture Your Heart," and of course the old tune favorite, "Easter Parade."

One of the rightest new stars in the film is the female heart throb Marjorie Reynolds. Miss Reynolds dances, does a bit of singing, and in general plays with Bing and Fred in a lighthearted manner.

The film is worth seeing, musically, and otherwise.

For the one person out of ten who hasn't seen "Mrs. Miniver," as yet, the latest word is that the film will continue for at least two more weeks at the United Artists theater.

"Mrs. Miniver" is the one show in town that has audiences spellbound. We saw the picture again last week and were amazed at the quietness and attention of everyone seeing the film. There was no talking, no rattling of paper. Everyone seemed intent on just one thing... not missing a moment of the number one film of the year. It's quite a tribute!

Royale Retains Sheila Barrett

Lovely Sheila Barrett, whose sharply etched caricatures of types of people ranging from a sophisticated dolt in a Powder Room to a little French woman happy upon receiving her papers, are sure to please, continues to headline the "Show of Shows" revue this week at Club Royale.

Especially clicking were the descriptions of "Greta Garbo telling a story at Camp Custer" and "Girl getting ready for a blind date."

Heading the supporting cast are the Three Make-Believers, three college men from Northwestern University whose fate for imitating the singing records of Bing Crosby, the Merry-mans, or the Andrew Sisters has brought them an offer from Paramount to do a motion picture in the very near future.

Dancer Marjol Puge does some versatile terpsichorean work, of which ballet and character numbers with becoming costumes to match.

It's the music of Bill McCune and his orchestra.

Romance in the Jungle

Cavalcade

thing I didn't know until now. "Do you remember Frank Hogan?" he asked. I said the name was familiar. Travis said it should be because it was a solid name in Waterbury and Hogan had been a solid fellow who went to the same school with us—Crosby. As he recalled, he was one or two or maybe three classes behind us, being that much younger. Now I sensed something of a story—for it occurred to me that Travis was an Assistant United States Attorney. General—and it might be that our fellow townsman was in some trouble with Federal authorities. "What," I asked cautiously, "about this fellow Hogan?" "Why, nothing much—except that I'm surprised you don't know. He's now the District Attorney of New York City. He's the man who succeeded Thomas E. Dewey as the district attorney of New York County." President and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt have their hearts set upon obtaining for hanging in the White House, a Gilbert Stuart painting of George Washington owned by a New York woman who was preparing to sell it to a museum. Representatives of the President prevailed upon her to consider a bid for a lesser amount so that the White House might own it. She agreed to take $75,000. There was only one hitch. Who would put up the $75,000? Finally Jesse Jones agreed to make the purchase and present it to the White House—but before he did so he had a

New York art expert pass on the picture. The report was unenthusiastic—whereupon Jones had a change of heart and mind. So the painting of Washington which the President and the First Lady would like to be the property of the White House will go to a museum unless some other philanthropic citizens decide to buy it so that our President and all Presidents who succeed him may have it as a wall decoration.

Three Fine Films Coming to Punch

"Larceny Inc." starring Edward G. Robinson with Jane Wyman, Broderick Crawford and Jack Carson in the supporting roles, will play at the Punch and Judy Theatre this Friday and Saturday. The film tells the story of a man who finds that running a regular business ca-

West Point to the Fore

GEORGE MONTGOMERY (right) and JOHN SUTTON may look slightly weary for the war, but as two fighting, never-say-die cadets in "Ten Gentlemen From West Point," coming to the Vogue theater on Friday, their spirit is undimmed. The two stars provide plenty of action in the film and together with Maureen O'Hara, make it one to remember.

terprise was more profitable than cracking safes. A little known, but thrilling story of West Point has been gloriously brought to the screen in "Ten Gentlemen From West Point," the action-packed adventure film that plays at the Punch and Judy Sunday through Tuesday.

Starring George Montgomery, Maureen O'Hara and John Sutton, the film has a patriotic appeal that is bound to thrill every American. It is the story of the valorous cadets who made the West Point of today possible.

Against the stirring background of the Point of one hundred and forty years ago, the movie authentically depicts the adventures of the first graduating class, on whose record depends the very life of the Academy.

Their trials and tribulations are told in unusual terms, and the film has the distinction of being unlike any other made about West Point. The theatre will maintain continuous performance from 2:30 P. M. on Sunday and Monday.

The hectic adventures of four musicians in a swing band and their beautiful songstress, provide the basis of the sparkling musical comedy, "Four Jacks and a Jill" which plays at the Punch and Judy Wednesday and Thursday. The movie under Ray Bolger and Ann Shirley on the screen for the first time.

Five spectacular dances by the nimble-footed Bolger and six catchy melodies further enrich this fast-moving, laugh-filled comedy.

Fort Custer, near Battle Creek, was named for a Monroe boy, George A. Custer of the famous Fourth Michigan Cavalry in the Civil War. This regiment split a $100,000 reward with the First Wisconsin Cavalry for capture of Jefferson Davis.
