

P. T. A. at Parcels School To See "Modern Miracles"

James A. Lafer, first president of the newly-organized Parent-Teachers Association of the Charles A. Parcels Junior High School, has a program planned for the initial meeting of the organization on Wednesday evening, May 14, designed to interest fathers as much as mothers and faculty.

Herbert N. Bumpus, Michigan Bell's customer relations supervisor, will give the telephone company's "Modern Miracles" demonstration on the stage of the beautiful new 900-seat auditorium of the school, recently completed at Vernier and Mack.

This talk will show how the Bell System's new coast-to-coast radio-relay system provides hundreds of telephone circuits and makes nation-wide television networks possible.

Mrs. Harold Freywald, vice-president of the P.T.A. at Parcels and chairman of refreshments for the first meeting's social hour, is in charge of a baked goods sale to take place the afternoon before the meeting. This project will provide funds for the programs this year, since no membership dues will be collected until next fall.

Parents may visit their children's teachers in their rooms after 7:30. A short business meeting will follow in the auditorium at 8:15. Officers and committee chairmen will be introduced and Vincent Peterson, principal of Parcels, will welcome parents before Mr. Bumpus is introduced.

Refreshments will be served after the address in the gymnasium.

ing the collection would be most appreciated." Present examples are the contributions of Dr. Frank Pitt, Detroit University School and Grosse Pointe Country Day, and Mr. and Mrs. Haldeman Finnie.

Charles A. Parcels, Jr., chairman of the Fund Committee, also announces that the committee is very pleased with the progress of contributions to date, and hopes to have funds for basic furnishings well in hand by the annual meeting, of the Friends of the Library, May 20, at Grosse Pointe Methodist Church.

The Friends invite all interested parties to address their questions and contributions to Friends of the Grosse Pointe Public Library, 15430 Kercheval avenue.

Junior Librarians To Sponsor Program

The Detroit junior librarians are sponsoring a program to acquaint students with the various fields and opportunities in library work. Joan Friedli, 10A, and Carol Carstens, 9A, are the representatives from Grosse Pointe High School to the Committee on Librarianship as a Career.

Through informal group discussion the girls have received information about techniques used in working with children, young people, and adults in public, school, college, university and special libraries. People who specialized in the various fields of library work were present to answer all questions at a meeting held Wednesday at the Utley Branch Library.

This program is designed to interest more young people in careers as librarians because of the rising shortage of librarians.

Completes Atlantic Training Operation

Charles S. Tanner, seaman, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Tanner, 928 Hampton road, Grosse Pointe Woods, Mich., was among 150 submariners who returned to the submarine base at New London, Conn., last week-end after a two-week training operation with the Atlantic fleet's economy maneuver, Packex One.

He is a crewmember aboard the USS Irex, one of two submarines that mustered in the training force known officially as "Packex One." The "package" group, made up of 20 ships, war a capsule segment of most Atlantic fleet forces. The maneuvers began April 15 and ended May 2.

School Census

total population as well as the number of children of each age from birth to 20 years of age is tabulated for each municipality and each elementary school district in the area. The tabulation also shows the number of children for each age attending no school, public schools and non-public schools.

Exact Growth Shown

As a result of such tabulations a year by year picture is obtained which shows the exact growth in each municipality and elementary school district in the school system. In a rapidly growing area such as Grosse Pointe such data are invaluable to the Board of Education and its staff in planning for the educational facilities needed in the district.

Every home in the school district will be visited by a census enumerator. Residents are asked to cooperate with these enumerators and provide the necessary information. All information is confidential. Due to the importance of the school census, accurate information from parents is desired.

Greatest Difficulty

Probably the greatest difficulty met by enumerators when calling at homes is obtaining the correct birthdates for each child in the family. Therefore, parents are asked to check over their children's birth records before the enumerator calls and be ready with correct information.

All census enumerators will be furnished with an identification card signed by L. M. Bartlett, Director of Pupil Personnel, which will be gladly shown by them upon request.

Big Boost Expected

Last May's census showed a total population of 47,448 for the area comprised in the Grosse Pointe School District. With the great amount of building which has taken place during the past year, there will probably be an increase in total population this year over last year of from 3,000 to 4,000 persons or more.

CATHOLIC THEATER

"Lady of Fatima," a timely play because of its plea for world peace, will be presented by the Catholic Theatre of Detroit on May 16-17-18 at the Knights of Columbus Auditorium, Woodward at Forest. Evening performances are at 8:30 p.m., and matinees on Saturday and Sunday, May 17 and 18 at 2:30 p.m.

Housecleaning Can Do Job To Improve Civilian Defense

Your spring housecleaning can do a job for Civil Defense.

That's what the Michigan Office of Civil Defense said today in urging every Michigan housewife to remove flammable articles from her attics, closets, basement and grounds.

Experience has shown that fires following enemy bombing raids cause more deaths and destroy more property than the bombs themselves, Civil Defense officials said.

Clear out the old papers, rags, discarded articles and broken furniture which clutter your attic, they urged.

Don't let laundry, toys, magazines or trash pile up on your stairs or in your halls or cellar.

Give to the Salvation Army or destroy unused old clothes which are hanging in your closets.

Clean up your basement. Dispose of gasoline, benzene, other explosive liquids and old cans of paint.

Remove rubbish and brush from around your buildings and around your lawn.

Buy adapters for your kitchen and bath water faucets so that the garden hose can be attached to them. Make a place, close to your door, for your ladder and garden hose.

Get a pail of sand and a water pail or a handpumper for your attic.

Prepare yourself a Civil Defense home first-aid kit.

These measures will protect your family and your home from ordinary fires as well as from fires started by enemy bombs, the Civil Defense officials said.

Mrs. Talbott Barnard

—Picture by Carl Joyner

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in the Springtime turns into honeymoon land. It was the destination of Jean Margaret Orebaugh and USA Lieut. Talbott Barnard following their wedding last Saturday evening in Grosse Pointe Congregational Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell H. Orebaugh of McKinley road and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Norma Barnard of Lenox avenue and the late Mr. Talbott Barnard.

A lovely gown of white nylon tulle was worn by the bride. Falling waltz length Jean's dress had deeply shirred boat neckline, short shirred sleeves and accordion pleated underskirt filmed in tulle.

A wreath of valley lilies edged the tiny bridal Juliet which held in place a fingertip length veil of silk illusion.

A white orchid surrounded by Stephanotis and lilies of the valley composed the wedding bouquet.

Ann Elizabeth Orebaugh was her sister's maid of honor, gowned in ankle length frock of shaded blue tulle. There were pink carnations, and snapdragons and blue iris in her colonial bouquet.

Lois Barnard, the bridegroom's sister, was the only bridesmaid. Her frock was like the honor maid's and her flowers were yellow daisies, snapdragons intermingled with blue iris.

Best man was James Lemen and the groomsmen were John Trost III and Robert Armstrong.

A violet shantung gown with matching jacket was worn by the bride's mother. Her flowers were gardenias.

Mrs. Barnard was in pale pink evening suit and she too had gardenias in corsage.

Following the wedding reception the bridal couple left on the wedding trip. The bride traveled in benedictine toned shantung suit with natural straw chapeau and matching bag. She pinned her wedding orchid to a full length yellow wool coat.

Mrs. Alfred Orebaugh of Los Angeles was in the Pointe for her granddaughter's wedding and other out of town guests included Miss Sally Owen of Lansing, Mich., and Miss Barbara Rose of Oxford, O.

MARIAN CELEBRATION

On Sunday afternoon, May 11, at 3 o'clock a crowd of 20,000 people is expected to fill University of Detroit Stadium to pay homage to the most honored of all mothers, the Blessed Virgin Mary. The Marian Celebration here in Detroit will be sponsored by the Archdiocesan Sodality Council and will be similar to other ceremonies taking place all over the world on this day.

Teacher Feted By Kindergarten

The afternoon kindergarten class of the Pere Gabriel Richard School surprised their teacher and counselor, Mrs. Lois Jeanne Arends, with a birthday party on the afternoon of May 2.

The festive event, inspired by the devoted five year olds, was conducted with the help of three of the mothers of the children, Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Rieth and Mrs. Schulte.

Mrs. Arends has been teaching at the Richard school for nearly 20 years. She has seen the Pointe grow with nearly 1,000 young Grosse Pointers as her charges. Mrs. Arends, who lives at 102 Hall place, received her A.B. degree at Wayne University and had additional work at Michigan State Normal.

There were party hats and candy baskets and a flower garland birthday cake. It is difficult to say who enjoyed the party more, Mrs. Arends or the hosts and hostesses.

The youthful hosts and hostesses who attended were:

Claire Birteel, Robert Bowman, Judy Douglas, Scott Hog-son, Nancy Looker, Sally Marguard, Christopher Lee, Yvonne Mertens, Jimmy Lyford, Sue Millies, Kathleen McClenahan, William Mumau, Douglas Phillips, John Prestini, Russell Richey, Carol Rieth, Thomas Schmidt, Therese Schulte, Michael Scoville, Cecily Smith, Susan Smith, Pamela Thompson, Priscilla Webb, Laurel Wigle, James Wunsch and James Bruce Young.

Bride Wears Ice Blue Satin Gown For Ceremony In Christ Church On Saturday; Reception Held at Boat Club

In Saturday's long and lovely procession of brides, one chose a gown of ice blue satin and Chantilly lace. She was Barbara Jean Sickels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gordon Sickels of Grand Marais boulevard.

Barbara Jean was married at a candlelight ceremony to Herbert A. Beyer, Jr., in Christ Church, Grosse Pointe. The bridegroom's parents are Mrs. Norma Beyer of Devonshire road and Herbert A. Beyer of Oxford, Mich.

Chantilly lace shadowed the pale blue satin gown on long-sleeved bodice and in circular paniers which petaled over the satin and tulle skirt. The wedding veil, which fell the full length of the gown's cathedral train, was secured by an ice blue satin and lace Queen Anne helmet. The bridal bouquet was composed of white carnations, valley lilies and ivy.

Mrs. Frank G. Ryder of Norwich, Vt., was her sister's matron of honor. She wore shaded blue organza with shoulder capelet. Small nose veil, shaded in matching blue, struck a chic note in wedding accessories and Mrs. Ryder carried an arm bouquet of white iris and bridesmaid buttons.

The bridesmaids were similarly attired and carried all white iris. The maids were Karin Lindh, Mrs. Edward E. Elder, Jr., Patricia Baumgarten and Mrs. Robert A. Cole, sister of the bridegroom.

Assisting Herbert as best man was Lieut. Frank S. Keahey, Jr., USNR, of Neenah, Wisc. The guests were seated by Dr. Frank G. Ryder of Norwich, Vt., Dean V. Firth, Robert A. Cole and Donald W. Bartz.

For the evening wedding, Mrs. Sickels, mother of the bride, wore navy lace and chiffon with matching toque. Her flowers were white orchids.

Mrs. Beyer was dressed in dusty rose crepe with white accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mr. and Mrs. Sickels entertained wedding guests at a reception in the Detroit Boat Club following which the newlyweds left on a trip to Nassau.

When they return from Nassau, the young Beyer will live on Courville road.

Trombly Scouts Plan Luncheon

Trombly School Girl Scouts and Brownies, and their mothers will attend a luncheon at Grosse Pointe Yacht Club May 17, when the annual Court of Awards will be held.

At this time the Scouts and Brownies receive new ranks and badges which they have earned during the year.

Officer Storing of the Detroit Police Department with his traffic warden dogs, Safety Girl and Cozy, will entertain the girls. Mrs. W. H. Hastings will play the piano for Scout singing.

Mrs. Charles Huber is general chairman for the mother-daughter luncheon and troop leaders include Mrs. Shirley Georgi, Mrs. Hugo Horny, Mrs. Raymond Baer, Mrs. Porter Strother, Mrs. Edwin N. Parcells P-TA Plans Bake Sale

Parcells P.T.A. is launching their first cooperative group project on May 14. Since this group was organized only late this spring, it was voted to dispense with the payment of dues for this year.

However, even a new organization needs money for banking expenses. Therefore a Bake Sale is being held.

The Bake Sale Committee makes the following appeal to parents of the Parcells Junior High School:

We need your contributions. For a sale from 3 to 8, it's Parcells Pantry Kitchen. And may fourteenth's the date. Baked bread, rolls and cakes. Pies and cookies too. Coffee cake and what you will. Just anything will do. Deliver them upon that day. And thanks will go to you. To help our future P.T.A., And pay our back bills too.

Label all baked goods as to whether it is a chocolate cake or apple pie, etc. If it is inconvenient to send baked goods, a money donation will be greatly appreciated.

Beginning at 8:30 Wednesday morning donations will be received all during the day. Baked goods should be brought to the Community Room, just opposite the auditorium entrance. A committee will gladly pick up baked goods if you cannot deliver them. Please call Mrs. Eleanor Wolff at TU. 1-5830.

Flood Conditions Prompt Robbery

While patrolling Anita in the evening, May 2, Woods police officers noticed a 1950 Pontiac parked at the curb in front of a new house at 1189. There were no lights on and the car door was open.

The officers stopped and watched the area for a few minutes before seeing a man leave the house and walk to the car. He made several trips before the police stopped him.

After questioning by the officers, Ralph J. Solecki, aged 27, of 22947 California, St. Clair Shores, said that he had had trouble with his headlights. But a search of the car revealed that Solecki had taken 18 4-inch sewer crocks from the house. He told the police he had taken them to run a drainage line from his flooded basement to the street.

At the Woods police station, Solecki admitted having taken 14 other crocks from the same house.

The owners of the house were notified, but as yet charges have not been preferred.

Your Garden Beautifies the Pointe

Chrysanthemums Planted Now Will Add Colorful Display to Pointe Fall Gardens

By VINCENT R. DEPETRIS

It seems rather strange that on these balmy Spring days we should be directing attention to the Autumn garden. If, however, we desire to have a colorful display of flowers as a delightful wind-up to our garden season next September and October, then we should be thinking now of the queen of Autumn flowers, the Chrysanthemum.

If you did not make your selection of varieties last Fall when these garden mums were in full bloom, you will still find time to order them from the many Spring catalogs.

While chrysanthemums are not exacting in their requirements you will nevertheless find the following helpful hints a guide to better culture.

Planting Time

Garden chrysanthemums are best planted during the latter part of April and all through May. Much of course depends on the season. Some years even when plants were not set out until mid-June a beautiful array of color was made by early Fall. We mention this because very often chrysanthemums are wanted for planting after Spring bulbs have bloomed.

In such instances, garden mums may successfully be planted as late as the third week in June with good results.

Best Types of Plants

The best type of plants are from top cuttings in 2 1/2" pots or larger. This type of plant is superior to clump divisions which are commonly sold to meet a low price. Plant divisions as the name implies consist of small growing shoots broken from the main clump and either potted or sold with a small clump of soil attached to a few of the remaining roots. It should be obvious that this type of plant is not a new plant with all its young vigor.

Moreover the practice of dividing old plants may also divide many diseases and insects which may infest the parent clump.

Very good advice then is, do not try to save a few cents on the initial cost of an inferior plant and then spend many times the amount trying to nurse it back to health and vigor.

Soil and Exposure

Chrysanthemums will do well in any soil provided it is well drained. They do, however, prefer a sunny exposure free from too much shade.

After planting, the general care consists of keeping the ground cultivated and free from weeds.

If the soil becomes too dry they should be watered thoroughly and left alone until dry again.

It is best not to wet the foliage when watering. This practice will spread many diseases and insect pests.

Fertilizers

Chrysanthemums are heavy feeders and will require plant food throughout the growing season. Many varieties will develop plants up to three feet across from 2 1/2" plants planted in May.

We may conclude therefore that mums will not merely require feeding but also plenty of room to grow. The distances between plants should never be less than 18" and may be as much as two feet, depending on the variety and the time of planting.

Feeding should begin about three weeks after planting and continue at intervals of three weeks until early September or when the buds begin to show color. And good garden fertilizer is good although some which are higher in organic ingredients may be better.

In order to induce compact plants with many branches, the method called pinching must be resorted to. Pinching consists of cutting back the strongest shoots so as to induce lateral growth. Were this not done most varieties would grow straight up with very few later stems.

The pinching process is continued until the end of July after which date it should be discontinued for the reason that embryo flower buds will begin to form after that date and pinching would destroy them.

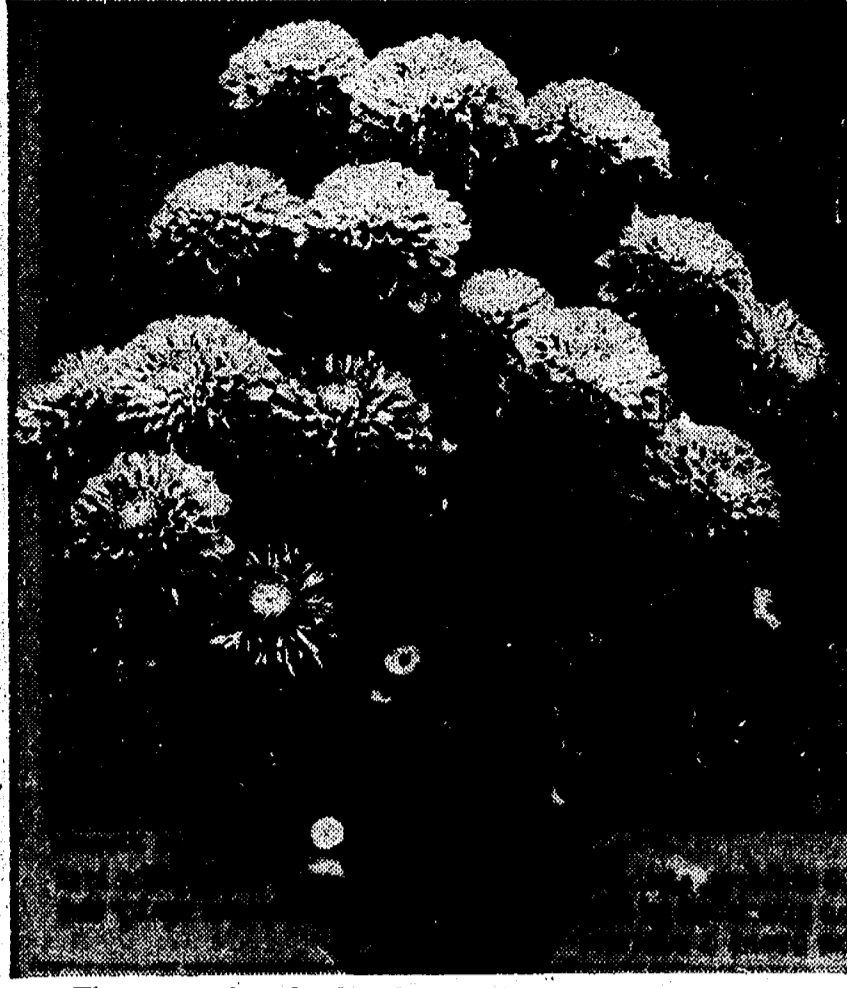

During the summer and early fall months a number of insect pests may attack garden mums. Among these are aphids, spider, thrips, grasshoppers and a brownish insect called the "tarnished bug." Many of these insects come from other plants and from weeds. They must, however, be dealt with before doing serious damage.

There are a number of sprays on the market combining rotenone, pyrethrum, and D. D. T., which have proven both safe and effective in the control of these chrysanthemum pests. The amateur gardener will do well to confine himself to these for spraying.

Among the newer insecticides there are two which are extremely effective but unfortunately are very poisonous and consequently much too dangerous for general use. These new insecticides are Tetra Ethyl-Pyrophosphate and Tetra Ethyl-Tetra Phosphate. Both are very poisonous. Sodium selenate, a selenium compound, is another very poisonous chemical which is used in a powdered form. This powder is used in a diluted form and applied to the soil and is thus taken up by the growing plant through the root system by absorption, thereby killing the insects as they feed on these poisoned tissues.

The poison from this compound will remain in the ground for

Queen of Autumn Flowers

There are hundreds of varieties of beautiful chrysanthemums, of which this pom-pom type is just one. Suitable for cutting, these plants should be set out soon to provide an abundance of bloom from September until frost.

several years making it dangerous to grow vegetables and other food crops.

The best advice therefore, is for the amateur to use only sprays which are known to be safe and at the same time effective in the control of insect. Rotenone, Pyrethrum, Nicotine and D. D. T., in various combinations will be found safe and effective.

During late summer all tall growing varieties should be staked to prevent them from falling over as they develop their blooms.

It is impossible in this brief article to name even a few of the many varieties which are appearing in catalogs every year. We must recognize the fact that nearly all of the new varieties appearing each year have some merit, particularly in the region where they were originated. Yet the fact that a variety does very well in one part of the country is no proof that it would do so well elsewhere.

For this reason it may require several years before any variety becomes a nation-wide favorite. By that time the novelty loving public is looking for something else.

It must be added also that each year new varieties are being developed which are suitable for specific uses such as for low borders, for tall background, for cutting and for size of bloom.

There would be no single variety which could fulfill all of these requirements, consequently the field is becoming more specialized each year.

No tickets were issued, and only minor damages were done to Malow's Cadillac and the Ford, driven by James D. Hoskins, of 1315 Berkshire.

The Garden Pilgrimage
 Each of these sunny mornings... the Pointe's most distinguished gardeners are running into the tulip borders and moaning.
 The early Summer weather is making everything bloom 'way ahead of time.
 And the gardeners we refer to... are those whose gardens will be opened to the public May 24 and 25 for the annual Garden Center Pilgrimage... (tickets may be purchased from any garden club member or at the Garden Center on Belle Isle).
 However... we understand that all the gardens will be luxuriant with early Summer blossoms when you visit them. And though you may miss the flowering fruit trees... and other "old faithfuls" of Springtime...
 You'll be introduced to the gardens as they are when their handsome gates are "shut to the outside world" in the Summer months.

Pointe Beauty Spots
 When you visit Mrs. Julian Bowen's gardens on the Lake Shore... you'll be interested to see how "finished" a new garden can look... (And you'll also share the wondrous view of the lake from this charming modern home).
 Mrs. Robert Stoepel is going to serve punch and cookies to all those who visit her gardens...
 And other beauty spots of the Pointe which will be opened May 24 and 25 to those who make the Garden Pilgrimage include the gardens of:
 Mrs. Ernest Kanzler... Mrs. Benjamin S. Warren... Mrs. Edwin Scott Barbour... Mrs. James O. Murfin... Mrs. Richard Webber... Mrs. Standish Backus... and Mrs. Horace E. Dodge...

PILFERINGS

We feed 'em in "HERE!"
A couple of neighbors were discussing a third neighbor as they chatted one evening.
"Does Jones own his house or does he rent it?" asked one.
"Oh, he rents it," replied the other.
"How do you know?"
"It's a simple deduction," was the reply. "He lights his matches on the walls of the room."

Several men were sitting around the stove in the middle of the store at the crossroads and one of them was asked if he would be scared in case an atomic bomb was to be dropped on his house.

"Not me," he replied, "I've figured out the chances. The enemy's got to take off from his own airport. Then he's got to fly across the ocean, and that ain't easy for them planes. Then he's got to git by the coast guns. Then he's got to find the river and he's got to follow it up to this town. I'll admit that he can't miss the town, but then he's got to find Main Street and go down Main Street to Maple. Then he's got to turn left and find 1123, and then most likely, I'll be down here at the store instead of at home."

A traveling evangelist stopped at a small house on a country road one day and found the young son of the family in the living room. The minister gave the youngster a long lecture about profanity and argued at length against its use. Then he exhorted the boy to do everything he could to stop the use of profanity by other members of the family. When the evangelist stopped to catch his breath, he saw the boy get up from the chair and yell out to the kitchen:
"Hey, Maw! There's a guy here that wants to buy Dad's golf clubs."

Pointer of Interest

MRS. JOSEPH F. REHA OF BISHOP ROAD—Picture by Fred Runnells

The barter system led today's Pointer of Interest into her hobby. As a young lady, Mrs. Joseph F. Reha (then Miss Moons) gave piano lessons. Her neighbor was a china painter.

"If you will give my children piano lessons, I'll teach you to paint china," offered the neighbor. An older brother of those children later became Monsignor John Doyle.

Thus it seems appropriate that Mrs. Reha, having traveled the full course of painting, finally arrived at working on textiles and completed, this past Easter, her first vestments to be used in the Catholic Church.

A stole, monstrance veil and ciborium cover were beautifully decorated and shipped to Father John Nagel in Palms, Mich. Father Nagel was assistant pastor at Mrs. Reha's church, St. Rose's, when she was president of the altar society.

Paints Vestments
An exquisite white moire stole, to be worn by the priest, was painted in grapes and wheat representing the bread and wine of the scriptures.

The monstrance veil, used to conceal the receptacle in which the host is exposed for adoration, was also made of moire and on this Mrs. Reha used the most delicate pink roses in garlands. The symbolic golden rays were brushed in the middle of the veil surrounding the letters IHM.

The cover of the ciborium (it is the vessel which holds the host at communion) was fashioned of white taffeta in four panels. Three panels had pastel roses and on the fourth there was a golden cross.

So absorbed did Mrs. Reha become in this new pursuit, that she painted another monstrance veil and stole for a priest in Glenora, La.

In the same vein are the charming white moire book marks she paints. Some are flowered with Spring violets, so life-like they're fragrant; others have tight, pink rosebuds peeking from deep green foliage. And now, Mrs. Reha thinks she'll paint book marks for the prayer books of her very young friends.

It's an amazing talent which can lie dormant for 31 years and then be revived to flourish as perfectly as ever. That's what happened to Mrs. Reha's china painting.

During those years she raised her family: son John, who lives with his mother; Francis, who is married and lives in Grosse Pointe Woods, and a daughter, Mrs. George Rambaum.

When Mr. Reha died 12 years ago, the artist turned once again to painting china and today even gives lessons to many of her friends.

All about the spic and span home there are examples of her gifted brush. For, once bitten by the china painting bug, Mrs. Reha went on to study with a Mr. Leykoff (regarded by all local craftsmen as a master) and a Mrs. Kohlhaus, both of whom now are dead.

It was Mrs. Kohlhaus who took two of her "Sunday painters"—one was Mrs. Reha—on the most so well and the generations beyond them.

Then, when the beginnings of the automobile seem as remote as the age of the dinosaurs, they could read an eye-witness account of Henry Ford's trial runs with his automobile. (And wince a little when they found great, great-grandfather Moons dismissed the first Ford as a passing fad doomed to fade as fast as its predecessor, the bicycle.)

And they could read about how their grandmother (living in a day when lady's habit was the home and she could hardly be considered a creator of trade-names) had named a popular beer.
For that evening when Mrs. Moons served a new beer to her guests out of courtesy to its originator, a Belgian friend of the family, she listened to the comments. "Tasting the brew, each guest seemed to exclaim, "I love it."

Turning to the brewer friend she said, "You should call that beer 'Tivoli,'" and if you reverse the spelling you'll see why.

Her children and grandchildren, a parakeet named "Winkie," and her hobbies round out the full and happy life of Mrs. Reha. She's as gay as a girl, and fun to be with.

And though she's a grandmother, she has a peaches and cream complexion with nary a wrinkle. P.S. She has owned only three jars of cold cream in her entire life! j.a.s.
