Washington Commissions

Workers Busy Making Little Structure on Maumee Attractive and Convenient

The final assurance that the Grosse Pointe post office is a fixed reality is evidencmorning from Washington of the commission of Leland F. Lindow as "Superintendent in Charge of the Grosse Pointe Branch of the Detroit Postoffice." Mr. Lindow is receiving the congratulations of his many friends in the Pointe, where his courteous and capable attention has won for him the praise and appreciation of thousands of our local citizens.

At the same time with the arrival of Mr. Lindow's commission, came the authorization from Washington to begin receiving Postal Savings accounts.

In about ten days Mr. Lindow says, the authorization will come through for the direct sale from the office of U.S. Gov't War Bonds. With this authorization the little post office on Maumee will be equipped to perform every postal service for the community that could be rendered by the biggest office in the coun-

Meanwhile a group of workmen under the direction of Highway Superintendent Julius Stork of the City Government, is rushing through the repairs and renovations which will make the office convenient and attractive.

The arrival of the Grosse Pointe post office is somewhat in the nature of a personal triumph for City Clerk Norbert Neff, who for the past three years has made the attainment of this local convenience one of the No. 1 items on his agenda for community achievement. In this he has been expected to be one of the greatest commercial developments in the Devil" Division.

Put on Probation For Stealing Car

Two Detroit youngsters, aged 5, who stole a car owned by Sherman Mitchell, from the parking lot at the Country Club some weeks ago, were heard and sentenced in Juvenile Court Monday morning.

Both were put on probation for an indefinite period in view of the fact that neither had had any previous police record.

The youngsters saw Mrs. Mitchell park the car and leave the key in it and the temptation proved too strong for them. They also found Mrs. Mitchell's bag, containing a large amount of jewelry. All of this was recovered.

The youngsters had spent $7.50 of the cash found in the bag before they were apprehended. This was repaid to Mrs. Mitchell Monday at the time of the hearing.

Fishermen Outnumber Neckers on Lakeshore

The Bishop road lake front residents are not the only Pointers who have cause to complain of the bathers and fishermen disturbing the peace and quiet of their neighborhoods.

A similar complaint came in from the residents of Park Lane on Thursday evening. The Park police shooed them away. They say the nocturnal lake front habitues nowadays run to the fishermen cult rather than the necking variety.

Youths Lectured For Noisy Party

Teen agers in the Pointe got wholesome lesson in decorous conduct at the hands of Chief Trombly of the City Saturday afternoon.

The parents of a family on Fisher road were away from the house on Friday night and the two 16-18 year old daughters of the household seized on the opportunity to stage a party of their own liking. Three more girls and five boys, all in the 16-18 year brackets were invited

No suggestion of actual misconduct attached to the party, but about midnight the hilarity reached such proportions that neighbors phoned to the police to use their good offices to mute the celebration.

The police brought the entire company to the police station where, after a lecture they were told to go to their respective moment. He seemed to be homes. They were also told to come around the next afternoon at 4 o'clock that the Chief might continue the admonitions.

He did so, with the assurance that the social functions of the neighborhood would be conducted in a quieter tempo thereafter

Woods Receives Bids on Bonds

Bids were opened for the four special assessment district sewer bonds at the Woods council meeting Tuesday night. The bids for the four districts aggregated about $40,000. Two firms only presented bids; the First of Michigan, a municipal bond house, and H. V. Sattley and Company.

The aggregate difference between the two bids was only about $30 and as they were predicted on different interest rates, the matter was referred to Village Attorney Jules Berns to figure which was the lower bid. At the same meeting the Commissioners awarded a contract to the firm of Pate and Hirn, who have acted as consulting engineers of the village for some time, to prepare a survey and topographical map of the new proposed municipal park. The consideration named was $800.

Pointers Serve On Shangri-La

ABOARD THE USS SHAN-GRI-LA IN THE PACIFIC-Two residents of Grosse Pointe, Mich., Lt. Hudson Brabb, 1321 Berkschire road, Grosse Pointe Park, and Leonard L. Lendzion, Jr., AMM 3/c, of 1692 Severn road, Grosse Pointe Woods, serve aboard this great aircraft carrier which today is a very real source of danger to the Japs and not just the mythical base popularized three years ago when the Doolittle raiders hit Tokvo.

Planes from the Shangri-La helped defeat the Japs in the recent Okinawa campaign, raining bombs, rockets and bullets on enemy pillboxes, caves, airfields and communications centers, in support of ground troops.

Not long ago this carrier was just an idea in the minds of the American people who had listened to the late President Roosevelt tell the world that Lt. Gen. James Doolittle's planes had raided Japan's capital from 'Shangri-La." Through a nationwide campaign that idea became reality as people bought war bonds to build the carrier. As soon as news of her construction was released, the Navy department was flooded with requests from men asking to serve on her. Soon she was nicknamed "The Tokyo Express."

News Outgrows Quarters

The Grosse Pointe News broke ground the other day for a building it is going to erect on Kercheval between Mc-Millan and Oak street which will be used wholly for the purposes of its newspaper business. It's splendid reception

Since its beginning this newspaper has aimed to give the people of Grosse Pointe a paper devoted wholly to themselves, their doings and their interests.

It has made no attempt to publish a general newspaper. Foreign, national and even state news is purveyed to the people here far more fully and ably than could be attempted by a community paper. Our only gesture in this field has been to run each week three or four column of headlines culled from the great dailies of Detroit and elsewhere, interspersed with timely comment, for the benefit of our readers, who in this day of crowding great events, must limit their newspaper reading largely to scanning over headlines.

It is chiefly the little things of our daily lives that connote the items of interest to the reader of a strictly local our columns. We wish it that way and our success convinces us that this is also as our readers wish it.

We have always tried to be fair in our reports of local news. If our humorous treatment of trifling incidents have grated occasionally on the susceptibilities of our readers we can assure them their presentation has never had a malicious motive. We have carried from the beginning feature columns of comment social and otherwise of special merit which have been much appreciated by our readers.

Politico-Labor Leadership

more effectively, and with a truer understanding of what betterment really means, than by many of the professional labor leaders themselves. We are in fact a nation of workers without any idle class. This concept is natural to Americans.

The real anxiety here is in the frankly avowed purpose expressed by the Labor Party just come into power in England to introduce state capitalism into broad fields of industry and service. With transportation, banking and mining established as functions of the state, at which the labor Government in England aims, a tremendous step has been taken towards absorption of all productive industry. If and when this happens, the whole structure of free enterprise is shattered and the people become the serfs of the state and the pawns to be ordered and directed at the will of the political heads of the state. This process directly closes the door of opportunity for the individual to improve his lot by his own initiative, thrift or ability.

This is the social and economic pattern under which this country advanced to its place of unchallenged primacy among the nations of the world. It is this plan under which the common people of America, who are in fact all common people, have become the most envied and courted of all time. This is the reason it has been the Mecca, the land of promise, for the under-privileged classes of Europe since its beginning and still remains so.

much that we should copy, could be dragged by wild horses over to Russia to be compelled to live there the rest of his life.

A fact with respect to Russia, which apparently many persons in this country have overlooked, is that the condition of the common people in that country prior to the revolution was the most abject and hopeless of any nation of the white race. For the great masses opportunity was unknown. Only fifty four years earlier forty seven millions of them had lived in serfdom. The country was the most medieval and backward of all the so-called civilized white states of the world. Any change promised betterment, and the change effected by the revolution undoubtedly brought certain improvements in the lot of the common people. But, with all that their present condition is so far below that of the American people as to be incapable of compari-

The Navy wife I know was comparing notes with an Army wife on the mail situation from overseas, and they came to the conclusion that there is a definite technique to "sweating out" those much too infrequent letters. For one thing, they seem to arrive on certain days and no matter how much you hope and pray Uncle Sammy's carrier pigeons are creatures of habit and are very stuffy on that tremendous amount of activity, Pointe is becoming too large to score. I overheard two soldiers talking about their various experiences in German prison camps. Their primary thought was food and how to eke out their very meager fare of dehydrated grass, from which they made soup, and a small hunk of black bread. The Red Cross food packages were the only way they kept from starving, but after a year or more of the same menu it began to be quite monotonous and so they began to improvise a bit. One paper and it is such that quite largely find their way into of these soldiers related sadly that he had been demoted from first cook to cleaner-upper after he had burned the chocolate done without the aid of its youth pudding he had worried over all afernoon. The masterpiece consisted of chocolate, of course, oatmeal, cream of wheat, powdered milk, coffee grounds, and any old thing he could find around the barracks that wasn't nailed down. Another favorite was boiled cat which had been soaked in salt water for twenty-four hours (note to those low on red points. You try it and tell me how it works). The only trouble with filet of pussy was that the mouse situation got out of hand when she was eaten so meat was on the menu only when it was absolutely necessary. A bit of advice This paper has prospered since its start. Two years from the chef: Don't try these recipes unless you're awful hungry.

Now, it is to all intents and purposes officially adopted by the heads of the American, British and Russian states.

America didn't go into the war in Europe for the purpose of accomplishing the utter annihiliation of the German state. We fought it to defend ourselves and the world of free men against the domination of the world by Germany. We said we would carry on the war to the unconditional surrender of Germany. That was the only way to impress the German people with their complete defeat. We were largly instrumental in accomplishing this.

But with Germany completely defeated the purpose of the American people was not that the German people should tolerance, responsibility and in-Not one person in every thousand who express such deep admiration for the Russian system and see in it so tended that Germany should be so thoroughly policed and supervised that she should never be able to start another during the year on the improvewar. One cannot avoid the suspicion that Russian venegeance and British economic anxiety had more to do with this decision on Germany than the innate American sense of decency and fair play for even a late enemy.

This decision is completely at variance with the principles of the Atlantic Charter which aimed at a world of ers of the so-called masses, aimed at political power for decency and honor and of opportunity for freedom and happiness, unless, perchance our present leaders have decided that the greatest people in the heart of the Continent of Europe are definitely beyond the pale and not entitled to be treated as members of the human family.

Next we went to one of the four Tuberculosis Wards. It was clean but the heavy suffocating odor of death was everywhere. In the crowded rooms with their double decked bunks we were greeted by the wan smiles of the dying and a feeble Vive Americano, or a plea for cigarettes and chocolate. Knowing that cigarettes are taboo for one afflicted with TB we questioned the Red Cross girl if they were permitted to smoke. All she could do was give us a shrug. It's hard to refuse the request of a dying man.

It was hard for me to believe that any life could be left in these shrivelled emanciated bodies. After visiting the TB Wards we went to the surgical ward where those who had been brutally beaten were recovering. men who were missing arms, legs, hands, noses, or ears. All had either been amputated or mangled so as to necessitate amputation as a form of discipline. After leaving the hospital wards we wént up a hill overlooking the camp to the crematorium among the stately pines so abundant in that area. Here I saw the disecting table, the furnaces, (complete with charred bones) and the store room where bodies were laid before cremation. It was hard to believe that this infamous place could be part of our modern world, and yet there on the chimney up which the smoke of many thousand humans went was a granite date tone-1944.

What we want to insure, is that the full story behind their outstanding contributions be known and appreciated.

Some of our contemporary writers and artists such as Sgt. Bill Mauldin and the late beloved Ernie Pyle have depicted war as blood and tears with no valiant conquering heroes, only dirt, sweat, and the smell of death, fatigue, cold and hunger. This is what I mean. It's hard for me to describe and harder by far for you to understand or imagine just how cold, tired, hungry and dirty, how completely broken a soldier can be in his greatest moment of triumph. We all want to forget these unpleasant things, but if remembering will help maintain peace, let us remember and let us show you the truth too.

Sometime ago a story was printed in "The Reader's Digest" relating an incident regarding the death of a soldier in the Pacific. According to the War Department and the home town papers this boy had died a hero's death for his country. His widowed mother wrote his Buddie asking him to tell her of the actual way her only son had died. Could this soldier write this mother that her son had died cursing and blaspheming because the medics were helpless to relieve his pain? But that is war and that is the way soldiers die. Is that a hero's death? YES. But because it is lonely and degrading people try to camouflage it by running up From the crematorium we flags, using words like gallant, and hero, and then forgetting. Well, we are resolved that the

Endocreme helps give most women a younger-looking face and throat

Seems too good to be true, doesn't it. But it's a fact. ENDOCREME, can, for most women, help improve the skin itself, not merely its superficial appearance. For thousands ENDOCREME...with its 8-year record of success...is getting results hitherto thought impossible through use of cosmetics. This is because it contains ACTIVOL. ACTIVOL...a great modern achievement...is a scientific replacement for woman's own natural, skin-vitalizing substance. When ENDOCREME is absorbed by the skin, it helps to restore the normal growth of cells and tissues. Thus, most skins tend to take on new youthfulness, to become fresher, firmer, smoother, more alluringly beautiful again. Isn't this the best way you can invest your cosmetic dollars? Many report vast improvement in only 30 days.

Ceremony Performed Before Huge Mirror in Home of Bride's Father; All-White Theme is Carried Out

The huge mirror, resplendent in its wedding decor of white flowers, which hangs above the fireplace of the Moross road home of the Norton Ives, reflected Wednesday evening the 8:30 ceremony which united Ruth Ives and Lieut. (jg) Roy D. Fairlamb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Fairlamb. Jr., of Kensington road.

Standards of white flowers and gleaming candelabra completed the all-white theme about the fireplace where the Rev. Francis Glazebrook heard the young couple repeat their vows.

Wedding guests first glimpsed the bride as she descended the long circular stairway which led into the hall, with her father, The Lakeland avenue home of who gave her in marriage. Her entrance was a symphony of bridal white as she proceeded to her place beside the bride-

> The bride's gown was distinguished by a wide net yolk which was accented by a white embroidery effect. The gown's smart torso lines swept into a full skirt which ended in a long train. Her finger-tip length veil was held in place by a headdress of orange blossoms which carried out the same embroidery motif as her wedding gown. Her bouquet was of white flowers.

Sally Ives was her sister's maid of honor and chose for the occasion a charming gown of sky blue marquisette. Her frock was made with full sleeves which were caught at the wrists by tiny bands of matching marquisette. A sweetheart neckline and full skirt complemented the gown. A matching blue velvet bow and two clusters of blue feathers formed her headdress. She carried a cascading bouquet of pink rose buds and delphinium. Kay Sherman, Dorothy Castricum and Marcia Netting completed the list of bridal attendants. They wore identical gowns of dusty pink marquisette which were fashioned along lines similar to those of the honor maid's bride.

dress. Their flowers were predominately blue delphinium with scattered rose buds.

Mr. Fairlamb was his son's best man. The bride's brother. Raymond Ives, was unable to attend the service as he has recently been assigned to India where he serves as a gunner on a B-24. Following the ceremony, the wedding guests were invited to stay on for a reception-given by the bride's parents. Mrs. Ives received the guests in a white crepe gown which was striking with a fuchsia floral print. Mrs. Fairlamb chose a true aqua crepe gown, the bodice of which was accented by beaded embroidery, for her son's wedding. They both wore corsages of orchids.

After a fortnight's wedding trip, the young Fairlambs will return to the Pointe. The Lieutenant, who is just back after 17. months' overseas service on an LST, reports September 5 in Cleveland for reassignment.

The bridegroom was graduated from the University of Michigan where he was affiliated with Phi Kappa Sigma and received his commission from the U.S. Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn., in December 1942. The bride also attended the University of Michigan, where she was a member of liappa-Kappa Gamma. She had proviously schooled at Liggett and Out-of-town wedding guasts

Next we went to one of the four Tuberculosis Wards. It was clean but the heavy suffocating odor of death was everywhere. In the crowded rooms with their double decked bunks we were greeted by the wan smiles of the dying and a feeble Vive Americano, or a plea for cigarettes and chocolate. Knowing that cigarettes are taboo for one afflicted with TB we questioned the Red Cross girl if they were permitted to smoke. All she could do was give us a shrug. I saw men who were missing arms, legs, hands, noses, or ears. All had either been amputated or mangled so as to necessitate amputation as a form of discipline. After leaving the hospital wards we went up a hill overlooking the camp to the crematorium among the stately pines so abundant in that area. Here I saw the disecting table, the furnaces, (complete with charred bones) and the store room where bodies were laid before cremation. His models are slightly full and flaring. Some a girl of words-without-music, and couldn't possibly sing for our supper in The Persian Room.

KNOWS HER CLOTHES So ... everything is polite and placid, with even the phones singing instead of ringing. This singing phone turns out to be Miss Peg Gee, the only girl in the world who can trill at nine A. M. for the sheer joy of being blonde, blue-eyed and busy. Peg Gee knows The-Look-of-Next-Month like Kip Fadiman knows The Book-of-Next-Month. Peg can pick winning clothes horses in the future books. She can even tell which clothes horse will tire at the turn-style, and which will come to the post wearing the horseshoe of roses as a necklace.

Peg is saying: "Look, how would you like to go out on a buying binge with me?" "Once we get on that merry-go-round with you, Peg, it will be a downright clothes carousel." "Why not? Now that the razzle dazzle of the opening is over, we can see what The Girls in The Back Room are really designing for the horseless carriage customers. Besides, I thought you in Davidow's collection, it being wanted to buy a fur cat for also British, but with an Ameriyourself.

"About that fur coat, Peg. We have seen some of their price wools from England. Makes no tags, and they look like what our friend Damon Runyon calls "Nervous Money."

'Shame on Damon," laughs Peg, "You're only young twice. Look, we'll start with the Molyneux Collection, just off the boat from London, and veddy snazzy. I'll meet you in half an hour..."

So, we ankle down Fifth Avenue to meet Peg Gee, and see all the windows air cooled for the little Blonde Mink coats and Black Broadtail suits. And we think how buying a fur coat in August is like writing those Christmas stories for the December magazines while getting a suntan. We are haunted by the newest Damon Runyon yarn

STEVE COVERS EVE

We hope we're not giving away any millinery secrets, but the New York Hat designers had to retain that big pen-and-ink publicity boy, Steve Hannegan, to make the hatless lass a thing of the past. Now, Steve is a guy with an eye. So what happens? He calls up all his babes-in-the-Hollywoods, including his best girl, Annie Pie Sheridan, and tells 'em: "Wear a hat to the Steve's Irish luck that Paris up and promotes big, hulking, bulking hats, so that New York is no longer hatless, even in August. Even if you don't love Steven, you'd as soon go barefooted as bareheaded. Because hats are getting hattier every second. Last year you felt too elite in a big hat, but this year you feel obsolete in a small hat.

So, we are back in the Palm Court of The Plaza, and Peg Gee is for having some Mint Iced Tea, which Emil magically mints up and serves in such fathomless glasses one looks for mermaids in them.

Cabbage Good With Rolls Or With a Cheese Sauce

By BETSY NEWMAN

If you have a little meat left on Monday, you can make a cabbage roll and finish it up in that tasty way, or you can cook cabbage and serve it with a cheese sauce. Don't remind me that cheese takes red points too, and you can't buy it because all your points are taken for the little meat, butter, margarine, lard or cooking oil you get. I know!

The subcommittee has, by virtue of its responsibility in providing funds for the various activities of the Department of State, both here and abroad, always attempted to keep current on all matters affecting the conduct of U.S. foreign relations in order to be in position more intelligently to pass upon the fiscal requirements of the Department. Also, it was quick to realize the tremendous potential influence which the present worldwide destruction and dislocation will undoubtedly have on our way of life in the United States.

Congressman Rabaut, who is handling the survey, is also a member of the deficiencies subcommittee on appropriations. It is this group which handles the funds for the Office of War Information, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, Lend-Lease, and the For-The activities of these agencies will also be investigated.

It will be the responsibility of the Department of State, through its eyes and ears abroad, to at all times keep this government properly informed with respect to all conditions and developments affecting this nation's existence. This is a great responsibility, and will become greater with the further shrinking of the world through advanced modes of travel and communications. The committee wants to apprise itself of the present equipment and the prospective needs of the Department for the proper discharge of its responsibility to the Hagen. people of this country.

The survey will include such matters as the staffing of U.S. conditions affecting American provided.

Ireading washday is a thing of the past

"How I used to dread washday! And all the time I didn't need to, for the all-electric laundry was proving its worth in thousands of homes. Then, just before the war I bought an all-electric laundry. And ever since, washday has been so simple there is nothing to it! "To think of the time-consuming, wearying work I used to do that was unnecessary! There was the drudgery of handling the clothes through soaking, washing, rinsing and wringing out, then the jobs of hanging them out to dry, and gathering them in and ironing the lot by hand. And the buttons that were torn off ... and broken ... and lost! Well, those days are gone forever. Now I simply put the clothes in the washer, and go on about my business while the washer goes on about its business. Later I transfer the damp-dry clothes to the dryer-the only time I touch wetness-and in about 15 minutes they're ready for quick handling on the automatic ironer. My soapy-handed friends are awaiting the day-not so far off now, I hearwhen they, too, will no longer dread washday."

Observe how electricity has taken over the work in your home. Reflect on the appliances you want and plan to buy. The changes in your own way of living demonstrate a truth that become increasingly clear: The oldfashioned way is the waste-

Phyllis Todd Bitten While Walking in Park

Last Friday morning as Miss Phyllis Todd was walking on Nottingham just north of Fairfax, she was bitten on the ankle by a dog, causing two deep puncture wounds.

She was hurried downtown for treatment by a specialist in the David Whitney building before the incident was reported to the Park police. She said she would be easily able to identify the dog if she saw him.

This she was able to do conclusively when Officers Hennig and Hoyle a little late brought in an animal belonging to Louis Cerre of 906 Nottingham. A notice was served on Mr. Cerre to appear at Park police court.
