Hay Fever Victims Offered Relief in Half of Michigan

More than half of the state of Michigan may offer relief to victims of hay fever, according to results of the ragweed pollen survey conducted by the Michigan Department of Health during the 1947 ragweed season.

The upper third of the Lower Peninsula and all the Upper Peninsula were comparatively free of ragweed pollen in the 1947 season despite the fact that favorable weed growing conditions resulted in greater concentration of pollen than has occurred in any of the seven years that the pollen survey has been conducted.

Five areas of the state were practically free of pollen; that is, they had total seasonal pollen counts of 1,000 or less. They are: St. Ignace, Sault Ste. Marie, Cheboygan, Charlevoix and Rogers City. Eight others, with seasonal counts of less than 1,500 were comparatively free. They were: Houghton, Mackinac Island, Petoskey, Alpena, Isle Royale, Manistique, Traverse City and Munising. Other areas with seasonal counts under 2,000 were Grayling, Baldwin, Marquette, Mackinaw City and Gaylord.

Areas in the state with greatest total pollen counts were Hillsdale, with a total seasonal count of 32,383; South Haven, 26,866; Benton Harbor, 22,334; Coldwater, 22,070; Lansing, 20,932; Grand Rapids, 30,198; Jackson, 19,662; Grand Haven, 15,507; Detroit, 14,702; Saginaw, 13,869; Bay City, 12,731.

Jackson and Lansing had the longest ragweed hay fever seasons, with significant counts on 32 days. Others with long seasons were Grand Rapids, Hillsdale and Flint with 31 days; Saginaw, 29 days; Benton Harbor, Detroit and Grand Haven, 28 days; Coldwater, 27 days; and Bay City, 22 days.

Ragweed began to pollinate the last week of July and by mid-August pollen in some quantity had appeared in every section of the state. It never reached significant quantity in Sault Ste. Marie and did not reach significant quantity in St.

Ignace, Charlevoix, Rogers City and Baldwin until September.

It should be remembered that the absolute pollen frequency in the air differs widely at a given moment in different parts of a city or county; it fluctuates greatly from hour to hour and from day to day. It is also modified by local concentrations of ragweed growth, by winds which carry the pollen many miles, by lakes into which the pollen is dropped, by rain which dampens down the pollen, and by many other environmental conditions. The location of the collection station also has an effect on the count.

Many flowers, trees and weeds in Michigan produce pollen which can cause hay fever in some individuals. However, it is estimated that 95 per cent of all hay fever in the state is caused by ragweed pollen.

Copies of the 1947 Ragweed Pollen Survey report are available from the Michigan Department of Health, Lansing 4, Michigan.

War Hero's Body Being Returned

Another Pointe war hero is being returned home for reburial, according to Fifth Army headquarters. Lt. William B. Standley, who served with the 32nd (Red Arrow) division, was killed on Luzon, April 7, 1945, after being overseas 13 months.

Lt. Standley was graduated from St. Ambrose High School and attended the University of Detroit.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Janet Neumeyer Standley of Three Miled river; his father, William B. Standley of 13371 Mansfield, Detroit; and his aunt, Mrs. John S. Christa, of Pemberton road.

Lt. Standley lived at the Christa home while he was attending school.

He is one of the 96 men being returned upon instructions of next of kin in Michigan, among the 1941 Americans who lost their lives during World War II, being brought back aboard the United States Army transport Sergeant Morris E. Crain.

Among those being returned on the transport from Manila are armed forces originally buried in temporary military cemeteries in New Guinea and the Philippine Islands.

Traps Set Out For Jap Beetles

The State Department of Agriculture has gone to work to get rid of the Japanese beetles in the Pointe.

They have placed several hundred traps all over the area with the permission of the property owners. The Department of Agriculture requests that the public does not touch these yellow canisters which were put out for their own welfare. Co-operation by all will rid the Pointe of this threatening menace.

Ghostly Recital Draws Big Gate

At 11:30 on Saturday night, June 26, car 49 of the Grosse Pointe Woods Police was cruising on routine duty, when, over the radio came a call to report to the Woods Municipal Park at once. When the officers arrived, they couldn't find the key to the front gate, so Fred Brys, the park watchman, was aroused.

Meanwhile three cars from the St. Clair Shores police drove up and said they had received a report of a woman heard screaming in the park. A scout car from the Shores police came along, and also another car from the Woods.

When the patrolmen finally got the gate open they found that the screams were the dulcet tones of a group of singing Boy Scouts.

A minor collision took place at Mack and Beaconsfield on June 24 when a 1948 Oldsmobile sedan driven by Nancy M. George, 338 McMillan, hit a 1941 Oldsmobile driven by Florent E. Calus, 4653 Lillibridge, Detroit.

The accident occurred when the George auto, traveling southeast on Beaconsfield, made a left turn onto Mack avenue. The right front fender on the George auto and the left rear fender of the Calus auto were damaged.

A ticket was issued to Nancy M. George for pulling into moving traffic.

Parking Problem Solved by Guest

The watchman of Mrs. Horace Dodge's estate at 10 Lake Shore road, reported to the Farms police late Saturday night that he had found a 1940 Mercury parked on the lawn and had it towed to the Grosse Pointe Garage.

When the police arrived he showed them where the car had been parked and gave them the registration. They found the car belonged to George S. Hendrie of 12340 Cloverdale, Detroit.

When Mr. Hendrie claimed his car he told the police that he left it there when he attended a party at the Little Club and could not find a place to park. The car was returned and Mr. Hendrie was told not to park there again.

WOMEN are WONDERFUL—
And WEIRD.
They can play fast and loose with politics
Like the Glamor Girl of the GOP
And make poli-tickling speeches
That make strong men weak with admiration,
Simply by standing up in girlish gray taffeta
And a blonde feather bob, to orate
And prate like a Park Avenue Portia.
WOMEN are WONDERFUL—
And WEIRD.
They all lament the high cost of living
But they can go to market
And then stretch a stewing hen
Into enough chicken salad for the bridge club
And still have enough left over for sandwiches
To pack the kiddies lunch the next day.
WOMEN are WONDERFUL—
And WEIRD.
They can toss pink and blue and green
Bank checks all over the town like confetti
Without ever adding up in the check book
But does the bank call them when they're overdrawn?
The dear banker figures they're just Bunnie
with a low I. Q.
And holds the poor irresponsible husband responsible.
WOMEN are WONDERFUL—
And WEIRD.
They can wake up in the morning
Looking as if all they needed was a tow car
To make them a wreck.
But after a Wave, Manicure, Pedicure,
Facial, Massage and new Paint Job
There's a 1949 Chassis on the Lassis
And she pops up at a dinner party
Like the Girl from the Goldwyn West.
WOMEN are WONDERFUL—
And WEIRD WE BE WITHOUT THEM?

ALL IN ALL, KIDDIES, IT WAS A BIG WEEK.
La Grande Semaine, as we say when we're gay in the sunny little season on the Seine.

A Big Week, in town, country and all over the nation. A President was being nominated, Debutantes were bowing in rose gardens—and Brides were more beautiful than ever. June was so full of the joy of living you felt you could buy the earth for a song and the sky for an encore.

The event of the season for us was seeing the most beautiful bride in the most precious and priceless gown of Rose Pointe we've ever glimpsed on anyone, even Royalty—when Peggy Monaghan became the bride of Jean-Francois Mesritz.

After all these years as a connoisseur of fabulous fashions, we've pensioned off all our over-worked adjectives—for here, indeed was the Fairy Princess in person. Countless yards of real Rose Pointe Lace flowed into the circular court train; and the deep décolletage of the neckline framed her strand of perfectly matched pearls. It is every girl's dream to greet the groom in Rose Pointe and Pearls but few have Peggy's radiant personality to outshine even this sumptuous setting.

It all left one with a dreamy, floating-on-a-pink-cloud feeling, and a memory picture truer than television—a memory picture to prove the poet's words that "A Thing of Beauty is a Joy Forever!"

The Big Word on the Big Event in the Republican Party came to us from a phone line to the Main Line in Philadelphia.

The Word is that it was The Women who ran the show both before and behind the scenes. In the smoke filled rooms the men took notes, but in the coke filled rooms the women took votes.

And they're out to run the election. It isn't just that there are more women than men voters. It's simply that Politics has taken the place of Bingo Parties with women all over the country.

It's true there was a cross section—a very cross section of males from Maine to California. But none of them is really photogenic or telegenic except Tom Dewey himself.

Now the Question is, Will Women Love Him in November as they Do in June?

The Answer is so simple it

BAHA'IS BELIEVE

"Jesus was a Manifestation of God. Everything of Him pertained to God. To know Him was to know God. To obey Him was to obey God. He was the source of all divine qualities. In this vision the Light of the Sun of Reality was reflected to the world. Through this mirror the Energy of God was transmitted to the world. The whole disk of the Sun of Reality was reflected in Him."

MORAL: DO IT RIGHT THE FIRST TIME

HERE'S a little story right out of the book:
 A fellow came into a Buick dealer with a rap in his engine. The dealer said it was carbon—and recommended a valve job, naming a price.
 The owner thought that was too much "to get rid of a little noise" so he took it to a "friend" who "knew about automobiles."
 The friend said all that was needed was to set back the ignition timing. He did. The rap stopped. But in a while it was back again. So he repeated the process—with the same result.
 Finally, after several such "cures," he woke up to the fact that he was treating symptoms, not correcting troubles. By then, he really did need a valve grind job at the first cost quoted by the Buick Dealer. But in the meantime he had lost good engine performance and the pleasure of driving a well-serviced car.
MORAL: It pays to have the job done right the first time. May cost a little more than some expedient—but it keeps little troubles from growing into big ones, gives more satisfaction from your car over the months and years.
 That's what we're in business for—to keep good cars good. We're busy enough that we're not going to waste time on needless work—but we're never too busy to do what you ought to have done
