Instructions For Fighting Fire Bombs

Gen. Grant of OGD Commands Commercial Workers; Water Best

The Office of Civilian Defense has just issued a set of revised instructions to citizens regarding the treatment of incendiary bombs that are quite at variance with instructions previously broadcast on the subject.

The new instructions are of great interest to the people of the Grose Pointes who are alert to preventive measures to be taken in the event of a war of aerial violence should come to their own community.

General U. S. Grant III, chief of the Detroit branch of the OGD, is quoted at length in the directions. Originally great interest was taken in the fact that each householder having a car conveniently at hand a quantity of dry sand, or at least a few dry sticks with which to smother an incendiary bomb.

Practical Way of Helping One's Country

WALT COMER, technical assistant, and Nurse VIENO LEINOMER demonstrate the casual and easy way a blood donation is effected. A well-known citizen of Grose Pointes offers his blood for his country even as have scores of other patriotic men and women from this community. This picture was taken at the Red Cross Blood Mobile Donors Unit at the Mason school last Saturday. The donor was agreeable to being "shot" by the News photographer. Guess who is he?

High School Boys Hold Up Drivers

Last Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Frank Boyer of 197 Charlevoix reported to the Grose Pointe Farms police that a gang of about twenty boys stopped her car on a nearby road in front of the High School, and began to kick the fenders on her car and lounce it up and down almost causing it to overturn. Not only did they disturb her car, but also those of others who tried to pass.

What made the offense especially serious was that Mrs. Boyer was sick at the time it occurred. Upon learning of the incident Sgt. William Rice of the Farms police went over to the high school to talk to Principal Walter B. Clonmason and Assistant Principal Charles A. Solter.

Dive Bomber Lands in Yard

It is a known fact that Police Departments are very often called for odd and sometimes trivial reasons, but imagine the surprise of the Grose Pointe Park Police Wednesday afternoon when they received a call from Mrs. E. L. Richards of Kensington road, reporting that a large "flying" plane had "forced" landing in her back yard. The "flying" plane had a perfect two foot landing gear (three landing) with a battery wing which later proved to be broken.

The Grose Pointes are to have another special collection of tin cans again on Saturday, Oct. 10, beginning at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Householders are requested, as a courtesy, to prepare the cans by removing the top and bottom, washing the cans and flattening them out to their "flat" size. They are to do this by stepping firmly on the can. Do not pound the can with a hammer, or with a mallet, or any other instrument as the crumpled can and prevent the satisfaction of the donating fund.

154 Pointes Donate Blood To Mobile Unit Saturday

The Stevens T. Mason School on Vernier road was the scene of activities of the Alex. Dow Memorial Blood Donors Mobile Unit last Saturday. The unit was presented to the Red Cross by the employees of the Detroit Edison Company, of which the late Alex Dow was president for many years prior to his death.

Mrs. William R. Hamilton, the chairman for Women's Activities of the Red Cross for Grose Pointes, stated that the 154 pint of blood were given for the most worthy cause. Dr. E. H. Harris was the doctor in charge. The persons desiring to make a blood donation called and made appointments. When they arrived they were ushered into a room where their temperature, blood pressure, and blood count were taken to determine if it was physically advisable to make a blood extraction. Next they were given a glass of orange juice to compensate for the loss of fluid in the system. In the room, where within ten minutes the blood amount they laid down on extraction was completed.

This mobile unit is equipped to handle ten persons at a time. If the donor desires, he can be taken to his home by a member of the Red Cross Corps.

All in all the time spent in this process is only about 45 minutes, and there is nothing in the whole procedure which even approaches a minor operation.

Civilian Defense Asks Scrap Money

Wayne County Salvaging Committee's Preemptory Demand For Cash Wins No Cheers; Locals Want Money for OGD

The query advanced by President Goddard of the Commissioners on Sept. 25 regarding the disposition of the scrap metal collected in the salvaging drive on the 25th of the month is being considered at a meeting of the Grose Pointe Area Civilian Defense Committee held the following Wednesday night.

This committee is composed of the mayor of the City of Grose Pointe and the presidents of the four incorporated villages, Chief Air Ward Warden Blessed, Salvage Drive Director, and other persons associated with this war time service.

It developed at the meeting that the several Grose Pointe communities had received a notification from the Wayne County Salvaging Committee, similar to the one which was read at the Park Commission meeting the previous Monday. It stated that all the money received for scrap in their respective communities should be turned over immediately to the Wayne Salvaging Committee.

It was also apparent early in the meeting that there was a practically unanimous opinion among the Grose Pointe officials that before any prepayment of the money to the Wayne County committee, the ultimate use of the funds should be clarified.

There was no disposition on the part of the Pointe officials to take any action which would prevent the money from being used for the purpose of the OGD.

President Goddard of the Wayne County Salvaging Committee had this to say: "The money received for scrap in your community would not be turned over to the Wayne County Salvaging Committee until it has been used for the purpose of the OGD."

In the whole area, including Grose Pointe, the amount collected, making the amount in Grose Pointe approximately $2500.

Men March Off to Great Adventure

By the light of dawn, eighteen Grose Pointe men departed for an early morning breakfast at the Neighborhood Club sponsored by the Park Commission. Grose Pointe Park, last Friday.

The breakfast club again provided coffee and donuts for the men to be "Back Private" and under the direction of President Harry Furum, Grose Pointe men did much of the work of making that certain feeling disappear in the boys' stomachs in fact the boys' young men looked very calm and collected in spite of the fact that they were being launched into the greatest adventure of their lives, that of being a soldier.

The Grose Pointe High School Band, under the direction of Dewey D. Kalisher, again played up the program which was held at the Grose Pointe of the Detroit News, was just spoken and was introduced by President Mattie J. of the Park Commission Association, who acted as master of ceremonies.

It was a very interesting young man about to play some of the various Grose Pointe, and made for the demonstration.

Unwanted 'Tommy' Barred by His Gentlemanly Perfection

A lady resident of Detroit, but temporarily sojourning in Mountain View, California, pending her husband's return from the service, has a cat on her hands in Detroit and a care on her mind about her heart on the Pacific coast.

When she went to the coast she was accompanied by a woman friend who has apparently grown tired of the care, as the prayer for relief was not to be granted the woman in dilemma the distracted owner sought influence and authority for help in the case of the cat. Her woman friend who has apparently grown tired of the care, as the prayer for relief was not to be granted the woman in dilemma the distracted owner sought influence and authority for help in the case of the cat.

In her letter to the mayor the lady related that her pet (the young Persian, one year old, left behind at a very tender age and raised as a child, had never been allowed to run out doors, and had good habits. Further, "he had never seen another cat," which no doubt accounted for the shy and grumpy disposition with which he was credited.

But there was a fair sister Tommy was a half cat, and had but may have a determining influence on all his subsequent, indelibly social isolation.

Coast Guard Review

Next Tuesday there is to be a sort of grand review of the Reserve and Auxiliary Coast Guard. This fine body of citizens of the Detroit area who are voluntarily doing a splendid patriotic service in patrolling day and night "the busiest water highway on earth" are entitled to a visual demonstration of appreciation from their fellow citizens.

Up and down the river between the Belle Isle bridge and Windmill Point eleven flotillas of power craft numbering 200 to 300 boats manned by crews approximating 1,500 men will pass in review. It will be a sight worth seeing and will afford the first opportunity the people of the Detroit region have had to see what one small group of their own men from civil life are doing to make safe against murderers and saboteurs this vital channel in the Nation's defense.

They are out on their own boats, on their own time, in all kinds of wind and weather, to the neglect of far pleasanter occasions, to protect you and your great city which boasts of being the capital of democracy's arsenal. Let's give them a grand hand. Republics may be ungrateful but Detroit cannot afford to be.

What they are doing is more than civilian defense. It is national defense on a very real scale at the Nation's industrial wartime heart.

The Unconquerable

A modest news note tucked away in an inconspicuous spot in the American press the other day reveals a story of dogged perseverance and unadulterated heroism rarely equalled in history.

At the moment when England was entering her fourth year of war, three months before we had completed our first year, A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, disclosed that Britain's shipyards had practically made good the Royal Navy's admitted losses in warships and that at the same time Nazi submarine losses had risen to the highest rate of the war in the last two months.

This means that Britain while fighting for her very life, subjected to bombings which at times have arisen to the proportions of a holocaust, while maintaining fighting forces in every corner of the civilized and uncivilized world, while carrying on an ocean-borne commerce on every sea, has operated her shipbuilding yards and contributing war industries with such effect as to make a tonnage of fighting ships greater than all of her losses thus far in the war.

This does not mean that complete replacement has taken place in all categories of ships. To date she has lost 423 ships of all classes. In mid July this year she had 485 ships on duty which were not in existence at the outbreak of war and allowing for sinkings since July at least 500 warships must have been delivered by shipyards in the last two and one-half years.

All this from a little country which with Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland covers only 94,000 square miles, smaller than any one of our states, and contains 46,000,000 population. In time she is only about twenty minutes from German bombers.

As Kaiser Wilhelm said when informed that England had come in on the side of France and Russia at the outbreak of the last war in August, 1914, "it will be a very long war; the English are a very stubborn race."

So they are, and so are the Americans, and so too will it be a long war unless the Germans decide to give up. Some day they may learn not to try to conquer the unconquerable.

Grosse Exaggerations

A. PRYOR

Three weeks ago tomorrow was the day on which the President visited a few armament plants in Detroit. Just after he had left Detroit we heard he had been here.

We waited for the dailies to blazon the news to the populace—but nothing happened.

Being a mentally alert as we have always been accused of being, we immediately thought, "ah-ha, censorship!" and we chuckled a nasty chuckle.

The following week we printed in our column that the President had been here. After all, thousands of factory workers saw him and heard him, so, we figured that people not working in factories are entitled to a little news too; and besides, so one said anything to US about censorship or the importance of keeping still.

A week ago Tuesday, eleven days after the President had been gone, the office of the G.P.N. received a letter from the Michigan Press Association telling us of the President's tour through Detroit and asking us not to print it!

We are assuming that this notice came from the M.P.A. by orders from some department in Washington, a department which evidently doesn't know what it's doing. On his tour the President was up to his ears in pressmen from all the dailies who were told AT THIS TIME not to print the news that he was there.

The Department of "DON'T Print Anything Unless We Tell You" saw fit to send out this warning eleven days later to weekly papers all over the country. Evidently they haven't any conception of the number of weekly papers in the U. S., or the number of persons who read them. They probably haven't even heard that the editor of the weekly paper in Whoozis, Indiana, was being "bang" editorials that they have been reprinted in dailies throughout the country.

Perhaps they should be informed of a few things—such as the fact that the number of weeklies in the country is astounding.

Joe Cook once said: "Take all the trees in the world and make them into one big tree; then take all the rivers in the world and make them into one river; then take the big hatchet and chop down the big tree and let it fall into the big river. Gee! What a splash it would make."

And so be it with the weeklies—which ought to be called "stronglies".

Anyone who doesn't realize this ought to have his head—or his department—examined.

As Winchell said: "Better be nice to the little guys on your way UP because you'll meet the same ones on your way DOWN."

Corporal Russell K. Creel of the Ordnance Motor Supply Depot down at Fort Wayne is attending to the lighter side of life for the boys, via the mimeographed word. We suppose that some of these recourses inhere with the American Revolution or at the latest with World War I—but be that as it is, or maybe, we are perfectly agreeable to contributing to their longevity. If any of their nostalgic tremor to any of the Boys of '61 we are sorry, but this is War.

This one is at least contemporary with the Gasoline Age. Private Beck of the M. P. platoon was riding in a detailing van when there was a bright flash and he got a terrific blow on the head. He didn't hear anything. When he woke up the second day later he was in a hospital with colonels and majors looking at him. "Now wasn't that worth something?"

True, he was paralyzed from his neck down—quite some involved area—but after a little matter of a month in the hospital he was back on duty again getting the feel of his motorcycle "by riding a bicycle." What a deal the Jan were tough!

Corporal Creel sagely remarks, "After coming through an experience like that Private Beck should be immune to electric shocks for any time."

No argument.

And now we know how the "Wildcat" Division got its name. Down at Camp Buckner, Ala. Major General Gustav H. Franklin, commander of the 1st Cavalry Division, found his private (living quarters very exclusive) invaded by a wildcat. Momentarily transferred, Kelly made a return call when he ate up all the eggs and drank all the milk in the general's culinary department. With such indubitable proof of the gentle creature's enthusiasm for military life, the general handed the heart to give him his discharge.

While not yet dedicated to the point of playing with a camp mouse, the general hopes to accustom him to at least riding beside him in his automobile.

This is total war—even the wildcats have enlisted.

By LOUIS FOLK

ABOUT A FEW FOLKS—

(Whom once we liked so well) The other day I chanced to meet another columnist—and this will be difficult for you to believe—we actually sat down, friendly like anything, and talked.

His name is Ernest R. Bauer and he paragraphs for the Eighting French newspaper "La Voix de France." What will knock you over is that when I left him I found myself with a column—for he told me what had happened to certain folks in whom Americans had been interested at one time or another.

Maurice Chevalier, for instance. A few weeks before Bauer left for the United States he saw him in Cannes. That was two years ago when Chevalier had just married—secretly—Mita Fayo, a young French singer. The French star said: "As long as the Nazis are in Paris I am not going to return there." He added that he had applied for his visas and intended to go to America.

But he didn't—of the reasons, according to Bauer, being that the Spanish Government in Madrid refused to give him a transit visa on the grounds that once he had appeared in a show staged for the benefit of Spanish Loyalist refugees in France.

A year ago Chevalier returned to Paris. Bauer doesn't know why he changed his plans. He thinks the Germans and Vichy pressure may have subdued him or that just plain nostalgia for the city he loved so dearly enticed him back. Despite the stories we have heard, Bauer insists that, although reputed by the Nazis to be in Berlin, Chevalier has always refused. He did go to Germany, however, on a tour to sing for French prisoners of war in interned in Nazi camps.

Bauer insists that, although reputed by the Nazis to be in Berlin, Chevalier has always refused. He did go to Germany, however, on a tour to sing for French prisoners of war in interned in Nazi camps.

But he didn't—of the reasons, according to Bauer, being that the Spanish Government in Madrid refused to give him a transit visa on the grounds that once he had appeared in a show staged for the benefit of Spanish Loyalist refugees in France.

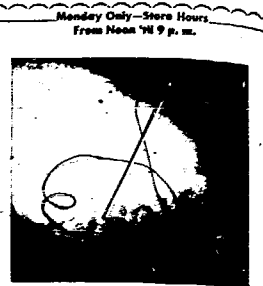

Then we discussed the screen beauty, Danielle Darrieux. Bauer said that, after divorcing her husband-director, Henry Devota, at the end of 1940, the star did ask for her visa for the U. S., where she had two contracts (one with Universal Pictures, another with Gregor Bahinovich, producer for United Artists). Instead of going to Hollywood she went to Berlin, starred in a Nazi picture, was loyally received and feted. Gosh—she and Goering gave lavish parties in her honor. Now she is appearing in a picture made in unoccupied France and has just left Paris for Toulouse, Toulouse, Charge d'Affaires in Vichy. "After the war," said Bauer, solemnly, "I need not tell you—there will not be any more pictures starring Danielle Darrieux."

Fernand Gravel, star of "The Great Waltz" and other American pictures, is living quietly with his wife, Jeanne Renoirard, in the south of France. He has obtained from any political or other activity.

A year ago, Senare Hayakawa—famous star of American movies in the silent days, and in the past dozen years starring in French films—was slated to make her debut as a stage actor in Brussels, occupied Belgium. The name of the play was unknown to Bauer, but he did know that it was written in French by a young German author. After Pearl Harbor he was of the opinion that Hayakawa went back to Japan—but confesses he has no positive evidence of this.

About the moving picture business as it now exists in France, Bauer had this to report: Up to 1940, Parisian film production maintained the highest artistic level in Europe and American distributors often pointed out that it was their greatest competitor on the European market. Today, French film production maintains no level—chiefly because those who were responsible for the high standard of French pictures have refused to work for the Nazis and the Vichy regime and have gone voluntarily into exile. Among the box office stars who refuse any connection with current French films are Charles Boyer, Jean Gabin, Victor Francen, Michele Morgan, Simon Simonne and Annabella.

He stated that the school's primary responsibility is to prepare its students for the various demands of the war. This includes providing a strong academic foundation, as well as instilling a sense of civic duty and patriotism. The principal emphasized that the school must also focus on physical education and sports, as these are essential for building a healthy and resilient workforce. He concluded by stating that the school's ultimate goal is to produce graduates who are not only well-educated but also well-prepared to contribute to the nation's war effort.

Blue Devils Lose To Acorns 26-0

Led by Captain Bruce Fin, the Royal Oak Acorns trounced over the Grosse Pointe Blue Devils to the tune of 26-0 Saturday. The Acorns, scoring twice in the first quarter and twice in the last quarter, remains undefeated and unbeaten in its three games. The Acorns have played this season. The Devils were outplayed in every department, particularly in the line. The heavier Royal Oak forward, still operated a huge blow, in which the 210-pound Fin crushed through for repeated gains. The Grosse Pointe boys threatened but twice. They gave up the ball on downs and on an intercepted pass in each case. As the Acorns played a well-balanced offense, they were able to gain and Royal Oak took over. From then until the third quarter Grosse Pointe was helpless. In the third quarter with the ball on the Royal Oak 15-yard line, Fin intercepted one of Lamb's passes to end its last drive.

Men from Foreign Lands Enjoy Hostess Corps Dance

Young Fighters Like The Beautiful Girls

British Consul and Wife of Detroit are Distinguished Guests at Neighborhood Club Affair; Special Dance Features Give Artistic Flair

Approximately 70 men in the armed services of not only the United States but the United Nations as well attended the party given Saturday night at the Neighborhood Club by the Grosse Pointe Hostess Corps.

Mrs. Gilbert Currie, registrar, reported that almost 100 per cent of the girls turned out to make this second party of the season as great a success as the first one was, given two weeks ago.

The party was, as usual, under the artistic supervision of the chairmanship of Mrs. Arthur Spurrer, and the committee was as follows: Mr. and Mrs. William Tetzlaff, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Stevens and Mrs. Francis Brophy, section host; Mrs. Arthur Bell, decorations; Mrs. William Redell, posters; Mrs. Anne Emyer, hospital; Mrs. Robert Waldron, music; Mrs. Jerry Griggs, game room; and Miss Eleanor Davies, in charge of the senior hostesses.

Among the senior hostesses (21 years of age and over) making up the evening the success it was seen Susan Dannewether, who directed the dancing and games on the dance floor; Anne Emyer, Mrs. A. W. Dussau, Elizabeth Harris, Rosemary Hoffman, Mrs. Hrenston, Betty Weiler, Eleanor Nevens, Sue Stevenson, Mary Lou Hurley and Beverly Van Loar.

Jan Bradley, Betty Lou Alvyn, Dorothy Piper, Barbara Elych, Marilyn Blum, Mary Lee Davies, Irene Bush, Mary Lee Hammond, Ada Mus and Margie Hanson were just a few of the Junior Hostesses who were entertaining the servicemen.

Lee Lorenz proved to be a big hit with her dancing lessons, especially in the chumba and conga. The Hostess Corps fully appreciate her services. Lorenz took pictures of the boys, to be made to them later. Bob Scout hats and coats, and Mrs. Henry Hughes, a photographer for the A.W.S., Miss Joan Anderson, head of the Camera Club at Grosse Pointe High School, sent Lee over to give the boys.

Four distinguished guests, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Cane (Mrs. Cane is British consul in Detroit) and Dr. and Mrs. R. M. Criner, representing the Rotary Club, dropped in during the evening.

Deck Tord, of the Postal Corps, Royal Canadian Army, said of the party, "I think it's the real nice—the girls are beautiful—and I hope I can come to the next one."

Jay Cozer, of the Royal Navy, whose home is in London, England, said, "I think American hospitality is great—really wonderful. I hope the boys are getting the same treatment in England."

Ray Coleman and Hugh Courtright, both of the United States Navy, commented on putting into the beauty of the girls, and Ray Rogers, of the United States Navy, whose home town is West Hartlepool, Durham, England, and who has been in the service since being in America, stopped laughing with one of the Junior Hostesses, long enough to say, "This is my experience, and it's even better than the first."

If they keep on improving at this rate, WHAT a treat will be to go to a week from Saturday night, will be like?

News From Pointe's Elementary Schools

The Boy Scout Cubs of Den No. 7 of the Richard School have been active in collecting tin cans and nesting matter for the patients at the U. S. Marine Hospital. The work of the boys has evidently been appreciated judging from the letter recently received from Dr. J. R. Hulston of the USMHS, Medical Officer in Charge. The letter says: "Boy Scouts, Den No. 7, Richard School, Grosse Pointe Park, Mich. My Dear Y and F: I am very glad to see your continued interest in collecting and giving the fine magazines to our patients here at the U. S. Marine Hospital and assure you that the patients are getting great enjoyment and pleasure from them."

Very Sincerely,
J. R. HULSTON,
Medical Director, USMHS,
Medical Officer in Charge.

The boys of Richard School have won this fine recognition for their work. Dick Lord, Tommy Lindahl, George Griffo, Donald Landis, Terry Williams and Luther Newell. The Den Mother is Mrs. Leon K. Lindahl; Den Chief, Bill Lord.

TROMBLEY SCHOOL
Through joining forces and working together, parents, teachers, dentists, nurses, and physicians are doing much to safeguard the health of the children in Grosse Pointe.

It is particularly so at Trombley School, where there are thirty-five children enrolled in the kindergarten this semester. Thirty pupils have returned the medical examination report filled out by their family physicians. Thirty-three children were examined by the dental dentist, Dr. LaFollet, and recommendations for needed dental care were submitted to the parents. All pupils were given the fluoride vitamin test by the school nurses, Helen Lapa, R. N.

Parents and teachers at Trombley are doing their part to understand the need for conservation, and thrust and implement the need with a practical program of action.

Through recent events and class discussions, pupils are learning to understand the importance of conserving our materials, and resources. The use of electricity, lights, running water and paper hand towels is stressed. Teachers and pupils alike are making sure that we use as much as necessary and no more. During cold weather days are kept open at a minimum. This helps to conserve coal.

In our school supplies, we have set a goal of using just half of what we used last year.

The 6A class prepared a case list display sending out to all pupils display at a minimum. This helps to conserve coal.

ious materials clips, popostats, rubber bands, erasers, pencils, pins, paper are arranged to form a V for victory. The slogan is "Use one half of what you used last year, save what you have; this must not be more. They Fight! We Save! The Home Soldiers of Trombley are aiming to have every pupil in Trombley a defense stamp buyer. A War Stamp Chart pictures graphically weekly class stamp sales, total school sales, and the per cent of students participation in war savings program.

At present 24 per cent of our pupils are participants. Our Home Soldiers want to do their part.

RICHARD SCHOOL
Richard School did its part to help in the nation wide salvage drive. Each class at Richard has a Junior Red Cross Representative whose responsibility it is to go to the monthly meetings and report back to his group members. At the assembly each of these representatives took part in a skit which told the children about the salvage drive and urged them to bring old metal and rubber scrap to school beginning October first. A place has been provided behind the school building where the scrap is to be deposited. By Friday evening the children had a good-sized pile, but more is needed.

During these first few weeks of these social affairs have already taken place at Richard. The mothers of the 1-B children in Mrs. Howarth's room came to a similar meeting on September 14th and on Wednesday, September 30, the mothers of the new kindergarten children met with Miss Whitehead and Miss Bradley for a cup of tea and a "time to get acquainted."

There will be a weaving class at Richard School on Friday mornings from 9:20 to 11:30 starting Friday, October 10th. A fee of 50 cents will be charged for ten lessons. Come and learn how to make inexpensive costume accessories such as, belts, purses, scarves, house slippers, and luncheon sets.

For further information call No. 8955.

DEFER SCHOOL
The 3D's in Mrs. Stahl's room have been studying about the different kinds of leaves. They have made a collection of such leaves as elm, maple, poplar, hickory, chestnut, sassafras, oak and mulberry. They mounted the leaves and made one large booklet of them. Then they made water-paintings of the leaves to decorate the room and drew leaves on paper plates, colored them with crayons and painted them with black poster paint.

The children have become more aware of the trees in their community and are conscious of the differences in the fruit, seeds and leaves of the trees studied.

Gable, Turner Coming to United Artists

Together again! That terrific romantic team, Clark Gable and Lana Turner, are in a dynamic production again in MGM's great film, "Somebody Will Fall," starting Thursday at the United Artists Theatre with the companion feature, "Born to Sing" with Virginia Weidler and Ray MacDonald, the dancing star of "Babe on Broadway."

"Born to Sing" features an all-young cast with Virginia Weidler, Ray MacDonald, and Ted and Mill Lee, George in starring roles.

Is the kid... or is she kidding? Ray Miland wasn't sure when he played opposite Ginger Rogers in "The Major and the Minor" opening Friday at the Michigan Theatre on the same bill with "Fly By Night," an exciting adventure story of a boy and a girl who met at midnight... married at dawn... faced death together every second of their wild honeymoon!

"Fly By Night" brings together Richard Carlson and Nancy Kelly in an adventure spy drama of a boy and girl brought together by chance, who fall in love and then face the possibility of never seeing each other again.

The thrilling "Wake Island" continues for another sensational week at the Palmis State Theatre with the eleven satire, "Twins Beds" starring George Brent and Joan Bennett.

The "Ball of Fire" Barbara Stanwyck has another fiery role in Paramount's great drama of the woman behind one of the great men of America—"The Great Man's Lady." The film co-stars Miss Stanwyck with Joel McCrea and opens next Saturday at the Equine Theatre. In support is the popular Brian Donley as the other man in the great lady's exciting life.
