Penicillin Sources

By FRED M. KOPP, R.Ph.

The mold from which penicillin was originally taken was a very 'rare type. It took so long to grow the most minute quantities, that although scientists knew its potential value they couldn't get enough to meet the needs of even one hospital.

It wasn't until 1943 that an agent was found in which penicillin mold could be grown on a large scale production. This agent was corn-steep liquor, a waste water from the starch making process. Today some of these tanks in which the penicillin mold grows contain 90,000 gallons of this liquid.

Last Inter-Club Regatta Draws Largest Entry

By Fred Runnells.

The Detroit Yacht Club's 55th annual Sweepstakes regatta was a howling success in more ways than one. All kidding aside both Toronto and Milwaukee crews were greatly impressed with the Pilot sloops used for the first time in the Barthel which here-to-fore only eight meter and Q boats were used. They frankly confessed that the first time they set eyes on the Pilots they didn't think they would get out of their own way. But a snappy five race series soon changed their minds and they heartily endorsed the most recent change in the deed of gift which permits the use of Pilots when the series is sailed here from now on.

Next year the series will be sailed in Toronto and eight meters will be used. However, it will be a Pilot crew who will represent Detroit in 1953.

There were lots of catboat

Pat Clancy, that old end of the season. -Star boater piloted an Edison Boat Club cat, was the only Edison skipper to finish and he got the winning gun. However, The Detroit Boat Club captured the team honors with 26 points when three of its skippers finished. The Detrcit Yacht Club finished second with 16 points and St. Clair Yachtmen and Edison followed with 14 and 12 points respectively.

who, where and whatnot

by wboozis

The current Vogue has a top flight article on life-loving Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane. Among other things it applauds the lady's talent for naming members of her famous Brookmeade stables:

"Some of her own favorite deductions have been Calories, by Mahmoud, out of Big Meal; Set Free, by Whirlaway, out of Handcuff; Portcullis, by Shut Out, out of Guarded Queen; and Two Rainbows, by Sun Again, out of Tricks."

Vogue also observes, "Although Mrs. Sloane names her horses well, she leaves her five homes nameless."

That all-American beauty, Martha McClintock who'll wed Tony Moody in Rome on Oct. 11, is buying her wedding gown and trousseau in the U.S.A.

If Clare Booth Luce ever writes a sequal to "The Women" she might want to remember the Grosse Pointe gal who responded to a remark "Doesn't Betty look wonderful . . . so slender and young" with:

"Yes, and she certainly must be in good health. Her hair is taking dye well again."

• We know a gal who, when she wants to describe the most heavenly shade of pink she can think of, always does it this way:

"It's exactly the same shade as the rug in Mrs. John McLucas' bedroom."

Photogenic: Mrs. Alexander Girard's high and graceful insteps,

Always-a-little-ahead-of-fashion Mrs. William D. Laurie, Jr. is wearing the b-e-s-t looking coat this early Autumn ... deep topaz cloth with tiny black velvet collar. ...

* PILFERINGS

All from "The Vicious Circle" by Margaret Case Harriman . . . the circle being those famous New York writers and actors who occupied the Round Table at her father Frank Case's Algonquin Hotel. . . .

Father's description of a too-talkative woman: "When you ask her a question it's like taking your finger out of the dike."

Gertrude Stein and Louis Bromfield who had been old friends and neighbors in France happened to register at the Alonk a day apart, neither knowing that the other was there. Father, who always had his finger on the social pulse of his hotel, and unconsciously ran it like a salon (he certainly couldn't say THAT is his book!) telephoned Miss Stein and said that Louis was again a neighbor of hers, and would she like to see him?
